

MARJORIE BROWER
WEDS E. A. WILLISPretty Wedding In St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Haymarket Saturday.A wedding of unusual interest in Prince William County was that of Miss Marjorie Randolph, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles F. Brower and Mr. Edward Allen Willis, of Janesville, Minn.The ceremony was solemnized in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Hay-market on Saturday, October 26, at 11:30 a. m., with Rev. C. R. Phillips officiating, assisted by the rector, Rev. W. F. Carpenter. Preceding the ceremony Miss Catherine Weir, of Manassas, accompanied by Mrs. M.
M. Ellis, sang "At Dawn" and "Because", after which Mrs. Carvel Hall played the wedding music.The church was attractively decorated with ferns, chrysanthemums and cathedral candles. The bride was given in marriage by her father, she wore a blue homespun ensemble with accessories to match, and carried Butterfly roses. Mrs. Holman Willis, of Roanoke, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and was becomingly gowned in a wine color transparent velvet. She carried Vanrajan roses.
Miss Sallie Ocon, of Roanoke, was maid of honor, wearing a green crepe and carrying a bouquet of Vanrajan roses.Mr. Henry Leermakers, of Pittsburg, was best man and the ushers

York; Messrs. Frank and Charles Brower, brothers of the bride, and Mr. Henry Aaron, of Minneapolis.Immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served the wedding party at the Stone House Inn, Mrs. Holman Willis being hostess.The bride is a graduate of Hollins College and is very popular in Prince William County and Washington. Mr. Willis

IN CURRENT CAMPAIGNRev. David Hepburn Says League Maintaining Non-Partisan Attitude In Fight.Rev. David Hepburn, superintendent of the Anti Saloon League of Virginia, has announced that he is neutral in the current state campaign and that the Anti Saloon League of Virginia is maintaining a non-partisan attitude in the fight.Mr. Hepburn's statement disposes of suspense among the organized prohibitionists of Virginia over the status as a dry of John Garland Pollard, Democratic nominee for governor.
Democrats consider the Hepburn announcement as clear evidence that the Virginia dries are not in agreement with Bishop James Cannon, jr., famous national prohibition leader, over Mr. Pollard's qualifications as a dry.Not Taking Sides.
"As superintendent of the Anti Saloon League of Virginia, which is a non-partisan organization made up of all political factions, I am not taking sides in this campaign," Mr. Hepburn said."I expect to remain neutral unless something happens."Mr. Pollard has been emphatically endorsed by Dr. R. H. Pitt, former president of the Anti Saloon League.Mr. Hepburn's declaration of neutrality is expected to cause wide interest in political circles in view of Mr. Hepburn's close association with Bishop Cannon last year in the national fight.Anti Saloon League policy invariably has been to fight candidates of any party known to be unfavorable to prohibition, and the absence of a Virginia Anti Saloon League fight against Pollard has led Pollard supporters to believe that the Pollard record as a dry has passed the most severe test that might be applied to it in Virginia.Pollard Militantly Dry.
Approval of Pollard's prohibition record in itself may occasion little surprise because the Williamsburg man has been a militant bone dry man ever since he began his political career.Pollard, when a member of the constitutional convention of 1902, worked for a clause enabling the people to vote on prohibition fourteen years before an enabling act was passed, and later, during the bitterest prohibition fighting he stumped the state for prohibition at his own expense. He also has a record of complete personal dryness.In 1917 Democratic primary campaign, however, Dr. Cannon and the Anti Saloon League of Virginia fought Pollard and supported the late J. Taylor Ellison, whose vote as lieutenant-governor broke the tie in the senate on the enabling act. In this fight the Anti Saloon League forces were allied with the so-called Martin machine. The alliance was defeated, however, for Westmoreland Davis, a personal dry, but a man not in full sympathy with the prohibition leaders, was victorious in the primary.BRENTSVILLE DISTRICT

Ashton Doyell And Others
Congressman Moore Assails Coalitionists.PREDICTS DEMOCRATIC VICTORY ON TUESDAYThe first and last campaign speeches for the Democratic candidates were made in Manassas last night and those who permitted the rain and the condition of the roads to prevent their attendance missed exceptionally able discussions of issues involved in the fast approaching election.Representative R. Walton Moore was at his best, and after discussing campaign matters turned his attention to Colonel Henry W. Anderson, the Republican leader, who has so recently directed criticism at Mr.
Moore.Flays Anderson.
"No man in Virginia is so little entitled to consideration of his people," said Mr. Moore, "as the man who will practically control its affairs should the coalition party prevail at the election next Tuesday." In the course of his address, Congressman Moore said:"I would not discuss Colonel Henry W. Anderson except for the fact that he has recently directed an entirely unwarranted and untruthful criticism at me, and the further fact that he has put himself to the front in this campaign by having been mainly instrumental in picking Dr. Brown as the coalition candidate for Governor and assuming the leadership for him.
Little is heard from lifelong Republicans like Messrs. Angell and Slomp.
They are relegated to the background.
The loud voice is that of Anderson,
of which Brown, who is his understudy, has become the mere echo.""The Colonel this week invaded our District and in Arlington County made one of the wildest of all the wild speeches which are given here. I doubtless those that place because of its being in sight of the White House, the attention and favor of whose occupant he has sought to attract ever since his political conversion."Hoover Not Mentioned.
The main feature of his speech was the claim that we Democrats are circulating a pamphlet assailing the President and Mrs. Hoover because of he DePriest incident. The reply has quickly come that the State Democratic Committee and the candidates of our party have never authorized or approved the pamphlet in question or any such publication. It can be further replied that there has been a marked absence of any such attack as he charges. I have been at several meetings where Dr. Pollard and others spoke, and I have never mentioned the President, nor do I recall having heard him mentioned a single time."But without abating any of my high regard for Mr. Hoover officially and personally, I may take the liberty of mentioning him now, in order to say that I think he made a mistake in selecting Colonel Anderson to represent the south and Virginia on his Law Enforcement Commission. It does not serve to inspire confidence in the Commission to have among its members an unstable politician whose idea appears to be that law enforcement can be brought about by extreme denunciation of nearly all the laws of his own state and those who are charged with their administration.""The other significant point in his speech was his indignant denial that he and Brown favor the abolition of prepayment of the poll tax as a voting requisite. It is true that the platforms of the coalition party do not declare for the abolition of the tax.
But it is equally true that Anderson desires it to be abolished, unless he has changed the view to which he held when he ran as the Republican candidate for Governor eight years ago, and was defeated by something like 60,000 majority. At that time the platform, of which he was said to be the author, and on which he was nominated, declared in terms for the abolition of the poll tax."Anderson Has Short Memory.
"One trouble about Anderson is that he has a very short memory. He abuses us for charging that he is now against the poll tax, although he is obliged to admit that he was avowedly against it in 1921. How short his memory is is also illustrated by the

NEWS OF WEEK IN OLD VIRGINIA

Dr. C. R. Grandy Elected.

Charlottesville, Oct. 30.—After a three-day session, the 60th annual meeting of the Medical Society of Virginia adjourned Friday, to meet next year in Norfolk. Dr. Charles R. Grandy, of Norfolk, was elected president for the ensuing year and Miss Agnes V. Edwards, of Richmond, was again chosen executive secretary-treasurer.

Numerous papers on medicine and surgery were read at morning, afternoon and night sessions, and at 2:30 o'clock Friday the members of the Woman's Auxiliary and other ladies attending the convention were taken on a motor trip to Monticello and other points of interest around this section.

Loudoun Hunt Club.

Leesburg, Oct. 30.—The Loudoun Hunt Club held a meeting on Thursday night, at which time final preparations for the early meets of the season were made, and the following hunt committee for the ensuing year was elected: J. R. H. Alexander, Howard E. Cole, Walter H. Bowes, David M. McDonald and W. C. Saffer.

Although the members of the club have been enjoying cross-country riding in the vicinity of Leesburg, the season proper will not begin until November 1. Meets for that month have been announced as follows: November 2, Wallace George residence; November 5, T. W. Gaines' residence; November 9, David N. Rust's residence; November 12, Outlands; November 16, Albert Shaw farm; November 19, Luckett's store; November 23, Springwood; November 26, Dr. Charles S. White's residence; November 28, Greenway, and November 30, Sycodyn schoolhouse.

Officers of the club are: Judge J. R. H. Alexander, president; Howard E. Cole, vice president; James di Zerega, secretary-treasurer; Walter H. Bowes and D. M. McDonald, M. F. H.

Possum Hunting Fatal.

Danville, Oct. 30.—Two successive nights of opossum hunting were the chief factor in the death on October 21, of David B. Carter, aged 35, of Stoneville, N. C., on his way to Danville with a load of tobacco. The truck paused in the road while R. H. Hill paid a business call.

Carter sat down on the edge of a cross-tie on the Danville and Western Railway and fell asleep. A train came along. Repeated blasts of the locomotive failed to rouse Carter, whose body was severed.

Bell Tower Presented.

Richmond, Oct. 30.—The Thomas Memorial Bell Tower was formally presented the congregation of First Baptist Church Sunday morning at conclusion of the religious exercises. The tower is the gift of Mrs. Laura Thomas Rutherford, daughter of James Thomas, jr. The bell hung in the steeple of the old First Baptist Church on East Broad street.

During the War Between the States the congregation donated the bell to the Confederate government to be used for gun manufacture. Mr. Thomas gave the government an equivalent in gold coin, thus retaining the old historic bell in its place. Upon completion of the present church building at Monument Avenue and the Boulevard, the bell tower was erected, and this and the bell were turned over to the church by a committee.

SORE THROATS AND COUGHS

Quickly Relieved By This Safe Prescription.

Here's a doctor's prescription that is really throat insurance. Sore or irritated throats are relieved and soothed almost instantly with the very first swallow. About 90 per cent of all coughs are caused by an irritated throat; consequently for most coughs too there is nothing better than this famous prescription—it goes direct to the internal cause. It is put up under the name Thoxine and is guaranteed to stop coughs and relieve sore throats in 1 minute or your money will be refunded. Singers and speakers find Thoxine very valuable.

The remarkable thing about Thoxine is that while it relieves almost instantly, it contains nothing harmful, is pleasant tasting and safe for the whole family. Ask for Thoxine 35c., 60c., and $1.00 bottles. Sold by Cocke's Pharmacy, Manassas, Va.—Adv.

port of Wilbert T. Woodson, division superintendent of the schools of Fairfax County, completed Saturday, shows that $248,946.11 was expended during the past year on public school education in Fairfax County. The total receipts from all sources amounted to $293,515.56, but a balance of $44,569.45 was on hand July 1 to tide over the period this fall until tax money is collected.

Fauquier Red Cross.

Warrenton, Oct. 31.—The annual meeting of the Fauquier Chapter, Red Cross, was held here last Thursday with Mrs. K. F. Bowman, chairman, presiding. Officers elected were Mrs. K. F. Bowman, chairman, vice chairmen, Mrs. Fairfax Harrison, Mrs. R. Barrett, Mrs. A. F. Pilcher; secretary, S. A. Appleton; treasurer, George S. Cable; advisory committee, C. E. Tiffany; chairman of junior, Miss Katherine Dorst and Miss Katherine Bowman; chairman disaster relief, W. G. Bartenstein; central committee, the officers, chairmen of committees and of branches, with H. C. Groome, J. C. Williams, R. C. Windmill, Mrs. J. T. Morton, Miss Edith Butler and Mrs. D. P. Wood.

New Pumper At Clarendon.

Clarendon, Oct. 30.—The new pumping fire engine ordered by the county board of supervisors for the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department arrived last week. This addition to the department's equipment gives the community two modern pieces of fire-fighting apparatus.

Randolph-Macon Library.

Lynchburg, Oct. 30.—The new library building at Randolph-Macon Woman's College will be dedicated on Friday evening during the convention of the Virginia Library Association here.

The speaker for the dedicatory service will be Dr. C. C. Williamson, professor of library administration of Columbia University, New York.

Douthitt Trial November 9.

Arlington, Oct. 30.—The trial of Harry N. Douthitt, charged with attempt to bribe Circuit Judge Howard W. Smith was on Friday continued until November 9 at the request of State Senator Frank L. Ball, counsel for the defense.

The request for the continuance was made on the grounds that William E. Leahy of Washington, associate counsel, is engaged in the Fall trial and could not appear. The special judge, Frederick W. Coleman of Fredericksburg, who was appointed by Gov. Harry F. Byrd to preside in the case, due to the fact that Judge Smith is the complaining witness, was present and announced that the trial would start promptly at 9:30 o'clock instead of the usual hour of 10 o'clock, due to the fact that November 9 is on Saturday and the court desires to have the case completed that day.

Democratic Club Busy.

Warrenton, Oct. 30.—The Fauquier Democratic Club, which made an enviable reputation last year in the presidential campaign, is functioning again. The club last year, by good organization and a thorough canvass of the county, rolled up over 500 majority for Smith. They hope to better this record this year for Pollard.

Arrangements have been made for a monster rally here on the night of November 2, when Governor Byrd and Attorney General Saunders will address the voters of the county. Each of the 21 precincts in the county has been organized. R. Mason McCarty, commissioner of revenue for Fauquier County, is chairman of the Warrenton Precinct, the largest in the county, and has his committee hard at work getting out the vote.

A great deal of interest is being shown throughout the county.

MANASSAS HIGH FINE SOCCERITES

Defeats College Heights High 9 to 0 In Brilliant Exhibition.

By BEVERLY MITCHELL.

Manassas High continued her triumphant march with another smashing victory on Friday afternoon when it took the measure of College Heights High by an overwhelming score of 9 to 0.

First Half Close.

The first half was reasonably close, only one free kick was scored. The ball was first in one team's care then in the other's; when one team would rush the goal, the other would mass in front and stop it by sheer force of numbers.

Second Half Scoring.

Coming on the field fresh from the advice of its coach, the home team started a quick passing attack which speedily had a goal scored. Continuing these tactics, the Manassas boys put the ball cleanly between the posts again in a very few minutes. The game then turned into a rout with the ball seldom reaching the home full backs.

Considering the few veterans from last year's squad, the crippling of

The Manassas Journal's Complete Agricultural Service
By DAN VAN GORDER

Questions of lawns, gardens and general farming are discussed in this department each week. Readers of The Manassas Journal are invited to use this new column for the answer to their question and the solution of their problems. Address all inquiries to The Manassas Journal Information Bureau, Van Gorder News Service, Manassas, Virginia.

Investment in Pastures

Pasturing is the oldest recorded agricultural pursuit. Long before mankind began to till the soil, tribes and even nations located their residences or temporary habitats in close proximity to grazing lands where their livestock could find sustenance. And the migrations of scores of better tribes in search of new and better pastures have left their imprint on the maps and history of the world. Wars have been waged for the possession of these choice bits of earth. The development of a highly scientific and intricate system of agriculture as we see it today over most of the civilized world has not changed to a marked degree the importance of pasturing in its scheme of economic worth. It can rightly be considered at the present time the backbone of agriculture. In proportion to the carrying capacity of its pastures the prosperity and progress of a given farm or agricultural community, or even a nation, can be judged. That this importance is not attached to this vital phase of farming is readily seen in the decadent status of the majority of our pasture lands in the United States.

In many of our eastern and mid-western states five acres of pasture is required to support one unit of livestock through a short, deficient pasturing season. In addition to furnishing pasture of a low value in food elements, this land is subject to costly erosion and is rapidly approaching a semi-waste condition. In fact, thousands of acres of this type of land have joined the permanently waste class through this process of degeneration. Sheet erosion is carrying away yearly the few remaining inches of top, food-bearing soil from the thin surface, and gullying soon reduces the land to that impaired condition where rebuilding is impossible, or too expensive to undertake.

The attendant losses however, are not confined to the lessened pasture values and disappearing soils. The large acreage required to maintain the farm's livestock and the resulting increased overhead expense of maintenance are further augmented by inability to establish a properly working schedule of crop rotations or other profitable system of farm management. In other words, decadent and tired pasture lands are a discordant note in the entire scale of agriculture. As history of past centuries indicates, pasturing is the nucleus of rural existence. About are grouped, and upon it are dependent all the other activities of the farm.

Many dairying countries of Europe have developed their pasture lands to a degree of perfection that enables the livestock owners to exceed our pasture carrying capacity many times over. By tethering their cow and preventing tramping of unweaten grass, the Norwegian farmer often maintains eight to twelve head of cattle per acre. That these countries can produce butter at a low cost figure is indisputable. Denmark with an area of less than New Hampshire and Massachusetts, last year exported 143,000 tons of butter, 5,200 tons of cheese, 70,000,000 dozens of eggs and 256,000 tons of bacon. With such highly maintained pastures to support this intensive agriculture, it is small wonder that the American farmer, using five acres to pasture one cow, must think of government aid to meet this competition.

Our pastures are reducing materially the net income of the American farm. They are adding a heavy overhead to the expense ledger. If the rejuvenation of pasture land required extensive investments to restore them, the problem would constitute a more troubled angle to agriculture. But such is not true. Pasture rejuvenation is a simple, inexpensive process, requiring remarkably short time to accomplish profitable result which will enhance the investment by long endurance.

Most worn-out or tired pasture land is acid. Application of sufficient lime or limestone to neutralize this acidity is necessary. After this enemy of plant life of this nature is removed it is needful that plant food be applied to promote and maintain plant growth. As extensive areas would require more manure than the farm can supply, phosphorus in the form of commercial acid phosphate, either 16 or 20 per cent content, must be applied. This can be done by hand or preferably with a wheat drill with the shoes removed. Plowing or disking are unnecessary, the applications being made to the surface soil. The amount of fertilizer needed depends on the condition of the land.

Exceptionally worn land often requires as high as 350 pounds per acre. It is not necessary to apply seed, but many owners give a light seeding of bluegrass, Japan clover, redtop, timothy, or similar mixtures. But with no seed applied, this treatment will produce a luxuriant growth of clover and bluegrass.

Cost of treatment will depend on cost of limestone and fertilizer and application cost. However, many owners are giving their pasture land this effective stimulus at costs from five dollars to twenty dollars an acre. After the first year the increase carrying capacity of the pasture will usually yield a profit of twenty-five to one hundred per cent on the investment annually. As this rejuvenation process continues to improve the land for ten to twenty years, the owner can consider the opportunity of transforming his pasture land, now a farm liability, into a highly productive, profitable source of farm income, with assurance that ten years at least, will return a net profit of 250 to 1,000 per cent on his original outlay.

Is treating tired, unproductive pasture land profitable? In the vernacular of the advertising slogan slightly paraphrased, "ask a farm owner who has tried it."

DO YOU BELIEVE THESE FALSEHOODS?

REPUBLICAN BUGABOOS

Henry W. Anderson, foremost Republican boss, Lieutenant-Colonel in the Red Cross, and a lifelong resident of Virginia, has advertised to the world by radio and through the press that his native Virginia is "the worst governed state in the western hemisphere and with the most tyrannical form of government that Anglo Saxon people have lived under since the Stuarts were driven from England."

If Virginia were one-tenth as bad as this partisan Republican boss says it is, the state would be in flaming revolution within twenty-four hours.

Tammany Hall has been pictured as an octopus reaching out to destroy Virginia and to overthrow prohibition in Virginia.

Yet Tammany Hall, in reality is a New York City political club and in no way a national organization.

John J. Raskob has been described as the political Satan of America in falsehoods circulated throughout Virginia.

Actually Raskob was the man Governor Smith made chairman of the national Democratic committee—his campaign manager—and Raskob's term expires before the presidential campaign of 1932. Virginia Democratic leaders refused financial and other aid from the Democratic national committee and outside individuals and organizations when it launched the state campaign this year.

Do You Believe In These Bugaboos?

NO!

The Republican party, having failed to discredit the government of Virginia and to prove its slanderous, unpatriotic charges against the honesty of Democratic nominees and governmental officials, now seeks in a final desperate bid for power to broadcast FALSEHOOD throughout Virginia.

In unsigned, slanderously FALSE advertisements and literature it is charged that Tammany Hall and certain wet Northern politicians are responsible for the nomination of John Garland Pollard, Democratic nominee for governor.

Not one scintilla of proof is offered in support of these charges. Virginians are asked to believe FALSEHOODS to which not even the greediest politician dares sign his name.

Other FALSE charges may be expected toward the close of this campaign—eleventh-hour FALSEHOODS designed to frighten Virginia voters—anonymous FALSEHOODS aimed at the fears and prejudices of the electorate.

Many of these FALSEHOODS concern the attitude of John Garland Pollard toward prohibition. Mr. Pollard is hated because last fall he refused to be the hand-picked Republican candidate in this state campaign.

John Garland Pollard was DRY enough when the bosses of the Republican party sought to use him in 1928 as bait to catch the Anti-Smith Democratic vote in 1929. But now he is slanderously labeled by them "an enemy of prohibition."

John Garland Pollard was DRY in 1917, but he was too independent. Now these anonymous slanderers say that he is a "slave of Tammany Hall."

John Garland Pollard was INDEPENDENT enough when he was asked to run in a state campaign for the benefit of the Republican party, but when the Democratic party nominated him he became a "tool!"

VIRGINIANS!

DO YOU BELIEVE that a candidate hand picked by Henry W. Anderson and C. Bascom Slemple is more independent than John Garland Pollard, who was chosen as nominee by 140,000 Virginians in the secrecy of the ballot booth?

DO YOU BELIEVE that a candidate who is not allowed to make his own speeches, is more independent, more liberal and more progressive than John Garland Pollard?

DO YOU BELIEVE that Virginia Democratic leaders, men like John Garland Pollard, John R. Saunders, James H. Price, men like Harry F. Byrd, Carter Glass, and Claude A. Swanson—have sold the state of Virginia to a wet New York political club?

DO YOU BELIEVE that John Garland Pollard and these leaders ever will be an enemy of prohibition in Virginia?

DO YOU BELIEVE that the political mouthpiece of the wealthy and proud Mr. Henry W. Anderson can give Virginia better government, more liberal government, more honest government than Virginia will enjoy under proven, unchallenged Democratic policies?

YOU DO NOT!

DO YOU BELIEVE that Virginia could have regained her leadership among the states and have become the richest commonwealth between Pennsylvania and Texas if Virginia had had government?

DO YOU BELIEVE that $300,000,000 in new and diversified industry in one year is bad for the people of any state?

DO YOU BELIEVE that ten cents per day per car is too much to pay for the roads which are bringing Virginia farmers prosperity without debt?

DO YOU BELIEVE that the election laws that saved Virginia from social chaos and economic ruin should be scrapped?

YOU DO NOT!

STATE INCOME TAX FIGURES CHANGE

Total Number of Individuals Assessed in 1928 Was 45,091.

Richmond, Oct. 30.—Figures have been compiled by the Virginia Department of Taxation showing the distribution of the individual State income tax burden in 1928.

The total number of individuals assessed with current State income taxes in 1928 was 45,092. Of this number, 14,121 resided in counties and towns, and 30,971 resided in cities.

The number of individuals in the counties and towns assessed with State income taxes in 1928, whose incomes subject to the tax were $3,000 or under, was 11,741; in the case of incomes over $3,000 and not over $5,000, the number was 1,252; and in the case of incomes over $5,000, the number was 1,128. The number of individuals in the cities assessed with State income taxes in 1928 having incomes under $3,000 was 26,067; in the case of incomes over $3,000 and not over $5,000, the number was 2,367; and in the case of incomes over $5,000, the number was 2,537.

The population of Virginia in 1928 was probably 2,500,000. Therefore, only one and eight-tenths per cent of the population was assessed with State income taxes in 1928. The collections from the State income tax on individuals for the year ending February 28, 1929, amounted to $1,818,040. The per capita individual income tax burden was therefore approximately 73 cents.

In 1928, the General Assembly made the following material changes in the income tax law in favor of the taxpayer, effective for the taxable year 1929, which means that taxpayers filing their income returns in 1930 may take advantage thereof: (1) Contributions or gifts will be allowed to be deducted under the same terms and conditions as under the Federal income tax law; (2) All taxes paid, except income taxes, inheritance taxes, and taxes for local public improvements, will be allowed to be deducted; and (3) A personal exemption of $2,000 will be allowed every taxpayer who has had dependent upon him and who has entirely supported during the taxable year a person bearing the relationship to the taxpayer of father or mother, son or daughter, or sister or brother.

These changes so made in 1928 were then estimated to save income taxpayers in filing their returns in 1930 the sum of at least $219,000.

The small number of individuals assessable with State income taxes is due to the fact that the personal exemptions are as follows: Unmarried person, or a married person not living with husband or wife, $1,000; husband and wife living together, $2,000; widow or widower with dependent minor child or children, $2,000. For each person (other than husband or wife) dependent upon and entirely supported by the taxpayer during the taxable year, the personal exemption is increased $400. Therefore, a married man with three children, and having a net income of as much as $3,200 is not assessable with any State income tax.

Ford Production.

The Ford Motor Company today issued the following statement, according to A. S. Boatwright, president of the Manassas Motor Company.

"Production of passenger and commercial cars during September, 1929, totalled 161,305 units, a heavy increase over production during the same month of the preceding year.

Total Ford production for the first nine months of the current year aggregated 1,633,498 units. Advance schedules indicate that production of Model A cars and Model AA trucks for the full year will exceed 2,000,000 units.

TEACHERS IN CITY BETTER TRAINED

Professionally Trained Teachers In State Larger In Number Than Ever Before.

Richmond, Oct. 31.—Professionally trained teachers were employed in the Virginia public schools during the past year in far larger numbers than ever before, according to a statement made by Thomas D. Eason, Secretary of the State Board of Education. While there has been a marked improvement in the preparation of teachers employed in both the counties and cities of the State, the teachers in the cities, as would be expected on account of the larger financial support, were better trained than the teachers in the counties.

Of the 12,539 teachers employed in the counties during the school session of 1928-29, 1,584 or twelve per cent held certificates based on college graduation—767 of the certificates being Collegiate Professional, the highest grade of license issued. Three thousand, two hundred and seventy-nine or 26 per cent, held certificates based on two years of college or normal school work. Four thousand, seven hundred and twenty-eight or 38 per cent held certificates based on high school graduation, and at least one year's college work.

Training In Virginia.

Of the 4,115 teachers employed during the school session of 1928-29 in the cities, 1,096 or 27 per cent held certificates based on college graduation—572 of the certificates being collegiate professional. Two thousand, one hundred and sixty-three or 52 per cent held certificates based on two years of college or normal school work. Seven hundred and thirty-five held certificates based on high school graduation and at least one year's work of college grade. Only 121 or 3 per cent held licenses issued on less than one year's college training.

With respect to the source of supply of teachers, it is interesting to note that Virginia relies chiefly on her own institutions for the training of teachers. However, the private and out-of-state colleges furnish a considerable number. Sixty-seven per cent of the teachers employed during the past session were trained in state institutions; 23 per cent in private Virginia institutions; and 9 per cent in out-of-state institutions. One per cent were without any college or normal school training.

Farmville State Teachers College heads the list of state institutions with 2,296 of the teachers employed during 1928-29 to her credit. Radford State Teachers' College, which trained 2,202, was second, and Harrisonburg State Teachers' College, where 1,900 were trained, was third.

MANASSAS YOUTH WINS DISTINCTION

Leo Kasehagen, Former Manassas Boy, Commissioned First Lieutenant In R. O. T. C.

The rotogravure section of The Washington Post on Sunday, October 27, carried a picture of a former Manassas youth with the following description:

"Leo Kasehagen, 3rd, of 1353 Jefferson Street northwest, recently commissioned first lieutenant, Reserve Officers' Training Corps at Carnegie Tech."

Another Washington paper says:

"No more anxiety. No more danger. No more doubt. Use FLY-TOX, then you may be sure your garments will retain their original beauty and perfection—free from ravages of moths. FLY-TOX kills moths, eggs, larvae. Spray thoroughly blankets, carpets, rugs, clothing, furs and woollens. INSIST on FLY-TOX. FLY-TOX is the scientific insecticide developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. Simple instructions on each bottle for killing ALL household insects. FLY-TOX is safe, stainless. Has perfume-like fragrance. Every bottle guaranteed.—Adv.

"Kasehagen was one of the ten 'Honorary Men' at the R. O. T. C. camp at Fort Humphreys this summer and the only one at the camp to qualify as an expert rifleman.

"At Camp Perry, Ohio, he was elected captain of the Third Corps Area Reserve Officers Training Corps team, and as one of the eight selected to represent the winning East team in the National East-West match, tied for the first place in that match and in other matches won gold, silver, bronze, medals and cash prizes.

U. S. COURT DOCKETS SWAMPED WITH CASES

Washington, Oct. 30.—There were 149,033 cases pending in the eighty-eight district courts of the United States June 30, according to a report of the condition of the dockets in these courts made at the conference of the senior judges of the United States circuit courts of appeals held recently. Because of the immense volume of litigation that comes into these courts, it was shown that many of their dockets are gorged with cases awaiting disposition. The report showed 25,263 cases in which no action had been taken though the cases have been pending a year or more.

MILK FROM FEED TURNED TO CASH

Dairy Cow Can Change Feed Crops Into Cash Products.

More Virginia farmers should increase their cash returns for this winter by converting their feed crop into a good cash market furnished by the sale of milk and cream, according to F. A. Buchanan, dairy husbandman, V. P. I. extension service.

The dairy cow on the farm will be the machine for changing feed crops into cash products. Returns for these products will be in proportion to the amount of feed fed to good dairy cows.

A good milk cow underfed is an inefficient machine on the farm. A poor producer, that is a scrub cow or beef type cow, is often a losing market for feed crops.

Good Feed Pays.

This winter feed for each good dairy cow will require at least three tons of silage per cow (if you have a silo) in addition to one ton of good hay and approximately a ton and a quarter of grain mixture to balance the roughage.

Good feed fed to good dairy cows will always be paid for plus profit. Underfeeding good dairy cows will prove to be a loss to the farm.

In addition to feed this winter plenty of water, a reasonable amount of exercise, and shelter during the cold winter days are essential.

Let it be your job this winter to make a business of getting the most profit out of the cows you have, whether there be few or many.

WILLIAM & MARY COLLEGE SETS HOME-COMING DAY

Alumni of College Will Return to Institution On November 2.

Williamsburg, Oct. 30.—Saturday, November 2, will mark Home-Coming Day at William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Va., when a large number of the alumni of the college will return to participate in a parade. DR. S. C. HATCHER OUT FOR POLLARD

Methodist Educator And Leading Prohibitionist, Highly Endorses John Garland Pollard.

Dr. S. C. Hatcher, prominent Methodist educator, of Randolph Macon college, and one of the leading prohibitionists in Virginia, has highly endorsed the candidacy of John Garland Pollard, Democratic nominee for governor, in an interview published in Richmond. Dr. Hatcher was one of the strongest influences against the Democratic national ticket in Virginia last year.

Prohibition Is Safe.

"I have known Dr. John Garland Pollard for many years," Dr. Hatcher said, "and I know him to be a statesman of high ideals and broad culture. His past record is an assurance that the issue of prohibition will be safe in his hands for he has always stood for and worked for temperance measures."

"All the prohibition measures which we have in Virginia have been promulgated and enacted by Democratic administrations, and Democratic administration has given us enforcement which compares favorably with any state in the union."

Hatcher Will Vote.

"Dr. Pollard's wide experience and ability mark him as the man most capable at this time of carrying out day the progressive programs inaugurated in Virginia. Therefore, as a citizen of this state, and feeling it my duty to cooperate in every worthy endeavor for good government, I shall vote for him in the November election."

ANOTHER ROMANTIC RELIC THREATENED BY PROGRESS

From the Newark Evening News.

Slowly but ruthlessly the roman is being taken out of everything. Steam has made the following the sea about as prosaic as going to the factory when the 7 o'clock whistle blows. Travel, once an adventure, now is largely a progress from one Main street to another. So with aviation, rapidly becoming a business of schedules and routine. Now Newark's police and fire surgeon wants to have the sliding poles taken out of fire houses.

Perhaps the poles have taken their places with other outdated things, as archaic and inefficient. Records of injuries to firemen in American cities, sustained in sliding down those poles, are pointed to. Statistics, showing the number of pole accidents, the total of enforced days of idleness and the resultant financial loss to cities are quoted.

Very well, when statistics get in their deadly work, something has got to go. But a poleless fire house will lose much of its appeal to the imagination, and the small boy will find the prospect of some day becoming a fireman has shed much of its glamour.

Don't forget the Election Day date; November 5.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET

Election, Tuesday, November 5, 1929

For Governor

JOHN GARLAND POLLARD

For Lieutenant-Governor

JAMES H. PRICE

For Attorney-General

JOHN R. SAUNDERS

For House of Delegates

D. M. CHICHESTER

WHO DOES?

Do you believe—

That Governor Harry F. Byrd is a wolf in sheep's clothing, a tyrant bent upon welding shackles upon his unsuspecting subjects?

That John Garland Pollard, after years of consistent work for prohibition, for improved educational facilities, for better election laws and other reforms in state government, is seeking the governorship to betray his friends and the principles for which he has fought?

That every Democratic officeholder of the last 50 years has been in league to enthrall the people—whatever that is?

That bringing $300,000,000 worth of new industries to the state is a bad thing for Virginia?

That reorganization of the state government, resulting in a reduction of taxes and at the same time giving the treasury a surplus of more than 2,000,000 in place of a deficit of $1,300,000, was conceived in iniquity and will ruin the state?

That giving the state good roads at a cost of ten cents a day for each car owner is an example of bad management?

That providing counties a choice of local form of government is "just awful"—because Democrats did it?

That a man who displays gross ignorance of the state's affairs and seeks preferment through misrepresentation and playing upon the prejudices and passions of the people will make a better governor than will one who is expert in the knowledge of governmental machinery and who treats the electorate as men and women of intelligence and sound judgment?

If you believe these and all the other absurd statements and innuendoes contained in Republican anti-Smith, or coalition propaganda, you will probably vote the coalition ticket on November 5th.

But Who Does?

INDIVIDUALS ARE THE COMMUNITY.

No one person or group of people make a community. Each and every inhabitant of a town and the surrounding territory go toward making up that community.

And each one in the community owes a certain duty to the other people of the community. Each one is a cog in the machine which helps a community toward greater growth, increased prosperity, and making it a better place in which to live.

On another page of this issue the business men of this community have a message along these lines which is worthy of the careful attention of every member of this community and of Prince William County. We urge you to read it.

A TARIFF BILL OR NO TARIFF BILL?

The original question of what kind of a tariff bill would be passed at the special session of Congress has been partly overshadowed by the question which has recently arisen of whether there will be any tariff bill at all before the session expires.

Failure of the leaders to agree at their first conference called to expedite the bill showed that both sides were standing pat on the flexible clause, which the Senate voted to eliminate, as well as upon the matter of rates.

In an exchange of charges in public statements, Senator Borah of the Progressives, and Senator Smoot, Chairman of the Finance Committee, each placed responsibility upon their respective forces, which seemed only to intensify the disagreement.

The overwhelming Republican majority in the House became primarily responsible for the situation which confronts the Senate when it decided to revise the entire tariff bill instead of confining itself principally to a revision of the agricultural schedules to establish something like parity with industry, and to limited changes in the industrial schedules obviously exorbitant, or admittedly too low in the case of languishing industries.

Following the defeat of the flexible clause, the President's pet section, in the Senate, a large number of administration Senators seemed to lose interest in the bill, and the Republican party press began to speculate upon the advisability of having no tariff bill rather than surrender the flexible clause in the existing law. Some of the latter have urged the House not to accept the bill without a flexible clause empowering the President to fix rates, and have suggested an executive veto, although the Senate had not yet acted on a single rate, and therefore could have no knowledge of what kind of a bill they asked the House to reject or the President to veto.

On the other hand, Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, has made it clear on several occasions that the Democrats supported by Progressive Republicans wanted a bill enacted that would do justice to agriculture and industry alike. He said: "If administration Senators choose to prevent the passage of the tariff bill because of the repeal of the existing flexible provision, they must take full responsibility."

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

Democracy is declining; democracy is disintegrating; democracy is doomed, say some professional students of world affairs. They point to the rise of dictatorships in the Old World and the break-down of law-observance in the New as proof of their contention. These men are not shallow sensationalists, but trained observers of international trends, accustomed to weigh evidence. Popular self-government, in their sober judgment, has shown such major defects as to constitute a crisis in civilization.

Demagogues dismiss this dismal diagnosis with fervid rhetoric; which is no way to deal with a subject so serious. Clear-eyed and courageous facing of the facts is called for. Men and women with mature minds, able to take large views, must consider carefully the foundations of these pessimistic prognostications. Is there international evidence—such as the dictatorships in Italy, Spain, Turkey, Russia, Arabia, Persia and China—sufficient to support the conclusions of the critics of democracy? Locally, in one's own country and community, is there any such breakdown of the people's self-imposed laws as would give support to these predictions of gloom?

If so, what are we going to do about it? In the face of a serious drift away from democracy, what is the duty of good citizens?

Clearing Out the Old Springs.

Anybody who is not big enough and brave enough to grapple with these great problems of self-government is not ripe for democracy. Next to his ability to do business with God, the surest sign of man's soul sovereignty is his capacity for the organization and maintenance of civilized society. Religion and politics, said Gladstone, are the supreme interests of intelligent human beings. The whole basis of successful democracy is the ability of the average person to think soundly upon public affairs. When people cease to think responsibly and altruistically, then it is time for the man on horseback to appear.

As country folk know, it is occasionally necessary to clear out the accumulated rubbish from the spring that supplies the water for the household. Apparently, we have come to a time for the cleaning out of the springs of democracy and an examination of their sources and of their adequacy. This task is so important and so solemn that it may be called a religion.

For we cannot overlook the undeniable and historic fact that democracy roots in religion. The famous Greek democracy was not a democracy at all, in the modern sense. "Government of the people, by the people, for the people" derives from the New Testament. It is the sense of human equality before God, and of the sacredness of personality, that has made possible the daring conception of complete self-government. And the New Testament is explicit in its teachings of civic duty, as our Lesson passages show. When we examine the springs of our national life, we find them flowing from the rock of the Law of God.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FOR NOVEMBER 3, 1929.

Reading Out Crooked Churchmen.

So a good Christian and a bad citizen cannot walk under the same hat. We know that some church members are big business men who corrupt the state's servants; and that others break laws, great and small. In so doing, they abdicate their Christianity, flout the Divine Law and dishonor the sacred name they bear. Let us have clear thinking upon this point. Nobody can be loyal to God and disloyal to plain, everyday civic righteousness. Disobedience to the laws of the State is, ordinarily, transgression of the Higher Law which sanctions these. We must render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's if we would render unto God the things that are God's.

Let me quote Peter's pertinent words, which are part of our present Lesson:

"Submit yourself to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake: whether it be to the king, as supreme; or unto governors, as unto them that are sent by him for the punishment of evil doers, and for the praise of them that do well. For so is the will of God, that with well doing ye may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men: as free, and not using your liberty for a cloak of maliciousness, but as the servants of God."

Shall the Gunmen Rule?

With heads bowed in shame, we admit that there is not manifest today any such widespread concern for civic righteousness and political integrity as the conditions would lead one to expect. No wave of moral passion is sweeping the world. The greatest American cities have of late been shown to be undergoing a reign of terrorism at the hands of the underworld. That the gunmen and "trackers" levy tribute upon legitimate business is revealed without shocking decent citizens into action. Lawlessness, of many shades and degrees, has so enervated the body politic that men do not leap forth in blazing resentment to end this shameful state of things. There are far more perilous callings today than that of the professional gunman. He, in turn, is more feared in certain quarters than are the officers of the law.

A few years ago Italy, Turkey, Persia, Arabia, were bandit-ridden. Almost the first acts of the dictators was to exterminate these and reassert the sovereignty of the State. Apparently, a lawless democracy is a prelude to a dictatorship which at least enforces its laws.

Parting Company With the Bible.

On the surface of this Lesson lie two obvious truths. The first is that the Bible begets law-observance: nobody can be faithful to its teachings and at the same time faithless to the laws and authority of the State. Neither the bootlegger nor his patron, who is his creator and support—can expect anything but condemnation from Holy Writ. So also the tax-dodger, the bribe-giver, the man who uses political "pull" with a court, and so perverts justice, and all the whole brood of "respectable" law-breakers, put themselves outside the pale of obedience to Scripture, along with the grosser offenders. Bible-believers are law-observers. Ethical disloyalty to God's word is quite as grave as doctrinal heresy.

Second of this Lesson's teachings is that loyalty to the State and its laws is a positive and active duty of Christians. They are the natural supporters of Government. A quickening of the Christian conscience will put purpose and power into the ongoings of democracy. Christian citizens are bound to be militant in opposing all lawlessness. Their peculiar duty is to preserve our Christian civilization, with its noble ideal of self-rule by the people, against all the open and subtle forces of lawlessness. The first line of defense for our imperiled democracy are the men and women who have learned from God's word to "render therefore to all their dues: tribute to whom tribute is due; custom to whom custom; fear to whom fear; honor to whom honor."

Poor Duffer.

For the Laboratory.

"Five hundred dollars for that old worn-out flivver of yours! Impossible. Who'd ever pay that?"

"The auto school. They wanted it for the students to practice on, and it certainly had everything that could be wrong with a car."

Hope.

"There was none of this promiscuous kissing at parties when I was a girl."

"Well, you're only forty now, dearie. Still young enough to get a few breaks."

"Do you enjoy bridge?"

"Some parts of it," answered Miss Cayenne. "I particularly like the moments when cards are being shuffled and everybody has time to give out the gossip."—Washington Star.

Shopping Hints.

A kiss will last but a day, ten pounds of candy she will eat and forget; the roses you send will fade with the dawn, but a Persian kitten or a nice puppy is an hourly reminder of you. McEden's Kennels.—Christian Advocate.

Nothing.

A youngster was starting to school and learning to spell.

"What does A B C spell?" he asked of his mother.

"Nothing," she said.

"Well, does X Y Z spell anything?" he again asked. And again the answer was "nothing." A small girl who had stood by, listening intently, remarked dryly, "It seems like there's a lot of ways to spell nothing."

He Had the Floor.

Whatever trouble Adam had, No man, in days of yore, Could say when he had told a joke, "I've heard that one before."

To the Electors of Stafford and Prince William Counties:

When I announced my candidacy for the House of Delegates early in the summer, I felt sure I would have the health and could spare the time from my business during September and October to make a vigorous and personal canvass, but when the time for filing my name as a candidate came, I found I would need to depend much on my friends. This, though their offers were both general and generous, I thought would be too great an imposition so concluded to postpone my race until next time when I hope to be able to make a personal and successful canvass.

I regret that I could not make it this time as I would like very much Markel, chairman of the association's legislative committee.

Bus lines have an investment of over $5,000,000, and will operate this year over 32,000,000 miles in Virginia, Mr. Markel stated. BYARS ANSWERS GLASS.

J. Cloyd Byars, of Arlington, Virginia, former organization man, but identified with the Anti-Smith Democrats since 1928, now campaigning in Virginia in the interest of Dr. Brown and the Coalition ticket, speaking in Emporia on Monday night, charged Byrd, Swanson and Glass with responsibility for the independent movement.

Inconsistencies of Glass and Pollard. The official acts and public utterances of Senator Glass have been a series of inconsistencies. As a legislator he sponsored the Federal Reserve Bank system, which gave us a full measure of prosperity, then advocated a policy, which destroyed the prosperity it created. He reminds me of the cow which habitually milks the pail full then kicks it over. She was a good milker but had a bad disposition.

As a life long Virginian, proud of her contribution in men and measures to the cause of Democracy and human liberty I deplore the ill will, bad judgment and verbal intemperance recently exhibited by the junior Senator from Virginia.

"Talking Doll", "political marionette", "witless slanderer", "liar", and "hybrid candidate for governor", are a few of the choicest epithets hurled by Senator Glass last week at Dr. Brown, leader of the Independent Democrats of Virginia.

But overlooking the extravagant, not to say extraneous substance of the Senator's Boydton speech, injected with characteristic vigor, to enthrone those who do not differentiate between venom and veracity, let me quote some other passages, more in keeping with Senatorial dignity, even if they are at variance with his record.

"I think", said the Senator, "that a public man should entertain decided convictions and have courage enough on all occasions to express them." That the Senator had convictions, prior to the Houston Convention, all who read his widely published 1927 views touching the political situation in general and the Prohibition question in particular, will agree.

I do not have the article he published before me, but the substance of the Senator's observations at that time as I now recall, were, that the nomination of a wet candidate by the approaching Democratic Convention would amount to political hari-kari, that such a candidate would and ought to be hopelessly defeated.

After the Houston Convention, political expediency, seems to have superseded the erstwhile courage of his convictions. He let loose a torrent of invective against the "ecclesiastical boss" and other intolerant bigots who agreed with him in 1927, but maintained the courage of their convictions in 1928.

Among other surprising disclosures made by the Senator at Boydton we find that "there has been no machine in Virginia for years." PAGE-MAPP! Now, what do you think of that? All of you who believe that there is no machine in Virginia will please stand on your heads. Collier's Weekly, just out today, recognizing the nation wide interest in this fight in Virginia, refers to Mr. Pollard as having all the weight, strength and cunning of "Virginia's Democratic machine" behind him. Therefore, and for other reasons, the most charitable construction to place upon the Senator's declaration is that he was joking.

But the most enlightening feature of the Boydton address is the Senator's quotation from the State Democratic platform of 1928, on which he now firmly places Dr. Pollard, and on which they both stood flat-footed, while supporting Governor Smith for president. Listen to the Prohibition plank, inserted I believe by the Senator, in the Roanoke platform, just three days before the Houston Convention:—"Prohibition of the manufacture, sale and transportation of liquor, is a Constitutional and Statutory policy of the United States and of the State of Virginia; and obedience to the laws in respect thereto is distinctly an obligation of good citizenship and an imperative duty of public officials."

I would like for the Senator to tell the people of Virginia if Dr. Pollard, who he says, "now stands on the platform of this party adopted at Roanoke last year," which platform declares "that obedience to the State and Federal government is distinctly an obligation of good citizenship and an imperative duty of public officials", was standing on either the State or the National platform when he was supporting Smith for president.

If the Senator, who is an expert on platform construction and is both versatile and adroit, can explain how Pollard's record in supporting for president Tammany's wet candidate, who bolted the platform on which he was nominated and flagrantly violated the confidence of those who regard the Constitution as supreme, by repeal of all New York enforcement laws and advocating Constitutional nullification, can be made to dovetail into, or conform with, either the State or the National Democratic platform, I will vote for Pollard for governor this year, and Glass for Senator next year, and Smith for president in 1932.

Why should the Senator fuss with those of us who accepted his platform, State and National, in good faith and are still standing by our convictions, while he and his candidates ignoring both platforms bow down to the false god of political expediency?

SWAVELY UPSET
BY EPISCOPAL

Varsity Loses In Battle With Episcopal High School At Alexandria.

A score of 37-0 was piled up last Saturday when Episcopal High School of Alexandria won over Swavely. The game was the fastest that the local boys have played, and they went down valiantly before their superiors.

An enthusiastic group of Manassas people attended the game with the hope of seeing the Big Blue Team come through with another victory. At present the local boys have taken half the games played; two victories have been to their credit on their home field against Business High of Washington, and R. M. A. of Front Royal. Both of these contests were closely fought with the scores 13-0 and 6-0, respectively.

This week the Junior team from Swavely travels to Alexandria to encounter the Junior team of Episcopal, and they have revenge at heart for the loss of their brother players. Under the guidance of Coach Shalloo the youngsters have been whipped into a snappy outfit that should keep their opponents on their toes.

GETS LIFE SENTENCE FOR BRUTAL ATTACK ON CHILD

Danville, Oct. 30.—Purcell Nester was sentenced to spend the rest of his life in the Virginia Penitentiary by a Corporation Court jury last Saturday, which convicted him of a brutal attack on Louveline Heflinger, aged 10. The 26-year-old carpenter accepted the sentence without concern and remained throughout the day a placid figure while the State clamored for his life.

The jury was told that only the certainty of death on conviction would put a check on depravity as indicated by the evidence.

The final defense appeals were for clemency and an elaboration on the theory of reasonable doubt.

Nester himself had testified that he knew nothing about the crime, being intoxicated. Before being sentenced Nester said he had nothing to say. His record showed that he served two years in the penitentiary in 1925 for shooting another man. He is married and has children. The jury deliberated 35 minutes.

L. Lloyd, chairman of the county chapter. Dr. E. H. Marsteller is chairman in charge of the home hygiene plan and the instructor is Miss Ruby Ryman, whose work as county nurse is attracting the attention of doctors in other counties as well as of the American Red Cross.

These courses teach the value of sunlight and fresh air and general cleanliness, and combat the harmful medical superstitions which grew up in the days before the discovery of germs and disease transmission. The instruction covers subjects in personal hygiene, preventative measures and hygiene of the home with the normal and special problems in the home included, such as care of babies, pre-school and school children, care of the sick, the aged, and the helpless, and common ailments and emergencies. They conclude logically with the relation of the foregoing subjects to community health.

The Red Cross courses in home hygiene have the warm approval of school and health authorities, as an aid to maintaining health. Students in schools, as well as adults, obtain an understanding and appreciation of the need to guard and maintain health, to create an interest in working for better civic conditions, and to become acquainted with future responsibilities as home makers. In different parts of the country, fathers and families have taken these courses. Boys trained in first aid have also formed home hygiene classes.

MOORE FLAYS ANDERSON.

circumstance that he started his campaign in 1921 by wholesale denunciation of the state constitution, which was adopted in 1902. Whereupon it was shown that in 1908, in a public address, he commended the same constitution, declaring that it placed the institutions of the state upon a 'sound basis' and assured the 'Supremacy of intelligence'. I am not a bitter partisan, nor have I been in the habit of abusing people of the other party, many of whom have honored me with their support, but Colonel Anderson's untruthful reference to me justifies me in expressing the opinion that no man in Virginia is so little entitled to the consideration of his people as the man who will practically control its affairs should the coalition party prevail at the election next Tuesday.

Chronic Political Agitator.

"For some reason or other, and probably because of his disappointment at failing to secure the high federal and state offices to which he has aspired, he has become a chronic political agitator of the most vituperative and destructive type, whose unparalleled egotism leads him to assert superiority over better leaders belonging to his own party, and a contempt for those of any party who may disagree with the views which he for the moment is pleased to entertain.

It might as well be understood that while Dr. Brown's name will be on the ballot, as a candidate for Governor, his sponsor, Colonel Anderson, has in effect made the contest an issue, not between Brown and Pollard, but between Anderson and Pollard, and I have no misgiving that next Wednesday it will be known that Anderson has suffered another decisive defeat."

BRENTSVILLE HIGH DEFEATS OAKTON

Oakton Piles Up 7 Points But Weakens Under Spirited Attack In Last Period.

The Brentsville District High School journeyed to Oakton on Tuesday night where they tackled the basketball team of that school. The game was played with a vim and dash, and at the close of the first half Oakton was trailing the Nokesville boys by a 1 to 7 score.

Oakton came back with a vengeance in the second half and quickly added 6 points to their total, but this served only to increase the attack of B. D. H. S., who, by lively rushing, rolled up a score sufficient to win. The final score was Nokesville 12 and Oakton seven.
