BOY ROBBERS GO BACK TO JAIL

Court Agrees on One-Year Sentence and Fines in View of Prisoners' Youth.

Three youths arrested last June in connection with the robbery of the store of Rector and Son on the Richmond-Washington highway near Dumfries, were tried in the circuit court here on Monday before Judge Samuel G. Brent and sentenced to one year in jail and fines of $300 each plus court costs amounting to about $200 apiece. They were charged specifically with tying and gagging "Donnie" Rector and robbing the place of money and merchandise valued at about $58.

The boys, all hailing from New York, are Joseph Piazza, 16, Rosario Salici, 18, and John Marino, 18. Judge Brent, addressing them at the time of their sentence, said that there might be doubt of the wisdom of letting them off so lightly, but that in view of their youth he was willing to act upon the advice of Commonwealth's Attorney Lion and give them a chance to make an early start toward being good citizens once more. The boys having been in jail since their arrest will be credited with the 241 days already served.

A special election in Gainesville district was set for March 27 to consider a bond issue of $40,000 for the erection of a new school building. Seventeen acres of land lying between Gainesville and Haymarket have been purchased from Mr. M. Bruce Whitmore, of Manassas, subject to the success of the bond issue.

Court adjourned from Monday to today and will be idle again until Tuesday.

A summary of Monday's business follows:

Common Law.

Order for special election in Gainesville district on March 27 to pass upon a proposed bond issue of $40,000 for the erection of a new school building approved by the county school board, board of supervisors and state department of education.

COURT DECLINES TO REAPPOINT DUVAL

Judge Accepts Recommendation of Supervisors, Sheriff and Attorney Lion.

A petition to reappoint former Prohibition Officer R. H. Duval, whose services were dispensed with by order of the January meeting of the county board of supervisors, was presented to the circuit court on Monday and denied by Judge Brent who stated that his action was dictated by recommendations of the board of supervisors, sheriff and attorney for the commonwealth. The supervisors decided to abandon the plan of paying out $1,680 a year to two special officers, and in its place to increase the sheriff's salary from $700 to $1,200 a year, the sheriff to acquire the services of "desirable deputies." It has been suggested that "desirable" in this case means acceptable to the dry interests.

It is understood that the main reason for such a change is its economic aspect. Officer Duval's monthly salary of $100 was made up from $75 of county money plus $25 from the state, while no part of the fines imposed accrued to the county, every cent going to the state.

The February court record so far has no reference to the matter.

FOR POPULAR VOTE ON SHORT BALLOT

Delegate Chichester Prefers to Submit Pending Questions to the Voters.

Stating that while he personally was inclined to oppose the short ballot, D. M. Chichester, representative of Stafford and Prince William in the House of Delegates, said he believed the people of the state should have a voice in the decision of the questions now pending and for that reason he would vote to refer the question as an amendment to the constitution to the people of Virginia at the elections next fall.

The bill referring the question passed the Senate last week and will come before the House in a few days. Under its provisions the ballot now used by the people in voting would be shortened by making some of the now elective State officers appointive and giving the Governor power to name them. The only officers it would affect are the Commissioner of Agriculture, the Secretary of the Commonwealth and the Superintendent of Public Instruction. Under the provisions of the amendment, if passed, the Governor would appoint these officers just as the president of the United States now appoints the members of his cabinet.

PRESBYTERIAN PROGRAM

An interesting program, including readings, music and a play, was given in the Sunday School room of the Presbyterian Church Tuesday evening by Circle No. 1 of the Presbyterian Missionary Society. The play, "Dr. Adams and His Patients," was directed by Mrs. Sigman, who played the part of the doctor. Miss Grammer took the part of the nurse; Mrs. D. R. Lewis, the maid, and the patients were: Misses Lucy Arington, Anna Bruce Whitmore, Virginia Conner, Edythe Wilfong, Frances Bushong and Jane Walter and Mrs. Walter Sadd. The program was composed of readings by Miss Adrienne Vernon and Mr. Worth H. Storke, vocal numbers by Miss Gladys Ball and piano music by Miss India Flynn.

"A Hoodooed Coon," a three-act comedy, is to be presented at the high school auditorium on Wednesday, February 29, under the direction of Mr. C. W. Boyles. Franklin Hibbs plays the title role of "Misery," who is always in trouble. "Hibby" has quite a reputation as a comedian and is expected to make a fine success of the part.

MISS ANNIE JOHNSON DIES AT CLOVER HILL

Member of Old Prince William Family Buried on Tuesday in Family Cemetery.

Miss Annie Miller Johnson, a life-time resident of Prince William county, died early Monday morning following a week's illness due to paralysis and complications. Her death occurred at Clover Hill Farm, the old Johnson home where she was born on October 13, 1850, and where she had spent her entire life with the exception of the time that the family "refugeed" south during the war between the states. Miss Johnson was a daughter of Joseph Johnson and Emily Eliza Wheatley Johnson, and was the last surviving member of her immediate family. She leaves a number of nephews and nieces including Mrs. Egbert Harrell and Messrs. Lee and Ralph Johnson, of Manassas; Mrs. G. A. Hutchison, of Aldie, and the five children of the late Joseph B. Johnson, of Clover Hill.

Funeral services were held from her late home on Tuesday afternoon and interment was made in the family burying ground. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. Stuart Gibson.

Among the out-of-town relatives here for the funeral were: Mr. J. Hendley Johnson, of Kingsport, Tenn.; Mr. Joseph F. Gulick, of Chevy Chase, D. C.; Mrs. M. H. Lightner, of Haymarket; Miss Clara Lamb, of Lincoln, and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Hutchison, of Aldie.

LADIES SPEAK BEFORE W. C. T. U.

Flint Hill Visitor to Local Union Gives Inspiring Talk—Other Numbers.

(Mrs. Emma J. Harrell, Secretary)

The W. C. T. U. observed "Willard Memorial fund day," at the home of Miss Maggie Smith on Wednesday afternoon. The meeting opened with the singing of "America, the Beautiful," and after scripture reading by the vice-president, Mrs. J. Halpenny, and prayer by Rev. Mr. Halpenny, the roll was called and each member responded with a quotation from speeches of Frances E. Willard. Then followed readings on the life and work of Frances Willard and the purpose of the memorial fund.

Mrs. Thomas G. Pullen, of Flint Hill, gave a very inspiring talk. She spoke of our great heritage, of Frances Willard and of many other noble women who have done much for the temperance cause and have gone on to their reward. She said that the time has come when we must lay aside party and stand for principle. She made a plea to all present to do all in their power to uphold the great cause of prohibition and not to neglect to vote; and to vote always for the dry man. She said if all Christians and church members would do all in their power for prohibition it would win out easily.

Mrs. K. L. Sadd gave a fine paper on "Answering the Call." "Are we answering the call in our homes, in our schools, in our lives?" she asked. "Are we doing all we can for the great cause of prohibition?"

Among others who took part were Mrs. T. R. Bywaters, Mrs. B. T. Hodge, Mrs. George D. Baker and Mrs. J. L. Gorrell. All of the talks and papers were helpful and inspiring. The program was interspersed with several poems and music and all left voting it one of the very best meetings we have ever had.

There was a full congregation at Trinity Church Sunday evening when Dr. W. W. Ellsworth, who was giving a series of lectures at Swavely School, spoke on "The Making of the Bible."

BOTH HIGH TEAMS WIN BASKET BALL CONTESTS

Manassas Girls and Boys Victorious Over Leesburg Outfits Friday.

Again on Friday our basket ball teams were victorious. This time they won both games from Leesburg. The girls' game was very well played, with a final score of 22-14 in favor of Manassas. The boys' game was much better than the score 48-5 might indicate. The Leesburg boys played a fast game, with good pass work, but the Manassas boys had the edge on them. The Manassas boys simply smothered their opponents by the best exhibition of guarding they have shown this year.

This game was the best attended game of the season thus far. We wish to thank our friends for their splendid support, and hope to see them this Friday night when we play Warrenton on our home floor.

For the second time the games were late in starting. This was due to the fact that part of the Leesburg team got lost and went alone to Warrenton before finding out where they were. We have made a special effort to explain to Warrenton the embarrassment which has been caused by the late arrival of our visiting teams; and they assure us that they will be here in plenty of time to start the game on time Friday night.

Elsewhere in this issue of The Journal is an advertisement of the Warrenton game.

BARRETT'S HERD HEADS COW LIST

January Leaders Produce Average of 1062 lbs. Milk and 37.77 lbs. Fat.

(C. E. Muddiman, Official Tester)

John Barrett's herd of 29 grade Holstein, Guernsey and Jerseys led the Prince William Cow-Testing Association for January with an average of 1062 lbs. of milk and 37.77 lbs. of butterfat.

The total production of the association was 503988 lbs. of milk and 17445 pounds of butterfat, making an average of 722.4 pounds of milk and 24.99 pounds of butterfat. This average would be better if there were some more unprofitable cows sold, as there were 20 sold during January.

During the month 698 cows were tested, of this number 71 were dry and 15 produced 50 or more pounds of butterfat.

The following is a list of the cows producing 50 or more pounds of butterfat:

SHOOTS WOMAN AND TURNS GUN ON SELF

Aurelius Sullivan Dies While Woman He Was to Marry Recovers Rapidly.

Insanely jealous over Mrs. Mary E. Richards, 33 years old, with whom he boarded, Aurelius Sullivan, 46, a divorced man, shot Mrs. Richards in the right side of her face in an effort to end her life and then turned the weapon on himself, firing a bullet through his right temple and blowing out his brains, says the Alexandria Gazette of Wednesday. Mr. Sullivan died a few hours later and Mrs. Richards is recovering rapidly.

Mr. Sullivan was a photographer who lived in Manassas last summer. The double shooting occurred in the small apartment of Mrs. Richards in Alexandria. Discussing the matter with a representative of the Gazette, Mrs. Richards declared she was getting a divorce from her husband, now said to be in Tennessee, and it was her intention to marry Mr. Sullivan, who was employed as a night watchman, at the Fruit Growers' Express.

Mrs. Richards is a native of Orange county and Mr. Sullivan came from Spotsylvania. She has three children, aged 11, nine and five. Sullivan was said to have been divorced 19 years ago.

SWAVELY QUINT BOOSTS WINNING STREAK TO FIVE

Warrenton Loses to Local Basketers—Arnold and Aman Star for Victors.

By defeating Warrenton High School at Warrenton last Friday, the Swavely basket ball team posted its string of victories up to five.

The game was fast and exciting, although the final score was 38 to 12. The Warrenton players seemed unable to pass through the strong Swavely defense, but time and again scored on apparently impossible shots from the center of the floor.

Arnold displayed his usual talent in defensive work for Swavely, while Aman starred on the offensive.

E. P. ROBERTSON DEAD

Everett P. Robertson, who operated a general store at Bristow for many years, died early Friday morning in a Washington hospital after an illness lasting nearly two years. His body was brought back to Bristow on Sunday and funeral services were held at the Methodist Church, the Rev. Mr. Smith officiating.

Mr. Robertson was 49 years old and, with the exception of the last year in Washington, had spent his entire life at Bristow. He was the son of Basil and Elizabeth Robertson and is survived by his mother, his wife, who was Miss Hattie Herndon, two children and a brother, Mr. Henry Robertson, of Washington.

PARRISH BADLY HURT

Capt. Harry N. Parrish, of Jefferson Park, Southern railway conductor who lived in Manassas a few years ago, lost his left leg in a tragic accident at Alexandria today. Capt. Parrish fell while attempting to board a train. It is understood that his left leg was so badly mangled that amputation was necessary. His right leg also suffered serious injury.

SOLONS BUSY AT STATE CAPITOL

Senate Votes More Pay for Judges—Half-way Mark Already Passed.

A bill giving the circuit court judges of Virginia $4,500 per annum was adopted by the state Senate on Friday. The original bill asked for $5,000 and an effort was made on the Senate floor to cut it down to $4,200. Other bills designed to increase the salaries of judges of the state Supreme Court of Appeals and to raise the per diem fees of jurors in civil and criminal cases weathered the storm in the Senate and were sent to the House for concurrence. Efforts were made to defeat the bill for raising the compensation of jurors in criminal cases, on the ground that such a measure would have the effect of disturbing the Governor's budget.

Supreme Court judges under one of the bills will receive $600 more per annum, raising the salary of the president of the court to $6,800 and the salary of the other three judges to $6,600.

Senator Wickham, of Hanover, attacked the Smith bill fixing criminal jury fees at $2 (the bill originally asked $3), instead of the $1.50 now paid.

The bill appropriating $10,000 from the game protection fund for a survey of disputed boundary line between Maryland and Virginia and for the placing of permanent markers at points approved by Federal authorities was reported favorably out of committee and placed on the calendar.

Favorable action also was reported by the committee on a proposed appropriation of $300 for a portrait of former Governor Andrew Jackson Montague, now representative in Congress from the third congressional district. The portrait is to take its place in the State Library with the portraits of other Virginia governors throughout the history of the state.

The administration bill placing an additional half-cent tax on gasoline, making the total tax five cents a gallon, was introduced and referred to committee. This bill would require dealers, firms and corporations to furnish reports of wholesale and retail prices and does not exempt oil and gasoline distributing companies from payment of the tax on gas consumed by their machines in distribution. Penalty for failure to comply with the provisions of the law would be a fine of $1,000.

An anti-lynching bill drafted after the recommendations of the Governor and providing for financial indemnity by localities to relatives of the lynching victim also was introduced.

The committee on agriculture, mining and manufacturing has deferred action on the Watkins bill prohibiting the sale of milk by state institutions in competition with private dealers and requiring that any surplus over the consumption needs at the state farm and reformatories be converted into butter and cheese and sold to the best advantage on the open market. The hearing lasted more than two hours, private dairy interests, farmers and representatives of the various state institutions filling the legislative hall. Supt. Penn of the State Farm testified that an appropriation of $68,000 would be necessary to take care of the deficiency if the bill was passed.

Friday also saw a heated hearing before the Senate courts and justices committee of the Price bill to define Indians and ne-

WHEN WILL THIS OIL SCANDAL END?

No more pitiable spectacle has ever confronted the American people than the utter impotency of the Seventieth Congress in its effort to pierce the cloud of infamy surrounding the leasing of the nation's valuable oil lands to privately owned corporations, as a result of which Albert B. Fall, then Secretary of the Interior in the Harding cabinet, profited to the extent of at least $230,000. The case has dragged along through the Coolidge administration, has involved the executive, judicial and legislative branches of the government, has cost the nation thousands upon many thousands of dollars and is adding other thousands daily, and has marked out a trail of corruption and crime that has reached into many of the highways and byways of life. The nation has gotten back its oil lands but practically no progress has been made toward a proper punishment of the culprits.

A great detective agency brazenly admits that it was paid to shadow the jury during the recent mistrial of the case against Fall and Sinclair. Robert W. Stewart, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, defies the United States Senate to force him to tell what became of the three million dollar profits made by the Continental Trading Company, a dummy formed to handle certain phases of the oil deal, and when that high body seeks to arraign him for contempt, a supreme court justice steps in and delivers him—temporarily at least, from the hands of the irate Senators. The same justice calmly announces that it will require a couple of weeks to pass on the merits of the case—a matter which a business man would probably decide within an hour. So, continuance follows continuance and one trail just leads on into another, and the Lord only knows when and where it will end.

This much is certain—the rank and file of the public is sick of the whole business. If powerful financial interests can commit acts of this sort and defy punishment because of the many convenient loopholes in our American law, why not just say so and call it quits. It certainly seems a useless waste of good money to multiply investigations and trials if there is absolutely no hope of putting any of the criminals in prison. And who expects to live long enough to see any of the oil crowd in jail?

AN IDEAL LOCATION FOR AN AVIATION SCHOOL

A press dispatch states that Colonel "Billy" Mitchell and some unnamed associates are contemplating the establishment of a flying school "somewhere near Washington." The inference is that the exact location of the field has not been fully determined. In the event that the gallant colonel has not already considered the many excellent advantages which Manassas offers for such an enterprise, we are taking the liberty of calling these to his attention.

There are a number of splendid fields near the town where sufficient land can be obtained at very reasonable cost, and the soil of Prince William is well adapted to the kind of treatment necessary to provide a safe landing field. The town's railroad facilities and highway connections are all that can be desired, and in the town itself the enterprise will find the kind of co-operation which will smooth out many of the difficulties which will naturally be encountered wherever it is located.

The Journal believes a few influential citizens of Manassas can perform a fine service by calling on Colonel Mitchell and talking the matter over with him.

CURRENT HUMOUR

Now He's A Hero.

Drug Store Clerk (excitedly): "O, sir, there's a Scotchman out there who wants to buy ten cents' worth of poison to commit suicide. How can I save him?"

The Boss: "Tell him it'll cost twenty cents."

"A moth leads an awful life."

"How so?"

"He spends the summer in a fur coat and the winter in a bathing suit."—The Boys' Monthly.

Yes, Indeed!

"I can't get along with my wife."

"Why not?"

"All she does is ignore me."

"Ignore you?"

"Yes, and if there's anything I dislike, it's ignorance."

"Now, that you've seen my son and heir," said the proud young father. "Which side of the house do you think he resembles?"

"Well," said his astonished bachelor friend. "His full beauty isn't developed yet but surely you don't suggest that he—er—looks like the side of a house. Do you?"

"A small girl asked her mother: 'If I grow up, will I have a husband like papa?'"

"Yes my dear." Mother replied. "And if I do not get married will I be an old maid like Aunt Susan?"

"Yes," was the reply.

The little girl thought for a minute.

"Well, I am in a fix."

"I want to divorce my husband," announced a fair client.

"For cruelty?" Asked the attorney.

"No I just don't like him."

"I'm afraid that isn't sufficient grounds for divorce."

"I'll just have to shoot him."

"I'll just have to shoot him then. I suppose."

The movie theater owner had just insured his place against fire. As he signed his name he turned to the insurance agent and asked:

"What would I get if my theater was to burn down tomorrow?"

"Oh I should say about 10 years," replied the insurance man, nonchalantly.

He Should Know.

"Hadden't you better go and tell your master?" said the motorist to the farmer's boy, who stood looking at the load of hay upset in the lane by a collision.

"He knows," replied the boy.

"Knows? How can he know?"

"Cos 'e's under the 'ay."

Sane Enough.

An old lady, visiting an insane asylum, observed the lunatics at work. One man was standing in a corner, idle.

"My good man," inquired the O. L., "why don't you work?"

"Aren't you crazy?"

"Yes, mum, but not that crazy," the man replied.

"Say, waiter, I ordered strawberry shortcake and you brought me a plate of strawberries. Where's the cake?"

"Well, suh, that's whut we is short of."

"Are you determined to neck?"

"Yes, I got my head set on it."

NEWS OF WEEK IN OLD VIRGINIA

High Lights of Happenings in State Told in Short Paragraphs

Attorney Blackjacked.

Richmond.—W. Watt Mayo, Commonwealth's Attorney of Westmoreland county, was blackjacked and badly beaten late Friday afternoon by a band of six bootleggers whom he attempted to intercept at McGuire's Ferry, on the Potomac river. At a late hour Friday night, Mr. Mayo was unable to give a coherent account of the affairs. Doctors said that while he was unmercifully beaten over the head by the bootleggers it was not thought that he was mortally injured.

Mr. Mayo is understood to have gone to McGuire's ferry alone upon receipt of information that liquor laden cars were heading for that point. He came upon the band while the ferry was in the stream. He immediately undertook to place the rum runners under arrest. As he approached one of the cars he was set upon by the men in the party, two of whom are said to have used blackjacks in the ensuing fight. Mayo was beaten almost into insensibility before a number of citizens near the scene observed his plight. As they rushed to his assistance the band leaped into two of their own cars and Mr. Mayo's machine and headed toward Warsaw, reaching the latter point before officers in the town had been advised of their approach. Medical aid was summoned for Mr. Mayo. His injuries were such as to necessitate the taking of several stitches in his scalp.

Storm Hits Valley.

Harrisonburg.—A score of residences and barns unroofed and silos, trees and communication lines damaged was the toll taken in Rockingham county by the twenty-four-hour windstorm which at times reached a velocity of sixty miles an hour last week. The fury of the winds was especially damaging in the vicinity of Timberville, Singers Glen and Broadway.

Judge Scott Succumbs.

Warrenton.—Judge R. Carter Scott, died in Richmond Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The sad news was not unexpected as Judge Scott had been critically ill in a Richmond hospital for the last four weeks, and his physicians had given no hope for his recovery.

He was the eldest son of the late Major Robert Taylor Scott and Mrs. Fannie Carter Scott, of Warrenton, and was sixty-eight years old. He inherited legal talent from his father, his grandfather, Robert Eden Scott, considered one of the greatest lawyers of his generation. Judge Scott had lived in Richmond since early manhood and will be buried there. He had recently been re-elected to the judgeship for a term of eight years; he was also active in church work.

Judge Scott leaves his wife, two daughters and two sons, two sisters, Mrs. John Keith, of Warrenton, and Mrs. L. R. Hardin, of Washington, and many near relatives and friends.

Moore Presents Book.

Warrenton.—The new book, "Art and Artists of the Capitol of the United States," by Charles E. Fairman, has been presented to the Warrenton Library by Hon. R. Walton Moore. The book has been compiled by Mr. Fairman, Curator of Art in the Capitol, and is the work of thirty years. It is beautifully illustrated and invaluable for study and reference. The first edition was given to the members of Congress for distribution.

Champion Corn Grower.

Fredericksburg.—Richard Mason, fifteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Mason, of Spotsylvania county, has just received notice that he was winner over all 4-H club members of Virginia in the competition for largest corn production per acre, and has been awarded the $50 prize offered by a firm of fertilizer manufacturers. Young Mason's yield was 123 bushels on a single acre. Complete production records were kept under the supervision of County Agent Linthicum. A large number of the best junior corn raisers in Virginia entered the competition.

Postmasters Selected.

Nominations of twenty-two Virginia postmasters have been sent to the Senate by President Coolidge. Among those on the list are: Leesburg, Frank D. Paul; Marshall, Rodney F. Woodward; Warrenton, John B. Grayson; Harrisonburg, Charles A. Hammer, and Bridgewater, James A. Riddel.

State Convention Plans.

The State Democratic Committee will meet soon to fix a place for the holding of the next state convention which is to select delegates to the national convention at Houston, Texas. There is some sentiment for the city of Staunton.

April Weddings.

Fredericksburg.—Two weddings of exceptional interest have been announced to take place some time in April. Miss Katherine Vera Aldridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Aldridge, will become the bride of Mr. Clinton Lee Folmer, of Baltimore, and Miss Elizabeth Doswell Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar M. Young, will marry Edward Jackson Eggborn, of Culpeper.

Part of Road to Close.

Shenandoah.—The Lee Highway from the top of the Blue Ridge mountains to Sperryville, which will be built this year, will be closed to all traffic after February 15, according to information received here. The closing of the route over the mountain to make possible the speedy building of the route will mean a detour of over fifty miles from Sperryville into Luray, the detour being by way of Front Royal. Eight months is figured as the period needed to complete the route, which is to be built by convict labor.

HANES MAY RUN FOR CONGRESS

Clifton Forge Review Under- takes Serious Appraisal of Current Rumor.

The rumor that Mr. H. Earleton Hanes, of Fairfax county, is to oppose Hon. R. Walton Moore at the next Congressional election, is treated at length in this editorial from the Clifton Forge Review edited by Mr. George O. Greene:

MR. HANES FOR CONGRESS

H. Earleton Hanes, who is serving his second term as a member of the House of Delegates from Fairfax county, is understood to have congressional aspirations. Two years or more ago he won in the race for the legislature over stiff opposition and again last year he had arrayed against him any number of influential citizens and officeholders, but when the votes were counted Mr. Hanes had a majority around one thousand in a county that ordinarily polls around fifteen hundred or two thousand votes. We have not the figures at hand showing the result in the last campaign in which Mr. Hanes came out victorious, but we are led to believe that he routed his political enemies in every precinct. To be sure, this newspaper is not directly interested in the affairs of the Eighth district, but in the event that Mr. Hanes should yield to the pressure being brought to bear and enters the race for the seat in Congress now occupied by R. Walton Moore he would most assuredly make it interesting for those opposing him. The district in question takes in the city of Alexandria and the counties of Fairfax, Loudoun, Arlington, Fauquier, Culpeper, Orange, Louisa, King George, Stafford and Prince William. Congressman Moore like Mr. Hanes, is a citizen of Fairfax county, and a contest between the two would prove highly interesting. It has been our observation that Mr. Hanes has made his county a faithful representative. He is punctual in his attendance at all of the sessions, open and frank when it comes to expressing an opinion on matters that come up for debate and fearless in his votes on the various issues affecting the public good.

"Mr. Hanes impresses us as a man who desires to do the square thing by his people and his friends claim that if elevated to a seat in Congress that he would serve the Eighth district as faithfully as he now looks after the welfare of his people in his home county in a much smaller legislative body. It is no small honor to represent any of the ten districts of Virginia in the national House of Representatives, and it is for this reason that the friends of the gentleman under discussion desire to promote him at the earliest opportunity. This coming August the Democrats will nominate their candidates for Congress in the ten districts referred to and it need surprise no one to see Mr. Hanes in the heat of the campaign preceding the primary election in his district with thousands of good and true citizens backing his candidacy. As to the outcome we are not prepared to say, but we do know that his friends will be sorely disappointed should he fail to win. For a year or two Mr. Hanes has been considered seriously as a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, but it is our understanding that he prefers to represent the Eighth district in Congress and will at the proper time give notice of his candidacy. Having been thrown with this gentleman a great deal in recent years, we must say that he impresses us as sincere and eager to secure the best within his power for the people he represents, and this we believe will be his policy if sent to Congress from the Eighth district."

PLANS MIXED MARRIAGE

A 19-year-old girl who claims Mayflower ancestry has announced her intention to marry a negro dye house employee, says a news dispatch from Rockville, Conn. The girl, Miss Beatrice Fuller, Saturday filed her intentions with the town clerk to marry Clarence Kellem, whose father was a negro and whose mother is white. The girl said she was marrying the negro for the sake of her own happiness and that her mother, an invalid, had sanctioned the approaching nuptials although she did not approve them.

WRIGHT PLANE GOES ABROAD

Original Biplane of 1903 to Be Exhibited Now In British Museum.

The original Wright biplane in which the first successful flight was made at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903, has been shipped to the British National Museum at London to be placed on exhibition for an indefinite period. The plane left Orville Wright's laboratory at Dayton, Ohio, secretly, and is en route to England. Mr. Wright refused to discuss the matter further than to confirm shipment.

The craft will remain in England at least a year, the contract for its housing in the museum originally being written so that it would remain abroad six years.

Recently a movement was started with the completion of Wright Field, the engineering division of the Army Air Corps, to have the original Wright plane housed in a memorial building to be erected on the field in tribute to the achievements of the Wright brothers.

Orville Wright about two years ago had planned to present the original plane to the Smithsonian Institute at Washington for permanent exhibition purposes. A controversy arose with the museum officials relative to the proper designation of the plane. Mr. Wright objected to a tag being placed on the first Langley plane now on exhibition in the museum, which classes it as "the first plane to make a successful flight."

Because museum officials declined to change such designation, Mr. Wright shortly afterward contracted with the British museum for the housing of the plane.

While Mr. Wright declined to discuss the shipping of the plane abroad, close friends stated they believed that at the expiration of the contract period the plane will be returned to the United States.—Exchange.

STUDEBAKER

The Great Independent

Behind every Studebaker and Erskine car are $105,000,000 in actual set assets and great modern research and engineering facilities.

Behind Studebaker Performance Records —engineering genius!

AS a result of the engineering genius in Studebaker motor cars, Studebaker now holds all the highest endurance and speed records for fully equipped stock cars, regardless of power or price. Nothing ever ran so far so fast as the Studebaker Commander—25,000 miles in less than 23,000 minutes!

Additional proof of advanced engineering is found in the fact that Studebaker and Erskine cars may be driven 40-miles-per-hour the day they are delivered. No more tedious "breaking-in" at 20-mile speed. And Studebaker engineers have provided such an ingenious lubricating system that you need change oil but once every 2500 miles.

Studebaker provides its engineering and research staff with the most complete facilities that money can buy. In Studebaker's laboratories, technicians test all raw materials. Over the roads and grades of Studebaker's million-dollar Proving Ground, Studebaker and Erskine models are driven in extended tests of speed and mechanical endurance.

Because Studebaker builds bodies, engines and chassis for Studebaker cars, profits of outside manufacturers are reduced to a minimum. These savings are passed on to you in the form of higher quality materials and the highest type of precision workmanship—at a low One-Price plan.

See the new Studebakers. They will reveal the most advanced engineering of 1928 combined with Studebaker's 76-year-old traditions of quality.

OUTLINES PLANS FOR TRADE STUDY

Commerce Between Hampton Roads and United Kingdom to Be Studied.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 8.—Plans for an exhaustive study of the commercial possibilities of trade between Hampton Roads and the United Kingdom were outlined here by J. Gordon Bohannon, chairman of the committee on Hampton Roads Development of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce after a conference with the managing director of the organization.

"With the aid of the research department of the Chamber," Mr. Bohannon said in outlining his plans, "it is proposed that a study be made of the principal exports to United Kingdom from Virginia and secondly, the area served by the Port of Hampton Roads other than Virginia. This would show first the nature and quality of the articles being exported, and secondly the points of origin and the destination, the port to which it is shipped, whether it is a raw, semi-finished or finished product, whether shipment is seasonal or constant, the ports through which the shipments moved in export what quantity handled through each, the steamship lines handling the shipment and the route from the points of origin to the port of shipment.

"At the same time it is proposed that a study be made of the principal imports from the United Kingdom, first to Virginia and secondly to the area served by the Port of Hampton Roads other than Virginia. This would show first, the nature, quality and value of the imports, the points of destination, the use to which the imports are put, whether the shipments are seasonal or constant, the ports of actual entry in America, the steamship lines handling the commodities, and the route from the ports of actual entry to the points of use or sale.

"A comparison will be made of the service between United Kingdom ports and the Port of Hampton Roads, and the same ports and competing ports, involving sailings, facilities for handling and dispatching freight, railroad service to and from the port, rates to and from the port, time of crossing, character of ships, port charges, ocean rates, marine insurance rates, banking facilities etc.

"With this information in hand, both the strength of the position of the Port of Hampton Roads with reference to its trade with United Kingdom and its weakness will be revealed.

"The trade between the Middle West and the ports of England, Scotland, and Ireland is increasing, and will continue to increase with the industrial expansion within that territory. The position of Hampton Roads and its advantages make it the logical port of entrance and exit. The data secured as the result of the study of trade with the United Kingdom, will be employed in the development of the business between this area of America and the United Kingdom. The Committee learns with much interest of the proposed visit of representatives from the Middle West territory to the Port of Area and believes that the opportunities of such a visit will afford them to learn at first-hand of the advantages of the port, as they relate to the transportation problems of their own sections, and will result in much good.

"The Latin-American countries afford probably the greatest potential trade territory of the world today. The Committee believes that the same study with reference to imports and exports from the countries of South and Central America should be pursued as is outlined above with reference to the United Kingdom. Because of the broad scope of such an investigation, it is believed that, for the present, such study should be concentrated upon Brazil and upon a few of the products of that country, such for instance, as coffee, cocoa beans, rubber, and others of like importance.

"The results of the investigation suggested, when obtained, should be placed in the hands of those who can use them to the best advantage in improving the facilities and service and in increasing the business of the port.

New Marquillo Wheat Is Rust Resistant

Seed Not to Be Distributed Before 1929.

Marquillo wheat, the new highly rust-resistant variety developed by the Minnesota agricultural station, will not be distributed before 1929.

This announcement is made by the Minnesota station to correct an impression that has gone abroad in some quarters that the seed is already being distributed.

There is available for seed next year only 125 bushels of this new variety, and the experiment station staff believes that the best results will be obtained if this seed is reserved and again grown on the experiment station farms in 1928, in order to make sure of the preservation of the seed stock and of the production of a sufficient quantity of genuine Marquillo wheat to insure wide distribution in the spring of 1929. There is in the state no genuine stock of this variety, recognized by experiment station officials, except that in possession of the experiment station.

The variety is the result of a cross, made at University farm, between Marquis, the standard bread wheat of the Northwest, and Lumilo, a durum wheat. It is highly rust-resistant and of good milling quality. The aim is to get it into the hands of careful farmers in 1929 to be increased for seed purposes so that the seed may be certified and given wide distribution.

Machinery Will Reduce Expense of Farm Labor

The farmer who struggles along with poor seed, poor ground and poor equipment is paying for good seed, fertilizer, and good equipment whether he owns them or not. He pays because he cannot compete on even ground with the progressive farmer who uses all the means at his command for increasing his yield and lowering his labor costs by using mechanical helpers. The price he pays is a smaller income and denial of the things an increased income would buy.

Better farm life is the goal of all who are engaged in, or truly interested in, agriculture. This goal has been reached by many, others are rapidly achieving it, while far too many think that the future holds nothing in store for them, and use the means within their grasp. Every one will agree that the progress in the development and use of agriculture has been due in large measure to the development and use of machinery. The very fact that man has become a director of power instead of a source of power has an uplifting effect on his nature.

A real desire for better living is the first essential in securing it. Having this desire, the next thing is to obtain an income large enough to provide it. It is here that proper equipment plays its part by reducing the cost of producing farm products and by increasing the amount that the individual worker produces.

Manure Best Reinforced With Acid Phosphate

Manure is a great thing for the land, but it's a still better thing if reinforced with acid phosphate. Alone, manure doesn't make a balanced ration for the crops. Adding acid phosphate to it is like giving a little grain to a cow that's already doing well on clover and silage. It jumps up the returns to an amount far greater than the cost.

Thus, at the Ohio station, "The use of 40 pounds of acid phosphate on each of eight loads of manure per acre applied ahead of the corn, in a corn, wheat and clover rotation, has increased the corn seven bushels, the wheat five bushels, and the clover one-half ton over the yields where the same amount of manure but no phosphate was used."

If you are top-dressing winter wheat with manure this winter—and that's a good way to use manure—you can begin to cash in right there on the higher value of phosphated manure. Simply spread a half bag of the acid phosphate over the top of each load of manure as you drive out to the field.

The wheat will say a nice "Thank you," when it comes to the threshing machine, and so will the two or three crops that follow it.

DOULTON

CUT OUT DRAFTS FOR MOST EGGS

An important requirement for successful winter egg production in a flock of pullets is a house that is free from drafts. Colds, chickenpox, and roup, says the New Jersey State College of Agriculture, often can be traced to the birds' becoming chilled because of a drafty house.

To insure oneself against this undesirable condition it is necessary to have the house airtight on three sides. This is often difficult to do, but any cracks near the floor or directly around the roosts particularly are to be avoided. These should by all means be covered. Cracks around the entrance door are a very common occurrence and one may often find the birds cuddled up in a far corner in an effort to keep warm. By putting weather strips on the doors the poultry men easily eliminate this problem.

After the three sides are tightened up, the front may be kept reasonably open. As a rule, however, it is best to have about equal proportions of glass and muslin in front, and the two combined may take up about one-half of the front surface of the house. The spaces between the rafters above the plate may also be kept open. The muslin curtains should be closed at night and never opened on stormy days or even in the early morning or late evening. The house should always feel comfortable when one enters it. Many poultrymen have found that the glass substitute products have been very satisfactory. They admit much more light than the muslin, and also keep the house warmer. Ventilation through the rafter spaces at the eaves is usually sufficient to keep the birds in good health.

With the sides and front well taken care of, the only possible cause for drafts would be a long house without partitions. To overcome the tendency for the wind to sweep in one end of such a house and out the other, it is well to build partitions every 40 feet. These should extend to the roof and come up to within three feet of the front of the house, or if desired, a door may be fitted into this three-foot space, making the partition solid. Partitions in the roosting quarters only should be built every 20 feet.

Forcing Maturity of Pullets Is Mistake

It is a mistake to force the maturity of pullets with large amounts of milk or meat, warns O. C. Ufford, extension poultry specialist, Colorado Agricultural college. "A pullet should have a good body growth before she starts laying. An undersized pullet seldom makes a profitable hen. Small amounts of milk or meat should be used to produce normal growth, but it should not be overdone. Feed plenty of grain, part of it ground, along with milk or meat."

"Once pullets have begun to lay," Mr. Ufford continues, "the milk or meat should be gradually increased, as it is part of the ration necessary to produce eggs. If there is a deficiency of animal protein in the ration, production will gradually decline and fall molt result. Gradually allow the birds all the milk they will drink, or if milk is not available bring the amount of meat scrap up to 20 per cent of the ground feed used."

Sees Hatchability and Feeding Value of Eggs

One of the important points brought out by Prof. J. G. Halpin of the University of Wisconsin at the Ohio poultry day at Wooster, Ohio, is that the hatchability and food value of eggs may be changed with the type of feed given. Professor Halpin asserted that the time will come when people will demand that eggs for their children shall not come from hens with rickets. It is, as he said, generally agreed that children are benefited by cod liver oil, especially during the winter months. But it is unnecessary to compel the children to take cod liver oil when it might as well be fed to the chickens in the first place, and the quality of the eggs improved to overcome the deficiency.

Hopper Space

Standing in line for their feed is objectionable to hens, and, furthermore, they will not do their best when forced to do this, says H. H. Alp, poultry extension specialist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. Hence the value of a good egg mash often is limited by the hopper in which it is fed, he said. Feeding space for all hens at all times is the rule that should be kept in mind in building a poultry feed hopper, he recommended.

Dry Skimmed Milk

Feed dealers and feed mixers are recognizing the increasing demand for dry skimmed milk, which is now being manufactured in sufficient quantities to supply the growing poultry needs. Milk by-products, semi-solid and dry, supply the poultryman a superior quality of protein and lime and certain vitamins; but apparently of equal or more importance is the milk sugar which in the intestinal tract seems to perform a service not supplied by any other feed on the list.

Some of the people who thought they were buying orange groves in Florida are reported to have got lemons.

Well, lemons are better than nothing. In summer we like ice-cold lemonade, the thought of which makes cold chills in our spinal regions at this time of the year, but there's the popular lemon pie. Make your dough with White Rose Flour, shortening cut in with a knife, and ice water, and handle as quickly as possible. White Rose produces results.

Our Bed-time Story.

Station PU Broadcasting. Once upon a time a darling, fuzzy, little kitty with big blue eyes and long bushy tail was strolling along in a big green alfalfa field.

She was on her way to see her grandma, but it got dark and she was hungry and scared and so she hid in a nice big stack of nice green alfalfa.

It was so warm and quiet there and smelled so good that finally the big blue eyes just dropped shut and she was sound asleep.

She forgot all about her grandma, or about being scared, but just dreamed the very nicest dreams of big saucers of creamy milk and fat little mice so juicy and sweet and all of the very nicest things you could imagine.

She was so sleepy and tired that she slept all the next day and when she woke up she was in cat heaven—all ground up into nice teeny-weeny particles and mixed up with a whole sack of nice green alfalfa meal in the mill.

And the boys in the mill were so nice and kind; they didn't want to wake her, so they set the bag of meal away off by itself on the end of the platform and tiptoed away holding their noses. But the nice, fuzzy blue-eyed little kitty was so sleepy and happy that she never did wake up at all—but just purred and purred and purred.

Tankage and Fertilizer From Offal and Blood

Offal and blood which is ordinarily wasted by the farm butcher can be made into tankage or fertilizer without much trouble, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. The process is a simple one. The offal and blood can be thoroughly cooked in an open kettle. After it is cooked it can be dried out and ground as tankage for hogs. This residual tankage will give good results in feeding as a supplement with corn for hogs.

If it is to be used for fertilizer it can be cooked and then ordinary 10 per cent acid phosphate can be added at the rate of 35 to 50 pounds of phosphate to 100 pounds of the cooked offal. This mixture can be air-dried by raking it over occasionally. After it is thoroughly dried it can be ground and used immediately or stored for future use. The phosphate will prevent putrefaction and flies do not breed in the mixture. This usage of the offal leaves only the squeal to be wasted.

BANKERS HELP OUT

The Oklahoma Bankers Association for the past twelve years has financed through its five groups ten scholarships in the A. & M. College at Stillwater. The winners are chosen by the Extension Department of the college on the merits of the club work done by the boys and girls over a certain period of time. The groups of the association finance the first year of the winner's college work.

The president of a national bank in Fayetteville, Arkansas, has been credited with doing more for the farmers of his section than any other man. His work has consisted of introducing pure bred Holstein cattle into his county, helping employ a county agent, donating prizes to boys and girls in club work, and distributing better seed.

A Subsidy and an Unfair Discrimination

There is now before the post office committee of the House a bill that is of intense and vital interest to every community. It is a postal rates bill introduced by Representative Grist of Pennsylvania. It provides new postage rates on several classes of mail, but that part of it of interest to the small cities and towns of the nation is in connection with third-class mail.

Through preferential rates on third-class mail to the large users of this class of mail it proposes to SUBSIDIZE the mail order houses and the big city merchants in their efforts to secure the merchandizing business of the smaller cities and towns, by giving to these mail order houses and big city merchants a cheaper rate on their business solicitations carried through the mails than would be accorded to the merchant of the smaller city or country town.

It proposes direct DISCRIMINATION against the merchants of the smaller cities and towns in favor of the merchants and mail order houses of the larger cities.

All of this is tied up in a "JOKER" clause in the bill that provides that if the total weight of the total number of circulars of one kind to be mailed shall be twenty pounds or more the postage rate shall be one cent for each piece weighing two ounces or less, but if the total number of copies of any circular to be mailed shall weigh less than twenty pounds, the postage charge on each piece of two ounces or less shall be one and one-half cents.

Any one piece of direct-by-mail advertising of the mail order houses or the big city merchants is mailed to many thousands of prospective buyers, and covers very wide sections of the country. The total number of such pieces of such direct-by-mail advertising would easily weigh many times twenty pounds, and because the total weight of all of these was twenty pounds or more the postage rate would be one cent on each piece. The merchant doing business in the smaller city or the country town who wished to mail a piece of direct-by-mail advertising to the possible purchasers in his town and in the trade territory of that town would have a mailing list of but a few hundred, possibly one thousand names at the most. The total weight of this number of circulars or small booklets would be less than twenty pounds, and this small city or country town merchant must pay one and one-half cents on each piece as a postage charge.

In the case of the mail from the mail order house or the big city merchant the government must pay for the handling and sorting of these thousands of pieces of mail at the office at which they are deposited for mailing, the government must transport them on railroad trains for which the government must pay the railroads; when they arrive at destination the government must pay for sorting them by individual addresses and must pay the carriers for delivering them to the individuals to whom they are addressed.

But in the case of the same class of mail used by the merchants of the small cities and towns, practically all of it would be delivered direct to the persons to which the pieces are addressed through but the one post office, and the government would save the cost of handling and sorting in one post office, and would save the cost of the rail transportation. Yet it proposes to handle the mail that involves these additional costs at two-thirds the charge for which it will handle the mail that does not involve these additional costs.

During 1927 the charge for handling third-class mail of two ounces or less was one and one-half cents per piece, except for booklets of twenty pages or more and weighing two ounces or less, for which the charge was one cent, and these one cent mailings were a comparatively small percentage of the more than four billion pieces of third-class mail handled by the Post Office Department. During 1927 the cost to the government of handling each piece of third-class mail was 1.79509—approximately one cent and eight mills. Of this per piece total, .34941—approximately four mills—was the cost per piece for transportation and distribution in transit.

In other words, it cost the government a very small fraction less than one and a half cents to handle each piece of third-class mail, weighing two ounces or less, when there were no transportation charges. That is, the third-class mail directly through the one post office and to the people in the vicinity of that post office. That is the character of the third-class mail used by the merchants of the smaller cities and the country towns.

But for the third-class mail originating in large cities—the direct-by-mail advertising of the mail order houses and the big city merchants—distributed over wide areas, the cost to the government was better than one-quarter of a cent per piece more than the government received.

Now it is proposed to cut the postage rates to these mail order houses and big city merchants to a point where the loss will be more than three quarters of a cent on each piece without granting the same reduction to the merchants of the smaller cities and towns whose mailing cost the government one-quarter of a cent per piece less to handle.

That is direct DISCRIMINATION against the people of the smaller cities and country towns, whose communities depend for their prosperity and growth on the maintaining of a merchandising center; it is direct DISCRIMINATION against the merchants of these communities against whom would be assessed a heavier sales cost in their effort to meet competition of the mail order houses and the large city merchants than is assessed against these outside competitors; it is a direct DISCRIMINATION against both the printer and the newspaper publisher of these smaller cities and towns who must depend for their prosperity upon the prosperity of the merchants and the people of their community.

It is a SUBSIDY to the mail order houses and the big city merchants in that it proposes to render a service for these mail order houses and big city merchants at less than the established costs of that service and charge the deficit up to the TAXPAYERS of the nation.

Any congressman, and especially any congressman representing a country district, who would vote for that bill is not entitled to the support of the people of such a district. He would be voting to sacrifice not only the interests of the people who have elected him, but the best interests of the nation as a whole because the best interests of the nation depend upon the prosperity of all of the nation, and not upon the prosperity of the cities alone.

If Congress wishes to pass a law making a one-cent postage rate on third-class mail there will be no great objection provided the law applies equally to all. It does not cost the government any more to transport and distribute one thousand pieces of mail mailed by one thousand different persons, than it does to transport and distribute one thousand pieces of mail mailed by one person.

"Luckies never cut my wind" says Billy Burch, Captain of N. Y. Americans' Hockey Team

"I can't afford to take any chances with my physical condition. That's why I stick to Luckies. In addition to the pleasure I get from their fine flavor, they have never cut my wind to any noticeable degree. Finally, I never suffer with sudden coughing which might be very dangerous for me when there's a scramble on the ice."

HEUSER WRITES TO ROBERTSON

Interested Road Patron Insists His Statements Are Correct.

In my first article I placed before the public certain facts. My language was temperate. I was sorry for Supervisor Robertson for the mistakes he made in placing his bosom friend, Mr. Latham, as boss of the job—he and Robertson were perfect novices. I must request you to allow me space to make a reply. I am charged with misleading the public—and that my statements are not correct.

I am correct in every statement I have made, and am excusable for not knowing that $998.70 was turned over for the approaches of the bridge over the Catharpin Run, more than one half from road building mile. Mr. Robertson describes the way the money was received in 1926, credited to a special fund "for the purpose of the construction of a permanent road in Gainesville district." No bridge approaches mentioned. Besides for over fifty the county appropriated money for bridges and approaches and did not use the state and county moneys to pay for same.

Mr. Robertson tells us Mr. Tubbs put down 361 feet of crushed rock and graded 1,000 or 1,200 feet of road. He omits telling you that Tubbs' rock was iron rock, that the grading done was more than one half of that done on the 2,961 feet of road. He pays Tubbs $1,938.61 for said work done. He gets the advantages of that work, finishes it and then deducts this amount from the money in hand. He claims the road cost $5,042.70, when in reality it costs that sum plus the amount of $1,938, or $6,981.39.

This juggling of figures is, to use the words of Supervisor Robertson, misleading, and I am sorry to say his statements are not correct. Mr. Latham starts building and both give you a statement of what they think they accomplished—12 feet wide, base 8-inch uncrushed rock, 4 inches No. 2, 2 inch chips, 1 inch dust.

Upon request I met the boss who desired me to allow him to get some rock out of a bank opposite the badly placed crusher. I followed this rock up later on, a red sandstone, or as the old people called it, rotten rock, and found it being used as the base rock of 8 inches, and the chips used for filling the cracks between the uncrushed rocks, and that in one of the lowest places in the road—and that is called permanent road building. He tops it with 4 inches of No. 2 and 1 inch of dust and says he builds a 15-inch road. On this day I had the audacity to ask the boss if the State Highway had a hand in this rotten job and received the curt answer "To hell with the blue prints." A very unnecessary remark.

I was also informed that Tubbs spent $1,500 and that the Carolina first effort cost $2,500. This last remark was corrected by my saying not one half of that. After what I saw I remarked to a friend: "It's going to be a botch." Mr. Robertson claims he used 8-inch base rock uncrushed as a base and then topped it with 7 inches. As the rotten rock experiment and the chips were no longer in existence, it cuts down his top dressing to 5 inches. There is no evidence visible today, nor was there any during the summer, that an uncrushed 8-inch base was used, nor do I believe that the road was built that way with crushed rock, nor do I believe that the 1 inch of dust was properly applied, bound with softer rock and properly rolled. I passed over the road a few days ago and I found No. 2 rock in sight, top dressing not covering same. Mr. Robertson tells you "4 foot shoulders." There are some such shoulders where the proper sub-grading took place, but for long distances your shoulders are not more than 2 feet wide, placed there after you placed the rock. My evidence is this on the east side, the shoulder is sliding in the ditch or has been washing away. On the west you will find sufficient evidence with 8 to 10 inches still remaining on the shoulders and preventing the water from entering the ditch. I have given some time to this description, as you say it is "readily seen the absurdity of Mr. Heuser comparing this piece of work with that on the north side." You tried to assail my figures as to the Loudoun job. My information I also received from Mr. Zerega and of Mr. Morven Leich who was boss under Mr. Reid, the district superintendent, both having long years of experience. You misquote the length of finished road as 800 feet completed, one half of mile is completely done. You say cost of this work, $9,000; I said, $10,000; so by trying to prove me incorrect you missed it by $1,000, which will easily finish the same and the record would be $6,666 per mile, or $1.26 per foot to your 2,961 feet, not quite six tenths of a mile at $2.36 a foot, costing $6,981.31—and makes it, as first stated in my article, the most expensive job in Gainesville district. The Loudoun county Carolina project was 9 inches—12 inches good hard iron rock and 10 inches when completed, and built according to the rules of "to hell with the blue prints." I have carefully looked it over and see none of the defects, I have pointed out in your job. As you went north, west, east and south for your material for miles, it is difficult to say what you used. Luckily for us, but little of the rotten rock was available. I looked over rock on the dump. I class it 1½; 10 inches would have been sufficient to build a serviceable road. You could have extended your road over 1,000 to 1,200 feet for same money spent.

I think I have shown to the public that I have not misled them, and that my figures were not inaccurate. I have known that public for fifty-five years, they are fully able to pass judgment. Had you and your boss admitted that want of experience, as I put it, and want of proper equipment has, like in many other instances, caused failure and expense. I have not consulted others in framing this indictment. I alone am responsible, but having, I might say, learned the art of roadbuilding by watching every point, asking many questions, reading the bulletins, etc., and on two occasions the machinery operated close to my dwelling.

We got a very good job even if it was expensive, on our first trial; a poor job and most expensive on our second.

W. L. HEUSER
P. S. I shall take no further notice of any statement made, although my ammunition is not all exhausted. Let someone who daily witnesses the job have his say.

The measure would define negroes as persons having any ascertainable amount of negro blood, and would define Indians as persons having one fourth or more Indian blood. THE MANASSAS JOURNAL

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

By Senior Class

Mrs. T. T. Curtis has been substituting in the second-year this week during the absence of Miss Emily J. Johnson.

Mrs. Pearl Renow visited Washington on Monday night when she again broadcasted for her radio audience. Her number was a musical reading which was much enjoyed by those who heard her.

On account of road conditions and an over-crowded schedule, the concert set for Wednesday of this week has been postponed until the middle of March.

The English students listened to a lecture on "The Joy of Authorship" on Monday morning. The lecture was given by Dr. Ellsworth who is giving a series of lectures at this time at Swavely School.

This special lecture was given before both the Swavely and the high school student bodies. Those who were privileged to hear Dr. Ellsworth were delighted with the presentation of his subject.

"The Goose Hangs High" will be presented at the high school auditorium on Tuesday, February 14. This play is a Swarthmore chautauqua production and has been a great success wherever it has been given. It is recommended as "a merry story, with a few tears, of the average American family, of the present-day youth in clash with the older generation, but worked out along entirely new lines—and to the credit of the youth of today. It will be presented by a professional cast."

The play ran for 200 performances at the Bijou Theatre in New York and was said to be the outstanding comedy success of that season and to have broken all records in Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia.

Mrs. H. E. Metz, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis in a Washington hospital, returned to her home here on Sunday. We are glad to welcome her back.

The money the school realizes from this source is to go toward ceiling the gymnasium to make it more comfortable for the crowds and to make other needed improvements.

There has been a great deal of interest shown in the work already. Nearly fifty subscriptions have already been received.

Beginning this week, the school library will be open on Fridays instead of Thursdays.

Hill Billies score by 43-27 score. The first game of the season played by the Hill Billies was lost to Marshall High School girls Tuesday night, January 31.

Though the Hill Billies had but one practice prior to the game, they gave the opposing team a hard fight.

The line up was as follows: Thelma Hynson, R. F.; Sallie Moran, L. F.; Mary Haile, C.; Pete Corum, S. C.; Marjorie Brown, R. C.; Edythe Wilfong, L. G.

Aggies Win Over Marshall. The Agriculture Boys of Manassas High School won their first league game Tuesday night, January 31. Our boys made a poor start. At the end of the first quarter the score was 10-2 in favor of Marshall, at the end of the half, it was 18-6 in favor of Marshall, and at the end of the third quarter; it was 22-18, but the final score was 26-22 in favor of Manassas.

Owing to the absence of Franklin Hibbs and Robert Stephens the boys seemed unable to score at first; but in the last quarter they rallied and won the game.

The line up was as follows: Jesse Stephens, R. F.; Stuart Broadus, L. F.; Worth Jackson, C.; Douglas Dodson, R. G.; Joe Ambrose, L. G.
