THOUSANDS VIEW DAIRY FESTIVAL PAGEANT AND PARADE

Fourth Annual Event Reflects Great Credit Upon Piedmont Counties.

After the deluge of Thursday afternoon, even hopeful citizens were right discouraged about the weather conditions last week. Saturday went to prove the narrow margin of success of the Fourth Piedmont Virginia Dairy Festival, and over ten thousand were in town all Friday.

The Queen's court was composed of the same high quality of feminine pulchritude as in the former seasons and there was certainly no coterie squad of tots for the crown and train bearers.

Friday morning dawned cool but bright. The ground was still a bit heavy at Annaburg but the bright skies evened up things beautifully.

Promptly at 11 a.m. the Marion Venable dancers from Washington put on an interpretative dance, impressive in loveliness and clever in execution. The ensemble were garbed in green while Miss Venable was in white.

Two columns of the Sixth Marine Brigade Reserves, under Major Harvey Miller, enfiladed upon the wings of the stage to the strains of martial air. In their smart blue coats and white trousers they made a striking background. In the side center was grouped the Fredericksburg State Teachers College Glee Club under Miss Eva Taylor Eppes. They sang several numbers during the program.

The Queen and her court, previously hidden in the bower beneath the ivy of the medieval stone tower, now appeared and slowly descended to the throne platform, where awaited Governor George C. Peery, Rev. A. S. Gibson, and Prof. Noel Gill, the announcer, the latter two in the robes of their office while Governor Peery appeared more modern.

The gold of the caps and hats of the entourage of the Queen and the beautiful chrysanthemums which they carried added indelibly to the splendor of the occasion. The pretty little Queen was indeed a sweet sight that will remain in the minds of her admirers for a long time to come.

Bishop Gibson was perfect in his address and in placing of the Queen's regalia. Nor can it be said that George Peery failed a whit in his duty. He added a touch of originality by addressing Prince William people for the first time through the broadcast set-up, which had been placed by the dairy festival management. In part he said, "We are here today to make obeisance to the queen and princesses of beauty. I heartily congratulate you good people of Prince William on this occasion. You have a splendid history, you are loyal, patriotic American citizens to whom I extend the warmest greetings."

The Queen and her court advanced to the throne room, passing between the erect Marines, who stood at attention. At the end of the line the officers made a picturesque arch of sabres under which the court passed before seating. After this the officers stood guard behind the court in true cavalier style.

The Queen of the Butterflies (Dee Dee Lynch) and her throng of tiny followers came next. Mary danced very sweetly. Our fancy toe dancer, Miss Ellen Bisson, of Manassas High, dressed in gloomy colors, gave one of her usual beautiful interpretative dances which was put to an end by the squad of butterfly catchers who chased her from the platform.

Next Manassas High School girls, also dressed in autumnal colors and carrying circlets of autumn leaves, gave a pretty group dance number. They were followed by the Bennett brownies who heard the story of the poor underfed children who did not drink milk.

They laid a plan in which they were aided by the boy scouts, who with the checked dressed milkmaids gave a number. The doctors and red cross nurses discussed the plan as they filed across the stage. This feature was put on by Nokesville High.

The girl scouts camped on the stage and were rudely awakened by the boy scout whistle after which the two scout groups gave a pantomime, and the fairies danced about once more.

Coming quickly behind these were the athletic girls (Manassas), exemplifying good health acquired by drinking milk. The primary youngsters from Bennett gave a dance number which was augmented by the milk bottle dance, a feature of former Dairy Festivals.

The brownies having succeeded in their plan to get the children to drink milk, the ensemble filed past again, everybody happy. The ensemble song was given by the Haymarket girls, and then the show was over until 1935.

The parade in the afternoon went off on schedule and featured most of the preadvised entries.

Without material delay the gigantic parade moved through the town with military precision, headed by the Chairman and Director, Mr. A. S. Boatwright, and his assistant Mr. C. C. Lynn. The first division was also led by the marshals, Mr. E. R. Conner and Mr. E. M. Palmer. Marshal Conner received an ovation even greater than his usual wont, because a few minutes previous an erroneous report had spread through the crowds that he had been stricken ill and would not ride.

As scheduled the various units and floats of the parade moved forward in the brilliant afternoon sun, presenting a spectacle of loveliness, enterprise and good-will rarely witnessed in such magnitude. Impressive was the representation from the Nation's Capital, with their distinguished guests under escort of an armada of police cars. The lovely float carrying Her Majesty, Queen Regina IV, was scarcely more brilliant than was the charming Princesses' float which followed and the lovely Fairies from the Town of Manassas completed the charming array.

The second division headed by Dr. Edwin Nelson, included the school participation under direction of Professor R. C. Haydon, who marshalled his boys and girls in a manner characteristic of the efficiency for which he is noted. Alexandria, George Mason, Washington-Lee, Linton Hall, Manassas, Haymarket, Nokesville, Occoquan and other units vied with one another in claiming the admiration and applause of the spectators.

The third division, headed by Mr. Carl Kincheloe, included artistic and civic entrants. A characteristic float of the Manassas Kiwanis Club was followed by the United Daughters of the Confederacy participation which was most unique. Following the Stars and Bars were impersonations of General Lee and General Jackson by Mr. Charles Walton Lewis and Mr. F. E. Saffer, both accomplished riders.

The Confederate impersonations were followed by a gallant Confederate cavalryman, not impersonated, as might have been inferred, but by a bona-fide member of the Prince William Cavalry. Erect in the saddle at the age of ninety, as he was in the days when his saber flashed on the field of battle, Mr. Thomas Minor Botts, of Woodbridge, received a tremendous ovation.

The patriotic features were followed by a splendid array of floats representing leading civic and commercial concerns. Conspicuous among these were the exhibits of the Manassas Ice and Fuel Company, Brown and Hooft, Bull Run Grange, Floats of Culpeper and of Loudoun Counties, Fredericksburg Chamber of Commerce, All Star Club of Occoquan, Brentsville Community League, and Manassas and Alexandria Posts of the American Legion.

The fourth division was headed by Mr. E. E. Hale, and included the extensive exhibits from Fairfax County in charge of Mr. John W. Brookfield and presenting lovely reproductions of the many colonial mansions of that historic county. Burke Station had a charming float and this was followed by that of the Manassas 4-H Club, the Culpeper Municipal Band.

In the fifth division were many interesting professional and commercial exhibits, among which regarded as especially good were those tutored by Miss Virginia Speiden, P. A. Lewis, Hibole's Radio Shop, W. D. Sharrett.

The sixth division, headed by Mr. Raymond J. Davis, included the fire departments of Manassas, Culpeper, Fairfax, Vienna and Number 7 of Washington. They looked the efficient fire fighters that they were and their noise equipment functioned well, too.

Following is a list of the committees responsible for the success of this year's festival:

Middleburg Takes Second Game to Even Series

Dreifus Victim of Fourteen Hit Barrage in 10 to 6 Defeat.

The Macs, seemingly feeling the effects of too much Dairy Festival, journeyed to Middleburg Sunday, played something that resembled baseball for four innings and then blew up with a bang to give Middleburg the second game of the post-season series by a 10 to 6 score. Prior to the game a coin was tossed to determine where the third game of the series would be played when, as and if the occasion demanded. In keeping with the spirit of the same, the Macs lost that too, with the result that the third and final game will be played on the Middleburg roller-coaster Sunday next, weather permitting.

Just what happened to the Macs Sunday is rather difficult to determine. Perhaps it was ole man jinx lurking in the background. After all, it was their thirteenth league game, which may account, at least in part, for their ragged performance. Middleburg seemed inclined in the early innings to play the part of the perfect host and bent their best efforts in sending their guests off to a three run lead. Following the fourth inning, however, they had a change of heart, began to play ball and with the generous aid of the Macs, both defensively and offensively, coasted to an easy win.

Middleburg hopped on Dreifus at the start, putting together a double and three singles for a pair of runs. They failed to score again until the fifth. Hartmann opened this inning with a walk, stole second and reached third as the result of a passed ball. He scored when James lined a single to center and the latter followed him across the plate when the ball got away from Woodard into the center field ravine. Middleburg took the lead in the following inning, scoring three runs on a pair of hits, two walks and an error and added three more in the eighth to raise their total to ten. Burwell opened the eighth with a walk and went to second on Hartman's single to left. James then lifted a looper close to the left field foul line and when Lynn failed in his effort at a shoe-string catch, the ball bounded past him into the left field gully for a home run.

The Macs scored their first run in the second as the result of a walk to Saunders, Bradshaw's out, a passed ball and Wurdemann's infield single. Three hits coupled with a pair of errors, a walk and a fielder's choice were good for four more in the third inning. Thereafter, with the exception of the seventh, they had men in scoring position in every inning but only in the eighth were they able to score. They filled the bases in this inning with none out only to have Woodard picked off second with the moth eaten "hidden ball trick." Dreifus and James, each with four hits in five tries, led their teams at bat.

NOKESVILLE MAKES FINE SHOWING IN FESTIVAL

The Nokesville float which represented Brentsville District in the Piedmont Dairy Festival attracted considerable attention as it moved along the line of parade. It was very unique and appropriate in showing the production of clean, health-giving milk and portraying the benefits derived from drinking milk. The cow family and their attendants seem quite happy to be in the gala parade and were very generous in serving milk along the line of march.

The success of this float was due largely to the good work of a committee composed of M. J. Shepherd, John Harpine and Mr. Fitzwater. The people of Brentsville District were very diligent in supporting this committee and worked until the wee hours of the morning before the parade. Co-operation as found in this community usually brings success and we hope to find in future festivals more evidence of this nature.

The judging contest which was held in connection with the Dairy Festival attracted considerable interest among 4-H Club and Future Farmer boys throughout Piedmont Virginia. 400 boys were on hand at 9 o'clock Friday morning and when the signal was given at 9:15 one hundred fifty boys began judging 3 classes of cows. The premiums were awarded as follows: 1st, Daniel McBee, Warrenton; 2nd, Moffett Ashby, Warrenton; 3rd, Egbert Thompson, Woodbridge; 4th, Willard Sacy, Upperville; 5th, Haley Smith, Herndon. The special premiums offered in the Jersey class were won by Clifford Bear, Nokesville, 1st; Moffett Ashby, Warrenton, 2nd, and Cameron Cowns, Warrenton, 3rd.

The official judging was done by R. G. Connolly of V. P. I. The premiums awarded in the contest were made available by the Dairy Festival Ass'n with an appropriation of $40.00.

Mr. R. D. Maltby, Southern Regional Agent of the Department of Interior, attended the contest and awarded the premiums to the winning contestants. Mr. Maltby spoke very highly of the contest and seemed to feel that it held considerable

FIRE CHIEF CITES DANGERS

Fire Prevention Week Oct. 7-13.

For the past few years, one week in each October has been set aside and is known as Fire Prevention Week. During that week fire fighting and fire prevention workers in every community in the United States, and in some foreign countries, redouble their efforts to warn citizens of the perils of fire, and the loss in property and lives for which it is responsible.

In recognition of 1934's Fire Prevention Week, October 7 to 13, Fire Chief Howard of Manassas issued the following statement:

"Uncontrolled fire is one of civilization's greatest menaces—last year it took 10,000 lives and burned up homes and buildings worth three hundred million dollars in this country alone. More than 3,000 of the innocent victims of fire were children under ten years of age.

"The darkest side of this terrible record is that most fires can be prevented—they start because someone has been careless, has neglected some condition that was dangerous, or disregarded the obvious danger of flames and sparks.

"Beginning October 7, let's start a real Fire Prevention Week in our community—and let's keep it going indefinitely. Your fire department is anxious to help you avoid fires in your homes and factories and stores, by pointing out the fire hazards they may contain. Will you take advantage of this service, so that you can be sure that no life is lost or no property destroyed because you allowed a fire to start?"

MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD

The Prince William County School Board met Tuesday with a full attendance and transacted considerable business incident to the opening of the schools. Pleasure was expressed at the fine prospects for a most satisfactory school year.

The Manassas Athletic Club appeared before the board and asked consideration of a plan to establish a baseball field for the joint use of the athletic club and high school. A committee was appointed by the Board to investigate and make recommendations.

FINAL ROAD MILEAGE

The final allotment of mileage under the Act known as the Two-and-One-Half Per Cent Law and which adds that amount to the primary road system of Virginia is as follows: Fairfax: Route 28 through Herndon, 2.5 miles; Madison: Route 230, extends to Greene County line 3 miles; Orange: Route 20 toward Route 4 at Barboursville 4.42 miles; Rappahannock, Route 49 Ben Venue to Flint Hill 1.4 miles.

VIRGINIA RELIEF O.K.

Governor Peery is quoted as saying that while the hurried bookkeeping of Virginia Relief is not very good the relief itself has been very satisfactory.

for becoming quite an event in the future. Mr. D. J. Howard, district supervisor of agricultural education in northern Virginia, made quite a contribution to the success of the contest by urging the teachers in his area to participate. Mr. Howard, after witnessing the contest and observing the interest shown by the boys, expressed the feeling that a very interesting and worthwhile phase of dairying could be shown through such future contests.

The success of this contest is largely due to the effort of Mr. Wheatly Johnson and the kindness of Messrs. Roseberry and Hurst who allowed their cattle to be used.

GARDEN CLUB MEETS AT SWAVELY

Outstanding among the club activities of the year was a reciprocity meeting given by the Garden Section of the Manassas Woman's Club at Swavely School Oct. 1.

The guests numbering more than one hundred were received in the spacious hall by the president, Mrs. Aylene Guthrie, assisted by Mrs. Swavely and other members of the club. Many fall flowers were on display which made a lovely color scheme as a background for the beautifully gowned ladies.

Arlington came in full force bringing many interesting and valuable ideas. Mrs. Payne spoke on dahlias and their culture. She presented the club with a box of beautiful specimens grown in her garden.

Next to speak was Mrs. Carter of Alexandria, on lilies, their beauty and how to grow them. Mrs. Roby of Purcellville spoke of gardening in general and extended a cordial invitation to the different clubs to attend their fall flower show. Mrs. Sommers gave a splendid talk on tulips, Miss Kate Norris Cummings told in her usual brilliant way how she came to be at the meeting.

Many others from the different clubs made short talks, exchanged ideas and notes.

Next on the program was Mr. B. Y. Morrison of Washington, D. C., who took us down the garden path giving inspiration to those of us that are just plain dirt gardeners. He touched the garden highlights and the amazing performances of nature, the origin, life and value of the different bulbs and the satisfaction of watching them develop. He spoke of the good earth, its soils and how to handle it, of flower arrangements, the difference between a bouquet and arranging. He told us to go to the art galleries or trace the flower in rugs, vases and wood carvings, but the dominant note of his talk was daffodils he made us to see them in all their glory.

Refreshments were served after which the guests departed promising to return as we hope to reciprocate with all garden clubs and make this an annual event.

CATHARPIN

Of all sad words of tongue or pen The saddest are these—It might have been.

We hardly think the author of these lines had the Piedmont Dairy Festival in mind, but O what a sad story it might have been had it been announced for either Thursday or Saturday instead of Friday. Surely the Weather Man was in sympathy for a more perfect day could not have been desired. So the Fourth Annual Piedmont Dairy Festival has now passed into history along with its predecessors and, like them, must be recorded a grand success. The people of Prince William and all adjoining counties realize the value of just such activities. If one were asked to name the benefits derived from the Festival, he would be given a large order indeed. To many, no doubt, it was just a sort of amusement or entertainment only; but to those responsible for its origin, it is a necessity in order that the best interests of the neighborhood be conserved.

Many, no doubt, have heard the saying that "No one is so far from market as the man who has nothing to sell." We might carry the analogy a little further by saying that "No one is so far from market as the one who may have something good to sell if no one knows anything about it." Prince William has had and has today some of the finest dairy cattle in the country; she produces milk by the tons or thousands of gallons; she can raise herds of the finest dairy cattle for the market, but if no one knew she had them, her sales would naturally be few and far between. What, then, would be more appropriate than the holding of a "Dairy Festival" to advertise her "wares" to the world?

"Large oaks from little acorns grow." The Piedmont Dairy Festival has grown in interest each year and we bespeak for it a future full of usefulness, interest and value. There is also another little phrase—"Large aches from little toe-corns grow." (?????)

The Sudley Missionary Society had the privilege and pleasure of entertaining the Kiwanis Club on Wednesday night of last week and of receiving the usual per capita price per plate. While the coming of Kiwanis had its commercial side, yet it must be said that Sudley was glad to have them for their own sakes as well.

It was unfortunate, however, that the visit happened just when "all hands" were busy cutting corn and were denied the opportunity of attending this very interesting meeting. Kiwanis has lots of friends at Sudley.

We were all delighted with The Journal last week. Its new dress, like the new fall hats, was very becoming and suited the occasion exactly. People were glad to see the pictures of the officials as well as those of the queen, princesses and other notables. The whole makeup was excellent and much appreciated. We well remember away back in 1911 when The Journal came out, all dressed up, with many pages of history, historic homes, buildings, etc.

anent the Grand Jubilee at the Henry House. This was a great journalistic accomplishment; perhaps the greatest The Journal ever attempted. This issue was so full of historic interest that we kept two copies in our library and one would be surprised at how many times we have had to recourse to them to get historical information for the school children of today—23 years after it was published. Last week's copy of The Journal is well worth a place in your library since it contains much valuable information which may be of interest later on.

Wouldn't it be a great thing if we could only get the Washington papers to set the price when some owes us. It seems their adding machines can only work away in the thousands. When we come to think of "30,000 attend the Dairy Festival in Manassas" we wonder how they ever get that way. Well we guess it must be a little like the old fellow instructing his son to be honest in his dealings but "if he had to soak 'em, soak 'em hard."

Mr. Frank W. Brower of Price, Md., who has been visiting in the neighborhood, returned home on Monday taking his father and mother with him for a visit over in Richielland.

Mrs. S. P. McDaniels of Natural Bridge, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. R. B. McDaniels of Clifton Forge returned to their respective homes on Monday after a week's visit with their sister, Mrs. R. A. Collins, of Marble Hill.

Mrs. Myrtle Downs Caton returned recently from the Warrenton hospital where she had been a patient for several weeks due to an operation for appendicitis.

That old quilting "bee" which has been buzzing around these parts for the past few years, has been circulating around seeking a place to light and begin his fall activities. He finally settled on Rock Hill, the home of Mrs. Lella C. Akers, where he will soon be royally treated by the ladies of the Sudley Missionary Society. You may be able to beat a drum but you can not beat these ladies making quilts.

WEEKLY LAUGHS FROM WOODBRIDGE

Well, well, so many people have been after me to start this crazy column again, that there first wasn't anything else to do. Sooooo, as Ed Wynn would say, here goes. If you believe the first 15 words I'll tell another.

Let's see Oh yes the day before the Dairy Festival the Wandering Jew (Billy Tyrrell) put 5 gals of gas in Clark Gable's car, in return Gable was to take him to the festival. Well the next day Gable got a load of girls to take and went along without the Wanderer. Now believe you me the Wanderer Jew was plenty hot and bothered. I rattled by the garage that morning and listened to his tale of woe and being soft-hearted like I am I take him along with me. Well we ride all the way to Manassas and still the Wanderer Jew don't say a thing about gas in my tank so after the husking is over I come home and leave the Wanderer Jew in Manassas. Monday morning I found out that Gable brought him home broke. You see the Wanderer Jew had been saving his money and had enough to get him a pair shoes but he met Gable at the festival and Gable showed him the town (Manassas). When the Wanderer save enough for a suit I reckon Gable will show him Alexandria. If the Wanderer Jew saves enough to get an Easter outfit I would like to show him Washington myself.

A&P 75 YEARS OLD TODAY

J. T. Patten, Oldest Living Employee, Tells of Early Food Stores.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company today announced plans for its 75th Anniversary celebration. This company started in 1859 as a single store on Vesey street, New York. Today its anniversary sale will be celebrated by 90,000 employees in 15,000 stores serving 6,000,000 customers a day.

J. T. Patten, the oldest living member of the organization, gave reporters an eyewitness account of the company's growth.

"My first job with A&P was in May 1875," said Mr. Patten. "The company was then sixteen years old and had only twelve stores, but a large mail order business."

"I remember well the first store I worked in. We sold only tea and coffee. Blending was done locally—if a customer found a blend too weak or too strong, she brought it back and the blend was changed to suit her taste."

Asquod pnom azois Ajwa 1841, be considered rather ornate today. On the walls were great oil paintings of Chinese scenes. A gallery ran around the store half-way between floor and ceiling. From this gallery hung a multitude of bird cages with canaries, cockatoos and parrots; and to complete the picture there was a large fountain in the center of the store in which goldfish swam. In the center of the ceiling hung a giant chandelier with many white, gas-illuminated globes on it. Glass prisms hung from under each light. These were always carefully taken off in the early summer and the whole was covered with mosquito netting. The prisms were always washed, polished and replaced in the center of the store in which goldfish swam. In the center of the ceiling hung a giant chandelier with many white, gas-illuminated globes on it. Glass prisms hung from under each light. These were always carefully taken off in the early summer and the whole was covered with mosquito netting. The prisms were always washed, polished and replaced in the center of the store in which goldfish swam.

"A year later I was moved to 53d street on Eighth avenue. In 1876 this was the farthest north the company had reached and just about as far north as New York City had reached, for north of Fifty-ninth street there were only shanties through which ran the boulevard, now renamed Broadway. In this store we sold tea, coffee and sugar under the smiling sun of a Chinese scene painted on the walls over the tea bins. To this Fifty-third street store many farmers used to come from the country that lay north of Fifty-ninth street to do their ordering for several weeks."

When asked about the famous blizzard of '88, Mr. Patten told how he walked for miles to open his store, an hour and a half late. The sales that day were $2.86, and it was three nights before he was able to go home.

"I have lived in the greatest seventy-five years of the world's history," continued Mr. Patten. "Never before in history has there been a period of such constant and rapid change. Light, heat, power, transportation, communication, entertainment, medicine—everything from the maternity ward to the undertaker's parlor has either come into being or been drastically changed during those seventy-five years. This is not true of any other 75 years in history. For thousands of years people lived pretty much as their fathers lived. The American colonists used the same crude grease lamps and the same tallow candles that the ancient Egyptians used. No major improvement had been made in artificial illumination for ten thousand years. Then came the development of kerosene and gas, then electricity. And all this in the last three quarters of a century."

"These changes, of course, affected every phase of life and every activity in America. I saw them from a grocery counter, and saw their effect on food retailing. When things changed food stores changed with them. I remember the great railroad building of the seventies and eighties—and saw how more foods became available and how our own company grew as a result of it. I remember the first automobile I ever saw, and I, too, yelled 'get a horse.'"

But soon, with automobiles trucking foods to new outlying stores, and with customers coming to stores from greater distances, food stores grew into complete grocery stores with wide assortments. It became less and less necessary to deal with customers by mail, or send our wagons out to their houses to solicit orders.

"Customers began to depend on the new canned foods, on fresh vegetables summer and winter, on individually packaged foods instead of bulk. Retailing grew up with America—every development in American life had its effect on our business."

"Today I marvel when I compare the food business of fifty and seventy-five years ago with modern, efficient, wasteless food distribution as we know it today."

The development of retail food distribution with the growth of America is portrayed in a series of posters by Louis Fancher to be displayed in A&P stores during the 75th Anniversary celebration.

WOODBIDGE

I attended the Piedmont Virginia Dairy Festival in Manassas last Friday. Quite a number of local people were there to help swell the crowd which ran well into the thousands. The pageant held at Annaburg in the morning was very interesting and very well executed. The parade held in the afternoon was very interesting and colorful. The Occoquan High School was well represented in the line of march. Mr. Thos. M. Botts, 90-year-old resident of Woodbridge, rode horseback, dressed in a Confederate veteran uniform.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis and Mrs. Davis' mother, Mrs. E. Vera Frau, have recently moved to Woodbridge from Salem, W. Va. Mr. Davis is employed at the Lorton Reformatory. Last Thursday, Miss Ann Bubb suffered a fractured jaw, a severe cut over her left eye and minor scratches when she fell from a car driven by Walker Reed. She was taken to Dr. Stockweather for first aid and then taken to the Alexandria Hospital for treatment. After three days she returned home. She is now much better.

 BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

GOD'S WONDERFUL WORKS: Many, O Lord my God, are the wonderful works which thou hast done; if I would declare and speak of them, they are more than can be numbered.—Psalm 40: 5.

THE STATE FAIR

With crowds doubling those of last year and with larger and more "excellent" exhibits, the State fair bids to be a substantial success.

The depression appears to have lifted as the exhibits are more varied and competition much stronger. The woman's building is particularly splendid.

The only things which might be increased to advantage if room permits next year would be the county exhibits. Those counties which did take the trouble to get up booths had wonderful showings.

The State Fair is designed to bring out Virginia's value along agricultural lines and deserves uniform support over the entire Commonwealth.

AN ILL-ADVISED MOVEMENT

Information has come to light that some Washington attorneys are agitating an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States on the recent purchase of Shenandoah Park lands and seem to be engaged in organizing a solicitation of funds for the purpose from former land owners.

Hon. W. E. Carson, chairman of the Conservation Commission, has issued a statement calling attention to the fact that on Wednesday, September 26, the time expired for appeals on this matter. Consequently those contributing to such a movement could not possibly benefit.

It is stated that meetings have been organized in the eight counties where land condemnation occurred and that notice has been served on the Assistant Attorney General of the United States that a suit will be filed. In view of the facts it would seem that the five thousand dollar attorney fees is the most visible aspect of the situation since the land owners have been duly compensated for their property, the constitutionality of the legislation has been tested in the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals, and the time in which appeal may be taken has expired.

EXIT HUGH JOHNSON

It will remain for the historian of the future to give us an accurate picture of what NRA has done for the country in one of the most trying periods of its annals. We are too close to events, are too vitally interested personally in the working of an experiment, dispassionately to appraise the results.

It may well be that General Johnson was carried away with his own oratory, and guided too much by the emotions of the moment, when, in his farewell address to the organization he had directed, he said:

"In one short year under the leadership of our inspired President you have done more for those who are weary and heavy-laden than all the militant organizations for social conflict that have existed in this or any other country, since the beginning of time."

To swallow this statement would require a big gulp. Most of us believe that NRA has had a beneficial effect on national recovery. We as Americans have shown that in our occasional visits to the polls where the New Deal was the burning issue. But we can scarcely subscribe without reservations to the statement that NRA holds the all-time record for beneficial influence.

It is probably true, however, that all of us, regardless of political differences, will agree that General Johnson has administered his office with utter singleness of purpose. In his dramatic appearance before his coworkers, and in the emotional address he delivered to them, there was a positive suggestion of sincerity which no one could deny. There was no mistaking the personality of the man. It bespoke not only driving force but stark honesty.

In his exit General Johnson still is a refreshing figure in American life. Even if NRA is a failure in the end, it will have brought to the national stage a man in whose makeup there is no hint of trickery or insincerity.—Times-Dispatch.

"BOB" NEWMAN

In last week's Journal there was an account of a party given the retiring Postmaster of Manassas by his successor and the postoffice force. He was presented with a handsome present and everybody had a good time. We all had our ups and downs with Bob but in the main he is a mighty good fellow. He was an efficient official and, after all, we were sorry to see him go even if he is a Republican which is all we have against him. We are all glad he isn't going any farther away than Manassas.

"SCANDALS" IS FILM TRIUMPH

Setting a new standard for musical production, Fox Film's latest release, George White's "Scandals," opens at the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Monday. Presented for the first time on the talking screen, the show is embellished with the spectacle, grandeur and beauty that only the camera can encompass.

White himself enacts a part in the film, and he has recruited a galaxy of radio, stage and screen stars. Among the many notables in the film are Rudy Vallee, Jimmy Durante, Alice Faye, Cliff Edwards, Gregory Ratoff, Adrienne Ames, Dixie Dunbar and Gertrude Michael. Vallee and Faye make a fine romantic team, and do splendidly with their roles. Miss Faye, who has never been in films before, does an exceptionally fine piece of acting that stamps her as a coming star. The fun-making of Durante, Edwards and Dunbar will have you rolling in the aisles.

The film fairly brims over with spectacular revues, dazzling dances, hit songs and comedy blackouts. It is a colorful eye-fel, with 150 lovely "Scan-Dolls" wearing stunning costumes, dancing the intricate and fast-moving steps created by George Hale and singing the ten melodic song hits written by three of the country's foremost song writers, Jack Yellen, Irving Caesar and Ray Henderson. Interspersed with the comedy, songs, revues and dances is a tender romance that concerns two of the principals of the show.

The entire production was conceived, created and staged by George White, who worked under the supervision of Robert T. Kane, Fox Film producer. The film necessitated the use of two directors, and Thornton Freeland and Harry Lachman joined hands to do a splendid job.

feature, "Hell Bent For Love," showing tomorrow and Saturday at the Dixie Theatre in Manassas.

McCoy, up to a year ago, was one of the best-known of the western action stars. Believing that more adventure and fast action could be found in stories of present day life, McCoy decided to star in a series presenting him in modern roles and has made productions starring him as a radio patrolman, racing aviator, newspaperman, auto racing driver and a telephone maintenance engineer. In each he has found plenty of opportunities for fast and thrilling action.

In "Hell Bent For Love" he will be seen as a highway patrol officer, who turns from running down speeders and other traffic violators, to the more dangerous game of combatting the underworld.

THE TEST OF A PUDDING

The old proverb says, "The test of a pudding is in the eating." So the test of a flour is in the using. Does it make good bread, biscuits, pastry,—that's the test!

White Rose Flour satisfies all the tests. Its price, too, is based entirely on its quality.

"THE LUCKY TEXAN"

Distinguished star of numerous western pictures, John Wayne makes his appearance in "The Lucky Texan," a Lone Star Production which comes to the screen of the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Friday, October 12.

Wayne, who made his debut in motion pictures in "The Big Trail," was born in Winterset, Iowa, and educated at the University of Southern California where for two years he was a star tackle on that school's football team.

During a summer vacation while working at Fox studios, Wayne was spotted by Raoul Walsh and given the lead in "The Big Trail." Making an instant hit by his work in this picture, Wayne left school to devote his time to a career on the screen.

Following his initial success Wayne was featured in "Three Girls Lost," "Girls Demand Excitement," and "Men Are Like That." He was then signed for series of westerns at Warner Bros. after which he was given a contract for a series of eight westerns for Lone Star Productions of which "The Lucky Texan" is the fourth.

Wayne is married to Josephine Saenz, beautiful and socially prominent daughter of Dr. Joseph Saenz, Los Angeles, consul for Santo Domingo and Panama.

When not actively engaged in making a picture, Wayne devotes his time to keeping himself in excellent physical condition by swimming, riding, tennis and squash, with an occasional football workout.

DIVING HORSE THRILLING FEATURE OF STATE FAIR

Actual photograph of Dr. Carver's remarkable high-diving horse, snapped in midair as it plunges from the 40-foot high platform. The daring rider may be seen clinging to the animal's back. This is one of the outstanding features of the Virginia State Fair.

The three greatest and costliest outdoor attractions now appearing in this country have been engaged for the grandstand program of the annual Virginia State Fair at Richmond the week of October 1, according to General Manager Chas. A. Somma.

Dr. Carver's high-diving horse and rider is given headline position on the bill and is expected to prove the greatest "thriller" ever witnessed at the Fair. The animal, a big snow-white mare, mounts to a 40-foot high platform mounted by an attractive young miss, paws, bows and hesitates on the brink for breath-taking seconds, then plunges headforemost with the daring rider into a 10-foot tank of water.

Sharing stella position on program are the Picchiani Troupe and the Jimse Sensation. The former is a remarkable group of tumbling and acrobatic performers declared to be the greatest of their kind in the world. The Jimse act is said to be equally outstanding in its particular class, being performed atop three poles 75 feet high, on which is a circular track. Around this races at break-neck speed a motorcycle driven by one of the performers, which causes the unique apparatus of trapeze and ladders to gyrate while other members of the troupe go through their thrilling performance.

Other features on the Fair's lengthy program include the Castellor Troupe in four distinct equestrian and animal acts, the Hollywood Clowns in two amusing presentations, and Walt Disney's "Three Little Pigs".

The latest edition of the Winter Garden Revue will again be the Fair's main attraction, offering an entirely new series of numbers. Horses and automobile races, a new Midway and elaborate fireworks are other features of the big exposition.
