MRS. WINGFIELD ATHEY DIES

Services Attended by Large Gathering

Our community was saddened by news of the death of Mrs. Winfield T. Athey early Friday morning, November 7, at the Fauquier County Hospital, Warrenton, where she had undergone a major operation about two weeks previous. Although her condition had been regarded as very serious for several days, her death came as a shock to her many friends here.

Mrs. Athey, who before her marriage was Miss Leota Quinn, of Welch, West Va., was twenty-five years of age and an attractive and lovable young matron, having made a number of friends during her brief stay here. She, with her husband and little son, had been making their home with Mr. Athey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Athey, for the past few months, coming here from Newark, N. J., in August of this year.

The deceased is survived by her husband and little son, Tommy, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Quinn, two brothers, Garland and Walter, Jr., and a sister, Jacqueline Quinn, all of Newark, N. J.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the Presbyterian Church, of which the deceased had been a member for several years, by the pastor, Rev. W. A. Hall, assisted by Rev. A. Stuart Gibson, with interment in the local cemetery.

The pallbearers were: Messrs. F. G. Cockrell, Edwin Cockrell, Raymond Davis, C. C. Fisher, Worth Storke and Claude Hixson.

Those from a distance attending the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Quinn and family, of Newark, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Erthal, Mrs. Mozelle Masemer, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dutrow, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Cockrell, Mr. and Mrs. Smith and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Cockrell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gary, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Dawson, all of Washington, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Clarke, of Minnieville, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Athey, of Vienna, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Houghton, of Front Royal, and Mr. Paul Athey, of Danville.

COL. MOUDY IS LIQUOR FOE

Tells Audience of Improvement in Public Gatherings

Lieut. Col. Alfred Moudy, a speaker for the Flying Squadron Foundation, delivered an instructive and forceful address on the Constitution, including the Eighteenth Amendment, in the Methodist Church Sunday night, November 8, to a large and appreciative audience.

One of the main points stressed by the speaker was that in order for one to be a good American citizen, one must obey all the laws of the Nation, whether one liked them or not.

He also stated that as he came in contact constantly with the soldiers and with young people, he was in a position to state, most emphatically that there was not the drinking among them that propaganda depicted.

He said that he had attended a football game where there were thousands present and not one person under the influence of liquor was seen. He said that every person holding an office from the President to the postmaster had to take an oath to uphold the laws of the Nation.

Those who failed to hear Lieut. Col. Moudy certainly missed a treat. He speaks in every state in the Union sometimes making three addresses a day.

LEST WE FORGET

Across the hills the bright light dies,
With poppy red that flames the skies
Midst poppy fields that bloom below,
Where purple shadows come and go,
There sleep the dead!

The soldier dead, each in his place,
With earth's clean cover o'er his face.
By day the flame of crimson sky,
By night, starlight's unfolding mystery,
No bugle call, no trumpet's note,
No reveille from cannon's throat,
Shall summon these whom death has met.

May Col. Moudy, if we forget!
—Euse Taylor Cargill.

ROAD MEETING WELL ATTENDED

All Sections of County Represented at Orange Courthouse

Three large delegations from Prince William County were present at the meeting at Orange on Tuesday when the State Highway Commission heard arguments for allocation of additional highway mileage under the Porter-Rhodes Act.

Hon. Thomas H. Lion and all members of the Board of Supervisors except Mr. Merchant were present. Other making the journey included R. S. Hynson, A. S. Boatwright, Hon. Harry Davis, mayor of Manassas, Town Manager Cocke, Dr. George B. Cocke, Bruce Whitmore, M. M. Ellis, Dr. Marsteller, Dr. R. C. Payne, W. M. Jordan, Tyler, W. H. Herring and Cecil Smith.

The Board of Supervisors and the apparent majority of those attending advocated the plan already set forth in resolutions of the Board. The Haymarket delegation, headed by Supervisor Robertson, pushed the claims of the Carolina Road project which would take the cross county road through Hickory Grove to the Loudoun line at Gillum's.

The main interest of the Nokesville delegation was to secure any unallocated mileage for the road proposed from Chappell Springs toward Chancellorsville via Morrisville.

Announcements of the Highway Commission may be expected before the first of the year.

Refreshed by hot chocolate they started the last half with renewed vigor and energy. In the first part of the last half Occoquan showed forward and made the final goal deciding the game.

URGES PRACTICAL PATRIOTISM

Deeds of World War Veterans Should Not be Forgotten

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 11.—Aiming both barrels at the modern fad of "debunking" America's patriotic ideals and traditions, Paul C. Wolman, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S., stressed the need of a nation-wide campaign in behalf of practical patriotism, in an Armistice day message released from national headquarters here.

"The manner in which the authors of modern war fiction and movie directors have pictured the world war doughboy as a madamoielle-chasing, liquor-drinking Paris tourist has done more to undermine the principles of patriotism and good citizenship than nearly any other factor in our everyday life," charged Commander-in-Chief Wolman.

"Not content with maligning the memory of those who died on the fields of Flanders, these so called debunking artists have sought to strip the nation's historical figures of the respect and loyalty their deeds inspired," Wolman continued.

"In their frenzied desire to pander to the demands of modernism, biographers have seized upon intimate details that in no way concern public interest but merely satisfy a peculiar craving for realism. Like ghouls who ransack the final resting places of the dead, these writers have assailed the lives of great figures of the past, men whose qualities of character are imbedded in the very constitution of the government and whose memories are endeared to the hearts of every loyal American.

"The evils of this tendency are apparent in the minds of the younger generation. Young America finds itself confused and mystified. Facts learned in school are being ruthlessly ridiculed and denied-beliefs have been shattered. The modernists are laughing at the very things they believed sacred.

"A serious menace exists and a determined counter-action is the only solution. The nation is sorely in need of a campaign of education along the lines of patriotism—not the flag-waving, spell-binding brand of the old school—but a practical patriotism that debunks the debunkers and contributes constructively to the preservation of ideals.

"A nation without ideals is doomed for decay. Traditions willed to us by the achievements of our forefathers give us strength for the future and an intense desire to perpetuate and keep forever the heritage that is ours as a result of their fortitude and courageous endeavors."

Brentsville District High School News

The most interesting thing taken place at B. D. H. S. is the work on the new gymnasium. The help given by patrons is appreciated.

In the latter part of last week and the first part of this week, the achievement tests made out by the state, were given to the most of the High School pupils.

On Armistice Day, the Junior High School League had a very interesting meeting. Charles Beahn was elected as a delegate to the state Junior League convention, at Richmond, November 28. After the business session a good program was given by the boys and girls, consisting of songs, orations, essays, a pantomime and recitations.

The Junior Grade League has purchased play ground equipment.

Friday, November 7, Brown May, Charles Beahn, and Harry Miller accompanied Ray Swank to Daleville, Virginia, where he took part in an oratorical contest. This contest was sponsored by Bridgewater College, in the Valley Chapel. Ray won first place, which is a one year scholarship to Bridgewater College. It will be remembered that Ray won first place in the District Contest, which was a sixty dollar scholarship sponsored by the same college at Cannon Branch in the latter part of the summer.

There will be a game of soccer on the High School grounds Friday, November 14, between the Occoquan boys and B. D. H. S.

Mrs. Chandler had been a faithful member of the Methodist Church for 44 years and was a very highly esteemed for her fine character and devotion to the welfare of those about her.

COUNTY RELIEF WORK DISCUSSED

Chairman Connors Gives Feeding Suggestions

Ways and means of relieving present drought conditions were discussed at the joint meeting of the county drought relief committee and agricultural advisory council at the Manassas Town Hall Tuesday afternoon.

Since the emergency freight rates would not probably be extended after November 30, it was generally agreed that with feed prices about as low as they are likely to go, it would be wise to purchase needed feeds as far as they could be financed while shipments can be made on the reduced rates. Since the meeting notice has been received that the railroads have definitely deided against extension of the emergency rates beyond November 30.

E. R. Conner, Chairman of local drought relief committee, called attention to the low prices of grain and concentrates as compared with hay prices and suggested that use be made of these as far as practical in feeding livestock.

Unemployment was brought out as one of the problems in the county. No solution for this could be seen for the present.

A committee was appointed to call on the chief of the remount service and the District Congressman and carry resolutions from the body asking that a move be made to obtain increased appropriations for purchasing cavalry horses. Horses suitable for this service are held in considerable numbers by farmers in the county for which a market would afford relief.

The continuation of last year's extension program of soil improvement and better seed, with special attention to catch crops and renewing of stands of clover and grass, was adopted for the coming year. In addition to these projects, better sires work was included.

Little Miss Esther Clarke Ill with Scarlet Fever

We are sorry to know that little Miss Esther Clarke, a most attractive and brilliant youngster, who is especially popular with students and teachers of the Haymarket High School, is confined to her home at Gainesville with scarlet fever and her many friends extend a wish for a speedy recovery that she may soon be able to return to school and resume her studies.

GROUP MEETING HELD AT OCCOQUAN

The intermediate grade teachers will meet at Occoquan, Saturday, November 16, at 10 o'clock. This meeting of the fourth and fifth grade teachers will conclude the series of meetings held by Miss Clark. As had been hoped, the meetings have proved to be very satisfactory, in that, direct help has been given each teacher in his own field of work.

Practically the same plan of program will be given at the fourth and fifth grade meeting as at the previous ones.

Demonstration Lesson in Arithmetic—Miss Mabel Lewis; Methods of Teaching English—Miss Lulu J. Hammond; Methods of Teaching Community Study, History and Geography—Miss Catherine B. Smith; Methods of Teaching Geography—Miss Hazel Carter; Main Objectives in Teaching Spelling—Miss Dorothy Lankford.

An unusual amount of enthusiasm has been manifested by the teachers. Each meeting was well attended. Instead of being wholly uninteresting meetings, they took on somewhat of a social air, in that the teachers could become acquainted socially as well as educationally.

Under Supervision of Miss

RED CROSS DRIVE IN PRINCE WILLIAM

Announcement of Committees

The annual enrollment drive of Prince William County Chapter, American Red Cross, launched throughout the county on Armistice Day with community chairmen and their assistants bestirring themselves in a determined effort to register a 100 per cent record.

Mrs. W. L. Lloyd, chairman of the Prince William Chapter, has stressed the fact that drought conditions have brought about a situation within the county which will tax every relief agency throughout the winter and urges that every one enroll even if they do so at a sacrifice. It should be born in mind that fifty cents out of every dollar enrollment remains in the county for use of the Chapter, while a $5.00 membership leaves $4.50 in the local chapter treasury.

Mrs. Mamie Lynne Dulaney is chairman of the Enrollment Drive committee, and has working with her through the county the following staff:

STATE FORESTER ISSUES APPEAL

Approach of Hunting Season Brings Important Statement from Charlottesville

A warning to hunters against the danger of forest fires has just been issued by Chapin Jones, Virginia State Forester, who cautions against possible carelessness that may set the woods and fields aflame.

"I earnestly appeal to all Virginians to use all possible care and precaution against setting fires in the woods and sedge fields during the Indian Summer weather that we may expect between now and the coming of winter," the State Forester said. "I appeal particularly to the hunters who will be tramping the woods and fields by the thousands as soon as the hunting season opens on November 15. No doubt fires will occur during the hunting season as a result of the carelessness of smokers who are not hunters and from a variety of other causes, but if the number of fires occurring during the hunting season should materially increase, it would be generally assumed that the carelessness of hunters was largely responsible. This would be apt to result hereafter in further restrictions against the hunters on the part of the landowners, who naturally do not want their property exposed to injury by fire, and perhaps also certain legal restrictions, which I hope will not become necessary, and which I think should be adopted only as a last resort."

"Within the past week I have heard expressions from a few people which indicate that they have the impression that the occasional rains which have occurred recently, beginning on October 16, have reduced the fire danger to about normal for this time of year. Possibly in a few localities where the rains have been heaviest this may be approximately true, but I do not think it is true for the state as a whole. The effects of the long drought are undoubtedly still with us.

The ground was thoroughly dry to such a great depth that the recent rains have only moistened the surface and unless rains continue we are confronted with the danger that the forest fires during November and the early part of December will be even more severe than usual."

RADIO ADDRESS BY FIRE WARDEN

FOREST FIRES, THEIR CAUSE AND CONTROL

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I would like to talk to you a few minutes to-day about Forest Fires, Their Cause and Control and I sincerely hope that every listener in and their friends will do all they can for the protection of our forests which are rapidly disappearing. By far the largest number of forest fires that occur in Fairfax County are caused by brush burning, smoking and railroads and practically all are due to carelessness.

Brush and trash burning head the list however of causes.

Generally speaking brush can be burned with least danger of fire escaping from December 15 to February 15 and from June 1 to October 1; this summer being an exception owing to the extreme drought. The danger period is from March 1 to May 15. I should like to give a few of the most important points to be remembered when burning brush.

From 1920 to 1929, thirteen hundred and five forest fires were started from brush burning in Virginia. The total damage done was estimated by Forest Wardens to be $22,518 and the total area burned over was placed at 158,486 acres, the situation is more serious than these figures indicate as the reports of these fires during this period were received from approximately only half the counties in the State.

First of all brush burning can be done with much more safety by not starting any fires until three or four o'clock in the evening at which time there will be considerable moisture in the atmosphere. Burn brush in small piles, burning one pile feeding it from nearby piles where possible.

Rake a safety ring down to mineral soil around each pile to be burned. Have sufficient help with water and tools ready for an emergency, for remember the wind is likely to blow when the fire begins to burn. Do not pick a dry time to burn brush for remember you are responsible for all damage done and if in doubt as to whether you can control the fire should the wind get up, keep the match in your pocket and wait for a damp day.

When you have burning, stay with the fire until you are sure it is dead out, leave someone reliable to watch the fire during the dinner hour, as more fires escape at this time than any other time. Burn against the wind and do not fail to watch the fire the next day, even tho you think it entirely out it may rekindle, especially if the wind is changing.

Quite a number of fires escape from ladies burning trash around the yard or garden, in the springtime. Now ladies when burning the refuse have several buckets of water handy and be sure to see that the last spark is out before you leave and if you are not positively sure you can master it, better haul it and stop some gully, for remember you may burn some neighbor's home, to say nothing of the fact that it is a fire hazard. Do not throw away cigarettes or matches without being absolutely sure they are dead out, feel them and break every match in two before throwing them down, many fires are started from cigars and matches thrown from automobiles and railroad cars, think of the damage to the forest and wild life you may cause, don't do it. The best time to stop a forest fire is before it starts, next to that is as soon after it starts as possible. Investigate all suspicious smokes in dry weather.

Back firing is the best and most available means of controlling forest fires but be sure you control your back fire.

Many fires are spread by promiscuous back fires, try to find a road or stream, if this cannot be done rake a path and fire from this path being sure that your fire does not cross the path. When backfiring be sure not to set too much at a time.

If the wind is blowing toward your fireline, watch for sparks to catch some distance over the line, particularly in old dry rotten wood. Should they catch, a bucket of water and an old sack soaked makes an excellent thing to smother them out. Where a fire is burning toward a small branch, a good plan is to take buckets to throw water along the banks of the stream and watch for sparks to catch on the other side.

Put out or cut down all snags, near the fire line and watch for fire to break out the next day.

Fairfax County has had far too many fires this year and is near the worst county in the state. Now my appeal to you folks is to be careful next year and we will put Fairfax County in the lead of all the counties in Virginia.

I thank you.

J. L. MONEY, Fire Warden,
Fairfax County.

"Those Happy Days"

One of the decided "hits" of the newspaper world is the full-page Sunday Magazine feature, "Those Were the Happy Days," in the Washington Star. The artist, Dick Mansfield, captures with his pen the home life of three decades ago—and he pictures the old-time people and places you know. Teletype System Increases Efficiency of Police Force

Gen. Charles G. Galtner, Baltimore Police Commissioner, observing Sergeant Joseph Rosensteel and Ernest Becker transmitting messages by the new teletype system just installed for the Police Department.

Telephone typewriter service has recently been installed for the Baltimore Police Department. This service connects police headquarters with the various district stations in the city and provides a quick and reliable means of printed communication between these police stations. The apparatus installed is similar in operation to the equipment used so successfully by press associations and newspapers in disseminating news throughout the country.

The new communication system will supplement, but in no way displace the telephone system now being used by the Police Department.

The general operating features of the telephone typewriter system, according to Frederick J. Irish, general manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City, include the sending of typed communications by police headquarters to any of the district police stations individually or to any group or all of the police stations simultaneously. Each of the district stations may type messages to police headquarters or they may communicate with each other by connections established on the switchboard. Each connection will be limited to one transmission and not more than two district stations may be directly connected with each other at the same time.

Telephone typewriter equipment is now used effectively by the police departments of many of the larger cities of the country, and as well by a number of the state police organizations. Use of the telephone typewriter equipment by the Pennsylvania State Constabulary is said to have brought about the quick capture of a man and woman who had killed a state trooper early in the year.

Present day communications, Mr. Irish states, are conducted largely by means of the telephone and typewriter. These two devices of efficiency have probably contributed more to the effective administration of modern business than any other inventions. The telephone has brought the personal touch of authority into the execution of business transactions and the typewriter has provided a record of these transactions and made them of permanent value. Now there is a service which combines the merits of these two instruments—the telephone typewriter.

Bible Thought for Today

See that none render evil for evil unto any man; but ever follow that which is good, both among yourselves, and to all men.—1 Thess. 5:15.

FACING FACT

In the general atmosphere of business depression there are some contributing factors that can be eliminated by the application of right thinking.

One of the causes of the vast army of unemployed is due to the fact that we are rapidly going back to pre-war conditions. Fabulous wages can no longer be paid. On the basis of extravagant pay for all branches of commercial activity a false idea of living has done much toward undermining credit.

The banks in New York, we understand, are discouraging savings accounts because their vaults are bursting with money which they cannot lend because of lack of security. There is no shortage of money but as usual under Republican control the bulk of the money is in the hands of a few.

We hope this factor will be dealt with at the polls in 1932 but there are other factors that we can deal with locally.

One of these is for working people of all trades to realize they will probably never again draw inflated wages and must buckle down to what they can get.

Another factor is the let down in buying even necessities. The holiday season is upon us. Let us reasonably spend what money we can earn, believing that more work and more money will come. This will sustain our merchants and keep us normal.

Fright is the basis of most confusion, faith is the basis of all success. What we need is restored confidence. The South had a hard political chill two years ago and the fever following has blurred our vision.

WARFARE IN DIXIE

Since Stringfellow Barr's "Shall Slavery Come South?" appeared in the last issue of The Virginia Quarterly Review, the shelling has been continuous. Allen Tate, John Crowe Ransom and Donald Davidson, three leaders of Southern thought, opened the firing. Mr. Barr, who argued that the old agrarian economy was inadequate for the South and that industrialism was not only the inevitable substitute but the proper one, was accused of having sold out to the industrialists. He replied sharply, and the fight was on.

Already it has engaged the editorial attention of scores of newspapers and, among Southerners who pause to think of their lot, it is a conversational subject of absorbing interest. For the South, in its change from an agrarian to an industrial economy is going through the most important transition in American history. The discussion of this transition is no mere academic exercise: it is a discussion of things that vitally concern our individual lives and our cultural life as a whole.

Spokesman for the agrarian side of the fight are twelve distinguished Southerners, the authors of an interesting forthcoming book called "I'll Take My Stand: the South and the Agrarian Tradition." This symposium argues that the old Southern virtues—leisure, love of places and homes and family, friendliness and kindness—cannot thrive in a South of factories as they thrived in the South of farms. Mr. Ransom in the leading article says Southern leaders should:

"arouse the sectional feeling of the South to its highest pitch of excitement in defense of all the old ways that are threatened. The attitude that needs artificial respiration is the attitude of resistance on the part of the natives to the salesmen of industrialism. It will be fiercest and most effective if industrialism is represented to the Southern people as what it undoubtedly is for the most part—a foreign invasion of Southern soil, which is quite capable of doing more devastation than was wrought when Sherman marched to the sea."

This, says Stringfellow Barr, in effect, is nonsense. Industrialism, he argues, will make it possible for the South to work out her destiny in the light of her fine traditions. "The South," he wrote in the article which started the fight, "faces a brilliant chance for a new industrial experiment that will rehabilitate her economically without wrecking her spiritually."

Men holding such divergent points of view on a matter of such importance should fight it out, and so it was suggested that they take the platform in a public debate. The Times-Dispatch took over the sponsorship and the debate will be held in the City Auditorium on Nov. 14.

As sponsor of the debate, our attitude is one of strict neutrality, but we can, we believe, say that the two sides will be presented ably and brilliantly. Stringfellow Barr and John Crowe Ransom themselves belong to the best Southern tradition: they are men of courage, honor, ability and sincerity. Both were Rhodes scholars at Oxford. Mr. Ransom has written some of the best modern American poetry, and Mr. Barr is a historian and critic of consequence. They should provide an intellectual feast.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

POLLARD URGES WOODS TO ACT

Governor Pollard has urged Colonel Arthur Woods, chairman of the Unemployed Commission appointed by President Hoover, to enlist national administration support for the suggestion that Congress in December appropriate $5,000,000 to each of the fourteen drought stricken States, including Virginia, as a special Federal aid road fund.

Voting of this fund, which would be repaid in ten years through deducting $500,000 each year from the normal Federal aid extended to Virginia, would aid the Old Dominion considerably in launching more road building to relieve unemployment accentuated through the drought, Governor Pollard informed Colonel Woods and give Virginia a road budget of more than $25,000,000. The Governor termed the telephone interview as "encouraging."

The Chief Executive added that the State Highway Department's preliminary work has been planned in advance so that no delay will result in starting road construction, once the funds are available.

The State appropriation for construction and maintenance amounts to $15,058,380; the share of counties is figured at $3,134,000, and the regular Federal aid of $2,382,088. Should Congress provide the special $5,000,000 fund requested Virginia would have more than $25,000,000 to spend next year on road projects, and work could be started in December.

Failure of farm crops this year will cause suffering and hardships among farmers this winter, a burden which can partly be relieved by giving employment to farmers in the building of soil roads, and aiding them through purchase of sand and gravel and renting of trucks for hauling purposes, Governor Pollard said.

MUSIC! MUSIC!

Manassas ought to have a good band and there are plenty of people especially boys and girls of school age that should be playing some instrument. A home or Sunday School orchestra is possible.

Prof. West, a noted band master is locating here. A pupil of New England best teachers over 40 years experience in teaching young and old bands, all instruments and a soloist violins, clarinet, saxophones flutes horns, drums, cornets, trombones, baritone, bass, etc. Now is the time to buy while times are hard. High grade best makes can be bought for about 1/4 actual cost. My terms are very reasonable as I am also teaching in other towns. Let me explain how all this can be done. What would be nicer than a series of concerts by Manassas own band the coming summer? Experience unnecessary. Call anytime.

Respectfully yours,

HENRY WEST,

Rooms and Studio over Bakery, Manassas, Va.

Senger says his ointment cures "The Piles." Even has the check to say try it on the "No Cure No Pay" plan. And with all that check, he says he thinks a man would show a terrible check to cure the piles with his ointment and not be willing to pay the price of the ointment. Well, possibly he would providing he does not wear whiskers.

Howdy citizens, what do you think of election?

Lots and lots of lamie ducks floating around! The political sea is thick with wreckage. I suggest that the biological department of our Federal Government examine a few specimen and ascertain if possible what parasite, or like of sight, killed Mr. and Mrs. Office Seeker. Our country is filled to overflowing with web footed, duck billed politicians. The entire population can be divided into three classes. First are the folks that do not give a D—d. Second, let the other fellow do it. Third, political aspirants.

If we could only get all the thirds together, and then take a little stick and stir 'em about like we use to play frog in the middle; I honestly believe things would improve.

Men and women without any training—unable to think—with a brain volume about the size of a marrow fat pea, an ego comparing favorably with a base drum, seem to take pleasure in announcing themselves for political office. With the least provocation, like a cat after a mouse, they pitch their fedora into the ring.

The public coffers have an appeal to them that reminds me of a Southern negro's love for a red meat, black seeded watermelon. They beg and plead for the great privilege of being our servants. They rap on our Please turn to page 8

Judge Walter McCarthy has entered an order returning to the Fairfax County road system that part of the Washington, Great Falls and Dranesville Highway between Elkins and Dranesville, a distance of approximately five miles. Directors of the highway company endeavored to complete the petition in time for action at the September term of court, but the necessity of obtaining the signatures of a large number of the company's bondholders delayed the proposition. The only part of the road which has been a paying proposition for the toll gate company is the section between Langley and Great Falls, over which it still maintains control. Supervisor Mark Turner states that there are no funds available for immediate improvement of the road which has been turned back to the county.

Fairfax Council, Order of Fraternal Americans, Wednesday appointed J. Frank Swart, Stacy S. Swart and John C. Sisson a committee to plan refreshments for the next meeting. State President W. A. Wine of Quicksburg has accepted an invitation to attend. George B. Robey, J. U. Kincheloe and E. Mack Wiley were appointed a committee to choose the speaker for the annual memorial meeting and the church where the services will be held November 30.

IT PAYS TO FEED GOOD COWS—LIBERAL

For the month of September, Bob Lewis a G. Holstein was getting only 840 lbs. of corn silage, 120 lbs. of ordinary hay and 360 lbs. of mixed feed. And she was a big 1200 lbs. cow. She required much more feed. Her record was 1137 lbs. of milk. Test 3.1 per cent—35.2 lbs. of fat valued at $33.77 less $9.95 feed cost, leaving $23.82 above feed cost.

For the month of October she got 930 lbs. of corn silage, 310 lbs. of alfalfa hay and 465 lbs. of mixed feed. Her record was 1392 lbs. of milk test 3.8 per cent—52.9 lbs. of fat valued at $48.16—$15.54 feed cost—$32.62 above feed cost. Leaving a gain over the previous month of $8.80.

The herd of 34 cows that this cow was in made an average increase of 121.0 lbs. of milk, 8.8 lbs. of fat and $2.90 above feed cost for October over the month of September even if alfalfa hay was fed costing $31.00 a ton.

Calf-Path

a not-too-serious analogy

Speaking of wonderful methods of doing business, reminds us of one that's famous name, "The Calf-Path." A few selected lines explain what it means.

One day, through a primeval wood,
A calf walked home as good calves should.

And left a trail all bent and crooked.
A crooked trail as all calves do.

And from that day, o'er hill and glade,
Through those old woods a path was made.

And many men wound in and out,
And dodged, and turned, and bent about.

And uttered words of righteous wrath
Because 'twas such a crooked path.

The years passed on in swiftest fleet
The path became a village street.

And this, before men were aware,
A city's crowded thoroughfare.

And men two centuries and a half
Trod in the footsteps of that calf.

A hundred thousand men were led
By one calf near three centuries dead.

For thus such reverence is lent
To well-established precedent.

Excerpt from The Calf-Path by Sam. W. Fox

AAP does not go blind along the calf-paths followed by business men centuries ago. AAP customers do not have to bear the expense of handling food by old-fashioned zig-zag methods. AAP's methods are the best money-saving methods of today.

front doors, shake hands and inquire very feelingly and prayerfully about our health. They make a dull remark to Sister Sue and a wise crack to Little Jimmy. And if you give 'em a pinch of encouragement they will invite themselves to break bread with the family.

A small per cent of this particular class of politicians slip into office by hook or crook, and become a menace to our democratic form of government. Each state bears the stamp of its public men in office. The South has not an outstanding man in public office today. I don't mean by this, that we haven't got good, honest and conscientious men in office. I simply mean that we have not a statesman in sight that can measure up to Jefferson, Jackson, Monroe and a few others whose names are recorded upon the pages of history.

What are we going to do about it? the answer is this: Do the very best we can with the tools we have to work with. Our government depends upon the two party system to keep on an even keel. When a single political party has an undisputed control year in and year out we see a slacking of initiative, a gradual decline in the power of our public men, degeneracy in statesmanship, with a resulting inability to hold our own as a state or nation.

Virginia has undoubtedly lost prestige. Her public servants do not shine in the seats of the mighty. She, like Sampson, has been shorn of her locks—she has been betrayed by a one party rule. When the two predominant parties run neck and neck we find our form of government at its best, because, we can then pick the best men. There is an exact check, one against the other.

The South needs the two party system. As it exists today, we have the democratic party governing the state, and the Republican party dispensing Federal patronage. The sharp witted Republican politician, regardless of fitness, is appointed to a Federal office pronto! While on the other hand a shilly-shally Democrat announces himself for the Primary. Money, luck and one way politics makes him a winner; the code of honor says, "He must be supported to a man."

Have we representative government?

Pennsylvania is one sided, but she has one outstanding figure, Pinchot. The powers that represent the worst elements in both the old line parties made a mass attack against him and failed. Watch Pinchot!

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, sailed home ahead of time in the Primary. Ruth had plenty of money and no poor kin. She just shucked out around $500,000 worth of golden nuggets, "Pay as you enter." Senator Nye said, "Hey, Ruth, you can't do that!" And Ruthie retorted: "Well, what are you going to do about it?" Sister Ruthie then straddled the prohibition issue. The voters of Illinois decided to let the old girl to stay home. So Ruthie does not become a member of the richest club in the world, "our Senate." The poor rich Ruthie died a-borning.

Mr. Morrow of Jersey goes in (another millionaire) fifty per cent of Lindbergh's hero worship helps make Daddy Morrow a member.

Walsh, Norris, Cussons and Borah go back, we can't very well do without 'em.

We are glad to note Senator Allen of Kansas was defeated, and just as glad to learn that Congressman Lankford of Virginia, Second District of Virginia won.

A mid-term election is always interesting. Let's give ourselves for 1932. We have a fine stable of thoroughbreds: Hoover, Borah, Pinchot, Ritchie, Wheeler, Morrow and Roosevelt. "All aboard little chillin', chillin', there is room for many more."

Walter Winchell says, "Don't use a gun to blow your brains out. A pocket handkerchief will do."

A moment's thought on the drought question:

Lieut. Governor Price says, "An extra session of the State Legislature is needed at once for a bond issue for building roads." Very foolish, Mr. Price. It can't be done, even if the legislators would agree to serve without pay. Why don't you read the MANASSAS JOURNAL; Twin City stated over two months ago that an extra session of the Legislature would be adding fuel to flame. Absolutely a foolish suggestion.

Gov. Pollard undoubtedly has been reading Twin City Gossip, for, he has simply quoted me in telling Mr. Price "Nothing doing."

And "nothing doing" sums up every thing that has been done by all the state and federal committees that have been appointed to help alleviate conditions.

In all seriousness, they appear as a gigantic fizzle. At a later date I want to cover the drought question fully.
