

MRS. WILEY SPEAKS AT MANASSAS

Interesting Program by Woman's Club.

The regular meeting of the Manassas Woman's Club was held in the parish hall Sept. 14. This meeting was in the form of a home-coming, at which a most delicious plate luncheon was served by the hostesses to an extra large attendance.

Plans for the coming year were talked over, year books distributed and keen interest was shown in the activities that are well under way for the Manassas Woman's Club float in the coming Dairy Festival.

Mrs. C. R. C. Johnson gave an interesting talk, explaining the background of one of the most constructive pieces of charity work the club has undertaken.

The club had the pleasure to listen to Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, president of the D. C. Federation of Woman's Clubs. She talked about her trip to the western coast where she attended the annual convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. After listening to her one felt as if one had accompanied her for her address had a very personal touch.

The meeting adjourned in order with a feeling that the home-coming was a most successful meeting and a fine spirit prevailed to start the new year.

OFT A PRIZE WINNER

J. Carl Kincheloe, local sportsman, is having a splendid season with his show and racing mare, Kaffa. Already she has been in practically every fair or show in northern Virginia and Maryland.

Today Mr. Kincheloe is at Hagerstown.

Kaffa's winnings have been sufficient so that the value of the cash purses and cups this season have equalled her value. She has not failed to make place or take some sort of prize everywhere. Originally from a Maryland stable, Mr. Kincheloe bought her as a colt and has most successfully trained her. She is nearly three years old. She is at the court six years old.

NOTICE

The Red Cross has immediate need for used clothing, especially for children of school age. Any contribution will be very much appreciated.

LOCAL SCHOOLS OPENED THURSDAY

Mayor Davis and Rev. Gibson Make Addresses.

Manassas high school opened last Thursday with an unusually large attendance. The commercial department especially attracted a considerable number of graduate students with its new intensive one-year stenographic and typewriting course. The attendance at the Bennett schools was also very large.

Two excellent addresses were made at the opening assembly by the Rev. A. Stuart Gibson and Mayor Harry Davis. Mr. Davis spoke to the students on the meaning of citizenship and what the good citizen owed to his community, and showed that one of the primal duties of the high school was training in citizenship.

Mr. Gibson brought out that the chief duty now for all young people in this time of world-wide economic depression was to get all the education possible both to fit themselves for obtaining employment when opportunity offered and also to prepare to use happily and profitably their enforced leisure; for here again, as one of the great aims of education was to train people into honorable, self-supporting and public spirited citizens, so the other was to prepare them for the right use of leisure time so as to make life richer and more worth while.

NEW ARRANGEMENT
Patrons of the Prince William Bakery were agreeably surprised Wednesday to see extensive changes made to the lunch room arrangement which made more room for the accommodation of patrons and facilitated the handling of baked goods.

DAUGHTERS OF CONFEDERACY

Officers Elected for Ensuing Year.

A large crowd was in attendance at the monthly meeting of the Manassas Chapter, U. D. C., at 2:30 p.m., at the Grove, the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Washington with Mrs. John Ellis and Mrs. Middlethorpe assistant hostesses.

The president, Mrs. Ashford, presided. After routine business, the registrar reported having certificate of membership for Mrs. V. V. Gillum and Mrs. Warren Coleman. Miss Corine Stone's name was presented for membership and accepted.

Delegates elected to represent the chapter at the state convention to be held at Fredericksburg, Va., from Oct. 4 to Oct. 7 are as follows: Mrs. J. Ashford, Mrs. R. A. Hutchison, Mrs. Duff Green, Mrs. M. M. Washington with the following alternates: Mrs. Benj. Brown, Mrs. Albert Speiden, Mrs. Maude Kincheloe and Miss Nollie Nelson.

Mrs. C. M. Larkin read an interesting sketch of James Barron Hope, the poet, patriot and scholar.

The officers elected for ensuing year are as follows:

President, Mrs. Robt. Hutchison; first vice-president, Mrs. Emyln Marsteller; second vice-president, Mrs. A. Guthrie; third vice-president, Mrs. Herbert Nash; fourth vice-president, Mrs. Maude Kincheloe; recording secretary, Mrs. Austin Weedon; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Richard Hynson; historian, Mrs. E. H. Hibbs; recorder crosses, Mrs. Guy Allen; registrar, Mrs. Albert Speiden; treasurer, Mrs. R. L. Byrd, and custodian, Mrs. W. A. Newman.

A rising vote of thanks was given the retiring president, Mrs. Ashford, for her untiring efforts in the work of the chapter.

This year was one of most constructive and with best attendance of any previous year.

An invitation extended the Daughters by Mrs. Robt. Gulick and Miss Clara Lamb to meet with them in October was cordially accepted.

After adjournment, refreshments were served and enjoyed by all present.

FIELD TRIALS AT MANASSAS

Northern Virginia and National Capital Events Start Here.

This year the Northern Virginia Field Trial Association, which will be held October 10 and 11, will have headquarters at the Prince William Hotel in Manassas, starting each morning from the Parrish farm near Bull Run and working toward Centreville for lunch. Mr. H. B. Mitchell of Herndon is secretary, and those wishing to procure horses for the event should get in touch with Mr. C. B. Cross, Marshal, Fairfax, RFD 1.

On October 24 and 25 the National Capital Field Trial Association will also have headquarters and run its course as in the case of the Northern Virginia Association. Mr. Ford E. Young of Washington is secretary.

SCHOOL LEAGUE MEETING

The Community and Patrons League of Manassas High School will meet Thursday, September 22, at 3 o'clock, in the high school building. A full attendance is requested.

New Site Chosen for Festival Ceremonies.

With just two weeks remaining now before the Piedmont Virginia Dairy Festival shall draw enthusiastic and curious crowds to Manassas to witness the second annual staging of this colorful and far-renown event, all plans are practically completed. All indications point to a most successful celebration.

Conservative estimates place the attendance for the festival at around 50,000. Some predictions go as high 100,000, but these seem slightly unwarranted. There is evidence, however, of intense interest not only in this section of Virginia but also in adjoining states. Beyond a shadow of doubt the celebration this year will far outstrip that of last year and will rival in importance and picturesque anything of its nature held anywhere in the country.

Eleven counties and the District of Columbia are participating this year. This is in excess of the number which took part last year. An ever-increasing number of communities are expressing a desire of being included.

Miss Ann Elizabeth Davies, now of Clarendon, Va., and formerly of Manassas, is to reign as Regina II, Queen of the Piedmont Virginia Dairy Festival. She has chosen as maids of honor the Misses Virginia Bushong and Catherine Gosnell of Arlington Court House. The court representatives from the participating counties are as follows: Princess Culpeper, Miss Sally Rattie of Culpeper; Princess Fauquier, Miss Charlotte Brown of Remington; Princess Fairfax, Miss Randolph Richardson of Fairfax; Princess Loudoun, Miss Mary Moore of Aldie; Princess Madison, Miss Louise Kathryn Renolds of Madison; Princess Orange, Miss Hope Robertson of Orange; Princess Prince William, Miss Esther Warren Pattie of Manassas; Princess Rappahannock, Miss Jessie Miller Jones of Washington, Va.; Princess Stafford, Miss Grace Moncreuf of Stafford Court House; Princess Spotsylvania, Miss Caroline Reid of Fredericksburg, and Princess District of Columbia, Miss Sylvia Meredith of Washington, D. C. The Misses Miller Elaine Putnam and Mary Elizabeth Kerfoot will act as train bearers for the coronation ceremonies and Miss Ann Leachman Janney will bear the crown.

Festivities will open with the ball to be given in the high school gymnasium on the night of Thursday, September 29. Arrangements have been made to have a nine-piece orchestra to play for this dance as well as the queen's ball which is to be held on Friday night.

The Quantico Marine Band, which was received so well last year, will again be in attendance with about thirty-five musicians. They will render a concert at the scene of the coronation and pageant on the Portner estate previous to the exercises. In addition they will render the musical accompaniment in their usual fitting manner for the crowning of the queen and the pageant which is to follow, as well as participate in the grand feature parade, "The Milky Way," which is to be held in the streets of the town in the afternoon.

As a special added attraction, the officials of the festival are happy to be able to announce that the Glee Club of the Fredericksburg State Teachers College will be here to add their delightful concert voices to the beautiful and well-arranged ceremony which has been planned.

This being the Bi-centennial year, and the occasion being associated with the Bi-centennial celebration, those in charge of the festival thought it wise to include some feature which would savor of the Bi-centennial spirit. With this in view, the famous Monticello Guards of Charlottesville, Va., have been invited to serve as guards-of-honor to the queen. The Marines, the Navy and the Army will in all probability be represented also.

The grand feature parade, "The Milky Way," which is to begin at 2:30 p.m., is to be a banner affair. The parade itself will probably extend the length of the town. About twenty-five floats, at least four bands, and the school children of the counties of northern Virginia will be supplemented in the parade by representative dairymen, eight or ten Volunteer Fire Departments, and a number of civic organizations from the various participating counties.

The perfect motor oil must excel in five qualities—ability to keep its body, winter fluidity, low carbon, low consumption, and long life.

The best Paraffinic oils rate well in three of these qualities. They are deficient in two. Naphthenic (Asphaltic) oils rate well in two of these qualities—are deficient in three.

There has been no commercial method—before hydrofining—which could combine the good qualities of these two types of oils.

Essolube, the hydrofined oil, combines these qualities for the first time. It keeps its body under tremendous engine heat and at extremely low temperatures. This means protection for your engine at all temperatures—less wear on your motor and fewer repair bills for worn-out parts—less wear on your battery. It has winter fluidity. This means it flows freely in cold weather and reduces wear on your motor during winter. It has next to no carbon—this means fewer repair bills for carbon cleaning jobs. It gives you low consumption. This means it lubricates longer, reduces bills for worn-out bearings, reduces oil bills. It has long life. This means it doesn't sludge—fewer oil changes, further savings on oil bills.

Essolube—the Esso of motor oils—is on sale at all dealers and stations of the following companies at no extra cost: Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania, Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, Standard Oil Company, Incorporated in Kentucky, Colonial Beacon Oil Company, Inc.

Essolube

FREE BOOKLET—"Essolube, A Five-Star Motor Oil," gives you the story of the great hydrofining invention which makes Essolube possible. Ask for it at your "Standard" station.

BUZZ BARTON'S NEW WESTERN WOVES FANS

The answer to "what to do" is at the Dixie theatre next Saturday.

It's "Tangled Fortunes," Buzz Barton's latest vehicle—and a very worth while way of spending time too, for Buzz is at his best and a very good best it is!

In the cast one finds that good-looking, likeable Francis X. Bushman, jr., who is rolling up a sizeable following of his own, Carolyn Lincoln, a real beauty if we ever saw one and a clever little actress to boot, and a roster of understanding players including Edmund Cobb, Francis Ford, Charles Hertzinger and others.

It's a gold mine mystery story, which lifts it immeasurably above routine Westerns, and there are enough complexities, very cleverly evolved by Director J. P. McGowan, to create curiosity. We can definitely record that there are many mystery dramas which have not the power of holding audiences that has this feature, with the addition of some excellent riding and fighting sequences.

Provide for Peas

MOST people like peas, and also low prices. That is a combination which they have been able to obtain for some time past, for the prices of canned peas have been down of late to rock bottom levels. But, from this time on, you can get just as good peas, but not at just as low prices. There are two reasons for this.

The first is that the acreage planted this year has greatly diminished, and the second is that crop conditions have been unfavorable. So, if you're going to stock up for this winter with this tender green and succulent vegetable, the earlier you do it, the better for your purse.

Here's a Hint

And, just to help you make up your mind whether or not this would be a good investment, here is a recipe for a French pea soup which will make you think you are in Paris.

Potage Longchamps: Add two tablespoons chopped parsley and the drained contents of a No. 2 can of peas to two tablespoons butter, and cook gently in a large skillet for five minutes; then press through sieve. Make a roux of two tablespoons butter and two tablespoons flour, and add slowly to the pea liquor with enough milk to make two cups. Add one chicken bouillon cube and the pea pulp, cooking all till smooth and creamy. Add one-half cup rich cream, and season well with salt and pepper. Serve with a spoonful of slightly salted, whipped cream on top. Serves five.

HOWARD WORTH SMITHFANNING THE FIRE

Continuing the attack made on the Bonus Veterans who were ejected from Washington at point of the bayonet, the Attorney General now comes out with a statement that a criminal element infested the bonus camp.

Granting that everything he maintains is so, and it will be difficult to prove this, these continued attacks and attempts to blacken the name of the bonus expedition are but fanning fires of resentment that will be sure to burst out at the next session of Congress.

If the President were satisfied about his actions he would not continue to attempt justification and to use the agencies of the government to investigate an incident now closed.

If it were true that one in ten were criminals, which statement will not be credited, the other nine were, by official concession, real veterans entitled to be treated with courtesy and respect as men who, whatever their present circumstances, had shielded the States and Stripes with their lives.

THAT "FORGOTTEN MAN"

Without endorsing Governor Roosevelt, periodicals like The Nation and The New Republic are assailing President Hoover with much bitterness for concentrating all his energies during the depression on the relief of big business, to the neglect of the individual.

Anxious as we are to see a change of administration, with a new outlook and policy, we are not sure, as we study the course of the depression, that this criticism by the weekly press is altogether just. President Hoover had to make a definite choice of methods. When unemployment was increasing at the rate of perhaps 100,000 a week, when banks were closing every day, and when all values were sinking hourly, the president had to decide where relief could be applied. He waited much too long, and in some matters he acted with much timidity, but his conclusion was that if he helped industry, he could reach the individual more quickly through a revival of business than through direct relief. At least it seems to us only just to assume that this was his purpose, rather than merely to save the investments of the interests that sympathize with the Republican party. We cannot believe that any man who knew the acuteness of human suffering could ignore the individual, however he might differ from his neighbor as to the method of helping him.

Mr. Roosevelt proposes a different approach. Had he been in office, he doubtless would have done many things Mr. Hoover has done; and if we may judge from the promptness of the relief policy he inaugurated in New York, he would have acted more quickly than Mr. Hoover did. With some of the major relief measures already under, Mr. Roosevelt is now concerned about two things—the protection of the smaller investor, the house-owner, the wage-earner, and secondly, the prevention of like disasters in the future. As there are more individuals who still feel the pinch of hard times than there are corporations that have been relieved, the odds are somewhat in Mr. Roosevelt's favor. Prolonged depressions usually involve a change of administration. But it is as yet too soon to tell how far Mr. Hoover's spokesmen may succeed in convincing the country that the method he followed was the quickest and surest one.

We may assume a fire of resentment burning in millions of homes. Mr. Roosevelt would send a fire engine to each house. Mr. Hoover would fill the reservoirs, put pressure on the water mains and rely on extinguishing the fire with the hose from the water plug. Which procedure will appeal more to the American people? On the answer to that question the outcome of the election may depend.—Richmond News-Leader.

TRAGIC DEATH

Nelson Carter, son of A. N. Carter of Bristow, was burned so horribly on Tuesday afternoon that he died at the Fredericksburg hospital a short time after.

Reports indicate that the young man was on an oil truck which was spreading oil. It is thought that someone threw a cigarette into the road and set the whole road ablaze. Carter jumped directly into the flame whereas he could have saved himself by jumping into the field.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 at the Baptist church, Rev. C. P. Ryland officiating.

The object of this suit is to have the same restored to the active docket of said Circuit Court of Prince William County, Virginia; to have the divorce a mensa et thoro heretofore granted the said Mabel Anna Lion from the said Douglas H. M., or as soon thereafter as the same may be heard, that the said Douglas H. IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear sister, Flossie I. Manuel, who departed this life six months ago today, February 20, 1932.

Six months have passed, dear sister, Since you were called away. How well do I remember That sad and weary day.

You suffered hours, yes, hours of pain To wait for cure but in vain Till God alone knew what was best. He called you home to give you rest.

By her devoted sister,
Mrs. Sadie Norman.

O'BRIEN REGISTERS HIT OF CAREER IN "MYSTERY RANCH"

Romance, drama, thrills, suspense, adventure and comedy, deftly and intelligently combined, are the ingredients of "Mystery Ranch," the latest outdoor romance produced by Fox Films, which begins an engagement of two days at the Dixie Theatre beginning Wednesday, Sept. 21.

In the role of Bob Sanborn, dauntless and dashing young member of the Arizona Rangers, George O'Brien gives one of the outstanding performances of his career. He executes no end of seemingly impossible feats of agility, skill and strength in his single-handed opposition to a band of renegades, for the greater part savage Indians, and their merciless, half-mad leader. Not the least of these feats is his attempt to rescue a girl held prisoner by the gang.

Cecilia Parker, just as lovely as she was in the "Rainbow Trail," in which she made her screen debut with O'Brien, appears as the heroine and adds much to the success of the film. As the hard-boiled "killer," who takes life for the mere pleasure and satisfaction he derives from his own cruelty, Charles Middleton deserves honorable mention. Others who acquit themselves with credit are Noble Johnson, in the role of a powerful and brutal Indian mute; Forrester Harvey, who plays the principal comedy of part; Roy Stewart, Charles Stevens and Russ Powell.

The plot packs a tremendous dramatic punch. There is action every minute and the romantic theme is really out of the ordinary. The scenic effects deserve special mention and David Howard, who directed the picture, is entitled to a good share of the credit for this successful film.

How to Control the Smuts of Barley.

The new, dry treatment of barley for smuts is rapidly taking the place of the wet formaldehyde treatments. It is more popular because there is no soaking or wetting of the grain and no injury to germination. The treatment is a simple one. Use two tablespoonfuls of Ceresan dust, and mix thoroughly for two minutes with each bushel of seed barley. The barley is then ready to be planted or stored as desired. Before being treated, however, barley should be cleaned thoroughly in a fanning mill.

The mixing may be done in a concrete mixer, a barrel or tumbler churn, or a home-made mixer. A good mixer may be made with a tight box of convenient size. A shaft through the corners of the box will cause an uneven revolution and will insure good mixing. Small lots may be mixed in a tight sack, but this method is not so effective and is a rather disagreeable job. Ceresan will control both covered and loose smuts in Tennessee Winter and Arlington Awnless barley varieties.

This material will be available for small lot purchases at your local dealers. If, however, your local dealer does not carry it, he will be glad to obtain the same on request.

Caution. If the dust is inhaled in quantity it may cause irritation. A wet handkerchief placed over the nose and mouth during the treatment will prevent this. If large quantities are to be treated it is advisable to use a simple type of dust mask.

How to Control Stinking Smut of Wheat.

First, clean the seed wheat thoroughly in a fanning mill; then place it in a mixer, add two ounces of copper carbonate dust (two heaping tablespoonfuls) to each bushel of grain, and mix for at least two minutes. The wheat is then ready to be planted or stored as desired.

The copper carbonate dust should be of the type that is manufactured especially for seed treatment. It should analyze at least 50 per cent metallic copper, and 90 per cent of it should pass through a 200 mesh screen. Do not use the lower percentage copper compounds.

The mixing may be done in a concrete mixer, a barrel or tumbler churn, or a home-made mixer. A good mixer may be made with a tight box of convenient size. A shaft through the corners of the box will cause an uneven revolution and will insure good mixing. They are more popular because there is no soaking or wetting of the grain and no injury to germination. The treatment is a simple one. Use three tablespoonfuls of formaldehyde dust and mix thoroughly for two minutes with each bushel of seed oats, next sack and allow to stand over night. The oats are then ready to be planted or stored as desired. Before being treated, however, oats should be cleaned thoroughly in a fanning mill.

If above directions for treating small grain for controlling smuts are not clear, further information or assistance will be given by the County Agent upon request.

EVERYBODY GETS PLENTY

Two thousand cigarettes went up in smoke on a setting at Paramount recently when the "no smoking" edict was rescinded to enable one company of actors to secure necessary scenes for a picture they were filming.

Air thick with smoke was wanted for scenes of a party in "Merrily We Go to Hell," featuring Fredric March and Sylvia Sydney, which comes to the Dixie theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

Usually no smoking is allowed on sets because a wisp of it floating onto the set would spoil a scene. However, the studio stood treat for all the players, cameramen, electricians, laborers and others who worked on the set. All were instructed to puff rapidly just before the beginning of each scene.

A half dozen men with Pittsburgh stories stood before the cameras puffing furiously and ran out of the scene like a football backfield just before the director called "Camera."

DAIRY

PROFIT FROM USE OF BETTER BULLS

Also From Elimination of Unprofitable Cows.

(Colorado College Extension Service.)
Colorado dairymen are now receiving an added income of $1,750,000 annually as the result of an average increased production of 30 pounds of butterfat per cow over five years ago.

This increase is the direct and indirect result of improved dairy practices, and dairy-herd-improvement work by farmers and dairymen throughout the state. Only persistent effort in furthering better dairy practices through cow-testing associations and the selection of bulls for herd sires from cows of known high production could accomplish these results.

Not more dairy cattle, but the elimination of unprofitable cows, and a further increase in butterfat production per cow should be the immediate objectives of Colorado dairymen.

This increase in production can be traced in large measure to the co-operative efforts of members of herd-improvement associations in culling out low-producing cows, in making available registered bulls from tested dams and sires, and to better feeding methods used in a large number of herds.

The widespread use of better bulls has probably had more influence on this increased production per cow than any other factor. By careful selection of herd sires Colorado dairymen can do much toward increasing this production which should be much higher to assure a profit to the average dairyman in the state. It is the herd that produces more than the average that shows a profit.

For the dairyman who intends to continue milking cows, it will pay to invest in a good bull calf for his future herd sire now while prices are exceptionally low.

Alfalfa Hay and Silage

Keep Down Dairy Costs

Plenty of alfalfa hay and good silage gives ample feed insurance to the dairy farmer. Even without grain he can keep down dairy costs with these two feeds. Numerous tests show this to be true. Many cows have kept butterfat production above the pound-a-day mark on this ration in carefully conducted experiments. Of course adding concentrates will give a slightly higher production and perhaps a bit less costly one. But a well-filled silo and the high-up mow of good alfalfa keep worry from the farmer even if his grain bins go empty—he can go on reducing milk and keep his cows fit just the same. The reason so many farmers do not have these inexpensive but nutritious feeds to carry them over the lean spots before grass is ready in spring and also during the dry spells of summer, is because they have failed to plan far enough ahead and this is the time of year that such planning must be done. First of all, plenty of corn and alfalfa must be grown to provide this feed insurance. —Nebraska Farmer.

Test for Abortion

The way to determine whether a herd of cows is infected with abortion (Bang disease) is to have them tested by a competent veterinarian. Where a cow retains the afterbirth after calving, she should be regarded as suspicious. The greatest spreader of this disease is the aborting cow, at the time of and for a short period following the abortion, states Dr. Robert Graham, University of Illinois veterinarian. Infected cows at the time of normal calving are also dangerous as spreaders of the infection. As with tuberculosis, healthy herds are more profitable than infected herds and owners who have reason to believe that such infection may exist in the herd should have them tested. —Prairie Farmer.

Vitamins in Milks

Comparisons of Jersey and Friesian milks with goat milk made in the United States showed that in nutritive properties, including vitamin content, no one milk showed marked superiority over the other two. Jersey milk was found to contain somewhat more vitamin A and goat milk contained more of vitamins B and C. The vitamin C content of all three milks, produced in both winter and summer, was found to be low. The vitamin D content of all three milks was approximately the same. Goat and Friesian milks were found to be somewhat similar in content of protein, fat and total nutrients, and Jersey milk was higher than either in these constituents.

Canada's Butter Production

Final statistics of the dairy factory industry in Canada in 1930 show the production of creamery butter in that year to have been 185,751,061 pounds, which constitutes the largest output recorded so far by the Dominion, and exceeds the previous high year, 1926, by over 8,000,000 pounds. The production of farm butter in 1930 is estimated at 84,337,000 pounds, bringing the total butter production for the year to the record output of over 270,000,000 pounds.

DAIRY FESTIVAL ONLY TWO WEEKS AWAY

Another attractive feature will be the ingenious exhibits, appropriate to the occasion, to be placed in the show windows of the stores. These are to be handled by the Washington Dairy Council and the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture co-operating with the Extension Division at Blacksburg, Va. The exhibits proved an unending source of entertainment at the festival last year.

At 4:30 in the afternoon the Mount Vernon School of Aeronautics will delight the attending throngs with an aerial exhibit on the Portner field adjacent to the Centreville road.

Four prizes are to be offered for those participating in the parade. Silver loving cups will be presented for the best high school participation, the best industrial float, the most artistic float and the best line-up for the competing fire departments. These awards are to be given on the basis of definite qualifications specified by the committee in charge.

Of special interest to those who attend the festival last year will be the news that a new site has been chosen for the coronation and pageant. Instead of having these exercises on the lawn in front of "Annaburg" as was the case last year, they will be held on a specially constructed stage to be placed near the old tower. This arrangement will afford an unlimited number of spectators an unobstructed view of the entire proceedings. Arrangements have also been completed whereby bleachers will be placed both at Portner's and on the line of the parade in order that the spectators may be afforded a comfortable place from which to observe. To add to the splendor of the occasion, the streets of Manassas are to be decorated. Special lighting, appropriately arranged in harmony with the official festival colors of gold, green and white, will be used to border the streets on the line of parade.

Where shall America turn?
"THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME"

by

HENRY T. EWALD, Pres. Campbell-Ewald Company

Men look at the weakened structure of business in "our poor little rich country" and wonder what industry can supply the stimulus for recovery.

Perhaps, if we turn our eyes away from brooding factories, stores and office buildings to the 30,000,000 homes of the nation, we shall find the answer to some of our problems "right in our own backyards." For America has travelled a curious circle away from home and back again during a single generation.

Not so long ago, when we said "There's no place like home," we spoke and thought of the beauty, comfort and family ties of that dearest place on earth. Then came "prosperity"—and with it a gradual "flight from home."

Father, when he didn't "stay at the club," found himself returning more and more frequently to a household from which other members had flown. Almost imperceptibly the old familiar saying took on a new meaning. It became literally true—There was no place like home. The deeper significance of that word disappeared from the consciousness of tens of thousands of families.

Then came depression. And now the circle of our wanderings is completed.

Somewhat reluctantly at first—but with a growing feeling of relief, tranquillity and enjoyment—the American family has come back home. Once more they are saying, "There's no place like home," and genuinely meaning it. But—are they going to stay?

It is up to individual fathers and mothers on the one hand—and the great forces of the building industry on the other—to make American homes more livable—to realize that the home of 1900 will no longer suffice for the family of 1932—to modernize the home by installing some of the wonderful comforts of this new day. For our American homes are by no means as modern as we like to think.

Less than 22% of rural and village homes, for example, have bathtubs—and, surprising as it may seem, only 68% of city homes can boast this common necessity.

Approximately 85% of homes in most communities are urgently in need of painting, decorating, repairing or alterations.

Less than 20% of the wired homes of the United States enjoy the comfort and utility of iceless refrigeration.

The number of oil burners in use is even smaller, for less than 4% of American homes are equipped with this modern type of heating.

As for that vital new development, Air Conditioning, scientifically-cooled homes in sweltering summer months are virtually unknown.

And yet, some say "Our American job is finished!" Who can doubt the almost universal desire for these improvements—or overlook the significance, from an economic standpoint, of the situation confronting us? In the hearts of our people the greatest revival of home interest in a generation! The most wonderful home comforts and luxuries of all time! And thirty million American homes waiting for them!

Here is opportunity—a direct challenge to the finest brains of industry—and a market holding rich rewards for those with the will and skill to supply the need.

The die-hard depressionists will ask, "Yes, but what are people going to use for money?" The answer is, America is facing depression—but America is not beggared. We have lost much—but we have not lost per capita wealth far beyond any other nation on earth—nor a payroll greater even today than all Europe combined—nor skilled man-power and industrial equipment unequalled anywhere in the world?

The real question is: Have we lost courage—initiative—ingenuity? And that is a question, not for the public, but for builders in every line. And salesmen. And advertising men, perhaps, most of all.

For the big task of the building industry today, and of all other industries seeking buyers, is to overcome Apathy with Advertising. Advertising is equal to the task.
