

ALBRIGHT HITS FOREST SERVICE

Charges Political Activity to U. S. Bureau.

Speaking at the National Parks Conference at Rapidan, Va., on Wednesday, Horace M. Albright, former director of the National Park Service, characterized the activities of the U. S. Forest Service as a serious potential danger.

"The United States Forest Service, because of inordinate ambition to control all or most of the conservation activities and because of political support it has built up in all parts of the country, is a serious potential danger to success of both National and State park projects," Albright declared. He spoke at the fifteenth annual conference on State Parks.

The park authorities, gathered at former President Hoover's camp, also heard Robert Fechner, director of emergency conservation work, warn communities they "must figure costs of work now being done for them at no cost."

After the meeting the conference moved across some 10 miles of the picturesque Skyline Drive and down a mountainside to the camp. Governor Peery, scheduled to welcome the group, was detained in Richmond.

In his prepared address, Albright also attacked the Forest Service for its "ceaseless opposition to conservation divisions of the Interior Department, which recently has taken the form of bold offensives against Ickes' bill to change the name of the Interior Department to the Department of Conservation and Works, a more characteristic and suitable name." He declared Ickes was one of the greatest conservationists in the nation's history.

SCHOOL BOARD SELECTS HAYMARKET INSPECTOR

The County School Board held its regular meeting yesterday with all members present.

A large volume of routine business was transacted. Bids were received for drilling the well at the new Haymarket High School and for the heating plant at Dumfries, but no final action was taken in either case.

Ground having already been broken at Haymarket, Mr. C. B. Allen was appointed inspector of construction.

On petition from the Manassas Fire Department permission was given to use the athletic field for their annual carnival. A donation from the Kiwanis Club was received for the commercial scholarship.

The auditing committee was appointed with the following membership: H. P. Davis, W. L. Lloyd and R. C. Haydon.

The Board adjourned to meet again on July 10.

TO PLAY OCCOQUAN

Manassas will play Occoquan on Saturday, June 22, on the Occoquan diamond at 3 p.m.

KIWANIS HEAR ABOUT NEW YORK PAPER

The Kiwanis Club last Friday evening learned much about the inside doings of the great New York Times through the lips of one of their linotype operators, Mr. W. H. Woltz, formerly a typesetter on the Fredericksburg Lance and whose father was one time editor of that paper.

Announcement was made at this meeting that Edwin Beachley had accepted appointment for the scholarship in the life-saving school at Annapolis and has already entered on his course of instruction which will continue through the early part of July.

At the special request of Ed Hill the Kiwanis Club changed the time of its meeting, the first week in July from Friday evening to Wednesday evening. It is expected that Ed will be present at that time but program is yet very much of a mystery.

BYRD SPEAKS AT WILLIAMSBURG

Urges Preservation of Constitutional Rights.

On Monday evening, June 10, Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia delivered the address to the graduates of William and Mary College. The Senator paid high honors to his compatriot, Carter Glass, and also to the late Dr. Lyon Tyler and other men prominent in the history of Virginia since the beginning of the Commonwealth.

Recent legislation and affairs affecting the general good of the United States tincture to a large degree the tenor of Senator Byrd's remarks which are quoted in parts as follows:

"... Today many people are inclined to ridicule maxims in the form of pointed truths that are obvious. These truths may be obvious, but they are so often honored in the breach rather than in the observance that repeating them is good for us as industry, perseverance, and thrift are equally essential for success today as ever before.

"Here in Williamsburg at the Raleigh Tavern, a very wise man wrote the Bill of Rights which is now a part of the Constitution of nearly every state of the Union. George Mason in this document for the preservation of liberty said:

"That no free government or the blessings of liberty can be preserved to any people but by firm adherence to justice, moderation, temperance, frugality and virtue, and by frequent recurrence to fundamental principles."

"These fundamental truths, my friends, are just as valid today as when George Mason uttered them, and their application offers the only sure road to happiness and success.

"Just as there is no royal road to learning there is no substitute for industry and hard work if we as a national or as individuals are to continue our forward march of progress. The economic law that what you spend you must pay has existed since the beginning of time.

"Such homely truths; that your happiness depends upon a balanced budget in your personal affairs applies with equal force to a state or the nation; that to succeed you must do today's work today and not tomorrow; that you must develop a system by which you work and avoid hazardous methods; these may be called by some, 'prep school' stuff, but their practice is of the stuff that makes success.

"You will go into a world of toil and tumult where the fight is fierce and requires that you deny your appetites and strengthen your spirits and discipline your powers until you are in the pink of condition to make good. If you do this you should win, for remember that America is still a land of opportunity. No one can justify failure here with the excuse that success is based on 'Pull' and that only the privileged can succeed. Hundreds of leaders in both business and the professions have risen from the bottom to eminence by their own ability to climb and not by pull from above.

"Let no one destroy our faith in America, but let no one deny your right to censure things that tend to lessen your faith in America. However much government has interfered with private business the individual is still free here to say what he thinks, to cherish the religious convictions he prefers, to appeal to honest courts to safeguard his personal liberty and to protect his private property. He lives under a government of laws and not of men and is protected, even when part of a minority, by a Constitution that builds (continued on back page)

"The Future of Virginia's State Park System"

Speech of Honorable Wilbur C. Hall, Chairman of the State Commission on Conservation and Development, before the Fifteenth National Conference on State Parks, at Skyland, Va., Wednesday, June 19.

"In order to discuss intelligently the future of the Virginia State Park System, it is necessary to outline briefly the manner in which the parks were acquired and the developments the lands for the purpose of establishing State Parks is one of the results of the program that Senator Byrd initiated during his incumbency as Governor of Virginia.

"At that time he set up the State Commission on Conservation and Development, one of the duties of which was the acquisition of the Shenandoah National Park. It was recognized that the work of establishing the Shenandoah National Park would awaken in the people of Virginia as a consciousness of the wonderful opportunities that our State offered in the way of natural wonders and of scenic and historic possibilities. In order to take advantage of them, not only for the purpose of giving our people and those of other states places for pleasure, but also for the betterment of our State by reason of tourist traffic, which might be drawn here by such a wonderful development, the great task of acquiring the thousands of acres in the Shenandoah Park area was undertaken. This was the beginning of the park movement in Virginia, but the Shenandoah Park was promoted and acquired with the understanding that it was to be a National Park, to be maintained and developed by the Federal Government.

"The Shenandoah Park was followed by another Federal project, the great Colonial National Monument, which includes the Yorktown Battlefield area, the Williamsburg Restoration and the greater part of Jamestown Island. The State Commission on Conservation and Development, after great effort, was able to bring into being this project, the possibilities of which are not yet realized.

"These two Federal projects led the Commission to understand that the National Park System in Virginia should be supplemented by a State Park system, both for the purpose of bringing tourists to the State and, even more, for the purpose of giving the citizens of Virginia the enjoyment of the mountains and the seashore at a cost within the reach of any pocketbook. At the same time the Commission felt that the highways and the public buildings of the State could be vastly improved by professional advice on landscaping offered to the public.

"In order to accomplish this end it was necessary to show the public that Virginia should be a leader in the State Park movement rather than a laggard in recreational parks, as it was at that time. A program was worked out that had its object the making of the people not only beauty-conscious but Virginia-conscious as well. The Division of State Parks was created with this end in view and has worked constantly toward its attainment. At the meeting of State Parks at St. Louis and again at the Virginia Beach Conference, the Division brought to the attention of the people the activities being carried on for the purpose of obtaining lands for public use.

"Standards were set up to govern the acquisition of lands for State Parks:

"1. That all State Parks should be sufficiently distinctive and notable to interest people from distant parts of the State and from other states, rather than merely to attract those from the region in which they are situated; also that they be situated beyond the limits of urban and suburban communities.

"2. That they be characterized by scenic and recreational resources of a kind unlikely to be conserved and made available for enjoyment under private ownership, or which, under private ownership, were likely to be monopolized so as to make it difficult or impossible for the average citizen to secure enjoyment of them except at a high cost.

"3. That they be geographically distributed with a view to securing as wide and representative a variety of types as the State afforded.

"After considerable investigation of other State Park systems and numerous consultations with officials (Continued on back page)

NOTED EDITOR VISITS TOWN

Miss Bertha Robinson, editor of the Orange Observer, called on us yesterday and we were delighted to note how well and charming our distinguished visitor appeared.

Miss Bertha is one of the veteran newspaper women of the South and numbers among her intimate friends nearly all of the prominent families of the State. We sincerely hope that she will come to see us again very soon.

Miss Bertha operates one of the last two old-fashioned Washington hand presses used by any newspaper in the State of Virginia.

SEWING MACHINES NEEDED

The sewing rooms in Prince William County need a few additional sewing machines. If there is anyone who will lend a machine, it will be well cared for, and very much appreciated.

This work furnishes employment to 59 women in the county, they are employed under the Prince William County Emergency Relief, and the work is carried on in the Haymarket, Waterfall, Aden, Dumfries and Manassas communities. Mrs. Celestine Brown is supervisor and well-made garments are being produced each week.

In the death of Mr. Sadd, Manassas sustains a severe loss. A genial gentleman, a good Christian citizen, a progressive business man has passed from our midst. Always cheerful, helpful and kindly, he made a host of friends who will remember him with love through the years to come.

Mr. Sadd was born in Wapping, Conn., Feb. 16, 1868, the son of Henry W. and Sarah Greene Sadd, and married Miss Lena E. Townsend in 1893. He was in the eighth generation from John Sadd who came from Essex, England, in 1674 to Hartford, Conn., and married Hepzibah Pratt, of Wethersfield, Conn.

Mr. Sadd was a New Englander of old inheritance and held the political ideals of his ancestors, yet he was identified socially and in business in a town that but a short time before the birth of Mr. Sadd reverberated to the peal of cannon and the rattle of musketry against New England. Not only was he identified here but loved and trusted.

He was always ready for a joke, always ready to stop and chat a little and always ready to lend a hand and open his pocket book for civic uplift. Once, on being asked how he liked Virginians he replied, "I think a lot of them and they are good friends to me."

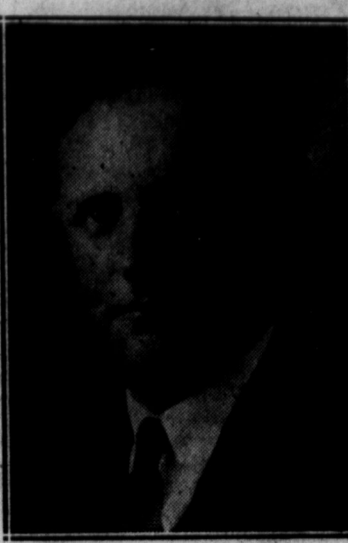

Such men as Mr. Sadd, by their lives, help to destroy prejudice and spread brotherly love. The people of Manassas deeply mourn his untimely death.

A Friend.

MANASSAS BELLE A LOVELY BRIDE

Wedding a Big Social Event.

A beautiful wedding of much interest was solemnized last Wednesday evening, June 12, at 8 o'clock, in the Manassas Baptist Church when Miss Meaker Elizabeth Burke became the bride of Mr. Earl Watson Hurst.

The church was tastefully decorated with flowers, evergreens and white candles, the altar being banked with masses of mountain laurel. The music was furnished by Miss Virginia Spelden, organist.

Preceding the ceremony, Mr. Charles Armistead Sinclair sang two solos, "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly," the latter being sung as the mother of the bride, Mrs. J. H. Burke, was ushered into the church. She was dressed in black lace and wore a corsage of Richmond roses. Mrs. T. R. Hurst, mother of the groom, wore a maroon chiffon suit with a corsage of Joanna Hill roses.

As the wedding march was played, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. She was attractively gowned in white satin, fashioned on Princess lines with a veil of tulle held in place by a coronet cap of old lace and pearl sand carried a bouquet of calla lilies.

The maid of honor, Miss Jo Hurst, sister of the groom, was lovely in blue and carried a large bouquet of yellow flowers. The bridesmaids were Misses Margaret Thorne, Mary Virginia Conway, and Frances Burke of Washington, Misses Ellen Bisson, Christine Meetze Janet Trusler and Nina Dalton of Manassas and Miss Rene Yoffee of Harrisburg, Pa. They wore long net dresses of pastel shades with picture hats and carried huge bouquets of spring flowers of contrasting colors. The colors and their contrasts were green with pink, orchid with blue, yellow with orchid and pink with green which carried out the color scheme of a "Rainbow Wedding."

Miss Mary Mason Davis as flower girl was very prettily dressed in white taffeta and carried a bouquet of variegated spring flowers.

The groom had for his best man Mr. Robert Davis and the ushers included Messrs. Ted Reynolds of Washington, Robert Leith, Edwin Beachley, John Roseberry, John Henry Burke, Jr., Stanley Owens, Ralph Sharrett and Maurice Smith of Manassas.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Burke where only the bridal party and immediate families of the bride and groom were in attendance, after which the young couple left for an extended tour through southern Virginia.

GRANGERS ENJOY DANCE

Bull Run Grange met at Masonic Hall, Haymarket, last Friday evening for the regular meeting, and after necessary business was transacted, enjoyed a square dance until after midnight that was participated in by nearly every one there, and a really good time was had by all.

Next Friday evening, the 21st, there will be an initiation of new members. The first and second degrees being put on by the local degree team, composed of some of the younger members.

There is a large group to be initiated, and a "big night" is anticipated by all.

AUTUMN FETES DRAW TOURISTS

Civic Clubs and Chamber of Commerce Groups Approve Program to Boost Trade.

Approval of a suggestion to hold autumn celebrations in Virginia this fall, arranged as a calendar of events to help bring more tourists to the State, was voiced yesterday by civic club and Chamber of Commerce representatives in session at the John Marshall Hotel in Richmond under the sponsorship of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce.

Jay W. Johns of Charlottesville, president of the State chamber, was empowered to appoint a committee which will give careful study as to the scope and nature of the celebrations. This committee will then submit a tentative financial budget to each locality for participation by communities throughout the State.

Virginia's estimated $75,000,000 tourist business will come in for additional discussion and planning at a conference of chamber of commerce presidents and secretaries this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Richmond Chamber of Commerce.

Governor Peery, Lieutenant-Governor Price, representing Mayor Bright; Chairman Wilbur C. Hall of the State Conservation and Development Commission, and J. A. Brown, executive manager of the American Automobile Association, are scheduled to lead discussions on ways and means to promote Virginia's tourist trade.

Three distinct keynotes were struck at yesterday's conference. One was that the autumn festivals should carry an appeal apart from that of Virginia Garden Week; the second, offered by B. W. Norton of Colonial Williamsburg, Incorporated, was that Virginia Week, with Virginians traveling over the State to know their own health better, should be tried first as an experiment, with the appeal later extended to the nation. A third keynote sounded was that sectionalism should be forever buried in Virginia.

Mr. Norton emphasized that autumn celebrations should be different from Garden Club Week. "You are talking about a new line of merchandising, and any plan should be carefully thought out," he declared. "Other States have scenic beauty and historical associations, and Virginia will be competing against all other States for the large and lucrative fall travel business. The autumn festival appeal should not be confused with Garden Week."

MRS. R. C. HAYDON ENTER- TAINS FOR MISS BUSHONG

On Monday evening, the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Haydon was the scene of a very pretty shower in honor of Miss Frances Bushong whose marriage to Mr. Sedrick Saunders will take place June 27.

The bride-to-be and guests were seated in the spacious living room of the Haydon home when Miss Bushong's tiny-tot Sunday school class made more picturesque the occasion as a bridal party.

Little Mary Kathryn Seeley as the bride and John Henry Stauff, the groom, with their bridesmaids and groomsmen formed an adorable mock wedding. They marched through the room and assembled on the sun porch which was very beautifully decorated into a flower garden. Miss Bushong was then ushered into the garden by Dicky Haydon who requested her to open the tiny garden-gate which was an outstanding feature of the garden.

When the gate was opened a huge pile of lovely gifts was found much to the surprise of the honor guest.

Ice cream and cake was served with a little colored paper sprinkling can on each plate.

CLARENDON A. C. BEATS GRAYS

The Clarendon A. C. visited Occoquan Sunday, and trounced the Grays, 12 to 3. As usual, errors played a major part in the downfall of the home team. Breen deserved to win had he gotten something like fair support. Win or lose, good breaks or bad, Breen can be found striving to win until the last man is out.

The Grays, that is the major part, can "take it" and our fans can depend on our being out there fighting to win on Saturday afternoon when the Manassas team visits Occoquan, and on Sunday when the Fort Hunt Rangers, one of the strongest teams in the league, play the Grays at Occoquan.

The Grays, under new management, will be at home this Sunday as it has now for several weeks. This is due to a change in schedule. Come out now. Later on the Grays will be traveling to return these games.

Remember: Manassas at Occoquan Saturday; Rangrs at Occoquan Sunday.

VIRGINIA JERSEY CATTLE BREEDERS TO HOLD FIELD DAY

W. M. Johnson, Manassas, president of the Virginia Jersey Cattle Club, announces that the Jersey cattle breeders and dairymen of Virginia will hold their fourth annual field day, Thursday, July 11, at James McGee's "Bloomsburg Jersey Farm" near Fredericksburg.

The Jersey breeders and dairymen of Spotsylvania County will act as hosts in entertaining the visitors from other parts of the state. T. T. Curtis, secretary of the Virginia Jersey Cattle Club, and W. R. Linthicum, agricultural agent in Spotsylvania County, in co-operation with the extension dairyman, V. P. I., have completed a dairy program of wide appeal to Jersey breeders in Virginia.

Among those scheduled to address the field day assemblage are M. H. Fohrman, senior dairy husbandman, U. S. Bureau of Dairying; H. E. Dennison, field secretary, American Jersey Cattle Club, and J. R. Hutcheson, director of extension division, V.P.I., Blacksburg. Special arrangements have been made for educational demonstrations of practical dairy herd management methods that have proved profitable. In addition there will be an organized tour of the newly-constructed U. S. Military Park under the direction of Leland Rowe, owner of "Brompton Jersey Farm," Fredericksburg.

CALEDONIA GREENE LIGHTNER

Caledonia Greene Lightner was born in Augusta County, Va., about twenty miles from Staunton in the year 1871. Her father, Nimrod Greene, belonged to the famous Black Horse Cavalry of Fauquier which rendered such good service in the War Between the States. Her mother was Virginia Wheatly of "Laurel Hill," the old Wheatly home in Culpeper County, and where Caledonia spent her girlhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Lightner moved to Prince William early in the present century, settling at "Maple Spring" near Haymarket. She joined the Eighth Virginia Regional Chapter, U. D. C., in June 1926 and was a most acceptable member, helping in all possible ways. Her beautiful recitations of poetry were enjoyed by all and brightened several otherwise dull meetings. Amicable, kind and loyal she will long be missed by the whole chapter.

She died at Maple Spring, after a long illness in the afternoon of Friday, May 31, and was buried in St. Paul's Church yard, Haymarket. A smile on her face after death was noted by friends and left its comforting impression of all being well with her.

"HELLDORADO" IS THRILLING, VIVID DRAMA

Jesse L. Lasky, pioneer producer, and James Cruze, veteran director, the combination which made "The Coveted Wagon," "Old Ironsides," and other million dollar spectacles of the silent film era, have once again joined forces for the making of a spectacular movie.

In their first joint production since sound arrived on the screen, Lasky and Cruze have re-united for the making of "Hellodoro," for Fox Film. This thrilling new production—a story of youthful romance and adventure in a desolated "ghost-town"—will be seen at the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Monday.

Since he joined the Fox Film Corporation two years ago, as a producer, Lasky has promised Cruze a directorial fling at "another epic." In "Hellodoro," a story of terrific sweep and scope, laid outdoors and in a Western setting, he felt he had a "natural" for Cruze to direct. After studying the script, Cruze agreed with enthusiasm.

For the starring role in "Hellodoro," Lasky and Cruze chose Richard Arlen, who has just concluded an eleven-year contract with Paramount and in this film plays his first role as a freelance player. It was Lasky, incidentally, who gave Arlen his initial opportunity on the screen, and launched him to fame in "Wings."

Madge Evans has the leading feminine role, opposite Arlen, and in supporting parts are Ralph Bellamy, returning to the screen after a long vacation abroad; Henry B. Walthall, the "Little Colonel" of "Birth of a Nation" fame; Helen Jerome Eddy, James Gleason, Gertrude Short, Patricia Farr, Stanley Fields, Stepin Fetchit and Lucky Hurlie.

Frances Hyland wrote the screen play and Rex Taylor handled the adaptation. Frank Mitchell Dazey supplied the original story from which they worked.

AN EXPLANATION

A recent banquet given to Miss Eugena Osborn by the graduating class was sponsored by the mothers of the graduates. In a previous press release, it might appear as if the ladies of Trinity gave it whereas the elaborate and enjoyable affair was one originating entirely through the graduating class.

Mr. D. J. Arrington,
Clerk County Democratic Committee,
Manassas, Va.
Dear Sir:

It has come to my attention that the petition filed by Mr. T. M. Russell in connection with his candidacy for the nomination to the office of sheriff of Prince William County is probably not signed by the requisite number of voters of Prince William County, and that the Committee, therefore, is debating the legality of certifying Mr. Russell's name to the County Electoral Board as a candidate in the August primary.

While I would like you to understand that I do not consider it my province to dictate to the Committee, or to the proper officers thereof, what action shall be taken in the premises, yet I want it further distinctly understood that I am raising no objection to Mr. Russell's name being certified as a candidate and that if my wishes in the matter could govern the action of the Committee his name would be certified as having complied with the laws governing Primary Elections.

Very truly yours,
J. P. KERLIN.

FURR BESTS ADAIR TO DEFEAT MACS IN HARD-FOUGHT GAME BY SCORE 3-2

Poor Decision at Third Base in Ninth Enables Middleburg to Score Winning Run.

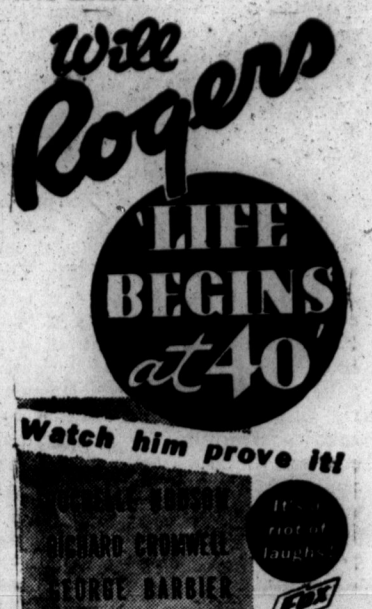

Old man jinx, who seem to be dogging the Macs the last few games, popped up again Sunday, this time in a dark blue suit, the Macs going down to defeat for the second successive time by a one-run margin. But Furr, who tosses them up from the wrong side, was a big factor in the Macs defeat. Going into the seventh inning he had pitched in masterful fashion, granting but four hits and fanning ten over the six-inning stretch. In only one inning, the third, had he been in any difficulty. In this inning the Macs loaded the bases with one out on successive singles by Buckner and Lynn and a walk to Godfrey but Furr forced Wurdemann to pop to Frame and fanned Brenner to retire the side. Middleburg, in the meantime, had picked up a two-run lead, scoring single runs in each of the fourth and sixth innings. In each instance, the trouble started after two outs, C. Hartman's double followed by Waddell's single accounting for the first and Waddell's double and Mankin's single resulting in the second.

The Macs, after being blanked for the first six innings, assaulted Furr

Every citizen who takes pride in local institutions should possess a copy of this charming book, which is on sale for 40 cents at the office of the Prince William County School Board, Manassas, Va., or will be sent postpaid for 50 cents.

The game seemed destined to go into extra innings as Adair disposed of the first two men in the ninth but Downs drew a walk, stole second and continued on to third on Buckner's low throw. Brenner recovered the ball and threw to Godfrey who to everybody but the umpire, seemingly had the runner out at third by the proverbial country mile. Frame, after taking two strikes, cracked one into center field and away went the ball game.

Next Sunday, the Macs play hosts to Herndon on Swavely Field and have high hopes of regaining their winning stride. Gardner, a right hander, will probably be on the mound for the visitors.

NOW WILL ROGERS PLAYS HOG SIREN

Two hundred grunting, galloping pigs stampede in Will Rogers' latest picture, "Life Begins at 40," which will be featured next Wednesday at the Dixie Theatre in Manassas.

During the production of this Fox Film picture, which shows America's favorite humorist in a comedy of errors as a small-town editor, the pigs seemed to enjoy the experience of acting. They frolicked about and refused to be recaptured, to the intense disgust of the property man.

Will Rogers, in one scene of his picture, described as a search after the "fun-tain of youth," creates a pandemonium in a hog show with his hog-calls. To create veracity, Director George Marshall engaged Hank Bell as instructor.

As the porkers were released through the pen's trap door, Will Rogers, Slim Summerville, Roger Imhof, and the instructor let fly their best siren calls.

The pigs surged forward, knocking the quartette off their feet, and tearing down a specially built platform from which George Barbier was speaking.

Casualties were nil, but the damage was great.

After the scene was taken, Rogers viewed the wreckage. Beaming with pride, he exclaimed:

"Boys, that's what I call a job of first-class hog-calling."

Many other hilarious situations occur in this Sol M. Wurtzel production. In the supporting cast, in addition to those already mentioned, are Richard Cromwell and Rochelle Hudson in the romantic leads, George Barbier, Jane Darwell, Slim Summerville, Sterling Holloway, Thomas Beck, Roger Imhof, Charles Sellon, John R. Badford and Ruth Gillette.

"Life Begins at 40" was suggested by Walter B. Pitkins' book success.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"God the Preserver of Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 16.

The golden text was "The Lord giveth wisdom: . . . He keepeth the paths of judgment, and preserveth the way of his saints" (Proverbs 2: 6, 8).

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "But when ye pray, use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking. Be not ye therefore like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him" (Matthew 6: 7, 8).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "God is Love. Can we ask Him to be more? God is intelligence. Can we inform the infinite Mind of anything He does not already comprehend? Do we expect to change perfection? Shall we plead for more at the open fount, which is pouring forth more than we accept?" (p. 2).

CATHARPIN

The ice cream and strawberry festival held by the young people of Sudley last Friday night was so well attended that everything was soon sold out; in fact a little too soon for both patrons and the organization. The evening was one of those hot, sultry kind which brought with it a very heavy rain late in the evening so that it was hard to get away. Several cars were storm-staid and did not get home until morning. Nature is a fine old girl generally speaking, but when she gets into one of her weeping spells she is not very easy to handle; and this seems to have been one of those.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Pattie, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Pattie and Mrs. George Davis motored to Falls Church on Wednesday of last week calling upon their cousin, Mrs. Nan Pattie Brooks, of Roanoke, who was visiting at the home of Mr. N. Currell Pattie of that city. Mr. Brooks was a member of the Shriner's band and brought his wife along for this very pleasant family gathering.

After being closed for several years the Fairview church, a part of the Sudley circuit, has been reopened and Sunday school and preaching services are now being at that point. At the time it was closed there were not enough interested people to maintain an organization, but lately, due to population changes and the advent of a new leader in the person of Mr. Henry Maddox, the church has been reopened, grounds cleared, new steps installed and various repairs made and a lively Sunday school is now enjoyed as well as preaching services on third and fifth Sundays.

The Sudley branch of the Farrington organization attended a meeting of that body in the Nokesville church on Thursday night of last week at which about 150 members were present. This general organization is composed of the young people from the several church units, Catlett, Manassas, Nokesville, Remington, Sudley and Warrenton, and meets every alternate month and are entertained by the different groups in turn. At the last meeting, Sudley tied with another group in having the highest percentage of membership present and will float the banner for one month. Sudley's turn to entertain will fall in October.

Miss Frances Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Smith of Gainesville was a week-end visitor with her friend, Miss Bertha Pattie, last week.

Just to keep things from getting monotonous, chicken thieves have been reported in the community helping themselves quite generously to the hen population of some of our neighbors. You know a good remedy for diseases of this kind is a good shot gun.

Rev. and Mrs. K. D. Swecker and family of Colesville, Md., were recent guests for the day at Oakwood. Mrs. Swecker is rapidly recovering from her recent illness and operation.

The Home Makers organization of Prince William County met as per announcement in Sudley Church on Thursday of last week with Mrs. C. C. Lynn as president and Mrs. P. B. Senseney as secretary. This body of ladies has been entertained by the Woman's Missionary Society at Sudley for four years in a row and are always glad to welcome them to this part of the county. The attendance was not as large as expected due to a number of other things going on in the county at one and the same time, but the 28 members present were as full of energy and pep as the hot day would permit.

Wheat harvest is just in the offing. Tractors and binders are just now very busy cutting orchard grass for the seed crop. This seed crop has become a very important item for the farmer to conjure with and much is being raised to supply both the home and foreign demand. Some of the seed from this section has been shipped to the Pacific coast via the Panama canal, hence the activity.

A large congregation was present at Sudley last Sunday morning when the presiding elder, Dr. J. Howard Wells, delivered a memorable discourse from the text "Ye are sold for a price." We can not describe it; it was wonderful though mighty sad in spots when we come to a realization of just what poor, miserable, cheap devils we make of ourselves sometimes.

Last Saturday being the 25th wedding anniversary of the Rev. and Mrs. Sapp, the Missionary Society arranged a dinner in their home at the Stone House Inn where they were joined by the Rev. J. Howard Wells and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. R. McDonald after the morning church services. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald were sent as guests of the Sudley Young People's organization and all enjoyed one of those most delightful dinners for which this famous inn is noted.

We have been hearing much these days about "Regimentation" as it is applied to the New Deal. Very little is said in its favor but quite considerable against it. It is a word that has come to light with the present administration and is very familiar to the Press; so to make sure about it we looked it up in the dictionary and find its definition very short; it is defined as "enforced organization." By some writers it is spoken of as paralleling in force and effect the "German goosestep," which in turn means blind obedience to a command. To the American people who boast of their "freedom" and look upon themselves as "free agents," this interpretation is not pleasant; it carries with it a feeling of repugnance and resentment at the idea of being ordered around, forced to obey orders or to be just a "tool" or a "chattel," to go and come at someone's command. Naturally, the American spirit of Freedom can not tolerate, much less endure, any abridgment of the people's right to think and decide for themselves. Much is also being said just now about "States Rights" since it seems that this "regimentation" is reaching out to the different Commonwealths in a dictatorial capacity and telling them just what to do. Not only that but if the "Powers" are not obeyed they soon tell them where to head in, and they get none of the "Four Billion," notwithstanding said Commonwealths are taxed to the limit to pay the bills.

But, come to think of it, regimentation has been going on in our political system for years upon years, but we never knew before just what it was. We called it "Boss" and "Bossism." The Big Boss of the State would call down to the lesser "Boss" in the counties, and the "lesser boss" would call down to the "still lesser boss" in the districts, and the "still lesser boss" in the district would call down to the "precinct boss." So while we thought it was "Bossism" we seemed satisfied; but now that we have found out it is not "Bossism" but "Regimentation" that is bothering us, we, for the first time, apparently, have found out that we don't like it. So there you are.

Well when the Doctor is called in to see a patient, the first thing he does is to feel the pulse, have them stick out their tongues, asks a number of questions about regulatory affairs, and when satisfied, proceeds to a diagnosis. When he is satisfied as to just what the matter is, he at once proceeds to administer the remedy. So now, after all these years of dissatisfaction with political systems, with Bossisms and whatever has kept us disgruntled, we now have found out just what the trouble is. It is REGIMENTATION and it seems we do not like it. Now then it is up to you to prescribe the remedy.

FARRINGTON YOUNG PEOPLES UNION MEET AT NOKESVILLE

The Farrington Young Peoples Union met at Nokesville, June 13, with a large crowd of young people present.

Catlett had charge of the worship program. Miss Dorothy Ordwine made a talk about Massanetta. She told of the beautiful scenery at Massanetta as well as the splendid training one would receive there.

A new organization has come into the Union which is Midland. There was a tie for the banner between Sudley and Midland. They decided one should keep it one month and the other the next month.

The new officers were elected for the coming year and they will take office at the next regular meeting which is at Catlett August 8. They were as follows: President, Miss Margaret Turner of Warrenton; vice-president, Mr. Layton Laws of Manassas; secretary, Miss Leda Sowers of Sudley; treasurer, Mr. Jack Price of Catlett, and publicity superintendent, Mr. Vernon Wood of Nokesville.

After the election of officers we went out in front of the church and played games, then went back into the church where delightful refreshments were served.

THE FUTURE OF VIRGINIA'S PARK SYSTEM

responsible for their development, it was further determined that no areas should be accepted of less than one thousand acres. The reason for this is perfectly obvious to all, for from observation and experience, it has been made evident that sometimes a scenic gem is ruined by reason of there not being enough secondary areas to protect it.

"Many other important problems had to be faced, one of which was to ascertain the extent of National holdings, as represented in the Shenandoah National Park, Colonial National Monument, Wakefield, etc., in order that in the development of a State Park System there would be no overlapping. The fact was also recognized that parks situated in our mountains, magnificent as they might be from the standpoint of beauty, would not be complete unless water in the form of lakes should be present; studies made had proved that the use made of parks in all states was greater where recreative possibilities in the form of water existed.

"Another principle adopted was that the main acreage should be donated to the State, yet that no property should be accepted that was not of State Park calibre. In two cases (that of the Parks of Staunton River and Westmoreland), the Commission diverged from its established principle and bought the main acreage; in each case the County Board of Supervisors appropriated sums of money toward the purchase of additional lands necessary to development.

"With these principles determined on and with educational and research work carried on, when the President's emergency program was launched the Commission was ready to take advantage of its opportunities. The result is that Virginia now possesses six recreational parks situated geographically in such a manner that only two and one-half counties in the State will not be within a fifty-mile radius of a park (including the Shenandoah National Park).

"We also have under construction experimental areas situated in Chesterfield County and several wayside areas under the jurisdiction of the Highway Department, all of which are being developed by CCC labor.

"In making the developments of our properties we take advantage of the preliminary studies and confine our activities to a type of development we believe to be in keeping with the best in the modern trend of State Park theory and development. We, too, always keep in mind that we are endeavoring to preserve Virginia's own particular individuality and to present to the public clear-cut specimens of her scenery.

"We are living in an era when all the standards by which progress was made in the park field in the past have been changed. Formerly a state acquired one, or perhaps two areas, as a beginning for its Park system; by process of experimentation it would gradually acquire information that would aid in the development of any additions to its system. Our problem is entirely different, in that we have begun with a State Park System and its future depends entirely upon the method of approach. While general experience is very helpful, I think it is conceded that each State has its own peculiar difficulties; therefore, it is with pleasure that I welcome this opportunity to meet and take counsel with those whose experience in such fields puts them in a position to aid us in our decisions.

"The future! What does it hold for the State Parks of Virginia?

"We believe that there is an opportunity to interest the people of America (aside from scenic and recreational values) in the historical background of several of our parks, for example, the two waterfront Parks—Seashore and Westmoreland. The former is the site of the first landing of the settlers in 1607, and lies in a country so rich in history that one could spend unlimited time without exhausting its possibilities. Westmoreland, situated directly between the birth-places of two of the greatest men of our country, George Washington and Robert E. Lee, is likewise the scene of many historical events.

"Is there any wonder that we are optimistic for the future? We are building on our optimism but conservatively. With an ever increasing time for leisure at its disposal, plus the improved means and opportunity for travel, the public will not be content with many of the things they hitherto have been compelled to accept, or which they accepted formerly as good park practice. Such things are no longer in harmony with the modern trend of State Park thought and usage. We have in our program tried to realize that that which we are building is for the Man in the Street, as well as for the leisure classes. Even though the Man in the Street might be contented with houses and facilities of a lower grade than those supplied by the Virginia Parks, yet we think that his taste will be elevated by the enjoyment of the best in architecture and facilities.

"The future of the Park system, not only that of Virginia but also that of all other states, will depend on the education of the people to the proper use of their leisure time; the continuance of our studies in the various methods of using scenic and recreational resources is accordingly important.

"One of our most difficult problems will be in teaching people to get what they want in the way of pleasure without destroying the natural assets on which the continued enjoyment of the parks depend. If this can be accomplished, we need have no fear for the future.

"The Virginia Parks are being developed in this manner. We feel that we have to take care of all phases of man's natural requirements when he enters our Parks. He must have the opportunity for both passive and active recreation—for study, too, should he feel so inclined—all under conditions that will come within the reach of his purse.

"Developments for the future, too, will depend naturally upon how far the system can be made self-supporting and upon the popularity we acquire for our Parks. This can be achieved by the principle adhered to of service inspired by the desire to serve. Expansions will come as a result of our success in carrying out our program, whose keynote is education and service. On these two we intend to concentrate and, in so doing, to enlarge as demands are made. But the standards we have set are high and we intend to keep them so. In this way, with a continued study of the public needs, we shall develop for Virginia a Park System that shall be a credit to the Commonwealth.

SENATOR BYRD SPEAKS AT WILLIAMSBURG

barriers against the exercise either by Congress or Presidents, Legislatures or Governors, of undue, oppressive, or dangerous powers.

"... The truth is that while democracy in the modern sense is less than two hundred years old, the average man has profited more under it in political liberty and economic comfort than he has profited under any other system at any other time in the world's history. The countries with democratic institutions like England and America and France have survived the World War and its terrible aftermath better than the less democratic countries. England, where speech is so free that you may stand in Hyde Park and attack the monarchy, under police protection, has balanced her budget and recaptured a considerable measure of her prosperity. And here at home we have stood the expenditures of unprecedented sums in war and the twenty years following and have been feeling recently the potential power for recovery stirring and throbbing in the veins of the nation ready to burst into action once confidence is restored by the assurance of a balanced budget and an early return to normal governmental practices.

"So much I have said, ladies and gentlemen, of the graduating class, to emphasize to you the privilege of American citizenship. You are entering business and professional life at a time of difficulty and dissension and debate, but your liberty is safer and your chance of happiness is better because of the freedom with which these discordant voices may sound throughout the land.

"There is no divinity that doth protect from free criticism and debate of our institutions. Political workmen may tap and test the parts of our Constitution to see if its strength or flexibility is failing, but we should be careful to test the new before we discard the old. It is one of the peculiar dangers of our time that we incline to be captivated by novel political suggestions merely because they are novel.

"The growth of interstate business has influenced the most convinced believer in states' rights to concede the necessity of the exercise of national power authorized by the Constitution, through national commissions, like the Interstate Commerce Commission, to protect the public interest. But this does not mean that we should be nationalized and federally socialized until the rights of the states have been obliterated and the individual loses much of his liberty of enterprise and the State becomes merely an administrative district of the federal government.

"Years ago a man practised law in this town. His name was Thomas Jefferson. He believed that the citizen should be permitted to use his own in his own way just so long and so far as such use did not interfere with the privilege of other citizens to do likewise. He was strong for the liberty of the individual and believed that the states must retain enough power to protect this liberty, for he knew that the citizen is safer under home rule than he is under rule from a distance. Our complicated industrial civilization of today demands more power in the federal government to control interstate activities than in Jefferson's day; but home rule is still a necessary protection to the rights of the individual and is the foundation of our government of confederated states.

"The Supreme Court of the United States has just rendered what many regard as very momentous decisions. The strange part of it is that any one could have expected a different decision. With a unanimous voice the Supreme Court merely reaffirmed fundamental principles; principles upon which our government was founded; and principles I may say to which the Democratic party has pledged enthusiastic allegiance since the days of Jefferson. These decisions have transferred the emphasis of public discussion from economic to political problems. The debate rages as we assemble in this place of scholarly dignity and quiet reflection. Old battle cries sound anew and the shadows of Jefferson and Hamilton move amid the modern debaters as they have so often done before in periods of stress and strain. Men and women of today are talking about the principles that interested the people of Jefferson's day as they walked this very campus.

"This is true because fundamental principles like local self-government and nationalism are long lived as such principles directly control our liberties and happiness.

"It does not take a prophet to predict that in one form or another the issue will be presented to the people of America. I do not regard the Constitution of the United States as a sacred document to be considered as immune to change or criticism; perhaps certain changes should be made, but I say that while the Constitution itself is not sacred, the principles of representative democracy embodied in the Constitution are sacred to those who believe in this form of government. Our Constitution is one hundred and forty-six years old and therefore outgrown, the critics say, yet principles of freedom and of justice are immortal. You may make some change in the frame work, but to alter or amend the foundation stone will destroy the structure. The issue may come by reversing the 10th Amendment which says that 'Powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution nor prohibited by it by the States, are reserved to the states respectively or to the people.' It may come in the proposal now being made by a member of the Cabinet who desires a constitution subject to amendments by a popular majority of the nation as a whole without regard to the sovereignty of the states and that such amendments be submitted by a non-elective board appointed by the President. This would destroy one of the most important of the checks and balances devised by the wisdom of the founders. Others of influence desire that the Supreme Court be denied the power to declare unconstitutional an act of Congress, a power conceded to the Court since the days of Chief Justice Marshall.

"The Wise men who framed the Constitution were concerned to protect the individual against unrestrained Federal power; but distinguished gentlemen today feel that the people's welfare can be promoted only by the grant to the Federal Government of Supreme power to do anything a temporary legislative majority may authorize to be done anywhere in the United States.

"... I have no quarrel with those who desire to change the Constitution by the orderly methods prescribed. In this free country that is their privilege, just as it is the duty of those of us opposed to the destruction of the very foundation stones upon which our great representative democracy has been built to fight to the last ditch to preserve those things our forefathers gave their lives for us to enjoy. As a Democrat who yields to no man in my belief in and support of Democratic principles, I say that if the Democratic party becomes the instrument to attempt to destroy the rights of the states by Constitutional change, then our historic party has betrayed every tradition of its past and violated the first principles of its existence, I do not and cannot believe that such will occur; neither do I believe any formidable leader of the Democratic party will promote such a plan, yet the debate that is now going forward in frankness compels public men who feel strongly as I do, to without equivocation state our opposition regardless of political consequences. And in the shadow of these walls where democracy was cradled and nurtured by the great men of Virginia's past, I want to take my stand for the preservation of the fundamental principles of our government; against the destruction of the rights of the states and to preserve home rule; in opposition to any movement to abridge the present power of the Supreme Court of the United States and to save the checks and balances the founders so wisely adopted as a protection against mob rule.

"In conclusion, let me say that it is because that the inalienable rights of the individual have never yet been sacrificed or lost and that our liberties are protected by constitutional law that I am able to assure you that you are entering upon your life's work in that country where you will have the best chance of success and happiness."
