WEEK-DAY VISITS TO PARKS URGED

Col. R. A. Gilliam Seeks Wider
Use Of Recreational Areas

The Virginia State Planning Board reported that the concentration of patronage of the state parks on Sundays left a "large unused potentiality for recreation" that might "return increased social dividends if utilized to capacity" during other days of the week.

In a preliminary report on a survey of attendance at state parks and the swift creek recreational demonstration area in 1938, conducted in cooperation with the National Forest Service, the planning board said the problem of boosting week-day attendance "high best be solved by encouraging youth organizations, charity bodies and social centers to make use of the parks for organized day outings and by encouraging such use, both organized and unorganized, through the help of paid program leadership."

Col. R. A. Gilliam, executive secretary of the conservation commission and chairman of the recreation committee of the planning board, said there was a big opportunity for civic groups and other organizations to take advantage of the park facilities for the benefit of the underprivileged. The chartering of a bus to take a load of children to one of the recreation areas not only would provide them a healthful outing but also would remove them from the time being "from the social and physical hazards of city streets," he declared.

The study showed that of the total 1938 attendance, from 51. to 64.3 percent was in the afternoons and that Sunday's proportion of the total normal weekly attendance was about 60 percent in all parks except fairston near Bassett, where it was 71 percent.

It also disclosed that the attendance is comparatively low until the last week in June and reaches a peak the second or third week in August. It quickly subsides from that time and by the second week in September the season is practically through.

Attendance on July was, generally, considerably higher than on the normal Sunday for that period of the season, but Labor Day visitors numbered somewhat less than the normal Sunday.

The planning board found that from 76.4 to 86.6 percent of the park patrons were 19 years of age or older, although only 58 percent of the state's white population into 23.6 percent were under 19, are in this classification. From 13.4 age group that accounts for 42 percent of the white population.

"Of course," said the report "this means that adults are using the state parks much more in proportion than children are. As pointed out in a 137 study, children are not as mobile as adults and their failure to attend state parks probably results, not from lack of desire, but from lack of opportunity."

Another phase of the survey indicated that the number of day outings per family was greatest in the low income group, although the amount of money spent on such outings was greatest in the high income group.

FIRST THINGS FIRST

RED CROSS WORKERS PREPARING FOR DRIVE

Plans are progressing for the annual Roll Call and membership drive for the Prince William County Chapter, American Red Cross. New Roll Call workers are being added and a special effort will be made to contact every person in the county in order to increase the amount which will be needed to finance the work of the local and National Red Cross during the coming year.

As an impartial and neutral organization the American Red Cross, as you well know for fifty-eight years has been the nation's expression of mercy, an organization which has carried its strength to the scenes of all forms of human suffering whether in peace or in war. Today, after twenty-one years of peace, Europe's great powers are again at war. Already casualties have mounted into the thousands.

Unconcerned with the origin of this conflict, the American Red Cross already is pursuing the duties set down by the Treaty of Geneva. That obligation, fundamentally, is to relieve human suffering impartially.

Already medical supplies have been sent to Poland. More than 3,700 chapters are taking part in a production program to make garments for the war area. The Prince William County Chapter is working on its quota of these warm garments to be sent to Poland.

We are pledged to help the distressed peoples of all nations. In Spain and China we have aided war-stricken civilians. The assistance has been impartially administered, speedily tendered, generously given. The demands of the future are unknown.

America needs the Red Cross today as it has rarely been needed before.

Join through your local chapter, between Armistice Day and November 30th, and help to keep your Red Cross ready to meet any challenge which may come to it. Membership fees may be sent direct to Mr. O. D. Waters, Manassas, Va., Roll Call chairman, or to a local representative in your county. Join and help both your local chapter and the National organization. Fifty cents of each membership goes to National Headquarters and the remainder stays in the county for local work.

"Grandfather's Clock," a vocal selection by a group of Bennett children, preceded Dr. Snead's talk.

The adoption of the 1939-40 budget and plans for financing the school Dental Clinic were among the main items on the docket for the business session.

Rev. John M. DeChant, president of the Prince William County Cooperative Education Association, gave a detailed and interesting account of the meeting recently held at the Court House and asked the cooperation of the P.T.A., in carrying out the five objectives decided upon at this meeting. FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS TOMORROW

Leesburg High To Invade Local Gridiron

The Manassas High football team is planning take into camp the Leesburg football team on Friday afternoon at 3 p. m.

The Manassas Maulers have been grueling everyday this week in order that they may be in good shape and ready to take over the visitors. Most of the minor injuries of the squad have healed and every one will be ready for action on Friday. Our own Maury Wells says he'll try to be on the side lines rooting for the team.

Coaches Saunders and Litwin have been reviewing the teams with a critical eye. Few changes in the line-up maybe expected. Both coaches agree that each player must earn his position on the first team and must work to hold it.

The entire student body is all enthused about our game Friday and we expect to see the student body yelling for their team in full force.

Last Thursday Coach Litwin held a unique assembly program. It was a bit informal but every one seemed interested. The football squad in uniform displayed a few of our running, passing and trick plays used by the team. Mr. Litwin went on to explain a few fundamentals and technicalities of the game of football. Harry Parrish, William Knox, and Smiley Breiden gave short talks on school spirit, supporting the team, and what to watch for at a game.

We hope that everyone can spare the price of admission and come to the game Friday afternoon at 3:00 p. m. We are all sure that you will get your money's worth. Come on be a real Manassas rooter.

PRINCE WILLIAM BOYS WIN HIGH HONORS

A regrettable conflict made it necessary for two Prince William County boys, Gilbert Rollins and Selwyn Smith, and their coach, Acting County Agent, John Beard to forfeit an extended all-expense trip to the National Dairy Show and Golden Gate Exposition at San Francisco, California, where the two young men would have represented Virginia in the National 4-H Dairy Demonstration Contest this week.

Gilbert and Selwyn made up the Prince William team which led all County teams competing in the annual State 4-H Dairy Demonstration Contest at Richmond in August. Participation in the National Contest would have necessarily meant the postponement of their entering Virginia Polytechnic Institute where both enrolled as Agricultural students in September.

The subject of the demonstration given by the local team was "The Prevention and Control of Common Scours of Dairy Calves." A unique feature of the demonstration was the use of prepared internal digestive organs showing cross sections of the four stomachs of calves and their relation to this widely prevalent calf disorder.

This is the fifth consecutive year for a 4-H team from Prince William to qualify for the honor of representing Virginia in National 4-H Dairy Contests, teams from the County having led in the state competition dairy cattle judging contests at the Virginia State Fair in 1935, 1936, 1937 and 1938.

VIRGINIA MASONS RECEIVE HONORS

Robert Leachman Invested With High Scottish Rite Rank

A former Manassas boy who at one time served on the Journal was the recipient of distinguished honors by the Supreme Council, Mother Council of the World, of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, sitting in biennial session in Washington last week.

Robert C. Leachman, son of C. C. Leachman, was invested with the rank and decoration of Knight Commander of the Court of Honour, the investiture taking place Wednesday evening at the Supreme Council Temple on Sixteenth Street, previous to which he and other designates for the same honor from Virginia and Maryland, and among whom was Senator Harry F. Byrd, were entertained at a dinner at the Roosevelt Hotel by the Sovereign Grand Inspector General in Virginia, Robert S. Crump, 33 degree of Richmond, and the Deputy in Maryland, Rev. Edgar C. Powers, 33 degree, of Baltimore.

Mr. Leachman, now residing in Alexandria, is very active in Masonic work in that city and is at the present time serving his fourth year as secretary of the Scottish Rite Bodies there, being also a past presiding officer. He is credited with being the first Mason to receive the 32 degree in the magnificent George Washington National Masonic Memorial Temple, having been the representative candidate of a class of 126 initiated there on October 18, 1929, just 10 years prior to the date when Mr. Leachman received the above-mentioned honor, this being the first Scottish Rite work to be conferred in the Memorial Temple. Local Masons receiving the degrees at that time were J. L. Bushong, J. T. Broadus, Fred R. Hynson, C. H. Wine, F. P. Browning, W. D. Taylor, and Walter A. and Luther A. Alpaugh, Charles C. Wenrich, formerly of Manassas, who is an Honorary 33d degree Mason was serving as Master of the Lodge of Perfection that year.

Mr. Leachman began his trade as printer on the Democrat in 1911 under Frank E. Garrison, later serving under D. R. Lewis on the Journal. He entered the Government Printing Office after the War, being transferred from there in 1926 to an official capacity in the printing office at Panama and after two-and-a-half years returned to the G.P.O. In 1935 he entered the Departmental service in editorial work. He is now chief of the printing and reproduction section of the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

MISS EUGENIA ADDRESSES MUSIC-LITERATURE

The Music-Literature Section of the Manassas Woman's Club had one of its largest and most enjoyable meetings on Tuesday evening, October 24th, in the home of Mrs. Thomas J. Broadus.

Miss Eugenia Osbourn addressed the club on "Some English Artists and Portrait Painters." As always Miss Osbourn made a charming and witty talk, presenting the outstanding English artists in such a way that they will live more clearly in the memory of her listeners. Through a loan of several books from the Congressional Library in Washington she was able to illustrate to a great extent some of the most famous works of these world renowned men.

Music supreme was given by Mr. Lewis Carper and his violin, accompanied by Mrs. Carper. Their selections were three ever cherished songs—"Danny Boy," "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes" and "The Last Rose of Summer."

Miss Sue Ayres reported a most enjoyable and profitable trip to the Corcoran Art Gallery in Washington on Saturday, October 14. Mrs. Ossie Tipton, Mrs. Marshall Douglas, Mrs. E. D. Wissler and Mrs. T. J. Broadus also made brief remarks about their trip.

The Hostesses, Mrs. Broadus and Mrs. E. D. Wissler, served very pleasing refreshments and guests and members of the club enjoyed a very nice evening.

"STAR MAKER" SAGAOF SHOW BUSINESS

Local lovers of the grand kind of entertainment dispensed by Bing Crosby on screen and radio can look which really measures up to his tall-forward to seeing Bing in a picture when Paramount's "The Star Maker" opens on Thursday and Friday, November 2 and 3 at the Pitts' Theatre.

The new Crosby vehicle, which might readily be termed a singing cavalcade of show business, gives Bing the best role he has ever had. It casts him as a tin pan alley song writer, a small time hoover who believes that he can rise to the top in show business by taking talented kids from the sidewalks of New York, and building them into great acts.

Produced by Charles R. Rogers, who has discovered many stars, directed by Roy Del Ruth, who has brought many great musical hits to the screen, "The Star Maker" presents the best cast ever to appear with Bing. It includes Louise Campbell as his practical-minded wife, Linda Ware, fourteen-year-old singer discovered by Rogers, as a youngster Bing builds into a star, Ned Sparks, as Bing's press agent, Laura Hope Crews, as an ex-opera singer, and Janet Waldo, as Bing's secretary. Walter Damrosch, "grand old man" of American music, will also be seen in the picture, conducting The Philharmonic Orchestra of Los Angeles, singing and dancing youngsters ever in addition, the largest group of assembled for a motion picture, appear with Bing in the production numbers.

The story of the picture — suggested by the career of that grand showman, Gus Edwards — starts with Bing trying to persuade Louise Campbell, a girl who assists the matron of an orphanage, to marry him. She finally consents, and they are happy even though Bing writes songs which won't sell and loses job after job.

Watching a group of newsboys sing and dance while on his way to get another job, Bing decides to organize them into the greatest kid act ever to hit the stage. The act gets a tryout, is successful. Bing hires Ned Sparks as press agent, launches kid acts all over the country. Then Laura Hope Crews, brings Linda Ware to him. Bing is enthused about her great talent, decides to make her a star, and presents her in an all-kiddie musical revue on Broadway.

When the Gerry Society closes the show by enforcing a law which forbids children to perform after ten o'clock at night, Bing takes Miss Ware to Walter Damrosch, persuades him to present her in a concert. She succeeds, but Bing has lost out on his kiddie acts, is forced to seek success in a different field, radio.

MOTORISTS URGED TO HAVE CARS TESTED BEFORE NOV. 1

In hopes of avoiding a last minute rush in the approved stations for inspection stickers, Colonel M. S. Battle, director of the Division of Motor Vehicles, today asked motorists to have their cars checked as soon as possible.

According to reports from the approved stations throughout the State, the director said, motorists are not having their cars inspected, but are waiting for the last week.

"There will be no extension of time for the inspection period," Colonel Battle said. "Motorists must have the new sticker before they can drive after October 31. In order to avoid the last minute rush and the possibility of some persons being deprived of the use of their automobile for the first several days of November, I urge all owners of vehicles to take their cars to the approved stations as soon as possible."

The semi-annual inspection of motor vehicles is a safety measure to insure motorists of safe vehicles, the director added.

More than 450,000 vehicles must be inspected during the month at the 1,250 approved stations. A check for stickers will start November 1 by State troopers, the director said.

Every motor vehicle in the State must bear the inspection sticker before it can be operated after October 31.

Everyone present was delighted with the part taken by the boys of the F.F.A. They conducted themselves in a manner which reflects much credit upon their advisor, Prof. R. R. Fishpaw, as well as themselves. We were impressed, anew, with the value of this splendid training in our school.

"GOOD GIRLS GO TO PARIS" CALLED ROMANTIC COMEDY

An hilariously conclusive proof that "Good Girls Go to Paris" is said to be provided by Melvyn Douglas and Joan Blondell in the new Columbia comedy coming to the Pitts' Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, October 30 and 31. Hailed as one of the gayest laugh romances of the season, "Good Girls Go to Paris" is the second co-starring venture of the comedy team which made last season's "There is Always a Woman" so delightful.

Miss Blondell is seen in the new film as the prototype of many American girls, in that she wants to go to Paris. Miss Blondell, on the other hand chooses a delightfully unorthodox method of attaining her ambition. She becomes a waitress in a college town tea-room, hoping to find a rich college lad whose father will provide the financial backing for her trip by "persuading" her to "forget" the boy. Unfortunately, in addition to this tendency toward gold-digging, the petite, pert waitress suffers from a strong conscience which prevents in order to "forget." Among the lavish settings constructed for the production were an ultra-modern tea-room; the reproduction of a world-famous New York night club and a unique millionaire's mansion.

In portraying her role, Miss Blondell will be seen in a preview of the new-season short skirt fashions. Twelve ensembles were created for the star by Kalloch, Columbia's fashion expert, ranging from an afternoon frock to the widely discussed new wedding gowns.

Chairman of Board is Principal Speaker at Employees' Gathering; Workers Receive Service Emblems; Raymond Hunt Honored for 35 Years Service with Utility

Jay Johns, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Virginia Public Service Company, was principal speaker at an employee gathering recently held in Alexandria for the presentation of service emblems to 58 employees.

Among other things, Mr. Johns stated "Loyalty to duty and sincerity of purpose are essential in the accomplishment of any worth while job. VPS employees have been of great help to the Board of Directors and officers of the Company by sincere and loyal performance of their varied duties."

M. J. O'Connell, President of the Company, presented service emblems to employees of the General Office who had served the Company continuously for periods of from 5 to 35 years.

14 Employees received 5-year emblems; 25 received 10-year emblems; 15 received 15-year emblems.

Frank A. Mitchell, Vice President and General Manager, and Joseph M. Costello, Secretary and Treasurer, were presented 20-year service emblems.

Chas. W. Wood, Superintendent of Transportation for the entire organization, has been with the Company 30 years. He began his activity in the Eastern Division with headquarters at Newport News but is now located in Alexandria.

Raymond Hunt, Superintendent of Electric Operations with headquarters at Charlottesville, was presented with a 35-year emblem, having started his utility career in 1903 immediately after leaving Lehigh University, where he majored in Electrical Engineering.

Mr. Leo P. Harlow, Associate Counsel of the Company for many years, presented Mr. O'Connell with a 25-year service emblem. Mr. O'Connell was formerly owner and operator of the Warrenton (Va.) Electric Light and Ice Company. In 1927 he became Northern Division Manager of the Virginia Public Service Company and in 1938 became its president. The General Office employees, through Mr. Harlow and by means of an autographed booklet, extended their congratulations to Mr. O'Connell on his 25th year of service to the Company. The booklet bore the signatures of all the General Office employees and was introduced with the following message: "This booklet of autographs is presented to Martin J. O'Connell, President of the Virginia Public Service Company, by the employees of the General Office, as a token of affection, regard and esteem to one who, in guiding the Company's destinies in times of stress and strain, has been calm and clear-thinking; efficient in the discharge of his duties; patient with the shortcomings of others, and understandingly considerate of the welfare of all employees."

THE WORLD AROUND US

By
O. J. Schuster

THE EUROPEAN CRISIS is having at least one good effect on Americans—in teaching us to see foreign nations in a little more realistic light. Our knowledge of them is still very vague and inadequate and the editors and columnists of the big daily newspapers are either ignorant of European history or are willfully distorting it, as Charles A. Beard, the American historian suggests. We should, for instance, know the history of Turkey during the past 20 years to understand and appreciate what her influence will be on the war in Europe and the peace that will follow it.

TURKEY FOUGHT WITH GERMAN against the Allies in the World War. At its close, the Allies carved up her territory as ruthlessly as we carve a turkey on Thanksgiving day. That injustice gave the Turks a wise and heroic leader, Mustafa Kemal, who drove the Sultan and his corrupt government out of Turkey, established an entirely new government in a new capital, and became the all-powerful dictator of the new Turkey. Kemal scorned the treaty offered his country by the Allies and made one with them on his own terms.

MUSTAFA KEMAL IS CALLED "the greatest radical in history." Here are some of his and his country's great achievements during the last 15 years:

1. He drove the British and Greek armies out of Constantinople and all other Turkish territory—the British had spent $140,000,000 on England's occupation of Constantinople and other Turkish territory, according to prime minister Baldwin, without gaining anything.

2. The fez and turban of the men and the veil of the women were discarded and modern western dress was adopted by both men and women.

3. The Turks under Kemal had to drop their Arabic script and learn to use the Roman script, "a tremendous change in the national language brought about in the short space of ten months," Prof. Schevill of the University of Chicago tells us.

4. The printed word was likewise changed, the Roman alphabet replacing the Arabic. The Arabic calendar gave place to the Georgian calendar. The metric system of weights and measures replaced the cumbersome one in use—a change scientists have urged Americans to make for half a century without success.

5. At a single stroke Kemal destroyed the almost absolute grip in which the Mohammedan religion held the Turks by the clergy's control of the schools. These were now closed by dictatorial decrees, a system of public schools set up in their place for all boys and girls. Even middle-aged and old people learned the new language and an illiterate people became literate and enlightened.

6. Women were given the same rights as men and now Turkish women are doctors, lawyers, scientists, artists, educators, engineers, government officials, etc.

THESE ARE JUST A FEW of the vital changes the Turks have made in the last few years, changes transforming Turkey into a modern nation. As Prof. Schevill says: "Merely to list the succession of reforms by which the civilization of Turkey was transformed into a modern nation would require many pages. Not even in communist Russia was a more sweeping attempt made to change a nation's whole order of public and private life." Few people indeed are elastic enough in mind to make such changes in a century, to say nothing of making them in the brief space of 15 years.

THE IDEALS OF KEMAL and those he instilled in his people are far more sympathetic with those of Russia than with those of the democracies. This sympathy will undoubtedly have an important influence in settling the troubles in Europe. Kemal's ideal was, "To flatter none, to deceive none, but always to seek and pursue the one sure road to enlightened prosperity for his people." President Roosevelt, recently learning of this remarkable man's achievements, expressed great astonishment, it is reported. Yet Kemal ridiculed the idea that he was "Great" and added that if any are moved to confer that title "you merely laugh in the faces of those that say it."

HUNTERS CAUTIONED AS SEASON OPENS

Approximately 2,500 lives are claimed each year as a result of the careless handling of firearms, according to Harold F. Enlows, director of Red Cross Accident Prevention and First Aid Service, who has warned hunters about to take to the fields with the opening of the game season.

Fatal hunting accidents, Mr. Enlows said, are responsible for half of the firearms fatalities each year. "In most cases, carelessness and the use of a gun by an inexperienced person are the underlying reasons for firearm fatalities," he said. "A properly handled gun in the hands of an experienced hunter should not be a lethal instrument. Yet, extreme caution should be taken by those planning to hunt this year."

Few firearm accidents would occur if certain simple precautions are observed, Mr. Enlows said. Some of the more important rules, which need no further explanation, are:

1. Never point a gun toward yourself or any other person.

2. Always inspect the barrel of a gun through the breech, not the muzzle.

3. Loaded guns should never be carried in an automobile, wagon or boat (except when hunting from a boat.)

4. Never grasp a gun by the barrel to lift it or draw it to you—take hold of it near the breech.

5. When loading a gun be sure no one is in the path of the muzzle.

6. Never pull a gun through a fence with you. Lay the gun down so that it can be picked up safely from the other side.

7. Loaded guns should never be left leaning against a tree. It may discharge if someone, or your dog, should knock it over.

8. Be sure your gun barrel is not clogged with snow or mud before loading. It may cause a backfire with fatal effects.

9. When walking with a gun always carry the muzzle pointed down and make certain the "safety" is on, or the hammers are not cocked.

10. When an object is seen indistinctly, hold your fire until you are sure that it is game and not a human being or dog. Don't shoot if a house or barn is in the line of fire.

THE WAR'S DELAY

But let every man prove his own work.—Gal. 6:4.

THE WAR'S DELAY

As postponement of hostilities continues, and winter approaches, some of the underlying causes of the war's delay become more apparent and understandable. Both sides seem to feel that delay of major hostilities is more advantageous to themselves than to the enemy, and each has considerable justification for that viewpoint.

In the case of the Allies it is felt that the ever-tightening blockade will eventually create conditions in Germany calculated to develop a revolution and overthrow the one man deemed responsible for all the trouble. Both sides seem to feel that the German West Wall and the French Maginot Line are so nearly impregnable that direct attack would be disastrous, even to the winner.

Hitler needs time to convince his people that they must fight. He believes that he can break the power of the British Navy, and that with such direct or indirect assistance in propaganda as is being given by men like Lindbergh, that he can alienate Canada and the United States.

And finally Hitler needs time to find out just what he has actually done in signing up with Stalin. It would seem that in his intense determination to humiliate England by a diplomatic victory, he has ruined himself. Undoubtedly he has cut off his own opportunity of expansion to the east and it would seem that this action has alienated Italy and what is left of Spain. Doubtless, too, his coalition with Russia has aided England and France in coming to a friendly agreement with Turkey—a vital alignment in Mediterranean affairs.

An additional factor in delaying Hitler's possible determination to attack is the long debate in the United States Congress over repeal of the Arms Embargo. We may think Congress is acting rather quickly in so important a matter, but over in those dictatorial countries so long a delay arouses hopes that their agents here are going to be able to keep the Embargo in effect.

Last, but not least, is old man winter. If Hitler can keep up his bluff until snow descends, he can present his people with a bad-weather alibi for his failure to inflict his boasted "blitzkrieg," or "lightning war" upon his foes. From a military standpoint it is a long time until Spring, but if the German people themselves have not finished Hitler by that time, the Allies will be in a very good situation to accomplish a thorough job.

GEN. WILLIAM McK. EVANS

With the death of General William McKendree Evans, we have to mark the passing of one of the last of the Confederate veterans who saw General Lee at close range, and who could, by word of mouth contribute to history, and our knowledge of the great Southern Military leaders. General Evans was the last man alive who saw Lee and Jackson hold their conference near Chancellorsville, the night before Jackson was killed by his own pickets. The general owed the fact that he was a witness to the last conference between two of the greatest military strategists in history, to an unhappy chance. He had bought a pair of boots that were pinching him unmercifully. The members of his battery were resting on a roadside, and awaiting orders, on the evening of the historic conference. Young Evans asked his commander if he could go into the woods to rest. Instead of giving vent to his feelings in private, and lying prone in order to give his tortured feet a rest, General Evans soon forgot his pains as he saw General Lee joined by General Jackson, in a small patch of woods that had been burned. The generals were thus placed on a natural stage for the benefit of the young Confederate who was carrying the vision of the rendezvous with him until the end of his days.

Once Colonel Stephen D. Lee sent General Lee some apples by General Evans, who was then just a young courier of 14. So the gallant Confederate who died yesterday, twice came close, indeed, to the great man in whose ranks he fought.

General Evans was a good soldier who was honored with high office by his fellow-Confederate veterans—a good soldier in war and peace. He followed the example of his commander-in-chief in turning his face resolutely toward the tasks of peace, when the War Between the States was over. He always took a keen interest in the public affairs of the moment, and was active in business up to a remarkable age. Richmond is saddened by his passing, not only because of what he was in his own right, but also because he was something of a symbol of the past for the whole South.

BURNE-MOORE

The Manassas Baptist Church was the scene of a very lovely wedding at high noon on Tuesday of this week when Mrs. Mattie Virginia Moore, of Manassas, and Mr. Charles Wesley Burner, of Front Royal, were united in marriage by Rev. Olin R. Kesner, assisted by Rev. R. M. Graham, pastor of the church. The church was simply but effectively decorated with ferns and white candles.

The bride wore a Viking blue dress and hat with a corsage of Talisman roses. She was attended by her daughter, Mrs. Olin R. Kesner, who was dressed in Dubonnet, with a corsage of yellow roses. Mr. Randolph Burner of Washington, D. C., son of the groom, was best man and Mr. Edgar Rohr of Manassas was usher.

Several selections of appropriate wedding music were played by Mrs. John T. Broadus while the guests were assembling and during the ceremony. Only relatives and close friends were present.

After a brief reception in the vestibule of the church Mr. and Mrs. Burner left for an extended honeymoon tour. On their return they will be at home at 329 Front Ave., Front Royal, Va.

Cider Marflip

Combine the contents of 1 packet (1/4 lb.) Campfire Marshmallows and 1-1/2 cups boiling water and heat until marshmallows are completely melted. Add a few grains of salt and let cool. Then add 1 cup orange juice, 1/2 cup lemon juice and 1 quart apple cider. Blend well and chill. Serves 6-8.

An unusual way to serve this Cider Marflip is in hollowed-out orange shells. Make these by cutting off the top of navel oranges, about 1/4 of the way from the top. Then carefully squeeze out the juice with an orange squeezer.

Apple Crisp

Butter a casserole and add 4 cups of apples sliced 1/4 inch thick. Add 1/2 c. water and 1 t. cinnamon. Work together one-third c. butter, one c. sugar and three-fourth c. pastry flour. Pat over apples and bake uncovered.

MAKE MINE APPLE

Spicy Apple Pie

6 large tart apples, sliced thin; 1 cup sugar; 1 tsp. cinnamon; one-half t. nutmeg; one-eighth tsp. salt; 1 tsp. lemon juice; 1 tsp. butter. For pastry, use 1 recipe Pie Crust. Roll one-half of dough and line a 9-inch pie plate. Fill pie shell with sliced apple. Mix sugar, spices, salt, and lemon juice. Sprinkle over apples. Dot with butter. Moisten edge of pie with water. Roll remaining dough for top crust, and cut a few slits to permit steam to escape. Fit top crust over apples and seal edge of pie. Bake in hot oven (425 degree F) 45 to 50 minutes.

Broiled Pork Chops with Apple Rings

Select rather lean pork chops one-half to three-fourth thick. Place on pan and place in rack on lowest notch from broiler. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Broil until light brown on one side - turn and lay slices of cored but not peeled apples brushed with melted butter around pork chops. Also place tomatoes which have been hollowed out and filled with mashed potatoes. Continue broiling until chops are brown.

Telephone Exhibits Centers Of Interest At Expositions From 1876 To Present Time

Bell's First Instrument Shown At Philadelphia; Today's Fairs Feature "Voder"

"My God—it talks!" was the exclamation not of profanity but of wonder and amazement with which Emperor Pedro of Brazil greeted a demonstration of the newly invented telephone at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia in 1876. The intimate and personal nature of telephone service has been the quality that has attracted exposition crowds to the exhibits at which the telephone and telephone service have been featured. In competition with far more elaborate and spectacular exhibits, the telephone has always proved a drawing card, because exposition crowds could not only see it in use, but use it.

Sixty-three years later, a machine which does actually talk—which creates speech sounds and forms them into words and sentences—is being demonstrated at this year's World's Fairs at New York and San Francisco. Called the "Voder," it is a product of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, research arm of the Bell System, and is made almost entirely of equipment used in the furnishing of everyday telephone service.

From a marvelous machine which could transmit spoken words a few hundred feet in 1876 to one which can manufacture speech in 1939 is some indication of the progress of the research which has made telephone service a commonplace convenience today.

The first international exposition at which the Bell System—though it was not known as such at the time—had an exhibit was the Exposition Universelle, at Paris, in 1889. This exhibit was provided by the American Bell Telephone Company and the Western Electric Manufacturing Company. Emphasis was placed on the development of long distance service, in which, as at all times since the invention of the telephone, the United States then held a commanding position.

The American Bell Telephone Company's exhibit at the great Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893 was to afford proof that it sometimes pays to dream. By then the thousand mile telephone call was an accomplished fact. The switchboard and the long distance booth were distinctly the most popular of all the remarkable things the Bell System had on view, for they most clearly demonstrated the actual application of research and experimentation to the practical needs of everyday life.

A switchboard at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo in 1901 was destined to play an important role in a drama of nation-wide importance. President McKinley, while attending a public reception at the exposition, had been shot by an assassin. What had been an almost commonplace piece of equipment became, in an instant, the communication center of a nation facing a crisis.

The first transcontinental telephone line was formally put in service on January 25, 1915, about a month before the opening of the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco. The Bell System exhibit at this exposition was housed in its own building.

The Philadelphia Sesquicentennial Exposition of 1926 celebrated a half-century of another form of freedom—the emancipation of the human voice from the bonds of time and distance. Oscar, the dummy with the microphone ears, amused and mystified visitors at the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago, in 1933, as the Voder does today at New York and San Francisco.

COMEDY - DRAMA HAS "THAT HUMAN TOUCH"

"That human touch," missing from so many of Hollywood's pretentious productions, has been very successfully captured for Paramount's "Unmarried," which opens on Wednesday, November 1 at the Pitts Theatre. Somehow the elements of story production, cast and direction have been so combined that there has emerged a picture which is a lot closer to the life of most people than many of the super-epics to come out of Hollywood. Withal, the picture is not a commonplace family story, yet it is one that is ideally suitable for the whole family.

The cast is an excellent one, ideally suited to the type of material which they were asked to bring to the screen. It stars Helen Twelvetrees, who is making something of a comeback in motion pictures, Buck Jones of western fame, and Donald "Small Fry" O'Connor. In addition, the supporting cast numbers such sound players as John Hartley, Sidney Blackme, Larry Crabbe and Robert Armstrong.

"Unmarried" can best be classed as a comedy-drama, for it combines the elements of heart-touching pathos, with warm human comedy. Under the excellent direction of Kurt Neumann, the story immediately establishes character values for Miss Twelvetrees and Buck Jones. The lady is a night club proprietress, a good business woman, and she is more or less wrapped up in glamor, and in keeping gangsters from breaking up her place. Buck Jones is a pug who is on the way down in the fistic sense. As the picture opens, he loses a fight to Larry Crabbe, and since his manager bet most of their remaining money on Buck, the pair wind up broke. Buck appeals to Helen for funds, but she turns him down for the first time in his life. Then the pair approach the owner of the arena for a touch. They are refused.

The drama picks up impetus at this point as the manager attempts later that night to rob the safe at the arena. He's killed by the guard and Buck, hearing the shot, rushes to the office, and carts his manager away before the police can get to him. He takes the body to Helen's apartment, and there tells the police that the death is accidental.

From that point the narrative takes an amazing and unexpected twist. Buck and Helen receive a wire addressed to his manager from a boy who is obviously his son. They don't know exactly what to do about it, but they decide to investigate the next day.

They go to the address indicated, and find a neat, modern home. They wander about in an incredulous frame of mind. At last they are interrupted by a manager never told him about. Faced by Donald O'Connor, the son Buck's with, telling the boy of his father's death, the tough pair blanch. They decide to feed him instead. After dinner, Buck finally tells him. They can't leave the boy, and so they stay on—and on, and on. Amusing as practically anything ever seen on the screen are the scenes in which this pair attempt to learn the ropes of domesticity. The picture comes to a logical climax when the boy, grown to the state of manhood, tries to follow in Buck's footsteps and enter the prize ring.

NOW YOU CAN DO IT TOO!

Here is fascinating news that concerns YOUR entire future! News that now brings Success and Happiness right to YOUR doorstep!

Walter P. Chrysler:

"Of great interest and value."

"Thousands must have been waiting for something just like this."

Thomas A. Edison:

"Extremely interesting and of great practical value."

Only something unusual could bring similar praise from thousands of America's leading men and women.

And something unusual HAS happened—a book that concerns YOU and YOUR success and happiness.

It deals with the biggest problem you and all of us face: The problem of "getting along" with others, of making others like us, of influencing those with whom we come in contact in business, social and everyday life.

Why is this your most important problem? Because ONLY through OTHERS is it possible for any of us to succeed—to get what we want from life. Your difficulties of today—your setbacks and successes of the past—do you not find other people always at the root of them—friend, relative, employer, employee, associate, superior?

Successful men and women recognize this need of influencing others as their most important life problem.

John D. Rockefeller knew it when he said, "Ability to deal with human nature is a commodity for which I will pay more than for any other thing under the sun."

Andrew Carnegie knew it when he paid Charles Schwab a salary of a million dollars a year "not for what he knows about making steel but because he knows how to please and influence people."

And Schwab knew it: "Many of us think of salesmen as people traveling around with sample lists. Instead we are ALL salesmen, every day of our lives. We are selling our ideas, our plans, our energies, our enthusiasm, to those with whom we come in contact."

That famous, startling scientific report recognized it: "Even in very technical lines, only 15 per cent of one's financial success is due to one's technical knowledge, and 85 per cent is due to personality and ability to influence and lead others." (RE-READ THAT AMAZING STATEMENT! It is, in exact essence, the report of a long study by the Carnegie Institute of Technology!)

This all-important "knack" of influencing and swaying others was for centuries mysteriously called "personality," "magnetism," "charm." But modern science has been making breath-taking discoveries!

Our great psychology laboratories have found that successful people exercise their great influence over others through a definite set of psychological "laws"—simple but powerful rules which enable them to "handle" people in every step in life.

Mystery was entirely swept aside—the way was opened for all to master this tremendous power of influence over others—when Webb and Morgan gathered together these "laws," put them into a fascinating, easily-understood book, "Strategy in Handling People."

Now this book, which aroused such whole-hearted enthusiasm from Chrysler, Edison, Wrigley and thousands of other successful people, is available to you—in its COMPLETE 260-page word-for-word form—at a price you can well afford!

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Everlasting Punishment" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 29th.

The Golden Text will be "Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye have transgressed; and make you a new heart and a new spirit: for why will ye die, O house of Israel?" (Ezekiel 18:31.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." (1 John 1:9.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals may seek the understanding of Christian Science the facts of being without striving for them. This strife consists in the endeavor to forsake error of every kind and to possess no other consciousness but good" (p. 322.)

IN MEMORIAM
In memory of my dear mother, Ella E. Reeves, who died two weeks ago, this past October 2, 1939.

No one knows the sorrow to be left alone,
Till God sends a message to our house

'Tis sad when he calls for one or the other
But saddest of all when he calls our mother.

God needed another angel.
To worship before his throne,
So he sent a message from Heaven
And called my dear Mother home.

My Mother, who gave me the best of her life
Who cherished my secrets, my sorrow and strife
Who taught me to love; who taught me to pray.

Oh! dear mother in Heaven, God bless you today.
My mother, dear, my mother kind,
Has gone and left her daughter behind

But for me she did her best
Oh! God grant her eternal rest!
By her loving daughter,
Mary Bryant,
Manassas, Va.

QUIET TALKS ON RELIGION

BY

THE INTELLIGENCE OF LOVE

There can be no real love without intelligence. Love is more than sentimentality. The neglect of this truth is responsible for many of our modern evils, specially in the making of unhappiness in our homes and the degradation of the ideals of family life. There are few spheres where people use their brains as little as they do in courtship and marriage. The most serious of all contracts is upon without considering the fitness of each to be the life companion of the other. In fact every true and lasting friendship between two human beings must rest upon a mutual recognition of the good traits of the other.

What is manifestly true of human love is even more evidently true of our love for God. In His summary of the Law our Savior says "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul and with all thy mind." It may be true that religion originates in our hearts and is the reaching of a wistful soul after fellowship with the unseen, but such a reaching out is an intelligent act. The old maxim that "ignorance is the mother of devotion" is false. Ignorance may lead to superstition, but never to true religion.

It is to the disgrace of some of our colleges that they tolerate a certain group of shallow egotists who gratify their sense of self-importance by scoffing at christianity and seeking to rob our youth of the faith which they have learned from their parents and their ministers at home. Such teachers are real enemies of society, and unworthy of the responsibilities committed to them.

The christian religion rests upon an impregnable rock and long after these unworthy leaders of youth have passed into oblivion millions of the world's intellectuals will be loving God with their minds.

Every new marvel in nature revealed by a scientist is an additional argument for the wisdom and power of the divine Creator. No one but an idiot would argue that his delicately constructed gold watch or his high-powered car had just happened here and were not produced by marvelous intelligence on the part of their makers. It is surely more idiotic to say that the vast and glorious universe originated in anything less than an intelligent Creator. It is hard to improve on Addison's lines, based on the 19th Psalm,

"What though in solemn silence all Move round this dark terrestrial ball,

What though no real voice nor sound Throughout these radiant orbs be found?

In reason's ear they all rejoice And utter forth a glorious voice, Forever singing as they shine, The hand that made us is divine."

History is an unanswerable witness to the intelligence of those who love God with their minds. The immovable foundation of our faith is the historic fact of Jesus. He towers above all other men as snow-capped Mt. Hermon towers above the little hills at its feet. Even unbelieving historians freely admit that He is the greatest character that has ever lived. Our chronology centers in His birth. He is today the master mind of the world and all literature is colored by His thought. He has been the inspiration of the loftiest culture in music and art—the sculpture of Michel Angelo, the painting of Raphael, the music of Handel, and of Mendelssohn. Above all else, He has been the center of the spiritual life of countless saints through the centuries. Nor, is His influence waning. From cottage to palace, from country chapel to city cathedral may be heard the daily prayers of millions of the best spirits of our day, who find in Jesus the only hope for a confused and suffering world. Surely it is an intelligent act to follow the leadership of Him who alone is fit to be hailed as "the Light of the world."

V. P. S. EMPLOYEES GET EMBLEMS

Safety Director Congratulates Group On Wonderful Showing.

The Northern Division of the Virginia Public Service Company which includes Leesburg, Herndon and Harpers Ferry, led in the State-wide Safety Campaign conducted by the Company. During this special safety drive which ran for four months, from June 1 to September 30, three sections of the winning Northern Division; namely, the Alexandria Power Plant and the Warrenton and Leesburg organizations, did not have the semblance of a single accident of any kind. A. "Joe" Zuchelli, Safety Director for the Northern Division, stated that the Company's definition of an accident was very severe—"Any accident in which the driver's vehicle is involved, unless properly parked, where such accident results in death, personal injury, or property damage and regardless of who was hurt, what property was damaged or who was responsible." "This," stated Mr. Zuchelli, "makes it quite an accomplishment to go through several months without an accident. Still more wonderful, however, is the fact that the Leesburg organization did not have a single accident of any kind for the past twelve months."

Mr. J. diZerega, district manager at Leesburg, was presented with an emblem by Mr. Zuchelli, for the splendid performance of his organization.

More than 200 employees of the Northern Division operations gathered in Alexandria Tues., night at the Lee Room in the George Mason Hotel, and in the Company auditorium, as guests of the Company and received praises of M. J. O'Connell, president of the Company, for their safety work.

Mr. O'Connell also presented service emblems to 138 employees of the Company for continuous service of from 5 to 25 years.

In making these awards, Mr. O'Connell called attention to the fact that long years of services naturally meant satisfied employees-employees who are interested in their work not only from the standpoint of their monthly earnings but from the satisfaction of serving the public in a satisfactory manner.

25-year service emblems were distributed to Oscar L. Hooe, of Middleburg, and Gentry L. Muse and Harry Longbeam, both of Harpers Ferry, James E. Reed, Assistant Superintendent, J. Otis Burke of Arlington, and Ralph B. Brown of Purcellville. Two of the Company's faithful colored employees, R. Henry Bowman and William B. Evans, both of Alexandria, also received 25-year emblems.

Emblems for 20 years of continuous service were presented to John W. "Pop" Howard, Northern Division Manager, J. Frank Myers, and Morris H. Boswell, of Alexandria, Miss Alene Deputy of Arlington, Harry F. O'Brien and Preston B. Ruffner, both of Warrenton, and Floyd H. Dillon of Purcellville. 20-year emblems were also distributed to George H. Randall and Gilbert Price of Alexandria, colored employees.

Other employees of the Leesburg, Herndon and Harpers Ferry operations all of which come under the Leesburg District, received emblems. They were R. E. Kronk, Harpers Ferry, J. diZerega, District Manager, and Charles W. Fiske, both of Leesburg who were awarded 15-year emblems.

Susie V. Bodmer of Leesburg and G. L. Printz and Thomas E. Groff of Herndon, received 10-year emblems. William Calvary, colored, of Leesburg also received a 10-year emblem.

Mary E. Hurst, Inez Keyes and R. N. Wrenn of the Herndon organization and J. R. Lowry and J. H. Finchum of Leesburg received 5-year service emblems.

TELEPHONE OPERATOR KILLED AT TRIANGLE

On Monday Mrs. Helen Agnes Windsor, chief telephone operator at Triangle, was instantly killed as the automobile which she was driving hit a bridge on the road between Quantico and Triangle. She was driving alone when the accident occurred and the county coroner, Dr. E. H. Marsteller, issued a certificate of accidental death.

Mrs. Windsor is survived by her husband, Mr. Charles Windsor, and a daughter, Jean, age 9. She was thirty years of age and had been associated with the local telephone company for a number of years. Funeral services were held in Alexandria on Wednesday. FLORA STEWART WINSTON

The Waterfall neighborhood was saddened on Tuesday, October 10, by the tragic death of Flora Winston, wife of Reuben Winston, and one of our respected and esteemed colored friends. In going about her house hold duties her clothing caught fire and she was so painfully burned. She died a few hours later.

Flora was so humble and kind, so sweet of disposition and served so faithfully with her hands that she will leave a vacancy in the neighborhood that can never be filled.

She was in her 59th year and leaves to mourn her loss, her husband and nine children.

The funeral services were conducted at her church, "Olive Branch," on Friday afternoon and she was laid to rest in the adjoining cemetery by the side of a son, who met a tragic death in an automobile accident less than a year ago.

LEGISLATIVE REPORTS READY

Studies Specially Relate To State's "School Effort"

Finishing touches are being given to reports of numerous legislative commissions for submission to the General Assembly session starting in January. These recommendations probably will provide the basis for whatever new legislation is adopted.

Chairman of commissions and their respective studies are: Senator Aubrey G. Weaver, Front Royal, highways; Senator Lloyd Robinette, Lee county, schools; Delegate John B. Spiers, Radford, jails; Delegate Francis Miller, Fairfax, merit system for State employees; Senator Leonard G. Muse, Roanoke City, insurance; Delegate Scott Litton, Russell county, coal industry; Dr. Raymond B. Pinchbeck, dean, University of Richmond, county government; former Senator John W. Rust, Fairfax, re-districting; Senator Hunsdon Cary, Henrico, labor relations.

The State Department of Education last week made public a statistical study for the ten years 1928-1938, showing Virginia's annual per capita expenditure for schools to be $8.71 compared to be national average of $15.33, and the average salary of Virginia teachers to be $810 compared to $1,283 for the nation. Increases in enrollment, attendance, value of school property and library facilities were listed, yet the report emphasized that Virginia ranks next to the bottom of all States and in the "effort" Virginia makes in behalf of its school system.

Virginia's militia was ordered to Virginia Beach during November for the first cold weather maneuvers since Virginia troops went to Texas in 1916. More than 4,000 men will have a week of intensive training, the First Infantry and the 11th Field Artillery, Adjutant General S. Gardner Waller announced. Under congressional authority, the strength of the Virginia National Guard is to be increased to 4,992 men, consisting of 882 officers, 4 warrant officers and 4,706 enlisted men.

During the week the Budget Commission concluded its inspection trips to State institutions. Governor Price spoke at dedication exercises at the new Johns-Manville plant at Jarrolds. The following day Governor Price's only brother, Robert G. Price, died suddenly at the Executive Mansion while paying his brother a visit. Funeral services were conducted Sunday at Staunton.

Methodist, Baptist and Disciples of Christ groups held largely attended religious rallies in Richmond. Hotels reports a booming business and retail stores, cheered by business indices, prepared to do a large Christmas business.

ADEN

The many friends of Mrs. Lilly Bailey Halterman will feel sad to know of her death on October 12. She had been in poor health for about two years, bearing her suffering patiently and like the true Christian that she was.

She had spent some time with her daughter, Mrs. George Halterman at Fishersville, Augusta County, Va., and was there when she died.

Funeral services were conducted in the Methodist church by the Rev. Mr. Vandever and the body was laid to rest in the adjoining cemetery.

Mrs. Halterman joined the United Brethren church at Aden when she was quite a young girl and remained true to her vows.

She is survived by her husband, Mr. Brown Halterman and six children. Four daughters; Mrs. George Hartman and Miss Sylvia Halterman, of Fishersville, Va., Mrs. Jesse Skinner of Charlottesville, Va., Mrs. Evelyn Newland of Spotsylvania County. Two sons; Carrollton, of the U. S. Navy and Wayne, of Richmond, Va. She is also survived by six sisters and two brothers. The sisters living in this County are Mrs. J. W. Arnold and Mrs. Gertrude Wright of Aden and Mrs. Melvin Bowling of Brentsville.

TURKEY BOOM

Great flocks of turkeys are being fattened now all over Virginia and Maryland in preparation for this year's early Thanksgiving.

Last year Virginia raised more than $2,000,000 worth of turkeys and Maryland more than $1,000,000 worth.

The status of the turkey this Thanksgiving is detailed in an article scheduled for publication in The Washington Star of October 29. Also described in the article are the efforts of the Department of Agriculture to "streamline" the turkey process which, they believe, will give the bird a new set of characteristics in about five years.

The newly elected officers took charge and discussed the rules and regulations of the league and no serious changes were made.
