Appropriate music under the direction of Miss Virginia Speiden will also be a feature.

Those desiring lunch should notify either Mrs. M. J. Sheppard, Nokesville, or Mrs. C. C. Lynn, Manassas.

VACATION CHURCH SCHOOL

MRS. SUSANNAH HINEGARDNER

Mrs. Susannah Hinegardner passed quietly to rest on Monday, May 29, at 2 p.m. She was 89 years 5 months and 1 day old. Her long and useful life was closed with a calm and dignity that characterized her entire career.

She was well and active until a few days before her death. She leaves 7 children, 23 grandchildren and 22 great grandchildren and a multitude of friends to cherish her memory, honor her name and follow her noble example of Christian living.

Rev. E. E. Blough conducted the funeral services at the Cannon Branch church and the remains were placed in the Valley View cemetery by the side of her husband and several children.

A RECITAL OF INTEREST

Pupils of Beatrice L. Leachman presented a musical programme to a large audience in the Manassas High School auditorium Thursday evening, June 1. Listeners were impressed with the artistic, technical and interpretative ability executed by the youthful performers in rendering selections from master artists. Songs and readings done by members of this class were most picturesque and attractive. Edna Armstrong was named as honor pupil.

Other interesting features were two voice numbers delightfully sung by Rose Ratcliffe; a violin solo rendered by Mrs. Leachman accompanied by her daughter Nancy and a piano solo, "The Scotch Poem," which Mrs. Leachman played with pleasing style and brilliance.

The effect was that of passage of the electricity upward instead of the usual downward path.

BEAUTIFUL BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR LITTLE GIRL

"Soldier's Rest," the home of Mrs. Sarah Heath Caton, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Caton, was the scene of a very delightful gathering on the afternoon of June 2 when a number of little boys and girls met with little Mildred Caton to help celebrate the fourth anniversary of her birth.

The day was delightful and the view from the lawn showing the long stretch of the Bull Run Mountains in the distance, with the homes of neighbors in the foreground, was one of real charm and beauty. While the children filled the air with shouts of laughter the older guests spoke of the days when these same fields resounded with the noise of battle and also served as a camping ground for the tired and weary soldiers in those eventful days of the '60's.

The table, which was spread beneath the large oaks, was decorated with vases of beautiful roses, and pretty cakes including the little birthday cake with its four pink candles. Around this were seated the little guests while they were served with delicious strawberry ice cream. Each little guest received a pretty handkerchief as a favor.

Little "Millie" was the recipient of many beautiful and useful little gifts, while the mother, Mrs. Charles F. Caton, whose birthday anniversary occurred just the day before, also came in for her share of remembrances. Snapshots were taken of the little folk and also of the "big folk" including the little hostess' grandmothers, Mrs. R. A. Collins and Mrs. Sara H. Caton, whose genial personalities will be a beautiful heritage for this little girl.

Nothing was left undone to make this day one long to be remembered by all present. The little folks were: Hazel Collins, Marion Davis, Mildred Caton, Sylvia Merchant, Cynthia Pattie, Ida Collins, Kitty Dogan, Bobby Collins, Robert Caton, Jack Barrett, Robert Collins, Eugene Davis, Robert Merchant and Frankie Dogan. The elders present were: Mrs. Sara H. Caton, Mrs. R. A. Collins, Mrs. J. Hill Akers, Mrs. J. M. Allison, Mrs. John Barrett, Mrs. Gilbert Merchant, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Shelton, Mrs. Myrtle Caton, Mrs. M. Collins, Mrs. George Davis, Mrs. Harry Dogan, Mrs. Charles F. Caton and Mrs. L. J. Pattie.

JUDGE SMITH SPEAKS AT MANASSAS

Eloquent Memorial Address Includes Present-Day Application.

Hon. Howard W. Smith, Congressman from this district, delivered the Memorial address at Manassas last Saturday. His tribute to President Jefferson Davis and his application of the lessons of those historic days to present problems constitute a valuable addition to patriotic literature. The address follows:

"I can conceive of no place where a person might be asked to make a historical address where he would be more completely immersed with the atmosphere of glorious events, or more entirely surrounded by points of historic importance and interest. And I strongly suspect that one who ventures to discuss here the history of the events, which made Manassas famous, must speak in guarded generalities lest he find that his audience is far more conversant with the subject than the speaker.

"It is hardly appropriate that I should undertake to enlighten the people of Prince William upon a subject in which their knowledge is so far superior to mine.

"And so I have thought today to limit my brief remarks to some comment upon the history and character of a great personality, and a great statesman, who presided for the brief period of his existence over the destinies of a great Republic.

"It seems to me peculiarly appropriate here in the heart of the battleground of the Confederacy, that this organization which keeps alive the memories of a glorious past, should observe in a single ceremony the memorial to the heroes of the Confederacy, and the birthday of the intrepid leader of that Confederacy, Jefferson Davis.

"I hope I may be pardoned, if in my few sketchy and rambling remarks, I confine myself largely to what to me is a most interesting study of the life and characteristics of the man who bore the cares and woes of the Confederacy, not only throughout the conflict, but who for two years thereafter was persecuted, imprisoned and at times shackled to satisfy the demand of demagogues for a spearhead upon which to visit their wrath.

"To most of those who participated in that great struggle there came at its end the compensation of peace and tranquility.

"There came the opportunity, which has always been the surcease of man's affliction; the chance to labor and rebuild the things that war and its accompanying devastation had torn down and destroyed.

"But even this crumb of comfort was denied to Jefferson Davis, who lay in prison for two years after the conflict; twice indicted for treason and threatened with trial before a biased and prejudicial tribunal.

"The remarkable thing about this man to me is that through it all his courage never faltered; his vision never dimmed, and his dignity never suffered.

"History discloses that whenever there has been a great crisis, or a great emergency, an all-seeing providence has invariably produced great men and great minds to cope with it.

"If nature ever ceases to function in this respect civilization will inevitably dry up and crumble.

"It seems to me that in the great crisis incident to the War between the States, nature produced more great soldiers and less great statesmen than in any other like period.

"Of the latter class, Jefferson Davis was outstanding.

"It is interesting to look into the background and trace for a moment the life of this man, who played such a conspicuous part in the drama which was destined to change the whole life and history of a great people.

"He was born in Kentucky in 1808, and had taken an active and prominent part in the military and civil life of his Country for nearly fifty years before the War of Secession.

"To him and to other people of the South the question of secession had no more taint of treason than any other public question then at issue.

"I dare say that the man of that day who advocated the right of secession had no more thought of treason than the citizen of today who honestly advocates the cancellation of our foreign debt.

"Davis was educated at the West Point Military Academy where in the study of the Constitutional fabric of our Government the right of secession was doubtless discussed and debated with the freedom of any other public question.

"The differences of opinion that had existed at the time of the formation of the Union had been pronounced and bitter to the extent of almost disrupting the Convention, and had remained a freely debatable question until settled by the arbitrament of arms.

"No doubt of the theoretical right to secede from the Union ever possessed his mind until his student days at West Point until his death in 1889, at the ripe age of eighty-one.

"Whatever vicissitudes he encountered, whatever humiliations he endured, whatever sorrows he suffered, there is no indication in his life that his convictions on this constitutional subject ever faltered.

"From the time of his graduation at West Point, he served as an officer in the Army until he tired of the monotony of camp life in peace times, and resigned to return to his plantation in Mississippi. There he was elected to Congress and served until the outbreak of the Mexican War when he immediately resigned to accept a position as Colonel in a regiment of Mississippi volunteers, where he served with bravery and distinction until wounded at the battle of Buena Vista.

"Shortly after his return home in 1847, he was appointed to the United States Senate, where he served an unexpired term, and upon the inauguration of President Pierce in 1853 he became Secretary of War of the United States. He served in that capacity for four years, and by the irony of fate, building up for the Union the machinery of war, which was later to crush him and with him the hopes and ambitions of the infant Confederacy.

"In 1857 he again entered the United States Senate, where he remained until the secession of his State, boldly proclaiming at all times the constitutional right of secession.

"Upon his retirement from the Senate, he returned to Mississippi to take command of the military forces of that State with no thought or dread of anything but active participation with the military forces of the Confederacy.

"To his surprise and regret his military career was again cut short by his selection as provisional President of the Confederacy by the Confederate Congress.

"Such was the background of the man upon whose shoulders was thus thrown the responsibility and care of the fortunes of the South.

"In the Senate he had been one of the outstanding and paramount defenders of Southern rights, and until the last moment sought by conciliation and negotiations to bring about some arrangement that would serve to prevent the disruption of the Union.

"Not until his State of Mississippi had actually seceded did he leave his post of duty in the Senate to cast his fortunes with the people of the South.

"On one point Davis differed in opinion from the majority of the Southern people.

"The right of secession seemed to them so clear and certain that many of them could not bring themselves to believe that the North would ever seek by force of arms to conquer the seceding States.

"Davis entertained no such delusions. He warned his people that they must prepare for a struggle to the bitter end.

"In the Senate his efforts to avert the impending struggle had shown him only too clearly the determination not only to abolish slavery, but to compel the Southern States to remain in the Union, regardless of their Constitutional rights or the desires of their people.

"It must have been with no sense of elation or triumph that he assumed the duties of President of the Confederacy.

"And if there was any recompense for all this arduous labor it could only have been in the knowledge of duty faithfully performed.

"There were few bright moments in the short life of the Confederacy for any one, and least of all for the chief executive.

"Not infrequently he was reviled by his own people for the misfortunes of war, while at the same time being proclaimed a traitor to his Country by the people of the Union.

"To follow the history and life of this man presents a picture of tragedy, sorrow, and care that is not pleasant to contemplate.

"But it also presents and typifies in rare colors the unflinching courage; the deep sense of public duty, that has characterized the American spirit from pioneer days.

"Great nations are built upon the (Please turn to back page)

'LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE' NOW
SCREENED AS COMEDY-DRAMA

Millions of newspaper readers each day follow the ups, the downs, the ins and outs of the career of "Little Orphan Annie." Now Annie, with her noble dog, Sandy, and Little Mickey, and all the rest of Artist Harold Gray's characters, have come to life on the talking screen.

"Little Orphan Annie," RKO-Radio Picture with Mitzi Green in the title part, features also that fine veteran May Robson. It is truthful, straightforward, gripping comedy-drama with a bright strain of optimism all the way through. The story, essentially humor, deals with the heroic attempts of one little orphan to care for another — to make him to be a good boy, to find him a good home.

As Little Orphan Annie, Mitzi Green makes her bow as an actress of real dramatic talent. There is little of the mimic in her work, no strained reaching after effects dependent upon her ability to ape the mannerisms of Chevalier or one of the Two Black Crows. Here Mitzi plays an emotional part like the real trouper she is.

Little Buster Phelps, as Annie's protégé Mickey, is as sweet a little fellow as ever tugged at a heart string. He has an important part and he plays it to perfection. He and Mitzi are an ideal pair, deserving of future work as a screen team.

There are other children in the cast, lots of them. Adults, too, particularly May Robson in the dominant grown up role as the rich foster mother. She and Mitzi and Buster — and the dog
Sandy — are the picture at the Dixie Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday.

John Robertson directed the production with the fine sympathy and understanding for which he is noted. The screen play was written by Wanda Tuchock and Tom McNamara, two very able craftsmen, from the famous comic strip by Harold Gray.

WOMEN'S CONTRIBUTION TO THE MOTOR CAR

There is some doubt that people care to hear very much about what goes on under the hoods of their cars.

The driver knows that "driving qualities" are not accidental; they are put there. How the manufacturer creates or evolves those results may not interest him. He judges entirely by the results he gets in driving.

Well, it is not essential to talk "shop"; let us talk Results.
Smoothness. Drive the Ford V-8 and you will find that the engine runs with surpassing smoothness, due to its design and the extra precise methods of its manufacture.

Power. There it is, 75 horsepower (we could say 80) at the drive-shaft for the driver's use. With less weight to pull around, the mettle of this car—its life-like response—is rather remarkable.

Economy. Our V-8 develops more power on a gallon of gasoline than any car we have made. Mileage is partly a matter of individual driving, but under average conditions the Ford V-8 does 17 to 20 miles a gallon.
Of course, car economy is not only a matter of fuel. Ford V-8 has that too, but it is also economical in the complete sense—initial cost, operation, maintenance.

Appearance. This is woman's contribution. The motor car must not only be useful, but also good-looking. View the Ford V-8 and you will not need our comment on its fine appearance.

Comfort. This also is woman's concern. In 30 years she changed the motor car from a wagon to a coach. Comfort is a quality made up of numerous ingredients. There is no comfort without a quiet, smooth-running engine. We have all the other ingredients too,—color, good taste, quality, ease, safety, roominess and convenience.

THEATRE TO PRESENT USUAL WAR RECORD

A generation is growing into manhood and womanhood, a generation yet unborn when an assassin at Sarajevo touched off a bomb which rocked the world.

To that generation, the World war is not even a dim memory. Instead it represents chapters in the school history books.

And to that generation, The Big Drive, greatest of all war pictures which comes to the Dixie Theatre on Monday, brings an entirely new understanding of that conflict and its causes.

For here is the visual record of the war. The war department archives of eight nations which participated have contributed their thousands of feet of official film. In a picture of feature length, this record is presented in orderly array, so that one gains a new conception of the causes of the World war, its progress and the final triumph of allied arms.

The history of two thousand years is reviewed in two minutes, as one follows the invading hosts which through the centuries have made northern France "the cockpit of Europe." One sees those first wild demonstrations which marked Germany's declaration of war, witnessed with the progress of the conflict, the participation of French and Russian and dominion troops and the amazing record of American resourcefulness.

The picture is presented with a carefully worked-out accompaniment of sound. The motif of the music, of sound, is martial, and there is an interesting description of each scene by the producer, A. L. Rule, veteran of the A. E. F.

Presented as "animated pages from the world's greatest album," The Big Drive, proves daily throughout the nation that it is a truly great record of one of the greatest events of history. Its success as a document of history in the making has been sensational.

MEETING OF COUNTY FEDERATION OF LEAGUES

The Prince William County Federation of Community Leagues met at the high school here on Thursday, June 1, with Mrs. Egbert Thompson, of Woodbridge, presiding.

A good representation of delegates and visitors was present, and reports in response to roll call showed some very constructive work done by leagues, during the past year. Many phases of work were reported on but perhaps the most outstanding was the large number which had been serving hot lunches during winter months and doing health work. A number of leagues are now assisting the county nurse in the pre-school check-up and it is hoped a large number of children will enter school this fall as five-pointers. Special arrangements having been made with doctors in county to do this at a nominal sum.

Mrs. Stewart Pattie entertained with a delightful solo and Mrs. C. R. C. Johnson gave a most instructive and inspiring talk on the "Need of Library Facilities in our Schools" and how to interest the scholars in using them.

The following officers were elected to carry on the work for the year 1933-34:

President, Mrs. Esther Terrill, Haymarket; vice-president, Mrs. Benjamin Brown, Aden; secretary, Mrs. John Piercy, Haymarket; treasurer, Mrs. E. H. Hibbs, Manassas.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

Pooled Wool to Be Loaded at Markham, June 15.

Wool marketed through the United States Growers Association will be received at Markham, Thursday, June 15. All wishing to pool their wool may do so by delivering it there on that date. Because of their always being a possibility of a change in the market, no promise can be made as to what price will be paid upon delivery. However, on wool taken up in southwest Virginia by K. A. Keithly, manager of the association, a down payment of 18 cents per pound has been made when wool growers wished to wait and receive all that was later obtained for the wool. Those wishing to receive full and final payment for their wool were paid 30 cents at the time of loading for good clean wool. Mr. Keithly is very particular that fleeces be not tied with hemp or sisal twine.

Sheep Treatment Notice.

Stomach worms take a heavy toll annually from sheep growers. Control measures consist of changing pastures as often as practical, and regular treatment. Due to its low cost and effectiveness for the stomach worm, the copper-sulphate solution is recommended, although other treatments that have been found effective may be continued. Regardless of the material used, regular monthly treatment during the grazing season is recommended.

Copper sulphate (bluestone) treatment: Dissolve one ounce of copper sulphate in three quarts water (sufficient for 25 sheep). Use glass, earthenware or wood containers.

Table of dosage: Mature sheep 4 ounces of solution; yearlings 3 ounces; 6-month lamb, 1 ounce. Drench sheep in normal standing position with syringe or bottle.

A STATEMENT FROM MR. CONNER

To the Voters of the Town of Manassas:

Quite a number of people have inquired concerning my platform for the Town Council, so I shall endeavor to give the voters of the Town of Manassas my ideas.

First — I believe that the tax and light rate should be lowered if possible, although I would not advise anything which might impair the progress of the town. Due to the widespread salary cut there is a demand for low rates which cannot be met unless the tax rates are first lowered.

Second — Our town expenditures should be reduced if possible — such as salaries, gasoline, etc. It is reasonable that no one favors having his salary cut, but if living expenses are cut and one dollar today will buy what it would have taken two or three dollars to buy a few years ago, why would it not be wise to follow the example of our President and lower expenses if we can?

Third — I think our town should construct good streets wherever the property owners want them, provided the property owners pay one-half the construction cost.

Fourth — The town should have adequate police protection and the officers should be upheld by the citizens of the community. Any officer may make mistakes at times, but if he makes one mistake he should be reprimanded rather than criticized or condemned.

Fifth — Our fire department is very efficient and should be upheld by the council and townspeople.

Sixth — The prohibition question may be an important issue in Virginia before long. Most of you know my views concerning this. I am neither an extreme wet nor an extreme dry. This one issue has cost the American people millions of dollars, and yet it remains unpolished. I hope we are pursuing the right course now.

Seventh — I have no criticism to make of our mayor. I am in favor of Mr. Davis, and believe that we could not find a more capable man for this position.

I have been asked to qualify for the Town Council by a number of the voters and have decided to do so. If you, the voters of the town, wish to elect me, I will serve you to the best of my ability; if not you should vote for the man you think will serve you better.

E. R. CONNER.

Platform of
MRS. NELLE HYDE HOLMES Candidate for HOUSE OF DELEGATES

To the Tax Payers of Prince William and Stafford Counties:

After having carefully analyzed the needs of the people of the two counties which I hope to represent in the next session of the Virginia Legislature, I have adopted the following platform. If you are in accord with it, I shall be grateful for your vote and support.

1. PROHIBITION: I believe the people of our State should have the privilege of deciding whether or not Prohibition shall continue in Virginia, and to this end, I favor a referendum on the question, as soon as it is practicable.

2. AUTOMOBILE LICENSE TAX: In view of the fact that only 15 States in the Union have a higher automobile license tax than Virginia — the remaining 13 States having a lower tax, and a number of them enjoying a flat rate as low as $3, I favor a flat rate of $3 annually for license plates on all private passenger automobiles, which fee will provide sufficient funds for dispensation of such tags, and will result in increased revenue to the State from gasoline taxes by the increased volume of traffic of Virginia licensed cars.

3. SCHOOLS AND TEXT BOOKS: Believing that the new social and political order into which America is developing is calling for a new leadership which the younger generation must furnish, and in order to help prepare the rising generation for this leadership, for a furtherance of the present education program in the State as it relates to public schools, and in addition, I strongly advocate the free distribution of school textbooks. I am opposed to the present practice of frequent change in textbooks of the public schools, which is expensive and often unnecessary, and is the means of preventing many children from pursuing even a grammar school education. I believe the colleges should be made self-supporting, and the State aid they now receive should be apportioned to the public school system, in order to raise the general educational standard in Virginia.

4. TAXATION: I favor a reduction in real estate taxes, either by a reduction of the tax rate, or by reduction in assessments, which assessments were made during a period of inflation and are totally unfair at the present time when incomes have been greatly reduced and values deflated.

5. FARMERS: I stand against the movement throughout the State by certain interests to repeal the refund to farmers of gasoline tax on gasoline used in farm tractors, gasoline engines, etc. I favor the continuance of this act, and an amendment thereto extending the time for application for refund from 30 days, as it now stands, to 12 months from date of purchase.

6. HOME OWNERS: I heartily commend the Administration for its aid to home builders, and favor such additional aid as may be commensurate with the revenues of the State.

7. ECONOMY: I am in favor of a rigid economy program in State Government at the present time to balance the State Budget, eliminating unimportant, duplicated, or unnecessary offices and officers, or combining them with other State and county offices.

Respectfully,
Mrs. Nelle Hyde Holmes.

ANNOUNCEMENT

To the Voters of Stafford and Prince William Counties:

I desire to take this means to formally announce my candidacy for re-nomination by the Democratic party in the August primary to the seat in the Virginia House of Delegates from Prince William and Stafford Counties, and to assure the people of the two counties that if nominated and re-elected, I will use my best endeavors for their interest and for the interest of the people of the state generally.

If again honored as the choice of the people of the district, I promise to conscientiously and faithfully discharge duties of the office and to support those measures which will relieve the people of the burden of taxation now falling upon them, when such measures are consistent with the best interests of the people generally.

In announcing my candidacy I wish to express my thanks to those who supported me during the last election and to assure all the voters of the district that I will appreciate their support at the coming election.

Faithfully,
GEORGE W. HERRING

FARM LOAN NOTICE

Mr. C. R. C. Johnson of Manassas has just been appointed local correspondent for Prince William County by Mr. Geo. H. Stevenson, the Farm Loan Commissioner's agent in charge of operations for the Baltimore Land Bank District under Part 3 of the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933.

All farmers in this county, who require the type of refinancing authorized under Part 3 of this Act, should, where possible, call in person upon Mr. Johnson, who is ready to discuss their individual financial problems and to take applications for loans.

Referring to the need for prompt attention to the farmer's pressing financial requirements, Mr. Stevenson has let it be known that he is making every effort to perfect an organization capable of handling all business promptly and efficiently; that in this connection he hopes that all local interests, farmers, bankers and business men, will give full co-operation to his local correspondent who shares in the responsibility of making this great credit service of fundamental help to the farmers in the 2nd Land Bank District.

It is pointed out that many farmers because of their involved financial situation will require assistance from both the Federal Land Bank and Agent, and in order that this may be accomplished with the least possible inconvenience to the prospective borrower, the agent has selected the secretary-treasurer of the Local National Farm Loan Association for his local correspondent. Attention is also called to the fact that the Federal Land Bank and the office of the Commissioner's Agent are both housed in the Land Bank building, insuring the closest co-operation in the administration of the farm credit laws under which they operate.

HOME BAKING OF ## BREAD ADVISED

The home baking of bread is being emphasized as one of the thrift measures in the Live-at-Home program provided by the home department provided by the home demonstration department. Home-baked bread is economical and nutritious.

Most wheat in Virginia is so-called "soft wheat," which makes a flour with only a small amount of gluten, and is, therefore, sometimes called "weak flour" as different from "strong flour" of hard wheat. This soft wheat, because of its low gluten content, is usually designated as pastry flour, but can be made into very satisfactory bread if these things are understood:

- 1—Soft wheat requires less liquid than hard.
- 2—Dough should be made slightly stiffer when soft wheat is used.
- 3—During first rising, soft wheat does not "stiffen up" as hard wheat does; in fact it often may become softer or "slacken" a little.
- 4—Dough from soft wheat rises more quickly than from hard wheat.
- 5—Soft wheat flour is best if a large amount of yeast and sugar is used.
- 6—Soft wheat dough does not stand as much handling as hard. If kneaded too long, the gluten is injured.
- 7—Dough doesn't rise as high from soft flour. Do not let it more than double its bulk.

1 yeast cake, 2 tablespoons sugar,

2 teaspoons salt, 1½ tablespoons fat, 2 cups liquid, 7 to 8 cups of soft flour. Let rise to twice its bulk.

Scald milk (to check growth of bacteria) and then cool. Mix some of milk with yeast to soften it, pour the rest over the sugar, salt and fat. Add flour and mix thoroughly (more flour is needed with water than with milk). Add flour until dough no longer sticks to the bowl, turn on a clean floured board, and knead until it is smooth and elastic. Hard wheat dough needs more kneading than soft.

Form dough in ball, put in a greased bowl to rise. Turn over once in bowl so top will be slightly greased. Place in warm place to rise. Keep between 80 and 85 degrees if possible. When double its bulk, punch down for second rising. This is to let out the gas so fermentation may continue without injuring gluten by stretching it too far. After second rising, divide, mold into oblong pieces, place in greased loaf tin, and let rise in pan at 80-85 degrees. Grease over the top. When doubled in bulk, bake at 375-400 degrees for about one hour.

CATHARPIN

Mr. W. K. Caldwell, a patient at the Naval Hospital in Washington, for the past six weeks, was allowed to spend the week end at his home, Six Acres, returning again on Sunday evening. The patient who is suffering from an ulcerated stomach, is gradually improving and it is the hope of his friends that he may be on the road to recovery.

Mrs. George Carey, mention of whose illness was made in this column last week, is still confined at the Warrenton Hospital where a little son was born on Friday night of last week, but lived only until the next day, being buried in the family lot in the Sudley cemetery on Sunday. The mother is reported seriously ill of a complication of ailments but it is hoped the crisis may be passed ere this is read by her friends.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Lynn and daughter, Elizabeth, spent Monday with Mrs. Lynn's mother and other friends in Manassas.

Sheep shearing is the new industry of the neighborhood just now and farmers are much elated with the prospect of good prices for their wool. A Leesburg buyer passed through some time ago offering 10 cents per pound which offer was not very encouraging, but as the price began to climb the producer began to take up the slack in his suspenders, inch by inch, and by the time it had reached 27 cents his old blue denim overalls were so tight he could hardly walk. I tell you it is great to get happy once.

Mr. W. Holmes Robertson of Lawn Vale has been very seriously indisposed during the past week due to a very severe attack of asthma which caused great suffering and at times very serious; but at the present writing is much improved and able to go about again.

Mr. C. E. Ellison, an old resident of the Catharpin neighborhood and who has been confined to his home more or less during the several years, is now visiting his daughter, Mrs. Burgess, in Washington. Mrs. Burgess, while on a visit in the community, reported that her father was much improved in health and was able to drive about the country and is enjoying things generally. His friends will be glad to learn of this improvement.

Mrs. Frank Lee Hoffman of Deseret is a patient at the Garfield Hospital, Washington, where she was taken last week for a serious operation. Particulars at this writing unknown.

The sermon last Sunday morning at Sudley was especially for the young men and was based upon the text, "Is the young man Absalom safe?" Just like many other sermons by the pastor, it was a pity that so many in the neighborhood did not hear it. We suppose it is not worth while to comment upon what was missed by their absence but one can not help the thought that it is a calamity to the spiritual well-being of any people when they come to the point where they feel the church is just something to be nored and set aside for every little, trivial, Tom, Dick and Harry excuse that may come to mind. To be candidly frank, we do not believe people mean to ignore the church in just so many words, but one is often appalled to see people of sound mind and intellect who will offer some of the excuses that one hears as to why they can not attend church or Sunday school. One begins to wonder sometimes who the crazy one is? whether the maker of the excuse is crazy, or whether the maker thinks the one he is making the excuse to is crazy enough to give it credence. Some of these would be inordinately funny were it not so serious. What the Community church needs and must have is your SUPPORT, not your excuses. It is too bad when something real keeps one away from service, but it is certainly worse when we are willing to subordinate this privilege to mere trifles.

The Community church is essential to the well-being of any community and belongs to the community whether you belong to it or not, therefore every one in the community should be willing to support it. It is a sad commentary upon the part of somebody when it is known that there are families in the neighborhood whose members have never entered the portals of the sanctuary, except possibly to a funeral, and who have never contributed one penny to its support; yet if death enters the home the use of the church is wanted, its preacher is wanted, its choir is wanted and the sympathy of the people is wanted just as though they had been regular attendants and contributors all their lives. The church has a duty to perform and is always ready to do it; but it must not be forgotten that the people have a duty to perform also, and that duty is to attend and support it; otherwise it can not live. Then again, "strange as it may seem," while people are willing to live a "churchless" life they or their friends do not want a "churchless" funeral. Then again amid all these "strange" things, there are those who think it is the duty of certain ones to be at the services at all times, to conduct the exercises, play the organ, teach the classes and do what is necessary for the well-being of the institution, yet they themselves claim the right to stay away as often as is convenient, follow the lines of least resistance, fan themselves at home when it is hot and otherwise just take things easy. Well, just think that over a bit and see what you would think about it if you were the other fellow. I'm sure your good sense of right and justice will enable you to see wherein duty lies. Now think of that text once more: "Is the young man Absalom safe?" Don't think only of poor Absalom but consider that old, negro Spiritual "It's me O Lord, standin' in the need of prayer."

PERFORMANCE

The worth of a guarantee depends upon who makes it. Back of the guarantee of smoother performance you get with Essolene is the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. This Company fully understands the importance of such a public guarantee when made by the world's largest oil organization. We mean exactly what we say when we make it. If you expect Essolene to be advertised with extravagant claims that offend common sense you will be disappointed. Our only statement is that this company stands squarely behind Essolene as a great advance in motor fuel—a new standard of quality for other gasolines to attain. Try Essolene today. Be your own judge. Compare it with any fuel you have ever used. A single tankful will convince you.

The county nurse has made arrangements with the doctors to examine all pre-school children, also vaccinate against smallpox and give diphtheria toxoid. The doctors are making special rates for this clinic. It is advisable to have this attended to as soon as possible in order that any necessary correction may be made before school opens in September.

MANASSAS BASEBALL CLUB'S SECOND DEFEAT

By the score of 9 to 4 the Heming Jewelers of Washington defeated the Manassas Athletic Club on the high school diamond June 4, this being the second defeat of the season, the town and county boys composing this team, having played six games this season.

Getting away to an early start, the Manassas team would be outclassed, but Polen took up the mound duty and the "brakes" were on.

The visiting team returns for another game June 11 to be played on the Swavely diamond and the boys will put up a fight to even the games.

Baseball fans are cordially invited to attend these games. Give them your support.

lives of great men, whether they serve in high places or in the ranks. The chief value of the study of history to a people is that the generation of today may gather inspiration from the lives and characters of those who have gone before.

"That the generation of today emulating the great characters of the past may keep alive the fires of patriotic inspiration, to warm the courage of those generations that are to come.

"I wonder if the generation of today is paying proper attention to the inspiring history of our forebears.

"I wonder if we are drawing enough from the spirit of American history to fortify us for the desperate struggle of today.

"I wonder if the generations to come will be able to look back upon the people of today and compare us in favorable light with the generations of the past and gather from us any inspirations to carry on the struggles that advancing civilization is sure to bring.

"We, of this day, owe a duty of respect and veneration to the past; we owe a higher duty to set an example of fortitude and American independence and perseverance in the face of difficulties, to those who are to follow.

"We stand today in the midst of as great a national crisis as has ever confronted the American people, whether in times of peace or in times of war.

"The unfavorable economic conditions that have overtaken the world have swept away the fortunes of many of our people; they have visited ten millions of our workers with unemployment and threatened starvation in the midst of the greatest supplies of food and materials that the world has ever known.

"In the midst of plenty, our people are in want.

"And with it all we stand aghast at the enormity of the disaster, powerless to fathom its cause or prescribe with certainty for its remedy.

"And while today we appear to be in a break in the clouds, yet we know and realize that the way back to economic peace and normal prosperity is long and arduous.

"I wonder if we are meeting this crisis of our generation with the cool courage and the patient faith that makes the life of Jefferson Davis shine forth in its setting of disaster and sorrow.

"Our people of today may well look back upon the men and women of the Civil War period and ask ourselves if we are meeting the problems and privations of our time with the same fortitude and cheerful patience that marked the people of that generation.

"No people in time of emergency ever rose to greater heights of patriotic devotion to a cause.

"And no people overtaken with a great disaster ever set out with more untiring patriotism and abiding faith to build again from the ashes of destruction.

"Wounded in body and in spirit, deprived of every implement of toil, and still suffering from the persecutions aroused by the lust of battle, and prejudices engendered by the issue of the conflict, they set about to restore the great South—only with their unquenchable spirit of courage, patience and faith in the future.

"These qualities of courage, patience, and faith, which are a latent heritage in our people today must be roused.

"We are entering a period of readjustment and recovery comparable to the Reconstruction days following the Civil War.

"We are infinitely better equipped for the struggle today in material resources than we were in 1865.

"We have all the means at our command for a reasonably certain and speedy recovery if we do but possess those sterling qualities of patience, courage, faith, and hope that marked the generation of the South during the reconstruction struggle.

"May the American people of today be inspired to press forward with patience and courage and with unyielding faith in our Country and in our institutions which have always inspired the American people, and which more than any other one force has made us the foremost nation of the world."
