

LIQUOR BOARD MAKES REPORT

Plan for Sale of Distilled Liquors in Virginia Presented

The sale of distilled liquors exclusively through State dispensaries in sealed packages only, for off-premises consumption, and a private license system for the sale of wine and beer, were the high lights of the majority report from the legislative commission studying liquor control.

Complete control would lie in an alcoholic beverage control board of three full-time members appointed by the Governor, at salaries of $7,500 a year each, vested with broad and sweeping powers to enforce the law and combat the bootlegger.

Beverages of less than 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight were declared non-intoxicating and not subject to the provisions of the proposed act.

The State, under the suggested law, would import or purchase from Virginia distillers and manufacturers, all alcoholic beverages other than beer, and would dispense distilled liquor to the public through State stores whose location would be determined by the board.

The individual would not be required to obtain a permit to purchase liquor, nor would he be required to give his name. Not more than one gallon might be purchased by one person at one time.

Hotels, restaurants, clubs, dining cars and boats would be permitted to sell wine and beer by the glass for consumption on the premises with or without meals in designated rooms. Other private licenses would be restricted to the sale of beer and wine in sealed packages for off-premises consumption.

Local option was preserved, but with the proviso that no election might be held within six months after the act should become effective, nor more often than once in four years.

The alcoholic beverage control board would have complete authority to issue, deny or revoke licenses for the sale of beer and wine, and there would be no appeal to the courts.

It would likewise have full control of the price of liquor, and could vary this to defeat bootlegger competition.

Revenue derived from profit in the sale of alcoholic beverages would go to the general fund of the treasury. Localities would be empowered to require licenses from distilleries, breweries, wineries and retailers of wine and beer.

The report, with a suggested bill, was signed by thirteen of the fifteen members of the committee.

State Senator Henry T. Wickham, of Hanover, prepared a minority report assailing the majority recommendations as in violation of the bill of rights and an infringement on both legislative and judicial functions. He recommended a rigid private license system and offered a bill carrying out his recommendations.

Three other separate statements were made. Chairman John W. Eggleston of Norfolk; Maitland H. Bustard of Danville; James S. Barron of Norfolk; A. P. Staples of Roanoke and Chas. W. Moss of Richmond signed a statement advocating that the revenue be divided one-third to the general fund and two-thirds to the counties and cities in proportion to population, or on some other equitable basis.

WEST VIRGINIA MAY CONSOLIDATE

Legislature Considers Plan to Combine Counties.

The legislature of West Virginia has under consideration a plan to consolidate the counties of that State into a smaller number of units of larger area. The measure is proposed as an economy in governmental administration and is said to have gained very substantial support.

The plan is being watched with interest by those who advocate a similar reorganization in Virginia. In West Virginia the plan would create fifteen new counties, all of new names, and of very large area. Some of the new counties would have a larger area than some of the New England States.

The consolidation of West Virginia's fifty-five counties into fifteen is said to make possible a saving to the taxpayers of a million and a half dollars annually. Those opposing the idea maintain that there are disadvantages which greatly discount this estimated saving.

OLD SUDLEY MEMORIES

A Retrospect

'Twas a day in early winter
All the hills were bare and brown,
And the rain was slowly falling,
On the dead leaves drifting down.
For a long while we had fancied
That some future day, we'd go,
To a scene of fading visions
Of the merry long ago.

The distant hills look just the same
As far as eye can range—
But the years have made the picture
Of Sudley, rather strange.
Vagrant memories come drifting
That we never can forget—
But the heart of Old Virginia
Is warm and beating yet.

And although it is December
And the day is drear and cool;
Very well, do we remember
Brighter day at "Sunday School."
And as a barfoot kid again
I would soon be on the road;
To the home of frisky minnows
And the jumpy little toad.

In that brook there in the valley
With its limpid merry flow
Where I chased elusive minnows
In the days of long ago.
Then we shunned all work like poison—

Life we thought was just for play,
Never dreaming of the future
For that seemed so far away.

If it's true that we remember
While we linger on the strand
Of that River, that is rolling
Just beyond the "borderland"
Then we trust we'll be reviewing
Ere we cross its silent flow,
Sunny days and happy visions
Of the merry long ago.

And I wonder if in future,
When my page in Life is sealed,
I'll return sometimes to Sudley
On old Bull Run battlefield.

ASSEMBLY BALL A GALA EVENT

200 Young People Make Merry With the Dance.

Last night, in a skillfully devised winter forest, the Woman's Club of Manassas entertained at a very beautiful ball.

The decorations were rows of Christmas trees, arranged like a woodland scene, with icicles hanging from the spiky foliage. The pillars were festooned with ropes of running pine and the whole gorgeous scene lighted by multicolored Christmas candles.

In the receiving line were Mesdames Dalton, Smith, Guthrie, Lloyd, Broadus, Lynn, and Miss Frances Bushong, president of the Junior Woman's Club.

At the midnight intermission coffee and sandwiches were served. The music was excellent and the whole affair thoroughly enjoyed by more than 200 dancers.

VIRGINIA ESCAPES LARGE BONDED INDEBTEDNESS

But Old Dominion Owes U. S. Nearly 7 Million.

Virginia escaped the large bonded indebtedness incurred by many States through adherence to a pay-as-you-go system of highway construction, but the highway department nevertheless owes the Federal Government $6,955,883.60 in advance to be subtracted from future Federal-aid appropriations, it was said this week.

About $700,000 would be due during 1934-35, and other payments would be made through 1948. The public works appropriation of $7,400,000 was an outright gift as were Federal-aid appropriations of past years. It is possible, too, that Congress may never actually deduct in future years the amounts borrowed.

Well, That's One Way of Using Your Head! —By Talburt

THE PUBLIC HAS A RIGHT TO KNOW

The public has a right to know the facts about the operation of the State departments of government in Richmond. Dr. W. H. Stauffer, State tax economist selected by the Governor to investigate school finances, submitted his report to the Governor and presented it on December 12 at a joint meeting of the Governor's Budget Commission, the State Board of Education and the Governor-elect.

he report reveals a parallel with the recommendations of the State Board of Education and the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Both recommendations agree upon all of the essential features of the Minimum Education Program as follows: That the State should have a larger share in the cost of the State's system of public education.

The economist's reports recommends that the State require the localities to make a minimum levy so as to total the sum of $2,830,838 for the instructional cost in addition to funds for capital outlay, upkeep, debt service and transportation, and that the State appropriate for instructional cost the amount of $8,304,682 which would be a ratio of 75 per cent by the State and 25 per cent by the localities. The State Board's figures are practically the same.

The economist's report recommends that the average salary per teacher be set at $720 per year while the State Board recommends that the average salary to be paid by the State for a minimum term of eight months be set at $560 with the understanding that the localities supplement this so as to bring teachers' annual salaries up to a reasonable average, say $720.

Both plans agree that the State funds over and above the constitutional requirement should be distributed upon the basis of school population in average daily attendance. Both plans recommend that the so-called equalization fund as now constituted should be abolished. Both reports recommend that the State increase its appropriation for elementary and secondary education by $3,000,000 annually more than is available for the present school session.

Recent newspaper reports have called special attention to and played up the apparent difference between the reports of the Governor's specialist and the report of the State Board of Education. The data forming the basis of both reports were taken from the records of the State Department of Education. The main point of difference in the two reports is:

The vital difference in the two reports is the fact that the specialist's report sets up a method by which the State shall require the localities to contribute first a determined amount for instructional purposes, and the State shall then furnish the rest of the funds to meet the standard requirements of a minimum eight months school term while the State Board's report would set up the fixed or determined amount to be appropriated by the State and leave to the localities to raise an amount sufficient to meet the standards of a minimum school term in all of the localities. It is just a question of the State's requiring the localities to set up first a fixed amount or the State's taking the responsibility of furnishing the fixed or determined figures and the localities making up the rest as they may desire to meet the constitutional minimum or even go beyond to a nine months' standard term. In short, it is just a question of where the first and fixed responsibility lies. Public education, as at present, by either plan is the joint responsibility of the State and the localities, the only question being the ratio between the responsibility of the State and the localities and the best method of bringing about the desired results.

To put it frankly: Is it advisable for the State to force the localities to provide the fixed amount with the State supplementing; or, is it better to have the State put up the fixed amount and the localities supplement to the extent of meeting the required standards.

GOVERNOR'S OFFICES ARE BEING RENOVATED

The offices of the Governor on the top floor of the Capitol are undergoing a thorough renovation during Governor Pollard's absence in preparation for the incoming executive, George C. Peery.

The suite is being painted and thoroughly cleaned, and the executive staff is being moved around into various rooms while the work is in progress. Governor and Mrs. Pollard are expected to return from Southern Pines, N. C., early next week.

Meanwhile Lieutenant - Governor James H. Price is acting Governor of Virginia, but he is not occupying the executive offices.

DICKY HAYDON AT HOME

Dicky Haydon returned to his home yesterday after a serious operation in a Washington hospital. He is gaining strength rapidly.

CHRISTMAS AT MANASSAS HIGH SCHOOL

A beautiful Christmas assembly program was presented at Manassas High School last Thursday afternoon, December 21. After the opening prayer, a paraphrase of the story of the Nativity from St. Luke was finely given by Mr. Gill of Swavely. This was followed by the singing of carols by the school and by four other lovely musical numbers: Adams' "Cantique de Noel" sung by Mrs. Robert Logan; the "First Noel" by Professor Leimbach of Swavely; the Lullaby from "Jocelyn" by Miss Pattie Hatcher, and a duet, "Away in a Manger" by Misses Althea Hooff and Shirley Hynson.

The carols sung by the school were:

"O, Come All Ye Faithful" (in Latin and in English); "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Joy to the World," "Silent Night" and "Hark the Herald Angels Sing."

Each class in the school following the custom of several years back, instead of having the usual Christmas tree program with exchange of gifts, had prepared a large Christmas basket to be distributed through the Red Cross to families in need.

KIWANIS CLUB ENDS YEAR

O. D. Waters Will Succeed Dick Hynson.

Ed Conner isn't losing any of his popularity at the CCC Camp. Last week Captain Fass, a newly-arrived officer, took over the Kiwanis program for a few minutes. His remarks were highly laudatory of the community and its historical associations.

Al Hooff rung in an impromptu program by reading an old and very interesting history of the origin of the name, Manassas, as applied to our town. Al has access to much interesting lore and is very loyal to his town.

A letter was read from Ed Hill, the retiring Capitol District Governor. It was a good boost for both Al and Jim, as he highly complimented the work made possible by their activities.

Lieut. MacKenzie and Arthur Boatwright were honored guests at the meeting.

The next meeting winds up the year and then OD will have to behave with much greater decorum.

The club has maintained a fair stride the past year under its retiring president and his regime is generally considered up to par.

CWA PAYROLLS ABOUT $20,000

Prince William, Stafford, Spotsylvania, King George Men Paid.

Quantico CWA workers Saturday received their pay in cash, giving some of them the first ready money they have had in some time.

The payments were made from the government in checks but C. C. Cloe Prince William and Stafford, in which and James Ashby, administrators of the work lies, had arranged to have a banker on hand with the cash and as fast as the men got their checks they have had in some time.

The Prince William payroll alone amounted to $9,467.74. More than $8,000 of this was for the Quantico Federal reservation payroll. About $400 was for the Quantico town work payroll and the balance for work done in Manassas.

Three hundred of the 680 men employed on the Federal work at Quantico are from Stafford. The amount of the Stafford payroll will be about $5,000.

The Spotsylvania payroll Saturday amounted to about $3,000. A total of 326 men are at work in the county on the Battlefield Park work, the State college job and on school projects, according to E. R. Carner, county reemployment chairman. Mr. Carner, with W. R. Linthicum and Scott Perry, all are working without pay. A number of King George men also were paid Saturday.

MEAN TRICK AT WINCHESTER

Slick Stranger Works New Industry Graft.

The conservative city of Winchester was swindled out of several hundred dollars last week by a slick promoter who represented himself as interested in establishing a new manufacturing industry there. He claimed to represent a hardware factory in Connecticut, and like the anti-bellum gentlemen from New England, who sold wooden nutmegs so successfully, he met with considerable success.

After passing a worthless check for $400 and negotiating for the purchase of the local Fair Grounds for the factory site, some hard-boiled citizen ascertained by wire that he was unknown by the concern he presumed to represent, and the new factory bubble collapsed.

SERMONETTE

by Rev. J. Royall Cooke

Text: Acts 24: 16.
 "And herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offence toward God, and toward men."

The great apostle Paul was on trial for heresy before the Roman Governor Felix.

His accusers were the same band that had contrived the crucifixion of Christ, and then to hide the fact of the resurrection, had bribed the guard at the tomb to report that His disciples had stolen His body while they slept. Paul recognized in his defence before Felix that after all, the main question at issue between him and his accusers was the fact of the resurrection. If these Jews were right, and Christ had never risen from the dead, then the apostle recognized that the Christian faith and hope were vain, and that the Christian religion would soon lose its transforming power. Paul knew that Christ had risen from the dead and was sliving, because he had seen Him, and from Him had received the gospel which he preached. And upon this fact, as he states in verse 15, he bases his hope "that there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and the unjust." The "herein" of the text refers back to this hope, so that was the impelling motive in Paul's daily exercise of keeping a conscience void of offence toward God and men.

The resurrection of the body is a distinctively Christian doctrine. Many of the Pagan philosophers had a clouded hope of the immortality of the soul, but that hope had but little practical value in saving society from the corruption and disintegration that engulfed the ancient civilizations. The doctrine of the resurrection and judgment following had a sobering effect on the thoughts and acts of men. As the same apostle Paul states it in 2 Corinthians 5:10, "For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; that every one may receive the things done in his BODY, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad." No wonder when this same Felix, before whom Paul uttered the words of the text, came again to hear the apostle, "As he reasoned of righteousness, temperance and judgment to come, Felix trembled."

But doubtless some one will immediately reply: "We have progressed beyond the old idea of scaring men into the kingdom of heaven, and are trying to lead them by love and good will." Stop! Pause a moment and consider that even law is based on love, and the final judgment promises vast rewards to the righteous, as well as penalties to the unrighteous.

Many competent critics affirm that modern society is becoming just about as corrupt as the society of ancient Rome in the days of Christ and the apostles. I trust not; but at the same time I am amazed and alarmed at many things I see and hear. No one who can look back over the past half century or more can fail to be impressed with the subtle change in the moral and spiritual concepts of men, and the shattering of many standards by which character and conduct were once measured. In modern life, with all its transient glories, we miss something of that conscientious conviction and sterling integrity of character, that made outstanding leaders in the cause of righteousness. Political expediency and personal inclination too often supplant conscientious conviction as motives of life. This is a skeptical and, in many respects, an atheistic age in which we live. A pagan, rather than a Christian philosophy, seems to underlie most of the activities of life. A godless theory of the origin and destiny of man has largely contributed to the skepticism leading to sensuality, vice and crime. Teach man that in the essential fibre of his being he is only a more highly developed brute, and he will naturally degenerate into the brute.

Much of the modernistic philosophy in its passion for social betterment has exalted man to the centre of things where God belongs, and the problems of life will not solve without god in the equation. We are trying to build the kingdom of God on earth without His eternal throne in the centre, and the sanctions of His holy law as the foundation. The bringing back of prosperity, feeding, housing, and employing the unemployed are pressing present problems, but man has ever deeper and more fundamental needs than these—"The kingdom of God is not meat and drink, but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost."

The longer I live the more assured I become that the Bible is the one and only revelation of God to men, in whose pages we see the Creator exalted in righteousness and holiness who can not tolerate sin; but who is also a loving Father who gave His Son to make atonement for sin, and inspire through His glorious life higher and higher ideals in His people. Acceptance of Jesus Christ as not only a teacher, but the word of God made flesh, with all that this implies is the crying need of men. Only through Him can we approximate a life with a conscience void of offence toward God and toward men.

CATHARPIN

Christmas, with all its joy and gladness came to Catharpin as it usually is in the habit of doing, and found almost every one ready to receive his or her share of good things in life and to hear that every welcome and expected salutation of "MERRY CHRISTMAS." If there is anything that makes one sort of stammer and stutter around a bit it is for some one to beat him to it and say it first. Perhaps, at the moment, you had not thought of it, hence your discomfort in thinking up a reply quick enough to cover the situation without giving yourself away. So in order that we shall not be caught in any such predicament we are going to do the trick right here and now and wish you all a HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR. So there!

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Brower, jr., and daughter Eleanor of Purcellville, Va., paid Sudley a flying visit on Sunday last to attend the Christmas entertainment and to see old friends of by-gone days when Mrs. Brower, or as we know her best, "Eleanor Wilkins" was a part and parcel of such things herself. Their friends were glad to see and greet them again.

Mrs. E. S. Clary of Lawrenceville, Va., is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. J. W. Alvey of Catharpin and incidentally finding out how it feels to attend a Christmas entertainment at Sudley once more where she used to take important parts herself. Sudley is always glad to welcome these good friends back again.

Sunday was a beautiful day; bright and glorious. Just such a day as Sudley needed for her Christmas program entitled "The Star and the Song" which was rendered by the school under the leadership of Miss Lida Sowers. The program thruout was well received and the pageant beautiful. All children as well as the grown-ups received their annual treat. The Quilting Fraternity, in the name of Sudley, presented the pastor and wife with one of their famous Dresden Plate quilts; also the S. S. Supt. and his wife were happy recipients of a beautiful walnut magazine rack presented to them by the school. The decorations were in harmony with the program and were the work of Mr. Samuel A. Moss, jr., who did it well. The whole program this year was entirely under the care of the young people and Sudley is proud of them for the way they carried it through.

Dr. Brower, whose accident was noted in this column last week, is rapidly recovering much to the pleasure of his many friends thruout the community.

Last week this community experienced the first real rain it has had since seeding time and the wheat fields were beginning to suffer. It seemed for a time that all nature was in sympathy with the Wheat Reduction Program to the extent that the "Foundations of Moisture" were dried up so that wheat should not grow. Now, however, things are looking GOOD and people are feeling BETTER and if prices would go up they would feel BEST.

Miss M. Elma Latham of Charlottesville, N. C., is spending the holiday season with Mr. and Mrs. W. Holmes Robertson of Lawn Vale.

The Christmas holiday was saddened for the whole community by the death of little Robert Payne Pattie, aged 3 and youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Pattie, who contracted diphtheria on Friday of last week and by Saturday night had reached a malignant stage from which he never recovered. The family had been quarantined early so that all the friends and neighbors could do was

COMING IN GAY TALKIE

Jack Pearl, famous "Baron Munchausen" of radio" of radio, Jimmy Durante of "Schnozzle" fame, and Zasu Jitts, whimsical comedienne of the Pitts-Todd comedies and many a feature picture, are the laugh-making trio heading the most remarkable all-comedian cast in history in "Meet the Baron," the picture that introduces the radio star to the screen. It comes next Wednesday to the Dixie Theatre in Manassas.

The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy with music is a hilarious story dealing with the sanguinary adventures of "The Baron" and Durante in a girls' college. Miss Pitts is the head chambermaid, and she and "The Baron" fall in love while Jimmy proceeds to vamp the college dean, played by Edna May Oliver.

Ted Healy and his stogees are in charge of the campus. "The Baron" and Durante arrive aboard a sea-going elephant. Pearl and Miss Pitts have a screamingly funny love scene in an icebox. The "college girls," beautiful singing and dancing chorines, do a musical number climaxed by a dance under shower-baths. Amid the comedy is a thread of a love romance. Walter Lang, famous for "The Warrior's Husband," directed the new picture.

to keep a silent vigil until a quarter of twelve on Christmas day when word was received that the little fellow had passed to the Great Beyond. Everything possible had been done to relieve his suffering but from the first it was realized that the case was serious. Owing to the contagious nature of the disease the funeral was strictly private on Tuesday at 1 p.m. when the child was laid to rest in the family plot in Sudley cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Pattie have the sincere sympathy of a host of friends and neighbors who regret their inability to be with and comfort them in this hour of bereavement.

Little Millie Caton, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Caton of Page-Lane, has recovered from an attack of measles from which she was suffering last week.

The farmer has had so many shocks, jolts and jars of late that one might think he had become immune to such things, but the latest one arrived last week when the price of eggs dropped 10 cents in less time than it takes to tell it. Just as old "Biddy" had put her nest in order and began to produce, her owner began to take courage; his hopes, however, were soon blasted since what he now receives will not much more than feed the hen that lays the egg.

To say the least it does seem to be a bit of hard luck for when he goes to his merchant, miller or blacksmith he is told that wholesale prices are going up all the time so that his groceries, flour and horseshoes have all advanced but his eggs are going down. Well this is Christmas week and we must not complain.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Onley and daughters, Jeanne and Joan of Washington, and Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Caldwell of Six Acres were dinner guests at Oakwood on Christmas.

Mrs. Gussie Lynn Webb spent the week-end and Christmas with her mother in Catharpin while Dr. and Mrs. Brower went to Clarendon for a few days with their daughter, Marjorie, and Mr. and Mrs. Hill Akers took Christmas dinner with their son, Wade, in Washington and so-on-and-so-forth. From the above you may realize how hard it is even for an experienced correspondent to keep track of these visits as they go "shuttling" back and forth between Catharpin and Washington. It has been said that if all the people of Catharpin blood were eliminated from Washington there would not be enough of the population left in the city to scrub down the Capitol steps. Well, that would be just too bad, wouldn't it?

Let
the car speak
for itself

HUNDREDS of thousands of people now own and drive Ford V-8 cars. Some neighbor or friend of yours has one. If we told you what we think of the car, you might say we are prejudiced, so we let the car and its owner tell you.

Economy of operation is one of the first points they will emphasize—the owner will boast of it and the car will prove it.

The 1934 car is even better than the 1933—and that was our best car up to its time. The new car is more beautiful—faster—more powerful—gives more miles to the gallon—better oil economy—is easier riding—cheaper to own and operate than any car we ever built.

You owe it to yourself and your pocketbook to ask our Ford Dealer to let you see this car, and let you drive it for yourself. At the wheel of the car you will be sure to reach a right decision. The Ford V-8 will tell you its own story.

OLD WEST LIVES AGAIN IN NEW FILM

Hollywood critics already having acclaimed Hoot Gibson's latest starring picture, "The Fighting Parson," playing at the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Friday, Jan. 5, are assured of a more than pleasing afternoon's or evening's entertainment when they see it.

The story is an appealing romantic drama, which has been given a background of side-splitting comedy. Full to the hilt with the atmosphere of the great west, the story gives Hoot the opportunity not only to demonstrate his ability in a dual role, but likewise permits him to turn in one of the most convincing performances of his career. It has often been said that Hoot Gibson is the only western star whose work not only retains the glamour of the popular old westerns, but introduces a novelty into them that makes each one different.

Probably the reason for this is the serious study that Gibson has made of the west and western characters. Today, even in the heart of the old west, its one time heroes and bad men have become only legendary characters. Outside of the silver sheet they have ceased to exist. Even the hinterlands, thanks to automobiles, radios and other contributions of modern science have become just as up-to-date as the most metropolitan centers.

Yet the thrill of the old west lingers. Hoot Gibson has caught and preserved that will-o-the-wisp spirit. His pictures teem with it. More than any other, "The Fighting Parson" does. By corroborating with story authors and other members of the cast, Hoot imbues them with the feeling of the west that is his. He has that strange power to pass his spirit down from the screen to his audiences. That is the reason for the continued popularity of Hoot Gibson's westerns.

When "The Fighting Parson" was being prepared for the screen, Hoot spent many hours with its author, Harry Fraser. Together they analyzed every sequence for authenticity and realism. Not until that was accomplished to Hoot's satisfaction was the yarn ready for screening. Then Hoot insisted that Fraser, the author, should also be the director.

NOTES ALONG THE WAY
(By Inno McGill)

In Manassas:

This year, it was a night of peerless beauty that ushered in the Christmas feast, and, under a canopy of starry moonlight, here and there throughout the town, homes were brightened by candle-light, illuminated wreathes in the windows; while myriads of varicolored electric lights, twinkling on Christmas trees in front of the houses, gave a fairy-like touch to the town's homey atmosphere.

And to this attractive setting of a "Happy Christmas" was added the sound of youthful voices as a group of girls went from house to house, after dark, chanting Christmas carols.

Their sweet refrain: "Silent Night, Holy Night," brought to mind the touching story of that beautiful tribute to the Christ Child by Father Josef Mohr, set to music by the village schoolmaster, Franz Xavier Gruber, and first sung 115 years ago in the humble little Catholic church of Oberndorf. Since that night, when the sweet carol was sung to the accompaniment of only a guitar (because the organ in the parish church had been damaged by a flood) "Silent Night, Holy Night" has been heard at Christmas in all the cathedrals of the world.

There was something truly touching in the notes of this lovely hymn as it was rendered without accompaniment, in the open, by girlish voices, Christmas Eve, in Manassas.

Saturday evening, a large crowd gathered around the tall, illuminated tree at the Prince William Hotel, attracted by the singing of Christmas anthems by men and women in chorus. And on that occasion, "Silent Night, Holy Night" was beautifully sung as a solo by Mrs. Logan.

At the Post Office: Little acts are made great by the manner in which they are rendered, and it was this writer's privilege to witness, in the Manassas Post Office, the courteous deed of a young man that lingers as a happy memory of the Yuletide. It occurred just when there was a lull in the rush of Christmas mailing. A gentleman handed in a parcel post package to be weighed. In doing this he voiced regrets because his package had been insufficiently wrapped; charging that failure to the rush of conditions in his office. Promptly, the clerk volunteered to rewrap the package; the offer being made so gently; so generously, that it brought forth a word of praise from a stranger near by, as the sender of the package withdrew from the window.

"Why not?" commented the clerk, "It requires little or no effort on my part and the sender of the parcel shall feel better for knowing his gift is properly wrapped."

Still, that act was so exceptional of its type that it merits mention among the kind deeds of the Christmas season in Manassas.

Midnight Mass: All Saints' Church was taxed to its capacity for the service at midnight by a congregation that included about 200 Catholic youths from the C.C.C. Camp some few miles outside of Manassas. It requires three large Army trucks to bring these boys to church. As they knelt during the mass, the sturdy lads clad in khaki brought to mind the scenes of that night in the Stable of Bethlehem when groups of lowly shepherds were privileged to be the first to offer homage to the Christ Child.

And the presence of these boys at this year's commemoration of the Nativity was also a reminder of one for them, doubtless, they prayed—their noble benefactor, the Chief Executive, whose consideration for those in need made possible the creation of the Civilian Conservation Corps, of which they are members.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

There is always something buoyant about the New Year. It is the open door to possibilities. The longest night of winter is past and lengthening light appears. Thoughts turn to spring and the hope of a fruitful year on the farm and larger business for the merchant.

The New Year means hope, prospect, the vigor of awakening spring.

Let us also bear in mind that it is the opportunity for newer and fuller life in helping and giving and loving. The business world today is in such good condition that we can hardly realize that one year ago we were in the throes of unspeakable demoralization.

May the close of 1934 mark complete return of national prosperity. And may the lessons of economy and the help extended to one another during the severe days that are over stay with us through all the years.

Doing Their Part

THE twenty-seventh annual convention of the National Canners Association, the Canning Machinery and Supplies Association and the National Food Brokers Association will be held in Chicago during the third week in January this year instead of during the fourth week as heretofore.

An important piece of advance information is that the directory of the Canning Machinery and Supplies Association voted in favor of resuming the annual exhibit of their products which was omitted last year, and circularized their membership on the subject. This means that there will be a lot of sales of machinery at this convention, and that more men will be put to work.

While much of the employment in the canning industry is seasonal, there has been a marked improvement where it is not. Employment in evaporated milk plants and offices, for instance, increased 14 per cent between July tenth and October twenty-first, and vast new plans are being made by the canning industry which will increase employment still more. The industry as a whole has adopted or is perfecting the codes which apply to each part of it, and is certainly doing its part.

Facts And Figures On Your Telephone
By EDWIN F. HILL

Today one person in every hundred in the United States is either employed by the telephone industry or has money invested in it. This is an indication of the interest in telephone communication. There are now approximately 17,000,000 telephones every section of the country from which about 77,000,000 calls are made each twenty-four hours. Not only is there an exchange of communication between the telephone users of the United States, but the service has been extended to almost all of the leading countries of the world.

Canada, Cuba and Mexico, next door neighbors of this country, are connected by land lines or under-sea cables, while the leading countries of Europe, Asia, Australia, South America, Central America, the Hawaiian Islands and the Philippines are within reach of the Bell System network by radio telephone channels, which make it possible to exchange communications between more than 90 per cent of the total 33,000,000 telephones in the world.

Less than sixty years ago there was not a single telephone in existence. The first conversation between two telephones was held March 10, 1876. By 1880 the number of telephone stations in this country had increased to 30,872. Conversation was then limited to forty-five miles. In ten years the number of telephones had increased to 211,500 and the distance that the human voice could carry was 900 miles.

By 1900 long distance telephone communication had become more general and the principal cities, towns and communities of the eastern half of the United States could converse with each other, but it was not until 1915 that the continent was spanned. In 1921 telephone service was extended to Cuba, then in 1927 to Europe, and subsequently to far-flung outposts in almost every part of the world.

Communication moves forward and today people speak with each other almost everywhere.

"BOMBHELL" RIOT OF LAUGHS; HARLOW TRIUMPHS

Lola Burns, exotic motion picture star, has been made famous by the daring publicity created by Space Hanlon, publicity director of Monarch films. Her life, however, is a continual turmoil for her father, and brother humiliates her at the most inopportune times, her secretary throws wild parties in her home, movie fans harass her, and her publicity director's ideas sometimes go haywire. Only recently he has embroiled her in an affair with the Marquis di Binelli di Pisa who was arrested for violating his passport permit.

Because of the Marquis' arrest, Lola demands the studio to discharge Space. The astute news-hound, however, manages to extricate himself from his complications, only at a cost, however, of embittering the Marquis against Lola, causing a breach between her and her director, Brogan, and making himself totally objectionable to the star.

A sob sister, planted by Space, convinces Lola she should answer the call of motherhood. She renews her interest in Brogan and plans to adopt a baby. The news spreads that Lola Burns is to become a mother. Space hastens to Lola's home. A committee of women is there to investigate Lola as a proper person to become the mother of an orphaned child.

Brogan arrives. The Marquis, his lawyer, and the reporters arrive. A fight between the Marquis and Brogan takes place. It becomes a general melee and means more scandal for Lola Burns, Lola leaves the studio flat. At Palm Springs she falls in love with Gifford Middleton, and is introduced to his parents. A genuine love affair is blooming when Space appears. The parents discover Lola to be a sensational movie star when her topering father and dissolute brother show up. Gifford breaks off his affair with Lola at his parents' request.

RELEASE DATE ANNOUNCED FOR INCOME TAX FORMS

The necessary forms for reporting the incomes of corporations and individual taxpayers for the calendar year 1933, will be released from the United States internal revenue bureau on January 2. All reports must be filed on or before March 15, when the first tax installment is due.

A national increase of more than $50,000,000 of the revenue collected in November of this year as compared to the same month of 1932, was reported by Revenue Commissioner Guy T. Helvering.

The increase in collections of $135-

706,922.65 for the month period ending November 30, was attributed to the tax upon fermented malt liquors, automobiles and motorcycles, gasoline and dividends, which taxes were not in force a year ago.

Hectic Excitement!

ON BOARD THE BYRD FLAGSHIP JACOB RUPPERT, Oct. 12.—What a hectic time we are having and how tired I am! Here we are on our great ship at Bayonne, N. J. I can't write it all out sensibly. I can only give you a few hasty glimpses of the strange whirl of events I am going through.

The arrival on board with my luggage—in the rain. The howling of 151 Eskimo dogs, some in cages, the rest chained to everything available on our steel decks—all of them yelling their heads off. A dock worker has made a mistake in handling a big valve and a lot of dogs have been deluged with oil. Four veterinarians are working over them now. They are in a lot of discomfort but wonderfully patient.

The shouts of Commander stevedores. The G. O. Noville hundreds upon hundreds of orange painted gasoline drums. The piles of miscellaneous cargo. The boxes of oil. Walking through the holds I see strange sights—skis, snowshoes, immense piles of furs, queer looking little round stoves. (I'll tell you some interesting things about these later) The first welcome bell for food after working all night. Utter fatigue but no rest. Such is the beginning of our great adventure.

I know the dangers of loading this cargo. We are using the utmost care in our inspection of each gasoline drum to prevent a leaky one from coming aboard. What leaking gasoline could do to us is horrible to contemplate. And here, over the side, comes two tons of high explosives, for blasting our way through the ice of Antarctica. At night, when I go to bed, I hope I can forget that these things are on board.

Already I am beginning to catch what is known as the "Expedition Spirit." Everyone is tired. Everyone has more work than he possibly can do. But everybody is good-natured, cooperative, sympathetic. It is this spirit and his wonderful preliminary campaign of preparation which makes Admiral Byrd's ventures so successful. Visitors are swarming over our ship—Colonel Ruppert, one of our sponsors, grinning from ear to ear at the strange sights, sounds and smells. A hundred newspaper men and women asking everybody innumerable questions. Sound movie men trying to get sensible interviews out of Commander Noville, my chief instructor, and everybody else on board. Tomorrow night we must leave for Norfolk to start our 10,000 mile trip to the bottom of the world. Will we ever get all this stuff on the ship and all the visitors off?

And now we are getting our oil and fuel aboard. That's what I'm particularly interested in. We are going to encounter variable weather conditions—temperatures that will be 100 degrees Fahrenheit at the Equator and 70 to 80 degrees below Zero in the Antarctic. I wonder how I'll stand that cold! The coldest I have ever been was one night at Kent School when I flooded the skating rink at 10 degrees below. They tell me that I can't have a bath all the time I am at Little America—about 16 months—for fear of opening the pores in a draft and catching pneumonia. And the drafts down there come from icy gales which sometimes blow 150 miles an hour. We have to rub ourselves over with cold cream to keep clean. This worries me.

With all these temperature changes our engines—and what a variety of them we have!—demand a wide range of specially selected fuels and lubricants. We are taking on about 5,000 tons of fuel oil on the Jacob Ruppert alone. And 15,000 gallons of aviation gasoline of fighting grade, to say nothing of a few thousand gallons of kerosene and a staggering quantity of cylinder oil, rod swabbing oil, aero rocker arm grease and other things to keep our many engines working smoothly.

Have you joined our club yet? All you have to do is send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope addressed to Arthur Abels, Jr., Little America Aviation and Exploration Club, Hotel Lexington, 48th Street and Lexington Avenue, New York, N. Y., our American headquarters, and I'll send you a membership card. Later I'll see that you get a complete working map of the South Polar regions on which you can follow our aviation trips, snowmobile journeys, dog-sled dashes and other adventures as I tell you about them in these weekly letters.

Seasonal Buying

THERE is a wider spread in winter between the prices of fresh and canned vegetables than in summer. So why not take advantage of the lower prices of canned foods in comparison to fresh and buy more canned foods in winter than you do in summer? This offers a seasonal opportunity to economize. One good way to do this is to combine fresh and canned vegetables in the same dish. They go perfectly well together as you will find out if you try one of the following recipes:

Mashed Mixed Vegetables: Simmer the contents of an 11-ounce can diced carrots for a few minutes, and drain. Boil five medium potatoes, and drain. Cut three medium onions in dice, boil and drain. Combine the three hot vegetables, mash thoroughly, season with salt, pepper, two tablespoons butter and two or three tablespoons cream, or enough to moisten. Beat fluffy with a fork, and serve hot. Serves eight.

An Appetizing Dish
Mixed Vegetable Appetizer: Chill separately the contents of an 8-ounce can diced carrots, an 8-ounce can diced beets, one-third cup diced celery, and one-third cup diced cucumber; drain off any juice and toss lightly together. Fill small cocktail glasses or cup-shaped lettuce leaves with this mixture. Beat one-half cup cream, add one-half cup chili sauce, one tablespoon mayonnaise, one tablespoon capers and a few grains of salt. Have very cold. Pile this sauce on top of vegetables. Serves eight.*

"Like Rubbing Aladdin's Lamp" Says Pleased User

Arkansas Man who called Family in Smithfield, Va. Praises Phone

Mr. A. R. Coleman of Little Rock, Ark., made a long distance call to his mother and father in Smithfield, Va., recently.

So pleased was he with the result that he wrote the Telephone Company this letter:

"I had been away from home over three months, so I decided to call them up. Priceless are the voices of those we love. Through Chicago, Philadelphia and finally to my mother and dad in Smithfield, Va., went my request—and I talked with them, heard their voices. Afterwards, reflecting on the call, one of the most marvelous things to me was this—that out of 120,000,000 people in this country (like a big crowd) you reached out and tapped just two on the shoulder for me, and then granted me the means of talking to them. Surely I rubbed Aladdin's lamp!"

Make out-of-town calls by number after 8:30 p. m. and you can talk as far as 135 miles for 45c.

"Service With a Smile"

To Greet the New Year

NEW YEAR'S EVE is the time of good resolutions. This coming year, we resolve, we will do this and that which we have hitherto neglected, and we will be careful not to do a number of things which we have always known that we shouldn't but somehow simply couldn't resist. It's lots of fun at a New Year's Eve party to play Good Resolutions. This is done by distributing slips of paper to every guest present and getting them to write down, without any signature, a list of the things which they have resolved to do and not to do during the coming year. Then the hostess reads aloud the lists of good resolutions, and the guests try to guess who is the author of each.

The resolutions come out in funny fashion, and are most revealing. The guests who resolve "to diet," "not to flirt," "not to smoke so much," "to take more exercise," "to go to church more regularly," "to do some good reading," "to save some money" are generally the first to deny vehemently their authorship of any such idea. But their blushes or self-consciousness betray them, or else the others' knowledge of their characters, and this game is good for many a laugh.

A Good Resolution

One of the best resolutions you can make at such a party, however, especially if you are the hostess, is to serve a supper which will appeal to your merry guests. Here's a menu for eight which has been tried and tested, and voted a complete success:

- Cream of Mushroom Soup
- Toasted Whole Wheat Fingers
- Lobster Cakes
- Creamed Peas in Tinseltown Cases
- Sweet Pickled Pear Salad
- Coffee Coconut Cream
- Nuts
- Coffee

Cream of Mushroom Soup: Drain the mushrooms from an 8-ounce can, and put them through a grinder. Cook in top part of double boiler for five minutes with one tablespoon water, one tablespoon lemon juice and two teaspoons salt. Make a white sauce of four tablespoons butter, four tablespoons flour and three cups milk. Add the mushrooms and one cup cream, and keep hot in double boiler.

Fish and Fruit

Lobster Cakes: Make a thick white sauce of two tablespoons butter, four tablespoons flour, one cup milk, one-half teaspoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Add one egg yolk, one teaspoon lemon juice and the minced contents of two cans of lobster, and let stand over night or until quite cold. Shape into cutlet or chop shapes, dip in crumbs, then in egg, and then in crumbs again, and fry in deep fat. Insert a piece of macaroni in the pointed ends to represent a bone. Serve with tartar sauce.

Sweet Pickled Pear Salad: Arrange eight pickled pear halves on individual lettuce nests. Garnish with one-half cup whipped heavy cream, one-half cup mayonnaise and one-half cup sweet pickle syrup.

A Coking Dessert

Coffee Coconut Cream: Soak three-fourths tablespoon gelatin in four tablespoons cold water. Make a custard of one egg yolk, one-half cup brown sugar and three-fourths cup hot strong coffee. Add one tablespoon butter, pour over the gelatin, and stir until dissolved. Cool. When it begins to set, fold in one stiffly-beaten egg white, one-half cup whipped heavy cream and one can of moist coconut. Serve very cold piled in glasses with whipped cream on top.

After this supper you'll find that your guests are feeling stronger, but that their good resolutions have grown unaccountably weaker. That one about dieting, for instance, may be a little bit modified, and the girls look so pretty and the men so handsome that a trifle of flirting doesn't seem so heinous a crime. It's fun to play Good Resolutions both before and after supper, and to note the changes in them that the good food and the merry time have wrought. It's the last chance to change them, you know, before the bells begin ringing at midnight, and your party welcomes the New Year.*
