MANASSAS, VIRGINIA

THURSDAY, MAY 19, 1932

SUBSCRIPTION $1.50 A YEAR

ANNIVERSARY OF THE JOURNAL

Early History Recalled by R. M. Waters.

With this issue The Journal passes its sixty-third milestone as a weekly newspaper in Manassas. Founded in 1869 as "The Manassas Gazette," our publication became The Journal thirty years ago. During all these years, under varied ownership, The Manassas Journal has faithfully served Prince William county and so far as we know, even at the time of the big fires, has never missed an issue.

We take pleasure in publishing the following communication from Mr. Waters, whom we thank for his kind wishes and for whom we wish many years of continued health and happiness:

Editors, The Manassas Journal.
Gentlemen:

I note with interest the fact that The Journal this week will complete its 37th volume, having been established in 1895.

Complimenting you upon the splendid progress you are making with this newspaper, I am taking this occasion to call attention to some interesting facts about the early history of the Manassas newspaper and especially to the fact that you are not really completing your 37th year, but your sixty-third. This is a fact which you should note on your masthead, because your newspapers is one of the older publications of the state and entitled to recognition as such, it having been merged with the older Manassas Gazette which was established by me in 1869.

When you have reached the age of 84 you will appreciate that many details through life are forgotten. I cannot give you accurate dates on Journal history, but I know you will be interested to have this brief statement. My father, R. A. Waters, established me in business here in Manassas under the firm name of Waters and Whiting. My partner, Daniel Webster Whiting, was the experienced reporter of the concern. We were located next to the old Varnes Hotel which stood on the lot on Main Street across the street from Newman-Trusler Company.

About four years after establishing the Gazette we sold to H. B. Varnes and James Clark, the latter then being Commonwealth's Attorney. Later ownership passed to others, among whom were William Willis Thornton and later to Judge William E. Lipcomb, Hon. Thomas H. Lion, who finally sold to W. H. W. Moran, who, I believe, merged the Gazette into the present Journal. The recent history is well known. The late Dan Lewis became proprietor and publisher. In failing health he sold to H. B. Trundle, who finally relinquished it and ownership was transferred to Major Patterson, from whom you gentlemen acquired possession.

There may be some omissions and inaccuracies in this brief survey, which I hope you will pardon. I believe, however, that you should recognize the real volume number of The Journal as 63 and not 37.

With best wishes for your continued success, I am

Very sincerely yours,
R. M. WATERS.

WOMAN'S CLUB AT SWAVELY

Delightful Tea-Dance Much Enjoyed.

Members of the Manassas Woman's Club and Junior Club enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon at a tea-dance given at Swavley School Saturday, May 14.

The president, Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. Broadus, Mrs. Newman, Mrs. Sanders, Mrs. Kline, Mrs. Lloyd and Mrs. Swavely were hostesses.

Music for dancing was furnished by Mrs. Wm. Leachman. Simple refreshments of sandwiches, punch and cake were attractively and daintily served. The gymnasium was prettily decorated in evergreens and colorful spring flowers.

MRS. ROBERT HUTCHISON'S INTERESTING REPORT

The fourth district convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy met at Standardsville, Va., April 14-15. The historical evening at 8 p.m., the 14th, held in the Methodist church, was well attended and the program interesting.

Rev. W. L. Ribble was master of ceremonies. One of the most interesting features of the program was a sketch of Greene county, prepared by Miss Helen Ewell, descendant of Gen. Ewell. Addresses were made by the district chairman, Mrs. Berkeley Caffee, and Miss Anne B. Mann, president of the Virginia Division. Mrs. Cabell Flournoy, representing Mrs. F. L. Palmer, the state historian, was present on this occasion, and charmed the audience with her eloquence.

Another interesting and inspiring feature of the evening was the singing of Southern songs by the local children of Confederacy Chapter, "Dixie Land," "Old Black Joe," "Southern Girl" and "Jim the Cavalier." The hostess chapter, Mrs. E. C. Dickerson, president, is the newest chapter in the fourth district and a most ambitious chapter, the Blue Ridge Grays, taking its name from the beautiful mountains near them, that can be seen in every direction.

The Business session Friday morning was held in the beautiful old historic Courthouse, and was full of interesting and stimulating reports from the chapters in the fourth district, the report from the Manassas chapter receiving its share of favorable comment, and one of the Manassas delegates was made chairman of resolutions.

Miss Mann presented most ably all phases of the U. D. C. work. Adding needy Confederate veterans and their wives was stressed as of supreme importance in the work of the chapters, and historical work the next, following the programs as outlined in the year book, placing Southern books in school-libraries, getting the students interested in Southern research work, etc.

A typical Southern lunch was served by the hostess chapter, after which an open discussion on the work of the different chapters. Exchange of ideas was enjoyed.

At 3 p.m. delegates and visitors adjourned to the Hillside cemetery where a monument to the Confederate dead of Greene county, erected by the local chapter, was unveiled by Miss Helen Ewell and an eloquent speech by Senator N. B. Early was delivered.

Then we turned our backs to the beautiful Blue Ridge mountains, and started homeward to meet again this fall at the State U. D. C. convention in Fredericksburg.

Those attending from the Manassas chapter were Mrs. T. J. Ashford, Mrs. R. A. Hutchison, Mrs. Walter Newman, Mrs. Norvell Larkin, and Mrs. Albert Speiden.

ROLAND L. DAVIDSON

Roland L. Davidson, retired Government Printing Office proofreader, died May 7, at his home in Washington, D. C.

Surviving Mr. Davidson are his wife, who was Miss Mary J. Matthew of Manassas, and one sister, Mrs. Geo. Watson of Bristol, Va. The body was sent to Bristol, his former home, for burial.

NOKESVILLE AND CATHARPIN WIN HONORS

THE COST OF GOVERNMENT

By Hon. Harry Davis, Mayor of Manassas.

(An address delivered before the Woman's Club of Manassas April 13, 1932)

We have left definitely behind the horse and buggy age and in carrying forward the idea of consolidation of political units and taking action to accomplish constructive developments over an area covering larger number of units, is but using the same guiding principles that motivated those who established the present units and who used the yardstick of most effective service to all the people in setting up the smaller units of government.

Using these principles as a guide, tradition will give way to cold logic and actual analysis of present-day conditions, and through such, economy and efficiency in local government can be secured and maintained.

The Bureau of Municipal Research estimates that an annual saving of approximately one million five hundred thousand dollars in the operating costs of local governments could be made to the taxpayers of Virginia by centralizing administrative functioning.

This estimate is based on a complete reorganization of the local governments, the elimination of the fee system, the establishment of modern financial and accounting methods, co-operating between adjoining counties in carrying on certain administrative functions.

Outside of political reasons, the only objection voiced against consolidation of county units is the sentimental desire to perpetuate the county names and boundaries and their historical significance, but there is no cause for alarm because it is possible to retain both of these features and still effect a more efficient government from an administrative standpoint.

Some movements in this direction can be observed. For instance school districts comprising one or more counties are already in existence in some sections and our own school system is operated on a county unit basis for administrative purposes, yet these districts are still recognized as such and retain any and all of their historical significance, and they are operated on the county unit basis because it has been found to be cheaper and more efficient than the separate and independent school districts.

Another example is the districts formed into the State Highway Department for administrative purposes and finally an example a little closer home is the consolidation of the county poor houses of the five counties into the District Alms Home.

The capital outlay at this District Home amounts to approximately $50, 000 as against an open market value of the several county poor houses of $67,000 while the average monthly per capita inmate cost in the old county poor houses was $27.47, whereas in the District Alms Home, this per capita cost has been reduced to less than $22.00 a month.

The investment on the District Alms Home is much less than the old county poor houses which it replaced and the overhead cost has been materially reduced which accounts for the lower cost of operation and at the same time, there is absolutely no comparison of the living conditions of the inmate. As a matter of fact, the manner in which the old county poor houses were conducted was a disgrace to civilization, while under the present method the inmates enjoy all modern conveniences and attention which was not possible under the old method and at much less cost per capita.

Recent county consolidations have been effected in the states of Tennessee and Georgia, with immediate good results. Needless to say, Virginia is still concerned with county government reform.

The last session of the General Assembly made it possible to effect county consolidations through referendum. However, it is recognized that it will take time to secure majority support for county consolidation in Virginia, because there exists a serious menace that must first be corrected, namely, the wide spread indifference of many citizens to the needs and welfare of county government, which neither government nor the General Assembly can remove, but must be done by the citizens themselves. No plan of government, however ingenious, can succeed in the face of general civic indifference. There is no substitute for an enlightened and an alert electorate.

If the citizens do not play their part, the inevitable price of such neglect will eventually be the loss of local self-government to the rural communities, and State assumption of local functions. This is evidenced by the gradual absorption from time to time by the State of local functions formally operated by the counties.

If the principle of local self-government is to be preserved, it must be through the efforts of an interested and informed rural citizenship. We cannot call ourselves either wise or patriotic if we seek to escape the responsibilities of remodeling our local government, to make it more efficient and serviceable to all the people and more responsive to modern needs and at a less burden to the taxpayer than at present.

DAIRY FESTIVAL MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Piedmont Virginia Dairy Festival Association will be held at the Manassas Town Hall, Wednesday evening, May 25, at 8 o'clock.

It is anticipated that other counties will be well represented and there should be a good attendance from our own county.

KIWANIS TO FEAST LOCAL HIGH GRADS

Annual Feature Will Take Place This Month.

Bill Cocks put on an impromptu program last week which was highly successful. An interesting discussion intermingled various observations.

Several of the club, with Al Hooff in the lead, went into town today to help Washington celebrate its birthday (15th).

On Friday evening, the 27th, the graduating class of Manassas high will be the guests of the club at the annual entertainment given them by the club.

OCCOQUAN TAKES FINAL GAME FROM HAYMARKET

The Occoquan boys ended their county schedule by defeating the Haymarket nine at Occoquan by a score of 16-3.

Both teams showed unusual good form at first, but the Haymarket boys weakened as a result of several costly errors. The excellent fielding and batting punch of the Occoquan team soon put them leading. R. Shepherd on the mound showed his usual twirling ability.

DEATH OF ROBERT L. PATTERSON

On May 10, near Woodbridge, Va., the soul of Robert L. Patterson took its flight to God. He was stricken with a paralytic stroke about April 1 last, and was confined to his bed almost from that time. On May 8, another stroke occurred, from which he never revived. All that loving hands could do, could not sustain him for God wanted him in the better world.

He was seventy-six years of age; born October 25, 1855, near Neabsco, Prince William county, Va. He lived his entire life near where he died. He was well known and loved by all who knew him.

He is survived by his beloved wife, Amanda L. Patterson, and four sons, Wilbert B., Elmer S., and John W. Patterson of Woodbridge, Va., and Jesse D. Patterson of Indian Head, Md., and one grandson, Dale Patterson, Indian Head, Md.

The funeral services were held in Pohick Episcopal church, Fairfax county, Thursday, May 12, 2 p.m., Rev. R. C. Cline officiating, and Rev. C. A. Langston assisting. The body was laid to rest in the family lot in Pohick cemetery. Many floral offerings covered the grave.

He was a member of Dumfries Council 37, Jr. O. U. A. M.

MANASSAS FLYING FIELD

Town Manager Cocks announces the formal opening of the local flying field on a date early in June. Details later.

Take First Place in Their Respective Classes.

The annual exhibits and field day came as a happy ending to a very disagreeable week of rain. The attendance was excellent and the competition keen and interesting.

The exhibit of the work done by the children naturally echoed the bi-centennial atmosphere. Perhaps the most unique and painstaking was that of the Hickory Grove school.

Located on the historic Carolina road and in full sight of the beloved mountains, a scene depicting the mountains and an Indian trail with Indians in file were shown traversing the road which lead from Carolina to New York, together with appropriate setting, gave a real history lesson.

A composition by a third grade pupil gave the explanation of the significance of the whole episode.

Dumfries chose the decadence of old Aquia as its theme. Bennett school displayed settler days in its work. Three schools gave excellent reproductions of Mt. Vernon—Nokesville high, Joplin and Aden. Bethel had some unusually good patriotic posters. The exhibit of Goldridge was composed of prettily bound historical compositions. Quantico featured a number of good models and posters. All of the schools were well represented in their exhibits.

At noon, after an interesting meeting, the School Board gave the faculty of the county their usual luncheon treat which was greatly enjoyed.

By noon, the children had gathered in scores for the afternoon games which took in promptly after everyone had lunched.

When the evening shadows gathered, Nokesville had rounded up forty-four points and was declared the winner in the consolidated school class while Catharpin with 22 1-2 points won in the two-room class.

HOOT GIBSON WITH "THE VITAGRAPH GIRL"

Best known and longest remembered of all picture players is Florence Lawrence, "The Vitagraph Girl" of the quaint old days when one strained one's eyes to get a nickel's worth out of the flickering films.

In addition to her present work, of fan magazine and films column writing, Miss Lawrence still gets a thrill out of appearing before the camera and is seen in a minor part in support of Hoot Gibson in "The Hard Hombre," at the Dixie Theatre next Saturday.

"TEN NIGHTS" IS STORY OF A CHILD FAITH AND DEVOTION

After everyone else had given him up, as a hopeless case, Joe Morgan's little daughter never once forgot that he was her father, and that once he was a kind and loving father. This lasting faith is the inspiring force, that brings about her father's regeneration, but not until the child has been made the innocent victim of a tragic accident, resulting from her visit to the saloon in search of her father. "Ten Nights" will be seen at the Dixie Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday.

ANOTHER MILESTONE

With this issue, THE MANASSAS JOURNAL celebrates another birthday.

The present management extends its sincere thanks for the generous response that has been given their efforts to maintain the high standards set by prior owners of The Journal.

A fixture in Manassas annals, we hope to keep the old Journal in its upward trend so that it may grow to keep pace with the progressive Manassas of tomorrow.

Again, may we say, in the names of former editors and for ourselves,

WE THANK YOU.

HIGH WATER LAST WEEK

The continued rains of last week very nearly isolated Manassas. By Wednesday it was necessary to approach from the west via Buckland. At nightfall on Thursday, Sgt. A. P. Mulholland was placed on duty at the bridge near Neverlet on the Centreville road. By 2 o'clock Friday morning the crest of the flood was at its height and water flowed over the low portion of the road on the Prince William side, but not quite enough to block traffic.

On Friday the approach on the Prince William side of bridge was observed to be in bad condition and it was necessary to post Mr. Mulholland again the next evening. Reinforcement to the approach in the shape of rock, etc., made things safe again.

Mr. Frank Mohler and his assistants have been busy since that time patching the road in various spots and in placing rip rap on the downstream side of the road where the water rushed over.

Down nearer the Potomac, things did not become dangerous until late Friday and into Sunday night. The Occoquan bottoms filled out into a large bay but little damage is reported. Up the Potomac, water arose about seven or eight feet on Saturday in the vicinity of Georgetown and further upstream the waves were lashing the piers of the Chain Bridge on Sunday evening.

This is the first high water for several years, especially so for this time of the year. Planting was seriously interfered with and the cool weather accompanying the rains has just been delightful for the cut worms and other soil nuisances.

STOP

Borrowing Money From Your Friends

In the first place, no one likes to lend money for which he has worked hard, and which he, perhaps, needs for his own use. Then again, it weakens your business and social prestige, and is about as injurious a habit as a young man can possibly cultivate.

Instead of borrowing, use a little judgment, and each month deposit with this safe bank a part of your income. It may come a bit hard at first, but you'll very soon see the wisdom and enjoy the benefit of it.

HARRY BYRD AIDS APPLE GROWERS

Explains Conditions of Foreign Market.

Harry Flood Byrd, favorite son of the Old Dominion, relegated his political aspirations to the background in Washington May 11 and took up a task more dear to his heart—championship of eastern states apple growers.

Opening a conference he had called for the discussion of foreign problems seriously affecting American apple exports, the former governor of Virginia, and Shenandoah Valley orchardist, contended that the present Hawley-Smoot Tariff law was the cause of high foreign retaliatory tariff barriers, which have drastically curtailed exports of domestic apples.

Pointing out that before the passage of the Hawley-Smoot tariff, American apples were allowed free entry into practically every foreign country, Governor Byrd added that since its adoption, duty barriers and restrictions have been placed on Virginia and other eastern apples by nearly every European country and in South America.

Calling particular attention to France and Argentina, he explained that these countries not only have high tariffs, but have added sanitary restrictions that amount to practically an embargo on American apples. It was held that these measures were caused not only by the exceptionally high 1930 American tariff, but by drastic regulations issued by the Department of Agriculture affecting the imports of French nursery stock and Argentine grapes.

"The American apple industry is facing a great crisis," Virginia's foremost agriculturist declared. "Foreign trade normally consumes 20 per cent of this country's apple production. America does nearly all of the international trade in apples."

It had been previously brought to the attention of the conference that American apple exports come largely from the section east of the Mississippi River, "the bushel basket and barrel section," of which Virginia is the largest center, so it was clear that the former executive's fight was made in behalf of his native state.

SCHOOLS DRAWING TO A CLOSE

With examinations beginning next week, the county schools will see the end of the present term in a few days.

Last week witnessed the special tests and the results are published herewith. All athletic contests are now a matter of record.

There are about sixty in the graduating classes, the largest of which is at Manassas and the smallest at Occoquan.

Is Your Citizenship a Help to Your Community?

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

"Pasture grass is good feed but grass alone is not sufficient for high producing cows. Too often the pasture season serves as an excuse to discontinue feeding grain. Cows that are allowed to lose weight on pasture, which is frequently the tendency, seldom hold up in their milk flow during the fall and early winter. Cows are sometimes in a low physical condition after their winter season of production, and when they are exposed abruptly to the stimulating effects of fresh spring pasture without adequate supplementary dry feed, their physical condition is further impaired and their future profitableness endangered.

"Ordinary pasture grass often contains no more than 10 per cent of dry matter, which is less than the dry matter content of milk itself. A cow producing but twenty-five pounds of milk daily may find it difficult to procure enough dry matter from ordinary pastures to satisfy her milk production and body maintenance requirements. In fact, a cow having such production must consume at least 80 pounds of grass.

"Appreciating the fact that too much reliance should not be placed in pasture alone, although if abundant it furnishes the cheapest and most satisfactory feed for dairy cattle up to a certain point, as a source of nutrients for high producing herds, the grain feeding on pasture should be done strictly according to production. The following schedules are suggested as a basis for economical grain feeding:

"For Jersey or Guernsey cows producing:

- 20 lbs. milk daily—3 lbs. grain.
 - 25 lbs. milk daily—4 lbs. grain.
 - 30 lbs. daily—5 1-2 lbs. grain.
 - 35 lbs. daily—7 lbs. grain.
 - 40 lbs. daily—8 lbs. grain.
- "For Holstein cows producing:
- 25 lbs. milk daily—3 lbs. grain.
 - 30 lbs. daily—4 lbs. grain.
 - 35 lbs. daily—5 1-2 lbs. grain.
 - 40 lbs. daily—7 lbs. grain.
 - 50 lbs. daily—9 lbs. grain.

dairymen would do well to consider now what adjustments he should make in his herd's feeding program. There is little to be gained by feeding consistently low producing cows grain on pasture. It is different however in the case of high producers.

"When high producing cows are on young, green pasture, thirteen to fifteen per cent of crude protein in mixtures containing the proper ingredients is ample. In late summer when the pasture becomes more mature and less nutritious, eighteen to twenty per cent of crude protein in approved mixtures is needed.

"In no case should grain be fed as a substitute for roughage. When pastures become short and insufficient to maintain a proper milk flow, it would be well to feed some additional roughage in the form of soiling crops, silage or hay. It is this season of short pastures that plays havoc with a cow's yearly milk record, for if a slump in production takes place at this season, it is seldom possible for a cow to be brought back to her normal level of production during that lactation. It has been observed that as much loss can occur during a short pasture season due to lack of feed as occurs from improper feeding during the balance of the year. The dairyman provides roughage and grain for winter and he expects to feed his herd then. But in summer, when the cows are on pasture and field work is pressing, the tendency is to assume that the cows are getting enough to eat, or to let them shift for themselves. It is due to this letting down on the feeding program during the pasture season that many suffer financial loss through a false idea of economy."

(A variety of formulas for feed mixtures, which have been found satisfactory by the State Experiment Station and in which maximum amounts of home-grown grains may be used, may be obtained from the County Agent.)

LITTLE THINGS

"Little things, yes, little things
Make up the sum of life;
A word, a look, a single tone
May raise or calm a strife.

"One little act of kindness done,
One little kind word spoken,
Has power to make a thrill of joy,
E'en in a heart that's broken.

"Then let us watch these little things
And so regard each other
That not a word, or look, or tone
Shall wound a friend or brother."

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Compton wish to express through the Journal office their appreciation for the kindness and sympathy extended by their many friends when their daughter, Eloise, was seriously hurt in a recent automobile accident. They are happy to state that Miss Compton returned from the hospital Friday and is gaining her strength rapidly.

WE SHALL NOT SLEEP

In Flanders Field the poppies blow,
Between the crosses, row on row
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks still bravely singing fly,
Scarce heard amidst the guns below.

We are the dead.
Short days ago we lived, felt dawn,
Saw sunset glow,

Loved and were loved, and now we lie,
In Flanders Field.

Take up your quarrel with the foe.
To you from failing hands we throw
The Torch—be yours to hold it high;
If we break faith with those who die,
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders Field.

Spiders Unable to Fly
No species of spider has wings and therefore no member of this insect-like family of creatures can fly in the generally accepted sense of that term as applied to animals, birds and insects, says Pathfinder Magazine. Sometimes, however, spiders which travel through the air by clinging to pieces of floating web are called flying spiders. Under favorable conditions a young spider climbs upon an elevated object and emits a web which is caught up and carried away by the wind, bearing the spider along with it through the air.

MARY AS MOTHER OF WASHINGTON

The Colonial Home-Maker

A great man never lived who did not have the seeds of greatness in his mother before him; indeed, few great men have ever been so great in the qualities that send them far, as their mothers before them. It annoys us all, at times, when we scan the pages of history, to see the slight attention dusty old historians have given to flesh and blood people who have made their studies possible. History is so keen on the scent for cause and effect, for deeds and dates that it pushes into obscurity the men and women who did the things that make history worthwhile. Biographers, in their anxiety to fill the gaps of history, overshoot the mark and render their subjects ridiculous with praise. If we have lost sight of the human beings that these great men were, we catch but a fleeting glimpse of their mothers. Mary Washington is even more a mere name to us, so far as intimate details of her life are concerned than that of her illustrious son, George Washington. We know for certain when she was born, when she was married, when her first child was born, when she became a widow and when she died. The five words, "Mary the Mother of Washington," forming the simple inscription on the monument erected to her memory, are fraught with deep meaning and great significance. They suggest characteristics which the mother of so great a man must necessarily possess; characteristics which by her stoic patience and self-sacrificing devotion were instilled in the heart and mind of her first-born, thus laying the foundation of his own future greatness.

Like mothers of other famous men, Mary Washington sought divine guidance through prayer, through her Bible and through religious writings. It was her lifelong habit to rise at dawn and spend an hour in silent thought and prayer to prepare herself for the day's events. She was imbued with reverence and religious fervor. This, supplemented by adequate training in domestic routine and her sense of responsibility for the duties of home life, admirably fitted her for the role of motherhood.

As a girl she represented a perfect type of the high-bred colonial Virginia lady. She was beautiful and popular in her home community, yet had an independent turn of mind. That she was self-contained and content to await the coming of a fitting mate is apparent for she had reached the age of twenty-four—the wonder of the whole neighborhood—before she fell under the romantic advances of her suitor. With due consideration she made her choice and became the second wife of Captain Augustine Washington, the father of two boys.

It must have been with delight in her new home that Mary Elizabeth Ball came, in March of 1730, as a bride to the Washington estate at Bridge's Creek, now known as Wakefield. The plantation was on the point of a triangle formed by the two creeks and the majestic Potomac. She found a commodious, comfortable brick house with low-flung roofs, and with great lawns sloping to the river's edge. Great stretches of forest supplied a suitable background. Here was a staff of slaves to be kept busy and many domestic matters to direct, for her husband's home was that of a well-to-do Virginia planter.

It is said that when she first made her tour of inspection through the old house that she lingered at a little shelf of books. One book, "Matthew Hale's Contemplations, Moral and Divine"—seemed especially to impress her. On the fly-leaf the young bride read the name of her husband's first wife, Jane Washington. Then and there, she sat down at the table and taking a quill pen wrote sturdily underneath:—"Mary Washington." Henceforth, that book, along with her Bible, were her most prized possessions. She set herself the task of aiding her husband in the training of her stepsons, carrying on from their mother's own book the teachings her predecessor had laid down. As her own children came along they, too, were given a similar training.

Three generations of the Washington family had made their home on this plantation prior to the birth of George Washington. Soon after coming to America, John Washington, the great grandfather of George, chose in 1684 this beautiful home site for his American bride, Anne Pope. As they prospered they bought adjoining lands.

There has been much uncertainty about the original roof tree of the Washington family on this plantation. It is logical to assume that the first structure stood near Bridge's Creek, for it is there that the family burying ground, traces of outside buildings and cellar excavations have been found. The supposition that in 1735 Mary Washington, burning a pile of leaves from her garden, thus set fire to the house and burned it, has been discredited by a member of the family. From authoritative persons we learn that the veritable birthplace of George Washington stood until 1780 at which time it burned to the ground. Upon the old foundation, the Wakefield National Memorial Association has recently erected a house, typical of the original structure. Earlier, the same association restored the old graveyard. Likewise, a good road now gives the visitor access to Wakefield. At the quaint house on Bridge's Creek, little George Washington, blue-eyed and sandy-haired, first saw the light of day on February 22, 1732. The greatest joy and pride of Mary Washington's life came when the soft little head of her first-born was placed on her arm while a river crooned outside her window. Great, too, had been her joy as she went back and forth between spinning wheel and loom in happy preparations for his coming. She chose for her child the name of George in regard for her guardian, George Eskridge. A few weeks later the christening of baby George took place in solemn formality. Mary Washington wanted this first son of hers to become a minister, but in her wisdom she always sought what was best for him. History tells us that from the time little George could toddle his father trained him to ride, to climb, to jump and to shoot. The eager delight of the child when his father gave him a little sword brought protests from the mother lest her son crave a soldier's career. But she gave way to Captain Washington, who encouraged the soldier tendency, teaching the child courage, truthfulness and always to gaze his actions by honor. Meanwhile, Mary Washington's first daughter, Betty, named for her, and her second son, Samuel, were born. TRADE IN MANASSAS.

CATHARPIN

Once upon a time not more than a generation ago, "Featherbed Lane" leading from Groveton to Sudley church was known to all the inhabitants of the Sudley neighborhood and in fact to all northern Prince William as a road to be avoided. Well does the writer remember his experience in negotiating this cross-way lane with an E. M. F. car about twenty years ago when the road-bed and the run-bed rivaled each other for possession of the only ditch through which people had to pass; but this condition of things, as all things have a habit of doing, has passed along into history and if the old inhabitant were to return again to the haunts of his youth would find himself bewildered and amazed. He would find no "Featherbed Lane" but instead would find "Groveton Avenue" widened, straightened and improved and flanked by beautiful, modern bungalows. This once avoided region has now become a popular residential section and a place of beauty instead of a region in disfavor. Thus again we are reminded that things are just exactly what we make them. Homes and regions are desolate or beautiful just according to the spirit and energy of the owner. Let us all imbibe the spirit of this Bi-centennial year and while we sing "America the Beautiful" let us think also in terms of "My Home Beautiful" and thus honor ourselves and the "Father of His Country" whom we all love to revere.

Mrs. J. D. Wheeler of Wellington and Miss Nan Cather of Washington are sojourning in Atlantic City taking a two weeks' vacation. Mrs. Wheeler, while not residing in Catharpin neighborhood, is well known and has many friends here who will wish her a pleasant journey. While Wellington, Groveton, Stone House and Catharpin are really separate communities yet they all attend or belong to Sudley hence know each other well and what interests one interests all. So if any of you folks happen to see your names mentioned among the notes from this Metropolitan Center you must not become excited because we really just one big family and all interested in each other's welfare.

Mrs. Bertie Caton was a dinner guest at Bell Farm on Sunday.

A number of Washingtonians, as usual, spent Sunday among relatives and friends in the neighborhood. These friendly visitors were once natives and the frequency and regularity of their calls almost puts them beyond the "news zone" but they are always welcome never-the-less.

Mrs. Walter Sanders was a Washington visitor on Monday.

We often read of great revivals among the churches in many parts of the state and nation but one branch of this revivalistic effort has been sadly neglected and this particular feature must in some way be remedied if possible. Henry Ford and all other manufacturers of the automobile have spared neither labor nor expense to secure the best possible service for their respective machinings; synchro-mesh gears; free-wheeling beautiful body types, stream-lines, bright paint, soft cushions, free pedaling, etc., etc., but one thing they have all neglected. Their cars run noiselessly, speedily and can stand long distance endurance tests in every direction in all the world except to church. Very few of the cars are equipped with a church speedometer. We should appeal to Billy Sunday and the special evangelists to see if they can not in the same way evangelize the automobile. While we are fighting the depression and cutting down on our church expenses and doing without things we need yet the old irreligious automobile goes chug-chug-chugging along and apparently knows no depression. He goes everywhere, anytime, any place. The great question before us now is: "How can we get him converted?" A new pedal is needed—a "Church Excellerator-Speedometer"; Who can furnish it?

The whole neighborhood has been very much distressed during the past ten days due to the very serious condition of Mrs. Esther Dogan Terrell who was taken to the Warrenton hospital suffering from the effects of blood poisoning and heart trouble. Her condition has been alarming and suffering great but the news at this writing is that she is beginning to improve and her physicians now have hopes of her recovery. Mrs. Terrell is a very popular and useful woman in the church and community and her many friends rejoice in the hope that she may be spared to them yet many days.

Mr. Frank W. Brower of Prince, Md., was visiting the home folks at Lone Oak last week.

The Catharpin ball team played a return game with the Triangle club on Saturday last and true to tradition brought the game home with them by a score of 10-9.

The Catharpin two-room school was represented at the county school athletic meet on Saturday last by Jack Alvey, Mary Spencer, Jenks Ellison, Bertha Pattie and Margaret Ellison, they having won in their respective grades in Gainesville district. While all could not win in a county wide test, yet all made good records and were commended accordingly. Jack Alvey came home with two blues and a red as a result of his prowess in the 80-lb. broad jump class, he making a record of 14 ft.

4 or 5 inches more than was made by the 100-lb. class boys. The red was won in the high jump class. Mary Spencer won a blue in the basketball toss, these together with the winnings of others enabled Catharpin two-room school to bring home the county banner for having more points than any other school in their class.

NOKESVILLE

The Brentsville district nine closed their official season last Friday by banging out a 9-6 victory over the hard-fighting Manassas boys.

The local boys began their onslaught of "Baldie," who was doing mound duty for the visitors, in the early frames of the game, to run up a sizeable lead. At the same time Elvan Fountain, with his loose-jointed wing, held the Manassas stickmen practically hitless until the fifth, when "Buck" Albright slapped out a beautiful double.

After this disturbing blow of Buck's the game went smoothly enough until the eighth inning, when Fountain relaxed, walked a duo and allowed several hits to give the invaders about four markers. Elvan pulled himself together in time to check the rally before any serious damage was done.

Bradshaw of Manassas replaced "Baldie" in the closing frames, but was also found for a hit or two.

Wiley Garman, who capers around the pivot sack for the locals, was credited with the neatest blow of the day. He rapped out a clean triple.

The Manassas Mauler collected five safeties during the day while the Nokesville "Nockers" gleaned fourteen.

This victory leaves Haymarket and Brentsville district tied for second honors in the county league. And while we think about it, we're wondering when this "naturally" scheduled game between these two teams is to be played. Certainly, the officials of the schools won't deprive the fans and supporters of the teams of this treat.

We are glad to see Mr. E. C. Owens back on his mail route again. This is an indication that Mr. Owens is regaining his health.

BUSTER KEATON TRIES HAND AT HIGHBROW SLAPSTICK IN "THE PASSIONATE PLUMBER"

"About the only difference I can discover between sophisticated comedy and slapstick is that you bounce on the floor intellectually instead of physically."

This is Buster Keaton's humorous summing up of his latest role in the hilarious farce, "The Passionate Plumber," which comes to the Dixie Theatre on Friday.

"For years I have taken tumbles and smashed things up generally through miles and miles of film," said Keaton in a recent interview, "but my role in this production is the nearest approach to highbrow comedy of anything I have yet attempted."

"In 'The Passionate Plumber' I have an opportunity to combine slapstick and sophisticated comedy in the role of a crank French plumber. Many of the situations are carried to a certain point by dialogue to get me into an exceedingly embarrassing position whereupon it's up to me to go into some form of ludicrous physical action to 'top off' the gag. In this way the role enables me to take advantage of both types of comedy and, also makes possible the development of every scene to get full value."

MINNIEVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clarke and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. John T. Clarke and son, Jack, of Washington, were visitors at their home in Minnieville.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jerrell and Miss Ethel Posey and friend of Washington were visitors at their home here.

Mr. Clarence Bailey, Mrs. Minnie Hammond and two children of Baltimore and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Synas, Miss Lillian Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lee of Woodbridge were the guests at their home here Sunday.

We had a wonderful rain last week which delayed the farmers' planting corn, but they are making up for lost time now.

Don't forget the appointment of Elder Miller next Monday, May 23, 2:30, and perhaps a visiting minister with him.

Mrs. Janie Dane visited her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. L. Hinton, Sunday.

Mr. Egbert Thompson of Woodbridge was in Minnieville Monday on business.

Mrs. Cheshire and son, Ambrose, and daughter, Althea, visited Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Monday evening.

MARION DAVIES, CLARK GABLE IN ROMANCE

"Bolly of the Circus" will head the program at the Dixie Theatre Monday and Tuesday with Marion Davies enacting the role of a trapeze artist and Clark Gable that of a modern young minister. This unusual romantic drama is based on Margaret Mayo's stage success of some years ago and was directed by Alfred Santell of "Daddy Long Legs" and "Sob Sister" fame.

As the circus performer who marries a minister, only to find that she stands in the way of his happiness, Miss Davies is said to have a role which gives her even greater dramatic opportunities than that of her last vehicle, "Five and Ten." The story also has its amusing moments, for the hoydenish circus aerialist discovers that ministers are not quite the forbidding persons she had thought to be, while the small-town parson gets a new slant on life under the "big top."

Highlights of the drama include the sensational fall of the trapeze star, the scandal which ensues as a result of her convalescence in the minister's house, the refusal of the board of clergymen to give the minister a church when he marries the circus girl and the subsequent drastic attempt of the girl to "repair the damage." C. Aubrey Smith has a prominent role in the production.

"HORSEMEN OF THE AIR"

Uncle Sam has "Four Horsemen of the Air," who fly their planes each day without going anywhere. They are the men who gather data on weather conditions, and their work is among the "freak Government jobs." Read the interesting article on this subject in the Magazine of The Washington Star for Sunday, May 22, and order your copy of next Sunday's Star from your newsdealer today.

REGIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION TO BE HELD

The Regional Sunday School convention for this county will be held at the Columbia Baptist church, Falls Church, Va., May 25, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

This year there are eight regional conventions being held in the place of the annual state convention. We hope in this way to reach many more people than could possibly be reached in one meeting.

Dr. Henry Edward Tralle, New York City, and Rev. Minor C. Miller, state secretary, will be the principal speakers.

We hope that every Sunday school of the county will send as many delegates as possible. Let us support the Sunday school work and make this conference a success.
