LEE-JACKSON DAY CELEBRATED

Judge Brown, Kin of Gen. Hill, Is Speaker.

Members of the Manassas Chapter, U. D. C., last Sunday, in spite of inclement weather, celebrated the birthdays of Lee and Jackson in the Methodist Church. Quite an innovation was introduced by the chapter in asking two young men to conduct the memorial service. Mr. Jenkins Davies, a popular young attorney of Manassas, presided and Judge William Hill Brown, jr., made the address.

The services were simple and impressive, beginning with Gen. Lee's favorite hymn, "How Firm a Foundation."

In introducing Judge Brown, Mr. Davies stated that the speaker was a grandson of a gallant soldier, Maj. James Lawrence Hooft, and a grandnephew of the beloved Gen. Ambrose Powell Hill. In speaking of Gen. Hill, Mr. Davies said:

"The last earthly name breathed by the immortal Jackson was that of A. P. Hill. Descended from Culpeper's most gallant gentry, he was a true son of worthy sires. His services to the South can only be gauged by the love which all true Southerners gave to the cause for which they offered their lives. His military genius was not only recognized but relied on by those outstanding Anglo-Saxon soldiers, Lee and Jackson. He was a gentleman in every sense of the word—a Christian—his word once given was kept to the letter. Honor was as native to him as it was to all great sons of the South. To be a member of Gen. A. P. Hill's family is to bear the stamp of all that makes a gentleman."

Judge Brown spoke as follows: "Mr. Chairman, Ladies, and Gentlemen:

"I consider it a very great privilege and a unique experience in my life to be asked to speak before a chapter of that organization which fulfils one of the most pre-eminent duties of any society by perpetuating the names of the foremost men of American history. It does not erect a cold and sublime memorial in honor of these men, but rather fosters and perpetuates their names, acts and deeds by a living memorial.

"I have been asked to address you on the lives of three of the men who, by the indomitable efforts of this society, continue to live. Through my life, owing to the great work that has been done by this society, I have always felt that the influence of these great men is indelibly stamped on the characters of this day. I wish it were possible for me to speak individually of each and every one of our illustrious and distinguished Confederate veterans, but since my time is limited, I shall endeavor to merely illustrate the spirit of all of those men who so honorably and courageously donned the grey by taking three of the outstanding leaders as my example: Robert Edward Lee, Thomas Jonathan Jackson, and Matthew Fontaine Maury. I am happy to relate that these three men first saw the break of day under the sun which shines over the Commonwealth, and that they watched the setting of their sun on the same soil.

"The lives of each of these three distinguished characters could be summarized in one sentence, as all of their lives are similar, and that sentence should read 'He was a man with a kind heart, a cultivated mind, an intellectual disposition, and an illustrious career.' With your patience I shall endeavor to summarize individually the lives of these national heroes which are dear to the hearts of every Southerner.

"Let us at this point consider for a brief space the life of Robert Edward Lee, a character whom we all idolize and who every boy should take as his ideal of a real man. The life of Lee has been very closely associated with my life; for as a youth I received untold joy while reading of his many accomplishments, and then it was my pleasure and privilege to be educated at that institution over which he so successfully presided and where his spirit now lives. I may state, at this point, that all of the graduates of this institution of learning, upon launching on the sea of life, are given their first commands directly over the resting place of Robert Edward Lee and immediately in front of Valentine's Recumbent Status of that gallant gentleman, a setting which forms a lasting impression on the mind of each one of her sons and which impresses upon their minds a symbol of her historic (See LEE-JACKSON, back page)

MARSTELLER AGAIN ELECTED DIRECTOR

The annual meeting of the Prince William County membership of the Maryland and Virginia Producers Association was held at the Manassas Town Hall Wednesday afternoon.

The activities of the association for the past year were discussed by B. B. Derrick, manager of the association.

Dr. E. H. Marsteller was nominated to represent the Prince William producers as director of the Maryland-Virginia Association for 1936. Dr. Marsteller has very capably served in this capacity for the past two years and was nominated by acclamation.

The following officers of the county group were elected to serve for the coming year: J. F. Hale, president; Wilmer M. Kline, vice-president, and Frank Cox, secretary.

It was announced by Mr. Derrick that the annual meeting of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association at the Armory at Silver Spring would be followed by the annual banquet at the Shoreham Hotel at 12:30 p.m. on Monday, February 3.

TWIN BILL SPLIT BY HIGH TEAMS

Manassas Boys and Haymarket Girls Triumph.

At perhaps one of the most exciting games that has been played by the Manassas High School girls basketball team in quite a few years, the girls lost their second game of the season to Haymarket High on Friday, Jan. 17, with the score of 21-16. Each player put up a hard fight but they were unable to defeat the 1935 champions.

Elizabeth Davies was the only Manassas scorer and special credit should be given her. Louise Kincheol and Margaret White were put in together as guards and they showed excellent teamwork. The other players in this game were Russell, Woodyard, Lloyd, Hooft, Ritter and Hottle.

At another game on Tuesday, Jan. 21, Manassas "beat the boots off" Occoquan. In this game, also, Elizabeth Davies was high scorer, making 27 points. The score at the end of the game was Manassas 35, Occoquan 12. Russell, White, Hottle, Davies, Woodyard, Lloyd, Hooft, Kincheol and Ritter played in this game. Kincheol was taken out at the half because of a sprained thumb.

Five Straight for Manassas. The Manassas High School boys ran their string of basketball victories to five straight over the past week. Traveling to Haymarket last Friday, they defeated a stubborn, game fighting team 21 to 18. Tuesday night they won handily over Occoquan 38 to 15.

The game at Haymarket was the inaugural game in the new gym there. The game was a fast and furious one and Manassas only emerged victorious after a hard uphill battle. Trailing 9 to 0 at the end of the first quarter the Manassas boys began to find themselves and slowly forged ahead to win the game by three points.

The Occoquan game found the Manassas boys clicking at their best. Their passing, shooting and defensive work proved too much for the Occoquan boys to solve. The team started off with a bang and quickly built up an imposing lead which was never threatened.

Manassas now has won the first round in the Virginia Literary and Athletic League and is leading the county league. Next Friday they travel to Fredericksburg in what should prove to be their hardest game of the year. Should they win this game, their chances of entering the state tournaments look pretty good.

RED CROSS TO HOLD MEETING

The annual meeting and election of officers and members of the executive board of the Prince William County Chapter, A. R. C., will be held on Tuesday, Jan. 28, in the Sunday school room of the Presbyterian Church, Manassas, Va., at 2 p.m.

Members of Red Cross, recently enrolled in membership drive, are cordially invited to attend. Reports will be given by the following committee chairmen: Mrs. C. R. C. Johnson, civilian home service; Mrs. R. S. Hynson, production; Rev. John De Chant, roll call chairman; Mrs. Marshall Haydon, jr., Red Cross; Mrs. J. P. Lyon, vice-chairman of nursing activities; Mrs. Stuart Pattie, home service; Mrs. Mamie Lynch Delaney, motor corp chairman.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

One For Every Occasion

MORE FUNDS FOR JACKSON BANQUET

The committee on the Jackson banquet is holding up the returns to the National Committee until receipts are completed. More returns are expected and those holding tickets may still donate during the next few days.

The following guests at the Jackson banquet were registered since the affair: E. H. Hunt, A. H. Utterback, Barton Padgett, Mrs. Pauline Thornhill, and Mrs. E. B. Roland.

The following could not attend the banquet but have subsequently made donations to the county quota: M. G. White, L. W. Lightner, George W. Gossom, Lester W. Huff, A. E. McInteer, E. L. Herring, and Jack Piercy.

The committee has paid over to the Community Leagues the sum of $84.00.

PATRONS HOLD INITIAL MEETING AT HAYMARKET SCHOOL

On Thursday evening of last week the Haymarket Community League held a reception in the new Gainesville District High School auditorium.

Mrs. J. N. Kerr, chairman of the program committee, presided during the evening. The main speaker of the occasion was Superintendent of Schools R. C. Haydon who was introduced by Dr. Wade Payne, chairman of the County Health Board and a leading civic worker of the community.

Mr. Haydon spoke principally of the progress in education in Prince William County.

A very attractive little playlet was given by pupils of the primary grades, and very pretty music was rendered throughout the evening.

Following the program, delightful refreshments were served.

NOTICE

A typewriting class for beginners will be started at Manassas High School February 3, provided there is an enrollment of at least ten pupils. Any one interested in taking the course please call Miss Abbye Lutes at Manassas 113.

Local Dribblers Edge Hyattsville Club, 25-24

The Manassas Fire Department basketball team successfully launched its 1936 campaign by annexing the strong National Guard quint from Hyattsville, Md., here last night at the high school gymnasium in a game characterized by rough play.

Leading the visitors throughout the first three periods by a single point margin the locals displayed an erratic offensive and were unable to establish a convincing lead. Late in the fourth quarter, Manassas leading 19-18, Calhoun of the visitors sank a long field goal, followed by another short one, giving the Marylanders the lead for the first time during the game. Cosgrove countered with two successive field shots for the home team. The Guards again took the lead on a field toss by Bosevitch. Leith gave the home team their one-point margin with a field goal a few seconds before the final whistle.

Cosgrove, Leith and Mahan shared scoring honors for the locals with 6

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN CLUB MEMBERS

The Garden Club of Alexandria is planning a mid-winter review termed the "Leap-year Fiesta" to be staged on the evening of Feb. 8 in the auditorium of the new George Washington High School.

The Calloway Studio is directing the performances which will comprise four acts. The feature termed the "gay nineties" will have many prominent Alexandria people fashioned with that period. Over one hundred children are taking part in the show and many other items of worthwhile interest.

Tickets may be obtained through members of the local garden club and are said to be very reasonable in price.

ATTEND MEETING AT WARRENTON

Among those attending the annual meeting of the Warrenton Production Credit Association at Warrenton Tuesday were W. Holmes Robertson, E. R. Conner, A. H. Boatwright, T. Otis Latham, Robert H. Florence, Rolfe Robertson, J. J. Conner, Frank Cox, John Barrett and Hamilton Latham.

GAINESVILLE LEAGUE TO SPONSOR DANCE

The Patrons League of Gainesville District High School will sponsor a dance in the New School auditorium Friday evening, January 24.

A well known orchestra has been engaged for the occasion. As this is the first dance to be held in the new attractive building, a large crowd is expected to be in attendance.

FIREMAN'S DANCE SET FOR FEBRUARY 14

The Manassas Volunteer Fire Department will hold its annual Valentine Dance February 14 at the Manassas High School Gymnasium.

Further details will be announced at an early date.

GARDEN CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. DOWELL

The Manassas Garden Club was delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Dowell on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Dowell and Mrs. Hibbs as hostesses.

After the usual business the meeting was turned over to the program committee who presented Mrs. Barbour of Fairfax, Va., to the large number of members present. Mrs. Barbour gave a very interesting talk on the preparation and fertilization of the soil for flowers, color combinations and color value in the garden, which is dear to the hearts of all garden lovers. She reminded us that this is the season of the year to plan by the fireside our gardens, and spring planting for harmonious results. She closed with the reading of a poem, "One Gardener to Another."

STATE SEED SHOW AT WARRENTON

Wonderful Program Has Been Arranged.

This is the largest show of its kind held in the state. Not only may some of the best seed in the state be seen at this show, but some of the best corn and potatoes produced in the United States. This is made possible by the Interstate corn and potato classes which are open to producers in the United States and Canada. All other classes are open only to state producers. The total premium list amounts to over $500.00.

Another thing that our farmers and farm women should take part in is the adult judging contest to be held the afternoon of the 30th. Gold, silver, and bronze medals will be awarded the winners.

Director John R. Hutcheson will discuss Future Plans of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration at 10:30 a.m. January 30. With things in the present chaotic condition as to production control this topic is more timely than ever.

Many farmers in the state are interested in the work the Soil Conservation Service is doing in Virginia. For this reason Dr. Lyman Carrier, who is in charge of this work in the state, has been asked to appear on the program at 1:30 p.m., January 30. This will be a good time for the farmers of northern Virginia to learn the Government's plan to save the soil.

Prof. C. W. Holdaway, long a favorite with the dairymen of the state, will be on the program at 9:45 a.m. January 31. Prof. Holdaway will have for his subject "The Value of Certified Seed in Profitable Dairy Farming."

With so many changes in farming trends requiring changes in methods, Prof. T. B. Hutcheson offers good and timely advice in his subject Adjusting Farm Operations to Present Day Conditions. Prof. Hutcheson is too well known and appreciated to require any detailed comment.

Since it is becoming more apparent each year that the type of farming should be influenced by the soil type of the farm, S. S. Obenshain, who is in charge of the Soil Survey work in the state will talk on the Practical Value of Soil Survey Work.

W. H. Byrne, who has had years of experience with field seeds will have for his subject, "Why Use Certified Seed?" Good seed is one of the great factors in making a good crop, yet many farmers go on from year to year using inferior seed. Mr. Byrne points out decisively the value of good seed.

Many farmers still think that the sole function of agricultural lime is to sweeten the soil. H. L. Dunton in his talk on Over Liming and Under Liming shows how the effects of lime may be far reaching in giving good or bad results.

D. J. Howard, acting supervisor of rural education in Virginia, in discussing the Future Farmers Responsibility to the Crop Improvement Association, has a subject that should interest the young men attending the Seed Show, as well as their parents. A feature of the show and convention is the annual banquet which is to be held the evening of January 30. There will be no "long-winded after dinner speaker," but plenty of humor and excitement led by Toastmaster E. R. Price, editor of the Extension Division News. The banquet is sponsored by the association but unlike most banquets all farmers, business men, and their wives are invited to attend. It is reported that the members of the Rotary Club of Warrenton and their wives will attend in a body.

CLUB HOSTS TO HIGH ORCHESTRA

Group Led by Instructor Miss Bozarth.

With Ray Ratcliffe on the job as entertainment chairman last Friday evening, the Kiwanians were treated to a most delightful performance by a group of the young folks from Manassas High School. These youngsters have been in training under Miss Harriet Bozarth for about two months, and have attained a high degree of proficiency in such a short time.

Owing to the fact that several prominent members of the club and the young people themselves all wanted to go to the basketball game, the usual business period was largely omitted and the program was put on very promptly. This consisted of three pieces, "Red Sails in the Sunset," "I'm in the Mood for Love" and "Merry Widow Waltz."

The soloist for the orchestra is Sinclair Boatwright. The orchestra consisted of four violins played by Molly Leachman, Elizabeth Davies, Roger Cross and Frank Browning; two mandolins, played by Bobby Lion and Margaret Blakemore; one banjo, played by Garland Boatwright; one cornet played by Thomas Lion; one clarinet, played by Warren Hynson and traps by Burton Dixon.

Several mountain selections were furnished by Garland Boatwright, Thomas and Bobby Lion.

"After the guests had departed the club heard a statement from its new vice-president, Jim Bradford, to the effect that the underprivileged child fund in 1935 had been the means, through the co-operation of Miss Neel and Dr. Marsteller, of hospitalizing 77 children. The club passed a special vote of thanks to Miss Neel on whom the brunt of the work fell.

Ed Conner read a poem which he prepared for the Jackson banquet and which was enjoyed by all present. To date efforts to get this poem from Ed have failed. Better luck by next week, maybe.

Bob Hutchison, former U. S. Governor of the Capitol District, is celebrating Founder's Week gloriously. Yesterday he journeyed to Clarendon as a special guest of the Arlington club and gave them an excellent discussion, and tomorrow evening the Manassas club will be recipients of a similar dissertation.

POSTAL CLERKS' WIVES MEET WITH MRS. ROY BAUSERMAN

With every member present, the Postal Clerks' Wives Club met last evening at the home of Mrs. Roy Bauserman.

After the customary business session, presided over by Mrs. O. O. Holler, president, the club was entertained at bingo. Mr. J. H. Rexrode called the numbers, and the prize went to Mrs. Bauserman.

The hostess served delightful refreshments. Those present were as follows: Mesdames G. G. Allen, A. O. Beane, Harry Blakemore, Roy Blakemore, Reuben Bowers, C. B. Compston, P. J. Cooksey, R. J. Davis, O. O. Holler, B. F. Knox, L. L. Lonas, Mary Pope, L. B. Williams and Gary Woods and Mr. J. H. Rexrode.

CELEBRATES 80th BIRTHDAY

Mr. C. C. Leachman, for many years an official in public life in Prince William County, celebrated his 80th birthday last Thursday. Mr. Leachman received three delightful cakes and many, many cards of congratulation.

ANNUAL CARD PARTY OF CATHOLIC WOMAN'S CLUB

The Catholic Woman's Club will hold its annual card party at the home of Mrs. Mary Pope on the evening of Wednesday, January 29.

Three very attractive door prizes will be given and also a prize for each table.

This is one of the most outstanding affairs of this organization during the year and one which has always been an eminent success. Many tickets have been sold in Washington and Alexandria and arrangements have been made for many guests.

Refreshments will be served during the evening.

ENTERTAINED BY PRESIDENT

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Jacobson were guests of Mrs. Roosevelt at the White House at tea on Friday. That evening they attended a large dinner and dance at Walter Reed Medical Center in Washington.

WOULD MANASSAS BE CHOSEN?

On Thursday, January 16, Miss Ella M. Gardiner, recreational director for the Department of Agriculture, extension division, talked to the high school assembly on "How to Be Beautiful" and held posture clinics during the day which were so well attended that a large number of the students weren't able to get in. After an extended tour of the western states, Miss Gardiner has promised to return to us to complete the clinic.

At a meeting of the Patrons League on Thursday afternoon, Miss Gardiner gave a most interesting talk. She said, in part, that spare time has not only a social value but a physical value. We can benefit by devoting ourselves to such activities that we will not only learn the proper coordination of muscles to use the body well, but to develop to be an interesting and interested person. She asked us to recall any one good time that we had enjoyed the most and said that to almost every one of us some red letter day during adolescence would stand out as the occasion when we had had the Best Time. During the period of adolescence one is a growing social creature, learning how to mix, or how not to. Most all of us have to overcome a touch of the Puritan Conscience and the idea of the dignity in labor and not have a twinge of conscience over good times.

Home, which must be considered in the sense, not only of one's own home, but the neighborhood, community and town in which we live, must be the center. Home must be the place where we look for appreciation and should supply a place where one may put one's treasures and have not one touch. We should each have a place where we can go and be alone and sort out one's ideas. Home has a definite responsibility for the wholesome use of leisure time, as well as the school. Basketball and other sports are fine and develop muscles and team work but Miss Gardiner suggested education in sports which have a carry-over value to an adult, such as tennis, hiking, golf, swimming. Every child who wants to take part in sports should be allowed to play. Music and dramatics have a high carry-over value. A little skill is a godsend in many lines. Education for earning is not all. We need to be educated to LIVE. Adolescents need a place where they can get healthfully weary and where they may spend their leisure time in developing along some line they themselves choose.

If an adolescent had a choice, would he choose Manassas as a place to come to where he could have good times? Have we tennis courts, swimming pool? and last but most important, have we understanding adults and LEADERS?

CHARLES EDWARD JORDAN

Advice has been received of the death of Mr. Charles Edward Jordan in Cristobal, Canal Zone, on Sunday morning, January 19, following an illness of a few days.

Mr. Jordan was born at Haymarket, Va., October 29, 1851 and was, therefore, in his 85th year. His early childhood was spent at the place of his birth until Haymarket was burned by the Federal forces November 5, 1862, following which his family removed to Alexandria, Va., where they remained until 1867 when they returned to rebuild the old home.

While too young to enter the service of the Confederacy along with two older brothers, he was forced to undergo many of the hardships of the conflict about which his keen memory and facile pen enabled him to educate others in the history of that period.

His mother, Mrs. M. A. Jordan, in order to support her family, opened a mercantile business there in 1868 which she and her sons conducted with considerable success, and to which Charles E. contributed in a large measure.

Shortly after work was begun on the Panama Canal, Mr. Jordan, with his wife and two daughters, joined his son there, and he continued in the service of the Canal Commission until some four years ago. During his connection with the commission he filled several positions of trust and responsibility.

His genial personality had made for him a host of friends in his native county and his acquaintance with its citizens extended throughout her borders.

He was a member of the Episcopal Church at Haymarket where he had filled the offices of vestryman and lay reader, and soon after his transfer to the Canal Zone was elected a member of the Vestry of Christ Church By-the-sea, the historic church of the Atlantic side, erected in 1855.

He leaves three sons, William M. Jordan, of Haymarket, Colonel Richard H. (Harry) Jordan, U. S. A., Washington, D. C., and John P. Jordan of Los Angeles, Calif., and three daughters, Mrs. Elmer I. Carruthers, University of Virginia, Mrs. Herman Shirley, Cristobal, Canal Zone, and Mrs. Albert Korsan, of Milwaukee, Wis.

His remains will be returned to his native town where they will rest beside those of his wife and son who preceded him to the grave.

FILMING THRU FOG TOUGHEST CAMERA TASK

Question: Why is a motion picture camera like an airplane?

Answer: Both are defeated by fog. As in the case of the airplanes and the ship at sea, fog—weightless, tasteless, odorless fog—is the one element that still has cameramen, those day miracle workers, licked.

Even for fog scenes, most effective on the screen, real fog can not be used. Acrid-smelling smoke takes its place.

"When fog comes up, cameramen sit down and wait," says George Folsey, A. S. C., an authority on the subject. "They know its hopeless. Even through a thin fog, negligible to the human eye, the most beautiful panorama in the world would look like a picture of the bottom of the bathtub, taken under water."

As chief cameraman of "I Live My Life," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production starring Joan Crawford, Folsey faced this situation recently on location at Catalina Island.

Now finished, the picture will open next Monday and Tuesday at the Dixie Theatre.

The set was erected on one of the tallest bluffs, overlooking the sea. Especially during the morning hours a thin mist would sometimes hover over the hilltop.

To the human eye, the curving shoreline below looked magnificent, but not, Folsey said, to the camera.

However, several inventors are now working on fog-splitting devices which, if perfected, might prove of immeasurable value to air and water transportation as well as the motion picture industry.

"I Live My Life" was directed by W. S. Van Dyke, with Brian Aherne opposite Miss Crawford and Frank Morgan; Aline MacMahon, Eric Blore, Fred Keating and others featured.

GREENWICH 4-H CLUB TO MEET

A LITTLE OWL

By Inno McGill

It is just an owl . . . a little owl. There is nothing distinctive in that fact for all owls have once been "little." But the owl I am going to tell about is really a pretty bird. And, in that, it is unlike the hoot-owl, the barn-owl, and the many uncanny old "Birds of Wisdom" that are well known in this section of the country.

Its head is like a soft, brown muff of seal-skin and its feathers are a blend of orange color and gray gray.

Did it come from some sunny clime and become numb here in the Winter's cold; or is it a native of Prince William? These are just a few of the questions that have been evoked by the presence here in Manassas of the pretty, little owl that was first seen on West Street, Sunday evening, December 9.

Its half-muffled "Who, who, who," made its presence known; a presence that is often unwelcome because of the superstition connected with the call of the owl. Immediately, a hunt was started for the man with a gun who would kill. Within a brief time, resident groups of men and women had assembled on the lawns and, with the aid of strong flash-lights, the little owl was seen to flutter from one house to another and, then, to perch above a window.

And what admiration was lavished on that "cunning, dear, little creature," by the group of young people looking on! Many of them admitted they had never before seen an owl, in Manassas, nor outside the town.

Perhaps the wise, little bird overheard these admissions. However, whether in surprise or disgust, that same night it took up its abode under the eaves of a near-by dwelling. And there, for over six whole weeks, Pretty, Little Owl has remained, day and night, in one identical spot; through fair and stormy weather, to the wonderment of all who have seen it.

It is still remains immovable, with nothing to tell "whence it came, or what's its name."

NOKESVILLE

The silver tea at the Methodist parsonage was a large success. The tea was to raise funds for furniture to furnish the parsonage. Those present said that they enjoyed themselves immensely.

Tuesday, Jan. 14, Nokesville basketball girls and boys went to Falls Church. Our boys lost by a score of 28-9 and our girls tied 21-21.

Fredericksburg girls basketball team will play our girls Tuesday evening, Jan. 21, at 7:45.

Our second county league game, both boys and girls playing, will be here Thursday evening, Jan. 23, with Haymarket as our opponents.

We expect to have a doubleheader here Friday evening, Jan. 24, with Warrenton.

Community League and 4-H Club meetings will be held at the school building the evening of February 4.

We hope everyone makes a hundred per cent on exams which begin here Jan. 28 and end Jan. 30.

PRINCE WILLIAM GIRL

STARRING AT COLLEGE

Miss Kathleen Kerlin, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kerlin of Nokesville is doing her student teaching in the Elementary Department of the Training School of the Fredericksburg State Teachers College where she is teaching the fourth grade.

Miss Kerlin, a sophomore at the college, is majoring in Elementary Education.

She was graduated from the Brentsville District High School, Nokesville, in 1934. While she was a student in high school, Miss Kerlin was a member of the Glee Club, the English Club and of the Basketball Club. She was also secretary of the Junior League and vice-president of the Literary Society.

WATERFALL

The death of the world's great Kipling and England's good King George makes a feeling of despair creep over us, and our mind refuses to function as it should. After all there is comfort in the thought England will have a new King as much even more beloved, and Kipling as all other great writers and poets, in heart and song, will live forever.

Some who had planned to attend the Jackson banquet were much disappointed. Those who did brave the elements made us regret our timidity.

Hats off to those responsible for the novel entertainment at the new district high school Thursday evening. Teachers, parents, pupils and friends enjoyed a real treat in a get-together party or should we say, house warming.

Many of us had never visited the new building. Of course we were delighted with everything. Those who worked so hard for it can be justly proud. Mrs. Kerr, who was mistress of ceremonies, speeches by our school Supt., R. C. Haydon, and Dr. Payne were special attractions.

A sketch by the pupils of the third grade sponsored by their teacher, Miss Benard, "Scene in Traffic Court," was well carried out and we hope a lesson that won't be forgotten by the school children. These lessons in safety traffic rules are really as important as health programs. There was music throughout the evening and after delicious refreshments we had a charming social hour.

We left for our homes with a new joy in our hearts, a new determination that this splendid addition to our public school system will be completed. At no distant date we hope a way will be provided for the last unit to be added.

Many changes have taken place since the first little one-room schools were all we could boast of in the way of free education. They were few and far between. There was one at Antioch for Waterfall and Thoroughfare and any children within three or four miles. If memory serves us right, Haymarket and Gainesville shared a one-room building situated opposite the Methodist Church.

To the Provincial Little Red School we owe much.

FUTURE FARMER BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

A Future Farmer basketball team from each of the counties of Prince William, Stafford, Rappahannock, Fauquier, Loudoun and Fairfax will meet at the Herndon gymnasium Saturday, Jan. 25, for the purpose of determining the winning team from this section of northern Virginia. There will be six games of basketball played by these Future Farmer teams.

The tournament will start at 2:00 p.m. Four games will be played in the afternoon and two games in the evening beginning at 7:30. Each team entering this tournament has won in competition with the other F.F.A. teams in their respective counties. The winner in this tournament will participate in the final meet for the entire section of northern Virginia which will be held at Winchester February 1.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

The Word of God

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

If parents will have their children memorize the daily Bible selections, it will prove a priceless heritage to them in after years.

STINGY SOULS: But whose hath this world's good, and seeth his broth have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him.—1 John 3:17.

A GRACEFUL ACT

We note with gratification and pride that the legislature of Virginia now in session conveyed Virginia's sorrow upon the death of King George to the Royal Family and the British Empire.

Virginia, the mother of the Southern States, is and always has been a true daughter of old England. Her traditions, her honor, her blood are all British. And so, speaking with Senator Daniel, we also say "God bless the late king and God bless the present king—of England!"

MORE KINDNESS

At the sixty-ninth annual meeting of the American Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the president said:

"Those faced with the daily task of directing an animal protective society are forced to the conclusion that human nature improves slowly. Year by year the same types of cruelty cases come to their attention."

Pets are abandoned to starve, or they are inadequately housed and fed, or they are abused in other ways by a great many people, through cruelty or ignorance or indifference. But there is another side to the picture.

There must be a great many animal-lovers in the world who take good care of their own pets and report promptly any cruelty on the part of others which they observe. Many families call a "vet" for a sick dog or cat as they call a doctor for a sick child. We know, too, that boys these days make more feeding stations and bird houses than slingshots, and that nature study has started children observing wild creatures instead of killing them.

Cruel people continue to be cruel to animals—and also to children. But there is much evidence to show that habits of kindness are growing more common.—Alexandria Gazette.

NORTHERN VIRGINIA SCHOOL GROUP HERE TODAY

At the district H meeting last fall the idea developed to have an organization of division superintendents and school trustees. This group agreed to meet at Manassas in mid-winter and such a meeting took place at the Manassas High School today. Every county of northern Virginia was represented except Culpeper whose division superintendent is ill.

Professor R. C. Haydon was elected chairman for the all-day session. A luncheon was served by the Patrons League of Manassas High School at noon. Division superintendents present were Woodson of Fairfax, Americk of Loudoun, Thomas of Fauquier, Williams of Alexandria City, Tyler Miller of Warren and Rappahannock, and Fletcher Kemp of Arlington.

Trustees: Mrs. Ruby Simpson of Arlington, Mrs. Powell, Mrs. Finks and Mrs. Dolph of Fairfax, Mr. Stickler of Warren, Mr. Gulick of Fauquier and Messrs. Arrington, Lloyd and Mrs. McInteer and Mrs. Piercy of Prince William.

Trustees: Mrs. Roy Simpson of Arlington, Mrs. Powell, Miss Finks and Mrs. Dolph of Fairfax, M. Stickler of Warren and Rappahannock, M. Gulick of Fauquier and Messrs. Arrington, Lloyd and Mrs. McInteer and Mrs. Piercy.

Mrs. Floy McInteer, one of the Prince William trustees in attendance, is vice-president of the Northern Virginia Trustees' Association and is the first woman to hold this position.

Mrs. Ruby Simpson of Arlington County made the key talk in the morning.

Most of the day's activities was devoted to discussing proposed and impending legislation which is under consideration at the General Assembly now sitting at the Capital City. Problems arising in school-work also received much attention.

LILLIAN VERNON GILBERT

Miss Lillian Vernon Gilbert, 64, died Thursday morning, January 17, 1936, in Covington, Va.

Miss Gilbert was the daughter of Joseph Clifton and Mary Agnes Ogden Gilbert. She was educated at Randolph - Macon Woman's College, Harrisonburg State Teachers College and George Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn. Miss Gilbert taught school in North Carolina and later served as a home demonstration worker in Virginia. At the time of her death she was with the federal rehabilitation administration in Alleghany and Bath counties.

Miss Gilbert is survived by the following brothers and sisters: A. P. Gilbert of Burkesville, Mrs. F. D. Holderby of Danville, Mrs. Mary A. Brown, H. H. Gilbert and Miss Eva Gilbert of Lynchburg.

She leaves also the following nieces and nephew: Mrs. G. E. Blankenship, Miss Eloise Brown and R. P. Brown, all of Lynchburg.

Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon from Diuguid's chapel, o'clock by Dr. H. P. Clarke and Dr. J. C. Robertson.

Flower bearers were Mrs. Olin Blankenship, Miss Eloise Brown, Mrs. G. E. Blankenship, Mrs. Mas Latchford, Mrs. R. L. Amonette, Miss Virginia Amonette and Miss Katherine Gilbert.

Honorary pallbearers were John Bell Winfree, John Victor, D. L. Taylor, Dr. F. A. Lee, R. L. Amonette, F. C. Steen, R. M. Ogden and Theodore Oakley.

Active pallbearers were W. F. Amonette, R. F. Ogden, N. R. Ogden, Rev. T. W. Ogden, Robert Brown and G. E. Blankenship.

Out of town co-workers and friends of Miss Gilbert here for the funeral were J. S. Willis, state office at Richmond; Miss Helen Ricks and Miss Hallie Hughes, home office at Blacksburg; T. O. Scott, supervisor of Albemarle county; Miss Belle Burke, University; Miss Bessie Miller and Miss M. Ruth Burruss, Free Union; and Miss Sue Ferguson, Hillsville.

AGRICULTURAL DISCUSSION MEETINGS ANNOUNCED

Brentsville district farmers will meet at the Nokesville High School, Saturday afternoon, Jan. 25, at 1:30 o'clock to discuss the topic, "What Is (or was) the Chief Cause of the Depression," while farmers of Manassas district will discuss the same topic at the same hour at the Manassas post office. M. S. Kerlin will preside at Nokesville and W. M. Johnson at Manassas.

The second question for discussion "Do Farmers Want the Federal Government to Help Them Deal with Farm Problems?" is scheduled for 7 p.m., Tuesday, January 28, at the Catharpin school. The same question will be taken up in Haymarket community on Wednesday, Jan. 29, at 7:30 p.m. C. R. McDonald and R. B. Gossom are discussion leaders at Catharpin and Haymarket.

Refreshments, including ham sandwiches and coffee, will be served at the Haymarket meeting Wednesday night and the committee there is making an especial effort to have a large attendance.

ENTERTAINS AT DINNER

Miss Nina Dalton entertained many friends at a delightful dinner party at her home last Saturday evening.

The guests included Miss Phyllis and Edna Hersh and Miss Coda Kincheloe of Fredericksburg State Teachers College, Misses Marion Lynn and Dorothy Snedegar and Messrs. Francis and Lacy Compton, Robert Lloyd, Orville Holler, John Wurdemann and Edward Dalton.

59th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Powell are celebrating their 59th wedding anniversary this week. Mr. Powell says he is 82 and his wife 88, but they have trouble convincing their friends that they have passed so many milestones.

Mr. Powell is the custodian and guide at the Bull Run Battlefield and his knowledge of the two great battles of Manassas has been complemented by many prominent historians who have visited the battlefield.

(QUESTIONS THAT ARE ASKED ABOUT BANKING)

"What obligations does my Bank have to me?"

- Safeguard your deposited money with all possible diligence and protect you against loss from fire, theft, or forgery.
- Make your money available to you when you want it.
- Cash your checks upon the order of your signature when presented by yourself or other duly authorized persons.
- Return to you accurate statements of your account with cancelled checks, which are legal receipts for expenditures.

Your bank is able to meet these obligations through honesty and skill in management which rendered its services worthy of your support and the confidence of the entire community.

NATIONAL BANK OF MANASSAS

E. M. BRIGGS

Edwin M. Briggs, age 67, a prominent farmer of the Minnieville section for many years, died at his late residence there on Monday, Jan. 20.

Mr. Briggs came to this county from New York years ago. His wife is a native of the county.

He enjoyed the friendship of everyone who came in contact with him. His deep sense of appreciation of the fine qualities in other people was very conducive to their affection for him.

Besides his wife, there are three children, one daughter, Jeanette, who still lives at home and two sons, Farnham, who has located at Columbus, Ohio, and Walter who is living in Los Angeles, Calif.

Services were held from his home this afternoon and were conducted by Elder Thomas Alderton of the Primitive Baptist Church, with interment in Pohick Cemetery.

The Solace of Music

Mindful of the value of appropriate music as a means of lending solace and dignity to the last rites, we have made every provision for this impressive feature of our service. Requests for favorite hymns and suggestions from relatives and friends are welcomed and carried out implicitly. We always make a special effort to assure that the musical part of each funeral service we direct is as beautiful and fitting as possible.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

of the Farm and Residential Property of the late Dr. B. F. Iden, near Manassas, Va.

Whereas, Benjamin F. Iden (now deceased) and Virginia Iden, his wife, and John H. Iden, by their deed of trust, date December 1, 1924, and of record in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of Prince William County, Virginia, in Deed Book 80 at pages 235, 236, 237 and 238, conveyed to Andrew L. Todd, as trustee, the tracts or parcels of land hereinafter described, in trust to secure to the New York Life Insurance Company of New York, a corporation of the State of New York, a certain debt therein set forth; and,

Whereas, the said Andrew L. Todd, has resigned as such trustee, and by an order of the Circuit Court of Prince William County, Virginia, entered on October 1, 1934, the undersigned were substituted as trustees in said deed of trust, in the place and stead of the said Andrew L. Todd resigned, and,

Whereas, said beneficiary in said deed of trust, the New York Life Insurance Company, has informed the undersigned Substituted trustees that default has been made in the payment of said debt so secured, and has demanded of them that they execute said deed of trust, and make sale of the property thereby conveyed for the satisfaction of said debt so secured;

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that the undersigned, acting as such substituted trustees in said deed of trust, pursuant to the requirements of the said New York Life Insurance Company as beneficiary therein, and pursuant to the terms and provisions of said deed of trust, will on WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1935, at Twelve o'clock Noon,

COMMISSIONER'S SALE OF FARM LAND

By virtue of a decree entered in the cause of The Federal Land Bank of Baltimore, complainant, and Marshall R. Payne et al, defendants, entered by the Circuit Court of Prince William County, Virginia, on the 2nd day of December, 1935, and by reason of more than thirty days since the entry of said decree have elapsed since the entry thereof in the certain matter, or cause, styled as above, and therein pending, and default having continued ever since and doth continue at present, the undersigned commissioners, Peyton G. Jefferson and Thos. H. Lion, commissioners of sale in said decree named, will offer for sale, by way of public auction, at the front door of the Court House of Prince William County, in the town of Manassas, Virginia, at about 11 o'clock, A. M., on SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1936, that certain tract, or parcel, of land located near Fayman, Coles Magisterial District, Prince William County, Virginia, containing 100 acres, more or less, and particularly described in a certain mortgage to said The Federal Land Bank, by a mortgage recorded in Deed Book 76, folio 424, of Prince William County Clerk's Office. This tract of land was formerly a part of the farm known as the "Did Herndon" farm, and is susceptible of high state of cultivation. This tract has a dwelling and outbuildings thereon.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third cash, the balance upon a credit of one and two years, payable in equal installments, to be evidenced by the purchaser's notes, bearing interest at six per cent from date of sale, and continuing a waiver of the homestead exemption, title to the said land to be retained until the whole of the purchase money, with interest, at the option of the purchaser.

PEYTON G. JEFFERSON, THOS. H. LION, Commissioners of Sale.

This is to certify that bond, in the penalty of $1500.00 as required by the decree of sale mentioned in the above entitled cause, has been executed before me, with approved security, by Thos. H. Lion, one of the commissioners of sale set forth in said decree.

Given under my hand this 13th day of January, 1936.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE LAND

Under and by virtue of a deed of trust executed by Earl Lynn on the 17th day of July, 1916, and recorded in Deed Book 68, folio 244, of the County Clerk's Office of Prince William County, Virginia, and by authority of a decree entered in the cause of The Peoples National Bank against James B. Cole et al, the undersigned trustee will offer for sale at public auction on SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1936 at about 11 o'clock A. M. of that day the following tracts or parcels of land:

First—One parcel with a store house and dwelling thereon, of about 2 acres, at Independent Hill.

Second—About 32 acres adjoining the lands of Luther Carter, L. A. Larkin, heirs.

Third—About 8 acres; all of said land formerly belonging to J. L. Keys estate, and was devised to Earl Lynn, and located in and around the village of Independent Hill.

TERMS OF SALE: Cash sufficient to pay a note of $55.00, with interest from date of said trust, to-wit, July 17, 1916, and ten per cent as costs of collection, subject to a credit of $1.00 as of October 9, 1916, and the costs of executing said trust, and as to the residue, upon such credit as the person, or persons, interested in said land may designate on the day of sale; if they shall fail to designate upon what terms, cash will be required for the whole amount.

The parcels of land will be offered and sold separately, beginning with No. 1, and if that brings enough to satisfy said debt and the costs of executing this trust, the other parcels will not be offered. If it does not bring enough to satisfy the debt aforesaid, then No. 2 will be offered, and so on until the three parcels have been sold, or said debt satisfied.

THOS. H. LION, Trustee.

J. P. Kerlin, Auctioneer.

Lloyds & National Provincial Foreign Bank, Limited, a corporation, complainant, vs.

Loranda Batchelder Laidlaw, principal defendant, and David J. Batchelder, trustee, co-defendant.

IN ATTACHMENT

The object of the above-styled suit is to require the co-defendant, David J. Batchelder, trustee, to answer the bill of the complainant, Lloyds & National Provincial Foreign Bank, Limited, a corporation, under oath and make a full and true discovery, under oath, of all matters set out in said bill that are within his knowledge; to require him to file with his answer all trust instruments or agreements in which he is named trustee and in which the principal defendant, Loranda Batchelder Laidlaw, is named a beneficiary, or certified or otherwise properly authenticated copies of the same; to require the said David J. Batchelder, trustee, in his answer to set forth a true and perfect statement of all items of property in his hands or standing in his name or subject to his control as trustee for the said Loranda Batchelder Laidlaw, together with a statement of the annual income from and present location of the same, and the extent to which he is indebted, as trustee or otherwise, to the said Loranda Batchelder Laidlaw; to have declared null and void as to the complainant any of said trust instruments or agreements that were executed by the said Loranda Batchelder Laidlaw for her own use and benefit, and also any of them that partake of the character of "Spendthrift Trusts"; to obtain a judgment by the said complainant against the said Loranda Batchelder Laidlaw for the sum of $10,357.18, together with interest

FAIRFAX STATION

The sick list continues to grow in the community. Mrs. H. B. Jones is able to be about again. Mrs. G. A. Hall is confined to her bed with an attack of grippe. Mrs. E. H. Krehbiel and children have been confined at home with severe colds. The school attendance has suffered greatly on account of chicken pox and colds.

Fairfax school is making preparations for the expected visit of the dentist this week.

Mrs. G. C. Mellender entertained at a surprise birthday luncheon on Monday in honor of Mrs. E. H. Krehbiel. A huge birthday cake adorned the table and at the place of the guest of honor was a plateful of greetings from relatives and friends in other states who were unable to be present, also a number of lovely gifts. A dainty three course luncheon was served. Besides the guest of honor and her two small sons, the guests included Mrs. Lark Blunt, Mrs. Irene Hall and Miss Carrie Davis. Following the luncheon a pleasant afternoon was spent and the guests departed wishing Mrs. Krehbiel many such birthdays.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. Harris, of South Carolina, have moved into the Pope's Head schoolhouse. Mrs. Harris is a sister of Mrs. Kemp Mattingly and Mrs. Schuyler Dolinger. Mr. and Mrs. Harris are well known in the neighborhood having lived here some years ago.

CURWOOD'S 'HE-MAN'
YARN OF THE NORTH-
WOODS WILL THRILL

Riding the wheels of death Kermit Maynard and one of the most dangerous desperadoes of the West are locked in a struggle that means death to one or the other — or both. The train must drive through a trestle that has been put on fire — Maynard fights like he never has before. Will he come through safely.

This is but one of the many hair-raising situations in Ambassador's latest dramatic thunderbolt, "Timber War," based on James Oliver Curwood's noted story of the great lumber lands of the far West, starring Kermit Maynard, which opens next Friday and Saturday at the Dixie Theatre, with Lucille Lund, Wampas Baby Star and "The All-American Girl" as his leading lady.

"Timber War" is regarded as one of Curwood's outstanding stories and has been produced for the screen with sweeping, life-like strokes. To admirers of two-fisted, red-blooded men and tales of the open spaces this film should carry great appeal.

"Timber War" tells the story of an orphaned girl who is left half ownership of a vast lumber mill and is helpless to overcome the treachery of an unscrupulous manager, who is involved in a plot with a rival mill to wreck his own plant. The other owner of the mill, the girl's partner, is a dissolute young man who hasn't seen the place in years. It is only when his best friend takes charge of the situation that things begin to happen.

In the supporting cast are such sterling players as Lawrence Gray, Robert Warwick, Wheeler Oakman, Lloyd Ingraham, Roger Williams, Patricia Royal and Jim Pierce. The film was adapted by Joseph O'Donnell and Barry Barringer and directed by Sam Newfield.

MRS. TOWERS TO ENTERTAIN WELLINGTON WOMEN

The Wellington Home Demonstration Club will hold its January meeting at the home of Mrs. Alberta Towers on Tuesday, January 28, at 1:30 o'clock. The topic for demonstration is Hooked Chair Seats.

The women of Wellington community are invited to attend and to bring materials: burlap, old materials and crocheted needle.

Your subscription label tells whether a subscription is due.

CLIFTON

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian Church gave a social in the Masonic Hall last Saturday evening.

Mr. G. B. Spindle, who has been a patient in Walter Reed Hospital, has returned home much improved.

Miss Catherine Detwiler is staying in Washington during January and February. She is employed at the Bureau of Mines.

Mrs. S. H. Detwiler is visiting her daughter, Mrs. D. W. Buckley, for the remaining winter months.

Mrs. Nannie K. Johnson and daughter, Mrs. Edward Detwiler, were Washington shoppers last Friday.

Miss Kirtley of the school faculty is quite sick and Mrs. C. R. Buckley is substituting for her.

Mrs. Betty Lewis is the guest of Mrs. William Huntley Mathers.

Mr. and Mrs. Compton Davis are the proud parents of a son, Compton Ashford Davis, born last week.

Mrs. Ralph Taylor is the guest of her parents at Cherrydale, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. George Carroll have moved from the village out to their farm.

Mr. and Mrs. James Buckley are having their house painted and remodeled.

Mrs. Joseph Beasley was a Manassas visitor last week.

BETHEL HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB MEETING

The Bethel Home Demonstration Club held its January meeting at the home of Mrs. E. E. Payne in Occoquan on Thursday, the 16th.

The meeting began at 10 o'clock in the morning for the purpose of working on splint and reed baskets. Swinging baskets, fireside baskets and trays were begun.

Lunch was enjoyed picnic style, each lady having brought her own, and delicious coffee was served by the hostess as an accompaniment.

Mrs. H. Yorkdale, the chairman, presided at a very short business meeting in the afternoon. The Home-makers Creed was repeated as is customary at each business session. At the roll call each member responded to her name by repeating a favorite selection from a favorite poem. A large attendance was present.

The officers and leaders of the club were asked to attend the training school to be conducted by Miss Maude E. Wallace in Manassas on Friday, January 17.

The regular February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. W. Patterson in Woodbridge on Tuesday, the 4th. Rug making will be demonstrated at this time.

A call meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Eva Fairbanks in Bethel on Thursday, February 20. The baskets and trays will be completed at this time.

PAIN IN BACK and HEAD

Mrs. P. W. Johnson of 1207 W. Cary St., Richmond, Va., said: "Some years ago I was not feeling well at all. I was thin and had scarcely any strength, hardly slept a wink at night and everything seemed to upset me. I suffered badly from headaches, and pains across my back further added to my misery. After using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription my appetite was good, I gained weight and strength and felt fine." New size, tabs, 50c. Liquid $1.00 & $1.35.

CATHARPIN

Here's the latest anent the road situation: A lady driving up to Catharpin inquired: "How is the big hill?" A boy standing near replied: "Well, it's not so hot."

Miss Sallie McIntosh, an elderly and highly respected lady of near the "residue" of Old St. John's church, was taken to the Alexandria hospital on Monday last suffering from an injured hip, the result of a fall some 4 weeks ago. The uncertainty as to the nature of the injury necessitated the x-ray to determine; hence her removal. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery and an early return home.

The Rev. and Mrs. A. B. Sapp and grandson, Billy, spent several days in Denton, Md., last week visiting Mr. Sapp's sister, who lives in that city.

Miss Emily Polen of near Catharpin, a senior of the Haymarket high school, spent Friday night with Miss Ann Robertson after helping to win a basket ball game from the Manassas team. The Manassas boys were more fortunate, they winning their game from the Haymarket boys.

Mrs. J. W. Alvey was a caller at the home of Mrs. Baldwin "over in Loudoun" on Monday last.

Miss Adaline Polen of Washington spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Polen, over on the banks of Old Bull Run.

Many were the patrons and friends who attended the reception tendered by the teachers, pupils and league at the new school building in Haymarket on Thursday night, the 16th. This was planned in order that all could see the new building of which the community is very proud. A fine program was rendered by the pupils followed by speeches and refreshments. This was the first public gathering in the new building and all were delighted with what they saw and heard. The faculty is now organizing a school orchestra from among the pupils and a number in Catharpin community are much interested. It has always been the opinion of this column that an organization of this kind is just about the finest thing that any student body could have. Its influence and possibilities are so great that it really should be a part of the regular course of study. Our hope is that it may meet with unbounded success.

To those living in the country, the significance of a Fire Department is but little understood. Readers of the Journal often see notices of the various activities of the Fire Department of that city and how much the "Fire Laddies" are appreciated by the people, but until one can see them in action he can not fully realize just what they mean to the person in distress.

While visiting in the County Seat one day last week, we were startled by a long blast of the municipal fire whistle which, according to a pre-arranged signal code, told every one that a fire was in progress some place "out of town." Naturally, there was but one question—where is it? but the thing that interested us most was that before one had had time to regain his composure, the fire engine fully equipped came roaring down street on its way to the seat of trouble; the time elapsing between signal and action could not have been more, if as much, as five minutes. Remarkable indeed; so much so that one could only wonder.

The Manassas Fire Department is manned solely by unpaid volunteers; young men full of pep, ability and a willingness to drop everything and run the moment the signal tells them they are needed. To visualize the situation correctly, one has to think of them all busy at their various occupations; some at their desks, some behind counters, some at their work benches, all scattered hither and yon busy with duty and none "expecting" a call; yet before the whistle has spent its force, many of these men are flying through the streets to the engine house and their particular posts of duty. The efficiency of this organization can be well understood when it is realized that in five minutes, or less the engine was fully manned and three blocks from its garage and speeding on its way. No wonder, then, that the people appreciate the services of these "boys" and the protection they give the community.

The Manassas Fire Department has no limited area over which it operates but responds to calls any place within its ability to reach. The "boys" have won a number of cups in contests with other fire departments for their general efficiency and stand high among their contemporaries of other places. When the services rendered and the scope embraced by its activities, the Manassas Fire Department is really a part of Prince William and adjacent counties as well as of the "city of its birth" insofar as its usefulness is concerned and therefore is loved, admired and appreciated by the neighborhood in general.

"I will pay my subscription," is a good New Year Resolution.

BERNARD SHAW GAVE HIM HIS FIRST "BREAK"

Besides being a celebrated stage star, Edmund Gwenn is probably the only person in Hollywood, and one of few in all the world, who carries on a regular correspondence with George Bernard Shaw.

Gwenn makes an American film debut in the featured role of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Bishop Misbehaves" with Maureen O'Sullivan and Norman Foster. The new picture comes next Wednesday and Thursday to the Dine Theatre.

"I wouldn't be here now," the actor said, "if it hadn't been for Shaw."

The story of their friendship goes back thirty years to the time when Gwenn was an unknown young actor. Disowned by his father for going on the stage, he had been tramping in English stock companies for ten years at that time.

One night he played his well-worn part in the one-act skit, "In the Hospital." It was just another performance to Gwenn until a card arrived in the mail next morning. It was from Shaw, then in full stride as critic and playwright. He had been in the theatre and now invited Gwenn to play the important role of the chauffeur in his about-to-be-produced "Man and Superman."

Gwenn has never had to worry about engagements since. The friendship grew through five other Shaw plays, "John Bull's Other Island," "You Never Can Tell," "Major Barbara," "Captain Brassbound's Conversion" and "The Devil's Disciple."

Meantime motion pictures had developed and begun to overtake the stage.

"In spite of my good fortune in the theatre," Gwenn relates, "picture producers had ignored me until Shaw came along again. He had decided to let them film 'How He Lied to Her Husband' and insisted upon my playing the husband."

The aftermath of this was 21 English and foreign-made pictures in which he was either starred, co-starred or featured. Among these was the recent smash hit, "Be Mine Tonight," in which he played the Mayor.

His most recent vehicle, "Laburnum Grove," was written especially for him by J. B. Priestley. It ran continuously for one and one-half years, in London and New York.

Gwenn was on the M-G-M stages, in his Bishop's frock, exactly one week after closing the show.

E. A. Dupont directed "The Bishop Misbehaves." The cast includes Lucile Watson, Reginald Owen, Dudley Digges and others.

What Are You Doing to Boost MANASSAS?

THINK OF IT!!

MORE THAN HALF THE STATES HAVE DEFERRED AUTOMOBILE REGISTRATION DATES, SO THAT OWNERS WON'T HAVE TO PAY LICENSE FEES ON TOP OF 10 CENTS AND NEW YEAR'S BILLS!!

THE EARLY AUTOMOBILE OWNERS OPERATED ON SPARED GAS AND WASTED THE CREDIT

THE $100,000,000 PAID YEARLY IN FEDERAL GASOLINE TAXES WOULD BUY ENOUGH FUEL TO FILL THE TANK OF EVERY U.S. AUTOMOBILE 5 TIMES AND RUN IT 500 MILES!!

THE GASOLINE TAX IS THE "BATTERY" OF THE AUTOMOBILE TAX! FIRST LAYED IN THE AVERAGE MAN'S FIRST YEAR OF A BILLION!!

ABOUT 12% OF ALL TAX REVENUE COMES FROM THE PETROLEUM INDUSTRY AND ITS CONSUMERS!!

JAN. MEETING OF BETHLEHEM GOOD HOUSEKEEPERS CLUB

The Bethlehem Good Housekeepers Club was entertained on Wednesday, January 15, at the home of Mrs. W. S. Athey, Mrs. R. L. Lloyd, assistant hostess. A large percentage of the members were present with the following guests:

Miss Nolie Nelson, Mrs. A. O. Weedon, Mrs. Dennis Baker, Mrs. R. P. Smith and Mrs. Lucy Smith, a house guest of Mrs. Athey.

Mrs. T. J. Broadus, the new president, graciously welcomed the visitors and stated some of the aims for the year.

Mrs. Katie Lewis Burks, who was a charter member of the club, was welcomed back to rejoin our ranks. Mrs. Viola Proffitt was voted in as a new member.

The chairmen of the committees all responded with outstanding reports.

The treasurer was instructed to pay $5 toward soup at the graded school which is being served to the underprivileged children.

The president appointed the committees for the year and the hostesses for each month.

Mrs. W. S. Athey introduced Mrs. Dennis Baker who entertained the club with a very fine musical number.

Mrs. C. R. C. Johnson gave a short account of the life of Lisette Woodward Reese and read from "A Wayside Lute" by Miss Reese the sonnet, "Tears." This was followed with "The Wayfarer" by the same author.

The hostesses were assisted in serving delicious refreshments by Mrs. Dudley Martin and Master Jack Martin.

Mrs. Hebe Jackson and Miss Florence Kinchloe will be hostesses for the February meeting.

MRS. KEYS NEW HEAD OF DUMFRIES GROUP

The officers of Dumfries Home Demonstration Club will meet at the home of Mrs. McGruder Keys on Wednesday, January 29, at 1:30 p.m. to plan the program of work for the year. Officers elected for the year are: president, Mrs. McGruder Keys; vice-president, Mrs. Goldie Brawner; secretary, Mrs. Ralph Carder; treasurer, Mrs. Florence Walker; leaders, Mrs. Robert Mooney and Mrs. R. F. Persons.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Life" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 19.

The golden text was "This is the record that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in His Son" (I John 5:11).

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom I shall be afraid? Wait on the Lord: be of good courage, and he shall strengthen thine heart: wait, I say, on the Lord" (Psalms 27: 1-14).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mark Baker Eddy: "Life is without beginning and without end. Eternity, not time, expresses the thought of Life, and time is no part of eternity. One ceases in proportion as the other is recognized" (p. 468).

HAYFIELD 4-H CLUB

On December 12 we had a call meeting to make plans for our Christmas tree. The meeting was called to order by our president. The club decided to have a Christmas tree and program. A committee was appointed to get the tree. The club decided to buy a present for Miss Pitts. Mrs. E. L. Herring and Patsy Keys were put on a committee to select the present. The meeting was adjourned.

On December 19 our president opened the meeting at 7 o'clock p.m. Some of the members decorated the tree. We sang some Christmas songs. Miss Pitts taught us how to make popcorn balls. Santa Claus visited us and I think he treated everyone very nice. We were very glad to have Miss Flora Bullock of Manassas visit our club. Refreshments were served and the boys helped to wash the dishes. The meeting was adjourned until the third Friday in January.

Our last regular meeting was held on January 19. Miss Pitts was unable to be with us. The meeting was called to order by the president. We talked about our projects for the year. The president read the goals for 1936. We talked about having a play and committees were appointed to select the plays. We sang some songs. Refreshments were served and the meeting was adjourned.

Lee-Jackson

past. The childhood of this illustrious character was spent in a home which was devoted to the highest ideals and which inculcated within his bosom those sterling characteristics that marked his later life. He was born in Westmoreland County, Va., and the name of his home, which through the undaunted efforts of the United Daughters of the Confederacy has been made a national shrine, and properly so, is Stratford. Anyone who visits this home cannot but receive a certain inspiration which is of a lasting nature. Lee as a youth was a kind, considerate, devoted, and faithful son. His first thoughts were of his mother, who, he has stated, was the person who shaped the course of his destinies, a tribute which could not be surpassed. As a young man he was educated at the United States Military Academy and was graduated at the head of his class. Upon leaving the Academy he was commissioned an officer in the United States Army. He remained in the Army until the outbreak of the War Between the States, having served as chief engineer of the Army in the Mexican War. His record as an officer was excellent. This fact was brought to the attention of the Military Academy where there was unveiled in the auditorium of that institution a life-size portrait of Lee, who prior to the outbreak of the War had served as superintendent of the United States Military Academy. These achievements in and of themselves demonstrate the qualifications of this man as a soldier and as an educator.

"Shortly after his graduation Lee turned his eyes to the old Commonwealth for the purpose of rounding out a complete and happy life. There he found the captain of his ship of life, Mary Custis, a great-granddaughter of Martha Washington. To this happy union there were born several children. A strong tie of affection bound Lee to his wife and family. At all times Lee's first thoughts were of his family and their welfare, and he watched over his children, advising and recommending to them the various steps in life to take in order to become worthy citizens. This characteristic is clearly shown by the advice he gave to his son who was a cadet at West Point: 'Duty is the sublimest word in the human language. You cannot do more than your duty; you should never wish to do less.' Lee's beloved wife, during their happy marital journey, became an invalid, and while laboring under this hardship, she received the most tender consideration from her husband. He never wanted to leave her, nor would he participate in the social functions owing to the inability of his wife to accompany him and enjoy the festivities.

"A difficult question was presented to Lee upon the secession of his State from the Union. At the time when Virginia seceded from the Union, Lee was a ranking officer in the United States Army. He was offered the position of commander-in-chief of the entire Army, but his love and devotion for his native State was so strong that he willingly and readily sacrificed his own material interest to assist his State in a cause which he thought to be just. The room wherein he accepted the command of the army of Northern Virginia is located in the capital of this State and remains in the same condition in which it was found immediately after the conflict. This room is honored by the State of Virginia, and special permission has to be obtained in order to be admitted therein. The maneuvers and conflicts launched under the command of Lee were perfect in plan and execution. He had a keen and strategic military mind as shown by his achievements while undergoing most distressing conditions. I am told that his campaigns are studied with great care in all the military schools of Europe and that his campaigns are taught as a lesson in military strategy at the United States Military Academy at the present time. Lee was continuously worried as to the welfare, health, and happiness of his men and did everything within his power for their comfort.

"Lee was a devout and ardent Christian from youth. He had great faith in his Divine Maker, and before entering upon the duties of the day, he would commune alone with his God. His life as a Christian was an example to all; he completely embodied the principles and precepts of the Golden Rule. At no time did he disregard the feelings of his fellowmen, but was always ready and willing to assist and counsel.

"Upon the termination of the conflict, Lee was left in a homeless and destitute condition. Though the years of hardship and worry had begun to show upon his brow, he was not willing to give up his activeness but rather determined to start anew. He fully realized that, as a soldier, his life was closed and that it was necessary for him to turn to some new endeavor. Fame and fortune were never sought by Lee though fame and fortune sought Lee. After his retirement from the Army he was offered a lucrative position with a large company, but as was so characteristic of him, he did not wish for the material things of life, but chose rather to serve in a station where he thought he was most needed. It was due to this feeling that he accepted the presidency of Washington College. With his efforts this college, which had been originally endowed by George Washington, was again opened and recognized as one of the leading institutions of the South, a position which it now holds. His declining days were spent at Washington College where he personally instructed the youth of the South and taught them to harbor no animosity toward their Northern brothers, but to live as one nation, laying aside any sectional differences and prejudices.

"These remarks would be incomplete on an occasion of this nature unless reference be made to that person who throughout the Conflict Between the States served as Robert E. Lee's right arm, Thomas Jonathan Jackson. Though the years of Jackson's life were few his accomplishments were far more than those of many who live a full life. Fate saw fit to deprive the South of his energy before the close of the conflict, and when he was but thirty-nine. Portraits of this man make him look much older which fact is significant of his early maturity. He was, like his commander, born in Virginia, but his life was not an easy one and his achievements were all gained by his own perseverance; for he was left an orphan at the age of three and never had the counsel of a mother and father. As a boy, he was one who did not allow obstacles to impede his progress. His determination to succeed in life and overcome all hardships in clearly depicted by the manner in which he gained admission to West Point. Upon hearing that his Congressman had at his disposal a cadet ship, he though unable to travel in the customary manner due to his poverty set out on foot, scantily clad, and with all of his worldly belongings in a bag strapped to his back, to appear before his Congressman in Washington and personally endeavor to obtain the appointment. He arrived hungry, dirty, and tired, though he immediately gained an interview. His pluck so appealed to the Congressman that he made the appointment, as requested, without hesitation. This episode clearly demonstrates the determination which Jackson possessed and which was one of his outstanding characteristics.

"His cadet ship was by no means easy for in his class were some of the most brilliant students of that day; McClellan, Gibbon, Pickett, and Maury. Jackson found the life at West Point rather hard, but he applied his efforts very diligently and wasted none of his spare moments. By hard work he succeeded in graduating and winning a commission in the United States Army. He was not a brilliant student, but a thorough student, and as was said by one of his professors, if the course had been a year or two longer, he would have been at the head of his class or near it.

"His first command of any importance was in the Mexican War where he proved himself a valuable officer. He served throughout the war with honor to his country and distinction to himself. In 1851 he was detailed to the school which is now V. M. I. as a professor of physics. His life while at Lexington was that of a Southern gentleman and he was a great friend of the colored man. He radiated a certain tranquility and was a religious and worthy citizen.

"At the outbreak of the Conflict Between the States, he, though not in accord with secession, relinquished his connection with the Federal Government in order to serve his State, which he loved. His courage and bravery while with the Confederate forces was unexcelled by any other field officer. His commanding officer recognized in him, though he was very young, the characteristics of a great commander and placed his entire confidence in him by putting him in command of the most strategic points. It was not many miles from here, upon that hallowed ground, that he received his name of 'Stonewall,' as you all know, a tribute given him by a brother officer for his firmness and steadiness of position. It was he who was in command of the famous Shenandoah Valley Campaign which is one of the greatest military expeditions of all times. I could not familiarize you with all of his military activities; for I dare say you are more familiar with them than I.

"The most unfortunate event of the war and one from which the South never recovered was the wounding of Jackson at Chancellorsville. This wound was inflicted, through a mistake in identity, by his own forces, and while recovering from these wounds and the amputation of his left arm he contracted pneumonia and died. His death caused great commotion in the Confederate forces and one which never ceased to exist. By his untimely death, the Confederate forces lost a great leader and Virginia a noble son.

"There remains another Southern character whose name has not been honored as highly as it should be. His accomplishments and invaluable assistance to the South were parallel with those of Lee and Jackson. This man was a gallant sailor and a noted scientist. He is no other than Matthew Fontaine Maury. To this individual belongs the entire credit for the Confederate Navy. He, too, like Lee and Jackson, was born and reared in Virginia. As a youth he entered the Navy as a midshipman. He and Stonewall Jackson when young men became close and lasting friends. Maury, like Lee and Jackson, was a devout Christian and attributed his success to having been properly guided by his God, in whom he placed his whole faith and who he said was his single counselor.

"Upon graduating from the Academy with honors he served in the United States Navy. His first outstanding accomplishment was a book which he wrote on navigation while making a trip around the world on a United States Frigate. This book has received wide recognition and today is considered an authority on navigation. Maury was a very young man when he wrote this treatise. He, like Jackson, was greatly handicapped at a very early age by becoming a cripple, but this disability did not prevent him from climbing upward on the ladder of fame. His services to the United States Navy were so valuable that instead of being retired he was detailed to the Hydrographic office in Washington. In matters pertaining to the ocean he was considered the foremost authority of the day. Through his constant efforts and perseverance the United States Navy for the first time became a strong and lasting institution. Maury remained in the service of the United States Navy until the outbreak of the War between the States, having advanced to a position of considerable importance and being recognized as one of the key-men in naval tactics of the Government.

"Like all true sons of Virginia, he, at the outbreak of the War Between the States, sacrificed his own life in order to assist his beloved State, although history records that he, personally, was not in accord with the idea of secession, but though that the differences between the States could be adjusted in a more amicable manner. Upon entering the service of his State he was placed in charge of its Navy, and was stationed at Richmond, Va., where he established the first naval submarine battery station. To Mathew Fontaine Maury goes the credit for the Confederate Navy.

"At the close of the war Maury, realizing that his services in the United States Navy were no longer needed, journeyed to Mexico and entered the cabinet of Maximilian. Maximilian, immediately recognizing the genius of this man, sent him to Europe on a special mission to represent him. He remained in Maximilian service until the fall of the Empire. Maury then returned to the United States pursuing his scientific and literary work. Being recognized as a great scholar he was made president of the University of Alabama, a post which he occupied for several years. Toward the end of his life he again turned to Virginia and his eyes became stamped on a hallowed spot of that great state, Lexington. His last days were spent at Lexington where he occupied the same post at V. M. I. which had previously been occupied by Stonewall Jackson. While teaching the youth of the new South he was called by his Divine Maker to his heavenly abode.

"The lives of these three men are very closely interwoven and should serve to broaden the vision, temper the hearts and inculcate love, respect and devotion to Almighty God in the man of today."

WM. HILL BROWN, JR.

THOMAS HARRISON HOLMES

Thomas Harrison Holmes, a lifelong resident of Canova, Prince William County, died at the home of his son in Savage, Md., on Sunday, Jan. 19, after an illness of only a few hours. Although he was in his 80th year, his health generally was good until he was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage last Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Holmes, the youngest of nine children, was born at the old Holmes homeplace near Harrison's Ford on Nov. 15, 1856. His mother was Mary Carter and his father, Harrison Holmes. His sister, Mrs. Nathaniel Crump, who lives near Horton, is the only surviving member of his immediate family.

His forebears played a prominent part in the early history of Prince William County. The family history indicates that there were three of the Holmes brothers who came to this country from England. One established himself in the State of Massachusetts, one returned to England, and the other, who was the ancestor of Mr. Holmes, settled in Prince William County, near Harrison's Ford.

The charter for the original grant of land, which extended into what is now Fauquier and Stafford Counties, was received by the Holmes family from the King of England.

later at Point Lookout prison, but his brother escaped and returned home. It was said that his grandfather, Thomas Holmes, owned 99 slaves when the war ended.

Mr. Holmes was twice married, his first wife being Georgia Anna Norman, and to this union were born two daughters, Mrs. Eva Hall (now deceased), and Mrs. Eula Storke, of Mt. Rainier, Md. His second wife was Lillian Roberta Sullivan. By this marriage he had eight sons, who survive him. They are Preston, Wendell and Lester of Maryland, Thomas and Harry of Washington, D. C., and Stanley, Madison and Shelton of Manassas. Also thirteen grandchildren.

The funeral, under the auspices of Bull Run Council No. 15, O.F.A., of which the deceased was a member, was held at Woodbine Church Wednesday afternoon, with the Rev. J. Murray Taylor officiating. Interment was in Manassas cemetery. There was a profusion of beautiful wreaths which entirely covered the grave and a large group attended despite the roads and weather.

RECENT CONVICTIONS IN POLICE COURT

The following arrests were made by County Officer Wittner and were fined $10 and costs by Judge Wm. Hill Brown, Jr.

Wm. Meads, James Rich for reckless driving.

Aaron Cully, no permit; Robert Licsen, Benny Leonard, Phillip Flynn and Archie Jacolucci for theft of gas.

Robert Griffith, arrested by State officer M. G. Sneed, was also fined $10 and costs.

FORD ALMANAC AND FACT BOOK

Interesting Publication for Rural Population.

Publication of a "Farm Almanac and Facts Book" which will be distributed to the rural population in all parts of the country was announced today by the Ford Motor Company.

The book is of a convenient pocket size, containing 48 pages. It is unusual in makeup and content, presenting an extensive array of handy tables, statistics and charts for the assistance of the farmer and business man. Other sections are designed to aid the farm wife.

This first Ford Almanac is published for 1936 and is now being distributed. It carries a readily available calendar on the back cover and contains tables showing the time of rise and set of sun and moon in all parts of the country every day of the year. Other helpful and interesting astrological and astronomical information is included.

Among the other prominent sections of the book are: A list of memorable historic events for each day of the year, facts about the universe, explanations of physical phenomena, a list of important festivals and anniversaries for the year, rules for forecasting weather conditions, population statistics, fact and records on farming as an industry, discussion of the farm of the future, information on citizenship and naturalization, a brief review of the history and development of the United States, "do's and don'ts" for use in emergencies, poisons and their antidotes, instructions for flower and vegetable gardening, crop seed sowing instructions, a list of places of interest to the tourist, parcel post rules and regulations, temperature and rainfall chart, dates of killing frosts in all parts of the country, and a table of distances between the principal cities of the country.

Stories on the founding and development of the Ford Motor Company and about the Ford Rouge Plant, word pictures of famous Edison Institute Museum and quaint Greenfield Village, established within a few miles of the Rouge Plant, are other features of the Ford Farm Almanac.

PEOPLES BANK ELECTS OFFICERS

On January 14 the stockholders of the Peoples National Bank of Manassas met and elected the following directors:

George D. Baker, E. R. Conner, T. E. Dillake, A. A. Hooft, T. R. Hurst, G. Raymond Ratcliffe and C. A. Sinclair.

Immediately following the stockholders meeting the directors announced their selection of the following officers:

President, C. A. Sinclair, vice-president and cashier, G. Raymond Ratcliffe; assistant cashier Worth H. Storke.

PROVED IN '35, NOW BETTER THAN EVER, THE FORD V-8 TRUCK GIVES YOU:

80 HORSEPOWER V-8 ENGINE—downdraft carburetion—exhaust valve seat inserts—improved crankcase ventilation.

IMPROVED COOLING—with larger, 19-in. fan—exhaust type hood louvers—radiator of flat tube and fin construction.

STRONGER FULL-FLOATING REAR AXLE—heavier shafts, new cone locks between shaft bolts and wheel hub.

FULL TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE—with radius rods for positive axle and wheel alignments, longer tire wear, surer braking.

RIS-COOLED BRAKES—self-centering shoes, reinforced cast alloy non-scoring drums.

NEW NEEDLE ROLLER BEARINGS for universal joints.

HEAVY-DUTY CLUTCH—centrifugal action increases capacity from 100% to 400% at high engine speeds—large diameter plates for long life—pedal pressure reduced 25% at starting and shifting speeds.

EXTRA HEAVY DUTY FRAME—high carbon pressed steel, with full channel depth cross members.

CORRECT LOAD DISTRIBUTION—more room in cab—more loading space ahead of rear axle.

GREATLY REDUCED MAINTENANCE with low cost engine and parts exchange plan.
