DAVIS IS THEME AT U. D. C. MEETING

Mrs. Allen Green Entertains Local Chapter

The Manassas Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, held its June meeting at the hospitable home of Mrs. Allen Green near Nokesville, Mrs. McDuff Green, Mrs. Harriet Davies and Mrs. Celestine Brown acting as joint hostesses.

The subject for the historical hour was "Jefferson Davis." There were also a number of interesting newspaper articles read by the Historian, Mrs. Newman, among them being an account of the organization of the Memorial Association which was clipped from a local newspaper of the year 1911.

There were the usual opening exercises and reports from officers and committees. The absence of the Secretary, Mrs. Hutchison, was noted with regret. The attention of the chapter was called to a recent request published in the Journal for a Confederate flag for Mr. Powell at the Henry House. The chapter recalled that in May, 1938, it presented a Confederate flag to be flown at appropriate times from a flag pole at the Henry House. It was left in Mr. Powell's care. No explanation was offered as to the reason for this request at this time.

The President, Mrs. Byrd, gave an interesting account of the Fourth District meeting at Woodstock on May 17. The Manassas Chapter had a fine report and representation at this meeting.

Special mention was made by the President and Historian of the Memorial Exercises June 3rd. Mrs. Byrd thanked her committees for their efforts toward making this occasion a success.

Mrs. Hibbs related the history of the Stone Bridge. She stated that the original bridge was burned by the Confederate forces in 1862 after the Second Battle of Manassas.

After the meeting was adjourned the hostesses served delicious refreshments and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed. There were twenty-one members present and two guests Misses Nancy Waters and Nancy Marsteller.

THEIR MAJESTIES AT MOUNT VERNON

An historic event of immeasurable significance transpired at Mount Vernon on June 9, when King George VI silently and reverently laid a floral tribute upon the tomb of George Washington.

The King and Queen of England were accompanied on their mission of respect by the President of the United States and his wife, and other distinguished guests of the Ladies of the Mount Vernon Memorial Association.

As a respite from the pressing throngs, the general public was excluded from Mount Vernon Estate for the day, but adequate arrangements were perfected to permit the whole nation to witness the historic episode through the medium of moving and still photography.

By special permission of the State Department and through the added graciousness of their majesties, the editor of this newspaper was privileged, as a press photographer, to make a series of pictures which not only constitute a valuable photographic record of an international incident of importance, but which are also very expressive of the personal charm of King George and the lovely Queen Elizabeth.

These photographs are on exhibition at the office of the Manassas Journal, and for benefit of our readers, we have selected for publication here a snap-shot portrait of Queen Elizabeth, which is particularly revealing of the lovely profile and the engaging smile which has won the hearts of all America, and has accomplished more in the way of furthering the enduring friendship between the United States and the British Empire than all of the diplomatic exchanges of the century.

Addresses by Manassas Graduates as Given at Commencement Exercises

STUDENT PARTICIPATION IN SCHOOL GOVERNMENT By Herbert Burke

Knowledge that cannot be applied is of little value. If our education aims to make of us better citizens, if it is the purpose of our school to give us training in the practical problems of social living then it may be said that the experiences which we have under some form of student participation in school government make the educative process a living thing. We learn theories and ideals in our classes. Our parents, teachers and friends exhort us to consciously strive for a high degree of character development. If these theories, ideals, and exhortations are to influence us the means for their practical application must be at hand and I feel that the opportunities within the realms of student government for such development are unlimited.

Our President, Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt says: "Student Government should exemplify the best future of democracy. At the same time student government raises about the same problems as are found in our national or state government. The maintenance of a thoroughly good system of student government should provide a splendid training ground for the future leadership in solving many of the vexing political problems confronting this country."

In our school we try to demonstrate democracy in action. School government, by the students, teaches each boy and girl the duties of the citizen in a democratic society. We are far too prone to demand the rights that are due us, and to forget that no democracy can exist without respect for law and order on the part of its citizens. Within our school students gain experience by working and planning together. The boy or girl who learns that he must obey the regulations set up by his fellow student is well on the way to become a worth-while citizen in a larger society.

We make many mistakes but the same thing can be said sometimes of societies outside of our school. I believe that these mistakes may serve a useful purpose if by them we gain a proper appreciation of loyalty, honesty, and respect for the democratic government.

All organizations in the school are organized and sponsored by the Student Cooperative Association. The clubs and classes are so integrated through the student council that every one knows what is going on. Some disciplinary problems are turned over to student senate and as a rule the pupils accept its decision.

Our present effort at student government is in its infancy. There is much to be done but we believe that much has already been accomplished and the stage set for a high degree of development in the future. It is to the interest of each of the students in this school to participate in the activities of student government in all possible ways with the encouragement and cooperation of his fellow student, his teachers and his parents. The wise man of old said, "Get wisdom and with all thy getting get understanding." Understanding is the application of wisdom in such a way as to develop faith in oneself and faith in ones fellow man. That is the aim of participation in school government.

THE NEEDS OF THE SCHOOL By Lucy Johnson

My classmates who preceded me, have told you of the history of our school, have described the training which our school offers today, and the ideals of education as the far-sighted educator of today sees them. It is my purpose to try to point out to you needed changes which will enrich and broaden our curriculum and will make it possible to provide an enlarged public secondary school training for all children as we now provide elementary school training.

We have a well organized elementary school and a high school which offers some choice of courses, but the boy or the girl who enters school at six, goes through seven grades and the traditional four years of high school finishes school at 16 or 17. What is he to do? If he cannot afford to go to college, he is too young to go to work. If he can afford this higher education, he is often too immature to be "thrown on his own" in the average college town. Because of lack of proper guidance, he fails in his first or second year at college, and perhaps acquires habits which will impair his future efficiency as a citizen.

What can we offer instead of the present plan? There are two choices, or perhaps we could combine them. If we could begin to offer a junior high school course which would begin perhaps with the seventh grade, we might be able to hold in school those boys and girls who drop out then and grow up wholly unprepared to face the problems of our complex civilization.

This junior high school might extend over three or four years. From the beginning there would be an attempt to study the needs and the interests of the child and to fit him or her into that for which he showed the most aptitude. Exploratory courses in science, in agriculture, in industrial arts, in home making and language could be given. If such a course as this could be given and then a four or five year course at the end, which could be called senior high school or could be divided into senior high school and junior college, we might be able to give those students who plan to go to college the first year or the first and the second years of their college course at home at much less risk than is the case at present time.

Those who are not interested in college would find offered in the high school advanced courses in agriculture in home making, in arts and crafts, in commercial training so that they would leave school at eighteen or nineteen far better prepared to face the world.

The boy or the girl who is not interested in English or in Mathematics will find in a well organized industrial course that those things are practical aids to the courses that he does like and so will acquire a better balanced education that he can at the present time when he gets his practical training after he leaves school.

There is one other suggestion that I would offer for the school of tomorrow. An enlarged faculty would make it possible to give greater attention to the individual child. Clubs and organizations begun in the school should carry over into the life of the graduate in some such organization as the Future Farmers have today and the school could become a community center and its buildings and equipment could be used after school hours.

If we could have added to the faculty of this larger school at least one person trained in guidance who would serve as a counselor both to the children and their parents, many of our present failures might be prevented. The child who is properly placed in school is not nearly so apt to become discouraged and drop out of school. Such a person could give advice, both to the children and their parents as to the courses that they should take or the progress that they should make. A child who has heavy home duties should not be expected to do the same school work as one who has no outside duties. With the present faculty our school can not give the individual attention to the children that would in many cases save them from grave mistakes. Such a counselor might be able to keep in touch with the students for the first year or two after they leave school. A little help then might mean the difference between success or failure in the working world.

Better placement of the students in our present courses will often save failure or regret. The children coming into first or second year high school now make a choice of courses without real understanding as to how they should choose. In many cases, they fail because they have not chosen wisely.

You say that this enlarged activity of the school would cost more money. That is quite true. But, I answer you that the dollar spent in educating your children should bring better returns than the dollar spent in "relief." It is your money. Consider where it will be more worth while.

You can not say that you do not have the money. When my grandfather came back to his home here in 1866, he found nothing left except the land. The whole social and economic order had been overthrown. Yet in 1869 our community was far-sighted enough to find money for the public education of its children.

Just one word more. The school, and all its parts, exists for the benefit of the pupils and the community. Those of you who know something of the courses in industrial arts, agriculture, home making, and commercial training understand the practical benefits of these courses. Our school has tried to instruct its pupils in all fields of knowledge that will best fit them into society as constructive members. We learn democratic government through our own student government. But we need more equipment, a larger force, more practical courses before we can offer secondary education to all the children of the community.

And now, on behalf of my teachers and classmates may I thank you for the advantages that you have given us in the past. I hope that we may remember and practice throughout our entire lives the ideals of our school and according to our varied talents and abilities, do our best each day. Our school has tried to teach us the dignity of labor, the importance of cultural training, the mutual dependence of industry and education. May we bring credit to her training.

CATHARPIN AND VICINITY

The Children's Day services at Sudley Sunday were both beautiful and inspiring. Many comments of praise were given to the little folk, the young people and to the committee in charge for their untiring efforts to make this annual event an occasion which we never forget. Especial thanks is given to Mrs. H. Layton Laws, who furnished such beautiful music throughout the entire program.

Quite a large congregation attended services at Fairview Sunday both Gainesville and Sudley churches. An excellent address was made by Dr. Beery. Mr. Shirley Reid was elected trustee of Gainesville church in place of his father, the late John M. Reid; while Mr. Henry Florence was elected to fill the vacancy left by the death of Mr. Peter B. Beach.

Mr. L. J. Pattie was elected delegate, with Mr. C. C. Lynn, alternate, to attend the Methodist church conferences in Roanoke and Richmond next October.

Sudley enjoyed having the "Homemakers of Prince William" as her guests last Thursday. We regretted that not more were present to enjoy the program which had been arranged by them.

The talk given by the Rev. Mr. Graham, of Manassas Baptist Church, telling of the way he has remodelled his home was especially enjoyable and instructive. The special music by Miss Sara Margaret Senseney and Jack Alvey, Gordon and Wayne Pattie added much to the pleasure of the occasion. The luncheon was very delicious and we thank our friends for their cooperation.

Owing to the storm last Thursday evening, very few patrons were present at the special meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association. Mr. R. C. Haydon and Mr. Fishpaw were present and made very interesting and instructive talks concerning the proposed agricultural building for the boys. Mr. Haydon told of the funds which are available from the State and of the funds which the School Board has on hand and are willing to use toward this project. A committee was appointed by the president, Mrs. Dogan, to canvass the district and see what cooperation can be secured from patrons and friends.

Mrs. Eliza Dorsey, of Richmond, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dorsey, of Berryville, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Robertson.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond O'Meara and little daughter of Catharpin, Va., are visiting their mother, Mrs. Ira O'Meara, of Fairview. Mr. O'Meara is sergeant of the State Camp at Chatham.

William Shellington, a highly respected colored man of this community, died Tuesday afternoon from injuries received when he was raking hay at "Bushy Park" farm. It is not known exactly how the accident occurred, but he may have had a paralytic stroke which caused him to fall from the hay rake. The horses ran, dragging his body with the rake and bruising him very painfully about the head and shoulders. He was taken immediately to the office of Dr. Payne,

All you have to do is put a teaspoonful of Kleenite in half a glass of warm water and stir well. Into this solution put your dentures and leave them for 15 or 20 minutes—while you dress, or overnight. NO BRUSHING—just rinse and replace.

That sticky, mucous, smelly film is completely dissolved. Dingy, yellow, tobacco-stained teeth become live, lustrous, natural-looking. A good healthy color returns to the gums—the whole plate is sweet, clean and hygienic.

MAYOR HARRY DAVIS

The re-election this week of Hon. Harry P. Davis, as Mayor of Manassas, is a suitable occasion to recall with gratitude his long service to this community in this capacity.

Becoming Mayor in 1921, Mr. Davis has served for eighteen years, bringing to the town the experience of a gentleman of recognized financial ability and one who has made a life-long study of municipal problems.

Manassas is essentially a southern town. Its historic name is linked throughout the world with that of Stonewall Jackson, who immortalized himself and our community on the field of battle.

It is particularly appropriate, therefore, that we have as our Mayor, not only a gentleman of ability in matters of town government, but that we have a true southerner, such as his honor, Mayor Harry P. Davis, is known to be.

We congratulate Mr. Davis upon his re-election and trust that he will be pleased to continue in this office for many years to come.

To the Voters of Prince William County:

Subject to the Democratic Primary to be held on the first day of August this year, I hereby announce my candidacy for re-election for the office of Sheriff of said County, pledging prompt and impartial performance of the duties of said office. My deputies will continue as at present, namely, Wallace E. Partlow, of Manassas, J. Preston Smith, of Waterfall, and John Adams, of Quantico.

The support of every voter will be greatly appreciated by the undersigned, as well as by his said deputies.

Jno. P. Kerlin.

PENDER

Ladies of Pender Aid were very successful with their festival on June 10. Storm came up, they sold out everything very quickly and all enjoyed the good cream, cake and candy. While Melvin Birch was hauling hay for his uncle, Mr. G. M. James close to Chantilly, the wagon was turned over and sprained his ankle quite badly.

The good folks at Pender have enjoyed these fine rains the past few days.

A good many attended the 9:30 services at Pender Sunday a.m.

Mrs. J. E. Gheen, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. C. Sisk, of Purcellville, returned home Sunday.

Mrs. Ira Hutchison has been on sick list past week.

On the 9th there was a very sad accident at a railroad crossing near Woodbridge which resulted in the death of Mr. Benjamin F. Dabney, of Woodbridge. It seems that Mr. Dabney approached the crossing not expecting a train to pass at that time killed instantly. Mr. Dabney was better known among his many friends as (Lynn Dabney.) He leaves his father and mother and one sister, all of Woodbridge. Our sympathy goes to those left to mourn his untimely death. He was laid to rest at Cedon, Caroline County, Va.

Mrs. Green, of Occoquan, is in a hospital having had to be operated on for appendicitis. We are glad to be able to report that she is getting along very nicely.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved By Atomic Force?" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches and societies of Christ Scientist, on Sunday, June 18.

The Golden Text will be "To us there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we in him" (1 Cor. 8:6).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For, lo, he that formeth the mountains, and createth the wind, and declareth unto man what is his thought, that maketh the morning darkness, and treadeth upon the high places of the earth, The Lord, The God of hosts, is his name" (Amos 4:13).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "God forms and peoples the universe. The light of spiritual understanding gives gleams of the infinite only, even as nebulae indicate the immensity of space" (p. 509).

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear grandmother, Mrs. Cordelia Beavers, who departed this life five years ago today, June 12, 1934.

Dear Grannie, I miss you from my side,
 But I know you are at rest with God.
 Through all your years, you were kind and true,
 Now I shed many a tear, thinking of you.

You took me as an infant,
 And raised me with a mother's care.
 Since God called you home,
 No one would know the heartaches I bear.

Grass may wither,
 Flowers may die,
 Others may forget,
 But never will I.

Your loving Granddaughter,
 Mary.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our deepest appreciation to our many friends for their kindnesses during the recent illness and death of our husband and father.

THE DAY OF REST

One of the most significant marks of our times is the abandonment of the Sabbath. One rarely meets a person who has any conscientious scruples about his conduct on that day. The day of rest and gladness has been exchanged for a day of rush and madness. The day of worship and spiritual uplift has been thrown away, and supplanted by a day of selfish indulgence and amusement. The result is a distinct loss to the physical as well as to the moral welfare of mankind.

It is claimed that this laxity has come from the narrowness and strictness of the Puritan Sabbath. We no longer live in a day when a man may be fined for taking a walk or for kissing his wife on the Lord's Day. Certainly we would not plead for a return to such bigotry, but all those who are interested in the moral reclamation of human society should give serious consideration to the disastrous effects despoiling what is one of God's best gifts to men. Our Savior declared that "the Sabbath was made for man," and by His own example put His seal upon it as a day of worship. "As His custom was, He went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day."

How can the blessings of this day be recovered? We should begin by making a study of the attitude and teachings of Jesus on this question.

It is very interesting to note that He lifted the Sabbath law up out of the burdensome requirements, and in so doing He shocked and irritated the orthodox people of His day. The gospels furnish numerous illustrations of this. He accepted invitations to social functions on that day. "He went into the house of one of the chief Pharisees to eat bread on the Sabbath day," and while there He healed a man that had the dropsy, thus angering those who were present. (Luke 14: 1-6) St. John describes at considerable length the controversy stirred up by His restoring sight to a man on the Sabbath day. (John ch. 9) Instead of praising God for the act of mercy to the sufferer from blindness, the Pharisees said "This man is not of God because He keepeth not the Sabbath day."

But the liberalism of Jesus must not be taken as a warrant for the license with which we are robbing the day of its religious value. This is sacrificed by the millions who through our amusement places and our highways every week-end.

The churches are confronted with a problem not easy to solve. There is wisdom in the custom of the Catholic Church when it gives its people religious services early on Sabbath morning, thus allowing them the privilege of spending most of the day in the open air. At least they can begin the day by getting in touch with unseen and eternal.

In our streamlined generation we are the more in need of the quieting influence of religion. Our speed-craze is spoiling our sanity, and much machinery is making us mad. Like the Prodigal Son, we must come to ourselves, for wickedness in insanity. Then we must return to our Father. Our return to God will be easier if we will make a better use of the one day in seven which He has set apart for our spiritual culture, intending it to be

AROUND US

By

O. J. Schuster

"WE'RE BLUNDERING INTO WAR", Charles A. Beard tells us in a recent number of the American Mercury. Beard is recognized here and abroad as one of the ablest American historians, a sound and honest thinker on national and international affairs. The University of Virginia has repeatedly had him on its programs. Beard's views, therefore, are worthy of the most careful consideration. He begins his discussion with a quotation from Dorothy Thompson, one of the "Olympian columnists who daily instruct the people of the United States."

"In practically each American heart there is a timid soul pursuing happiness and wishing to avoid the burden and the headaches of power," says Miss Thompson.

ALWAYS INTENSELY EMOTIONAL, Miss Thompson is not given to clear and realistic thinking. As Beard says: "Miss Thompson tries to spur Americans on by shaming them. Americans are timid souls. They are selfish. They love their happiness. They shrink from the dreadful task she has laid before them. They are, in short, a cowardly crew."

It is such emotional outbursts as she utters, together with the general war-mongering of the press, that leads Beard to say that "We're blundering into war." The masses easily respond to emotional rage and blunder into war.

THE EUROPEAN SITUATION, Beard assures us, is very different than it is portrayed in the press. He looks realistically at what the European nations are doing and discounts what they are saying. He says: "Judging by all the weeping, wailing, and hand-writing in the United States, the poor, little peace-loving countries of Europe are threatened by two monster powers, Germany and Italy, and could not, if they would, defend themselves against these frightful Leviathans. The truth of the matter is far different. The countries threatened by Germany and Italy outnumber them in population at least three to one. For every soldier Germany and Italy can put in the field, they can put three or more." Beard quotes one of our own army officers, Col. Frederick Palmer, in support of his view.

"THE QUARREL BETWEEN FRANCE AND ITALY", Beard tells us, "is plainly over the spoils of empire in Africa. Italy demands more loot. The Italians were not given their 'share' of the German spoils at Paris by the treaty of Versailles. In fact the treatment of the Italians in 1919 (at the peace conference) was nothing short of scandalous. They were greeted by noble words about self-determination while France and Britain carried off German colonies in Africa, under the high-sounding phrase of 'mandate in sacred trust for civilization'. Now Italy demands her share of the loot."

"Should and can stay out of the next war in Europe and the wars that follow the next war. The countries immediately and directly concerned have the power to prevent German and Italian domination if they want to do it. If they do not want to do it, then it certainly is not the business of the United States to take on the job."

"Practice under the Wilson Administration makes it as certain as death and taxes that civil liberty would perish as soon as war is declared. We are not yet rid of the persecution mania let loose in the last world war and the prospects of another emotional rage are alarming to contemplate."

AMERICA CAN DO BEST TO SERVE DEMOCRACY and world civilization by becoming a living example of tolerance, of fair treatment of its own minorities. Our 130,000,000 people originally came as emigrants from France, England, Ireland, Scotland, Germany, Holland, Sweden, Norway, Italy, Russia, and other countries. We raided Africa for slaves and the descendants of those imported slaves now number 12,000,000 and are one of our largest minority groups. It's a big job to make a united and contented and intelligent nation out of our many nationalities and different races. It's a job demanding wisdom and a determination to translate into deeds the principles expressed in the Declaration of Independence, and of the Bill of Rights which is a vital part of our Constitution. To the extent that we put our own house in order, inspire each and all of our minority groups to take pride in being Americans, a part of a great and united national family, to that extent will we make the world safe for democracy.
