FLORAL EXHIBIT IN HAYMARKET

Third Annual Exhibit Has Many Lovely Entries.

(By Inno McGill)

The Flower Show conducted by the Woman's Club of Haymarket, last Friday afternoon, furnished enjoyment to the patrons and a large number of guests from various localities. In fact, the rare and colorful collection of flowers was viewed with pleasant surprise by club members who had feared the backward Spring might lessen the numbers of blooms and detract from the merits of this—the third annual exhibition by the club that was organized only three years ago, last month.

After a morning of rain and bleak winds, sunshine brought its warmth and a cheerful glow to the flower-filled rooms where refreshments were served to the guests.

The judges, Mrs. Swavely and Mrs. Leachman of Manassas; Mrs. John Rust of Fairfax, together with Mrs. C. B. Allen, president of the club, were entertained at lunch by Mrs. C. J. Gillis, chairman of garden committee.

PRIZE PAPER BY MISS MARY COCKE

Awards Made at Kiwanis Dinner.

Last Friday the Kiwanis had a preview of some of the county high school grads when they entertained the three winners of a county-wide contest started on the request of the district governor, E. I. Carruthers, of Charlottesville.

The papers were supposed to be answers to a letter published in a magazine of recent date by a young man just starting life in which he challenges the uses and purposes of being honest.

The prize award went to Mary Cocke, of Manassas, with second to Henry Florence, of Haymarket, and third to Lucy Gibson, of Manassas. There were about 170 papers submitted in all.

Each winner read his paper in succession, and then Bob Hutchison made the awards in his characteristic style in which he made the young people feel right at home.

The club decided to invite the four honor graduates from each school and all the high school principals for a special dinner this Friday evening.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES

The memorial exercises, under the auspices of the Memorial Association and the U.D.C., will be held in the Baptist Church at 3 p.m. Sunday afternoon. An interesting program has been arranged and the public are cordially invited to attend.

4-H CLUBS SELECT ACHIEVEMENT DAY

Will Postpone Same to October Date.

The Prince William County 4-H Club Council met at the Methodist Church at Manassas, Saturday afternoon, May 26.

Songs were practiced for a program to be given at the National 4-H Camp in Washington in June. Following the club pledge, reports were made by the different clubs on the progress made toward carrying out the county plan of work set up at the beginning of the year. The group voted to change the time of the Achievement Day program from forenoon and afternoon to the afternoon and evening of October 13 and to include camp fire ceremonies in the program.

A report was given by Wilda Bourne of the investigation of a place for holding a county camp. Arguments for and against a county camp were brought up and a committee was appointed to investigate the matter farther.

Plans were made for holding the County Club Contests at Occoquan, in which all members were to take part, on June 29 and to adjourn for a picnic at the beach on the Potomac River in the afternoon. A committee was appointed to arrange for each club to hold a social or other event for raising money toward a fund to be used for sending contest winners to the State Short Course. Two other committees were named, one to prepare the dairy festival float and the other to make arrangements for the beach for the picnic following the contests.

It was decided to have the following exhibits on Achievements Day in October:

ROBERT E. LEE

No righteous cause is ever lost
Tho' dire disaster lay it low
Tho' whelming forces overpower
And scornful boasting has it hour
A just cause will survive and grow.

APPOMATTOX

This name means vastly more
Than monumental shaft or lettered bronze
Can ever tell of patriotic sacrifice.
Here! War with joint consent "stacked arms"
And with due gravity and candor
Shook the hand of peace.
And SUCH a peace!
No compromise with valor nor with honor
But manhood's noblest, bravest, best—
Crushed but unconquered Lee went forth to meet
The last dread ordeal of a lofty soul
Went forth in mercy's name and for his people's sake
And yielding nothing to the stress of fate but all to God—
Drank to its dregs disaster's bitter cup.
Thus worthy of himself and of his cause
Of those he served and those who served with him—
Did that great captain Robert Edward Lee
EXALT defeat, by humble SELF SURRENDER to the will of heaven.

Thomas D. D. Clarke.

ON CAPITOL HILL

The net cash price of gasoline at the service station was lower in Virginia and in forty-four States as of January 31, 1934, according to a Federal Trade Commission report filed with the Senate this week in obedience to its instructions for a nationwide price survey.

The report showed that the net price in Virginia on that date (excluding State, Federal, County and City taxes) was 12.60 cents a gallon. The only other States reporting a lower net price was Tennessee, 11 cents; Texas 12 cents; Massachusetts, 12.10 cents, and New York, 12 cents.

The report was based primarily on such information as the Commission had available, supplemented by data secured from the leading oil companies engaged in refining and marketing gasoline with respect to figures on production and refinery prices, together with tank wagon and service station prices at the principal points in the marketing territory of the respective companies.

The price data covered 272 cities throughout the United States, and concerned only the regular grade gasoline. Prices for high test or first grade gasoline, the commission pointed out, are usually 2 cents a gallon higher and for third grade gasoline 1 1/2 cents lower than for the regular trade.

From its study, the Commission reached the following conclusions:

1. Increases in the price of gasoline was made following the approval of the code of fair competition for the petroleum industry on August 19, 1933, and its effective date, September 2, 1933, of approximately 2 cents a gallon, but there were subsequent declines which resulted in an average net increase in prices to the consumer from July 1, 1933, to January 31, 1934, of only about 1 cent a gallon.
2. Computed on the basis of estimated consumption during 1933, consumers were paying at an annual rate of about $160,000,000 more for gasoline January 31, 1934, than they were on July 1, 1933.

3. The combined rate of State and Federal sales tax on gasoline ranging from 3 cents a gallon in some States to 8 cents in others amounts to an average of about 5.14 cents a gallon and costs the consumers of gasoline approximately $700,000,000 a year.

The Commission estimated that Virginia gasoline consumers paid in taxes (Federal and State, a total of $14,007,480 in 1933. The consumption for the year was placed at 233,458,000 gallons.

Democrats Support President

Representative Thomas L. Blanton, the fiery Texan, told the House the other day the Democrats in Congress are supporting President Roosevelt and have confidence in him whether they agree with some of his codes or not.

"Four hundred and thirty-five members of the House could not agree on any code," Blanton said. "Ninety-six Senators could not agree on any code. There is not a single code we could all agree upon. If left to ourselves we probably would have 435 different programs here in the House."

"But President Roosevelt has one program. He is one man who has a definite policy. He is the man who is putting his policy and his program into effect to bring about economic recovery in this country. And we, Democrats, are backing him whether we believe in some of his codes or not; we believe in him and we have confidence in him."

"I do not agree with a lot of these codes, but I am following the President just the same."

Blanton made his remarks in answer to criticism of the President's recovery program by Representative Fred Britten, Republican, of Illinois. "Why does not my friend from Illinois," Blanton added, "quit all his snarling and back biting and get behind the President? Why does he not stand up with the rest of the people?"

LOCAL FIRE BOYS WIN NEW HONORS

Capture Two Cups in Competition with Many Companies.

The Manassas Fire Department added fresh glories yesterday at Alexandria by carrying off the cup for largest and best appearing company in line. Floyd Vetter maintained his standing by winning the cup given for the one-man hook-up.

Those on the truck which won the prize were T. W. Howard, C. W. Fitzwater, J. A. Vetter, R. E. Hynson, Warren Coleman, Mason Mayhugh, Jack Stauff, Wilson Kite, Sedrick Saunders, Sheldon Holmes, Floyd Vetter, Roger Cross, John Broadus, Douglas Dodson, Franklin Hibbs, L. Proctor Byrd and A. MacMillan.

The contests and parade were viewed by thousands. The day was perfect and satisfaction was registered by all who attended.

The local boys have an overwhelming pride in their work and do not need to go on parade to show what they can do. As one prominent business man said, "If the Manassas Fire Department keeps up its work, Manassas a hundred years from now will be the same Manassas for they won't be able to get rid of it."

Keep up the good work, boys, for the town and county certainly are behind you and they'll remember it when you give another carnival.

AUTO SCRAMBLE ON STEEP GRADE

Holiday Crowd Stages Spectacular Mixup near Woodbridge.

A spectacular smash-up between six cars and one cycle figured on the Jefferson Davis Highway just a short distance from Kincheloe's filling station about 9 o'clock last night.

According to report of Officer J. W. Clarke, who investigated, the trouble began when Sergeant Clarence Jacobs, of Quantico, was effecting a left-hand turn into the Minnieville road and Renzo Wolford, of Baltimore, flashed over the hill on his cycle and crashed into him.

These two had about settled their differences when Theodore McShane, of Langhorne Park, Pa., stopped behind them. Before he could start up again, a head-on collision occurred between Robert Eusome, of Dunn, N. C., headed south, and L. W. Franklin, of Fredericksburg. Franklin swerved and hit McShane at the same time. Boaz Long, one of his passengers, had a fractured leg which was the most severe injury of the evening, all the others being taken to the hospital for cuts and bruises.

The affair was completed when Fred Wauhop, of Washington, came over the steep slope and dove into the rear of Adolph Koenig's car which had pulled down between the wreckage. There were no fatalities and Sgt. Clarke reports no arrests.

CO-OPERATE WITH MANASSAS FIRE DEPARTMENT

THE CHRISTIAN THOUGHT ABOUT GOD

By Rev. A. S. Gibson

Text: "For this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found." Luke 15:24.

Can a man know God? The answer to this question is, Yes and No. Man can not know God in the infinity of His majesty and in the glory of His mind, but man can know God as we know our friends. We associate with them, person with person, and know them. So we may associate with God and know Him.

Only a few weeks ago, in Corning, N. Y., there was made the greatest casting of glass that man has ever attempted. That casting was poured to make a mirror for a telescope to peer into space, and to learn as much as man can learn of that space by the use of the most perfect instrument ever made for that purpose. Men hope by its use to learn more of the mind of God and of the infinity of the universe. Since this instrument of precision will penetrate farther into space than has ever been possible before, men expect to learn many things after which they are now only groping as in the dark. They expect they will know more of how God works. But it will not help them to know God.

Eons and eons before men began to live on this speck known as the world, one of the smallest of the planets in a galaxy and stars, God in His perfection created this universe and established the laws that rule it. As part of that world we may learn the operation of those laws, but we can not thereby penetrate into the mind of God, beyond the capacity of our own mind and its ability to understand or receive.

Again, men are turning their gaze inward in an effort to know more about the laws of life. They are bombarding the atom to learn something of its interior construction, hoping thereby to learn the secret of the origin of life. Man is not only searching the infinitely great, but also the infinitely small in order to know. In his search he no doubt will learn much about some of the laws by which this world lives, and of the universe of which he is a part. But he will not thereby learn to know God, for God is beyond the comprehension of the finite mind of men.

And yet man always has wanted to know God. Ever since man has emerged in the primeval wilderness he has been searching for God. He has striven to find the great power behind the universe. He has lifted up his heart and soul to worship the great power that created him and cared for him. Ever before the coming of the Hebrew prophets and before our Lord Jesus Christ, there have been men who sought Him out and have found Him; and their lives have been a benediction because, finding Him, they have learned of Him and imparted of His Spirit upon their fellow-men.

Abraham found Him. Like many of the people of his time Abraham felt it right to sacrifice that which was dearest to his heart, thus making a real gift to the great power of the universe. So, taking his son and a bundle of fagots, he went up the mountain, there to sacrifice his only son, Isaac, as an offering to God. But God spoke to him and restrained him in the act. We do not know how Abraham heard that voice, but we do know that there came a revelation from God himself. He turned and saw a ram caught by its horns in the bushes behind him. So he took the ram and sacrificed it; but he otherwise dedicated the life of his son to the service of God.

And so men have learned to know God, struggling along through various stages of their understanding of Him. They have thought of Him as the great power of majesty and strength, sitting away off in space, rejoicing in bloody sacrifice and in the punishment of men. They have thought of Him as the expression of arbitrary law, picking some men to be saved and others to be damned; some were to go to some kind of material heaven, and others were to be thrust into a hell of material fire—all regardless of the real moral worth of the men.

But as for us, God has taught us better than that. He has sent His Son, Jesus Christ, who has told us the character and mind of God in such a way that we can all understand. No matter what our degree of intelligence we can now drag nigh to God. For Jesus has told it to us in those marvellous stories of which He was capable. Today we have one of them—the story of the Prodigal Son. In it Jesus tells us that God is a Father. This belief is the whole motive power of our life. And because He is our Father, He does what a father will do, if we only repeat and believe. If we do as the prodigal did—come to ourselves and turn back to God—we shall, as did the prodigal find Him our best and closest friend. We shall find the perfect joy of the Father's personality merged with ours. If we give ourselves to Him without reservation, His words concerning us shall be as those of the father in the parable concerning his son—For this my son was dead and is alive again. He was lost, and is found. In other words of the Lord Jesus, there shall then be fulfilled: "There is joy in the presence of God over one sinner that repenteth, more than over the ninety and nine that need no repentance."

"THE SHOW OFF" COMING NEXT MONDAY

A man falls from the deck of an excursion boat into the ocean. In the ensuing confusion a second man, J. Aubrey Piper, is accidentally shoved in after the first. Thus it happens that heroism is forced on Aubrey, because everybody imagines he dove in on purpose. Amy Fisher, also a passenger—though she has never met Aubrey socially—looks at him starry-eyed as, expansively, he accepts congratulations.

Some time later Amy, who clerks in her dad's realty office, again meets the hero. It is Sunday, the best day for real estate prospects. Aubrey is driving an expensive car and desires to look at houses. He is a "railroad man," he says. There are other Sundays; romance blossoms, and it makes no difference to Amy that her beloved is a braggart; that he borrows his expensive cars from dealers, on demonstration; that he is merely a bookkeeper with the railroad company, rather than the president. Against the advice of her family, which regards him as a pest, Amy marries him.

To his bride's helpless despair, Aubrey lives extensively beyond his income, and gets head over heels in debt. When his small salary is attached, he and Amy are compelled to move in on her family. The latter—mother, father and brother—resolve to treat Aubrey as patiently as possible.

See the rest of the picture at the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Monday and Tuesday.

Why Visit a Funeral Home?

As we extend this invitation for you to visit our funeral home, the thought arises that you may wonder what reason there is for your accepting it. Briefly, it is no longer customary to wait until need arises before visiting a funeral home. Almost everyone may be obligated to make arrangements for a relative, friend or neighbor. Foresighted people are making it a point to visit and know about the facilities of modern funeral homes, as one of their responsibilities. By doing this they avoid hurried decisions, made in emergencies, that might result in lasting regret. They secure information which helps make their final tribute to loved ones as considerate and beautiful as possible.

 BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

If parents will have their children memorize the daily Bible selections, it will prove a priceless heritage to them in after years.
PEACE WITH ALL MEN:
 Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord. — Hebrews 12:14.

A MATTER OF PUBLIC INTEREST

On a number of occasions in the past two or three years we have had suggestions both by written communication and by conversation that Prince William County should have some sort of an organized trade body which could function to stabilize local business, to attract tourists and secure new residents for this county.

More recently the executive secretary of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce has come into our midst and at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club strongly urged and emphasized the need of such an organization locally. He cited numerous examples and methods of operation which would make it seem that Prince William County and Manassas are not too small at all for a successful organization. We have waited for some time before evidencing any voice on the matter which is one that would have to be sustained by public support, but have come to the conclusion finally to lay the whole thing directly before the public here in Prince William and ascertain if the business men and more prosperous farmers would be willing to try out the idea for a year or two and test it on its own merits.

At this time, further than make the suggestion, we are not voicing our own sentiments, as we would like first to find out what others think. Certainly if there should be no response to this suggestion, there would be little support for the same, but if there should be, the organization would be a matter of perhaps but a few weeks.

A MANASSAS MEMORIAL TO STONEWALL JACKSON

While all nations of the world admire and study the marvellous military prowess of Stonewall Jackson, the spot on the battlefield of First Manassas, where the intrepid fighter performed his greatest military exploit, remains unmarked.

A suitable memorial should be erected here and all true Southerners should have a participation in the enterprise. The spot where the immortal Jackson attained the name of "Stonewall" should be a hallowed shrine to all who love valor and Christian devotion.

UP FROM 90 CENTS

William H. Woodin, recently secretary of the United States Treasury, who recently died, began life on a salary of 90 cents a day in a railroad equipment foundry. He was not thinking much about getting his hands dirty, his cuffs soiled, or about the size of the pay. He was looking for a job, where he could learn something.

Countless boys start work by considering many things besides what they are learning. They pick a $5 a day job, where they learn nothing, rather than a $2 a day one, where they get valuable instruction.

The big men of the land started about the way Mr. Woodin did. They did not hesitate to begin in the dirt at the bottom of the ladder. All they asked was to know that the ladder was there on which they could climb. They did not worry, whether it was a white collar or a soiled collar job.—Exchange.

BYRD STANDS PAT

No one can follow the legislative career of Harry Flood Byrd without having faith in his judgment, trust in his honesty of purpose and admiration for his sterling courage.

Harry Byrd makes up his mind on a definite course of action and, while he is not beyond the reach of reasoning when in error, he must be conclusively shown that he is wrong before he will switch. He belongs to the type that conceives great ideas and fights for them while the vast majority may be against him.

His course on the roads question in Virginia is the only thing which we need to refer to for it is the one thing beyond all others which might have plunged this State into disastrous bonded indebtedness. He has done many other things, both single-handed and with the assistance of the capable advisors with whom he has consulted.

The United States Senate has not changed him but rather intensified his idealism. The brief space of a few months has placed him higher in the public eye than ever before and we predict that no future plan of state or national government can be enacted during the political life of Harry Byrd but that he plays a part in its conception and adoption.

Hints for Homemakers
 By Jane Rogers

An old sewing machine can easily be converted into a smart dressing table. Saw a piece of pressed wood, obtainable from a lumber dealer, to the right size. Nail it to a frame made of 1/2-inch square wood, and cover the entire top with a colorful chintz or other heavy material, taking care to tack it tightly around the edges. Then give it a coat of shellac and you have a serviceable table top. A ruffled skirt should be made of the same material and tacked to the frame. If you wish to use the machine, simply lift off the top and skirt.

Serving a fruit garnish or compote with the meat course adds a pleasing touch to the dinner. It is not only delicious in itself but provides a piquant contrasting flavor to heavier dishes. Another all-important point for the busy housewife is that such garnishes and compotes are easily and quickly prepared.

THE OLD HYMNS

There's lots of music in 'em—the hymns of long ago,
 And when some gray-haired brother sings the ones I used to know
 I sorted want to take a hand—I think of days gone by—
 "On Jordan's stormy banks I stand and cast a wistful eye!"

There's lots of music in 'em—those dear, sweet hymns of old,
 With visions bright of lands of light and shining streets of gold;
 And I hear 'em ringing—singing where Memory dreaming stands,
 "From Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral stands."

They seem to sing forever of holier, sweeter days,
 When the lilies of the love of God bloomed white in all the ways;
 And I want to hear their music from the old-time meetin's rise
 Till "can reds my title clear to mansions in 'heavens' skies."

We never needed singing' books in them old days—we knew
 The words, the tunes of everyone—the dear old hymn book through!
 We didn't have no trumpets, then, no organs built for show,
 We only sang to praise the Lord, "from whom all blessings flow."

An' so I love the good old hymns, and when my time shall come—
 Before the light has left me, and my singing lips are dumb—
 If I can hear 'em sing them, I'll pass without a sigh
 To "Canaan's fair and happy land, where my possessions lie."
 by Frank L. Stanton.

CO-OPERATE WITH MANASSAS FIRE DEPARTMENT

To the Editor, Manassas Journal, Manassas, Va.

Dear Editor:

Your help in organizing a Chess and Checker Club in Fairfax would be appreciated.

Chess and Checkers should keep step with other trainings. There are two wonderful games, called the Princes of games, Chess and Checkers, which really are "mental exercise."

These two famous old games, which were the recreations of our ancestors, should be more popular. I do believe, we here in Fairfax should have a Chess and Checker Club, where the masters of both games could teach and train the younger set. All players and friends, ladies and gentlemen, young and old, please cooperate with me in organizing a Chess and Checker Club here in Fairfax. Write or call me so that we can set a date and place for a meeting.

Falls Church has his Chess Club. Should we here in Fairfax stand back?

Respectfully,
LEE R. DOYLE,

RICHARD BARTHELMESS' NEW FILM CRAMMED WITH THRILLS

Richard Barthelme's latest First National picture, "Massacre," which comes to the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Wednesday, brings to the screen a story not only packed with dramatic action and colorful spectacle but a unique romance different from the usual film love fare.

The story is crammed with exciting episodes which increase in suspense and intensity to a smashing climax in which the Indian tribe gathers in an uprising against the whites, sweeping over the reservation settlement in a night of terror.

Richard Barthelme gives a virile performance as a young, educated Sioux brave who begins life as a swashbuckling circus rider, egotistically and insolently flaunting his masculine charms before a wealthy white society girl who has lionized him because of her yearning for a new thrills.

But it is a different Barthelme who returns to his people on the reservation after his eyes have been opened to the sad plight of his race by a beautiful Indian maid. He returns to boast of his success and his conquests and remains to become the champion of his downtrodden people.

Ann Dvorak plays the role of the Indian maid with a directness and simplicity that is highly commendable, while Claire Dodd is equally fascinating as the blasé and polished society girl who rolls her flirtatious eyes at the Indian brave.

In addition to the whites in the cast there are 300 real Indians in bit and extra parts, a representative gathering of twelve different tribes. Chief Standing Bear, of the Sioux tribe, and a Carlisle graduate, was the technical advisor for the picture and is responsible for its accuracy to authentic details of Indian rites and customs.

DR. EDDY SPEAKS

On Saturday night a large audience of Sunday school teachers and workers of the county met at the Presbyterian Church in Manassas to hear Dr. Paul D. Eddy, director of vacation and week-day church schools of the International Council of Religious Education, spoke.

Dr. Eddy very fervently delivered an address on the subject, "Someone taught a child." All those who were present were well repaid for their trip and would have been satisfied to listen to him for another hour.

The majority of the schools in the county were represented, which is a great step in the advancement of the program which was outlined by Dr. Miller, State secretary, which also gave plans for further advancement of the Sunday school work in the county.

Then, on Monday night a goodly number of workers from Nokesville, Manassas, Occoquan and other parts of Prince William County went to Ballston Methodist Church where Rev. J. W. Townsend is minister, to hear Dr. Roy A. Burkhardt, associate director of Young People of the International Council, speak on "Christian Education and The New Day."

BETHLEHEM CLUB ENTERTAINED AT CLOVER HILL FARM

The regular meeting of the Bethlehem Good Housekeeping Club was held at the home of Mrs. Wheatley Johnson on Thursday, May 24. Mrs. Johnson was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Pierson. The president, Mrs. R. L. Sudd, was in the chair and opened the meeting with the Lord's prayer. Roll call and reading of the minute followed. The usual reports from standing committees were heard: Flowers and dainty confections had been sent to a sick member. Mrs. W. L. Lloyd and Mrs. R. L. Lewis gave a splendid report on civic relief work. The Club subscribed $10.00 to be used by this committee according to the necessary demands. Mrs. Eleanor Johnson reports that several new books had been placed in library through a donation from the Club and that these books had been helpful to school children in writing prize essays on southern heroes.

A Mother's Day Program put on by Mrs. John W. Lyons delightfully entertained the assembly. The program opened by singing in chorus "Faith of Our Mothers." Mrs. Lyons thus read a short sketch on the origin of Mother's Day; the first observance and of the proclamation by President Wilson which made the second Sunday in May a national observance day. Reading by Mrs. R. L. Byrd were well rendered and received with appreciation. Earnest Leslie's beautiful poem "Rock Me to Sleep, Mother" was spoken with tenderness and pathos by Mrs. L. L. Lonas appearing in her usual charming and attractive manner.

The rooms were artistically decorated in multi-colored iris and field daisies, the club flower.

Amidst this appropriate setting the group of club members and special guests which included Mrs. Mamie Dulaney, Mrs. P. H. Lynch, Miss Nina Hayes, Mrs. L. L. Lonas and Mrs. O. D. Waters were daintily served delicious ice cream and cake by the hostesses.

An invitation from Mrs. A. E. Spies to meet with her in June was accepted. Mrs. M. M. Washington will arrange a program in keeping with the season "Month of Roses."

This brought to a close another enjoyable meeting of the Bethlehem Club.

"WHEELS OF DESTINY" ROLLS BACK TO NATURE

The vast sweep of the western plains, the wild vistas of rugged mountain peaks, braved by our gold-seeking ancestors, are only a small part of the scenery displayed in the latest Ken Maynard-Universal starring production, the epic "Wheels of Destiny," which will be shown at the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Friday and Saturday, June 8-9.

Maynard has devoted months to supervising and acting in "Wheels of Destiny," the dramatic story of a trek in covered wagons into the west in search of gold. In the story, a tundra is swept by man-made flames to drive back Indians, two turbulent rivers are forded, there is the repulse of an Indian attack, and early high-waymen are driven from their attack on a mild-western hotel.

A thousand buffalo graze peacefully on a vast plain until shot at by a band of marauders. Indians rise to the vicious peak of a war dance and attack. Maynard goes to the rescue of the embattled pioneers as they fight their way toward the new El Dorado, Calif.

In the gripping production with Maynard—the most lavish he has attempted in ten years of picture making—are Dorothy Dix, Jay Wiltsie, Philo McCullough, Freddie Sale, Jr., Jack Rockwell, Fred McKaye and many others who are familiar to those who thrill to the Maynard stories.

PANAMA

A few friends have suggested that I write something about Panama; the most recent request coming from your Catharpin columnist; and if any of your readers should feel aggrieved at any thing herein or be bored by the reading, I hope they will place the onus on this columnist.

So much has been said and written about Panama and the Canal, I feel that I may be violating "Rule No. 6" in attempting to amplify the subject. But it has been said that "sometimes a dwarf on a dead giant's shoulders sees more than the alive giant's eyesight availed to explore." So with this possibility in view I may be able to see something that the giants failed to observe.

Looking at Panama on an ordinary map one gets the impression, from the straggling shape of the Isthmus, that it is an old Indian bamboo bridge connecting Central America with South America. But it is much wider than it appears, being about 48 miles across by the railroad, which parallels the Canal. And one gets a good idea of its stability and permanence in looking at the mountain ranges in many directions. It was from one of the peaks, about halfway across, that Balboa discovered the Pacific Ocean and named it the "South Sea."

From the Atlantic side the ground is practically level for about seven miles and on the Pacific side it is level for about three miles; and at these points the canal builders encountered hills and mountains. On the Atlantic side, where we have only about two feet of tide, we are only eight feet above sea level.

The topography of the Isthmus is such that its physical features appear, in many cases, topsy-turvy. For instance, on account of the peculiar outlines of the shores, the sun appears to rise in the western ocean and set in the eastern ocean. There are many other unique features; as we find bread, melons, and fruits all growing on trees. I refer to the bread-fruit tree and the Pa-pa-ya tree. The bread fruit, when properly prepared, is a combination of good Virginia corn bread and the potato.

The climate is the most equable in the world, there being no change in the temperature during the year, tho' we have the wet and dry seasons, the dry season extending from December to May. We need no more clothing than the law requires, and some pay very little attention to this law. It is an ideal nudist heaven; and, at this writing, nudism is being inaugurated here by an open-air parade at Gatun, about seven miles from Colon.

In a general way life is very easy in this country; and if a man is willing to work and live poor, he can go out in the jungle where bananas and coconuts grow in abundance, wild and free, plant out a few yams and a little corn; and in a few months be absolutely independent, and be free from all the worries of fashion taxes N.R.A. codes and the restraints of religion. Panama is becoming more and more modernized as time goes on, but primitive life in the interior is much the same, where the people live in the thatch covered shacks, cook out in the open with an improvised fireplace roughly made of

When the Americans began work on the Canal they found Panamanian labor was not dependable, and had to import about 40,000 Jamaicans. These people have multiplied until now we have here in Colon and in Panama City a dense population of British subjects; so great, indeed, as to present a very serious problem as to what disposition can be made of them. They are very good workers, and orderly, giving very little trouble. They are proud of their loyalty to the British Crown (for which they deserve great credit) and don't allow themselves to be troubled about the various political parties and the strife that exists throughout the British Empire—these people just know they are English and are frequently heard to say "I see a British object, I see." They are mostly Episcopalians, but many of them affiliate with the colored Methodist and Baptist churches here.

In the Canal Zone towns we have white Episcopal, Methodist, Baptist and Union Churches. But aside from these various congregations, at least ninety percent of the population are Roman Catholics. In Colon we have three beautiful churches, with a cathedral still under construction; besides a monastery and a number of parochial schools.

Colon has a population of about 40,000 and is Panamanian territory, while Cristobal, tho' on Panama territory, is a Canal Zone settlement; the two being so nearly one town that it is difficult at times to know which town you are in, being separated only by a street. The employees' quarters are modern in every respect, and, as we use electric current for lighting, cooking and refrigeration, the houses have no chimneys, and we don't need any artificial heat.

Colon-Cristobal would be an island except that in 1848 the Panama Railroad Company made a sufficient fill to enable them to construct the railroad across the Isthmus, and besides the railroad, and except for the daily schedule of airships, we have no means of crossing the Isthmus, unless we go by the Canal route. We have only one road for vehicles leading out from these twin cities, and that goes only as far as Gatun—seven miles; but we have every facility of travel by water to all parts of the world.

More anon.

FARM STUDENTS MAY BORROW

Government Agency Now in Effect to Help Them.

Organized groups of agricultural students, such as 4-H clubs and Future Farmers of America chapters, may obtain group loans to finance project activities, providing such loan is made through a responsible adult, according to an announcement made public in Washington by the Farm Credit Administration.

An adult who is otherwise eligible to borrow from a production credit association may apply for the loan, it was said. The only required security will be his note, accompanied by the notes of the individual group members. The notes of the group members, it is pointed out, must be signed by the student's parent or guardian, or another responsible adult. A statement from the supervisor or sponsor of the group must also accompany the notes. This statement must describe the nature of the projects undertaken, and will emphasize that the projects will be adequately supervised through completion.

Although the minimum amount which can be loaned by a production credit association is $50, under the terms of the new arrangement agricultural students who individually need much smaller loans can pool their credit needs and obtain the desired loan.

Interest charged on such loans is set at 5 per cent per annum.

There are at present about 650 production credit associations serving practically every agricultural county in the United States.

Further information regarding student loans may be obtained from the Farm Credit Administration, Production Credit Association Division, 1800 E. street, N. W., Washington, D. C., telephone District 1050, Br. 75.

MRS. LAURA POSEY

Mrs. Laura Posey, wife of Arthur Posey of Coles district near Independence Hill, died in Sheltering Arms Hospital, Richmond, Va., on Thursday night, May 24, and was buried Monday in a private burying ground near old Smithfield School.

Her death came unexpectedly following an operation, through which she seemed to pass satisfactorily. She leaves her husband and ten children, nine of whom are still at home; one sister and four brothers and five grandchildren and many relatives.

Mrs. Posey was a good mother and a loyal and appreciative friend. Her loss will be keenly felt, and those who had tried to help her to improve her physical condition and to care for her family, deeply regret her passing.

In the low-price motor car field there's nothing that even compares with Chevrolet's famous 5-mile ride. The reason is: No other car at Chevrolet's price has any of the vital features pictured below. And without these features, it's impossible to equal Chevrolet's ride! You can't get Knee-Action results with anything less than a genuine Knee-Action car. You can't get six-cylinder economy with more than six—nor can you get value and performance with anything inferior to Fisher head design. And the same thing applies to the Fisher body, the brakes, the steering. Chevrolet offers one feature after another that makes a tremendous difference—in the way the car feels, performs, and saves. One feature after another that puts Chevrolet far ahead in value... farther ahead every day in value!
