TOWN COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

Extension of County Highway
Through the Town Chief
Topic Discussed.

At a regular meeting of the council held on Monday night, in response to an invitation extended the business men of the town, there were present, in addition to the mayor and council, about twenty-five citizens.

The chief topic under discussion was one of vital interest to the town as a whole, namely the extension of route 25 through Manassas.

After considerable discussion, a resolution was adopted to accept the stone recently offered gratis by the State Highway through Mr. J. C. Albright to complete the county highway from the corporate limits via Centre street to West street, and to immediately construct the same.

Another matter of interest to the community, the establishing of a silk mill in Manassas, was postponed until further information could be received from the parties concerned regarding the amount of land required, etc.

Among other business discussed was the reorganization of the chamber of commerce, and the question of obtaining in some manner more efficient telephone service in the community. The railroad crossing proposition was also brought up, Mr. Buddin, in behalf of the Southern Railway, offering strong arc lights to be placed at the crossings in lieu of more watchmen.

In regard to financing the proposed street improvement, Mayor Davis offered as a suggestion that the business men go on notes.

The council adjourned to meet next Monday night.

In spite of the unfavorable markets for farm products, the average net income from each project was $12.30, in addition to an average of $20.00 for labor, making the average total income $32.30. Twenty-three acres of crops were grown and 35 animals, principally calves and pigs, were raised or cared for. Some of the projects were not satisfactorily completed, owing to change of residence. Those who received credit for their work were Elmer Hurst, Harold Moss, Abner Myers, Maxwell Covington, Conner Seeley, Paul Rhodes, Robert Henry, Clopton Athey and Joe Lewis.

CONGRESSMAN UPSHAW SPEAKS

Noted Lecturer Delivers Stirring
Temperance Address.

At the Baptist Church Sunday evening, Congressman Wm. D. Upshaw, who has been given the sobriquet, "The Georgia Cyclone," delivered a most stirring temperance address.

The audience was one that filled the church to its utmost capacity, and was in thorough accord with the speaker's remarks.

Mr. Upshaw clinched his arguments with appropriate illustrations, some of these latter being exceedingly humorous, and the audience gave evident token of its appreciation of this humor.

The speaker showed that the forces against prohibition are active and in earnest, and that they are determined to secure the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, therefore, the law-abiding people of our land must be alert and see that the law is respected.

RICHMOND PAPER PRAISES MOORE

Would Make Able and Efficient
Governor for State Declares
The News Leader.

Now that candidates for the governorship of Virginia are announcing themselves, or are being urged to do so by their friends, there is a strong undercurrent of feeling, in many portions of the state, that Representative R. Walton Moore would make an able and strong head for Virginia. In speaking of the campaign of 1925, the Richmond News Leader has the following to say of our fellow townsman:

"The News Leader has no desire to crowd the course, and, of course, carries no man's colors. It is proper to add, however, that among liberals in Virginia who are neither 'machine nor anti-machine'—there is a strong feeling that Congressman R. Walton Moore would give Virginia the type of executive leadership she needs in this day. Mr. Moore is in ability not only one of the first of Virginians, but also one of the first of Americans. He can see into a brick wall as far as the keenest-eyed and he has a broad conception of Virginia's future. The News Leader does not know whether Mr. Moore ever has considered or would consider offering himself for governor; but the News Leader does know that thousands look to him for a larger service to the commonwealth than he can render at his present post, large though that service is.—Fairfax Herald.

Holds Interesting Meeting.

(Mrs. J. H. Dodge, Secretary)

Beginning with the beautiful interpretation of the name "Chosen", the land of the morning calm, she pointed out that while the year 1884 marked the beginning of a missionary revolution, almost equal to the Pentecost of the disciple Peter's time, there were still great possibilities of development and the doors were yet open for further missionary work.

A very pleasant social hour followed, during which refreshments were served.

Your Interest in Road Development in Virginia Will Prompt You to Want to Know How Other States are Solving Their Problem—READ—"WHAT NORTH CAROLINA IS DOING"

By FRANK PAGE, Chairman,
North Carolina State Highway Commission, Raleigh, N. C.

(An address delivered before the 12th annual convention of the Virginia Good Roads Association at Roanoke, January 30, 1923.)

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Virginia Good Roads Association.—Your Program Committee, in giving me the subject, "What North Carolina is Doing," without putting a limitation on the time I should speak, has probably put you in for a week's talk.

It has been stated in the past that North Carolina was a "valley of humility," located between two mountains of conceit, one in the "past." Today North Carolinians look any man in any State square in the eye, and with a great deal of pride say, "I am from NORTH CAROLINA," with special emphasis on "North."

I came here today to tell you something of the achievements, and something of the failures that we have made in our North Carolina road program, so that you, by knowing our achievements and failures may be better able to work out a road system satisfactory to your State. I will promise you, however, that this speech of mine will have no similarity to a cat's tail—that is, not "fur" to the end. Also I want to state to you that I have no pride in this speech as a literary production; and if any stage of my talk deserves to ask any questions I shall be very glad to answer them as best I can.

Start of Road Program.

I think it is best to begin at the start of our road program. All civic developments come either by evolution or revolution. In North Carolina our road development has been by evolution. I will relate our experience by beginning with the 1912 Legislature, and his associates "should develop, build and maintain a State highway system adequate to the State's needs." At the end of that period the $10,000.00 had been spent, and so far as I know there had been no other visible results. In 1915 the Legislature appointed a State Highway Commission of three men with Governor and State Geologist as ex-officio members, and continued the $10,000.00 appropriation, but also added the work of certain State convicts, and with the aid of this convict force and this magnificent sum of money this Commission was able to start a State system.

People Demanded State System.

Prior to 1915 the Good Roads Association of North Carolina, by hard and vigorous work, made our people have a State conscience. That is, they told the North Carolina people that the State of North Carolina owed something to its citizenship. This Good Roads Association from 1917 to 1919 worked continuously in carrying out public sentiment in the State that demanded that the State have a system of highways built, owned and maintained by State funds.

In 1919 the law was changed so that the Governor appointed a new Highway Commission of four men, and the law provided that 30 per cent of the automobile license fees should be used by the State as a construction fund. The other 70 per cent of the automobile license fees going back to the counties for assistance in their road work. Under this law the State Highway Commission was able to, by the aid of certain counties and the use of 30 per cent of the automobile license fees together with the funds received from the Federal Government, build a limited amount of roads. These roads, however, were scattered throughout the State, and did not make a continuous highway.

Demanded System Be Built.

In 1921 there was a determined effort by North Carolinians to impress the Legislature that we must build a State system of roads, not by piecemeal, or a little piece here and a little piece there, but a continuous State system, and that it was the State's obligation to build roads in the poorer counties which were not able to meet the requirements of putting up 50 per cent of the cost of the road so they could get Federal aid money. At this time the Good Roads Association of North Carolina inaugurated a campaign and went before the Legislature and the people, demanding that we have a real road system. They demanded that we have ample money to build a State system of highways, not a small section each year, but a State system that would be serviceable to this generation. When the pending bill was to be voted upon by the Legislature, the Good Roads Association started fires back home and hundreds and thousands of letters and telegrams poured in to the Senators and Representatives at Raleigh demanding that they vote for the pending bill. The Legislature passed a law providing for the building of a State system of roads, and the State Highway Commission was able to build a State highway system.

No Tax on Real Estate.

We were enabled to build this by capitalization of our automobile fees and a tax of 1 cent per gallon on the gas sold. We did not tax real estate, and we did not collect a single dollar in collected from any man in North Carolina as a tax on property for State road purposes, nor is any man in North Carolina who does not own a motor vehicle going to pay a single dollar on the cost of our State improved road system.

Expended $20,000,000.00 in 22 Months.

Under the 1921 road law we were able to Benefit 1,570 Miles in 15 Months.

In the spring of 1921 the North Carolina Highway Commission started its organization in the building of our road system under the bond issue. At the end of 1922—say a year and six or seven months—we have constructed from the proceeds of this $50,000,000.00 bond issue 1,570 miles of improved roads. Four hundred and forty-three miles of this was pavement and 930 miles of other types. We have had a road construction on the last day of December, 1922, projects amounting to $36,400,000.00, and to show you the progress that we are making, in the last month of the year, the month of November was $2,800,000.00, and in December, on account of weather conditions, it was materially reduced, but still we paid out to the contractors $1,200,000.00.

Attractive Conditions From Other States.

At the beginning of 1923 the State Highway Commission, realizing the unusual conditions then prevailing in the labor and material market, and the incessant demands for roads in the State, and further realizing that it was an economic proposition to build roads faster than we at that time contemplated, determined that we would let to contract in 1923 1,000 miles of roads. This large program enabled us to induce contractors to come in from at least one dozen different States, and by awarding contracts, not in one, two or three-mile sections, but in eight-mile, twenty and thirty-mile sections, we were able to induce the largest and best contractors in the Union to come to our State. Some of these men today on a single project have one-quarter of a million dollars' worth of equipment. These contractors came to us from Illinois, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Texas, Louisiana, Tennessee and Virginia, and I say to you that each one of these States sustains a distinctive view of a good road contractor moved out of their State.

Roads Best Investment.

Today we are building roads at the rate of fifty miles of pavement and twenty-five miles of other type of roads per month. You say it costs money. You say that we are spending large sums of money. Yes, we are spending large sums of money, but in my opinion it is the best investment that any State in the Union can make. The very fact that we had large sums of money to spend enabled us to secure contracts at a much more advantageous figure than we had been forced to let these projects in very short periods.

Bond Plan Saves $5,000,000.

We are confident that we had a saving in the contracts let in 1923 by the method above described, of at least $5,000,000.00, what the roads would have cost if we had been forced to continue this road-building program over several years' period. It is my opinion that we have saved, by the expiration of the expenditure of this $50,000,000.00 enough additional tax caused by the expenditure of this road money to pay every single dollar of it, and I want to tell you that some of these new citizens of North Carolina are going to come to our State from Virginia. We have heretofore populated the Eastern Shore of Virginia by North Carolinians moving to your territory, but now they are coming back home, and when once again they get the "tar" on their heels they are going to lose some good Virginia citizens.

Schools Going Along With Roads.

North Carolina's activity is not confined to our road-building program. We are today spending $25,000,000.00 in public school houses, and just being finished 800 new public school houses within the State. We are also appropriating additional buildings at our higher educational institutions amounting to about $6,000,000.00.

What the People Say.

But to get to the point, what do the people of North Carolina say about this expenditure? We have biennial terms of the Legislature, and just prior to the convening of the 1922 Legislature the State Highway Commission was convinced that we would have our expenditure for roads so far advanced that we would need additional money before the Legislature convened, so we prepared a bill increasing our gasoline tax from 1 cent to 2 cents per gallon, and asking for an additional $15,000,000.00 bond issue for road construction. This passed the House of Representatives by a vote of 88 to 9. The Senate Committee took it up without argument and approved it. Today I assume that it will pass by an almost unanimous vote in the Senate. This, I think, shows what the people of North Carolina think of our road program. You may be sure that the Legislature in North Carolina, and I assume in Virginia, has his ear closer to the ground than any animal living, and listening for the rumblings of public opinion.

Completed Roads Save Gasoline.

Some of you say that we are taxing our people to death. No, we are not. Here are some figures that will prove to you that the people of North Carolina love to be taxed. When is a car's first investment? In 1920 there were shipped into the State 72,907,822 gallons of gasoline. There were at that time 142,294 automobiles in the State, or each automobile in 1920 used 520 gallons of gas. In 1921 there were shipped into the State 72,492,968 gallons of gasoline, and we had at that time 149,961 automobiles in the State, or each automobile consumed during the year 1921 490 gallons of gas. In the year 1922 we had shipped into the State 82,155,368 gallons of gasoline and we had 151,965 automobiles, or each automobile in 1922 consumed 540 gallons of gas. This will show that a saving of each automobile in 1922 over 1920 was forty-seven gallons of gas. This can only be accounted for by the improvement of the roads. In 1920, this forty-seven gallons of gas, multiplied by an average price of 25 cents, was a net saving to each automobile of $11.75, or a saving of $11.95 automobile consumed during the year 1922 over 1920. This forty-seven gallons of gas, multiplied by an average price of 25 cents, was a net saving to each automobile of $11.75, or a saving of $11.95 automobile consumed during the year 1922 over 1920. This forty-seven gallons of gas, multiplied by an average price of 25 cents, was a net saving to each automobile of $11.75, or a saving of $11.95 automobile consumed during the year 1922 over 1920.

I am a distinguished citizen of Virginia make a speech in North Carolina on this road subject, and he called my attention to the fact that gas was selling in North Carolina, even though we had a 1 cent per gallon tax, for less than it was in Virginia where you have no gas tax. This gentleman was no other than your distinguished Governor. He stated that time I have made some investigations, and find that in comparing similar places North Carolina and Virginia gasoline is selling from 1 cent to 2 cents per gallon cheaper in North Carolina than it is in Virginia. What is the price of gas in Roanoke today? (Some one answered 25 cents per gallon.) We are paying 30 cents to 35 cents per gallon in Raleigh and in Winston-Salem, in towns similarly located to Roanoke the price of gas today is from 21 cents to 23 cents per gallon. Now the difference in the cost of gas in Virginia and North Carolina? There can be only one answer. Somebody at No. 26 Wall Street, New York, names the price of gasoline in both Virginia and North Carolina. They must figure the original cost of the gasoline, plus railroad transportation, plus truck delivery to the distributing point. The original cost in both instances must be the same. Your railroad transportation is less, I think, but certainly no more! Your truck distribution is very much more on account of your bad roads, and this is I am sure, the reason that you are paying more for gasoline than we are in North Carolina today. It amounts to this—that you are actually paying for the roads and not getting them, while we are paying for them and getting them.

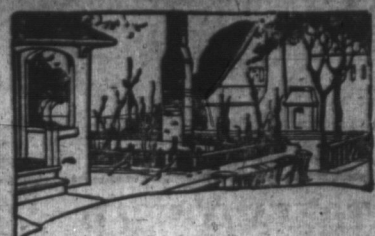

Politicians Cannot Stand in Way.

Now some one has said that there are some political reasons why your road program will not pass in your Legislature. I don't believe a single politician, or a set of politicians, in Virginia can, to save his, or their, life, or lives, withstand the united action of the advocates of this road movement. This is the only organization that demands that Virginia take some care of its citizenship, and I am sure that by a united action you will succeed. I said in the beginning that all civic development comes either by evolution or revolution. I say to you now to insist upon your road legislation that will enable you by evolution to have a road system, if you can, but by political revolution if you must.

What Other States are Doing.

The love of Virginians for Virginia is proverbial. I like the way you say "Virginia." It sounds like a mother speaking to her child, or a man kissing his lover, but look to your laurels, Virginia. Maryland on your North is building a good road system. West Virginia on your West has a bond issue that is going to construct their roads, and North Carolina on the South of you is just as sure to have the best road system of any State in the Union as I stand here. I don't want to make comparisons. Comparisons are always odious, but you dig into the statistics yourselves, and you will find that North Carolina in agriculture is progressing faster than your State. Our manufacturing plants have improved more than the manufacturing plants in your State. Our population is increasing faster than the population of Virginia. It is a matter of fact that the percentage of birth in North Carolina is the largest of any State in the Union, and I tell you that unless you wake up and pass your road legislation and get busy with your roads that the comparison in the next ten years between your neighbor States will not show complimentary to Virginia.

I hope that you will throw off the shackles of any political or other hindrance that is preventing your doing your duty toward your citizenship and that we will soon have the pleasure of shaking hands at the meeting of a completed State highway system as our State pride.

WHAT TO READ—HOW TO READ

In the course of a short time not fewer than a thousand men and women have asked advice of this newspaper on the subject of reading.

"What shall I read? How shall I read? What are the best books? How much should one read?" etc., etc.

Advice has often been given in this column on this subject, and many books have been recommended. It is gratifying to know that of these many have sold very largely, and that the majority are always in demand at the public libraries.

It is impossible to answer in detail all the questions that are asked by thoughtful readers, and today it is hoped that something may be said to comfort those who fear that they are reading on the wrong track.

In the first place, remember that when a human being reads a book the important thing in the operation is not the book but the brain that reads it.

When a sculptor models a work of art, it is not the clay that is important, but the shape which it takes in the sculptor's hands.

The reading of a book is useless if it only fills the mind without producing results.

The man who reads as a sponge sucks up water is useless to himself and to others.

The young well-formed brain contains within itself possibilities of achievement accumulated during thousands of generations. A book which the brain reads acts at best as a suggestion, a stimulant, an incentive.

Whatever you read, try to read the truth, and above all things seek to accumulate facts. By facts we do not mean dates in history, or chemical formulas, or meaningless lists of names but important facts, those that suggest fresh thought to the mind and stimulate its activity.

The greatest writer that ever lived in the world beyond any question, was Shakespeare. There are living today hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of men far better read than Shakespeare was—and not one of them could write a line of his work.

He did read, and he had to read, in order to give his brain a start, in order to divert it from interest in approaching the literary expression of all the human emotions.

It made very little difference what he read. His all-powerful brain turned facts and imaginative suggestion into his splendid product, as the digestion of a powerful man turns food of all kinds into well-developed muscle.

Huxley called the attention of laboring men before whom he lectured to the interesting fact that if he, Huxley, should eat a crawfish the crawfish's body would become part of Huxley's brain and would seek to deal with the problem of evolution. Whereas, on the contrary, if Huxley fell into a swamp and was eaten by crawfish, Huxley's body would build up the crawfish's brain and would be devoted to solving the problems of life in a crawfish swamp.

It is very much the same in the reading of books. The same book may start one man to the accumulation of a fortune and inspire another to an unselfish life of public service.

Take a single insulated fact: "More than four millions of human beings work constantly in the mines of this world."

If a million men read this statement they will see it in a million different ways, and their minds will be affected by it differently.

One, perhaps, will study it from a sociological point of view, and think of the suffering of those who never see the sun.

Another will think simply of the amount of money so many men and women must dig out inside of the earth.

Another will invent a fantastic theory about a race of beings dwelling at the center of the earth.

Another will devote his energies to perfecting machinery to enable these millions of human beings to do their work without going beneath the earth's surface.

It is with this fact as with all others. By itself it contains nothing.

Everything depends on the brain which absorbs it.

Whatever you read, try to find the truth, either in books or your own reflections, and remember that in reading your own thinking is the important thing. It is ten thousand times as important to you as is what you read.—Washington Times.

Noise proves nothing. Often a hen who has merely laid an egg cackles as though she had laid an asteroid.—Mark Twain.

In this land of plenty we die of overeating, and call it starvation.—Ed. Howe.

PONTIUS PILATE

(This poem is founded on a legend that Pilate was stricken with leprosy was banished from Rome and died in exile.)

With fevered blood and trembling nerves
He paces the halls of his palace.
Conscience, with scorpion fangs, lashes him to fury.
Fain would he sleep! But, the suppressed
Murmurs of the multitude.
As they tread apprehensive thru the dreadful night
Are borne in upon him.
The blood of debauchery has fled his face
To curdle 'round his heart.
Pale and affrighted the slightest sound
Rouses him to agony.
He hears approaching footsteps, pauses,
And lifting his eyes, glassy with suppressed
Anguish, recognizes a man, high in the councils of the Jews,
Joseph of Arimathea.
Bending low to the Roman Procurator
Joseph speaks;
Most noble Pilate, I come to beg the body
Of Him "Who spake as never man spake."
Your Roman legions have fled, and all
Have forsaken Calvary where-on
Upon His cross He hangs!
This deed of infamy has paled
The glow of di-urnal course,
And graves yawn tenantless!
The veil of the Temple is rent in twain,
And many have burst their prison walls
Of death, and walk with the living.
Verily, this was the Son of God!
Trembling like a leaf shaken by an
Untimely blast, Pilate struggles for self-mastery.
Lifting his unsteady arms towards
Joseph, he cries—
"I am innocent of His blood,
Did I not wash my hands in innocency,
Did I not declare I found no fault
In Him?
Why do you disturb my peace with
Your tales of horror and alarm?
Go, do as you will, but
Do not harrow me with your Jewish superstitions.
I represent Caesar, Master of the world!"
All night he lay awake—
He could not close his eyes to the
Vision that haunted him.
The God-like form, the love and compassion
In eyes from which only truth could beam.
The majesty born of heaven!
All, all, he refused to see, and now,
How meaningless these robes of royalty!
For power, he had sacrificed
His soul!
Worn out nature finally succumbed,
And sinking, in all his robes of state
Into a helpless mass, sleep comes
To his relief.
All night his beloved Procura had Shared his vigils. Just as the
First grey streaks of dawn struggle
Thru the darkness she leaves
Her chamber to seek him whom she most adored.
Creeping
Noiselessly thru the halls, she reaches
His chamber, and gently drawing aside
The silken draperies, she sees him sleeping.
Tenderly creeping towards him, she gazes
Lovingly upon his face.
Suddenly, her cheeks become ashen!
With eyes, starting from their sockets,
She peers down into his face, and
With a shriek born of agony unmixed
She falls unconscious at his feet.
Pilate was a leper!

LAUGH AND LIVE

SAD PARTING

Two mountaineers had long enjoyed a blood feud with each other, but at last neighbors, desiring peace, managed to bring them together. For several minutes after the meeting not a word was said. Finally one, scratching his thumb-nail reflectively on the butt of his gun, remarked: "Well, pardner, I'm not going to be with ye much longer."

The second was relieved but strove to conceal his feelings.

"Don't talk thatta way, Seth," he remonstrated. "We been enemies fer twenty year, but of course I'll miss ye. Ye ain't goin' to shoot yerself, are ye?"

"No," drawled the first, "I certainly ain't goin' to shoot myself, and I ain't goin' away, neither, but seein' as how ye ain't ever goin' ter see me again, I figgered ye mought have somethin' ye wanted ter say first."

A SPRING DAY

Master—Joseph, how's the weather this morning?
Joseph—Rather warm, if it happened to be January; decidedly cool if we were around the 30th of July.

POOR FATHER

The London Times digs up a bunch of "humor evasive" in answers to questionnaires, as for instance: A person whose father had been hanged by the neck until useless answered the question:

"Is your fater dead? If so, how did he die?"
"My father was taking the principal part in a public function, when the platform gave way."

NO SALE

"I want," said the very plain girl, "a book entitled 'Cultivate Your Natural Beauty.'"
"Here it is," said the clerk, who wanted to be sociable.
"Are you getting it for a friend?"
And the very plain girl put her purse back into her bag and went right out.

INTERNAL EXPLOSION

"John," said the wife, "I don't think our new maid is honest."
"Oh, don't say that," replied her husband. "She has such an honest exterior."
"Well, but you should see the interior of her bureau."

She is a girl

I like a lot;

Her knees may knock

But she will not.

GET RID OF THAT
"TIRED FEELING"

Do you feel run down and half-sick all the time? Are you thin, pale, easily tired—no energy, no ambition, no "pep"?

Now is the time to take Gude's Pepto-Mangan. It will brace you up, give you a delightful feeling of vigor and ambition, enrich your blood, build firm, solid flesh, and bring the healthy color back to your skin.

Your druggist has Gude's Liquid or solid, as you prefer.

Gude's
Pepto-Mangan
Tonic and Blood Enricher

The man who is ever seeking to do his best is the one who is keen, active, wide awake and aggressive. He is ever watchful of himself in trifles. His standard is not "What will the world say?" but "What is worthy of me?"

SEASONABLE DAINTIES

During the winter months when fruit, such as oranges, lemons and grapefruit are plentiful, most delicious candied sweets may be prepared from the peel.

Candied Orange Peel.—Cover the peel of four oranges with two quarts of water, bring slowly to a boil and simmer until the peel is tender. Drain and let stand for two hours. Remove all the white inner skin and when the peel is dry cut into strips. Boil two cupsful of sugar with one-half cupful of water until it spins a thread. Put in part of the peel and boil for five minutes; remove with a fork and roll in granulated sugar. Grapefruit or lemon peeling may be treated in the same way; a mixture of the three makes a very nice confection to serve with a cup of tea.

Candied Cranberries.—Put two cupsful of sugar on to boil with three-fourths of a cupful of water. Boil slowly for five minutes. Wash and dry two cupsful of large, hard, dark red cranberries, pierce each with a darning needle, then spread the berries in a single layer on a granite pan. Pour the syrup over the berries and set them into a moderate oven until they are almost transparent. Remove and dust with powdered sugar if desired.

Fruit and Nut Paste.—Take two cupsful of dates after stoning, one cupful of peanut butter, one teaspoonful of salt. Wash and dry the dates and put through a meat chopper, add the peanut butter and mix well with the salt. Take spoonfuls of the mixture, shape into small apples, put a currant for the blossom end and a piece of candied lemon or orange peel for the stem.

Raisin Pie.—Line a pie plate with pastry. To one cupful of seedless raisins add the grated rind and juice of a lemon; beat two egg yolks and mix with one-half cupful of sugar, add a cupful of water, a bit of salt and a few bits of butter. Put into the pastry shell, cover with a crust and bake thirty-five minutes.

What He Needed

A stump speaker shouted: "I want tax reform, I want land reform, I want dress reform—" and then some fellow in the crowd retorted: "Yes, and what you really need is chloroform."

That's what the man got for talking too much. Possibly some one will yet suggest chloroform for us because we keep telling about the advantages of our Bank, but we have such a good bank we can't help talking about it. We are not trying to reform anyone. We ARE trying to be of service to everyone by offering the facilities of a strong, reliable, accommodating bank. If you are not already a patron, we invite you now. You'll be welcomed.

Individuality Plus Sanitation

¶ Important as it is, Sanitation is not the only factor to be considered in the selection of your place to dine.

¶ Individuality is a characteristic possessed in a greater or lesser degree by every human being.

¶ One of the prime features of our business conduct is to study, with diligence and care, and as much accuracy as any human agency is able to employ, the peculiar tastes and fancies of each and every regular patron of our dining room.

¶ If you fancy any "pet" dish prepared with extraordinary care and in accordance with your "individual" taste, tell us about it.

¶ If you have a "hobby" on any special delicacy, do not hesitate to place your confidence with us, and we will gladly assure you that you shall receive "individual" service.

¶ "Sanitation," of course, is by no means secondary in importance, but on the other hand so closely allied with "individuality" that the two together make an inseparable couple, which remain side by side from the threshold of our front dining room to the rear exit of our kitchen.

¶ "The proof of the quality of the pudding is in eating it," likewise, the ACID TEST of our above assertions can be found only by a personal visit to our LUNCH ROOM.

¶ To you, your family, your friends and house guests, we beg to extend a most cordial and hearty welcome.

¶ Come every evening and relieve yourself of the dull care and monotonous routine duties of the household during the trying months of the approaching spring season.

To preserve a friend three things are necessary: To honor him present, praise him absent and assist him in his necessities.—Italian Saying.

GOOD THINGS WE LIKE TO TRY

A delicious cake to serve on "special occasions" is the following:

Fruit Layer Cake.—Cream one cupful of butter, add two cupfuls of sugar, six eggs beaten well, one cupful of milk, two and one-half cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of vanilla, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. The yolks of the eggs if added first and the whites stiffly beaten folded in at the last make a very delicate cake. Bake in layers.

Fruit Filling.—Boil two cupfuls of sugar until it threads and pour slowly over three stiffly-beaten whites of eggs, heat well, add one-half cupful of citron finely shredded, one-half cupful of figs, one cupful of raisins chopped, one pound of blanched and chopped almonds. Spread between the layers and on top.

Spanish Bérnoda.—Wash, skin and cut into dice two pounds of fresh fish, bass or halibut, or any fish in season. Have ready five large potatoes sliced, two onions sliced, one-half a can of tomatoes and a few spoonfuls of catsup. Arrange in a deep baking dish in layers, first the fish, then the potatoes, next the onions, and last the tomatoes; pour over the catsup and sprinkle with two tablespoonfuls of butter cut into bits. Add salt to season and bake three hours, well-covered.

Baked Bananas With Sultana Sauce.—Cook one-half cupful of sultana raisins in one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water for thirty minutes. Sift together one-half cupful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of cornstarch, then add the raisins and water, of which there should be a cupful. Boil six minutes, add one teaspoonful each of lemon juice and vanilla and serve poured around the baked bananas.

Seafoam.—Dissolve two cupfuls of granulated sugar in one-half cupful of hot water, then add one-half cupful of white corn sirup and boil until a little dropped into cold water will make a hard ball. Have the whites of two eggs beaten until stiff, pour over them the boiling sirup very slowly, beating all the while. Add vanilla and nuts and when stiff drop by spoonfuls on a buttered sheet.

HARRY C. MYERS and PAULINE STARKE
in "A CONNECTICUT YANKEE IN KING ARTHUR'S COURT"
WILLIAM FOX PRODUCTION

"A CONNECTICUT YANKEE IN KING ARTHUR'S COURT" has been made by the Fox Film Company from Mark Twain's book. Considerable liberties have been taken with the great American humorist, but the result justifies them. The thing is riotously amusing, more entertaining even than Charles Chaplin.

The basic idea is one of those topsy-turvy inspirations which bubble with humor. A young American goes to sleep and dreams that he is in ancient Britain at the Court of King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table. He proceeds to make the Court "what America will be like when Columbus discovers it."

Machinery, "clocking" in to and out from work, cigarettes, pistols, a new sort of Wild West tournament at which the lasso beats the lance, a motor-car, motor-cycle, and the telephone are some of the "magic" matters he introduces to A. D. 528. It is a very long time since one saw anything more fine and fantastic than Sir Lancelot and his knights setting out to the rescue on a Ford car and scores of motor-cycles. THE GREATEST COMEDY OF ALL TIMES—DON'T MISS IT.

THE CHOICE OF FRIENDS AND READING

Your family is worth the best you can give it. You desire for their enjoyment the best house, the best food, the best clothes that you can afford. And you are very careful that they cultivate the right kind of friends. But are you just as careful about choosing the right kind of reading? You should be, for reading has a marked influence upon character, especially the reading that comes under the eyes of the young and impressionable. If you choose the Youth's Companion you are giving your family an acquaintance with the best there is in periodical literature. If you see The Companion in a house you may be sure it is a safe family to tie up to—a family worth knowing. Try it for a year and see.

All the weekly issues of 1923 will be crowded with serial stories, short stories, editorials, poetry, facts and fun. Subscribe now and receive: The Youth's Companion—52 crowded weekly issues; and if requested The Companion Home Calendar for 1923. For only $2.50. Or include McCall's Magazine, the monthly authority on fashions. Both publications, only $3.00.

NOTICE

The public is notified that I have opened my law offices in my building on Centre street over the Community Grocery Co., one block from the passenger depot.

I shall be glad to see my friends or anyone having business to be transacted. I shall have associated with me some of the best legal talent in the State of Virginia and will be in position to handle any legal matters in the State or out of it.

I have a competent stenographer, who is a Notary Public, and who will be in the office to take acknowledgments and look after my affairs during my absence. The office hours will be from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. I have phones installed in both my offices and my home; and can be reached at either of these places.

I am grateful for past patronage, and trust that I shall have a continuance of the same in the future.

Respectfully,
C. J. MEETZE.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

In order that my friends may be correctly informed, I am using this method for the purpose of advising the public that the dissolution of the law firm of Didlake & Meetze, which has most pleasantly existed for more than four years, was mutual in every way.

Mr. Didlake and myself during the entire period of our partnership never had the least misunderstanding in any way, but every relation was of the most pleasant and agreeable kind. I prize Mr. Didlake among my very best friends, and esteem him very highly as an honorable gentleman, scholar and lawyer of marked ability.

Respectfully submitted,
C. J. MEETZE.

In which we tell a story while not original is, we believe, appropriate to our business

¶ In the city of Bagdad lived Hakum, the Wise One, and many people went to him for counsel, which he gave freely to all, asking nothing in return.

¶ There came to him a young man, who had spent much but got little, and said: "Tell me, Wise One, what shall I do to receive the most for what I spend?"

¶ Hakum answered: "A thing that is bought or sold has no value unless it contains THAT WHICH CANNOT BE BOUGHT OR SOLD. Look for the priceless ingredient."

¶ "But what is this PRICELESS INGREDIENT," asked the young man.

¶ SPOKE THEN THE WISE ONE: "MY SON, THE PRICELESS INGREDIENT OF EVERY PRODUCT IN THE MARKET PLACE IS THE HONOR AND INTEGRITY OF HIM WHO MAKES IT. CONSIDER HIS NAME BEFORE YOU BUY."

¶ MY NAME AND MY HONOR ARE BACK OF EVERY PRODUCT I SELL. MY PATRONS MUST BE SATISFIED.
