MANUFACTURING SILK AS STATE INDUSTRY

Roanoke and Hopewell Operate Large Mills—Several Other Cities to Erect Plants.

Richmond.—The manufacture of artificial fabricated silk is assuming such proportions in Virginia, says the State Department of Labor and Industry, that invested capital in this business is placed at between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 in plants whose annual output is valued at more than $30,000,000. Salaries and wages alone paid by three mills is annually more than $10,000,000. The employes total between nine and ten thousand. Thirteen such mills turn in their reports to Labor Commissioner Hall, several additional plants being at present under construction.

Probably the largest among the silk mills operating in Virginia is the Viscose Corporation plant at Roanoke, although the plant at Hopewell operated by the Tubize Artificial Silk Company of America is of enormous proportions. The Roanoke plant had an output last year valued at upwards of $13,000,000. The invested capital at the Hopewell plant is placed at more than $12,000,000. The total output of the two plants last year was valued at more than $25,000,000.

A notable addition to the artificial silk industry in the state will be the plant to be erected in the county of Chesterfield, just out from Richmond, by the duPont interests. Surveys are now under way for this development, the first unit of which will probably employ from 2,000 to 3,000 workers.

Report is current and has not been denied that the Tubize Artificial Silk Company of America is contemplating doubling its huge plant of Hopewell. A $250,000 plant is already under course of construction at Martinsville for the manufacture of silk in the rough and also of garments.

At Petersburg there is the prospect of the erection of a million dollar silk plant for the manufacture of hosiery, while at Lynchburg this year was erected by the Virginia Silks Corporation a $75,000 plant for the manufacture of gloria silk. This plant will employ one hundred workers. A large addition is now being erected by the silk plant at Waynesboro.

KIWANIANS NOMINATE OFFICERS FRIDAY NIGHT

Members Extend Invitation to Attend Opening of Lee Highway November 21.

The Kiwanis Club met Friday night and the members enjoyed a most entertaining evening.

The nomination of officers took place, and are as follows: President, F. R. Hynson and H. E. Didlake; vice-president, A. A. Hooff; treasurer, J. L. Moser and A. S. Boatwright; trustee, R. A. Hutghison.

Those receiving the highest number of votes for directors are as follows: D. J. Arrington, E. R. Conner, O. E. Newman, A. A. Hooff, R. S. Hynson, T. E. Didlake, A. S. Gibson, C. R. C. Johnson, T. H. Lion, G. R. Ratcliffe, M. M. Ellis, and J. E. Bradford.

The main feature of the program was the impersonations of local characters, acted by Mr. Martin Lynch, who is well known for his ability to typify others. Messrs. A. S. Boatwright and C. E. Nash were on the entertainment committee for the evening and were responsible for obtaining Mr. Lynch.

The club appointed Messrs. Thos. H. Lion and T. T. Cuffts to extend an invitation to the people of the county to gather at Stone Bridge at 11 a. m., on Monday when the opening of the Lee Highway will take place. Delegations will join the procession as they proceed to Warrenton where the exercises will be held.

BOY BREAKS ARM

Guy Bridwell, 14 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bridwell, suffered a broken arm Tuesday afternoon when he fell backwards while playing in the boys' basement at the school house. His arm was set by Dr. McBryde.

All Candidates of Wet Tendencies Are Banned by Bishop Cannon in Vigorous Statement at Danville

Danville, Va., Nov. 12.—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., chairman of the board of temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, with headquarters at Washington, made the following statement at today's session of the Virginia conference in Danville, Va., concerning the present condition relating to prohibition and the attitude of the board of temperance:

"For nearly half a century this great conference has been in the forefront of the battle against the liquor traffic. Forty-five years ago Dr. W. W. Bennett and W. W. Smith, backed by this body, led the temperance forces of Virginia to secure the passage of the local option law, and as a student of Randolph-Macon College it was my good fortune to be enlisted in the war and to give my service to help in the circulation of the Southern Crusader, and from that day to this present hour I have fought the common enemy of mankind with such ability and strength as God has given me whenever opportunity or duty has called. There have been many times when this body has taken important action on this question: When first the Mann law, the Byrd law, the prohibition enabling act, and the Mapp law were being considered by the people of Virginia no action was more influential than that of this great conference in securing the adoption of these salutary measures, which drove out cross roads and village bar-rooms, the city saloons, the brewers and distillers, and branded future traffickers in intoxicating liquors as criminals and outlaws, and also destroyed the strangled hold of the liquor traffic upon town and city councils, State Legislature and other government officials. It is difficult for our children, indeed it is difficult for the young members of this conference, to realize the strength, the resourcefulness and the desperation of the opposition or the intensity of the struggle participated in by the older members of this body, which included the murder of Moffatt in this very city the physical assault on Dr. Crawford, in Amherst county, the abuse and vilification of prohibition leaders, regardless of their standing or character. A reading of the reports of the conference committee on temperance and the resolutions adopted by the body itself will indicate the stage of progress of temperance reform in Virginia from year to year.

Recalls Liquor Threats.

"When the state-wide prohibition law, commonly called the Mapp law, was under consideration in the General Assembly in Virginia in 1916, there were not only prophecies but positive threats by the outlawed dealers that they would not respect the expressed will of the people of Virginia, but would settle in Baltimore and Washington and from these points outside the state would carry on their destructive traffic in defiance of the Virginia law, and Baltimore papers gloated over the great increase in the manufacture of intoxicants by the criminal violators of the law of her sister state.

"And then the day came when the people of the dry states determined that they would not permit their laws to be flouted by 'wet' foreign dominated centers like New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Louisville, Baltimore, New Orleans, St. Louis, etc. They said to these 'wet' people, 'If you will not respect the rights of the people of the state to prohibit the traffic in intoxicants within its own borders, we will pass a constitutional amendment which will so prohibit the legalized brewers distillers and wholesale and retail liquor traffic within your own borders and thus prevent their operation to nullify the wishes of the 'dry' states. That was the genesis and the driving power of the movement for national prohibition.

Discusses Present Climate.

"The present clamor by Bruce, Butler, Ritchie, Reed and Smith and their 'ollows and the 'wet' newspapers for the state control of the liquor traffic is a belated howl from those who had neither the desire nor the prophetic vision to use their voices and influence to advocate the doctrine of state sovereignty for the protection of those states which had outlawed the traffic in intoxicants. All the efforts of the 'dry' states to protect their children from outside traffickers by the passage of state enforcement laws and of Federal interstate shipment and postal laws were fought bitterly by the very element which is now clamoring for state sovereignty and control. Never was any proposal by the liquor traffic or its defendants to effect the state prohibition laws. These people were lawless and defiant up to the day of the ratification of the eighteenth amendment, and since the amendment was ratified the great aim has been to discover how to evade the provisions of the law by fraud or force. The cry from the beginning has been that the law cannot be enforced with the criminal undertone that the law shall not be enforced. Today the battle cry of the enemy, loud and clear, is state nullification of the national prohibition law.

Questions of Personal Records.

"This great conference faces today a situation which demands that it take action as clear and unmistakable as it has always taken at every stage of this great conflict, for before its next meeting that will have occurred which will greatly affect for good or ill the future effectiveness of the national prohibition law. To be specific the future effectiveness of that law, whether we like it or not, will be tremendously affected by the results of the approaching presidential campaign. The strenuous efforts which are being made quite honestly in some cases by some 'dry' leaders to illuminate the prohibition question from the campaign have been and will be unavailing, because the 'wets' have determined to force the fighting for the nomination and the election of an openly declared opponent of prohibition, and these 'wet' men will be satisfied with nothing less. With the line of battle thus clearly drawn by the enemy itself if a 'wet' man should be nominated by either party the issue will not be republicanism or democracy, but prohibition law enforcement vs. lawlessness and nullification. The issue will not be settled by party platforms. No party convention will dare to adopt a platform either of prohibition repeal or non-enforcement lawlessness at this stage of the conflict. The issue will, and must be, under the existing circumstances, made by the personal records and attitude of the candidates, toward prohibition and the prohibition law. To be still more specific, the outstanding opponents of the prohibition law in the field of national politics are Governor Alfred E. Smith, Albert C. Ritchie, Senator James A. Reed and Dr. Nicholas M. Butler. All of these men are personally and politically opposed to prohibition, and have done what they could to break down public sentiment in support of the law and to weaken its effectiveness. "Fugaciously Vindictive."

"Dr. Butler has been so ungenerously vindictive and so unscrupulous of all personal and social amenities in his attacks upon the intelligence, motives and character of the supporters of prohibition that it has been difficult at times to escape the conviction that there are personal reasons for the furious epithets which he has hurled at the prohibition law and its supporters. While it may be unfounded, there is suspicion that he is chasing the forlorn hope that his attitude may finally secure the support of 'wet' elements for the presidency, which has made him the outstanding 'wet' leader in the Republican party. While his outbursts have been received with restrained comments by his political associates in this country he has been accepted as an oracle in many influential circles in Europe and his personal extravagancies have been accepted as more weighty than all the facts as to the social, economic and moral benefits of prohibition. It is hardly likely that the Republican party will commit presidential suicide by the nomination of a man holding such views and with such a record, but should it do so his election should be opposed by all supporters of the prohibition law, regardless of party ties.

Refers to Senator Reed.

"Senator James A. Reed has shown himself to be one of the most bitter and vindictive enemies of prohibition. He has fought prohibition legislation actively and shrewdly not to say ably. He exhibited his open hostility not only to the prohibition law, but his contempt for prohibition workers by his conduct as chairman at the hearing before the Senate Committee in 1926 on the prohibition bills. Again in 1927, in the hearing on the investigation of the Pennsylvania primary, he manifested the same hostile attitude. He treated the group of women witnesses at the beginning of the hearing with gross rudeness, endeavored to embarrass all the 'dry' witnesses and to twist their statements out of their proper setting, acting really not as the impartial chairman of the committee, but as the cross-examiner for the liquor interests, being prompted continually in his questioning by their official representative. In the Pennsylvania hearing, while the prohibition question had only the remotest bearing upon the committee, he emphasized it as though it were a major question solely for the purpose of investigating the Anti-Saloon League of America and especially for the cross-examination of its national Attorney, Dr. Wheeler. Never have I witnessed a smaller, more contemptible exhibition of the conflict. The issue will, and

TOY BALLOON TRAVELS THREE HUNDRED MILES

Crosses Maryland and Chesapeake Bay and Lands in Cornfield in Delaware.

Georgetown, Del., Nov. 2.—While in a cornfield, near here, yesterday, John Cooper found a toy balloon to which was fastened a card on which was written the name of Miss Annie M. Sivak, Manassas, Va., R. F. D., Box 52. On the reverse side the words "write to me" were written. The card evidently was fastened after the balloon had been inflated, and was released at the Bethel (Va.) Fair grounds either October 14 or 15. The name of the fair and two dates were inscribed on it.

MRS. NATHANIEL HOUSE DIES

After a prolonged illness, Mrs. Nathaniel P. House, (nee Sallie J. Francis), passed away, November 10, in her 62 year, at her home near Leesburg, Va.

Funeral services were held at the Greenwich Church, at 1 o'clock, November 11, Rev. J. R. Cooke officiating and interment in the churchyard cemetery. She is survived by her husband, Mr. N. P. House, and two children, John N. House and Mrs. William Hogan, of near Leesburg, and one brother, John A. Francis, of Cherrydale, Va.

PRIZE POTATOES

It seems that the "blue ribbon" should be given to Mr. E. Adkins, of Clifton, for raising the largest potatoes. Mrs. Adkins brought to The Journal office today one that weighed two pounds and eleven ounces. Mrs. Adkins says that they have dug many bushels of these Goliath potatoes which range from two to three pounds each.

OLD DOMINION TO HOLD GRAIN SHOW

Annual Exhibition To Be Shown At Farmville, Virginia On January 26 and 27.

W. J. Nickols, Jr., secretary of the Virginia crop improvement association, has this to say about the annual meeting of the state corn and grain show. Mr. Nickols says:

"The seventh annual convention of the Virginia crop improvement association and state corn and grain show to be held in Farmville, Virginia, January 26-27, 1928, will afford the farmers of Virginia an excellent opportunity to meet together and discuss their problems. Exhibits of the best farm crops grown in Virginia will be shown at the show. A very interesting and educational program has been prepared.

"Every Virginia farmer, whether a member of the association or not, is invited to attend the convention and enter exhibits in the show. Classes in corn, wheat, oats, rye, barley, soybeans, cowpeas, Virginia-grown red clover, cotton and peanuts are open to all Virginia farmers. One corn class will be open to the United States and Canada. A total of $650 will be awarded in cash prizes to the winners in the various classes.

"Aside from cash money received in prizes the exhibitors have a chance to study the type and quality of the various varieties by attending the show. The show also offers an excellent opportunity for the exhibitors to advertise their crops. A consistent prize winner in show circles has very little difficulty in disposing of his seed at a fancy premium.

"A farmers' corn judging contest will be held in connection with the show. This contest is open to all men, women, boys and girls in Virginia, except to winners of first place in previous shows, extensive work and agricultural instruction. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded.

"Now is the proper time to save exhibits for the show. The exhibits should be roughly selected, stored in a dry, rat-proof place, and just before the show the final selection can be made.

"The farmers of Virginia should make plans to attend the convention and enter exhibits in the show."

HOW ONE CITY TREATS STRANGERS

Surely, our neighbors down in the Palmetto State must be descended from ancestors who sat at the feet of the suave Lord Chesterfield. This is what happened recently. A gentleman, speeding across the state to fill an engagement at Raleigh, paused in Spartanburg long enough to snatch a hasty lunch. When he was all set to start again, he was horrified to discover that his automobile had been tagged. Visions of a long delay, to say nothing of a possible fine, dangled about in his mind. Opening up the tag, he found this: "We observe that you are a stranger in the city, both from your license plate and also from the fact that your car is parked in violation of the city's traffic laws. You will find within a brief summary of the most important rules for you to observe while driving within the city, attention to which will save you much inconvenience and annoyance, and contribute to the safety of all. Stay in our city as long as you feel so disposed, and take away with you our best wishes for a safe journey wherever you go."

BREAKING DOWN THE BARRIERS

There is a motif running through the present administration in Virginia which has received little, if any, mention in the state press. It is the welding into a single whole of the separate interests of the rural districts and the cities. Many decades ago these two great sections of the body politic began to sense a divergence of vital interests. There was no real divergence, for these interests are the same and have always been so. What really happened was a growth of sectional feeling which was intensified by the desire of each politician to get every advantage possible for his particular constituency. So the farmers thought the city people were trying to run the state and the city people were sure the county delegates were bossing things, and there was a lot of good argument on both sides.

This sectional antagonism has been a great drawback to the state's progress. Many measures calculated to advance the interests of the commonwealth have been defeated through sectional politics. Others that should have been defeated have been passed because their sponsors have commanded sufficient partisan following to engineer them through the General Assembly. Cases in point could be cited showing this sense of divided interest on the part of rural and urban legislators.

Governor Byrd's administration has done much toward breaking down old barriers, establishing co-operation and coordination, and making us all feel that we are just equal parts of a great and wonderful state. Legislation affecting taxes, governmental, school administration and the administration of the highway funds have been nearly even-handed for the city man as well as for the farmer, and for the farmer as well as for the city man.

The Governor's latest move to coordinate the road programs of the counties with that of the state highway system is a case in point. Roads will take the farmer out of his rut and give him a better understanding of the great problems which mod-carry the city man out into the country and create a sympathy with rural life and rural problems.

Road building is expensive work. Thousands of dollars are quickly spent in building roads. It is necessary, therefore, to emphasize economy and efficiency in carrying on this tremendous task. It is a matter of general knowledge that there is much waste and unwise expenditure in the administration of the average county's road funds. The suggested plan of bringing county road work under the supervising agency of the State Highway Commission is the most logical proposal yet offered in the matter of road building.

And the solution of the road problem is just one of the many measures advocated by the Byrd administration for fusing many widely separated interests into the major interest of the State of Virginia. We've just different parts of the same good old state, so of course it's sensible and profitable to work together for the common good.

PRIVATE RIGHTS MUST NOT BE FORGOTTEN

There has never been any uncertainty as to the attitude of The Journal on the question of prohibition. The paper has stood four-square on the enactment and enforcement of prohibition legislation, and believes still that, despite any faults and failures the plan may have, it has done much to improve America and give her an enviable standing in the eyes of the world, both from a social and economic standpoint.

We cannot agree, however, with the proposition that a man can send an officer to search another man's premises without assuming full responsibility for his act. Whether the proposed law comes from a wet or dry source, the enactment of legislation requiring a man who has your premises searched to sign his name to the search warrant is eminently fair and right, and altogether in accordance with the highest principles of liberty and justice.

When George the Third of England wanted to send his officers to search Virginia homes for contraband goods, Sir William Pitt, the friend of America, stood up in Parliament and said: "A man's house is his castle. It may be poor; its roof may leak. The winds and the rain may enter, but the king of England dare not enter. All his forces dare not cross the threshold of that ruined tenement."

It was a hard fight in those days to wrest the rights of the individual from the grasp of the mighty, and it involved the shedding of a lot of good red blood. Virginians will do well today to beware lest they barter those rights away too cheaply.

THE "GO" SIGN

Sometimes I get to thinkin' Life is like a Traffic Cop, Who tells you when you ought to go and when you've got to stop— There's folks that won't admit it, but I guess they really know That it's best to keep on movin' when the sign says "Go!" There's work enough to furnish every mother's son a share; So get your pick and shovel 'cause there ain't no time to spare; The Cop ain't got no patience with the man that's movin' slow— Better keep up with the traffic when the sign says "Go!" To keep your peace with Work you've got to look him in the eye And never bat an eyelid, but agree to do or die! Then you'll have no grounds for worry and no blame for movin' slow And be smilin' from the front ranks when the sign says "Go!" It's well to bear in mind the fact that this old Traffic Cop Some day is gonna turn his sign for you and bid you stop— Where you'll spend your latter days and what you'll have to show Depends on how you're movin' when the sign says "Go!" —Lola F. Echard.

Thanksgiving Proclamation

Whereas, It is the custom of the people of Virginia, at the end of the harvest season, to render up to Almighty God thanksgiving and praise for all his manifold great mercies and bountiful gifts; and,

Whereas, Through the generosity of nature and the benign influence of our laws, never in her history has the promise of the future shown brighter for Virginia; now, Therefore, I, Harry F. Byrd, Governor of Virginia, do join heartily with the President of the United States in designating Thursday, November 24, 1927, as a public holiday, to be observed as a day of thanksgiving and of prayer, and I do call upon the whole people of Virginia to gather on that day in their accustomed places of worship, and there, as in their homes, to offer up grateful thanks to a merciful and loving God. And I suggest that on this occasion it would be altogether appropriate to display the American and State flags and to indulge in such patriotic exercises as may seem fitting, remembering that under these banners, we enjoy that liberty vouchsafed us from heaven.

Given under my hand and under the lesser seal of the Commonwealth, at Richmond, this twelfth day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, and in the one hundred and fifty-second year of the Commonwealth.

(Signed) HARRY F. BYRD, Governor of Virginia. (Signed) M. A. HUTCHINSON, Secretary of the Commonwealth.

CHILD MANAGEMENT

By D. A. THOM Syndicated from the revised edition of Child Management.

WHY DO CHILDREN DISOBEY?

Whether children are disobedient or obedient is to a great extent dependent on the standards and requirements of mothers and fathers.

While Tommy is deeply engrossed in playing with his toys or in a new book the carelessly shouted orders of his mother, busy with her dish washing, may pass unheeded, such commands having become so familiar that he has developed the same negative adaptation to them as the stenographer develops toward the hammering of typewriters in a busy office. He may have heard the command and appreciated what was wanted, but experience may have taught him that a command ignored by him is one forgotten by his mother—so why should he worry?

There may, however, be some doubt in his mind what to expect, for on one day mother allows her unheeded request to drop unnoticed, while on the next she may take time from her work to administer swift and sure punishment. Inconsistency in discipline keeps the child in a most upset state of mind, and soon his response to any request comes to depend on his interest in his immediate occupation and his willingness to take a chance.

It may be that Tommy is capitalizing his disobedience. Often he has heard his mother say, after coaxing and pleading a while, "Now if you eat your dinner like a nice boy, you may have some candy," or "If you stop making so much noise, you may have a penny." If Tommy has learned that such offers follow a lack of response to the first request, it is only natural he should wait until they are made before complying. By holding out, he may obtain greater material gain and also for more attention and interest. It is something to be distinguished, if only as the "despair" of the family.

Threats of action by policemen, "bogy men," and doctors are a most unfortunate method to use in obtaining obedience. Either they cause hampering, fear, and timidity or else at an early age the child comes to realize that they are idle and meaningless and turns them to his immediate advantage. Tommy may learn to play up fear of doctors, for instance, so that by an outburst of yelling and kicking he may avoid having his teeth cared for or his eyes examined.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE OF A HOUSE AND LOT IN QUANTICO, VIRGINIA

By virtue of a certain decree of the Circuit Court of Prince William County, Va., entered in the cause of Jeanette Hamilton v. Amelia J. Hastings et al., at the October, 1927, term of said court, the undersigned commissioner, thereby appointed, will offer for sale, at public auction, in front of the Peoples National Bank of Manassas, in the Town of Manassas, Prince William County, Va., on SATURDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1927 at 11 o'clock, a. m., of that day the following real estate, to-wit: consisting of two adjoining lots or parcels of land, together with the buildings and other improvements thereon, lying and being situate in the Town of Quantico, Prince William County, Va., being the same real estate that was conveyed to the late J. H. Hamilton by G. M. Ratcliffe and wife by deed dated September 13, 1922, and recorded among the land records of said county in Book 77, page 245, and being designated on a plat of said Town of Quantico as Nos. 3 and 4, in Block 31. This is an unusually large dwelling house on said lots and it is one of the most valuable pieces of residential property in the Town of Quantico.

TERMS OF SALE:—The said real estate will be sold for cash, one-third, in one year, one-third in two years. The deferred payments to be secured by the interest-bearing notes of the purchaser, to be executed on the day of sale, and title to be withheld until the whole of the purchase money is paid, with the right on the part of the purchaser to pay all cash, if he so elects.

T. E. BIDLAKE, Commissioner. I, George G. Tyler, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Prince William County, do certify that the above described premises were executed in my office as directed by the aforesaid decree.

GEO. G. TYLER, Clerk. 26-4 By his deputy, L. LEDMAN.

VIRGINIA: In the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court for the County of Prince William, the 8th day of November, 1927. REGINALD R. LEWIS

FLORENCE L. LEWIS, IN CHANCERY.

The object of the above styled suit is to obtain by the plaintiff from the defendant a divorce from the bonds of matrimony which was created by the marriage between the said parties on the 12th day of September, 1924. And it appearing by affidavit filed by the plaintiff according to law that Florence L. Lewis, the defendant, is not a resident of this State, and that her last known place of residence was 603 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., it is therefore ordered that the said Florence L. Lewis do appear within ten days after due publication of this order, in the Clerk's Office of our said Circuit Court, and do what is necessary to protect her interest. And it is further ordered that this order be published once a week, for four successive weeks in the Manassas Journal a newspaper published and circulating in said county of Prince William. And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be posted at the front door of the courthouse of said county of Prince William on or before the next succeeding rule day, and that another copy thereof be mailed to the said Florence L. Lewis, by prepaid registered United States mail to the post-office address given in said affidavit, to-wit: No. 603 H Street, N. W., Washington, District of Columbia. 26-4 GEO. G. TYLER, Clerk.

Auto Insurance

Every car owner is responsible to the public for the operation of his car; whether he drives it himself or allows others to drive it.

With congested traffic today complete protection is a necessity. Your auto may burn, it may be stolen, you may have an accident in which someone is injured or killed, you may damage property of others, you may damage your car.

In short, a policy will, so far as the owner desires, step into his shoes, assume his liability, his worries, save him time, regrets, money and possible serious losses to his estate.

Ask for the cost of this important protection, you will find it moderate. General Insurance Agency, Inc. Insurance of Any Kind. THOS. W. LION, Secretary. MANASSAS, VA.

The Difference between good lumber and bad is small, as far as price is concerned, but it is immense when considered from a standpoint of appearance and durability in a building. The same is true of other classes of building material.

We carry constantly on hand a full line of carefully selected materials for the builder—heavy lumber, dressed pine and oak flooring, ceiling, window and door frames, sash, roofing materials, wallboard, cement, lime, sand and crushed stone.

REMEMBER—it always pays to have a talk with us before building.

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH?

Janitors turn water into heating boilers and forget to turn it off. Owners remember too late and let cold water run into a red hot boiler. You know the result—there's only one sure way—buy a water feeder—they supply water and prevent flooding.

We can tell you about it TO OUR CUSTOMERS: You want your money, I want mine. If we both get ours, it will sure be fine. If you get yours and hold mine, too, What in the h... am I going to do?

NEWS OF WEEK IN OLD VIRGINIA

High Lights of Happenings in State Told in Short Paragraphs

To Build School.

Shenandoah.—A new school building for Luray, county seat of Page which is the largest rural high school in the state, has been proposed by Harry B. Hanger, of Shenandoah, superintendent of schools for Page county.

With new high school buildings having been erected here and in other parts of the county, and conditions crowded in the Luray school, Superintendent Hanger brought out many reasons for the building of a new institution. The proposed building would be erected at a cost of about $22,000, and the money would be raised by bond issue.

Dr. Willis to Take Charge.

Nassawadox.—Definite plans are being formulated by Mrs. George W. Curtis, Northampton county chairman, and Mrs. B. B. Anderson, Accomac county chairman, to complete the Northampton-Accomac Memorial Hospital here by July 1, 1928, and means to raise $35,000 to complete the $150,000 building is being worked out by both county committees.

Dr. Murat Willis, of Richmond, Va., has agreed to take over the hospital and run it if the building is completed by next July. The staff of the Johnston-Willis Sanatorium will take over the medical and surgical end of the hospital and have a member of the staff here all of the time and a nurse of the institution as superintendent.

Eastern Shore Escapes Frost.

Cape Charles.—What is said by the oldest heads as one of the latest falls in many years, Northampton county is still free from frost and late vegetation such as lima and snap beans, green peppers and tomatoes are still being harvested from the fields and are bringing fancy prices on the northern markets. Chrysanthemums, dahlias and roses are still blooming in the open and the coal man is having a scuffle to dispose of his surplus for the present.

Truck farmers in this section have possibly had the best open fall during the past decade to harvest late crops without damage by frost, and those who were fortunate enough to plant large acreages of late limas are reaping a harvest at the present price of $5 a basket. Local canneries, who have large acreages of limas for their factories, will complete cutting this week-end without a single acre being damaged by frost and is said will be the first year that many acres have not been killed by frost.

Fresh fish and crabs are being caught in large quantities in lower Chesapeake Bay, and excepting an occasional overcoat seen in passing, one would think it at least a month earlier in the year in this section.

Establishes Bank.

Richmond.—Recognizing the need of additional banking facilities at Hopewell, a group of Richmond men closely identified with the State-Planters Bank and Trust Company have organized the State-Planters Bank of Hopewell, which will be opened as soon as the preliminary program is perfected, with a paid-up capital and surplus, already subscribed, of at least $250,000.

The new institution has been granted a charter by the state corporation commission, authorizing a minimum capital of $50,000 and a maximum of $500,000.

Train Wrecked.

Bristol.—Southern train, No. 25, known as the Memphis Special, turned over at Loudon, Tenn., about thirty miles south of Knoxville, Tenn., Thursday night. According to the dispatcher's office, the engineer was killed and others injured.

Donates to Hospital.

Lexington.—Mrs. Harry St. George Tucker has supplemented her gift of $5,000 to buy the recently added annex to the Jackson Memorial Hospital, Lexington, by another gift of $800, which finishes the payment on the new building.

Republicans Elated.

Luray.—The election in Page county brought surprises to both democrats and republicans. Democrats assert that the head of their county ticket, F. T. Amiss, running for treasurer, was slaughtered by those of his own party. They point to the fact that in the contest four years ago, when he was running for the same office and was opposed by E. H. Hershberger, republican incumbent, Amiss' majority at Luray precinct was 132, while this year Hershberger received 21 majority at the same place.

Sheriff E. L. Lucas, running for the election, had a majority of between 1,600 and 1,700 in the county over his first cousin, G. H. Cave, democrat. Cave at present is superintendent of the county almshouse. Lucas ran away with 240 majority over Cave at the latter's precinct, Marksville.

Republicans, jubilant over the result, declare that the contest shows that the county is normally republican.

Sees Highways Painted.

Richmond.—Highways throughout the country will eventually be painted with a luminous paint, thus eliminating the glaring headlights evil, is the opinion of Dr. Gerald Wendt, dean of the school of chemistry and physics at Pennsylvania State College, who addressed the monthly meeting of the Virginia section of the American Chemical Society recently.

Named to Virginia Assembly.

Richmond.—Harry C. Ficklen, associated with John Kendrick Bangs in editorial work of the Munsey publications in New York many years ago, was elected by Pittsylvania county last week to the Virginia legislature.

He is one of several new members who have expressed liberal views on prohibition. His triumph is regarded as most displeasing to the Anti-Saloon League.

To Dedicate Field.

Potomac.—George Mason High School's new athletic field will be dedicated tomorrow at 3 o'clock. This also will mark the opening of athletic events here as the school has been forced to play all of their contests in Alexandria or elsewhere due to the absence of an athletic field.

For this banner occasion Fredericksburg High will be here to tackle the Potomac warriors. Coach Guy Camden, who has developed a whirlwind eleven for the school, will send his best team to the front in order to make the day's festivities a success by winning.

Competent officials will have charge of the game and it is hoped that all school followers and citizens of Potomac and vicinity will journey to the grounds to see the boys in action and to take part in the dedication ceremonies.

Survey of State's Forests.

Richmond.—Virginia's forest area comprises 12,000,000 acres, according to a statistical study of Virginia compiled by Dr. Wilson Gee and J. J. Carson of the University of Virginia. Twenty states have a greater acreage in forest than the Old Dominion. Of these Oregon is first with 23,275,000 acres of her land area known as forest land. Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia and Minnesota have more than 20,000,000 acres covered with timber.

During 1925 Virginia held sixteenth place in the amount of lumber cut, with a total of 709,180 feet, board measure. Washington cut the most, 7,027,325 feet, while Oregon was second with 4,216,383. Eleven other states cut more than 1,000,000 feet of lumber in that year. They were Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, California, Nevada, Arkansas, Texas, Georgia, Idaho, Wisconsin and North Carolina.

Rhode Island cut the smallest amount of lumber, only 3,686 feet. Utah, Kansas, Delaware and New Jersey were the only other states to cut less than 10,000 feet. Rhode Island also has the smallest area of her land in timber, 280,000 acres being listed as forest land. Delaware is next with 350,000 acres in forest.

Total land in timber in the United States is 469,475,000 acres, while 38,338,641 feet of timber were cut in all the states during 1925.

Building Dormitory.

Richmond.—The woman's dormitory at the Medical College of Virginia, work on which is now under way, will, when completed, meet one of the institution's most urgent needs, President Sanger announced. The building is located on the lot adjoining the Monumental Church on what is commonly called "Academy square."

It will accommodate 134 students and will have one hall large enough for student body and faculty receptions. This is the first unit in the new program made possible by the gifts of friends and alumni in the recent campaign, and is being built at a total cost of approximately $200,000.

Voters Show More Interest.

Richmond.—Governor Byrd said Saturday that he believed that the warm contests in local elections in Virginia last Tuesday indicated that the people were taking a greater interest in their country governments and that they realized that under the segregation tax law and the county budget law a definite responsibility is placed on local officials.

He said that he hoped that the efforts to bring about an improvement in the state government had something to do with the increased interest which the people were showing in all phases of government.

Lindy Invited For Hunt.

Harrisonburg.—Governor Harry F. Byrd and Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who will be the governor's guest during the Virginia hunting season, have been invited to Brock's Gap for an "old-fashioned" bear hunt, with plenty of pheasants and turkeys as a sideline in the way of shooting. Sheriff-Elect Charles F. Fawley of Rockingham and a number of prominent citizens extended the invitation, which, if accepted, will be climaxed with a barbecue at Bergton, in the heart of the Blue Ridge. The mountains here abound in bear, turkeys and pheasants. Fourteen black bears were tracked last week at Bergton after the first snow fall and the hunters are ready to show them to the distinguished guests.

Oyster-Industry Booming.

Cape Charles.—With the coming of cooler weather oysters in this section have improved to the extent that local dealers are rushed and the famous Cherrystones are being shipped daily by hundreds of barrels. The trade has reported the best grade of bivalves being received from this section in recent years.

Shucking houses have started up in full force and the western trade has shown greater demand for the first of the season than has been experienced for several years.

Enthusiasm Over Road Link.

Shenandoah.—Page citizens were wild with enthusiasm Saturday when information announcing the appropriation of $200,000 to build the section of the Lee Highway leading from Sperryville to the top of the mountain leading into Page county was received here.

The appropriation came after a long and earnest effort on the part of citizens of this section and Piedmont Virginia toward the securing of the road, which is the main artery of the Lee Highway in Virginia.

One prominent citizen of Richmond, who is visiting in this county, declared that the completion of the link, which will be had next year, will mean thousands of dollars to the entire state of Virginia.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

(By Senior Class)

The large number of girls who are out for basket ball this year meet regularly twice a week for practice under Mrs. Elmer Metz, who is coach for the team. The team has not yet been selected but there are some very promising players.

The soccer team was defeated in a hard fought game with Upper Marlboro High School on Friday. The local boys held their opponents at 1 to 0 at the end of the first half. Marlboro scored 9 to 0. Upper Marlboro is expected to play here in the near future and the Manassas boys are expecting a closely contested game.

Physical Education, another important part of our school curriculum will begin this week. Every student not taking basket ball or soccer will be enrolled in this course, the results of which are plainly visible already, for the posture records this fall show considerable improvement over those of last year. Misses Lulu D. and Grace E. Metz and Mr. Pullen will have charge of all Physical Education classes.

The Home Economics department is making boxes for all of the rooms. The funds realized from this will be contributed to the fund for the education of the children in the Near East. This great work is being sponsored by ex-Governor Trinkle and other influential persons in the state. It is a worthy cause and all should be interested in helping.

The Home Economics class of the school has started serving simple lunches to the students. Although they usually consist of only salads and sandwiches, many of the students are taking advantage of the opportunity of obtaining lunches at the very reasonable rates offered. The class will soon begin to serve the more elaborate lunches.

The high school will close Tuesday for the Thanksgiving holidays.

The faculty will attend the Virginia Educational Association which convenes in Richmond during that week.

A Thanksgiving assembly will be held Tuesday of next week. After the program, Rev. George Hasel, of the Methodist Church, will address the student body.

A high school orchestra is being organized this week.

The last dose of toxin anti-toxin for the prevention of diphtheria was given on Tuesday, 167 students of the high school took the treatment.

Those who have received but two doses will report to the Bennett school on Monday, November 21.

There will be a conference of all high school teachers of the county here on Saturday morning, November 19.

Mr. H. H. Williams, Federal Agent of Vocational Education, from Washington, visited the agricultural department this week.

The assembly on Armistice Day was a very interesting one. Miss Osbourn gave a short talk and explained the meaning of the two flags which are very dear to the school. A number of songs were sung by the student body and appropriate recitations were given. The Rev. A. Stuart Gibson, speaker of the occasion, gave a most beneficial talk as follows:

"We are met together on this Armistice Day to think of the thoughts and deeds of our young who gave themselves for the sake of our great country and her ideals on the fields of France. Some of them came back and some of them did not, but all of them stood for an ideal and that ideal had been interpreted by our great War President in the phrase, 'This shall be a war to end a war.'"

"Woodrow Wilson gave himself for this ideal as truly as any of the men who died in France, for whom by his effort to establish a League of Nations, modelled as he had striven to plan it, upon the original league of nations, the United States of America; and distressed by his failure to explain this plan to the American people and to convince them of the necessity of such a course, he died a martyr to a great ideal.

"We must have ideals, every boy and girl in this great school which you have the privilege to attend must endeavor to so attune his life to some ideal that he shall stand for that which shall uplift mankind. May we sum up the ideals of this Armistice Day, which celebrates the end of the war, which we as Americans, at least, fought to end, war, in the words of the poet Tennyson when he speaks of the time

When the war drum throbs no longer, and the battle flag is furled, In the Parliament of man, the federation of the world."

Those of the commercial department who won the silver pins and certificates for the Royal typewriting tests in October are: Hazel Beahm, Lucy Arrington, Treva Holler and Edgar Arey. Lucy Arrington and Edgar Arey also won the gold pins. No more than five errors were made for any of these.

CLIFTON

The Rev. T. H. MacLeod gave the sermon in the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning last and gave the effect pessimists quite a slam in his sermon of cowardly discouraging of right living by the weak and cowardly around us.

Among the week-end visitors were Messrs. Theodore and Ezra Bailey, of Midlothia, with two of their friends, and Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey Ford, of Richmond.

Mrs. W. H. Richards was able to attend church Sunday for the first time for several weeks.

Miss Ruth Richards, who has been staying in the city since November 1, was home Sunday.

The basket ball teams were both defeated last Wednesday when they went to Haymarket, but were both victorious on Friday when they played Fairfax, at Fairfax Court House.

The Home Demonstration Club had their November meeting Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. E. Quigg. Miss Lippard demonstrated several excellent deserts.

Mrs. R. R. Buckley, Mrs. M. A. Detwiler and Miss Helen Quigg spent the week-end in Washington.

Miss Frances Buckley, of Washington, and Mr. Roy Crosen, of Clarendon, were Sunday visitors here.

The School Bell Rings

It's time to get ready for the school day. There are many things that you should do when the school bell rings. Not as nice, of course, as swimming, fishing or playing house, but it has its own pleasures. There are new clothes, new teachers and new books.

noon hour—you will remember what twelve o'clock means to the school child.

Enticing Foods
The contents of the lunch-box must be made as enticing as the game, for it is so important, from a health standpoint, that the school-child should eat a hearty and wholesome lunch to carry through that two o'clock period when his energy is at its lowest ebb. Educators and dieticians have co-operated to select foods to be served at school lunch tables that are brain and body-builders—foods easily digested and energy giving. Guided by their discoveries, then, let us plan a week of menus to pack into the school lunchbox kit.

The Recipes
Ham Loaf Sandwich: Put the contents of a small can of ham loaf through the meat grinder once. Mix it with mayonnaise and spread between two thin slices of white or rye bread.
Cherry Tarts: Line individual tins with puff-paste. Fill them with the contents of a can of cherries sweetened to taste. Put strips of the paste over the top and bake for fifteen minutes in a hot oven. Wrap individually in waxed paper.
Filled Celery: Crisp celery stalks in the ice box. Blend one cup of crushed Hawaiian pineapple, one-half cup of fine-chopped nuts, and one cream cheese, with one small can of deviled ham. Use enough mayonnaise to handle easily. Season with salt and stuff celery stalks with mixture. Wrap in heavy waxed paper.
Olive and Pimento Sandwich: Grind one-half cup of large pitted olives and two canned pimentos through the meat grinder. Spread between buttered slices of graham bread and add a crisp lettuce leaf. Wrap individually.
Dates Stuffed with Peanut Butter: Remove the pits from the well-shaped dates (the canned dates are excellent for this) and insert in the cavities small portions of peanut butter. Roll in fine granulated sugar and set aside to become firm before using.

5,000,000 MEMBERS GOAL OF RED CROSS ANNUAL ROLL CALL

Need of Expansion Due to Excessive Demands for Disaster Relief and Other Services.

A Red Cross membership of 5,000,000 in the United States will be sought this year during the Eleventh Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24, Chairman John Barton Payne announced following completion of a study of the demands which the past year made on all branches of the Red Cross organization.

He stressed particularly the increasing demands of disaster relief as pointing to the need for an increased membership to aid in carrying the growing responsibility in this field. "For several years our membership has remained at a little more than 3,000,000 adults," he said. "We are proud of this membership. It is a body of our choice spirits, but there are many more of like spirit who should be counted in this Roll Call. We need at least 5,000,000 adult members. We are obliged to draw annually upon our reserves, and the demands upon us increase each year. Our Roll Call funds should meet our normal needs and add something to our reserves for the great disasters. We must have a large reserve. No one can tell when a situation may arise when this reserve will be essential to the lives of thousands.

"The Red Cross cannot wait to raise funds," Judge Payne declared. "Action prompt, instant, is its life. Instant action means the lives of many. It must be strong, it must be ready; this means a large reserve." Total expenditures of the American Red Cross in the fiscal year to June 30 last in all fields amounted to $16,139,348.60, of which $11,360,348.60 represented the National Organization's appropriations and $4,779,000 the cost to the Red Cross local chapters. Included in this total was a disaster relief, for which $8,216,893.31 had actually been expended to the close of the year. This does not cover expenditures which continued to be made in the Mississippi Valley flood, or in other disasters originating during the fiscal year but whose operations extended over into the current period.

Service to disabled veterans, another outstanding demand on the organization, called for $2,930,223.56, and service to men of the Regular Army and Navy, $507,532.30. Maintenance of an enrolled Nurses' Reserve, from which the needs of disaster service and other emergencies are met, run which numbers more than 45,000 nurses totalled $45,248.83. For the Public Health Nursing program, a nationwide activity of the Red Cross, $501,068.99 was expended. Other services contributing to health and well-being included instruction in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, for which $165,350.16 was spent; Nutrition Instruction, which teaches thousands annually correct food principles in relation to health, $171,370.73; First Aid and Life Saving, a service which is actually curtailing accident and water casualties, $354,780.06; Junior Red Cross, the children's branch of Red Cross activity, and one of the most unique organizations in the world, $582,434.23.

Other Red Cross Chapter activities, including Home Service to civilians amounted to $1,220,000; while other national domestic operations required $236,147.17.

An outstanding American contribution to the rest of the world is Red Cross assistance in foreign disasters, which the report shows, called for $256,962 to the end of the fiscal year. Activities under the League of Red Cross Societies, Junior Red Cross foreign projects, assistance to American insular chapters, and other foreign and insular work completed the demands on the total appropriation for the year.

These expenditures were cited by Chairman Payne as emphasizing the need for a growing membership and increased income.

Red Cross Nurses Aid In Every Great Disaster

Two major disasters, the Florida hurricane and the Mississippi flood, required the services of Red Cross nurses in large numbers over a long period of time in the past year.

In the Florida storm, service of 350 nurses is recorded. It is estimated that about 100 others assisted in the first few days as volunteers. The total number of nurses in the Mississippi valley flood was approximately 200. In every major disaster the services of Red Cross nurses are needed, lending added importance to the enrolled reserve which now numbers more than 45,000 Red Cross nurses. These nurses are available for any emergency, though they are on duty in hospitals and in private practice. They constitute the reserve of the Army and Navy nurse corps in time of war.

Besides emergency duty, Red Cross nurses assisted materially in many local services, Chapter reports to National Headquarters indicate. The Eleventh Annual Roll Call of the Red Cross, from November 11 to 24, is pointed out, is an opportunity for everyone to become identified with

Capital's Police Women Stand High in First Aid

Members of the Women's Bureau of the District of Columbia police department recently completed the Red Cross first aid course. This is perhaps the first women's group of the kind to be awarded the special first aid arm insignia by the American Red Cross in token of completion of the training.

The Red Cross in the past year qualified 24,812 persons in first aid and awarded certificates to members of police and fire departments, industrial groups and utilities employees all over the United States.

Foreign Calls for Help Answered by Red Cross

Despite the unusual requirements of relief in 77 disasters within the United States, the people of the country, through the American Red Cross, extended relief to sufferers in 20 disasters in foreign lands.

These included hurricanes in the West Indies, desolating portions of Cuba, Santo Domingo, Porto Rico, the Isle of Pines, the Bahamas, and other islands in the group; fires in Haiti and Porto Rico, floods in Mexico and Yugoslavia, earthquakes in Japan, the Azores Islands, Armenia and Albania, and refugees relief operations in Bulgaria, Syria, and China.

During the Eleventh Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24, the American Red Cross will seek a membership of 5,000,000 to keep its disaster relief and other services constantly ready for any call.

14 Disasters at One Time Call for Red Cross Work

The great size of a disaster does not necessarily mean that it has the stage to itself.

The American Red Cross relief forces were impressed with this fact during the Mississippi Valley flood in recent months. While the relief forces were struggling with this greatest of all disasters in United States history, from April to June they were obliged to furnish relief in 21 other emergencies, including 11 tornadoes. In one tornado approximately 17,000 persons were assisted.

At one period the Red Cross was conducting relief operations in 14 disasters simultaneously, scattered over a wide territory.

Citing the continuity of demands on the organization's resources, Chairman John Barton Payne of the Red Cross has announced the need of 5,000,000 adult members as a result of the Roll Call, Nov. 11 to 24.

ADVERTISING THAT LIVES LONGER

When you lock the doors of your store tonight, will your business remain at a standstill until you reopen tomorrow morning?

Your salesmen go home for a night's rest. You try to forget your business cares for a few hours. But there is no reason why you should not be storing up sales for tomorrow.

An advertisement in the weekly newspaper will cause hundreds of people to think of your store tonight, will prevent your business from being forgotten while the doors are locked. People who are reading advertisements tonight will make purchases tomorrow. Night doesn't bring stagnancy in the store whose owner advertises in the weekly newspaper.

You can't send salesmen to local homes at night. They wouldn't be welcomed. But you can have an efficient representative in local homes every night in the year. An advertisement in the weekly newspaper goes into homes you and your salesmen have never visited. It works for you while you and your salesmen are asleep.

Locked doors need not mean suspended activity on your part. The weekly newspaper will find customers for you while your store is dark. People read the weekly newspaper at night as well as in daylight. Let the weekly newspaper prevent people from forgetting you at night.

Advertising in the weekly newspaper Lives Longer—therefore it is the most profitable form of newspaper advertising.

The Manassas Journal is a Weekly Newspaper.

tion of vindictiveness than the treatment given Dr. Wheeler by Senator Reed, unless it were a similar exhibition by this same man toward that great national leader, President Wilson, in the days when he was struggling for the consummation of the great ideals of his administration. I had formed my opinion of Senator Reed on those days, and my contempt was intensified, as, sitting side by side with my friend, Dr. Wheeler, I saw his inconsiderate, heartless, cruel treatment of a man upon whose face the seal of early death was already imprinted. An effort on the part of Mrs. Wheeler and his friends to have a definite hour fixed for Dr. Wheeler's appearance before the committee, because of the state of his health, was rudely, heartlessly repulsed with the off-hand statement that Dr. Wheeler was no better than any one else, and so, Dr. Wheeler was compelled to leave his bed day after day and remain in the committee room under intense physical strain when he should have been at home or in the hospital. It is gratifying to record that after all his efforts to wear out and to brow-beat, Senator Reed more than met his match in the examination, and that he won no victory in his encounter with the able, though even then mortally ill prohibition leader. But the friends of Dr. Wheeler who were with him daily during the ordeal will never forget the heartlessness and vindictiveness of Senator James A. Reed, in his strenuous effort to score against prohibition. It is important that our people know the records of these men.

"At this same time, Senator Reed, under cover of this same Pennsylvania primary investigation, with only a mere technical justification for such procedure, sent men to Westerville to investigate books and records of the Anti-Saloon League of America, and brought the record of the executive committee to Washington, copied by creatures of the Hearst yellow newspapers in the hopes that something might be discovered that might be discreditable to the Christian gentlemen composing that committee, but, which I am glad to say, fell as flat as his efforts to discredit Dr. Wheeler at the public hearing. If such a man should secure the nomination for the presidency of the United States, he should be opposed, not only by all supporters of the prohibition law, but by all lovers of decency and fair play, regardless of party lines.

Discusses Governor.

"But the man who has done more to thwart the purpose behind the passage of the national prohibition law, to neutralize its possible good effects and to encourage the opponents and the violators of the prohibition law is Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York. And practically everything which may be said concerning him is true of Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, who has equal hostile intentions, but less territorial ability, for Governor Ritchie has actively and successfully opposed the passage of any State law enforcement code by the Legislature of Maryland, has denounced the prohibition law and brought about such a reign of lawlessness in Maryland that last week Federal Judge Seper condemned in seething language the failure of the State of Maryland to co-operate in upholding the Constitution, which he remembered Governor Ritchie, as well as Governor Smith, has solemnly sworn to support, and has ignored his oath. Governor Smith has always been opposed to prohibition, state and national. As a local Tammany politician, his record shows that he has been a staunch active friend of the liquor traffic, and a regular consumer of intoxicants, even down to the present day, if the general reports are correct, and the opponent of restrictions of any kind upon the operation of the traffic, openly, ardently yearning for the return of the good old days of the brass rail and the foaming glass (the present ardently 'wet' spotlight Mayor of New York, Honorable Johnnie Walker, openly boasted in a speech 'that the people of New York would be able to have a drink at home' if the man who was five blocks away—Governor Smith—were made the first citizen of the land). The Tammany organization, of which since the death of Charles F. Murphy, Governor Smith is the most prominent leader, has always been an open friend of the saloon, and at the present time at every session of Congress, Tammany lines up its Congressmen from New York to fight in every possible way any legislation designed to make Federal prohibition more effective.

All 'Wets' Stand Together.

When Governor Smith was defeated in 1920 and the New York Legislature ratified the prohibition amendment and passed a good prohibition enforcement act—The Mullin Gage law—The ex-Governor and his followers did what they did to block such action but failed. But when by the united support of Tammany and the great foreign-born 'wet' (Republican as well as Democratic) vote of New York City, Smith was re-elected Governor in 1922, 1924 and 1925, he began his work to nullify the national prohibition law as speedily and as quickly as possible. He had taken the oath of office to 'support' the Constitution of the United States, but he evidently does not consider that this oath includes the eighteenth amendment, for he gave his support to the effort to repeal the Mullin Gage enforcement law, and notwithstanding all appeals to veto the repeal bill, he signed it, and purposely left the great city and State of New York without any local prohibition enforcement law or officers, knowing full well that the Federal government had neither the staff nor the machinery for effective enforcement. He declared at that time and has again declared within the past year that all the police force of the State of New York are under oath to support and to enforce the Constitution of the United States, and that he would dismiss from office those failing to do their duty. But up to this present hour, although the secular press of New York proclaims that the law is not enforced, there is almost daily, with apparent delight no public record that Governor Smith has dismissed anyone from office for failure to support the Constitution of the United States by the non-enforcement of the national prohibition law. In short, Governor Smith has not only endeavored to uphold the eighteenth amendment of the Constitution as he has solemnly taken oath to do for three successive terms, but on the contrary he has done all that he could do to prevent any co-operation in its enforcement by the police force over, he has ostentatiously signed bills calling upon Congress to take action on the prohibition question which the United States Supreme Court had already declared to be unconstitutional.

The positive aggressive action and record, and present attitude of Governor Smith and his 'wet' followers (Republicans as well as Democrats) in the city and State of New York, have greatly affected the enforcement situation throughout the country. The Federal government was compelled to decide to send all its forces and to spend all the appropriation to secure adequate enforcement in New York or to deliberately decide to send only such proportion of its force as was necessary to prevent smuggling into the United States through New York via rum row or the Canada border, to prevent the diversion of industrial and medicinal alcohol and to prevent the smuggling of illicit liquor out of New York into adjacent states, and having done this protective work for other states to leave New York 'to stew in its own juice' of liquor lawlessness and crime. Personally, I wish that the President of the United States had accepted the challenge so ostentatiously thrown down by Governor Smith, and called upon Congress to furnish the men and the money to secure an effective enforcement of the prohibition law in New York State as in any other state in the union. The millions would have been well spent in vindication of the majesty of the national government. But the government appears to have decided to protect the rest of the country from New York's lawlessness, and to let New York suffer for its own sins.

Damage Not Limited.

"But unfortunately the damage resulting from this policy cannot be confined within the boundary of New York. Despite all that can be said and known as to Governor Smith's forcible purpose to nullify the enforcement of the prohibition law in the state of New York, and the effectiveness of his action in this regard; despite the known fact of the absolute domination by Tammany and Governor Smith of the police force of New York City; despite the known fact that 75 per cent of the population of that city is foreign born, or immediately descended; despite all these things the prohibition lawlessness of New York is heralded not only all over the United States, but over the whole world as positive proof that prohibition is a failure, that the law cannot be enforced, and that there must be undisturbed nullification or a modification of the Federal prohibition law, which would leave the enforcement of that law to the several states.

"This poisonous virus has been spread by the 'wet' newspapers of New York, and of other cities, Baltimore, Chicago, St. Louis, etc., which have determined by insidious lawless propaganda to force the will of these 'wet' largely foreign populated cities upon the entire nation. These papers utter no word in favor of law enforcement. They appear, indeed, to exult in the lawlessness of their citizens. Instead of denouncing the smugglers, hijackers, bootleggers and sellers of poisonous liquors they denounce the law, then they denounce the Federal enforcement officials as incompetent, or as grafters; the 'dry' members of Congress as hypocrites, or as seditious sycophants, the Anti-Saloon League officials as tricksters, fanatics, or wild-haired brained enthusiasts and the great church bodies, which indorse prohibition and demand prohibition enforcement, as impractical, misguided idealists. Had these newspapers accepted the law in good faith as the will of the country, expressed by the regular Constitutional methods and had they given as much ability and space in upholding the law and in denunciation, of lawlessness, as they have given to fighting the law, their own communities would be far more law-abiding today and would be enjoying the benefits which have always followed the observance of the law. How absurd it is for a great New York daily to write editorial after editorial against national prohibition, based upon the violation of the prohibition law in New York, when they know that this lawlessness has resulted because Governor Smith and his followers deliberately repealed the state law enforcement code to prevent the enforcement of the law. How worse than absurd, how hypocritical, it is for those same dailies to declare that if Governor Smith should be elected President of the United States and took the oath to uphold and support the Constitution, and to enforce the laws, he would keep his oath of office and would enforce the eighteenth amendment of the national prohibition law, as all other laws, when his record is plain and continuous that, although he has three times since the passage of the national prohibition law, taken the oath to support the Constitution of the United States, yet he has done more than any other one man in the United States to prevent its effective enforcement. How absurd, how suicidal it would be for the prohibition voters of the country to agree to the election of such a man with such a record to be President of the United States, a man who personally favors the use of intoxicants, whose chief friends and supporters favor the use of intoxicants, and are bitterly opposed to the prohibition law, to which is to be added the decisive fact that this man with this record would have the appointment of prohibition enforcement officials, including the justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, the Circuit and Federal judges, the district attorneys and electors of customs, etc. Will a man that has done all in his power to prevent the enforcement of the prohibition law in his own state, although having taken oath three successive times to support it, suddenly take an opposite view of the same oath, should he be elected President of the United States?

"Especially should this be asked in view of the fact that this man, if he should be elected, would be elected because of his 'wet' record alone, would be counted upon to secure him the votes of certain wet sections of the country. To these wet sections of the country the appeal for votes would be based upon Governor Smith's 'wet' nonenforcement records in New York, his advocacy of state determination of the alcoholic content of intoxicants, and of state law enforcement. His only hope of election is based upon the success of this plan, especially with 'wet' republican votes. "But that alone would not secure the election of Governor Smith. Joined to these 'wet' votes there must be support of the moral and religious forces of the Southern States, or Governor Smith cannot be elected, and this support is being demanded on the ground that Governor Smith is the only member of the democratic party who can possibly be elected, even while it is necessarily admitted that he can be elected only because of his 'wet' nonenforcement records, will win enough votes in Northern and Eastern states, which, plus the dry votes of the South, will give a majority.

A Perilous Situation.

"This is a perilous situation, which faces us today as a body of Christian men and women. It is proposed that conscientious dry voters will consent to support a man for the President of the United States, who, from boyhood, has been trained by Tammany, has been all his public life a representative, and is now the leading representative of that usually corrupt, always un-American organization, which fought Tilden, Cleveland, Bryan and Wilson; a man who himself uses intoxicating liquor, who has always defended the liquor traffic and fought all forms of restrictive and prohibition legislation, who has done everything possible to render the prohibition law ineffective in the great state of New York, and who, if at the head of the Federal government, would not, and could not, be expected to have any more sympathy with prohibition or its enforcement than he has today.

"The Episcopal address of 1926 declares: 'The industrial, social, educational, moral and religious forces of the nations, which overthrow the legalized liquor traffic and secured national prohibition must unite in the fight with equal vigor and persistence against the outlawed criminal traffic and the would-be nullifiers of the law.'

"If we agree with that sentiment, we must declare that we are here today not as democrats or republicans. We are here as representatives of a part of the moral and religious forces of this ancient historic Commonwealth. We have labored earnestly and fought persistently for these long years to secure the enactment of the greatest piece of social legislation ever adopted by any age in any country. The time has come to give solemn, positive warning to the leaders of both political parties that we will not support any man, democrat or republican, for the presidency of the United States, who has the record or who holds the views of men like Senator Reed, President Nicholas M. Butler, Governor Smith or Governor Ritchie; aye, more than that we pledge ourselves to fight vigorously and unitedly to prevent the election of any such men. This is not a matter of partisan politics. This is a great moral issue, which far transcends any question of tariff, finances, foreign policy, etc. This is a question that touches the everyday life of all our people, our homes, our schools, our business, our churches; therefore, we absolutely refuse to surrender our convictions to this great moral question to aid in securing a purely political party triumph in the selection of a President, democrat or republican to the final success of the beneficent, whose election would be a menace, salutary prohibition law.

"Therefore, we most earnestly demand not only that the delegates from Virginia to both nominating conventions, use their influence to defeat the nomination of men of the type of Butler, Reed, Smith, and Ritchie, but that they also use their active influence to secure the nomination of men whose record will insure their active support of the enforcement of the prohibition laws. We positively declare that we will hold our political leaders of both parties responsible for the proper representation in the nominating conventions of the views of the moral, religious forces of our state."
