EPIDEMICS DUE TO FLIES AND FILTH

Infantile Paralysis and Dysentery Endangering Lives of Many People.

Richmond, Va., July 24.—At widely separated points in Virginia, two epidemics are now endangering the lives of many people. In the vicinity of Fredericksburg and in the city itself infantile paralysis has been occurring since the last day of June, and on the south side of Middle river in Greene and Madison counties an outbreak of bacillary dysentery has already resulted in more than a hundred cases of sickness and ten deaths. During the first fortnight of the infantile paralysis outbreak there was only one fatality.

Epidemics Due to Faulty Sanitation. Laboratory tests have proved that the dysentery outbreak has been caused by intestinal bacilli; and this is giving the State Board of Health much concern because in the Middle river district there is absolutely no sanitation, even of the simplest sort, and flies in droves carry the germs in all directions.

While Fredericksburg is generally well sanitized, the houses having sewer connections, the surrounding districts of King George, Spotsylvania and Stafford counties are far from being as satisfactory. Both in the city and in the counties there are too many flies.

Efforts Being Made.

Recognizing the importance of combating these outbreaks in the most determined way, the State Board of Health has had its epidemiologist investigate both districts personally and has sent competent men to help the local authorities and direct operations against the epidemics.

Dr. R. K. Flannagan, assistant health commissioner, has gone to the Middle river district. With him are Miss Nancy Vance, school supervising nurse, and A. D. Knott, assistant to the state epidemiologist. Miss Vance and Mr. Knott will spend several weeks in Greene and Madison counties.

Former Assistant Health Commissioner Dr. W. A. Brumfield has gone to the Fredericksburg district; and with him is Lieut. E. C. Stoy, U. S. P. H. S. These representatives of the state health commissioner will endeavor, before they leave, to have installed better local sanitary appliances and better protection against flies. This work will be in addition to their definite efforts against the existing epidemic.

Commissioner Issues a Warning.

"What is occurring around Fredericksburg and in the mountain counties," said the state health commissioner today, "may be expected in any community which fails to pay attention to neighborhood sanitation, so long as flies can have access to unprotected human waste matter. The State Board of Health is doing all that it can to aid the suffering communities that are victims of the present epidemics; but the only way to prevent such epidemics is to have the people protect themselves by having sanitary privies installed wherever there are no sewer connections.

"Furthermore," said the commissioner, "it may be well here to emphasize that even toilets with sewer connections are not safe, if they are left uncovered so that flies may have access to them. Those so-called 'sanitary toilet seats' which are lidless are not sanitary. No seat is sanitary unless it has a lid that can be lowered when the toilet is not in use.

"We are now sending to every mother in Virginia the birth of whose child was reported during the current year, a pamphlet showing how to make privies sanitary. Twenty thousand of these pamphlets have left the office within a week and more are going. Detailed plans and descriptions of all sorts of sanitary privies and protection for wells and springs are published by the State Board of Health and can be had free. We are glad to send them to any inquirer. It takes just such outbreaks as these two epidemics to make the people recognize the necessity for sanitation.

"We hope," added the commissioner, "that we may be able to prevent the spread of these epidemics and we are doing all in our power to prevent their spread; but in the final analysis prevention is up to the people. Until the people as a whole recognize that human filth is the worst enemy of the human race and that the only way to protect themselves against filth is

MR. LION MAKES STATEMENT

Reports Being Circulated or Without Foundation in Fact or in Truth.

Editor of The Journal, Manassas, Va.
Dear Sir:—Kindly permit me to have published in The Journal the following statement:

On Friday night last I heard, for the first time, that certain unscrupulous individuals are industriously circulating a report in certain sections of our county that after the apprehension and conviction of Alvin W. Harris for the murder of the late Thos. S. Meredith I had endeavored to persuade, or requested, his Excellency, the Governor of Virginia, either for or without fee, to commute or extend Executive clemency toward said Harris for his cold blooded murder of Mr. Meredith.

By this means I denounce statements as being without foundation in fact or in truth and any person, or persons, who repeat the same as being true in whole, or in part, are malicious falsifiers.

Respectfully submitted,
THOS. H. LION.

Richmond, Va., July 24, 1923.

"Hon. C. A. Sinclair, Manassas, Va.

"Dear Sir:—In reply to your letter of the 20th, I am enclosing you a few copies of the refund tax blanks, and suggest that purchasers of gasoline entitled to refunds, would lump their purchase tickets for say fifty days, so that they can get them in the sixty day limit, or not later than the 17th of August, as the law provides.

"The law being a new proposition we did not know just how many of these forms to have printed, and I only printed several thousand. We have distributed about all we have on hand and it seems that nearly every man who buys gasoline is applying for refund.

"We will be only too glad to put these forms in the hands of any applicant who desires them."

POLITICAL RALLY AT HAYMARKET

Three of the Senatorial Candidates Make Short Addresses to Large Gathering.

One of the largest attended political rallies of the present campaign took place on Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Rust at Haymarket. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Community League of that place. Early in the afternoon residents of the community gathered on the Rust lawn, which was decorated with flags and bunting. Tables were placed under the shade of the trees and refreshments were served by a number of young ladies. Later in the evening, when the lanterns were lighted, the grounds took on the aspect of a miniature fairland.

The addresses were made from a stand on one side of the house and when the meeting was called to order more than 200 people were present. Hon. C. A. Sinclair, candidate for reelection to the House of Delegates, presided and introduced the speakers. The first speaker was Mr. Robert S. Barrett, of Alexandria. He briefly reviewed his career in the service of the United States government in South America and said that, upon his return to his native state two years ago he found such a crying need for a more businesslike and economical administration of state affairs that he decided to offer himself for election to the State Senate. He declared that he was in favor of better roads and schools but said that he was opposed to any increase in state taxation. He hoped that sufficient money could be saved in the state by economies for these purposes. He declared that he was not a fanatic on the subject of prohibition but was strong for the enforcement of laws.

Mr. Frank Bell, of Arlington county, the next speaker, stated that larger appropriations for public schools was the principal feature of his platform. He was strong for the compulsory educational law even if it meant increased taxes. He defended his prohibition record and said that while it was not an issue in this campaign it was important to send men to the senate who would be strong for the enforcement of laws. He told of his plans to help the bad boys in the state and said that no bad boy should be denied the right to an education.

Senator Walter Tansill Oliver, the incumbent, was the last speaker. He defended his record in the senate and answered some of the charges that had been made against him. He said that the charge that he was opposed to the public schools was false and that he sent his children to a private school because they could secure a longer term. He defended his vote on the prohibition question and said that he had introduced a bill in the senate which would punish the buyer of intoxicating liquors as well as the seller. He told of his efforts to secure an appropriation for the Manassas Battlefield Park and for the Lee highway, both of which he said would be of great benefit to the county.

All three of the speakers declared that they would abide by the decision of the voters in the district on the question of the big bond issue. Mr. Barrett advised great caution in the expenditure of public funds during the present era of high prices for materials and labor.

The three speakers were generously applauded.
