

DRILLS FEATURED AT LINTON HALL

High Church Pomp Marks Closing Exercises.

The annual competitive drills at Linton Hall, Bristow, Va., were held Sunday, May 19. The morning was given over to church services. While the outdoor process was forming on the east side of the administration building the diminutive guards, Timothy Driscoll, Jean Smith, Paul Lindeman, Paul Brewington, Edward Chaney and Robert Tillman were pacing the aisles. The procession was led by Color Sergeant Francis Reading, bearing high the gorgeous silken Stars and Stripes. He was attended by Guidons Raymond Hertica and Harry Roberts. The officers in straps and sabers followed: Major John Reading, Captains Leonard Doggett, Jr., and Jerry Keogh; Lieut. Adj. Louis Kengla, First Lieut. James Reilly and Thomas Herb, Second Lieut. Edmund Burgess and Howard Somma. These took their places in the sanctuary while the entire battalion stood along the aisle at "present."

The torch bearers robed in white cassocks were Freddie Musser, Thomas Grey, Charles Jenkins, Billy Burke, Marcus Carroll and Joseph Council. The acolytes were Ralph Weschler and Jack Fallon. The thurifers, Warren Reid and Alfred Bell. All of these were in red cassocks, capes and sashes. The master of ceremonies was the Rev. James J. Sinnott, O.S.A. Rev. Thomas F. Carey, O.P., delivered the address. Both were from the Catholic University. Finally the celebrant of the mass, Rev. Dom Benedict Brozman, O.S.B., acting prior of St. Anslem's, Washington, D. C., Deacon Rev. John Smith, O.S.B., chaplain of Linton Hall, Sub-Deacon Rev. Dr. J. Edward Rault, O.S.B., of the Catholic University. These were robed in gorgeous gold and silken vestments. As they passed, the officers saluted with sabers; the cadets entered the pews and a solemn high military mass began.

MOTHER'S DAY PROGRAM

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union rendered a Mother's Day program in May at the home of Mrs. C. J. Meetez, in which most of the members present had a part in the beautiful stories and readings exalting Motherhood and Womanhood.

"The legend of a Japanese Mother" told by Mrs. Hersch was especially touching as it portrayed the tender reverence of a son for his mother—characteristic of that nation, and the corresponding love of the mother for the son, so tenderly depicted in this legend as they each sought to save the life of the other, and each willing to die for the other.

"The Madonna of the Chair," "Mothers—Young and Old," "The Home Rules the Nation," "Organized Mother Love" and the "Tribute to a Christian Mother" by Dr. Edward J. Reese, a noted minister and author who says "To live up to the ideals of my mother is my daily determination and hope, and it was at this mother's knee as an eight-year-old boy that he signed the Loyal Temperance Legion pledge, which he adds, 'Thank God has been kept inviolate.'"

The music also was in keeping with the Mother's Day program especially the two solos by Jessie Mae Conner and Mrs. Harrell.

One of our honorary members, Mr. Jessie Conner, was present, and Miss Florence Lyon as a visitor at this meeting.

Prayer by Mr. Conner and the Aaronic benediction closed this interesting meeting.

A FINE COMPLIMENT

The Army-Navy Journal of May 4 carries the following:

"With the plaudits of the War Department and his Corps, Major General Patterson will retire from the office of Surgeon General on May 31. He plans a leave of absence during which he will determine whether to continue on active duty or accept an offer of private practice. Good luck, General, whatever you decide. You deserve it."

BALLSTON SCORES FOUR RUNS IN NINTH TO TRIM MACS BY SCORE 5-3

Stankus Bests Adair When Latter's Support Falters in Late Innings.

For eight and two-third innings the Macs maintained intact their record of never having lost a league game on their home grounds when their defense faltered giving Ballston the game by the score of 5 to 3. Although able to gather but seven hits off Stankus during the eight innings he was in the box, four of these were bunched in the third and were good for a pair of runs while two more in the following inning, coupled with an infield out, pushed across another tally. Adair opened the third with a single to center and continued to second on Tonker's error. He scored on Godfrey's dropped a double in right close to the foul line. Lynn looped a single into the same territory and Godfrey scored the second run of the inning. Brenner followed with a single to center but Wurdemann forced Lynn at third and Saunders went out at first on a bouncer to Ball to end the inning. The Macs raised their total to three in the following inning when, with one out, Buckner singled past third and went to third on Adair's single to center, ad scored as Miller tossed out Godfrey. After the fourth, only two Macs reached first, Saunders opening the sixth with a bouncer which went through McQuinn, was sacrificed to second by Woodard but was stranded when Stankus slipped third strikes past Buckner and Adair. Dreifus batted for Adair in the ninth and singled to right but Miller made a one-handed stab of Godfrey's loop to end the game.

The visitors saved their threats for the late innings. Rudding opened the seventh with a walk, stole second and went to third on Stankus' single to center. Bowman, however, flied to Saunders, Wolverton fanned and Godfrey tossed out McQuinn to end the threat. They scored a run in the eighth when, with one out, Tonker doubled to center, went to third as Adair tossed out Biggs and scored as Wurdemann threw over Godfrey's head. And then came the ninth. Rudding opened the inning with a single to left and following Owens' loft to center, went to second when Bowman lined a single over second. Brenner then dropped Wolverton's loop and threw wildly past third to let across one run and leave men on second and third. Adair fanned McQuinn for the second out but when Miller's drive bounced away from Lynn, Wolverton and Bowman scored to put the visitors in the lead. Tonker followed with a double to right center to score the fourth run. Dreifus relieved Adair and forced Biggs to roll out, Godfrey to Wurdemann. But the damage had been done and Owens held the Macs safely in the ninth and handed them their first defeat of the season.

POPPY PRIZE TO MARTHA GRIMES

Manassas Girls Stage Lively Contest.

The poppy sale conducted by a group of young ladies last week under the auspices of Prince William Post No. 158 was eminently successful.

The poppies were completely sold out by noon and the unique scheme was gotten up to recapture the poppies and sell them over again, exchanging the same for red-ribbon bows. This added nearly 50 per cent to the income of the day which proved to be a very neat sum.

Miss Martha Grimes with the highest number of sales captured the prize offered with Miss Sally Proffitt a close second.

The sale was conducted under the supervision of the following group of ladies: Miss Margaret Lynch and Mesdames H. E. Pickeral, Howard Jamison, Stewart Pattie and John Hynson.

ALUMNI TO AID GYM. MAINTENANCE

On June 8 the Manassas Alumni Association is giving a bingo lawn party on the lawn of Prince William Hotel.

The proceeds of this entertainment will be used to defray the share of the expenses of weather-stripping the Manassas High School gymnasium as adopted by the association at a recent meeting.

This is one of the few civic centers in the community and the maintenance of the building is a community proposition to a large extent. Therefore those attending will have the satisfaction of a pleasant evening as well as helping a worthy cause.

Mrs. Wheatley Johnson is general chairman of the party.

GRADUATION FUNCTIONS AT THEIR HEIGHT

The graduating class of Manassas High School have been entertained at many activities prior to the commencement exercises which take place Friday night.

Last Friday night the Kiwanis Club entertained about thirty graduates and members of the faculty at their annual supper. At this time a silver vase was presented Miss Eugenia Osbourn by Mr. Waters on behalf of the Kiwanis Club. An interesting program was presented by the class after which several songs were sung.

Miss Osbourn's annual garden party to the Seniors and faculty was given Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. After many delightful games directed by Miss Pauline Smith were played, refreshments were served to the guests. Miss Elizabeth Harrover, a commercial student, received the prize for high score.

The baccalaureate service for the graduates was held in the Episcopal Church Sunday night. At this service the seniors wore for the first time their caps and gowns which are being used for the first time this year. Dr. Warner, rector of St. Alban's Church, Washington, delivered the sermon, which was most inspiring and helpful to the graduates. Preceding the service Lucy Gibson entertained the class at a supper at her home.

Wednesday night the class night program was presented in the high school auditorium. The scene was laid in the "Fisher Building," New York, in 1950. Through the microphone Alden Dodson broadcasted each person as they came in, in that way delivering the prophecy. Mary Lynch, gifterian, presented suitable gifts to several of the faculty and students. The class history was given by Virginia Hurst and the last will and testament by Mary Senneoy. Several class songs, arranged by members of the class, were sung. (Continued on back page)

KIWANIANS FETE LOCAL HIGH GRADS

Banquet Featured by Gift to Miss Osbourn.

The Senior class of Manassas High School enjoyed the first of its graduation exercises on Friday evening at the annual banquet given by the Kiwanis Club to the graduating class and members of the faculty.

The dining hall of the Prince William Hotel was crowded to capacity and the scene was made more enjoyable by the advent of Jim Payne and a contingent of the Fredericksburg Club.

At an appropriate moment President Hunton called on O. D. to do the honors of the club in presenting its gift to Miss Eugenia.

O. D. rose to heights of eloquence that excelled his best efforts heretofore. From his kaleidoscopic grasp of history it is evident that Miss Eugenia grounded him thoroughly in that subject and, as O. D. jocosely remarked, it was her turn to listen to him talk for a while.

In presenting the beautiful little rose vase which was a "graduation gift" to Miss Eugenia, O. D. really expressed very beautiful sentiments which all hands admitted were only due the faithful principal of the Manassas High School.

It is seldom that a more flowery tribute is handed to any resident of Manassas and certainly no other occasion has offered a more worthy circumstance for such an oration.

Miss Eugenia replied in her smooth even voice in such a manner that all hands were willing to agree that she was a much better orator than they were aware.

The most striking of her remarks was perhaps her appeal to the club to carry on the able leadership which it has established in the community.

The rest of the evening was largely devoted to features presented by the graduating class with Miss Virginia Hurst, president, presiding. This included an excellent dissertation on the subject of "Vocational Guidance" by Miss Lucy Gibson in which she explained how that important phase of the youth of the community had been introduced into the curriculum at Manassas High.

CATHARPIN

Mr. and Mrs. Noble C. Pierce of Winchester, Va., were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Alvey of Catharpin.

Mr. Frank W. Brower and son, Junior, and Mr. Harry Jewel of Price, Md., were Lone Oak visitors on Saturday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Alvey, their four sons and Mrs. E. S. Clary and Mr. and Mrs. W. Holmes Robertson and daughters, Ann and Rita, were Catharpin's ambassador plenipotentiaries to the great Ringling Brothers' great shows in the capital city last week. It certainly must have been a wonderful show. They said they had a girl there who could ride a horse bare-back; and they even had a clown who jumped up once in a while and turned "somer-sets." They also had some kind of a swing that boys and girls got upon and hung down by their toes; and a brass band and some monkeys. Certainly, certainly it must have been some show. O yes! they had a parrot and a snake too.

The entire L. J. Pattie family with the exception of the father, were taken suddenly ill last week with something like ptomaine poisoning which confined them to their homes for several days. At this writing all are improving but children unable to attend school. It is not known just what caused the trouble.

Mr. J. E. McIntire and son, Wilbur, of Latrobe, Pa., were week-end guests at Oakwood last week. The son, Mr. W. B. McIntire, was stationed with the aviation unit at Kelly Field, Texas, during the war and was well acquainted with our own Mr. Luther L. Lynn, who was there at the same time. These two "Old Veterans" met again for the first time since they separated some 18 years ago when McIntire was sent over seas. They had much to talk about.

The Skyline Drive seems to have the call just now from this part of the continent and many people have been enjoying that most wonderful scenery. It is well worth any one's time. People living at elevations near sea level where the leaves are in full growth are surprised when mounting to an elevation of some four thousand feet, to find them just about one-fourth developed and the trees, instead of being tall, straight and vigorous, are dwarfed, twisted and scrubby, looking anything but thrifty. The drive is completed insofar as the road bed is concerned, but many viewpoints, safety walls and other beautifying projects will require much more time before final completion.

A number of "Look-outs" are located at different vantage points along the trail from which one can view the "Great Valley of Virginia" lying some 4 thousand feet below and extending as far, almost, as the eye can see, thus affording a perfect airplane picture of what looks like an immense old-fashioned bed quilt with its big, square patches, which patches are made up of newly-planted cornfields, wheat fields, etc., all of which is wonderful to look upon. Then again the little log cabins, sticking against the mountain sides, appraises one of the fact that people have been living there for lo these many years, and you wonder how on earth they can do it; but there they are. This feature was a matter of much interest.

A good field glass is almost necessary. From one of the "lookouts" a small cabin was seen about a mile away sticking up against the side of the mountain. The field glass revealed a woman sitting on the door step with a baby on her lap. To show that she had somehow come in contact with the modern world, she was wearing white shoes. One of our guests marveled at this and wondered if she had obtained them from Sears-Roebuck. Little garden spots in size from an onion bed to possibly a quarter to half an acre were seen sticking up against the mountain sides, and steeper than any house roof; so that one could but wonder how it was done.

Several little, octagonal structures were noticed along this 34-mile trail, in shape and size like a watchman's tower at a R R crossing, and marked U S Post Office. So Uncle Sam has penetrated to this mountain fastness so that the inhabitants thereof may now enjoy the mails. Perhaps this is how the lady got her white shoes. At any rate, we hardly think we would care to be the P.M.

This drive is certainly destined to become one of the "wonder spots" of the country and proves the wisdom of the projectors. On clear days when visibility is good, the scene is beyond our power to describe. You must see it for yourself. From the various "lookouts" along the way, one can see for miles and miles along the mountain sides and over crest after crest of parallel ranges. But listen: don't go up there on a cloudy or foggy day; if visibility is poor, about your only experience will be the snapping and cracking of your ear drums as you gain the higher altitudes. One of our party was almost deaf for a bit after we got down to sea level again. So pick your day, if possible, and enjoy one of the greatest and grandest sights that Virginia, or any other state for that matter, has to offer.

NOKESVILLE

The auditorium of Brentsville District High School was filled to capacity on Sunday night last when Dr. James A. Wright preached the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of 1935. Dr. Wright spent his boyhood in the Aden neighborhood, at which place his parents still reside. He graduated from Bridgewater College. Dr. Wright was assisted in the services by popular minister, Rev. Goode, of the M. E. Church of Nokesville.

The Glee Club furnished the singing which was much appreciated by everyone.

Mrs. Geo. Cowne of Catlett rendered a piece on the violin with Mrs. Leachman at the piano.

Mrs. B. F. Hedrick has returned to her home in Nokesville.

Mrs. Raymond Free, sr., who has been visiting here for the past few weeks, has returned to her home in Washington.

Mr. Maurice Frame of Washington was a Nokesville visitor on Sunday. Mr. Francis Wells, who holds a position in the District, was home over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Payne spent Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ewing McMichael.

The classes in home economics work under the tutorage of Miss Draper certainly deserve credit for the beautifully arranged rooms and well chosen furniture in their new apartment in "The Sinary."

The writer has been entertained recently at breakfasts by members of Miss Draper's class and not only was the food delicious but it was beautifully served. Miss Draper certainly deserves a lot of credit for the splendid work she is doing among our girls. And our patrons should certainly be not only willing but glad to lend her a helping hand wherever possible. The classes in sewing seem also quite efficient. Aprons, dresses and even coats being made, and well made by these girls. They are certainly a jolly bunch and are learning things that will be a help and comfort all their lives.

Miss Fran. Jones of Washington spent the week-end at the home of her mother, Mrs. M. E. Jones.

Mr. William Allen, formerly of Nokesville, now attending Berry College, is home for the holidays.

Miss Hillsman gave the children in her room a most enjoyable day in Washington. They visited the museum and also zoo and had a picnic lunch. All reported a wonderful time.

The Manassas Journal
BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

If parents will have their children memorize the daily Bible selections, it will prove a precious heritage to them in after years.

HE REDEEMS AND CROWNS: Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits; who redeemeth thy life from destruction; who crowneth thee with loving kindness and tender mercies. — Psalm 103, 1, 4.

"MISS EUGENE"

The retirement of Miss Osbourn brings sad feelings to all of her pupils and their friends. She has, through her years of service and sincere love for the young people in her care, endeared herself to all. It gives general satisfaction that she will remain with the school and in touch with her friends. "Miss Eugene" has been a consistent friend of The Journal and we share with the community the affection in which she is held. Very few teachers become so thoroughly a part of the homes they serve that their patrons just will not let them slip into private life.

May long years of continued activity lie before our cheerful, faithful, capable Miss Eugene.

OUR GRADUATES

Tomorrow evening more than a score of splendid young people will receive their coveted sheepskins from the local school authorities.

This is an annual event looked forward to by every one in the community. It is an occasion for general rejoicing and good will.

But the day passes quickly and then what? Some of those young folks may not be able to go on in school and may not so readily find employment.

There is where the pinch comes. It is being felt annually by hundreds of thousands of youths in the same position. They all have pride and they all want to do something to make themselves worth-while.

Every serious-minded executive and business man should bear in mind this circumstance and join hands in making the path as bright as possible for our boys and girls who want to take their places in community life.

N.R.A. UNCONSTITUTIONAL

The decision of the Supreme Court this week unanimously declaring the N.R.A. unconstitutional.

tional has been received throughout the South with a great deal of satisfaction. Many of the major troubles which we have had in this country have arisen from a disregard of the constitutional safeguards which protect our liberties.

The return to balance of the powers of the executive, legislative and judicial branches of the government is the occasion for national thanksgiving and incidentally reflects great credit upon Senators Glass and Byrd and Representative Howard Smith who have all held out stoutly for the constitutional rights of the people.

THE BLUE AND THE GRAY

By Inno McGill

The Richmond Times-Dispatch offers the suggestion that the United Confederate Veterans and the Grand Army of the Republic had a joint reunion, this year, presumably in Richmond. The Confederate Veterans, it is said, have made no plans, this year, for their annual convention and it is unlikely that the few remaining soldiers of the Lost Cause may ever again hold a reunion. The Grand Army of the Republic still holds an annual gathering of its depleted membership.

More than half of the posts that once numbered a membership in the hundreds now have not a single survivor. The little bronze button on the lapel of the Union Veteran and the St. Andrew's Cross on that of the soldier of the Confederacy are now but rarely seen. The few old men who still survive the bitter years of the Civil War are almost unnoticed as they pass away. The issues over which they fought are forgotten, or of little or no interest to the present generation of Americans, but, for the veterans of both sides they were living, burning issues for which men were willing to die. They still live in the memories of the old men of the faded blue and gray uniforms who, for what they believed to be right, would again take sword in feeble hand or musket on bowed shoulder.

In suggesting a reunion of the Civil War veterans, The Times-Dispatch says:

"It would be in the spirit of Robert E. Lee who counseled his soldiers after the war to forget their hatred for the North; to abandon their local animosity and make their sons Americans."

The old soldiers who know and understand the causes of the Civil War can appreciate what our united nation cost. The veterans of the Blue and Gray have long since clasped hands; each man proud of, and glorying in, the fight he fought. Those who have gone now know "whose cause was just in God the Father's sight." If the old warriors who once were foes shall meet once more face to face in peace, the whole nation should rise to do them reverence.

To Manassas, however, belongs the distinction of being the first place in the United States to hold a reunion of the Blue and the Gray. This event took place in 1911, fifty years after the first battle of Manassas that bathed the neighboring fields in blood. A monument commemorating the historic gathering now stands within the Court House grounds.

Before giving any of the musical numbers Miss Hurst introduced each member of the class, practically all of whom were present. The singing consisted of songs well known in the life of the school and the community.

Before adjournment it was announced by W. C. Sudd, chairman of the boys and girls committee, that the fund for the life-saving scholarship had been raised entirely and Bob Hutchison, speaking for Charlie Lynn, stated that the soup fund for the Bennett kiddies had been over-subscribed for the balance of the school year.

BENNETT PRE-SCHOOL CHILDREN ENTERTAINED TUESDAY

On Tuesday afternoon, May 27, the first grade students of the Bennett School entertained the pre-school children at a most attractive party.

A special committee consisting of Mrs. R. C. Haydon, Mrs. Harry Blakemore, Mrs. John DeChant, Mrs. J. G. Conner and Mrs. W. C. Sadd, was in charge.

After being weighed and heights taken numerous games were played. Throughout the afternoon the rhythm band rendered several selections.

Having been well entertained the incoming first grade was escorted to the primary department where they were seated and served delightful refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake which was served by the special committee.

BUCKLAND

Miss Lillian Carter of Oatlands spent the week-end with her grandmother, Mrs. E. B. Carter, at "Ingleside." We are glad to say that Mrs. Carter is slowly improving.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Lee and little Miss Marion Lee of Washington were guests on Sunday of Mrs. Lee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Graham.

Mrs. Ludwell Glascock and Mr. Sam Glascock, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Downs, of New Baltimore, were called to Hopewell last week by the sad death of little Roy Henry, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Henry, who died on Tuesday in a Petersburg hospital from complications resulting from an attack of scarlet fever. Funeral services were held on Thursday and his remains were laid to rest in Petersburg. The sincerest sympathy of this writer is extended his family in their sad bereavement.

Mrs. Gordon Lunceford and son, Obey, of Washington, spent the week-end at their home here, and on Sunday attended services at New Baltimore Church.

Mrs. Edwin Carter returned to her home in Strasburg on Friday after spending a few days at "Ingleside."

Mr. Alvin Fowler, who is employed in Washington, visited his home here last week.

Large crowds are in attendance each night at the Buckland church where Rev. Fred Powers is conducting a revival.

Mrs. J. F. Graham and Miss Mary Ella Graham were Washington shoppers last Wednesday.

Miss Audrey Moore spent the week-end at her home here.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear mother, Laura R. Posey, who departed this life one year ago, May 24, 1934.

It was hard to see you leave me
But only God knew best,
So I know He has taken you home
To give you sleep and rest.
Some may think you are forgotten,
Because oftentimes they see me smile,
But little do they know the heart-aches

That I suffer all the while.
No one knows, dear Mother, how I miss you,
More and more each day.
Life has not been the same to me,
Since you were called away.
I will meet you some bright morning,
This happy thought in store
So keep her, Jesus, in thy keeping,
Until my weary life is over.

By her loving daughter, Lillian.

TO ONE WHO TAUGHT ME
BEAUTY

(Eugenia H. Osbourn)

If I have captured any slightest shred
Of Beauty's garment, that bright gossamer

Elusive as the airy ribbons spread Across the sky when Sun and Rain confer,

And tenuous as silken mists that blur

The morning valleys with their finespun thread,

I owe to you the priceless souvenir,
Who showed me how to follow where she led.

It is because you taught my eyes to see,

And all my senses to become aware
Of Beauty's presence, that there came to me,

Slow drifting through the drowsy
evening air,

This shining border from her mantle
blue

That I shall keep for love of her—and you!

—Alice Boorman Williamson.

"WHAT A BARREL OF WHISKEY CONTAINS"

A barrel of headaches, of heartaches,
of woes;

A barrel of curses, a barrel of blows;

A barrel of sorrow for a loving,
weary wife;

A barrel of care, a barrel of strife;

A barrel of unavailing regret;

A barrel of cares, a barrel of debts;

A barrel of hunger, of poison, of pain;

A barrel of hopes all blasted and vain;

A barrel of poverty, ruin and blight;

A barrel of tears that run in the night;

A barrel of crime, a barrel of groans;

A barrel of orphans' most pitiful moans;

A barrel of serpents that hiss as they pass;

That glow from the liquor in the bottom of the glass;

A barrel of falsehoods; a barrel of cries

That fall from the maniac's lips as he dies!

F. F. A. SPONSORS
SHOP EXHIBIT

At the last regular meeting of the Manassas F. F. A., it was decided to have a shop exhibit on the evening of May 22. At this exhibit, the articles made by the agriculture boys during the year were exhibited. The boys who made them explained their cost, uses, and the way in which they were made. Parents and friends of the boys attended the exhibit to see for themselves what is being done in this department of the school.

This year harrows have been made by John Waters, Alden Dodson, and Richard Vetter; wagon bodies by Ralph Fox, Gilbert Rollins, and Charles Lynn; screen doors by Clayton Libeau, Elmer Lunsford, Wilson Sut-phin and Herman Bryant; ironing board by Woodrow Smith; single and double trees by Wilson Sutphin, Raymond Davis and Herman Bryant, and bookcases by Erwin Clemens, Robert Whetzel and Harris Collins. These bookcases were made both for home use and for the teachers. The need of a filing cabinet and bulletin rack was filled by several boys working with Mr. Love. A book cabinet was made for the school by Harris Collins and Robert Whetzel.

A committee has been appointed and is making plans for a tour for this summer. It is hoped that it will be as successful as the one last year to the World's Fair.

14 HISTORIC TRAVEL ROUTES
REPRODUCED AT EXPOSITION

Fourteen historic travel routes which once played important roles in the march of civilization and were originally built on man's desire for gold, for trade, for free land, for conquest or for pleasure, will be reproduced in "Roads of the Pacific" as part of the Ford Exposition at the California Pacific International Exposition, San Diego, opening May 29.
Most of these roads today are modern automobile highways.

The 14 roads are being reproduced in 200-foot sections on the slope of the picturesque hill which lies east of the Ford Building at the California world's fair. Some of them are being shown as they are today. Others are being reproduced as they were built, some of them, such as the Gold Road across the Isthmus of Panama, and the Summer Palace Road from Peking (Peiping), being centuries old.

The sections of road make a continuous route more than half a mile in length along the sides of the arroyo of the Ford building, and visitors will be able to ride over them in new Ford V-8 cars. The terrain of each section is being landscaped to suggest the country in which the road runs.

Manassas Journal,
Manassas, Va.
Dear Sirs:

At the outset of this letter I wish to call attention to the word "Coquina" as you have it in my St. Augustine letter. The word should be "Coquina," pronounced Coker. I am sorry this word was spelt wrong as I wish my friends back home to know what it is and its uses. It is a kind of building material formed by small sea shells, being deposited by the sea untold centuries ago, in vast quantities and left to solidify and form a hard rocklike material. These deposits were made when the sea covered this territory. The deposits run from a few feet to perhaps a hundred feet in depth and miles long. You can judge of the value of Coquina as a building material, when I tell you that the old Spanish Fort, San Marco, now called Fort Marion, is built of this material quarried from the deposits just across Matanzas Bay from St. Augustine. The old fort has blocks of this material in its walls as large as a wagon bed. The builders wanted safety and could find no better material than Coquina. This old fort was started by the Spanish in 1638, finished in 1766, taking 118 years to build. No enemy has ever been able to capture it.

The above facts hold my reason for asking the correction of this word as appeared in my St. Augustine letter in your paper. I want my friends back home to know what wonders can be worked by an overruling Providence with so small and insignificant things as sea shells not larger than your thumb-nail.

Sunday evening we drove to New Smyrna 15 miles away. Leaving Daytona Beach at 4:00 p.m. we followed the beautiful drive along the Halifax River. The road was good and the drive through palm groves that shaded the way and also fine oaks, all hung with trailing moss, presented a very attractive and picturesque view. New Smyrna is situated on the Indian River in the famous orange belt of Florida. It is a very pretty little city of about 4000, set in these beautiful palm groves and other attractive native growth.

Over this 15 miles from Daytona Beach is not like the drive to Deland, or a good portion of the road to St. Augustine or the 81 miles to Silver Springs, for over miles and miles of these drives, one can't help but wonder where all the country people live for over miles and miles over other drives one can see nothing but a vast, apparently uninhabited countryside.

We followed the driveway along the Halifax River until within 2 or 3 miles of New Smyrna and then we drove along the Indian River until we reached our destination. By the way New Smyrna contests St. Augustine's claim for antiquity, but it is a claim only as St. Augustine has undisputed evidence for old age.

Yesterday we waited for the tide to go out and then left Daytona Beach driving along the ocean for 14 miles on a beach as smooth as glass to the inlet where the lighthouse is located. It was an exhilarating drive and far more interesting than the drive from Manassas to Independent Hill or Dumfries, through Jackson Lake.

This section of Florida is full of wonders and must be seen to be appreciated.

Here is something to wonder at. Down at the inlet two large rivers are formed out in the Atlantic at this point is a large sand bar. The water on one side flows out to the north and forms the Halifax, that on the other side of the sand bar flows south and forms the Indian River, both rivers having their source in the ocean. The back water from the ocean form perhaps a thousand small islands. A few years ago, when the boom was on, a company tried to utilize these numerous little islands by building houses on piles and having boats to go in and out. In other words they sought to make it a kind of second Venice, but it did not work. All I have written was of deep and absorbing interest to me. Just a few of my experiences. I wonder how "land-lubbers" can come to Florida and write such wonderful fishing stunts back home. Sometimes they write about catching a fish of such prodigious weight that staggers the old experienced Floridian who had never heard of such fish weight.

My observation is that not every tourist who casts his line in the water will succeed in landing such monsters. It takes an experienced fisherman to land a 150-pound tarpon or a 50-pound sailfish, so when one reports landing a half-ton tarpon or a 1-4 ton sailfish, these Florida fishermen "shake their heads."

Well there is one thing that helps the land-lubber and it is this: The Kodak fiends are resourceful and accommodating, when they see a little business ahead, so they take your picture standing by a 150-pound tarpon or a sailfish whether you caught it or not. They do this further down the state, but not here at Daytona Beach.

Another experience—A few days ago I was sick and went to a large drug store to have a prescription filled. Coming into the store from the bright sunlight outside, my eyes had to become accustomed to the more mellow light in the store. The prescription invited me to come back to lower end of store where his prescription case was located.

I noticed a number of small tables down the center of the store occupied by ladies eating ice cream etc. I did not, at once, take in the occupants of the last table near the prescription case, but when my eyes became normal, I was amazed and shocked, thinking I had inadvertently entered a bathroom full of ladies fresh from the showers and were not ready to receive company, for I saw no clothes. It was very embarrassing to me, but they did not seem to mind it, so I beat a hasty retreat to the front of the store. When I was finally handed my package by the druggist, he explained that they were a group of NUDESTS. He further said the nudists were the most popular people down here, with the Relief Workers. I wanted to know why this popularity? He said they were popular with the Relief Workers, because they were so easy to wait on and satisfy, because they asked for little food and NO CLOTHES AT ALL!

I decided that was no place for me, being the only one "fully clothed" but doubtful about being "in my right mind."

After leaving that curious experience, my thoughts about this matter ran something like this: Beauty is something we all admire, whether it shows itself in a fine horse, or comes to us in that grandeur of the orb of day, as it rises from out of the valley just over the seeming hill of the great ocean and then rides majestically across the blue vaulted dome of the skies and at last sinks to rest in magnificent splendor behind the western horizon, or whether we see it in a great painting by a master artist, or in the flower-decked yard with its loveliness and fragrance, or whether it reveals itself to us in the symmetrically modded and exquisitely chiseled lineaments of the Nudist, from whatever source it may come, we doff our hats and bow acknowledging our admiration. When you have all that be said in extolling the charms of the Nudists, just remember that they with all their "endearing young charms," cannot shine beside the transcendent glory of the more winsome and conservative modesty of their sisters in dresses—long dresses at that!

BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Sunday, May 25, at 8 o'clock, Rev. Charles T. Warner, rector of St. Alban's Episcopal Church, Mt. St. Alban, gave the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of Manassas High School. His text was taken from Acts first eight verse, "Ye shall be witnesses unto me." The sermon was a powerful, eloquent and spiritual one, a thrilling appeal to the young people to be a witness for Christ, wherever their lot was cast! Loyal to His command in this age of turmoil, because of the lack of consecration to our Saviour's challenge "Ye shall be witnesses."

Norbert Mountjoy, Billy Bohlayer and Billy Mitchell sang the Gregorian mass with organ accompaniment. At the elevation the bugles sounded and the drums rolled. When all was over Taps was sounded, and the procession reformed and left the church in the order in which it entered. It was a most beautiful and impressive ceremony.

By 3 o'clock in the afternoon hundreds of friends had arrived. They came from Baltimore, Washington and Richmond. The perfect weather made it delightful to be in the great out-of-doors. Cars were parked everywhere, even in oak lane. The front of the administration building was under guard and the long porch was filled with parents and friends of the school.

The drill master, Lieut. Lawrence Scott Carson, Cav. Reserves, Washington, D. C., judges from Fort Myer had arrived. The honor guest was Lieut. Col. Frederick A. Ramsey, U.S.A., Washington, D. C. The officers took their places on the reviewing stand and Linton Hall School was ready to do her best.

The following drills were executed in masterly fashion: Company drill, battalion drill, extended order drill, company competitive drills, individual competitive drills and parade. Awards: The best drilled company, Co. A, received the silver trophy. Benjamin Musser VI the medal for best drilled cadet. Scholarship medal, highest average, Francis Reading. Popularity medal by vote of entire school, Lieut. Adj. Louis Kengla. The honor of receiving these awards from Lieut. Col. Ramsey was highly appreciated.

The important announcements of all officers for the coming year was then made. The Linton Hall band, led by Captain Schaefer of Washington, D. C., had taken its place on the campus and participated in some of the drills. There was guard mounting and retreat. The sight was inspiring when the Star-Spangled Banner was played. From Lieut. Col. Ramsey to the four-year-old cadet, all stood at "salute." Captain Schaefer then led the band of 29 cadets to the grand stand and a delightful concert followed. It was a beautiful conclusion to a perfect day.

Thirty Million Miles of Ford Economy

More miles. Faster miles. Greater economy... that is the story of the Ford V-8. There are conclusive figures from owners to show that it is the most economical Ford car ever built.

A particularly interesting and complete report of costs comes from a national fleet owner who has owned 354 Ford cars which have run more than thirty million miles in business use.
