RED CROSS ROLL CALL IN PROGRESS

Goal of 500 Members Sought.

The Red Cross Roll Call in Prince William County is now going into its second week. Considerable interest is shown in some sections, and Mrs. Mamie Lynch Delaney is confident that the goal will be reached, if every one who enrolled last year will renew their membership, and get some friend or member of the family to join also.

Funds obtained from this roll call will be used by the chapter for the support of the nursing service and other committee work.

The following public-spirited citizens have volunteered their help in putting over this great humanitarian project, and are working without pay, and at their own expense for transportation, to make this a success. Won't you send your membership to your nearest solicitor, and help that much. Memberships are $1.00, 5.00, $25.00 and $100.

INITIATE LARGE CLASS

On Thursday night of last week perhaps the largest class of initiates ever inducted in District No. 5 was held at Aden Council Hall. A. R. McAllen, of Norfolk, special organizer, was present. The degree team from Vienna, headed by George Darne, one of the state officers in Virginia, put on the full degree work.

ATTEND BANQUET IN WASHINGTON

"100 per cent" Standard Oil dealers who are in Washington this evening attending the annual banquet at the Wardman Park Hotel include the following from Prince William County: S. G. Whetzel, A. L. Pence, Dan Alexander, Gilbert Allen and Lewis Carper.

Many matters of interest to the dealers will be taken up in a series of after-dinner addresses which will follow the banquet.

TO AMEND BY-LAWS

At the last meeting of Bull Run Council an amendment was offered to the by-laws by which the dues after January 1, 1935, will be $13.80 per annum. This amendment must be read at two successive meetings of the Council before submission to the state council.

DOUBLE SHOW AT DIXIE

Manager Franklyn Hibbs, of the Dixie Theatre, announces a return engagement of "David Harum." This popular play drew crowds which could not be accommodated before.

On Tuesday night only there will be a double show, as described in the advertisement.

OCCOQUAN BEATS MANASSAS

That great game of the season between these two teams was a hard-fought game on the part of both teams. Occoquan won by a score of 2-0. This makes the games even between these two teams as Manassas won the other on November 2.

ATTENDING CONVENTION IN GREENSBORO

Mr. Hunton Tiffany is attending the Piedmont Millers' convention in Greensboro, N. C.

As next Thursday is Thanksgiving Day, we expect to close for the day. Consequently news and advertising copy must be in very prompt to permit getting the paper out on Wednesday evening.

DEVELOPMENT OF NEW STATE PARK

Will Provide Camp Sites and Recreational Features.

Plans for the development of the Chesterfield State Park are rapidly taking shape in the office of the State Park Division of the National Park Service in Washington, according to a letter received by William E. Carson, Chairman of the State Commission on Conservation and Development, from Conrad L. Wirth, assistant director of the division.

The plans involve a new type of park development providing a recreational center of the inexpensive type for family cabin use and group camp use to serve principally the area including the cities of Richmond, Petersburg and Hopewell. The proposed new park is located on Swift Creek, south of Chesterfield Court House.

In his letter to the conservation chairman, Mr. Wirth said that the Federal government has several new ideas in respect to the development of the Chesterfield park which it would like to work out under its own immediate supervision, at least for the duration of the present CCC camp assignment, and asked the acquiescence of the commission in this arrangement.

The new type of development proposed was not described in Mr. Wirth's letter, but at the conservation commission's office in Front Royal, the view was expressed that the experimental nature of the project might serve to assure its being carried on to completion by the Federal government.

The commission some time ago signed a preliminary agreement with the Federal government accepting the maintenance of the park under a leasing arrangement, the Federal development to continue as long as the CCC funds are available. This agreement was signed with the approval of Governor Peery, whose endorsement of the project was deemed necessary by the commission in view of the fact that it has no available funds to complete the development when the Federal funds are withdrawn.

VETERANS TO ORGANIZE JUNIOR GROUPS

Major James Sipolski of Lexington, Commander of the Department of Virginia, Veterans of Foreign Wars, announces that all V. F. W. Posts are urging their Congressmen and Senators to support a measure that would remove the status under which General Robert E. Lee died, that of a paroled prisoner of war. "The organized fighting men of Virginia admire and revere the great fighting man, General Lee, both as a splendid gentleman and as a great military leader. We want his name cleared."

Major Sipolski will visit V. F. W. Posts in Cradock on the 24th, Norfolk and Portsmouth on the 25th, Roanoke on the 26th, Orange on the 27th, and Culpeper on the 28th. At Orange and Culpeper he will be accompanied by the Chief of Staff, H. MacGregor Smith of Lynchburg.

At the department meeting in Lynchburg on the 18th it was decided that the various posts in Virginia would sponsor units of the "Sons of Veterans," which organization is composed of the sons of men who have served their country beyond the seas in time of war. Great interest is displayed throughout the State by the boys in this organization.

JUNIORS IMPROVE COUNCIL HALL

Mr. G. H. Pence and Mr. Ferris Gue have been busy all this week with their assistants painting and rewiring the Council Hall of Bull Run Council in Manassas.

The lighting system is a big improvement over the old drop lights which were formerly used and the painting work has made the quarters really presentable.

The floor space has been increased about fifteen per cent through the volunteer efforts of carpenters who are members of the Order of Fraternal Americans. The work this week is being paid for by the Council of the Daughters of America which

THE LIGHT BEHIND THE CROSS

The cross is here. It haunts each lowly ingle
It gleams alike in cottage and in hall
But where so'er the people meet and mingle
The shadow of the cross is over all.

But can we see, above the pain and loss,
The light behind the cross?
O bright Red Cross! If we might know the gladness
Thy farflung rays shed round a tortured world!

Might we but see that Cross dispel the sadness
From weary eyes where shot and shell are hurled;
From starving children, beds of weary pain,
Then we might know the Gain.

Then hang the Red Cross out in every dwelling,
A light behind it, shining through the eve,
And it shall check the doubt and tears upwelling
And bid us smile, and work, and cease to grieve,
Knowing the incense of a faithful heart
Is still the "better part."

In days to come we shall discern more clearly
The Good that broods above the storms of ill,
And all we give—in those we love so dearly—
Returned by One who can the measure fill.

This is the recompense for every loss—
The Light Behind the Cross.

CHILD DIES OF BURNS

Helen Wright, daughter of Lee Wright, who resides in West Manassas, died at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning as result of burns sustained about 10 o'clock Monday morning while playing with fire in the yard.

Although aided by her little sister who endeavored to remove the burning clothing, little Helen suffered such severe and painful burns that death ensued. Dr. McBryde was summoned and rendered all possible medical aid.

ELIZABETH WEIR WATERS

Elizabeth Hardesty, wife of Robt. Weir Waters, died on Tuesday, Nov. 13, at Sibley Hospital in Washington. She was born in Philadelphia thirty years ago. She was the daughter of James R. and Elsie Levering Hardesty of Chevy Chase, Md., where they had recently made their home but who were originally from Clark County, Va.

She is survived by her husband who is a native of this town and now lives in Takoma Park, Md. Services were held in Trinity Church with the Rev. C. M. Young officiating.

Interment was in the Manassas cemetery and the following friends served as pall bearers: A. McKenzie, Harold Gates and Henry Kerfoot of Washington and John L. Hynson, Robt. Weir Waters, Jr., John Waters of Manassas.

BENEFIT TEA

The first of a series of "benefit teas" to be given during the school year for the benefit of the high school was held at the home of Mrs. Patrick Lynch on Monday afternoon from 4 o'clock to 6.

There were seven tables of cards, each table playing different games. Miss Lulu Metz was hostess, and was assisted by Misses Lutes and Smith who poured chocolate, which was served with delicious cookies.

Decorations of holly and other Christmas greens were prettily arranged.

The teachers present were Miss Eugenia Osborn, Misses Nelson, Lutes, Johnson and Smith, and Mr. William Lloyd.

Funds raised by these "teas" will go to the Student Cooperative League for distribution to the various activities of the school.

These "teas" will be given at different homes during the social season.

STATE DAIRYMEN MEET IN NORFOLK

Several State Cattle Clubs to Unite.

The next annual convention of the Virginia State Dairymen's Association and the Virginia Dairy Products Association is to be held in Norfolk, January 15-18, R. G. Connelly, extension dairyman and secretary of the dairymen's association, announces. The decision was made by a joint committee of the two groups in response to invitations from the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce and dairy interests in the Norfolk area.

Since the dairy convention will be the first held in Norfolk, the committees of both dairy organizations are directing their efforts towards the development of a program having interstate significance. Preliminary steps have been taken in arranging the details for a thorough consideration of important problems now confronting the Virginia dairy industry. Nationally known authorities on dairying have been invited to address the various meetings.

The Virginia Dairy Products Association will convene Tuesday morning, January 15, and adjourn Wednesday afternoon, January 16. The Virginia State Dairymen's Association will convene Thursday morning, January 17, and adjourn Friday afternoon, January 18. Convention headquarters for both dairy organizations will be in the Monticello Hotel. The Dairymen's Association meetings, however, will be held in the City Auditorium.

As an important feature of the dairymen's convention, the Virginia Guernsey Breeders' Association, the Virginia Holstein-Friesian Club, and the Virginia Jersey Cattle Club, affiliates of their respective national breeders' organizations, will hold their annual winter meetings.

Members of the V. P. I. dairy department and county agricultural agents will co-operate with the officers and committees and the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce in developing a strong educational program and in providing entertainment.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

M. W. Spillman of the Lindsay Nicholson Corporation of Alexandria has been in town this week in conference with A. L. Pence of the Pence Motor Company.

In other columns the Pence Motor Company is making a preliminary announcement of the new line of accessories with which they expect to augment their already excellent services. Watch The Journal next week for a more complete announcement.

"GIRL-SHY" PRACTICES WELL UNDER WAY

The practices for "Girl-Shy," a three-act farce, to be presented by the Junior Woman's Club Dec. 7, have gotten well under way. The cast has been wisely chosen, and nearly everyone has mastered his lines.

The play will be given at the Manassas High School auditorium, December 7, at 8:00 p.m.

CARNIVAL AT FAIRFAX

The Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a carnival to be held tonight and tomorrow night at Willard Hall in Fairfax.

Booths of all descriptions have been arranged along the north and south walls while the center has been left clear for dancing.

A good time for all is promised. The proceeds will go towards the general work of the chamber.

A CORRECTION

We regret a typographical error in the printing of the minutes of the Prince William County Board of Supervisors last week in which it was stated that $435 was paid to A. W. Amphlett for 29 turkeys. The statement should have been for 29 sheep.

LOVE DESCRIBES PRACTICAL WORK

Kiwanians Hear How Local Boys Are Trained.

Professor Love, of the Agricultural Department of the county schools, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club last week.

Tracing the history of agriculture in this country, the speaker briefly outlined some of the difficulties that both beset the pioneers and also some of the more fortuitous circumstances which surround them.

It was very interesting to note the methods which Mr. Love described as being used in direct assistance of the youth of the present day who are receiving instruction in the local schools. Graphic examples were cited by the speaker in one of the most interesting addresses heard by the club in recent months.

The speaker closed with an invitation to visit his classes at any and all times and also a plea to bear in mind these boys who are making the Prince William of tomorrow.

Bill Lloyd closed the evening with an exposure of the club's doings as analyzed by the several chairmen of the several committees. Bill was quite composed under fire and did not retreat until the tale was told.

The club will hold its regular meeting at the Hotel tomorrow night.

DEADLINE NEAR ON COMPENSATION

Veterans Must Apply Before Jan. 2.

Col. E. W. Jordan, manager of the Virginia regional office, American Legion, is quoted in press reports as stating that the time limit in which veterans may apply for adjusted compensation will expire on January 2.

Many men who are entitled to compensation have not made application, some of whom are not aware of the provisions of the law and others are merely neglecting the important matter.

It is stated that there are around 300,000 ex-service men who are eligible for amounts varying from $500 to $1500, provided the application is properly executed. Under existing law, it is stated, if a veteran is unheard of for seven years he is presumed to be dead.

COLORED TEACHER SUCCUMBS

Following three weeks of critical illness, Mrs. Georgia H. Berry passed away at Freedman's Hospital on November 4. She was a highly respected citizen of this community, who had given 33 years of faithful service to Prince William County as a public school teacher.

Services were conducted at the First Baptist Church, Manassas, Va., by her pastor, Rev. A. H. S. Johnson, at which time eulogies were offered by the church, the County Teacher's Association, the Manassas Industrial School Alumni, the First Baptist Church, The Plains, Va., and Mrs. B. E. White, principal of Brown School.

In her passing the School Board has lost a faithful and conscientious worker; her community a kind and sympathetic and efficient leader; the home, a devoted daughter, a dutiful wife, and a loving mother.

She is survived by a loving mother, a husband, three devoted children, and a wide circle of relatives and friends.

PRINCE WILLIAM BAKERY ADDS MODERN MACHINERY

The Prince William Bakery, at Manassas, has added sliced bread to its well-known line of bakery products.

The latest type of electric machine has been installed and Mr. J. W. Smith, the proprietor, extends a cordial invitation to all to see the new equipment in operation any afternoon between 3:45 and 4:30 o'clock.

Owing to the greater convenience and other desirable advantages, housewives, in increasing numbers, are specifying that their bread be sliced. To meet this requirement, the local bakery has installed the latest equipment and those who have already viewed the slicer are enthusiastic in their praise of Mr. Smith's progressiveness.

CATHARPIN

Bettie Tribble, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Tribble of Tecumseh, is now in the Children's Hospital, Washington, recovering from an operation for appendicitis which was performed last week. The little girl, while her case was quite serious at first, is now getting along nicely and ere the week pass, is expected home.
Mrs. Marie Larkin of Washington is the guest of her niece, Mrs. W. S. Brower at the present time.

A head-on collision was the experience of Messrs. E. R. Conner and W. E. Trusler last Friday as they were approaching the Catharpin store. At the point of accident there is short curve and considerable grade in the roadbed, with a high bank on the inner side which greatly obstructs visibility. As the Conner car was ascending it was met on the curve by a D. C. car driven by John Day, a colored man of the capital city, resulting in a bad wreck for the cars but fortunately little or no injury to the occupants. Both cars had to be hauled to the garage. We are quite sorry our Manassas friends had to be thus rudely treated but trust they will not hold it against us.

The hunting season is now in full blast and many visitors from other states and counties, lured by the prospect of game in this section, are temporarily domiciled in the Catharpin neighborhood. The roar of the gun and the plaintive squeaks of poor bunny rabbit are now the order of the day. Each season finds the Brower home densely populated by followers of the sport who love to come to Old Virginia for this delectable pastime. Those accepting the hospitality of that home last week were Mr. Ohle and two sons and Mr. Supple and son, all of New Jersey. This week's registration has not yet been published but signs of "Standing room only" are sure to be posted ere the week closes.
Marble Hill had as "hunting guests" last week, Mr. Barge, Mr. Geenwell and Lieut. Edwards of Washington; and as "dinner guests" on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Pote and Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins, also of the capital city. These to say nothing of their family affinities in the person of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Allison of Manassas. And so it goes. All who can not hunt rabbits out in the open love to hunt chicken on the dining room table. Well, that's our kind.

The community seems to be afflicted with a sort of malady which we are calling a "cold." While it has the symptoms of a common cold, it has another characteristic in that it has no terminal facilities, but just hangs and hangs and produces a sort of throat entanglement that keeps one busy trying to get rid of the debris.
Mr. Reginald Morrison and sister Edith of Berryville spent Sunday as the guests of Misses Frances and Ann Robertson.

Mrs. L. L. Lynn and little daughter Elizabeth are keeping in fashion by staying within doors and nursing a cold this week.
Mr. and Mrs. W. Holmes Robertson of Lawn Vale were visiting friends in Charlottesville over Sunday.

We have been thinking a long time about that danger point on the highway at Catharpin. We do not believe that there is a man in the neighborhood who does not regard the curve just below the store as dangerous to traffic; yet the truth must be admitted that accidents at that point have been very few, and until the one mentioned above, none of serious consequence. But that does not change the fact. The reason, perhaps, that they have not happened, is due to the infrequency of traffic, nothing else. Traffic now is bound to increase as the days go by, and the school bus with many children pass it twice daily. That no accidents have occurred is due entirely to good luck, not to any official effort to correct the threatened evil. While nothing happens, all is well; but suppose that instead of Mr. Conner's car it had been the school bus and some of the children had been hurt or possibly killed; then what? Listen folks, that danger point should be fixed RIGHT NOW. You have had your warning, don't delay.

The writer well remembers sitting on the front porch with Mr. F. H. Sanders some dozen years or more ago when a car went past the store and on down the hill around the curve at a speed so absolutely out of control that had he met some one coming up, nothing on earth could have saved a tragedy. The high bank on the inner side prevents safe visibility. Therein is the danger. Mr. Sanders immediately painted a sign board—"DRIVE SLOW" and nailed it up in plain view. That sign is now gone.

Mr. Frank W. Brower of Price, Md. arrived on the scene of his nativity on Saturday night last and is now ready to make life miserable for both bunny and quail. We presume that there is not an inch of territory in this whole country that Frank has not hunted over; he is therefore well qualified to lead his companions in a "merry chase."

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

THE HOPE OF YOUTH: For thou art my hope, O Lord God: thou art my trust from my youth.—Psalm 71:5.

THE SEASON OF GIVING

If we are to believe the reports of many business experts who analyze national business, we are on an upgrade which should become more pronounced in the next few months.

Such an announcement made at this season of the year will hearten the merchants greatly and have a general beneficial effect all along the line.

Christmas is just around the corner and the Red Cross drive is well under way. Thanksgiving should be celebrated with heartfelt thanks that our great land is well on its way to normalcy.

In Washington, our big neighbor, the people are subscribing hundreds of thousands to meet demands which always exist among the unfortunate. In this county we must build our own foundation work. Let us support the institutions which function for these purposes. The cause is great and the benefits untold.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

The appeal to the business man along advertising lines in this day and generation is surely greatly diversified. More than ever before is brought forth the old time slogan "advertise what you have for sale or else advertise your business for sale."

Clever salesmen have invaded every nook and cranny of the land. Even Uncle Sam has gone into the business and will furnish expert advice to boost his own volume of business.

In the midst of this the oldest form of current advertising—the weekly newspaper—is still doing business at the old stand. It has been remarkable that it has so well withstood the shocks that have been laid at its door.

Here in the South where community spirit is strong, the capable and wise merchant allots a definite budget for his weekly paper which he knows will get him better results for his dollar than any other form. He knows that he not only is offering his wares before the local public but he is also advertising himself as a definite supporter of a county institution which is loved by his own buying public.

Those merchants who have shortsightedly allowed themselves to be lured away from its columns are the ones who have lost contact with the reading public and who have in most instances allowed their best trade to slip into other channels from whence it may be difficult to wrest its return.

Large business arranges its advertising sensibly and many national advertisers offer inducements to secure weekly newspaper advertising for their clients. All of this has a definite meaning and only the unwise merchants fail to fall into line with the national return to normalcy.

The jitney method of advertising stamps the merchant's ability to serve his public which is not so dumb as Barnum thought it was.

1935 will witness more weekly newspaper advertising than ever before.—Exchange.

EXORDIUM

Nature alone can soften at her will

These harder outlines which we give to things;

Her architecture shows a subtler skill,

And to that labor lovingly she brings

Patience to shape a truer symmetry

Than what we dreamed in cities that defy

The wind and rain. So to this charity

Of earth we turn, and are sustained thereby.

One mote that dances in the sun can tell

How stars are spun from the primordial fire;

Seas beat eternal in the empty shell.

Such are the builders, and they never tire.

Oh hands, if the fulfillment be not yours,

Know that our firm foundation still endures!

Leslie Nelson Jennings, in the Christian Science Monitor.

TO A YELLOW MAPLE TREE

Maple tree you made me smile

Made me throw away my care

When I met you unaware

In your golden gown so fair.

Yellow dress and yellow hair

Beautiful lady standing there

Could you blame me for the stare,

Joyous autumn challenger?

Pausing to impress the sight,

Sunshine on your leaves so bright,

Maple trees so gay bedight,

Who could doubt that all was right?

Suddenly you made me glad,

Thanks outflowing up to God,

For the gift of tree and sod,

Beauty born of seed and clod.

—Edith Thompson.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Mortals and Immortals" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 18.

The golden text was "The creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God" (Romans 8:21).

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "For all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower thereof falleth away: but the word of the Lord endureth for ever" (I Peter 1:24, 25).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Human birth, growth, maturity, and decay are as the grass springing from the soil with beautiful green blades, afterwards to wither and return to its native nothingness. This mortal seeming is temporal; it never merges into immortal being, but finally disappears, and immortal man, spiritual and eternal, is found to be the real man" (p. 190).

"DUDE RANGER" PACKED WITH SWIFT ACTION

A picture which, according to all advance reports, tops any western drama George O'Brien has yet filmed, is scheduled to arrive at the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Wednesday.

This is "The Dude Ranger," described as a thrilling saga of the Arizona cattle lands. The fact that Zane Grey is the author of the new film in itself promises far more than usual for local audiences in the way of excitement, romance and authenticity of background. This time Grey tells the story of Ernest Selby, sophisticated but sturdy young easterner, who comes to Arizona to claim a ranch inherited from his uncle. Before he has an opportunity to make his identity known to the ranch manager, his suspicions are aroused by the disappearance of several hundred head of cattle. Mistaken for a cowboy in search of a job, he decides to masquerade in this role until he has cleared up the mishandling of the ranch. In the meantime, he has discovered another reason to extend his stay, in the person of the ranch manager's daughter. This imperious character is played by Irene Hervey, fascinating young newcomer to films. Before the picture has reached its whirlwind conclusion, these two have found through several breath-taking adventures.

1934 BONANZA ROARS TO LIFE IN "WILD GOLD"

The 1934 gold rush roars to life on the screen of the Dixie Theatre in Manassas, where "Wild Gold" opens tomorrow with John Boles, Claire Trevor and Harry Green in the leading roles. The picture has captured the glamour, excitement, drama and human comedy of the second incarnation of the ghost towns of the bonanza days.

Against the picturesque background of the Bret Hart country is enacted a delightful romance between John Boles and Claire Trevor. Boles' portrayal of the engineer stands out as a strong, he-man characterization. Miss Trevor is excellent as the heroine.

Gold lures women as well as men in this modern boom. Roger Imhof contributes a picturesque impersonation as the old prospector. Monroe Owsley is a suave villain, as usual. Edward Gargan plays the bartender with a vitality that promises more from this actor in the future.

It's a motley horde, summoned anew by the siren call of easy wealth as the result of the government's revaluation of gold. Men and women find romance, adventure and a few, treasure. Many of the extras who worked in the production were real prospectors working over the old veins in Kernville, Calif. These and the authentic settings lend verisimilitude to the picture.

IN CHANCERY

The general object of the above styled cause is to set aside and annul a certain deed executed by Robert B. Swart, dated August 16, 1932, recorded in deed book 91, at folio 181, whereby the said Robert B. Swart conveyed two tracts of lands in Gainesville Magisterial District, the first containing 175 acres, more or less, and the second 107 acres, more or less, the two tracts containing in the aggregate 282 acres, more or less, to John Cameron Crewe; also a certain other deed located as aforesaid and executed by said Robert B. Swart as of February 18, 1933, and recorded in said deed book of Prince William County Clerk's Office, folio 489, whereby the said Robert B. Swart conveyed to John C. Crewe a tract of 333 acres, more or less, said two deeds, or copies thereof, being filed with papers in this cause and marked, respectively, "Exhibit A" and "Exhibit C," said "Exhibit C" having been made subject to a deed of trust therein mentioned, which said "Exhibit C" also conveyed and transferred certain livestock and farming machinery therein mentioned, upon the ground that said two deeds were fraudulent and without valuable consideration for the purpose of hindering and delaying said complainant in the collection of a debt due by said Robert B. Swart to said The Fauquier National Bank of Warrenton in the amount of $9,700.00, with interest from January 1, 1934, and to make sale of said two tracts of land and livestock and farming implements, and the proceeds derived therefrom applied to the

WEEKLY LAUGHS FROM WOODBRIDGE

I saw young Steele the other day. Poor fellow, his girl friend has put so much oil on his head he can't keep his hat on.

Listen, gang, what do you think of a guy that is so cheap he won't run the motor to make his car heater work when he parks on the road with his girl? He says two fat people should keep warm without a heater.

I heard a good one the other day about a fellow that went in a filling station and was mistaken for some one else, but the young lady in the story said please so nice when she asked me not to say anything about it, that I just weakened so you, my loyal readers, are out of luck as I can't tell you about it. It was plenty funny so go ahead and laugh.

Susan Hutchison

(Mrs. Westwood Hutchison)

Such potent determinants of life's destinies are heredity, environment and training, that, as we stand in the stately open court of Arlington overlooking the beautiful Potomac, and amid the grandeur of art and nature, reflect how all factors, par excellence, combined to make a ROBERT E. LEE, our thoughts turn homeward to other lives, "nobly planned."

In God's own fairland, Virginia, there borders the western slope of Loudoun County a range of mountains, fascinating in historic charm and refreshing, by the loveliness of its opaline changes, all who "will lift up their eyes unto the hills." In view of these famous mountains, of Bull Run and between the quaint hamlet of Aldie and the old Little River meeting-house, early in the 'fifties, there came to the big-hearted, patriotic and pious home of Robert Alexander Ish and Pamela Humphrey (neé Hixson), his wife, a little brown-eyed Susan, to love, to be loved, to be trained up "in the fear and admonition of the Lord" and to keep the law of the land. So early, into the heart and life, were implanted "the things that endure."

Care-free, happy days of country childhood! Spent with affectionate parents, an adoring aunt of the household, a veritable tribe of sisters and brothers (eight, all told), slaves,—big and small, among whom was Susan's pridelful and worthy nurse, Kitty,—and an endless number of "kinfolk" and friends who made home one long delightful "house-party"—these were days whose prismatic colors will, indeed, never fade.

But come political murmurings that swell into sounds more ominous till the war clouds burst.

"The stuff that heroes are made of" showed itself at the Tan Yard, when the spirit of the Ish's who came to America for religious and civil liberty and fought to establish these liberties, the Hutchisons who suffered in England, Scotland and Ireland for "conscience's sake" and gave battle on American soil for independence, the valiant James Hixson of Lee's Legion, Washington's trusted aide-de-camp, David Humphrey, spoke in the spirit of Robert Ish and his wife as they dedicated themselves, their property, their sons to the South, and fearlessly lifted high the Southern colors, the first Confederate flag raised in Loudoun County.

"Jimnie," the eldest, a volunteer of sixteen, the Confederate cap on his bonny curls, was the first to march away "to victory or death." "Though a boy in years, a man in courage and bravery"—tribute by Lt. B. H. Hutchison. He was one of the 52 gallant men, under Capt. E. V. White, who promptly stepped forward as volunteers to capture 325 Federals under Ball's Bluff, Leesburg, Va.

As private in Co. D, "Champ Rifles," 8th Va. Inf., Pickett's Division, he was faithful in the discharge of all duties—in camp, on the march, in battle—and was in all the engagements of his regiment (1st Manassas, July 21, '61; Ball's Bluff, Oct. 21, '61; Williamsburg, May, '62) up to the time when he made the "supreme sacrifice," May 5, '62, "His death was that of a patriot"—words of Comrade Wm. H. Adams. The name of James French Ish is on the roll of honor of the Confederate States of America, Confederate Museum, Richmond, Va., and in the Stone Mountain Memorial Association Book of Memory.

Heart-breaking days of suspense, uncertainty, unreality and reality! The bugle call to this day has never lost its sad associations.

But then no time for vain repining. Our soldiers must be fed and clothed, and the ways of the household—no small matter in those days of large families and many slaves—must be looked to. Amid the round of "common task" the home was the factory where everything was made, from knitted socks and undergarments to the well-sewed great coat, "fatigue" jacket, officer's uniform, and the private's cap. Capt. Wm. Berkeley's in Aldie, where Susan's mother superintended and aided the cutting and making of garments, was the scene of great activity, as these antecedents of the Memorial Association and "Daughters" bent to the "immediate task." To the steady refrain of their "Stitch, stitch, stitch" was the "scrape, scrape, scrape" of knife on linen, as the childish fingers of Susan and her sisters, Lavinia, Mary Jane and Laura Milton, prepared lint which, before the discovery of medicated cotton, meant so much to the wounded in hospital or on battlefield. And above all, the rattle of musketry and the terrifying boom, boom of cannon.

The fighting is near. Backward and forward between Leesburg and Manassas Father's riding horse is carrying important dispatches.

And now come the stretchers. The Tan Yard becomes a hospital. Sad sights and memories for a little girl! "Tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching," under orders not to stop. But word had come the day before; and Mother and her black cooks, with skillful manipulations of measures of flour and boiling pots, were ready with "loads" of delicious ham and biscuit. The big trays were instantly emptied and replenished by and for the marching file, the little girls even helping to serve, heaping their wee aprons again and again with biscuits and apples. That was jolly!

The scene changes from Virginia to Texas where Robert Ish moves his family. After a ten days' journey, attended by some very tiresome and some very amusing experiences of old-fashioned travel by steam car, the Mississippi boat and the stage coach, they arrive at the new home near Galveston. Here the children attend good schools and roam the "prairie wild" without fear or harm.

The war goes on. Edgar and Frank now enlist, and are ordered to the Galveston breastworks. And as fast as he can produce it, Father sends to the Confederate Government the much needed cotton.

Then comes the end, "the deluge." The war is over and the Black Terror reigns. Thank God for the inspired wisdom of the Klu Klux Klan! And gratitude for the faithful slave! "Aunt Fannie," Robert Ish's old black mammy, disdained the Emancipation Proclamation and cherished no affection for "dem Yankees" who had brought such sorrow and distress to the home of her beloved "Marse Robert."

"Higher" education for Susan is now under consideration. Virginia is far away; but, after careful advisement and prayer, the demure and studious maiden is sent to Middleburg in the Old Dominion. Under the tutelage of Dr. James Anthony Haynes, well grounded in scholarship and Christian faith, school days were a delight. (Brilliant (Hon.) Harry St. Geo. Tucker, "star" student in a boys' school, reminisced with delight in after years at Confederate Reunion of the time when Dr. Haynes' star student, Susan, beat him on an insoluble problem in mathematics.)

It was here that Susan decided for Christ and was baptized into the Missionary Baptist Church, a denomination with which she has been prominently identified. The Woman's Missionary Union, Potomac Association, which she directed for ten years, know and love the name of Susan Ish (now Susan Hutchison), and have placed a memorial of their regard in the "Hall of Fame" of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Romance in the 'seventies! The dashing, black-eyed young "courier to Lee," Westwood Hutchison, smiled his way into Susan's girlish heart; and then, began wonderful homemaking days on the old Hutchison homestead of "Prospect Hill" in the county of Prince William. And "many sons (9) and daughters (5) are added unto them."

As these "young olive plants" grow into maturity and give place for "outside" affairs, the Confederate organizations know the zeal of the patriotic interest of the matron Susan. She is one of the committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Edwin Nelson, Manassas Chapter, U.D.C., whose efforts placed upon the Confederate monument at Manassas a splendid bronze figure of the Southern soldier "at rest." Member of another influential committee, with Mrs. Thurston Wolfe (Jennie Ashby), a large portrait of Jefferson Davis was presented to Manassas High School by Governor Claude Swanson. Likewise, a Constitution and rules of order and a much-needed Chapter headquarters come into existence through her affiliated activities and influences. And in every official capacity to which she has been elected, she has served most efficiently.

Years pass, again bringing "wars and rumors of war." Othniel Grey, the oldest son, sailed away to the Philippines as a Spanish-American volunteer, returning with medals and citations which he prizes above gold.

July 21, 1911, Manassas, on once blood-stained battlefields, the Blue and the Grey met with fraternal hand-clasp. Wondrous sight for eyes to see! And to the head of the Hutchisons, master of ceremonies on the town Green, is the honor of presenting President Wm. H. Taft to the vast assemblage of the Peace Jubilee. A companion picture is the Gettysburg Reunion, when the second son, Col. Robt. A. of the gubernatorial Staff of Wm. Hodges Mann of Va. rides proudly with the sons of the South to make this a memorable event for the men of the 'sixties. Another picture; a brilliant procession sweeping down Pennsylvania Ave., Washington, D. C., and the Governor of Va. and the Governor of N. J., with their staff officers vie with each other in marked distinction of appearance and bearing to do honor to the inauguration of Virginia's Woodrow Wilson. Cherished memories of peace time.

Another period! War! Francis A., "the Benjamin," takes his place with Southern volunteers in the World War with a captain's commission, while the other members of the clan perform their patriotic part wherever needed. "Susan," now a dignified grandmother, knows no such thing as "caps and corners," as she sews and knits, practices and teaches food and fuel conservation, presides over meetings of religious and secular organizations, works in the Red Cross as Memorial Association Auxiliary president, and, as county chairman of the National Woman's Liberty Loan Committee, cooperates with the Men's Chairman, her husband, to put Prince William over in the bond issues. Carefully she treasures the Liberty Legion bar, the Victory medal, the Red Cross emblems, tributes from Hoover, McAdoo, Carter Glass and others. And be it not thought, that through all the crowded, troublous times, the Confederate veteran and his widow and his children have been forgotten; but, with the cooperation of the local Memorial Association and "Daughters," of which organizations she is president, honor is given to whom honor is due.

How well the cause of patriotism was and is subserved a Liberty Bond in a bank safety box bears testimony. It is the Endowment Fund of the Memorial Association for the annual prize in Manassas High School for the best essay on such subjects as "The Rise of Democracy in History," "The Cause of Secession," "Is Davis a Traitor?," "The Principles of the Susan B. Anthony Amendment Opposed to the Principles of the Federal Constitution." Mrs. Hutchison has just cause to feel proud of this and another accomplishments of the association whose record since 1867 is, in part, written in the history of the C.S.M.A. Since her election to its presidency, June, 1915, the record has been well sustained; the local Confederate Cemetery is cared for by a State appropriation, six graves near town have been located and moved here; a large Confederate flag has been purchased for use at the funeral of a veteran; memorial trees on Lee avenue; veterans' pictures collected; June 3rd is "religiously" observed; the claim of the "Cotton Tax Bill" has been vigorously advocated; contributions sent for the President's chair in the Red Cross Building in Washington; books contributed to the local high school and to the libraries in England and France; intimate relationship established with the school by means of the annual prize; new life through new membership and the "Juniors."

Peace time again, the peace of reconstruction days. Much work to do, and much need of vigilance and wisdom to do it. Bethshan (place of rest), Mrs. Hutchison's home, hears of many a well-formulated plan and the report of its success. Since her election to the presidency of Manassas Chapter, U.D.C., July, 1919, 60 records of soldiers of Confederate lineage who served in the World War have been filed; the chapter's quota to the permanent endowment fund for the Matthew Fontaine Maury Scholarship, Fredericksburg, has been paid; the quota for the salary of a custodian or caretaker of the Lee Mausoleum, Lexington, is being raised; a prize, by courtesy of Ewell Camp—whose commander is Col. Westwood Hutchison—is established in the town Graded school; besides, dinners to the Veterans and a number of benevolences, including Lee Camp Home and Home for Needy Confederate Women, Richmond; lastly, the beginning of a park memorial on the battlefields of Bull Run, Manassas, and the organization of a junior chapter.

This last is a cherished desire—a Junior Chapter, a Junior Memorial Association, educational work in the schools—that children and their children's children may know the truth about our Southland, that they may rise up and call them blessed who kept the faith.

Were a reminder of these obligations needed, Mrs. Hutchison can but turn to the pictures of Washington and Lee and the Stars and Stripes beside the Stars and Bars in her hallway, or to a beautiful red and white badge with its letters of gold which she has so proudly worn in Washington and Atlanta as sponsor for men "whom death could not terrify, whom defeat could not dishonor." THE IMMORTAL SIX HUNDRED.

And the ancestral spirit speaks anew in deeds of patriotism. And her children rise up and call her blessed.

The above sketch, prepared some years ago for a page in a book of Southern women, is simply a sketch—nom ore. For a volume were needed to recount the virtues and excellent works of this beloved woman—who consecrated her gifted life—brilliant mind, warm heart, talents, opportunities—to her Father in Heaven. Whatsoever she did, she did with all her might, to His honor and glory. "Her delight was in the law of the Lord, and in His law did she meditate day and night."

Studios and well-read (among her last secular books was Lives of Great American Statesmen) her Bible always came first. She gave herself continually to prayer, and her influence, beginning at home and in her community, extended to "the uttermost parts of the world" by carrying out the Commission, "GO—and teach the Gospel."

It could truly be said of her "I was an hungered, and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me in: Naked, and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came unto me."

Her religion was not a thing apart: it was her whole existence—Christ living.

In 1922, while driving her pony one windy afternoon, in the interest of the Jefferson Davis Memorial in Kentucky, Mrs. Hutchison was overthrown. As the years passed and time took relentless toll, the injury to her hip, with a bad heart, gradually lessened her many activities—domestic, social, civil, patriotic, church and denominational. Till five years ago, she wisely gave up the presidency of the Memorial Association; and later, with regret and protest from the church, resigned the offices of treasurer, Sunday school teacher, and the superintendency of the Cradle Roll which she had organized and "mothered" for more than twenty-five years.

As "the outer man changed" with increasing frailty, "the inner man was renewed day by day," and a blessing and prayer went continually from her room "shut-in but NOT shut out. The law of loving kindness was in her heart, and even to the end, there was consideration, appreciation, courtesy, for those whose privilege it was to minister unto her.

Still "on duty," two weeks prior to her illness, she responded to the request of Manassas Chapter, U.D.C., for their anniversary meeting, for a report of the achievements of her administration 15 years ago.

Amazing vitality! She exemplified "They that rest upon the Lord shall renew their strength: they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk and not be afraid."

The last tribute of beautiful flowers from those who truly loved her, meant much to her bereaved family. But the "shower" of Mother's Day letters from members and societies of Potomac Woman's Missionary Union, brought joy untold to their former superintendent, as they wrote Mrs. Hutchison of their love and appreciation of her "deeply gifted and spiritual life, the wisdom and mother love given from above which you put into the work of the Potomac W.M.U. you guided and directed so faithfully. And we send love and thanksgiving for your witness and attainments among us. The fruits of the Spirit abide."

Differing in personalities, in the essentials she and her noble husband "the late Rev. Westwood Hutchison, were as one. Along life's journey for more than three-score years, tho' the way wound up hill or down, through rough or smooth, theirs was a joy in a singleness of Christian purpose, seeking new friendships, high adventure and "a crown." Never losing life's zest, they grew old, as we count years; and, at the end of the long, long road, the last was the best—a glory and sweetness, in testimony of a "yielded life" in Christ. For they could say: "I know in whom I have believed, and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day." As they lived, so did they pass through that transition we call Death, "to depart, and to be with Christ," September 3,

RAILROAD MAN IN McCOY FILM VICTIM OF TRAIN ROBBERIES

Old copies of Los Angeles newspapers record the thrilling facts of these sensational train holdups in desolate Soledad Canyon, fifty miles north of Hollywood, in the past twenty years. Ray Brown, grizzled and leather-skinned railroad man since the wild days of Tombstone, Ariz., figured in the most recent. He was fireman on the "Lark," fast Southern Pacific, Los Angeles-to-San Francisco express, when it was derailed in Soledad Canyon in 1929.

Brown, who is seen as the engineer in the train holdup scene of "Beyond the Law," a Col. Tim McCoy railroad thriller, coming to the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Friday, Nov. 30, leaped from the express locomotive as it hurtled the ripped-up rails into a ditch. He escaped with only a few bruises, while the Southern Pacific engineer, who went into the gully with the big engine, was so seriously scalded he was in the railway hospital nine months.

The train holdup scene in "Beyond the Law" was filmed less than 15 miles from the scene of the Southern Pacific wreck, and in the same barren canyon through which the Southern Pacific climbs onto the Mojave Desert. As the railroad's detective, McCoy is called upon to face dangers to his own life, and to engage in narrow escapes and thrilling automobile chases, to find and arrest the train robbers. He is given aid and romantic support by Shirley Grey, popular blue-eyed film player.
