PAPER SHOWS LEE'S TOLERANCE

U.D.C. Meeting Also Features Eulogy to Lanier

The Chapter met at the home of Mrs. Margaret Lewis on April 5th, Miss Katie Lewis and Mrs. Robert Smith, assisting hostesses. Beautiful bouquets of Spring flower were everywhere in evidence. Mrs. T. J. Ashford presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. R. L. Byrd.

Mrs. W. A. Newman, historian, read an article entitled "Lee's Tolerance," taken from Gen. Long's "Memoirs of Robert E. Lee," and a letter from a Richmond paper of 1890, written by Gen. Lee in 1862, to Hon. Geo. W. Randolph, Secretary of War, in regard to the sword and horse of major Gen. Phil Kearney, which were captured at the time he was killed near Chantilly.

Mrs. Kearney had applied to Gen. Lee for them, and he wished to accede to her request if it would not be considered improper by the Department.

An article was read from the U.D.C. Bulletin stating the U.D.C. was to be featured on the program of the Golden Gate International Exposition on May 9th, the opening day of the Exposition.

Mrs. Newman exhibited a large centerpiece knit during the war by Miss Susan Monroe. Mrs. Hutchison read a poem entitled "To Sidney Lanier," written by Tommy Athey, grandson of Mr. W. S. Athey, and great grandson of Winfield Scott Athey, Sr., of Co. A. 7th Virginia Cavalry.

"To Sidney Lanier:
Lanier, thou lover of the South,
Immortalized by tongue and pen,
To thee this world of ours owes much,
Thy praise is sung by many more.

Thy life on earth was very sad,
Thou had so much ill health and strife;
Death claimed thee at an early age
Deprived the world of one great life.

We of this time and times to come
Sincerely thank thee, dear Lanier,
For giving us more worth while things,
Thy noble works—thy poems, dear."

Mrs. Kitty Baker announced the Virginia University Glee Club Concert to be held in the High School auditorium on April 25 and asked the chapter to avail themselves of this opportunity. An invitation to the chapter was read from C. E. Kilbourne, Supt. of Virginia Military Institute, to attend the Centennial on May 15, and also the 75th anniversary of the Battle of New Market. The social hour followed the business session, in which the hostess served delicious refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Lillian Hynson.

MONROE SCION CLUB SPEAKER

Lawrence Hoes Tells of Events in Ancestor's Life

The Woman's Club held its regular meeting in the Recreation Room of the Masonic Temple on Wednesday, April 12. Mr. Lawrence G. Hoes, the great-great-grandson of President James Monroe, spoke interestingly of the life of Monroe, told that he was three times Governor of Virginia and served as United States Senator from Virginia from 1788 until he was appointed Minister to France in 1783. He succeeded his friend James Madison as President of the United States and throughout his term of office, he frequently consulted both Mr. Madison and Mr. Jefferson, both of whom agreed with his policy when he was agitated about taking the stand which is now called the "Monroe Doctrine." This was incorporated in a few sentences in an address to Congress which he delivered on December 2, 1823. This has since proved a bulwark not only to our United States but to this entire hemisphere in keeping us from being embroiled in European affairs and in keeping European nations from trespassing on the liberty of our hemisphere. His talk was most apropos, fitting in as it does with these troublous times, as we feel today that the Monroe Doctrine is our first line of defense against rampant Europe today. All members are anticipating reading "The Tree of Liberty" by Elizabeth Page, an historical novel which deals with events along these same lines which book the Woman's Club has recently presented to the Library.

Mrs. W. L. Lloyd reported that the Charity Ball was a great success socially as onlookers as well as the dancers particularly enjoyed the orchestra, altho it was not as well attended as we had hoped which realized only a small sum for the charity work of the club.

An interesting speaker has been secured for the Installation Dinner to be held in the Parish Hall at 6:30 p.m. May 2. Every member is expected to attend and bring one guest. Tickets may be secured from Mrs. Tom Howard. Please get your ticket early.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: president, Mrs. Cyril Wade-Dalton; 1st vice-president, Mrs. J. P. Lyon; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. V. V. Gillum; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. F. Cocke; recording secretary, Mrs. Lewis Carper; treasurer, Mrs. Harold McCall.

HISTORIC CUSTOM IS REVIVED

Auction and Trading Day at Bull Run Trading Post

Reviving an historic custom of days before the Revolution, a combination Auction and Trading Day will be held at Bull Run Trading Post on the Lee Highway on Saturday, April 15th.

Mr. J. T. Richards, who has also opened the National Battlefield Museum for its second season, is carrying out the traditions of colonial days in reestablishing this ancient and popular custom.

Under the plan, anyone may bring livestock, farm implements, household articles, antique furniture, etc., and trade with neighbors, or have the items put up for sale at auction.

Trading will begin at 9:00 a.m., and continue until noon, and promptly at 1:00 p.m. the auction will start. The items advertised elsewhere in this issue of the Journal will be offered together with whatever is brought that day to be sold.

These trading days were important economic and social gatherings in the old days and revival of the custom undoubtedly will prove very popular.

CLUB CONCERT PLANS COMPLETE

Woman's Club Sponsors Local Appearance

Plans are nearing completion for the concert of the University of Virginia Glee Club to be held on Tuesday evening, April 25, at 8 o'clock, in the Manassas High School auditorium and sponsored by the Music-Literature Section of the Manassas Woman's Club.

With four concerts behind them, the Virginians are well on their way to one of the most successful seasons of its fifty-two year history. Previous concerts in Washington, Waynesboro and Charlottesville have proved them to be an exceptionally well-trained group of singers, thoroughly capable of handling such powerful selections as the Russian anthem "Hospodi Pomiloi," as well as songs of a more delicate structure such as the lovely Brahms' "Lullaby" and Dvorak's "Songs My Mother Taught Me."

The program will be well balanced, ranging from old French carols to several traditional sea chanteys arranged by Marshall Bartholomew. The concert will end with Grieg's "Landsighting," which the club sang with the Virginia Symphony Orchestra earlier this season.

Featured with the Glee Club will be the Tin Can Quartet, who will contribute several groups of favorite songs from the Gay Nineties. Theirs is a fortunate blending of voices that has made their close harmonies and "barbershop" chords a hit at each of their previous appearances.

Charles Rawolle and Gerald Lowrey, two talented young pianists will also appear on the program, rendering several well-known selections from Liszt, Bach and Debussy.

KIWANIS ENJOYS FARMERS NIGHTS

Mr. Florance Discourses on History of Soil Conservation Program

Farmer's Night at the Kiwanis Club last Friday evening proved one of fine good fellowship and incidentally quite instructive.

Mr. P. A. Lewis, who had charge of the program introduced Mr. Henry Florance, who has charge of the soil conservation work and Mrs. Frances Saunders, office assistant.

Mr. Florance gave a clear picture as to the history and operation of the program when it originated in the old wheat program and advanced through the Triple A. He demonstrated the theory of soil practices and how benefits are secured thru voluntary co-operation.

The speaker declared that already in 1939 $25,000 had been paid to the farmers of Prince William and that about twenty thousand more is expected during 1939. He was asked a number of questions after which Mrs. Saunders gave some statistics beginning in the wheat program when some eleven thousand dollars was paid out for cooperation with the Federal Government.

Mrs. Saunders stated that during the life of the program and up to the end of this year some $180,000 would have been totaled in this county, with more than half of the farmers taking part in the program. According to her figures Prince William has a very high rank among Virginia counties with reference to the soil conservation program.

Guests present included the following: J. Royal House, W. T. Thomas, E. P. Hurst, A. O. Mauck, T. R. Hurst, W. M. Johnson, Wilmer M. Kline, N. J. Wilson, N. A. Wheeler, W. L. Coverston, J. E. Barrett, G. O. Woods, Fred C. Carter, O. Wells, H. A. Florance, Frances B. Saunders, Wm. Wheeler, C. E. Bear and Charles W. Lewis.

On Tuesday evening, the following journeyed to Fredericksburg and enjoyed the hospitality of the Kiwanis club there: Ernest Trusler, Chas. Lynn, Hunton Tiffany and Odie Waters and E. R. Conner.

Tomorrow evening, the club will go to Sudley where the ladies of the church are serving a supper to the community.

FIELD TRIALS AT BULL RUN

The Bull Run Field Trials held on the Eagle Farm last Wednesday were quite a success, viewed from every angle, and reflected much credit upon the organization, particularly its efficient and energetic Secretary, Mr. O. J. Trenis.

The course was laid out in an especially effective manner; the first course being open and less difficult, giving the dogs an opportunity to work off their initial excitement and settle down to serious work, which was amply provided in the more thickly wooded area and finally into the bird field, which was well covered with vegetation. Seventy quail were liberated which, together with some native coveys, made it possible to locate birds in every heat and as many as six points were scored in a single running.

"Sport," a beautiful 3-year pointer, owned by Mr. Hubert Phipps, of Rectortown, won the all-age shooting sweepstake, with "Harts Spot," a setter owned by Mr. Symanoskie as second. Twenty-one dogs were entered. Judges for the event were Mr. Jack McCarty, of Marshall and William Wells, of Arlington.

After opening of the gifts was completed, delicious refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Secord returned to Carmel, New York, on Sunday where they plan to make their future home.

A BOOK TO READ

by Clarence Wagener

Despite Abraham Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation and the abolition of legalized slavery in the United States three-quarters of a century ago, there remain many differences in the viewpoints of the white man and the Negro. This, of course, is known to everybody. Right or wrong, it is perfectly natural that most of these differences persist. At times it seems an era of better understanding is well under way. Then something occurs which sets us to doubting.

We should be better informed in the matter if, from the Negro himself, we had a greater number of candid expressions as to how he regards the white man. Reference here is specifically to articles and stories and poems in which the Negro writer does not attempt to placate the white man nor to "cuss him out," but simply to express the Negro's innermost feelings of the life he leads in a white man's civilization.

Rather strong stuff it may be, but if competently and honestly set down, it should give the reader a factual picture such as no product of a white writer could come anywhere near equalling.

See for yourself. Read "Uncle Tom's Children," by Richard Wright (Harper & Bros., N.Y., 1938; 317 pages). The volume contains four short novels, or, to be more exact, four novellas (from the Italian, and referring to a certain kind of narrative characterized by a compact plot with a point). This collection of tales won for Wright, a young Negro, the prize of $500 offered by Story Magazine for the best manuscript submitted by anyone (white or black) connected with the WPA Federal Writers Projects. "Uncle Tom's Children" was judged the best of more than 500 entries.

Each of the stories in this unusual volume will grip your interest, if your approach to the book is one of tolerance. The best of the lot, perhaps, is "Long Black Song," with "Big Boy Leaves Home" a close second. The other two novellas, "Fire and Cloud" and "Down by the Riverside," also afford insights of the Negro's heart and mind. The writing in each instance is earthy and highly emotional. Pretty strong stuff, for some readers, yes. But try it and see if you can label the author as being other than honest, instructive, entertaining and a credit to his race and his country so far as these contributions to current American literature are concerned.

NEW YORK EXPERT ON EYESIGHT

M. Milton Talkin, M. D.

Whose skill, method and prescription glasses have proven such a boon to weak-eyed persons.

To do one thing and do it well is Dr. Talkin's paramount object and basis of his success in optics. For, he realized that no man can engage in a wide field of activity and attain expertness in every phase of it. Hence he determined to limit his field of practice and make a deep impression therein rather than engage in a wider field of activity and make a mere dent.

Optics is his limited field and in that field he built a reputation which has reached into several states. Doing the same thing over and over again—a thousand times—leads to a high order of efficiency. The goal that he has set in optics will keep those who would emulate him busy for a long time to come 'ere they may hope to reach it.

Nor should it be overlooked that Dr. Talkin's technical training, wide experience and research work are important considerations to those of impaired vision seeking aid.

Many persons come from a distance to consult him. And why not? Is not vision important? Who would not go to the ends of the earth or spend the last dollar to stay the inroads of threatened blindness? Is it any wonder that the late Charles Broadway Rouse from New York and Virginia offered a million dollars to anyone who could restore his sight after he became blind? Sight easily ranks first among our organs of special sense. And yet, precious as it is, we treat it with utter indifference, expending its energy as if there were an unlimited supply. What a pang it must be to find one's self slipping into perpetual night.

Dr. M. Milton Talkin will be in Manassas again on Monday, April 17, at Prince William Hotel to meet those who may choose to consult him. His charges are moderate and terms may be arranged. He possesses wide experience and his opinion should mean something to those of impaired vision.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST
The Word of God
If you read a long note any day, and a light note any day—Psalms 119:105
BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

If parents will have their children memorize the daily Bible selections, it will prove a priceless heritage to them in after years.
Let us not therefore judge one another any more: but judge this rather, that no man put a stumbling block, or an occasion to fall, in his brother's way. Rom. xiv. 13.

THE BIOLOGICAL ASPECT OF WAR

Of all creatures on earth, from the most lowly microscopic organisms to that self-styled apex of creation—man, there are none more lacking in instincts of self-preservation than the various masses of humanity, grouped together ethnologically into nations. Other creatures cooperate, either voluntarily or by God-given instinct, for the perpetuation and mutual welfare of the entire group.

In contrast with those creatures which we are accustomed to regard as less intelligent than ourselves, we seem to have but one panacea, when the natural enemies of our species threaten us with extinction. Instead of turning our combined mental and physical resources upon the solution of our mutual problems, we slay one another in order that a lesser number may have greater freedom of action in contending with our natural adversaries.

We build up complex systems of government and intricate ways of grappling with problems of transportation and other necessary factors in supplying the needs of great masses of population. Then when all of our economic schemes fail, we draw the sword and bathe our various countries in blood. And the survivors begin the cycle anew. This has been the history of the world.

An indication that a government is approaching its climax in this unending sequence is its utter disregard national obligations, moral and physical. An indifference, for example to the unrestrained expansion of the national debt, means that the economists who are directing the trend of national events recognize that such obligations will not be paid, and from a strictly materialistic viewpoint, should not be redeemed.

At the opportune moment, in the midst of blood and fire, when patriotism demands supreme sacrifices, property cannot be regarded as more sacred than human life; and then it will be required that property, as well as life, shall be offered on the altar of liberty. This is the ultimate meaning of "conscription of wealth," about which we hear so much in discussions of our "next war."

Thus, in the uninterrupted evolution of nations, we have an ever recurring cycle of hardship and thrift, prosperity and expansion, repudiation of moral and physical obligations, and the horror of war. And there are at present no indications that our beloved nation will be spared this fearful eventuality.

HAYMARKET

The Easter season brought many visitors and absent members of families to our village and vicinity.

The eleven o'clock service at St. Paul's was largely attended and much enjoyed. In the evening there was a service entirely conducted by some of the Sunday School Scholars and was much to their credit.

Mrs. Paul Karsten, of Fredericksburg, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Piercy on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowman Price and little daughter, Jean, are spending some time in Haymarket.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Tyler, of Fredericksburg, spent Sunday with the family at "Highland."

A supper under the management of Mrs. Newton Kerr was given at the Parish Hall Monday evening by the newly organized society, the Parish Aid. The chicken pie and other good "eats" were enjoyed by a good sized crowd.

The dreadful tragedy of Mr. Rolf Robertson's death and Mrs. Robertson's illness has cast a gloom over the entire community where the couple have many relatives and friends. The last reports from Mrs. Robertson were somewhat hopeful of her recovery and we trust that she may be spared to her children, six in number. They are still at their home under the care of friends.

ANENT THE POWER SITUATION
(Contributed)

Some people in Manassas express themselves as doubtful of the expediency of the Town attempting to modernize its own power plant and produce its own electric current rather than to continue to purchase the current and distribute it to the consumers. The argument used, is that the Town is incapable of performing this service as economically or as efficiently as some outside concern.

A few years ago Manassas owned no equipment for building and maintaining its streets and, with the exception of a few blocks in the business section, the streets of the Town were dirt roadways, muddy in winter and dusty in summer. The same taxes were collected then that are collected today and the money derived from these taxes was expended in a desultory manner for rented equipment and poorly planned contracts. There was little or no street cleaning done by the Town, and the householders paid some teamster to haul away the accumulation of household rubbish once or twice during the year.

Today the Towns equipment valued at some thousands of dollars which is adaptable to almost every character of street construction and maintenance; ninety-five per cent of the streets of the Town are hard surfaced, in addition the streets are cleaned and all household rubbish is collected once each week by the Town's truck without cost to the householder. Many of these hard surfaced streets are of cheap construction and could be made much better than they are at present, but the contrast with what obtained ten years ago is still striking enough to point a moral.

The Town of Manassas today owns a power plant which contains a steam unit which is in good physical condition. In addition to this steam unit there is the switchboard equipment and accessories for the distribution of the current. This equipment, together with the power house building, has both an actual and potential value of many thousands of dollars. This investment belongs to the people of Manassas and is an asset which should not be wantonly junked without their knowledge and consent.

Modern development of internal combustion engines to an exceedingly high rate of efficiency has rendered steam units, such as the one above referred to, practically obsolete except for stand-by or reserve purposes. However, for approximately half of the amount of the Town's present investment in its power plant, a Diesel unit can be installed on an existing foundation which would be equal in efficiency to any equipment obtainable by any concern offering to sell current to the Town. Other Virginia towns, without the advantage of a building and a plant which could be added to, have gone into the production of their own current and found that they were able to undersell the utility companies which had been serving their citizens, and at the same time pay for their plants and equipment long before its period of usefulness had expired.

If the Town of Manassas has been able to make its trucks and other equipment pay for itself while building streets more economically and more rapidly than could have been done with rented equipment, and at the same time render additional services which had not before been furnished to the taxpayers, then is it not reasonable to assume that the Town can install its own "up to the minute" generating units and produce current more economically than it could concern which must necessarily receive a margin of profit in adding cost and depreciation charges on its equipment if it is to prosper and survive.

On the other hand, if the theory of municipal operation is assumed to be all wrong, would it not be both consistent and wise for the Town to junk its trucks, tractor, roller, air drills and other equipment which have been bought and paid for out of the savings derived from municipal operation, and without any tax increase; abandon its street cleaning and rubbish collection, and contract with some needy and worthy citizen for its street construction and maintenance. Of course the contractor would have to add a profit to the cost of this work, but if he needed the money the tax payers not grudge him a few thousand dollars each year so long as they were assured that their policy was the right and consistent one to follow.

This would seem to be a perfectly fair and just comparison to make, and thinking people should give it their serious consideration before authorizing their Town Council to junk their power house and commit the Town irretrievably to the policy of purchasing electric current at whatever price the utility companies may see fit to charge the Town for it.

—Citizen.
