OCOQUAN WINS 4-H CLUB BANNER

Many Winners Announced at Club Achievement Day.

The Manassas gymnasium was the scene of the fifth annual 4-H club Achievement Day on October 26. Upon arriving at the gym at 2:30 club members entered their various exhibits. This was followed by a parade of the clubs to the Dixie Theatre where the members were guests of the manager. A thrilling western picture was enjoyed. By this time everyone was ready for supper which consisted of two steaming kettles of Brunswick stew, assorted cookies and fruit.

The Achievement program was then officially opened and Rev. John DeChant gave the invocation which was followed by singing "America."

Dorothy Thorpe of Buckhall Club gave the welcome and Margaret Burdett of Ocoquan Club responded with a word of thanks to the management of the Dixie Theatre for complimentary tickets given 4-H club members, to business men of Manassas for contributions for the Brunswick stew, to the Homemakers Association and Bethlehem Club for prizes which are presented outstanding club members and the Manassas and Buckhall 4-H Club members for preparations made for the annual event. Each club president answered the roll call and gave a report of the year's work for 1934-35. Miss Pitts then gave a summary of the girls' work and Mr. Cox gave a summary of the boys' work.

Of special enjoyment to all was the music and dancing to the tune of "Who's Honey Are You" by Mrs. William Leachman and daughters. A report of the National Dairy Show was given by Billy Hale of Nokesville.

Billy Harpine was chief of the challenges which were given around the improvised campfire. Each club had a representative who introduced the challenges.

Miss Pitts introduced the club leaders next. Mrs. E. W. Thompson of Ocoquan was introduced as the most outstanding club leader in the State.

Mrs. W. L. Lloyd presented the Homemakers prize to Lucy Johnson, Manassas, and Ellen Thompson, Ocoquan, for outstanding foods work. The Bethlehem prize, presented by Mrs. R. L. Sadd, went to Annie Cebula, Woodbine, for the best conducted poultry project. Mrs. Egbert Thompson presented the Thompson prize to Miller S. Reedy, Aden 4-H Club, for having the most outstanding meat animal project.

Mr. Ray E. Hall, secretary of the Manassas-Prince William Chamber of Commerce, presented the silver cup won for having the most appropriate float in the Piedmont Dairy Festival parade. Miss Karl Bundy, home demonstration agent, Loudoun County, presented exhibit prizes to the following 4-H club members:

The program was closed with an impressive candle lighting ceremony.

BENNETT SCHOOL 100% FOR JUNIOR RED CROSS

There was great enthusiasm this week at Bennett School. Why? All twelve rooms could boast of all the children joining the Junior Red Cross. The twelve teachers were just as proud as the pupils.

One of their main objectives for the year is to make at least one hundred toys for children for Christmas.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS ENJOY FESTIVITY

Meeting This Evening to Be Hallowe'en Party.

In view of the inclement weather last Wednesday night, many of the Young Democrats did not show up for the scheduled meeting. However, some of our most prominent "older" Democrats, who are honorary members of the club, honored us with their presence, and took an active interest and part in the discussions.

Mr. G. C. Russell invited the club to hold its next meeting at the Odd Fellows in Dumfries on Thursday night, which is Hallowe'en night, at 7:30 p.m. He also very kindly offered to provide the members of the club with refreshments, and his invitation was unanimously accepted.

It was also voted that Hon. Thos. H. Lion be invited as the speaker of the evening at this meeting, and that five-minute talks be made by Mr. Dudley Martin, Hon. Wm. Hill Brown and Mr. E. R. Conner, and as president of the club to explain the principles and purposes of the Young Democratic Clubs of Virginia.

A motion offered by Judge Wm. Hill Brown that additional members be appointed to the membership committee was unanimously carried, and the president appointed Miss Walser Conner, Mr. Grady Cooper, Mr. Rolfe Robertson, Hon. William Hill Brown, Mr. Dudley Martin, and Mr. Stanley Holmes to this committee. The membership committee now consists of the above-named members, and Mrs. Nelle Holmes and Carl Kincheole, Mr. Kincheole being chairman of the committee.

Mr. Rolfe Robertson gave a very interesting talk on the co-operation that is necessary to make a success of any undertaking, and urged every member to do his share. He pointed out the conditions that exist in various parts of the county, and stressed the importance of every Democrat's efforts toward getting out a large vote for the Democratic nominees on election day.

Although all the Democratic nominees were invited, only the following were present: Hon. Thos. H. Lion, C. E. Nash, J. P. Kerlin and G. C. Russell. A letter from Hon. Frank P. Moncure expressing regret at his inability to attend this meeting, and his interest in the club, was read by the president.

Mr. Kerlin gave a brief talk, and reminded those present that Democrats are pledged to vote for the party nominee on general election day.

PLANE CRASHES AT MANASSAS

Pilot in Distress Circles Town
Many Times.

The continuous roar of a big navy plane brought town folks to the streets in large numbers last Tuesday night to witness the gallant and finally unsuccessful attempt of a pilot to land in safety to himself and to the community.

With the visibility reduced practically to zero by the night rain and fog, the plane grazed a number of the higher buildings of the town. Unable to communicate with the plane, several efforts were made to display lights which would guide it safely to the landing field, but finally the plane was forced to come down and but for the mishap of striking some trees, would have been successful.

In selecting the Portner field the pilot exhibited skill and judgment, but the mishap of striking the obstructions wrecked the plane and inflicted painful, but not dangerous injuries to the pilot, who was found to be Lieut. W. C. Kaiser, of Warrenton. The Navy Department immediately dispatched an ambulance to bring the injured flyer to Washington, and the following morning salvaged the plane, which was a total wreck.

Every good Democrat should go to the polls on Tuesday and register confidence in the nominees of the Party.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETING

Two representatives of the civic section of the Woman's Club met with members of the Town Council at their regular monthly meeting, Monday, October 28. The chairman of the committee made a report of what they had done since the last council meeting, and discussed ways and means of accomplishing other things they hoped to do.

One project the committee has in mind is to place one or two extra trash cans in appropriate places in the center of town. The approval of the Council was asked and given, and Mr. Cooke has given us the name and address of where these cans can be purchased, also prices. Mr. Cooke stated that the town would be only too glad to service these weekly or more often if necessary.

The civic committee asks the co-operation of everyone in making use of the trash cans here in town, two of which are already located on Center street. This will go a long way towards helping to keep our streets clean.

As usual we were received cordially by the members of the Council and we feel that we are going to profit greatly by the exchange of ideas and the help given us by the Council.

CHANGE IN SOUTHERN RAILWAY SCHEDULE

The Southern Railway, acting upon recommendations of the Town Council and the Manassas-Prince William County Chamber of Commerce, has arranged to have train No. 39, southbound, to stop at Manassas to take on passengers for Charlottesville and points beyond. The train which arrives here at 11:37 p.m. also stops to discharge passengers from Washington.

This change will, no doubt, greatly benefit persons from northern Virginia who come to Manassas to take southbound trains rather than go to Washington for this connection.

This change has already gone into effect.

LOCAL DRIVE BY RED CROSS

Leaders Announced for Various Districts.

Smashing an all-time record in disaster relief operations, the American Red Cross in 1934-35 pushed upward to new heights in its service to the people of the United States. Rev. DeChant, chairman of the Roll Call, told the Journal yesterday. One hundred and sixty times, in 37 states and three insular territories, the Red Cross rushed relief into communities torn by hurricane, ravaged by devastating fires, inundated by surging waters or cringing beneath the blight of disease.

In these 160 catastrophes, the greatest number of disasters in any one of the 54 years of Red Cross history, 611,000 victims, many of the injured, were given relief and a new start in life by the Red Cross. The New York flood claiming 36 lives and the Florida hurricane which swept hundreds to death, were among the most recent disasters in which the Red Cross furnished relief.

During the year first aid and life saving programs were speeded up in an effort to lessen the appalling number of deaths from preventable accidents occurring annually in the United States. With the death toll for the last fiscal year over the 100,000 mark, arrangements are being completed for a greatly enlarged accident prevention program.

Plans are nearly complete for the local Roll Call drive. Mrs. Janie Abel is heading up the Dumfries district; Mrs. Wallace Dawson, Ocoquan, and Mrs. J. A. Delaney, Manassas. Workers are being secured in the other districts of the county.

The National Red Cross has set as its goal 5,000,000 memberships. The Prince William Chapter is aiming toward a goal of 650 memberships. Mr. DeChant gave out as his motto for the Roll Call "A Red Cross pin on every breast and a Red Cross sticker in the window of every home."

HAYDON TO GUIDE LOCAL KIWANIS

Annual Elections Closely Contested.

The Manassas Kiwanis Club had another initiation Friday night, this time the candidate being an exponent of the local educational system, namely, Prof. R. W. Peters, principal of the Manassas High School. Prof. Frank Sigman officiated in the induction ceremonies just as had Prof. Eli Swavely who the Friday night before ushered in Ray Hall, secretary of the Prince William Chamber of Commerce.

The speaker of the evening, John Keyes, an oil expert of Baltimore, gave an interesting discussion on petroleum refining. Mr. Keyes had a number of specimen exhibits of oil in all its stages.

The annual elections were slightly confused by the fact that the club couldn't make up its mind whether they wanted Charlie Lynn or Jim Bradford for the new vice-president. Two polls were necessary. Jim went in by one vote on the second ballot. Dick Haydon was elected president for 1936, unanimously, and so was Mons Ledman, the everfaithful treasurer. The club loses a mighty valuable secretary and the Board will have a job finding a successor equally capable.

Another confusing feature of the election was the fact that about twenty-five of the men received some votes for directors. This necessitated considerable culling and on the second ballot the following were elected: A. A. Hoof, G. R. Ratcliffe, A. H. Roseberry, W. F. Cooke, C. C. Lynn, F. G. Sigman, F. R. Hynson.

The club will meet with the Manassas High School at its supper tomorrow night and the ladies have been invited to accompany them.

Home demonstration women will stage a fall house dress review in which no dress modeled is to cost more than one dollar.

Miss Grace Frysinger of the U.S. Extension Service will be the guest speaker, using as her topic "The Present Challenge to the Home."

The awarding of home demonstration pins will be made to club women who have attended meetings regularly, participated in committee and community work, and accepted a reasonable amount of recommended practices.

Exhibits for which prizes will be given include: house dress, child's dress, rolls and biscuits, crocheted bedspreads and hooked rugs, winter bouquets, kitchen curtains, quilts, articles from cotton bags, table linens, and canning collections.

Miss Alice Crutchfield, home demonstration agent for Fairfax County, and Miss R. Belle Burke, district home demonstration agent, will serve as judges. Assisting on exhibits committee will be Mrs. Wallace Dawson of Woodbridge and Mrs. Ernest Hale of Nokesville.

The Home Demonstration Advisory Board will meet at 10 o'clock on the morning of the 7th to select projects and make the program of work for 1936. This meeting will be held in the Assembly room of the Post Office building.

NEW CHEVROLET

SPLENDID MODEL

Local Dealers List Leading Features of '36 Model.

New Master de luxe and Standard Chevrolets for 1936, embodying marked advances in styling, engineering and performance, will be on exhibit at all dealers this Saturday.

Completeness in equipment, in appointments, and in convenience is stressed in the company's 1936 announcement.

The Master de luxe, offered with either knee action or conventional springing, has been restyled in its more important appearance elements, notably by the adoption of a higher and narrower grille of distinctively original design, in combination with a new treatment of the hood louvers, new style headlamps mounted on the sides of the radiator shell, and new interior trim.

The lower priced Standard models have been completely redesigned in chassis and bodies. Last year the Standards differed materially both in appearance and in construction from the Masters; this year, the two lines are identical in all major features of styling, engineering and performance, the chief differences being only a matter of wheelbase.

Outstanding among the many new features of both Master and Standard models for 1936 are perfected hydraulic brakes; improved engines having higher compression ratio (6 to 1), balanced carburetor, full-length water jacketing, and other changes resulting in better cooling and improved gasoline and oil economy; and chromolene rust-prevention of fenders and running boards.

Standard Models Completely New Chevrolet's Standard models for 1936, besides incorporating features that appear for the first time on the Masters, take their place in the line as entirely new models, with new box girder chassis frame, more powerful engine, longer wheelbase and larger bodies. The line of body types has been increased to seven by the addition of three models—the four-door sport sedan with built-in trunk, the two-door town sedan with built-in trunk, and the cabriolet.

The Standard model wheelbase, formerly 107 inches, is now 109, while its overall length, last year 170 1-2 inches, is 12 to 13 inches greater. Bodies are longer and wider, with more leg room, wider seats and additional head room. Car weight is increased 135 pounds. Springing has been improved by the use of longer front and shorter rear springs, which possess more nearly equal frequency.

COMMUNITY WORK TO BE RECORDED IN PHOTOGRAPHY

Photographers from the U.S.D.A. will spend Friday in the county to get pictures of some of the outstanding pieces of project and community work done through home demonstration and 4-H club programs.

In Dumfries pictures will be made showing progress of the sanitation campaign while in Occoquan the work of the 4-H Club will be pictured. In the Woodbine school and community the hot lunch project has been chosen and in Greenwich a 4-H poultry partnership project will be pictured. Hand-made community-made furniture will be shown in Nokesville community.

The services of the photographer are gotten through the Virginia Extension Division. Pictures made here will be used in extension educational programs throughout the United States.

MISS VIRGINIA BROCKETT HAS CAR ACCIDENT

Miss Virginia Brockett, county demonstration agent, had an accident Tuesday night about 8 o'clock. She was on her way to Madison from Haywood. This road is very narrow and makes driving difficult at night. Miss Brockett's car struck the bank on a sharp curve and skidded along the bank about 15 feet and struck a cedar tree. The car, a Chevrolet coupe, was badly damaged. Miss Brockett had several cuts about the body. She walked about a mile to the home of Mr. R. H. Blankenbaker and his son, Stanley, brought her to Dr. J. N. Clore's office for medical attention. Miss Brockett is convalescing satisfactorily from the shock. It took eight stitches to close her injuries.—Madison Eagle, Oct. 24.

es and so minimize pitching.

Side rails and cross members of the new Standard frame are all of rigid box section, a type of construction that has appeared on costly European cars but never before in the low price field in this country. Although greatly increased in strength and in stiffness, the box girder members add so greatly to the rigidity of the structure that only three cross members are required. The extreme simplicity of the frame greatly facilitates access to chassis units for lubrication and service operations.

Perfecting Hydraulic Brakes on All Models

In changing to perfected hydraulic brakes on both chassis models, Chevrolet has adopted the hydraulic principle of brake actuation to its own design of brake mechanism within the brake drums. Instead of the cable operated floating cam formerly used at each wheel, a master hydraulic cylinder with double opposed pistons is used to actuate each pair of on-piece articulated brake shoes.

The master cylinder, whose piston is moved by the brake pedal to transmit pressure by a column of fluid to each of the wheel cylinders, is mounted on the frame. The master piston is one inch in diameter, while wheel pistons are larger to effect an increase of braking effect at the wheels. Front wheel pistons are larger than those of the rear wheels, to balance the braking effect when, in stopping, extra weight thrown on the front wheels gives them greater traction. This arrangement prevents locking the rear wheels by themselves by heavy brake application.

The hand brake lever actuates both service brake shoes in both rear wheels. The connection is by flexible cable, operating a lever and toggle mechanism within the rear brake drums.

On the Masters, brake drums are of composite construction, comprising a cast iron rim and a pressed steel web. The braking surface is accurately machined, after assembly to the wheel hub, assuring true concentricity. Long life, freedom from scoring, and more effective braking are advantages claimed for cast iron. The outer surface of the drum is machined in deep grooves that form five ribs, to promote cooling.

On the Standard, equally effective braking is obtained by using pressed steel drums, which are one inch larger in diameter than last year's, increasing the brake lining to 158 1-4 inches, 17 sq. ins. more than formerly. An improved grade of closely grained steel is used for the drums, and their braking surfaces are machined to accurate form and smooth finish. Dirt shields have been added.

Cooling System Improvements

Major improvements have been made in the Chevrolet cooling system to maintain lower engine temperatures and to attain important benefits in the control of engine oil temperature and of cylinder block and valve push rod expansion. The chief change is the adoption of full-length water jackets. Formerly, only the upper part of the cylinders was water jacketed. In the new engines, the water jacketing extends far below the lowermost point reached by the head of the piston, nearly to the lower edge of the piston skirt at the bottom of the stroke. The rings thus come in contact only with cylinder wall surface that is constantly cooled. Since the full depth of the cylinders is surrounded by water, the cylinders warm up evenly.

The most valuable effect of full length water jacketing, however, is its automatic control of engine oil temperature. In the previous design, the engine oil would attain a temperature 125 degrees hotter than the water, by coming in contact with the uncooled lower part of the cylinders. With the new full length jackets, oil temperature runs 50 degrees cooler than formerly. Still further cooling of the oil supply to the valve rocker shaft is effected by running the supply line through the cylinder block, where it is surrounded by water, and the oil is further reduced in temperature by 10 degrees.

Changes in Springing

Chevrolet's all-enclosed knee action units, now entering their third year, remain unchanged from their original design except for an improvement in the methods of attaching the wheel spindle to the support arm. The spindle is now pressed into the arm under 10,000 pounds pressure, and its inner end end is then peened over. Suspension of the Master model with conventional springs has been improved. Riding qualities of the Standard have been improved by an entirely new design of springs and suspension. The front springs are now 36 inches long, 3 inches longer than formerly, and their deflection rate is reduced from 315 pounds per inch to 209. Rear springs are 49 inches long, or 5 inches shorter, their deflection rate being increased from 105 per inch to 112.

ELECTION DAY

Next Tuesday is election day in Virginia. On this date Virginians, speaking broadly, confirm the action taken in the August Primary and duly elect the nominees of the Democratic Party.

In some localities contests arise between personalities and between Democracy and Republicanism, but no one with any accurate information gathered on the ground, would predict anything but a sweeping Democratic victory on November 5.

The national administration may make mistakes. The "New Deal" may be popular or unpopular. The Democratic Party may even be swept out of Washington, but nothing short of the mightiest upheaval in politics could change the Party supremacy in the Old Dominion.

There is nothing in the Election Tuesday by which to estimate Virginia's judgment of the Roosevelt policies. We are electing men for our local offices and we pick them, almost exclusively from the ranks of Democracy.

All loyal Democrats should turn out next Tuesday and give Prince William its customary Democratic majority.

COUNTY HOMEMAKERS MEET

This meeting will adjourn for the home demonstration program which will be held in the Sunday school room of the Methodist church beginning at 1:15 o'clock.

IN our previous advertisement we pointed out that 63,000,000 depositors have entrusted some 45 billion dollars in their banks. The latest official nationwide figures show how the banks are employing these deposits through sound conservative loans and investments:—

Bank loans on farm lands and city real estate, nine billion dollars; loans to individuals and business concerns, twelve billion dollars; investments in direct Federal government loans, eleven billion dollars; in obligations of various government recovery corporations, one billion dollars; investments in state and municipal bonds, over three billion dollars; in American corporate securities, six billion dollars.

This bank feels that American banking as a whole is fully measuring up to its duties in the public services it is rendering.

CATHARPIN

The Young People's organization of the Sudley circuit will render a pageant at Sudley next Sunday morning as an introductory service for the Week of Prayer which begins on that date. In the evening at 7:30 p.m. the same program will be rendered in the Gainesville church by the same cast. Our young people are very much interested in their work and are proud to display the attendance banner entrusted to their care for the next 60 days; they having had the largest percentage of attendance at the last general meeting recently held at Catlett, Va.

Miss Virginia Hill, the Catharpin teacher, attended teachers' meeting in Dumfries on Saturday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams, Mrs. H. P. Davis, Mrs. Noel Lynn and Mrs. Reed all of Manassas, were callers at the homes of Mrs. E. N. Pattie and Mrs. J. W. Alvey of Catharpin on Thursday of last week. They also paid their respects to the Sudley dinner at noon.

Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Brower have returned from a visit to their son, P. W. Brower, of Price, Md., where they had been sojourning for the past two weeks.

The "new pastor," the Rev. Mr. Sapp, who was returned to the Sudley circuit for his third year, was received by a large and appreciative congregation last Sunday morning at Sudley and looked as though he was glad to be back. We also know that his congregation was glad to have him back because they looked just like he did. Well it is a mighty pleasant experience to be in a crowd when they are all pleased. The new conference year finds itself starting off in happy spirit and a good year's work is just in the offing.

The Rev. and Mrs. A. B. Sapp and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. R. McDonald represented Sudley at the annual District Steward's meeting of the Washington district held in Mt. Vernon Place Church on Monday, the 28th. The meeting was largely attended; all, of course, anxious to see and hear the new presiding elder, Dr. E. C. Beery, who was just recently appointed to that position. After the meeting the Sudley contingent continued on to Gaithersburg, Md., and visited the Home of the Aged located in that city and found everything wonderfully interesting. The Home is everything it is represented to be and more. Beautiful location, beautiful buildings and best of all, well and economically managed. The superintendent, the Rev. Herman M. Wilson, is eminently qualified to handle just such a proposition as an institution of that kind presents. Sudley has had the privilege many times to contribute to its support. It was announced that about the middle of November, a truck will visit the parsonage at Gainesville to receive any gifts of fruit or vegetables that may be offered. Last year the Sudley circuit almost loaded the truck to capacity, all of which was gratefully received.

People are still talking about the "jam" experienced at Sudley last Thursday night during the supper hour and the "oldest inhabitant" is again at a loss to find a precedent. The "box office" says that 280 people paid the price of admission to the festive board with many more unable to get service. The usual preparations had been made for the usual crowd as Sudley had been in the habit of interpreting crowds, but when the "multitude" came knocking at her door she was almost beside herself with grief because she could not take care of them all. They just came from everywhere. It may be a surprise to learn that 69 people from Washington took dinner that evening; some of whom were former residents of this section, who, with their friends, received the glad hand of welcome in numbers 28. Then 31 others, friends and relatives of Mrs. S. A. Moss, and 10 others, friends of Mr. and Mrs. Sapp, the pastor, completed the Washington tingent. There is no telling how many more might have come from the capital city had not our fellow townsman, the Hon. Melvin C. Hazen who knows the drawing powers of Old Prince William, had the "draw" on the Memorial bridge lifted thus preventing further traffic in this direction. He knew bravely well that if all the inhabitants of his city who emanated from this section, with their "springs" and "offsprings" gone, the trolleys, buses and taxi would all have to stop for want of passengers.

But, we were more fortunate in regard to Manassas. They are not bothered with such things as trolleys, buses and taxis, so being relieved of all restrictions, the whole town came out, leaving only enough to guard the court house and jail. Even the cities of Gainesville, Haymarket, Woolsey and Hickory Grove were represented. Antioch was having a "Young Wemocrats" meeting on hands so she could not be represented, or at least our "news hawks" failed to identify any one from that city. So, by and large, Sudley did have more than she could handle.

About ten years ago, after the New Sudley was built, a supper was served with the aid of a three-burner oil stove, which was ample. The next year another stove was added. The next year a new kitchen was built and a big range installed. This kept pace with demands for a time, but still another stove had to be added to meet emergencies until now they have the four and just look what happened. Sudley will soon have to admit "customers" by card, or tear down and build greater. Be this as it may, there is one thing sure; that is that Sudley certainly does appreciate the number and quality of her friends and patrons and she shall ever try to serve them well.

Beware The Cough

From a common cold

That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

WITH STONEWALL JACKSON AT CHANCELLORSVILLE

By W. F. RANDOLPH
Captain of Jackson's Bodyguard
From the Southern Churchman, April 11, 1931

When our line of battle emerged from the dense wood which effectually concealed the advance, it came immediately upon the Federal encampment and directly in the rear of their whole line. The first intimation the enemy had of our approach was the characteristic Confederate yell, which rolled along the line, and rung out clear and loud above the thunderous clash of musketry, and re-echoed through the forest, which had until then been as silent as the grave. Never was surprise so complete, never was a victory more easily won. As our lines swept like an avalanche over the Federal camps, they overwhelmed and outnumbered them at every point. Resistance was paralyzed, and the panic which ensued is indescribable. On the part of the enemy it was not a retreat, but the wildest fight—a race for life. At one time during the evening a young officer, wild with enthusiasm, dashed up to the General, crying, "General, they are running too fast for us, we can't come up with them." "They never run too fast for me, sir," was the immediate response. And thus onward rushed pursuers and pursued down the road toward Chancellorsville. Now and then Jackson would press his horse to a gallop and dash to the front, and whenever he appeared the troops would break ranks and rush around him with the wildest cheers I ever heard from human throats. When night closed upon the scene the victory seemed complete. The infantry of the enemy had disappeared from our immediate front, falling back under cover of several batteries of artillery which, halting upon every eminence, poured a furious fire of shot and shell down the road upon our advancing columns. In order to avoid this furious fire as much as possible, our men were formed in columns and made to march up the edge of the dense wood, and parallel with the road. This they were able to do by the aid of the moon, which shone very brightly, rendering all objects in our immediate vicinity clearly distinct. About this time General A. P. Hill rode up and Jackson and himself had a conference of some length. I did not hear all that was said, but both were deeply absorbed, for shells from the battery of the enemy were bursting all around us and plowing up the ground under our horses' feet without either of them taking the slightest notice of the little incident. As for myself, I cared but little either, as I was then impressed with the idea that the bullet had not been moulded which was to kill our General. The firing soon ceased, and Hill rode away.

At this juncture the General had no officer with him except Lieutenant Keith Boswell, an officer belonging to his signal corps, and myself, together with a dozen of my own men, who were riding behind. A Confederate brigade was marching slowly in column on the left of the road and close to the woods, Keith Boswell was riding on the right of the General and myself on the left between him and our lines. The General turned to me and asked, "Whose brigade is that?" "I don't know, sir," I replied, "but will find out in a moment." I at once rode up to our line and asked the first officer I met whose brigade it was. He replied, "Lane's North Carolina." I rode back to Jackson, giving him the reply. "Go and tell the officer in command," he said, "to halt his brigade." I rode up to the same officer, gave the command, and told him that it came from General Jackson in person. The order was passed along the line, and the whole brigade halted at once, making a half wheel to the right, facing the road, and resting upon their arms. We continued our movement in the same order, walking our horses very slowly toward the front of the brigade. Suddenly the General asked, "Captain, is there a road near our present position leading to the Rappahannock?" I replied that not far from where we stood there was a road which led into the woods in the direction of the Rappahannock River.

"This road must be found then at once," he said. He had hardly uttered these words when a few scattering, random shots were heard in the woods to our right. The men in line on our left, excited apparently by this fire, commenced firing across the road into the woods beyond, not in regular volleys, but in a desultory way without order, here and there along the line.

General Jackson turned to me and said, "Order those men to stop that fire, and tell the officers not to allow another shot fired without orders."

I rode up and down the line and gave the order to both men and officers, telling them also they were endangering the lives of General Jackson and his escort. But in vain; those immediately in front would cease as I gave the order, but the firing would break out above or below me, and instead of ceasing, the shots increasing in frequency. I rode back to Jackson and said: "General, it is impossible to stop these men; they seem to be in a kind of panic. I think we had best pass through their line and get into the woods behind them." "Very well said," was the reply. So making a half wheel to the left, this presenting a front of, say sixty yards, our little company commenced the movement to pass the line, and thus put ourselves beyond the range of the fire. A few more seconds would have placed us in safety, for we were not over three yards from the line, but as we turned, looking up and down as far as my eye could reach, I saw that long line of bayonets rise and concentrate upon us. I felt what was coming, and driving spurs into my horse's flanks, a powerful animal and full of spirit, he rose high in the air and as we passed over the line the thunder crash from hundreds of rifles burst in full in our very faces. I looked back as my horse made the leap, and everything had gone down like leaves before the blast of a hurricane. The only living thing besides myself that passed through the stream of fire was Boswell's black stallion, my attention being called to him by the rattle of a chain halter that swung loose from his neck, as he passed out of sight in the darkness of the wood. But his saddle was empty. Boswell, too, an old comrade of many a perilous scout, had gone down with all the rest before that inextinguishable and unwarranted fire. My own horse was wounded in several places, my clothing and saddle were perforated with bullets, yet I escaped without a wound, the only living man to tell the fearful story.

As soon as I could control my horse, rendered frantic by his wounds, I rode among our men who were falling back into the woods and behind the trees were still continuing that reckless and insane fire, and urged them to form their line and come back to the road, telling them that they had fired not upon the enemy, but upon General Jackson and his escort.

Then sick at heart I dashed back to the road, and there the saddest tragedy of the war was revealed in its fullest horror.

I saw the General's horse, which I recognized at once, standing close to the edge of the road, with his head bent low, and a stream of blood running from a wound in his neck. Jumping from my horse I hastened to the spot and saw the General himself lying in the edge of the woods. He seemed to be dead and I wished all the bullets had passed through my own body rather than such a happening as this. I threw myself on the ground by his side and raised his head and shoulders on my arm. He groaned heavily.

"Are you much hurt, General?" I asked as soon as I could find voice and utterance.

"Wild fire, that, sir; wild fire," he replied in his usual rapid way.

This was all he said. I found that his left arm was shattered by a bullet just below the elbow, and his right hand was lacerated by a minnie ball that had passed through the palm. Not a living soul was in sight then, but in a few moments A. P. Hill rode up, and then Lieutenant Smith, one of his aides. General Hill ordered me to mount my horse and bring an ambulance as quickly as possible. "But don't tell the men it is General Jackson who is wounded," he said. I soon found two of the ambulance corps with a stretcher, and ordered them to the front, saying that a wounded officer needed their services. Then I rode further on to find an ambulance. Before coming up with one I met Sandy Pendleton, Jackson's adjutant-general, told him what had occurred, and he ordered me to go and find General J. E. B. Stuart and tell him to come up at once.

"Where shall I find him?" I asked. "Somewhere near the Rappahannock," he replied, "not more than four or five miles away."

I rode off through the woods in the direction of the river, and by a piece of good luck soon struck a well defined road, which seemed to lead in the right direction. After riding along that road for a few miles, I had the good fortune to meet General Stuart himself, with a small escort of cavalry. I stated that General Jackson had been badly wounded, and that Pendleton had ordered me to tell him to come to the army at once. Without making any comment he dashed off at full speed. I tried to follow, but by this time my horse was much weakened by the loss of blood and began to stagger under me. I was obliged to dismount and found that he was shot through both thighs and slightly wounded in several other places, so I was forced to walk, leading the wounded animal slowly behind me.

This ended my connection with the tragic incident of this most memorable night. I did not reach headquarters until two o'clock that night. I saw Dr. McGuire and asked him about the General's conditions, he said that his arm had been amputated below the elbow, his wounded hand had been dressed, and that he was resting quietly. The wounds were serious and very painful, he said, but not necessarily fatal, and there seemed to be no reason why he should not recover.

If asked why, and how such a fire could have occurred, I can only answer that it was then and still a mystery, wholly unaccountable and without provocation or warrant. We had been for some time walking our horses along the road in close proximity to this very brigade from which the fire came. The moon which was not far from full, poured a flood of light upon the wide open turnpike. Jackson and his escort were plainly visible from every point of view, and the General himself must have been recognized by any one who had ever seen him before. There was no reason for mistaking us for an enemy, and when turning to pass through our line to avoid the scattering random shot which was sending bullets all around and about us, I did not for a minute dream that there was any possibility of the guns of our own men being directed upon us. An accident inexplicable, unlooked for, and impossible to foresee, deprived the army of its greatest general at a time when his services were indispensable. If Jackson had lived that night he would, without doubt, have marched his columns along the very road upon which I met Stuart, thus throwing his entire force in the rear of Hooker's army, his left resting upon the Rappahannock, cutting off the enemy's communications and forming around his flanks a net of steel, from which he could never have extricated himself.

Broken, dispirited, panic-stricken, his right wing routed and doubled back upon his center; tangled in a wilderness without room to employ his immense force, its very numbers working to its disadvantage, hemmed in on every side; with Jackson's victorious corps in his rear, and Lee in his front, strange as it may seem, Hooker's immense army of one hundred thousand men would have been forced to surrender, and the war would have ended with a clap of thunder. The whole North would have been laid open, and Lee's victorious army, augmented by thousands of enthusiastic volunteers; Washington and Baltimore would have been occupied and all of Maryland aroused.

This young and virile Confederacy, sprung all at once armed and equipped, a very Minerva from the brain of Jupiter, would have taken its place high up among the family of nations.

That blast in the wilderness put an end to this almost assured result, and the hope of a great Southern Empire became only a dream.

Was it providence, or fate? Who can tell?

Explanation by L. M. Williams.

"The Lord loveth whom he chasteneth."
"Ad astra per aspera."
"Misfortune nobly borne becomes good fortune."

If the Southern Confederacy had won and become established on the principles of its constitution, which was in perfect harmony with the Original United States Constitution, destroyed by A. Lincoln and his Northern cohorts in their invasion of the South, there would have risen up one of the richest nations on earth, located between the Potomac and the Rio Grande, and the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic and the Pacific. When the war was about to break on our peaceful nation, Lincoln summoned his nine Northern Governors and told them that he must wage war and keep the Southern States in the Union, for if he let them out the Southern States with free trade and a monopoly of cotton growth, would capture the trade of North America and dry up New England and New York. Hence Lincoln started war for selfish purposes.

Production records are essential for success in dairying. By good use of D.H.I.A. records a dairyman can build a herd up and produce his milk more economically.

The high herd in milk and butterfat for September was owned by G. C. Russell. A mixed herd of 34 cows averaged 885 lbs. milk and 36.6 lbs. fat. High cow also owned by G. C. Russell, a G. Holstein, produced 1560 lbs. milk and 79.6 lbs. fat.
