A NEW PARK IS PROPOSED

Wilbur Hall to Investigate Project in Southwest Virginia.

The State Conservation and Development Commission at the end of a two-day session Wednesday instructed Chairman Wilbur C. Hall to investigate the feasibility of establishing a national park in the High Knob mountain area of southwest Virginia. The tract includes about 82,000 acres in Scott and Wise counties and includes High Knob Mountain which rises to an elevation of 5,530 feet above the sea level.

The area is now being surveyed by the Federal Government as a forest reserve and it is believed by the Conservation Commission that a national park would be of greater value to the state than a forest reserve.

Chairman Hall was directed by the Commission to take under consideration the purchase of a number of small tracts of land needed for road purposes in several of the state parks. These include the Hungry Mother Park near Marion and the Westmoreland near Colonial Beach.

MOTOR TOURING IS BREAKING RECORDS

Three Billion, Five Hundred Millions to Be Spent This Year.

"Motor touring this year is breaking all previous records," J. A. Kline, managing director of the Automobile Clubs of Virginia, Incorporated, said last week. Indications are that aggregate tourist expenditures throughout the country will be in the neighborhood of $3,500,000,000, he stated.

"Not only are motorists taking to the road in greater numbers this year than ever before but they are taking much longer trips than for several years past," Mr. Kline declared. "Back in 1932 the nation's autoists were struck with an economy wave which resulted in a material curtailment of the mileage covered in auto touring. At the present time, however, this tendency has almost completely disappeared and the desire of the majority of motorists seeking routings at the travel bureaus is to go as far as possible in the time available."

Mr. Kline said that this development, which is clearly indicated by auto club inquiries, should interest persons in all branches of the tourist business and advertising. "Because of greatly improved roads and better construction automobiles give him a much wider cruising range, the tourist nowadays chooses his destination with less consideration to the distance involved and more to such factors as the comfort of the accommodations offered, the reasonableness of the charges and the recreational facilities provided."

UNIVERSITY SEEKS P W A LOAN

President John Lloyd Newcomb and a committee from the Board of Visitors of the University of Virginia were in Richmond Tuesday to take to Governor Peery an application for $950,000 in PWA funds for a new library building, with the request that he endorse the plan.

The Federal loan and grant, if approved by the Governor and OKed in Washington, would provide a fireproof brick building on the north axis of Monroe Hall on the campus at Charlottesville, fitting in with the architectural scheme of the other buildings, the new library, built on a slope, would vary from two to five stories in height.

The present library is said to be inadequate to the demands of the school and incapable of caring properly for the 400,000 volumes now in the collection.

The analysis of the county's activities is very complete and carries with it a comment and recommendation.

GOV. PEERY PRESENTS PREMIER MOTION PICTURE OF VIRGINIA

Governor George C. Peery, accompanied by Chairman Wilbur C. Hall and other members of the state commission on conservation and development, last night presided at the premier public presentation of the Motion Picture Travelogue of Virginia. His Excellency was presented to a capacity audience by Chairman Hall in a brief address.

Glimpses of Skyline Drive and of the great mountain empire of southwest Virginia rival in interest cavern scenes, pictures of Natural Bridge, of Natural Tunnel and of Mountain Lake.

It was impossible, says Chairman Hall, of the Commission on Conservation, to include all of Virginia within a seven-reel picture. Mr. Andrew Lavare, of the Burton-Holmes travelogue organization, was given a free hand in the choice of subjects.

The picture is regarded of singular historic significance. Fifteen hundred invitations were issued to the public.

The picture, which runs for a little more than an hour, embraces seven reels. It opens up on the Lincoln Highway, carries the spectator to Mt. Vernon, Wakefield, Stratford, Monticello, Yorktown, Jamestown, Williamsburg and to Appomattox. It presents the College of William and Mary, the University of Virginia, Washington and Lee University and the Virginia Military Institute.

TENNANT BLANKS FALLS CHURCH TO KEEP MANASSAS IN LEAD

Macs Get Only Two Hits Off Lyons But Win By Score of 1 To 0.

In one of the most exciting and interesting games to be played on the local field this year, the Macs took the measure of the Falls Church nine Sunday by a score of 1 to 0. The win enabled the Macs to retain first honors in this section of the league and gave the locals an even break with the visiting nine for the season with two wins and an equal number of losses.

Tennant and Lyons both pitched in brilliant fashion, the former granting but five and the latter two hits, one of which was a bunt. Lyons, however, gave up both hits in the same inning and coupled with a sacrifice, accounted for the Macs' run.

Tennant, given excellent support, held the visitors scoreless and it was his hit, a vicious single to center that scored Vetter from second with the only run of the game. Vetter and Blackwell in the field turned in neat fielding efforts at crucial times, the former starting a fast double play in the second with the bases loaded to retire the side unless and the latter taking a bad throw from the field and relaying it home with a perfect peg to nail Fox at the plate and end Falls Church's last serious threat.

The Macs threatened in the initial inning, getting men on first and third with two out as the result of walks, a sacrifice and a stolen base but Tennant bounced out to Purvis for the third out. In only one other inning did they get a man in scoring position and this time they crashed through with the only run of the game. Vetter opened the inning by beating out a perfect bunt to Lyons and was promptly sacrificed to second by Sheedy. On Tennant's line single to center Vetter raced home and with a wild slide beat Gibson's throw to the plate with what later proved to be the winning run.

EVANGELIST CELEBRATES 94th BIRTHDAY

Rev. Jacob Halpenny celebrated his ninety-fourth birthday, Wednesday, August 14, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Alberta Fritter, at Garrisonville, Stafford County, where he and Mrs. Halpenny have been spending the summer.

Beside his daughter and family, he had with him for the day his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. S. Halpenny, of Washington, D. C. In the evening his son-in-law, Rev. J. M. Bell, and grandson, Lewis Bell, and his daughter, Mrs. Bertha Embrey, of Manassas, drove down to see him. While the family were together they sang many of his favorite hymns and closed the evening with a scripture lesson and prayer.

Rev. Mr. Halpenny was born August 14, 1841, eleven miles from Bytown, Ontario. This town's name was later changed to Ottawa City. In 1869 he married Miss Annie D. Stevens of the Province of Quebec, who died in 1914. The present Mrs. Halpenny was Miss S. C. Bell, of Manassas, Va.

When only twenty years old, Mr. Halpenny was made an exhorter by the Quarterly Conference while he was absent, and thus he began his activities as a preacher.

He preached in two provinces of Canada and seven states of the U. S. during the seventy years he continued to preach. He was in active service in Methodist Episcopal Conferences until 1914. His last appointment was Bloomington Circuit in West Virginia of the Baltimore M. E. Conference. After being retired he continued to preach when called upon until 1932 when his health failed so he could no longer preach.

While in active service he never missed an appointment unless ill. On one circuit, he had to swim his horse across the James River several times to reach an appointment.

On another circuit he walked 1500 miles to carry on the work of the circuit.

During the years of active work as a minister, he travelled as many miles as it would take to circle the world five times. He held revival services at every appointment during which over 2,250 converts were made.

NATIVE OF REMINGTON NOMINATED BY PRESIDENT

He has served as executive secretary of the Southern Traffic League, general manager of the Montgomery (Ala.) Chamber of Commerce, and has held other important positions.

HOW UNCLE SAM FEED HIS WORKERS

Daily, except Sunday, some 21,000 persons, nearly all on the Federal pay roll, eat in the 18 cafeterias and lunch rooms located in Government buildings in Washington. Some of these restaurants are models of efficiency in the preparation and speedy service of tasty meals. The job of mass preparation of the thousands of pounds of foods and thousands of gallons of drinks consumed by these 21,000 of Uncle Sam's workers is described in a full page illustrated feature article which will be published in The Washington Star next Sunday, August 25.

WALTON FILES CONTEST PLEA

Bitter Court Battle Is Predicted.

H. H. Walton, of Louisa, defeated candidate for the State Senate from the twenty-seventh district in the Democratic primary, this week filed notice in Spotsylvania County Circuit Court that he would contest the election and ask to have the result set aside.

State Senator George Allen of Richmond, counsel for Walton, is expected to present a motion to invalidate the election before Judge Frederick W. Coleman in the September term.

S. Bernard Coleman, Fredericksburg attorney, who won the nomination over Walton by a margin of 14 votes according to the official tally, made no comment when notice of action was served on him this week. The district comprises Fredericksburg and Louisa, Orange, Spotsylvania and Stafford Counties.

The Walton petition charges that the primary was an "undue election" with "false returns," citing alleged irregularities in Spotsylvania County, such as the voting of 217 persons not properly registered; the "illegal" use of mail ballots, cast by 107 voters; 85 voters who did not comply with residence requirements, and the use of "money and intoxicating liquors" in behalf of Coleman.

The petition recites that votes for Coleman were cast by one pauper, two persons whose names did not appear on the poll tax list, and two who did not pay their poll taxes themselves, and declares that the mail ballot.

CITY LEAGUE WILL MEET

Annual Convention to Be Held in Fredericksburg.

The annual convention of the League of Virginia Municipalities will be held in Fredericksburg, September 25 and 26, it was announced Wednesday by Morton L. Wallerstein, executive secretary. The Virginia Police Executives' Association and the Building Officials' Conference of Virginia for which the League acts as secretariat, will hold their annual conventions during the same week. The Police will meet September 23 and 24 and the Building Inspectors, September 24.

Highlights of the League program include public works, tax limitation laws, tax maps, works progress, old age pensions, municipal finance and pollution.

The Police program will be in the nature of an institute for executive police officers devoted exclusively to their current problems.

The Building Officials' Conference will be addressed by many prominent Virginia building inspectors with the program augmented by several building experts from various Federal organizations.

Mr. Wallerstein stated that several hundred Virginia municipal officials are expected to attend this important conference. Detailed plans are now being formulated following conferences with the mayor, city manager and municipal officials in Fredericksburg. This conference which is held only once a year is the only statewide meeting of municipal officials.

BYRD VOTES TO TAX ALL BONDS

An amendment to the tax bill offered by Senator Borah last week provides for the taxation of all future issues of government bonds that are now tax exempt. This amendment was adopted by a vote of 40 to 39. Senator Byrd voted in the affirmative.

Some time ago Senator Byrd introduced an amendment to the Constitution which would provide for the taxation of all municipal, state and government bonds which are now tax exempt. He likewise introduced a bill providing for the taxation of future issues of government bonds.

When this bill was introduced, Senator Byrd called attention to the fact that nearly $90,000,000,000 of tax exempt bonds provide a refuge for the rich of the country to invest their money so as to avoid the payment of taxes. He regards the taxation of tax-exempt securities as essential to an equalization of the tax burden which becomes more imperative by reason of the general increase in taxation which must occur because of the present expenditures of the government.

QUIET TALKS ON RELIGION

By Dr. James T. Marshall

THE BEST TONIC

"The joy of the Lord is your strength." (Nehemiah 8:10). The joy of the Lord is not to be confused with what the world calls joy. It is altogether a different emotion from either fun or pleasure. Only a shallow and flippant person could find fun in partaking of the holy communion or taking part in the public worship of God. To a reverent person these sacred exercises are occasions of the deepest joy. As the sunlight dispels darkness the presence of God dispels all sadness, and a realization of His presence is the source of our strength.

This is true in the physical life. Christians ought to be more healthy and live longer on account of their faith. Religion keeps one from doing things which damage health, makes his conduct pure, destroys harmful emotions such as fear and anger, and produces an inward calm which in itself is a great factor in bodily healing. Every doctor understands the therapeutic value of a cheerful spirit.

The joy of the Lord will make us more efficient in the performance of our daily tasks. The man who sings at his work will do his work better and do it with less fatigue. The real purpose in placing a band at the head of the procession is not to entertain the onlookers but to enliven the spirits of the marchers and prevent weariness on their part. The drudgery is taken out of our daily work as soon as we remember that "we are laborers together with God." We are in His presence when we work as truly as when we worship, and in His presence there is always fullness of joy.

The joy of the Lord makes us strong in our struggle with the trials of life. You can put men like Paul and Silas in the dungeon but you cannot prevent them from singing praise unto God. Such men are invincible. This joy is one of the fruits of the Spirit and rightfully belongs to every child of God.

We would all talk less about our discouragements if we would step aside occasionally from the confused activities of our lives and sit down quietly and recharge our spirits with the joy of the Lord. Edmund Sears' Christmas hymn has a stanza which

THE WORLD AROUND US
By
O. J. Schuster

WISE AS AN OWL! That is what is often said of men who have amassed great fortunes. It expresses the truth—many of those men are just as stupid as that bird. The owl has big eyes but it sees very little. Its brain is far inferior to that of the despised crow. But seeing it sit in silence, its great eyes staring, foolish people take the stupidity for wisdom. And so the owl-like men who silently stalk their fellows to appropriate any of their property that is left inadequately protected are reputed to be "wise as the owl." Shakespeare vividly pictures such "wisdom" in the memorable lines:

There is a sort of men

Who do a wilful stillness entertain,

With purpose to be dressed in an opinion

Of wisdom, gravity, profound conceit;

As who should say, "I AM SIR ORACLE,

AND WHEN I OPE MY LIPS, LET NO DOG BARK."

BIG EYES AND SILENCE! How strange that anyone should so misjudge as to take staring eyes and watchful waiting to catch their prey of its guard as wisdom. The tiger stalking its prey has the same narrow vision and its sumptuous dinner depends on the silence of its pursuit. Not long ago I watched a prowling cat sneak upon a fledgling robin. With wide-open eyes and silent steps it followed the young bird relentlessly for more than a quarter of an hour, and then pounced upon its helpless victim. But the cat's vision was not broad enough to include me and my own "watchful waiting" for that moment. It was neither good eyes, silence nor wisdom on my part that rescued the bird from the claws of the cat. It was my sympathy and love for the bright, jolly little chirper I had been watching for days in the hope of seeing it make its first flight from the nest.

"WISE AS A CROCODILE" is as applicable as is "Wise as an Owl." The crocodile also is a silent watchful waiter. In the evolution of life on this planet it too may claim that it is among the fittest to survive. Scientists tell us that for more than 35 million years the crocodile has prospered. If in the struggle for existence mere continuance of life for 35 million years proves superiority then surely the crocodile is among the fittest to survive.

THE CROCODILE ALSO RELIES on watchful waiting for its unsuspecting prey. It too practices silence, secrecy, deceitful camouflage. For 35 million years it has lain in mud and slime at the water's edge. Its knobby back, looking for all the world like a submerged log, just above the water's surface, beguiled the trusting swan to alight upon its surface only to disappear a moment later when the ponderous jaws opened and enveloped it. The graceful faun comes gaily down to the water's brink to relieve its thirst, dips its head into the water a little too near the innocent-looking log, and disappears as the great jaws open and close on its young life. How many babes have toddled to the water to feel the joy of mud and water squeezing up between their naked toes have passed into that same monster's maw before the eyes of terror-stricken mothers will never be known. But the crocodile survives—and so do men who have crocodile wisdom, and who "a wilful stillness entertain." Will these human crocodiles and "wise" owls be a part of the world around us when another 35 million years have passed?

GEORGE BURNS WRITES COMEDY REAR END TO

Although he insists that his long association with Gracie Allen has nothing to do with it, George Burns, who is in Paramount's "We're Not Dressing," coming next Monday to the Dixie Theatre in Manassas, with his partner, admits he writes his radio and screen nonsense backwards.

"I start with the last gag first," George explains, "and then work to the opening. We always want the best gag for the 'topper.' After that's down on paper, I try to figure a way to work into, and then another gag ahead of that, and so on to the opening of the skit."

Burns and Allen are featured in "We're Not Dressing," directed by Norman Taurog, with Bing Crosby, Carole Lombard, Ethel Merman and Leon Errol.

They enact a pair of nut-naturalists in the picture, with a camp on the South Sea Island at which the story of the picture takes place. Gracie's inventions for bringing animals back alive, and George's attempts to get rid of Gracie and her animals, are said to be some of the most hilarious comedy moments the two have ever had in pictures.

CENTREVILLE

Announcement is made of the marriage last week of Edgar Rutter and Miss Elsie Compton, of Catharpin. They were married at Rockville, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Robey are having their home repapered and otherwise improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Woltz are the proud parents of a baby girl, Georgia May, born last Friday at a Washington hospital.

Owing to the continued illness of the rector, services are again postponed at St. John's to September 8. This will also indefinitely postpone the annual Parish Day.

Mr. Henry Woltz had the misfortune to lose a valuable horse this week.

SPORT FANS FOLLOW THE AMERICAN BOY

Boys and young men of this city who wish to improve their tennis service, their basket-shooting eyes, their forward passing talent, or their crawl stroke, can enlist the aid of the nation's foremost coaches and players by subscribing to THE AMERICAN BOY magazine and following the sports interviews and fiction stories that appear each month.

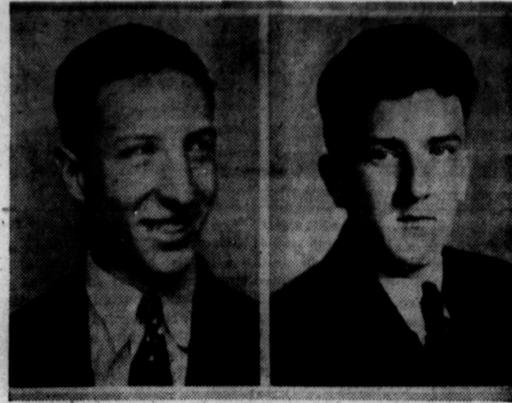

"When I was in high school," says a famous decathlon champion, "I read a track article in THE AMERICAN BOY that gave me my first clear-cut idea of the western style of high jumping. At practice I laid the open magazine on the grass and studied it as I worked out. That afternoon I increased the height of my jump three inches."

That was a long time ago, but today thousands of future champions just as eagerly follow THE AMERICAN BOY.

"This year," states Griffith Ogden Ellis, editor, "our staff writers have gone to the two greatest football teams of the country — Minnesota and Pittsburgh — for first-hand tips on strategy, blocking, tackling, passing, and the fine points of play. They have interviewed Jack Medina, the world's fastest swimmer, and his coach, Ray Daughters. Gone to Eastern High School of Washington, D. C., Eastern Interscholastic basketball champions. In the past they have followed the Grapefruit Circuit of the major leagues in Florida, sat on the bench at the Rose Bowl, sought out the famous runners, divers, All-America ends, tackles and backfield men, to bring their story of how to play the game to the young men of America."

"In addition to our fiction, adventure, exploration, hobby counsel, and vocational help, we shall continue to encourage young men to improve their game in every line of sport." Send your subscriptions to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. Enclose with your name and address $1 for a year's subscription, $2 for three years, and add 50 cents a year if you want the subscription to go to a foreign address. On newsstands, 10c a copy.

ERNEST LIKENS (left), 17-year-old Roanoke youth, and Wilfred Roop, 15 years old, of the same city, who won first place in the senior and junior divisions, respectively, in the state-wide model coach-building competition conducted by the Fisher Body Craftsmen's Guild, when their miniature traveling coaches were adjudged the best of those submitted by boys in Virginia.

AUGUST MEETING OF W.C.T.U.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the home of Mrs. D. R. Lewis on Maple street Wednesday, August 28, at 3 p.m.

This being the month for the election of officers, it is important for every member to be there to vote as only a few voting might not get the leaders elected the majority of the membership would choose. Please everyone remember to have your comfort bags filled and bring to this meeting. They have to be sent away at once to be counted this year. Will the committee on joint meeting of Light Line and Missionary Societies also please have definite plan as to time, places, etc., of this meeting ready to report at this time.

Properly Stowed Bags Add to Comfort

Comfort, pleasure, and safety on a tour depend largely on efficient loading of the luggage, and modern body designs have done much to ease the problem, as these views of Chevrolet models reveal. In the upper left view, the suitcases have been fitted in snugly, the adjustable front seat having been moved forward to allow extra leeway, and the driver is now pushing back the seat to clamp the bags in place for the day. Upper right, the tourist is utilizing the baggage space back of the rear seat. The two lower pictures show the loading of a coupe compartment and a sedan trunk.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST
The Bible
 BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

If parents will have their children memorize the daily Bible selections, it will prove a priceless heritage to them in after years.

WHAT DOES GOD REQUIRE: And now, Israel, what does the Lord thy God require of thee, but to fear the Lord thy God, to walk in all his ways, and to love him, and to serve the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul. —Deuteronomy 10:12.

MR. WALTON PROTESTS

If Mr. H. H. Walton, of Louisa County, feels that his opponent was fraudulently elected, he is serving the voters of Virginia in a highly commendable manner by contesting the election in his Senatorial district. If he can establish proof of irregularities, drunkenness, bribery, and secure the punishment of such, the electorate of Virginia will owe him a rising vote of thanks. It is alleged that so much money and liquor went the rounds that some of it even pervaded staid old Prince William. We shall withhold comment along these lines until the outcome of Judge Coleman's investigation. We have a very high opinion of this gentleman's integrity and ability.

ROOSEVELT AND THE CONSTITUTION

In addressing the boy scouts last night, President Roosevelt made the following statement which is particularly interesting in view of the wave of indignation which seems to have swept the nation during the past few months on account of his seeming antagonism to the Constitution:

"We are bound together in a Democracy operating under a Constitution whose purpose was and is to form a perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity. "The success of that Constitution is dependent on the attitude of mind and the degree of the spirit of unselfish co-operation that can be developed in individuals." The reference was made aside from the general subject matter of his discussion and is widely regarded as an evidence on the part of the President to back-step in his attack upon the Constitution. It will be hoped that not only in public utterance but in official performances that this is true. There has been no period in American History when the people have needed the safeguards which were established by our forefathers under the Constitution to protect our liberty.

THE BIBLE STILL SUPREME

A publishing and book-binding firm, which has just completed its thirtieth year of operation, has one perennial best seller. It is the Bible. Last year this company shipped 1,135,863 Bibles. It reports that every year more and more people are buying them. Other publishing concerns have the same experience.

Such a condition is most encouraging for this day and time. Few people would think that so many copies of this book are sold. No other book can compare to it in sales.

Statistics show that the Bible is still supreme. — Winchester Evening Star.

"THE HARDEST HOUR"

In his diary published today, Dick Byrd wrote that of all his vigils at his solitary advanced post, "the hardest hour, curiously, is that after supper. Don't know why—perhaps it's because in civilization that's the happiest hour of the day; the day's cares are behind, and one slips into the peace of the home."

That fine thought, less admirably expressed, doubtless has come to every man who is alone at the hour when, in normal life, the entire family is gathered in genial chatter. The hour of closest association thus becomes that of greatest loneliness. It was worse for Admiral Byrd, of course, during the Antarctic winter, but for those whose families leave them in summer, that hardest hour is the hottest. Having nothing else to do, one eats heavily; being hot, one cannot read. There's nothing to do but to swelter and remember. The wise man in this climate, whether alone or encircled by his family, eats his heaviest meal when the day is coolest, his lightest when the day is hottest. —Richmond News-Leader.

Editor, Manassas Journal, Manassas, Va.
 Dear Sir:

Note the clipping I am sending you. Use it and use these words. You are aware of the fact that we are living in the greatest fool age the world ever knew. We are throwing aside all that is worthy—safe—sane—and we are going to reap the whirlwind unless we put on the brakes. The greatest leader of all time stands ready to lead safely if we have sense enough to follow Him—The Christ.

"WE MISS YOU, DADDY," MESSAGE MOTORISTS SHOULD ALL READ

The following editorial was printed in the Rockville, Conn., Journal. Thereafter, to the editor's surprise, it was reprinted by most of the other papers of the state, and was used by highway safety officials, insurance companies, accident prevention organizations, motorists' publications and by others who are fighting the great war against the toll of automobile deaths. Here it is—and any motorist will surely think twice about taking chances after reading it:

"Tuesday morning there was a fatal accident on the Minterburn Hill and when the medical examiner was going through the pockets of the dead man, a telegram was found. It was not very long, just the ordinary ten-word length but it was a message that would make any father happy. It read: WE MISS YOU DADDY. WHEN ARE YOU COMING HOME?"

"That was all. It was the message sent by one of the children of the man who was killed. He had received the message and was homeward bound. The clothes were minus money but in his pocket he carried that message.

"Those who have little children, and those who were once little children, can think of the great blow to the child when the father did return home—DEAD.

"Daddy will be missed by those children in the long years ahead. No longer will they have his support, his earnings and, more important, his companionship.

"If ever there was a reason for people driving more carefully on the road, it is that they might get in an accident and deprive their own child or some other child of their Daddy."

"More might be written, but just let us repeat those words: 'We miss you Daddy. When are you coming home?'"

A LITTLE WRINKLED LADY

She was sittin' by the window,
 As I passed her house one day,
 A' watchin' o'er her knittin'
 The folks that passed that way;
 A little wrinkled lady
 With hair as white as snow;
 She must have seen a heap of life—
 'Bout eighty years, or so.

I felt right sorry for her
 When I saw her sittin' there,
 For I guessed her life was darkened
 With a lot of grief and care.
 I thought the wrinkles tell-tales
 Of years of toil and strife,
 And the snowy hair revealed to me
 The sadness of her life.

But as I passed her window,
 A' pityin' her, the while,
 She glanced up from her knittin'—
 And then I saw her smile!
 You'd have thought the heavens opened
 And let the sun shine through
 To rest upon her saintly face,
 Could you have seen her too!

The joy of livin' tinged her cheeks
 And made her eyes shine bright;
 The happiness abidin' there
 Would light the darkest night.
 I knew that of her many years
 Of mingled joy and sorrow
 She'd taken only of the best
 With which to face the morrow.

So in the distant years, I hope,
 When I grow old and gray,
 And glance-up from my knittin'
 When strangers pass that way,
 If their hearts are heavy-laden
 And their day is dark and shady,
 I can brighten it with sunshine—
 Like that little wrinkled lady.

PICTURE "PROP" MEN IMPORTANT FACTORS IN FINE PRODUCTION

No matter what you need, we've got it or can get it!

Keeping this all-inclusive pledge is just part of the day's work to the property department of a motion picture studio.

When the property chief at Columbia was told that Director David Selman would need a completely equipped Canadian trading post for "Fighting Shadows," the Colonel Tim McCoy outdoor drama, coming to the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Friday, August 30, he merely said, "O. K."

Within three days, Columbia's art director had built a trading post on one of the sound stages. One more day and the shelves were lined with canned goods, food supplies, bolts of material, ammunition goods, and merchandise of every description.

Between 2,500 and 3,000 separate articles were assembled during those four days. Mackinaws, fur caps, corduroy trousers, overalls, boots and moccasins were piled up on tables and counters, while dog sleds, fishing tackle, spowshoes, lanterns, hams, and bacon were suspended from the ceiling.

When Selman and the technical crew reported for work on the specified morning, everything was set. The property chief was there to supervise any necessary changes, but none were needed. McCoy, wearing the red-coated uniform of an officer of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, stepped before the focussed camera and "Fighting Shadows" was in the making.

Geneva Mitchell, brunette actress, is featured opposite McCoy, and other important roles are enacted by Robert Allen, Ward Bond, Otto Hoffman, Si Jenks, and Edward Le Saint. Ford Beebe wrote the original story and screenplay.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE'S SWIFT RISE PUTS HER AMONG TEN BEST SCREEN STARS

She's Moviedom's baby queen! Five-year-old Shirley Temple's climb to fame within half a year is certainly the outstanding event in picture history!

Overnight almost, the little Santa Monica girl has skyrocketed to fame. With each picture her popularity increases, till her following is legion. Shirley has attained with comet-like speed the stellar honors which others struggle hard to attain.

It is almost miraculous, her climb, and the way she outshines in popularity the Chevaliers, Pickfords, Fairbanks, Dietriches, Harlows and Garbos.

Three months after her screen debut, this child prodigy ranked eighth among the silver sheet favorites. A poll of 9,000 independent exhibitors placed the diminutive Fox star among the first ten money-making leaders.

Naturalness is undoubtedly the key to the success of this wonder child. The trait is evident whether she acts, sings, or dances.

As her image flashes across the screen, millions laugh and weep. She puts over a song as effective as does a Helen Morgan or an Ethel Merman. As for her dancing, Bill Robinson, the world's crack tap dancer, and who plays with Shirley in her latest picture, "The Little Colonel," is authority for the statement that she is the greatest natural dancer he has encountered in his 52 years of hoofing and teaching.

In "The Little Colonel," her latest vehicle, which comes to the Dixie Theatre in Manassas next Wednesday, she is co-starred with Lionel Barrymore, in a role that will further endear her to the millions. Her dancing feet, smiling eyes, and honey curls are her ammunition in her campaign to soften the heart of an old rebel colonel, who forgot the Civil War was over, and nursed his prejudices.

In keeping with the importance of the stars and the vehicle, a supporting cast of stellar calibre has been assembled. Evelyn Venable, brilliant young Shakespearean actress, John Lodge, Sidney Blackmer, William Burress, and the already mentioned Bill Robinson have important parts.

Part of the picture is filmed in lifelike Technicolor.

It is a De Sylva Production.

CATHARPIN

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Anderson and daughters, of Washington were Catharpin visitors recently.

Mrs. R. A. Collins, of Marble Hill, who has been sojourning among friends down near Hampton, Va., returned home last week looking and feeling much improved after her two weeks' rest.

Well, Sallie and Lelia and Gertrude and Lucy and Alberta and Netta and Alice and Bertie and Blanche and Pearl and Lillian and Maggie and Frances and Frances and May and Neville assembled their needles, thimbles and scissors and quilted two quilts last week and have another one almost ready for the frames. Some of them did not actually quilt but appliqued and patched and did other things just as good, so the work progressed as usual as hot as it was. Nothing beat a good, warm quilt on a hot summer's day.

Belle Farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Pattie, had as recent Sunday visitors Mrs. Henderson and son, Robert, and daughter, Mrs. Towers, of Dunroven, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mrs. Helen Martin, of Washington, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. W. K. Caldwell, of Six Acres, was called home late Thursday night of last week to the bedside of her husband, who, after suffering a sunstroke that afternoon, was very ill at Emergency Hospital. Before arrival, however, the patient had passed away having suffered greatly until death relieved him. The friends of the family in this neighborhood extend sympathy, and sorrow with the bereaved.

Of course you have all sorrowed and mourned with the balance of the world over the death of Will Rogers. We have no words of our own, nor have we read any among the voluminous eulogies pronounced upon him by the great of the World and Nation that adequately and fully convey the real worth of the man. It just seems impossible to describe what he meant to the world and the influence he exerted upon mankind—Kings, Presidents—clear down the line to the lowest individual in the common walks of life; every one knew him. Among the many things said of him is: "His like never before existed; his successor will never appear." His was the TRUTH in all things.

He told the truth in such a way as to make men laugh and obey. What more could you say?

Mr. W. Holmes Robertson left Monday morning for Atlanta, Ga., and Sapaloe Island looking for cattle for his winter feed lots.

Miss M. Elma Latham, of Charlotte, N. C., was vacationing among friends and relatives during the past week.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Beard, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. R. McDonald were delightfully entertained at dinner on Sunday evening last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. J. Gillis, of Haymarket, Va., where a very happy evening was spent recounting old times and settling the affairs of the nation in general. Many have been the changes in the "personnel" of the Haymarket community in the last 20 years. One scarcely realizes it all until a checking-up is made. It was both pleasant, interesting and sad to recall memories of friends of other days with whom many a pleasant hour had been spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bradley, of Clinton, Md., were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Alvey, of our city.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Holmes Robertson and family were Delaplane visitors on Sunday last.

We have often thought that it is a pity that man's words could not be fully realized while he was living and credit given accordingly while he was yet in the flesh and could understand. But it seems that man, like a "corn of wheat," must first die before the world begins to realize that he was a personality of consequence. The world is so full of "yes men" that when a man is found who is patriotically independent, he is too often cried down and abused by this same "yes man" element which has no other motive than to follow some political trail, without thought or desire to do other than t obey orders, and having neither thought nor care as the "whether it may lead." It has often been said that people of this type became the most dangerous influence with which any nation has to contend; that it is from this unthinking type that the "Reds," "Communists," "Nazis," etc., are recruited and who do the "marching" and "goose-stepping" while some "Ambitious" individual is engaged in perhaps, destroying civilizations and nations.

But history has shown that when "emergencies arise, the hero is near"; just so when a crisis comes and for the moment all seems lost, a leader appears to save the day. Instances of this may be found, one upon another throught all time in both religious and political history, and oft times, the leader, reformer, stabilizer or patriot, lost his head both literally and politically, but the right prevailed and the truth obtained and our civilization today is the result of the labors of just such men; and coming down to the colonization of the country to which we owe allegiance, patriots may be found by the score who laid aside all isms, parties, clicks, clans, etc., and stood foursquare for what they thought was best for the people and the nation as a whole. And now since things seem in great confusion throught the world, it behooves us all to be on guard lest, in times like the present, the unthinking, the illiterate, the great horde of humanity which must be governed, kept in place, fed, clothed and otherwise provided for, might become unruly, out of bounds and destroy the very thing—civilization—that saves them. The world seems to be full of the dissatisfied. Governments are tottering and religions crumbling and the end seemeth not yet.

It does seem that the intelligentsia of this country today should begin to rid itself of so much partyism and think more in terms of broad humanity and the good of the country as a whole. Our whole system of Government seems based on partyism rather than patriotism. This unthinking, irresponsible horde now so much in evidence along the "bread lines" must be controlled and helped. Our governing bodies must stand out as real patriotic. National figures and not a class of "yes men" ready to do the bidding of some ulterior boss.

During the present session of Congress so much criticism has been heaped upon the membership by the press for its looseness or lack of patriotism in its national thinking, and its tendency "to follow the leader" no matter where he leads just so "its our party," seemed everywhere present and they "followed." Whether it has all been for the best or not, of course, is a subject for debate, but through it all, there are a few characters of the people's representatives. These are the men "Whom the emergency showeth up." Of the more than half a thousand who were elected to "represent the people" but a small percentage, apparently, have thought above partisan politics, and who apparently cared nothing for the people except at election time. But true to her historical setting, the Old Dominion, the Mother of Presidents and Patriots, Virginia stands in the forefront of national appreciation by reason of her Senators who stood upon their wn patriotic judgments.

We are just wondering when, or if, the time will come when our elected representatives will represent the people per se? We have had them in the past and we believe we shall have them in the future; also we believe we have them now. Some men in Congress stand out so far, and up so high, that they so completely overshadow the "rank and file" that the public hardly knows they are there. Some men are really national, not merely local in their general thinking and action. Whose names do we see most in print as we scan the daily papers? Well we see the name of Chairman Black who is digging up dirt by the shovelful; we see the name of Floor Leader Robinson, who is piloting the "Machine" through its vicissitudes of rough sledding; we see Huey Long girating around like "a half-sled in a haymow," and if some one jumps up and calls another a liar, then his name is published and so on down the line until, as has been estimated, about 10 per cent of them may be referred to in the public news columns. But here and there will be found names which stand out nationwide as leaders of thought and to whom the nation listens when they speak. Here is where Old Virginia once more comes to her own. The two men who perhaps stand the highest and whose utterances are read the widest, and whose thoughts are the deepest, and whose patriotism the sincerest, are probably Carter Glass, of Virginia, and William E. Borah, of Idaho. If you ask "Who is the other Senator from Idaho?" we doubt if one in a million could answer; but if you ask who the other Senator from Virginia is, half the population of the country will answer—Harry Byrd. So the old State which has been in the history-making business ever since a young planter by the name of John Rolfe married Pocahontas, it still making good in both quantity and quality and may her shadow never grow less.

lot of a dead man was counted. Most of the irregularities charged relate to Spotsylvania County, which gave Coleman a heavy majority, but complaint is also made of circumstances in Stafford County, where elimination of the entire vote in three precincts is asked.

It also contended that the use of "money and intoxicating liquors" in behalf of Coleman's candidacy caused such "confusion and disturbances" as to prevent "an accurate counting of the ballots and an accurate tabulation of the returns," the delay in receiving returns from Roseville precinct being mentioned in this connection.

Falmouth and Simpsons are the other two precincts where it is charged confusion prevailed and re-opening and recounting of the ballots under court order is requested. The use of sample ballots instead of official ballots is charged in Stafford County, and a recount of the total vote in both Stafford and Spotsylvania Counties is asked.

Walton charges that elimination of "disqualified" ballots will show he was nominated instead of Coleman, and also that a recount of the entire vote will show him to have been the winner. He asks that the certificate of election given to Coleman be annulled and a proper certificate be issued to Walton as the Democratic nominee for Senator.

SURRENDER PAGEANT TO BE HELD AT YORKTOWN

Colonial National Monument officials have announced that the anniversary observance of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis in Yorktown will be extended to include two days this year, beginning October 18, with the opening of the reconstructed French Battery and a large new portion of the battlefields and including a pageant, historical meetings, religious services and speaking by nationally known figures.

The two-day program, which is part of the Virginia Autumn Travelogue, sponsored by the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, begins with the opening of a portion of the battlefields where were located the headquarters of General von Steuben and his division, composed of Maryland Virginia and Pennsylvania troops, and the encampment of New York regiments under General Clinton. The French Battery, mounted with authentic ordnance, will also be opened, with appropriate exercises. The new naval exhibit at Yorktown, which includes the rebuilt gun deck of a British vessel, with all of her original ordnance and her cabin, fully equipped, will utilize the guns and many other things salvaged by divers from the bottom of York River during the last two years. All articles were taken from the wrecks of British vessels sunk by gunfire during the siege. The exhibit will include gun crews, dressed in British seamen's uniforms, who will demonstrate how the guns were served during an engagement.

On the night of October 18, an illustrated lecture will be given, while on October 19, the program will include services in historic old Colonial Grace Church, meetings of patriotic societies in the Oldest Customs House in America, the placing of wreaths on the Victory Monument by descendants of the revolution and others and speaking by nationally known orators.

The Yorktown celebration is the climax of the Virginia Autumn Travelogue, which begins on September 25 with the opening of National Tobacco Festival at South Boston, and continues with consecutive events in all sections of the state until the 19th of October.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Soul" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 18.

The golden text was "I will set my tabernacle among you: and my soul shall not abhor you. And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my people" (Leviticus 26:11, 12).

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "O bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise to be heard: Which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to be moved" (Psalms 66:8, 9).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Life is the law of Soul, even the law of the spirit of Truth, and Soul is never without its representative. Man's individual being can no more die nor disappear in unconsciousness than can Soul, for both are immortal" (p. 427).

I looked up Satisfy and it says—

SAT-IS-FY. Something that pleases, gives satisfaction; something that just suits. For example, you are pleased with a dress. As applied to cigarettes, it means one that is MILD—that is not harsh or bitter; one that TASTES just right.

A NOVEL OF THE OLD SOUTH

By H. J. Eckenrole

The story of Buck Musgrave, Southern gentleman, who devoted himself, before the Civil War, to the serious pursuits of life, particularly horse-racing, cock-fighting and hard drinking. The searing changes which the War brought to this son of the Old South, and his changed outlook in the Reconstruction period are presented with dramatic force.

The author is State Historian of Virginia. He knows and understands the people of whom he writes, and he treats of the Musgraves as well as the "poor whites" with honesty and vigor. The manners and customs of the time just before and after the Civil War are presented from a fresh viewpoint in this fine novel of the life, loves and adventures of Buck Musgrave, who betrayed his traditions, but found a renewed and finer life under a new code.

"Hello, Daddy" Termed A Telephone Miracle

Children even at a tender age use the telephone, operate the radio and do many other things in this period of scientific miracles that are accepted as matter-of-fact events in their daily lives. The happy smile upon the "pig-tailed youngster's face" (shown above) inspired Robertson T. Barrett to write the following verses, which he calls "The Miracle of Science":

They've spun their web of copper wires across the continent;
O'er mile on mile of open sea the voice of man they've sent;
They've done all this, these scientists—and fixed it (may I add?)
So that a little kid like this can visit with her Dad.

They've geared a nation's business to man's wire-carried speech;
They've tuned the tempo of its thought to waves with world-wide reach;
They've conquered time and distance; they've annihilated space—
And put a happy smile upon this pig-tailed youngster's face.

All honor to the miracle the mind of man has wrought!
All honor to the brain and hand which fashion wings for thought!
All honor! But what miracle can Science work today,
Like this kid's "Hello, Daddy!"—when her Daddy's far away?
