RADIO SPEAKER IS DINNER GUEST

Annual Ceremonies of Women's Club Features Installation

The Parish Hall, of Trinity Episcopal Church, Manassas, was the scene of a brilliant and most attractive gathering on Monday evening of this week, the occasion being the second annual Installation Dinner of the Woman's Club of Manassas. Members of the Club and their guests were served a delicious and tastefully prepared banquet by the ladies of the Episcopal Guild.

The hall and tables were beautifully and artistically decorated with lovely arrangements of Spring flowers. These were contributed and arranged by the Garden Section of the Club, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Lewis.

Another touch of color was added by the many lovely and attractive evening gowns of the ladies' present. All combined to give to the occasion a very festive air.

The guest speaker for the affair was Mary Mason, Director of Women's Home Forum, National Broadcasting Company. Miss Mason spoke on, "Women in Radio" and gave some very interesting facts about how she became a radio speaker, and told of the experiences and difficulties of a number of other well known women on the radio today.

She spoke of the power that organized women have today in getting what they want in government and civic life. She urged those present to write in about the program they liked or disliked, and said that the broadcasting companies were most anxious to give to the public the type of programs they wanted and welcomed conscientious criticism.

Musical numbers were furnished by Mrs. William Leachman, formerly of Manassas, a vocal duet by the Misses Althea Hooff and Elizabeth Davies, and selections on the violin by Mr. Lewis Carper, all delightfully rendered and adding much the pleasure and entertainment of the evening.

Mrs. William Lloyd, retiring president of the club, after thanking the members for the faith and cooperation accorded her, presented to Mrs. C. Wade-Dalton incoming president, the gavel and charter of the club. Mrs. R. Jackson Ratcliffe, newly elected president of the Junior Woman's Club, was presented and in turn presented her officers and the Junior sponsor, Mrs. J. P. Lyon.

DEBATE ENJOYED AT BRENTSVILLE

Negative Side Gets Unanimous Decision in Forensic Battle

The historic old Courthouse was filled to capacity last Friday evening to hear the debate which had been arranged by the Community League, on the question: "Resolved, that a strong army, navy and airforce are America's best security for peace."

Prof. R. C. Haydon presided with his usual courtesy and efficiency and the invocation was delivered by Rev. J. Murray Taylor. Judge Wheatley Johnson acted as time-keeper.

The affirmative argument was opened by Judge C. Lacey Compton, Trial Justice of Prince William County. The negative was opened by Mr. William H. Lamb, Editor of the Manassas Journal. Mr. Jenkins Davies, Manassas attorney followed for the affirmative and Rev. John M. DeChant, for the negative.

In rebuttal, Judge Compton spoke for the affirmative and for the negative Mr. Lamb took one minute and Rev. DeChant the remainder of the rebuttal time.

Judges of the debate were Rev. J. Murray Taylor, Mr. F. H. May and Mr. Frank G. Sigman, who acted as chairman for the Judges and announced their decision as unanimous for the negative. He paid high compliment to all of the speakers.

During the intermission Sheriff John Kerlin made an interesting talk on the membership campaign of the Young Democratic Clubs of Prince William County which is now in progress.

Following the program, refreshments were served by the ladies of the Brentsville League and a silver offering was taken for the dental clinic.

THE WAGES AND HOURS CONFLICT (Editorial)

When Tilden was actually elected President of the United States by so narrow a margin that the contest was thrown into the hands of Commission for the settlement, Southern Democrats went to him and asked what he would do about ending Reconstruction, and about taking the troops out the South. He would promise nothing. They then interviewed Hayes, who promised to end the persecution. Placing self preservation above party considerations, the Democrats who held the balance of power threw their support to the Republican nominee. Hayes became President, and immediately redeemed his promises.

This week a purely sectional measure, calculated to destroy the industrial prosperity of the South, is being stoutly opposed by a Southern minority. Although clothed in hypocritical considerations of humanitarianism, it is well known that its passage will mean the ruin of Southern industry. This proposal, known as the Wages and Hours Bill, is being held in Committee by a courageous minority, who are being reviled by their opponents, but who deserve the heartfelt thanks of their fellow countrymen.

Owing to the distance of Southern factories from the great centers of population which constitute their chief market, heavy transportation expenses have to be added to production costs. In order that they may successfully compete with the nearer Northern factories, it is necessary to pay somewhat smaller wages. To compensate for this reduction in wages the South has a more friendly climate and much lower living costs. The proposed legislation would destroy the natural advantages with which the South has been endowed by a beneficent Creator, and would unify all wages throughout the country. Should this be done, the added transportation costs would eliminate Southern competition. It would not secure these higher wages to the Southern laborers. Instead it would close the factories and throw them all out of employment.

It is the occasion of widespread regret that the President of the United States, has thrown his support this week to the Northern faction in this sectional dispute. The so-called "Solid South" deserves better than this at the hands of their Party Chief, whom they have supported so faithfully. However, in the end, as in the days when we successfully resisted the hideous Reconstruction measures and force bills which the Federal Government hurled upon us, we will either find ways to successfully resist the enactment of such unfair legislation, or if enacted into law, we will devise ways and means to nullify its enforcement.

DIPHTHERIA FIGHT PLANNED

Because diphtheria is still taking its annual toll of lives in Virginia, Dr. William Y. Garrett, County Health Officer, has announced plans for a fight to prevent cases of this disease in Prince William County.

Diphtheria is an acute communicable disease caused by a germ which can be recovered from the nose and throat of patients with the disease. One of the most malignant forms of diphtheria is the laryngeal type, or the so-called "membranous croup" in which a membrane forms in the air passage and causes death by strangulation.

When the use of antitoxin became widespread among the medical profession, the mortality rate from diphtheria dropped from 58 per cent to 20 per cent; and since the introduction of toxin-antitoxin as a method of preventing the disease, the number of cases reported each year has been reduced 75 per cent. This represents one of the greatest achievements in the field of preventive medicine.

The old toxin-antitoxin which was given in three doses has now been replaced by toxoid which is better, cheaper, and can be given in one dose. All parents with children from 6 months to 12 years of age are urged to consult their family physician in regard to receiving toxoid.

The Health Officer will visit the schools during the next two weeks to administer the Shick test and give toxoid to those having a positive reaction.

It is hoped that the people of Prince William County will cooperate with the Health Unit in this important campaign. It is only through organized community cooperation that any public health program can succeed.

May 1-7 is National Music Week.

FARM BOYS TELL OF PLAN PROJECTS

Kiwanis Program Proves Value of Student Efforts

The concluding night of the agricultural program committee for the month of April was equally as good as the others. It was interesting and helpful.

As his program Mr. P. A. Lewis introduced Prof. R. R. Fishpaw, agricultural instructor who gave an introductory address which was followed by statements by two or his students regarding their projects.

Mr. Fishpaw stated as follows:

I would like to say a few words tonight about the Vocational Agriculture program as it is being taught in our high schools and the Future Farmers of America, an organization which practically every boy taking agriculture belongs.

As we all know Agriculture is the oldest of occupations. To provide food for himself and family is the first responsibility of man. After learning to make a living he must learn how to live.

The fundamental philosophy of Virginia's program in Vocational Agriculture is that farm boys shall "learn to do by doing." They shall have experience in doing those things which will enable them to become successful farmers and successful citizens.

MOSES A.C. LOSES TO MARSHALL

The first league game was played at Haymarket Sunday between Moses and Marshall. Bragshaw of Moses scored the first run of the season.

One of the outstanding plays of the game was a catch by "Cotton" Hanback in centerfield for Moses.

"Chick" Hanback was injured sliding to second base in the eighth inning, thus causing the loss of one of Moses' outstanding players.

Elmer Ruffner, Moses' star pitcher, pitched a perfect game up to the seventh inning.

The final score was six to four in favor of Marshall, who scored five runs in the last inning.

The second league game will be against Springs played at Haymarket Sunday, May 8.

Come one. Come all.

ANNUAL POPPY DAY CANVASS

Students To Conduct Sale for Legion

This year the Manassas High School and Bennett School will again carry on the annual Poppy Sale sponsored by the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary. The group expects to double the amount of poppies ever sold before.

As before two cents from each poppy sold will be sent to those veterans in the hospital who make the poppies. The remainder of the money will be divided those veterans who are in need of hospitalization and the Child Health fund here in Manassas.

The sale will be carried on two days, Friday when the high school boys will be in charge of the various groups.

On Friday the town will be divided into two parts with the Portner Estate as one of the headquarters where the County Glee Clubs will hold their annual Music Festival. The other headquarters will be the Manassas Athletic Field where the elementary Achievement Day will be held. On Saturday the town will be divided into four parts with a captain who is chosen from the high school student body in charge. There captains will be in charge of various groups from both the Bennett and the High Schools.

ASSOCIATED CLUBS SPONSOR HEALTH SURVEY

In accordance with a program of roadside development sponsored by The Associated Clubs of Virginia, the local county health department is making a sanitation survey of public places. This survey will include all service stations, soda fountains, soft drink counters, sandwich shops, beer parlors, restaurants, hotels, and tourist and trailer camps on the highways or in incorporated towns.

The inspection will include in addition to general sanitation, the water supply and sewage disposal, the method of washing and sterilizing eating and drinking utensils, and the methods used in handling and preparing foods.

All places meeting the sanitation requirements of the Health Department, as well as additional requirements of the Associated Clubs, in regard to neatness, courtesy and cooperation, will be given a merit award to be displayed in a prominent place.

Places receiving the merit award will be inspected by the Health Department at intervals in order that the high standard of sanitation originally required may be continued.

The local health department wishes to point out the importance of this movement, by the Associated Clubs of Virginia, intended to inform the public where they stop and expect to find safety and courtesy. Recent drives for clean rest rooms made by many oil companies show that they realize the importance of sanitation back home with them opinions formed mainly by their contact with public places. Still more important to local people, as well as to the traveling public, will be the improved standards of sanitation and their ultimate effect upon the public health.

U. D. C. RUMMAGE SALE

Manassas Chapter, U. D. C., will hold a Rummage Sale on Saturday, May 14, in the Telephone Exchange Building.

KIWANIS HEARS AGRICULTURISTS

any educational program. They make it possible for their sons to have definite responsibility in directing certain phases of the farming program. The training program is based on the needs of the individual boy.

The purpose of the course in Agriculture is to train farm boys to become proficient farmers. The boys do not conduct simply a single project, but a farming program. This program increases in scope from the first through the fourth year in High School. They are taught the importance of improved farm practices, determined through experience by their parents, other successful farmers, and Experiment Stations. In this manner they learn to apply only those practices which have been found to be sound economically. They are taught to think by studying their own problems. Then, too, the boys are taught to recognize individual responsibilities, set up high ideals, exert a wholesome influence in their community, develop a spirit of friendliness and cooperation and to remember that a man who has done less than his best has done nothing while the man who has done his best has done everything.

I might add, that we as teachers of Agriculture, have to work with boys not only from the large and well equipped farms, but also with those that aren't so fortunate in having parents who are leaders in the field of agriculture. In fact it is the boys from the later type of farms who need the most encouragement. Often times it is necessary to try to change his attitude toward his home, his neighbors, his school, and even the attitude he has toward himself.

In the Agricultural Department at Manassas High School 18 boys completed their last years supervised practice program. An idea of the scope of their program can be obtained from the fact that they cultivated 41 acres of land, owned or had the management of 69 head of livestock and 1088 fowls. Records are kept on all enterprises and the income of the boys was $1424.09. The net profit to the individual boy varies according to his business arrangement with the parent. The objective is that the boys shall have complete responsibility for management as near as possible like he will have to assume when farming on his own and that his financial returns shall be in direct proportion to his efficiency.

So far this year the boys have deposited in their Thrift Bank $280.00.

Nearly all boys enrolled in Vocational Agriculture are members of the Future Farmers of America. Standing today as one of the largest national organizations of, by and for farm boys, the membership is approaching the 143,000 mark. Launched in 1928, local chapters are now found in 4,600 communities of 47 states, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

Something vital and essential was added to the program of Vocational Agriculture when the F. F. A. came into existence. The farm boy's point of view on preparation for farming shifted considerably. He received a new interest in agriculture and renewed enthusiasm for a life work that had not been evident previously. There was new appeal and a challenge to bring out the best within.

The important blocks in the Future Farmers of America foundation are: Leadership and character development, sportmanship, improved agriculture, organized recreation, citizenship and patriotism. In other words the boys are taught not only a better way of farming but a better way of living, and how to become better men.

Over 2000 years ago one of our greatest philosophers said, "The best way to learn anything which has to be done after it is learned is to always be doing it. It is not the number of facts we can accumulate that determines success in life but what we can do with these facts. The degree of one's ability to think and solve life's problems measures to a large extent his success. Thinkers always have been and thinkers always will be leaders.

In concluding, I would like to add, that if, at any time, any of you, whether you have a boy taking agriculture or not, have any suggestions for the betterment of the Agricultural Department of the Manassas High School, I will be more than glad to hear from you.

MY POTATO PROJECT

In my first year of vocational agriculture, I took as one of my home projects potatoes, because the soil seemed suited to the crop.

I picked out a sandy patch of ground that was fertile and well drained. I plowed the land about six inches deep with a turn-plow. I then dragged the land about two hours, smoothing it down as much as possible. I let the ground lie bare until about two weeks before planting. I then disked and harrowed the land taking about seven hours to do both jobs.

After I had finished disking I dragged the land down smooth and waited until time to plant. This dragging took two hours.

On the fifth of July, I bought 267 pounds of fertilizer 4-12-4 the cost being $3.01 and 2 1-2 bushels of potatoes at $2.01 per bushel.

On the sixth of July, I took a single shovel plow and laid off the rows about six inches deep and three feet apart. This took me about 2 1-2 hours.

After laying off the rows, I took a bucket of fertilizer and scattered it up and down each row, throwing it evenly over the whole patch.

With a knife I cut the biggest potatoes up into pieces leaving about 4 eyes to the piece. Then I planted the potatoes about 18 inches apart dropping and covering them by hand. The laying off of the rows and covering and planting took me 7 hours.

After the potatoes had reached a height of about 4 inches, I plowed taking about 2 1-2 hours for the job.

About the middle of August I hoed my potatoes with a broad hoe hoeing up and down each row and between the rows. About the first of September, I plowed the potatoes again about 6 inches deep taking about 2 1-2 hours.

On November the first, using a shovel I dug my potatoes, putting them in sacks and storing them in the cellar. This job took about 25 hours.

On account of dry weather and new ground, my yield was not very large, getting only about 25 bushels off of a quarter of an acre of ground. Although there was not a very large yield, I managed to pick out a class of 30 potatoes and send them to the grain and egg show which was held at Lincoln High School winning second prize of $1.00. I then sent these potatoes to the State Seed Show at Farmville Virginia winning third prize of two dollars making a total of three dollars in prizes.

My total expenditures were $16.85 and my total receipts were $25.00 leaving a labor income of $16.00.

My labor income includes the paying of 67 self hours and 31 horse hours and my prize money.

Jake Conner.

MY POULTRY PROJECT

Entering my second year of Voc. Agriculture I also started with 55 white leghorn pullets. I installed the 4 1-2 months old pullets in a 12 by 20 lay house facing the southeast. They started laying immediately and in September I got 16 dozen eggs, 27 dozens in October, 48 dozens in February, 123 dozen in March and in April they missed their March mark by 3 dozen laying 120. The total receipts for all the eggs in the eight months were $172.64 and the total cost was $46.95 thus making the net profit for the 8 months, $125.71. The average per month was $15.71.

I spent 102 self-hours in 8 months an average of 13 hours per month. I clean out the house twice a month, clean off the roost per week. I feed approximately 100 lbs. of laying mash per month, 2 gallons of corn and wheat mixed per day and plenty of fresh water. I feed hot mash in cold weather plus butter milk but now I cannot get the milk so they do not get either milk or hot mash. I kept the hens in the house from September to March feeding them greens grit and oyster shells. Now that they are out of the house they only need the oyster shells fed to them.

At the present time I have 300 white leghorn baby chicks. I hope to have as profitable a flock in the coming year as well as a much larger flock. I expect to sell all the old hens in September and install my young pullets in the same house.

Paul Kline.

JEFFERSON MEMORIAL

All sides of the controversy now raging over the proposed memorial to Thomas Jefferson in Washington are given in a story appearing next Sunday in The Star.

Some deny the fact that Pope's design for the memorial, south of the Tidal Basin, is taken from a temple in Rome, begun before Christ was born. They contend that any memorial to the great American should be more appropriate to the twentieth century and would prefer to see either a stadium or an auditorium built in his honor.

FEDERAL FUNDS FOR VIRGINIA

The Old Dominion is receiving a portion of the Federal dollars that are being allotted in an effort to stimulate business activity in the nation. Virginia Farmers and Administration received $1,262,418 during the July-March period of the current fiscal year paid out from funds of the Agricultural adjustment administration. Virginia's share in the new public works spending program to date totals $558,180, this amount, according to PWA officials, to be applied on school construction costing approximately $1,100,000. The Virginia program was financed through funds already available and it was not necessary for the PWA to await congressional approval of President Roosevelt's $1,450,000,000 public works program.

President Roosevelt and the budget bureau have approved nearly $4,000,000 worth of improvement work at the Norfolk Navy Yard in preparation for capital ship construction work there, Congressman Norman R. Hamilton has announced. The navy yard is expected to be allotted a major portion of the proposed naval construction program.

Major Accomplishments listed for the WPA in Virginia were the construction of 147 public buildings and the modernization and improvement of more than 700 culverts and the construction or repair of more than 100 bridges.

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

And into whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace be to this house.—Luke 10:5.

FREDERICKSBURG LOSES

The News-Herald was amazed to read in the news yesterday that Fredericksburg had lost the National Battlefield Museum to another community. For the benefit of those who never had the opportunity to visit it, we would say that it consists of upward of 100,000 relics of the War Between the States, most of them having been gathered from the battlefields and nearby Fredericksburg.

We doubt if there exists anywhere in the country a collection so varied and so full of human interest. It cannot be duplicated either in quality or quantity. The late Dr. Chearning, who assembled these relics, was motivated by a desire to keep them in his home town, his purpose being more sentimental than of pecuniary advantage.

The master collection belonged in Fredericksburg and there it should have remained. These relics will be of immense value historically and intrinsically no matter where they are but they will fit nowhere like in the place of their origin.

They are a part of the saga of that embattled town where the armies of the north and south made history in mortal combat in which these now harmless missiles of death played a major part. And they weren't "duds" either.

We have no hesitancy in saying that this collection should be acquired by the Federal government and made more accessible to the public. It is in many respects educational. It has been removed to another famous battlefield and if properly displayed it will draw thousands. Fredericksburg has lost a rare chance to capitalize it along with its sacred shrines. But that city's loss is Manassas' gain. The place that gets it has something.—Suffolk News-Herald.

MARY ALICE WRIGHT

Mrs. Mary Alice Wright, age 74, wife of Isaac J. Wright, of Nokesville, died at her home near that town early Sunday morning. She was the daughter of Harvey and Dorothy Zimmerman Evers, of Rockingham County, and was born there on August 16, 1863. On October 19, 1882, she married Isaac J. Wright and they lived in Rockingham County until about 1900 when they moved to Prince William County where they have since resided.

Mrs. Wright came of God fearing Church people and her long period of service as a member of her chosen religion bore evidence to that fact. Her many years of residence here proved her also to be an excellent neighbor to one and all.

Becoming ill many months ago, the fortitude of the sufferer was a further tribute to her Christian character. Death came after a rather brief period of severe illness.

Besides her husband, she is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Sarah V. Bell, of Nokesville, Mrs. Mary C. Watson, Canaan, N. H., Mrs. Edith M. Brown, Richmond, and Mrs. Vertie E. Trewhela, Enfield, N. H.; three sons, J. William, I. Newton and Wilbur R. Hale, J. L. Miller, J. F. Miller, L. E. Wright, all of Nokesville; seventeen

GEORGE AUGUSTINE WEEDON

In the early dawn of May 2, 1938, the spirit of George Augustine Weedon, oldest Confederate Veteran of this county, passed quietly on "to that bourne whence no traveler returns".

Had he lived until the 18th of May he would have been 98 years old.

He entered the War between the States in '61, enlisting in Company C, 30th Virginia Infantry, and remained with his company until the close of the war.

For generations his forbears had been fighting men. His great grandfather, Augustine Weedon, fought in the Revolutionary War, and was a brother to George Weedon, one of Washington's generals. His father, Thomas Wroe Weedon, was in the War of 1812.

In 1892 he married Louisa Rosson, daughter of Barnett Rosson, of Madison County, Va. They had no children. His wife died in 1927, and since that time he had resided with Mr. and Mrs. Nalls on Centreville road.

He paid many tributes to Mrs. Nalls for her kindness and faithful care of him in his declining years.

Mr. Weedon retained his faculties wonderfully; his mind was alert and he was an interesting conversationalist. He was a great reader and was of the Primitive Baptist faith.

Amid the brilliant rays of the descending sun, casting a halo about him, he was tenderly laid to rest beside his wife in Manassas Cemetery, on Tuesday, May 3rd—"After life's fitful fever he sleeps well".

POEMS OF LONG AGO

O BLISS

He was a little negro
And sat upon the fence;
He hadn't any father
Nor any mother; hence
He was a little orphan,
And hadn't any sense.

He thought the earth a circle,
But flat as any floor;
Was sure it scarce extended
Beyond the river shore;
And thought the stream the Jordan
Which Israel passed o'er.

He knew the sun at twilight
Just put himself to bed
Underneath a coverlet
Of purple, blue and red;
Except on stormy evenings,
When he used black instead.

He b'lieved the stars in heaven
Were blessed angels' eyes
"A-peepin' froo de openin's
Ter see who steals de pies"
At least, so said his auntie,
And she was very wise.

And then he thought his conscience
The throbbing 'neath his ribs
That beat so fast and loudly
Whenever he told fibs
Which was often, each one prefaced
By "True as eber yer libs."

And he was sure Elijah
Would come for him some night,
And take him in a chariot,
All glorious with light.
To a sweet and happy country
Where everyone was white.

He was a little negro
And sunned him on the fence,
He hadn't any knowledge
Nor any money, hence
He was supremely happy
Each has his recompense!

WHAT OTHERS THINK OF VIRGINIA TREES

"Written by one who knows the Virginia forests intimately, this pioneer book on Virginia trees may be expected to have considerable usefulness within its range, which, of course, extends beyond the borders of the state. Presumably other volumes are to follow, describing Virginia's great wealth of deciduous trees."—Science News Letter.

"Permit me to compliment you on this fine contribution to the botany of Virginia. Indeed it is more than a contribution to botany, since you not only have a great wealth of botanical detail here, but also a mass of historical, economic, ecological and agricultural data that is of great value for reference and also makes very interesting and profitable reading. I shall anticipate the appearance of further volumes in this series with eagerness."—William A. Dayton, Ecologist, U. S. Forest Service, Washington.

"I think you have done remarkably well and have produced a little volume which is a distinct contribution to our knowledge of the tree flora of Virginia. I note with pleasure that Volume II is in preparation, and I have no doubt that it will maintain the same high standard that you have set in Volume I."—Dr. H. Gleason, Acting Director, New York Botanical Garden.

"Congratulations on your book. It is an admirable piece of work and will bring Virginia where she should be, at the head of the list. I know that it will be my bible on any forest type mapping projects in that State."—Frank H. Miller, Assistant Forester in Charge of Type Mapping, Region One, National Park Service.

"Your book is extremely interesting"—Dr. J. Shelton Horsley, Past President, Virginia Academy of Science.

"I have had an opportunity to look through the book very carefully, so I am writing to let you know that I was greatly interested in it, and think that it is a book of real value. It certainly taught me a great deal that I did not know about Virginia trees. One thing I like is that, although it is technically accurate, the information is given in a way that can be understood by anyone who is interested in trees."—Bishop Harry St. George Tucker.

"I congratulate you on your splendid book." Senator Harry Flood Byrd.

"I have looked over your book with a great deal of interest and I think it should serve a very valuable aid in extending better knowledge of Virginia trees. I hope that you will be able to complete the proposed series without delay."—Dr. Raymond J. Pool, Chairman of the Department of Botany, University of Nebraska.

Tests Prove the Power of Food

Demonstrate a Vitamin-Rich Diet Is Vital to Health

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
MANKIND owes many things to the animals which have been used as test subjects in laboratories all over the world. As doctors and scientists have waged their war against disease, as they have made great strides forward in the study of foods and nutrition, they have carried on many of their experiments with rats.

The rats pictured here dramatically illustrate the power of food to influence growth. Although these two rats are exactly the same age, the weight of one is twice that of his brother. Where one animal is puny and underdeveloped, the second is fat and sleek and full of vitality.

What has produced such a difference in weight and general physical well-being? Merely a slight difference in diet. The two rats have lived under identical conditions, but the smaller animal on the left has received food lacking in sufficient vitamins, while the other rat has been fed the same diet, reinforced with vitamins.

If a well-balanced food ration is vital to the health of animals, how much more vital it must be for human beings. Surely the lesson is plain to see. If a mother wants her children to thrive she must feed them adequately. The child who is receiving a diet lacking in vitamins has no chance to grow and develop properly. Nor will the adult on a deficient diet attain or maintain optimum health.

EDITOR'S NOTE: To plan a diet wisely, to recognize the foods rich in important food elements, we must learn to utilize the discoveries of science. We must keep abreast of the newer knowledge of nutrition as it is presented by wise, unbiased interpreters such as C. Houston Goudiss, nationally known food authority, who each week offers his "What to Eat and Why" column in this newspaper. In this column Mr. Goudiss translates the latest developments into simple, non-technical language. By following his articles regularly, it is easy to keep in step with the most up-to-date findings of nutritional science.

A musical that will appeal to opera lovers and swing addicts alike will open next Thursday and Friday, May 12-13 at the Pitts' Theatre in "Everybody Sing."

Allan Jones and Judy Garland, as the singing chef and the swinging schoolgirl were outstanding in their singing, dancing and acting. No less enthusiastic was the audience in appreciation of the comedy work of Fanny Brice, Reginald Owen, Billie Burke, Reginald Gardiner and Lynne Carver.

One of the high spots of the show will be appreciated by Miss Brice's army of fans, when she does not of her burlesque songs and dances to the tune of "Dainty, Quaint Me".

"Swing music" and opera shares the melody spotlight of the picture for Allan Jones, Judy Garland, Lynne Carver and Reginald Gardiner offer the "Quartette from Rigoletto"; Jones sings "Cosi Cosa", "On With the Show" and "The One I Love," and Miss Garland sings "Swing Mr. Mendelsohn", "Down on Melody Farm", "Sweet Chariot" and "I Wanna Swing".

The plot concerns the antics of a madcap theatrical family who send their daughter, Judy, to Europe because she keeps getting expelled from school for singing "swing" in classes. Judy, realizing that her family has gone broke, sneaks off the boat, joins forces with her family's singing chef, Jones, and they put on a musical show. It's a hit and the family is saved from the poor house.

QUIET TALKS ON RELIGION

BY DR. JAMES T. MARSHALL

TRIUMPH

I shall not want triumph because "Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over." Here the picture changes. We leave the open air and enter a banquet hall. The Good Shepherd remains with us, but He becomes a host to a welcome guest.

There are some, like Leslie D. Weatherhead, and the author of "The Syrian Guest," who maintain that there is no such change made in the metaphor used. In their view the "table" is the table-land which is used for pasture; the enemies are vipers and poisonous weeds which infest the field; the anointing with oil is designed to heal the wounded head of the sheep; and the cup that runneth over is a rounded stone thru which overflows with water from an adjacent spring.

I prefer the time-honored interpretation which is certainly less strained and more natural. Changing from one figure of speech to another is very common in the psalms, as we see in the ninety-first. Here God is variously pictured as a shadowing rock, a fortress, a shield, a house, and a mother bird gathering her young under her wings.

The meaning is beautifully presented by Professor David Smith the noted author of "In the Days of His Flesh," who says, "This is a picture which every Israelite would understand. The pasture lands bordered on the desert which was infested by the wild Bedouin, ever on the watch for plunder. A traveller is pursued by a band of robbers, and he spies the brown tent of a shepherd, and makes for that refuge. The stalwart shepherd welcomes him and affords him asylum. In the face of his enemies he sets food before him; gripping his gnarled club in his sinewy hand and bidding them defiance. He anoints his throbbing brow with cool, fragrant oil and fills his cup of wine to overflowing."

In any case, the lesson cannot be mistaken. Complete security and triumph are assured to every one who puts his trust in God. Our experience of the loving care of our Good Shepherd emboldens us to look fearlessly into the future and say, "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

All classes of men come back to this psalm. The king needs the same grace as the peasant. From palace to log cabin ten thousand times ten thousand souls have flown out on the wings of the Shepherd Psalm, among them Edward Irving and Daniel Webster.

In "The Bonnie Briarush" Ian MacLaren pictures the death of Doctor MacClure. Drumsheugh is his only attendant. The doctor's mind is wandering. Now he is on the back of his faithful horse Jess, plunging through snow-drifts; now he is in his childhood, in his little bed, endeavoring to repeat his psalm so that he can call his mother and receive his good-night kiss. By the help of Drumsheugh the last line is reached and the doctor calls, "Mither, a'kent ye wudna forget yir laddie, for ye promised tae come, and a've feenished ma psalm."

MacLaren adds, "The grey morning light fell on Drumsheugh, still holding his friend's cold hand and staring at a hearth where the fire had died down in white ashes; but the peace on the doctor's face was of one who rested from his labors."

"Goodness and mercy all my life Shall surely follow me; And in God's house for evermore My dwelling-place shall be."

COUNTY AGENTS COLUMN

STATE GROUND LIMESTONE

Orders for State Ground Limestone should be placed now to be sure of late summer and fall delivery. It is not necessary to send the money now for orders for later delivery, as this may be done as late as two weeks before the time that delivery is booked. Where the minimum car of thirty tons can not be used, two or more farmers may be able to order a car together. Order blanks, further information and a 53 page illustrated booklet "Lime in Agriculture" will be gladly furnished upon request.

PASTURES

Why is pasture improvement a live topic of discussion everywhere today? Mainly, because during past years we have overlooked the part played by pasture in livestock farming. We have bred our cattle to produce more milk and meat than formerly but have not generally improved, either in quality or quantity, their natural feed, pasture. We can not expect permanent pasture, which has received no attention from man, to properly feed cattle that have been highly developed for milk and beef production. The place to produce cheap milk and beef is on pasture. It does not take much time to fertilize and lime permanent pasture and that is about all the labor involved in growing the crop. Compare this with growing cultivated crops and we find the animals doing about 95 per cent of the work.

PLAY FEATURES

BUNKER ARTISTS

Chalk up an "A" in comedy for "Beg, Borrow or Steal," which opens at the Pitts' Theatre next Wednesday, May 11. It is one of the laugh hits of the season.

With a cast running over with comedians, the picture offers Frank Morgan an excellent vehicle for his first top-billing under the banner of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Florence Rice and John Beal are featured with him.

"Beg, Borrow or Steal" is the story of an American bunko-steerer in Paris who promotes a chateau on the Riviera to carry out a bluff with his family in America and to give his daughter a wedding in the manner to which she is not accustomed.

Surrounded by crooks posing as nobility, Morgan gets into one difficulty after another and the climax is reached when the girl, being a daughter of her father, upsets the apple-cart completely and marries the wrong man.

Northcutt, Special Jeanes' Teacher, from the Southern Education Foundation, Washington, D. C., and Mr. W. M. Cooper, Director of Extension Department, Hampton Institute, Hampton, Virginia. Grass is Good ...if Grass is good if cows can get enough of it. But when it's old and tough they don't eat it readily and when pasture dries up, it's impossible for cows to get enough grass to fill their requirements for body maintenance and milk production. Don't take chances. Feed a regular ration of Larro and good hay along with your pasture. You'll have healthier cows and get the steady daily milk yields that mean bigger profits.

MARCH IS A SIGNIFICANT MONTH IN TELEPHONE WORLD

March is a month of important anniversaries in the telephone world. Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone and the man who gave his name to a great communication system, was born on March 3, 1847, in Edinburgh, Scotland. Twenty-nine years later the telephone was born, when Dr. Bell and Thomas A. Watson, his assistant, held the first conversation ever transmitted over wires.

On March 7, 1876, a patent was issued to Bell covering the fundamental principles of the electric speaking telephone.

On March 18, 1878, the first telephone exchange in New York was experimentally between Boston and New York, using overhead wires of hard-drawn copper. The distance was 235 miles.

On March 3, 1885, a certificate of incorporation was filed in Albany, N. Y., by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, for the purpose of effecting intercommunication "with one or more points in each and every other city, town or place in said state and in each and every other of the United States and in Canada and Mexico and also by cable and other appropriate means with the rest of the known world."

March 7, 1926 saw the first public test of two-way transoceanic radio telephony, which was made between New York and London. On March 30, 1933, radio telephone service between the United States and the Philippine Islands was opened.

It was also in March, the twenty-fifth to be exact, in 1878 that Alexander Graham Bell issued in London a prospectus which gave a vision of the universality of communication, which the Bell System now provides. The following paragraph is quoted from Dr. Bell's prospectus:

"In a similar manner it is conceivable that cables of telephonic wires could be laid underground or suspended overhead, communicating by branch wires with private dwellings, counting houses, shops, manufacturing, etc., uniting them through the main cable with a central office where the wires could be connected together as desired establishing direct communication between any two places in the city."

Starting from nothing in 1876, the telephone system in the world has grown until today it is possible from your telephone to communicate with any one of 19,450,000 telephones in the United States and 39,000,000 telephones in the world.

In 1900 there were 7,535 persons holding stock in the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. On December 31, 1937, there were 641,686 stockholders. From a mere handful of workers at the turn of the century, the Bell System employee family has grown until there are now 316,771 employees, including the Bell Telephone Laboratories and the Western Electric Company.

Dr. Alexander Graham Bell as he looked in the later years of his life.

opened at Albany. In 1879 on March 13, a certificate of incorporation was filed in Boston for the National Bell Telephone Company for the purpose of unifying telephone development throughout the country. On March 15, 1879, the first telephone exchange in Louisiana was opened in New Orleans. March 22, 1881, the first telephone exchange in Wyoming was opened at Cheyenne. On March 27, 1884, telephone service was opened
