TWO ARRESTED IN FIRE CASE

Employees of Prince William Farmers Service Are Charged With Offense

Following a quiet investigation by local and state police and fire marshalls, two employees of the Prince William Farmers Service of Manassas were taken into custody on Tuesday in connection with the first and robbery which took place there on the night of October 16.

Those arrested are Caskey Withers and Lee England, both 21 years of age. Neither are natives of this county, but both had been working here for some time. They were well thought of and not of a personality usually associated with crimes of any kind. Their arrest was quite a surprise, but is said to have been brought about by evidence fully justifying the action taken. They were removed to Alexandria pending completion of the investigation.

The fire for which it is said they are being held responsible, was of a serious nature, causing heavy loss, and was only extinguished by the most efficient work of the local fire department. A quantity of money and other securities was said to have been taken at the time under circumstances which gave weight to the suspicion that the blaze and robbery was the work of those full acquainted with the establishment.

Although the proprietor of the establishment, Mr. Walter Sadd, is not making any comment for publication at this time, and the authorities likewise have made no announcements, it is the general belief that some very good work has been done in rounding up those responsible. The investigation is said to be continuing.

J. Newland and daughter, Helen, Mrs. Florence Frederick and Mr. Sidney Colvin, of Nokesville.

RELATIVES OF REFUGEES NEED FIRST AID MOST

Fainting and hysterical relatives waiting at the dock for Americans returning from the European war zones are providing to be more of a problem for the Red Cross than the refugees.

Miss Mary Beam, Red Cross nursing field representative for New Jersey, assigned to duty at the docks here to care for incoming refugees, reports that approximately 100 persons have been treated since ships have brought refugees. Most cases, she reports, have involved persons meeting the boats, rather than those completing the perilous voyage.

DEDICATION AT HISTORIC CHURCH

Ceremony Next Sunday At St. John's Centreville

On Sunday morning next a number of articles will be formally dedicated at services to be held at St. John's, Centreville. The gifts come from people whose forebears originally owned the land on which the mission now stands.

This mission, organized in 1849, was erected on land belonging to Henry Whaley, and was formerly the Roberdeau property. Mrs. Whaley was an aunt of the late E. Clinton Utterback in whose memory his widow, Mrs. Eva Utterback, is presenting a cross. Brass vases are being given by a niece of Mrs. Utterback, a Miss Lambert, of Washington.

A handsome communion service is also being given by Hon. Wade H. Ellis, of Rippon Lodge, Prince William County, in honor of the Blackburn family, colonial owners of the land, and collateral forebears of the donor.

Blackburn's Ford, which figured in the War between the States, was the main point of egress and ingress over this portion of the Blackburn lands known at that time as "Wigwam." Later subdivisions of the land bring out the name "Cold Scant," and still more recently, Burlington. It was in a recent survey of a portion of this place that the older history was developed. This place, which borders Rocky Run, was sold by that particular branch of the family in 1834, the owners having since departed for Mississippi.

St. John's has a beautiful church yard, a portion of which came into use as cemetery, the first dead being a young Confederate soldier who died after a fever developed from wounds received in the first battle of Manassas. His benefactors, Mr. and Mrs. Spotswood Grigsby, lie buried either side of him. Others in the community came to be buried there but no definite system of maintenance was developed until recent years.

The entire property contains 1.38 acres by a recent survey, an addition having been made many years ago by Mrs. Sada Simpson Makely, mother of one of the most faithful workers in the mission at present, and also by her sister, Mrs. Virginia Hutchison, now of Vienna, Virginia.

Recently handsome stone gate posts, with an ornamental chain, have enhanced the beauty of the scene.

The presentation marks the completion of the necessary equipment about the church except for purchase of additional altar hangings. St. John's was somewhat roughly handled by the Federal Army during the Sixties but no restitution was ever made by the Federal Government owing to the fact that at the time such adjustment by the proper authorities were being made the Mission was closed.

Mr. Ellis, who is not a resident of this community, has restored one of the ancestral homes near Woodbridge, in Prince William County. It is a wonderful old place and many celebrities are callers in his hospitable country mansion, Rippon Lodge, named for Ripon, England, the older home of the Blackburns.

Rev. Marshall Milton, young Rector of Upper Truro, will consecrate the articles named at the services which will be held at 9:45 A.M.

PROF. PETERS ADDRESSES THE KIWANIS CLUB

The program at the Kiwanis club last Friday evening was a review of the efforts being made on behalf of the educational system in Virginia.

Professor R. Worth Peters, as speaker, gave a resume of the most essential facts connected with the financial set-up of the teaching staff, the plan to gradually furnish free text books, and to provide a competent actuarial plan for retirement.

The speaker declared that local salaries are only about two thirds of the national average and that in many counties of the state, they dwindle even below that figure.

Much interesting discussion was entered into following Mr. Peters' discourse, all of which reflected much praise on the educational leaders in this county as well as upon the county faculty as a whole.

The club was reminded that November 17th is ladies night.

Following the meeting, the club directors met and elected C. M. Harris as secretary to succeed Frank Sigman, the incoming vice president.

T. B. SALE FOR WORTHY CAUSE

Prince William Needs Funds For Many Cases

Virginians will be called upon to raise a total of $128,916.31 by their purchase of Christmas Seals this year to enable the continued prosecution of the war to control and eradicate tuberculosis in the Old Dominion. J. Vaughan Gary, president of the Virginia Tuberculosis Association, has just announced.

While this is an increase of approximately $14,000 over the amount realized a year ago - $114,582.94 - Mr. Gary explained that several county and city tuberculosis organizations already have exhausted funds needed for continued operation of their 1939 campaigns. If the goal sought this year is realized, Mr. Gary said, the programs of education and other activities designed to reduce the ravages of the white plague in Virginia probably will not have to be curtailed in 1940.

The Seal Sale quota for Prince William County is $850, $97.00 higher than last year. We want a higher goal. It gives us stimulation and renewed vigor for work. Each year we want a higher goal. It gives us stimulation and renewed vigor for work. Each year our seal sale has steadily increased, so we have every reason to believe that we will continue to increase. Increased effort means increased funds with which to combat the prevention and cure of tuberculosis.

SUSAN EMMA KEYS

Susan Emma Keys was born near Sinclair's Mill, July 19, 1878, and died at her home at Brentsville, October 26, 1939, after a lingering illness. She had lived her whole life in Prince William County having married Robert Hilman Keys on December 16, 1896.

She is survived by her husband, eight children, 4 grand children and one great grandson.

She was laid to rest in the family cemetery on Sunday afternoon, the funeral services being held in the Union Church at Brentsville, Rev. Bowman officiating.

The unusually large number of friends attending the services proved the esteem in which she was held. Though of a retiring nature, her worth as a wife, mother, friend and neighbor was also expressed in the many floral tributes.

She has passed on but her memory lingers still.

A friend.

ADULT EDUCATION IN HIGH SCHOOLS

Prof. Haydon Announces Completion of Important Plans

Prof. R. C. Haydon, Superintendent of Schools of Prince William County, this week announced this week the completion of plans to offer courses of instruction in important and useful subjects for adults. There are many citizens of the county, now beyond school age who will appreciate the opportunities offered for self improvement and will be glad to know that the splendid educational facilities of our county are still available.

The County School Board with the cooperation of the State Board of Education and the High School faculties is planning to offer opportunities for adult education at the four High School Buildings-Haymarket, Manassas, Nokesville, and Occoquan one night each week for a period of (10) ten weeks beginning about November 15.

Courses will be offered in subjects most interesting to the groups. Among them will be some of the following:

Agriculture, Home Making, Shop Work, Commercial Subjects, General Education, Continuation Courses.

These courses will not be offered for Credit but rather for broadening and general information. It may, however, be possible to arrange Credit in some instances if sufficient number apply to justify doing so.

Persons interested in enrolling should get in touch with the principal of their school and designate the course or courses in which they are interested.

A detailed outline of courses to be offered in each school will be published in next week's Journal.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Adam and Fallen Man" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches and societies of Christian Scientists, on Sunday, November 5.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "When I said, My foot slippeth; thy mercy, O Lord, held me up. In the multitude of my thoughts within me thy comforts delight my soul" (Psalms 94: 18, 19.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Morals have a very imperfect sense of the spiritual man and of the infinite range of his thought. To him belongs eternal Life. Never born and never dying, it were impossible for man, under the government of God in eternal Science, to fall from his high estate" (p. 258.)

THE SESQUI-CENTENNIAL OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES

How many of our readers are aware that on November 6, 1939, the Catholic Church will be celebrating the Sesqui-Centennial of Her formal existence in the United States? We all know that Catholic missionaries accompanied the early explorers of our nation, but it was not until 1789, just 150 years ago, that the first ecclesiastical province was erected here.

Among the archives of The Society for the Propagation of the Faith is a copy of the Bull of Pius VI instituting the See of Baltimore which was "Given at Rome, at St. Mary Major, under the Fisherman's Ring, the 6th day of November, 1789." In that momentous document we read the following:

"Wherefore, it having reached our ears that in the flourishing commonwealth of thirteen American states many faithful Christians united in communion with the Chair of Peter, earnestly desire that a bishop may be appointed over . . . we willingly embraced this opportunity, which the grace of Almighty God has afforded us, to provide those distant regions with the comfort and ministry of a Catholic Bishop."

—The Catholic Virginian.

QUIET TALKS ON RELIGION

BY DR. JAMES T. MARSHALL

THE SIN OF HATE

"He that loveth not knoweth not God, for God is love." (1 John 4: 8.) The foundation of war is human hatred. It can never be cured by declarations of neutrality or placing embargoes on munitions. It is not easy to love the international gangsters who bludgeon helpless little peoples into submission and steal their territory and their possessions?

It is not easy to live up to the standard set by our Lord when He said "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you and pray for them that despitefully use you. Yet, it must be possible, else He would not have commanded it.

Christianity does not, however, condemn righteous indignation in the presence of wrong. The gospels tell of one occasion when Jesus looked about Him with anger when He was faced by willful unbelief and hardness of heart; and they record a bitter invective which He uttered against the religious leaders of His day. There is something wrong with a person who can look upon injustice and cruelty and not be indignant.

Nor does christian love mean that we must like every person. There is a wide difference between liking a man and loving him. The superintendent of the city mission may not like the drunkards and crooks who come to him for help, but he loves them enough to do all in his power to save them from sin and make them new creatures in Christ Jesus. We must learn what it means to hate sin while we love the sinner, just as the physician hates disease while he loves the patient and tries to make him well.

In the Great War through which we passed twenty years ago all our minds were poisoned by the tireless propaganda of hate. The Germans had their "Hymn of Hate," and we Americans showed our folly by discarding the masterpieces of music given to the world by time-honored German composers.

Hatred of the Germans was embodied in the public prayers and the sermons of ministers. I confess my own folly and sin in this respect and have humbly asked the forgiveness of Heaven. Change of heart has come to the churches of today. This finds illustration in a recent utterance by the Rev. Arthur H. Thompson, one of the esteemed Methodist ministers of Washington. Pleading for a sane distinction between Hitler and the people of Germany, and for a deep tenderness and sympathy for the victims of his cruelty. Dr. Thompson says, "The time has come to renew the suggestion of David Lawrence - a mass prayer for the German people. It would send a thrill of hope through the hearts of those in prison and in detention camps and otherwise oppressed if they knew that in this great nation there were millions of free men and free women sympathetically praying for them. If I were again the pastor of a church, I would have special prayers for the German people offered at every service of worship."

This attitude of mind toward those classed as enemies involves no lessening of our personal loyalty to our own country. Love and justice are not opposites. They are inseparable traits in moral perfection of character. Tears coursed down the cheeks of our Lord He uttered His great prediction of the destruction of Jerusalem. (Matt. 23:34 - 39.) George Washington wept as he signed the death warrant of Major Andre; and what judge could sentence a young murderer to the electric chair without deep emotion in his own breast?

Let us banish our hates, and join the propaganda of love and peace. "If thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink. Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good."

IN MEMORIAN

A tribute of love to the memory of my dear daughter, Rosie Belle McCuen, who departed this life twenty-one years ago today, Oct. 22, 1918.

Deep in our hearts you are fondly remembered. Sweet happy memories cling to your name.

True hearts that loved you with deepest affection. Always will love you in death just the same.

But let this token show we still remember you.

KEEP YOUR RED CROSS READY

THIS striking painting of a Red Cross nurse keeping the symbol of mercy flying is the keynote of the 1939 appeal for membership in the American Red Cross. Faced with the need for strengthening daily Red Cross services in 3,700 Chapters, and with its charged obligation to aid in some measure in meeting the distress of the men, women and children refugees in war-torn countries across the sea, the Red Cross asks every man and woman in the nation, able to do so, to join as a member this year and support America's official voluntary relief agency.

Ruskin Williams, a distinguished artist, is creator of this ideal conception of the nurse heroine.

The roll call for members will be held November 11 to 30—join through your local Chapter. Help your Red Cross help others by becoming one of the millions who will add their names to the roll of mercy.

NEW RALLY FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

The young people of the Manassas United Brethren Charge are undertaking a new type of meeting that is expected to be very beneficial to all participating. ## CATHARPIN

Sudley Church was the scene of a very happy gathering, Friday, October 27, when the missionary society held its annual Bazaar and oyster and turkey supper.

The auditorium and dining hall were decorated with gorgeous oak leaves and rust and gold chrysanthemums. The spirit of Halloween was introduced by witches and black cats in decorating the booths.

Our friends from far and near were most generous in their donations to our supper, the candy and fancy work booths. Some of our good women, from Gainesville society came and gave us a real helping hand, badly needed because some of our most dependable workers were detained at home by sudden illness. The business men and women, who so graciously attended to filling our orders, are due special thanks for their courtesy.

During the evening, several solos were beautifully sung by Miss Sara Margaret Senseney and a few instrumental selections were rendered. However, the complete program of music, which had been planned, was not given because the serving of suppers passed along so quickly that there was no impatiently waiting crowd to be entertained.

As a Church organization, we desire to express our gratitude to the public for its much appreciated patronage which made our efforts such a complete success. You are welcome to our church at all time. Come and worship with us.

WATERFALL

In turning to the magazine section of one Sunday paper, the most striking thing to us was a page of the latest fashions.

Times and styles do change, but nothing it seems, as much as ladies clothing. What is most puzzling: where do the fat ladies have a chance with the hour glass or wasp waist styles.

When the stove pipe lines were in vogue, fat ladies looked quite as smart as their slim sisters; we hoped they would never change. It's funny, however hateful a style seems, it's pretty after we get used to it. So if the fats want a wasp waist the fat has to bulge some where. Its puzzling, "Tain't no fair."

Halloween, black cats, bats and goblins everywhere. A big time at the High School tonight. It's fun to watch the young folks in their masquerading. But it's not so nice to find doors and gates off the hinges, buildings upset, and road ways blocked. Makes one feel like loading the old musket with beans.

WE WANT THE ARMS EMBARGO REPEALED

Officially the United States is neutral. We aim to stay out of this war if it is humanly possible, and is more than likely that we shall be able to do this unless we are deliberately attacked, and then we will do our best to defend ourselves.

There is, however, a vast difference between official neutrality and personal conviction, and no well informed publicist for a moment thinks that the majority of people in the United States believe that Adolph Hitler is right and hopes that Germany, under his leadership, will win this war.

It is very difficult to find native Americans who would not like to see the German people rise in revolt and destroy the present Nazi regime; or, if this should not occur, to see Hitler suffer decisive military defeat.

Under these circumstances continuation of a kind of neutrality which has been operating powerfully to aid the aggressors in this war could hardly be expected, especially when international definition of neutrality would permit us to let our friends over there have the supplies they need to win a war which we want to see them win in the interest of our own national safety.

The fundamental law of rescue is that we should go to the aid of a friend or loved-one in danger, if there be greater probability of saving his life than of losing our own. Our friends are in danger. We do not feel that we will be in danger of losing our national existence if we let them have what they can purchase and need, and in the interest of humanity we are going to do it. The foes of democracy, who really seek our destruction also, will have to do what they can about it. We are going to repeal the arms embargo, and while our government desires to remain neutral, the majority of its citizens hope and pray for England and France and we are certainly not going to continue to aid Germany in violation of accepted international definition of neutrality.

MARINES HAVE BIRTHDAY
Friday, November 10, is the 164th anniversary of the establishments of the United States Marine Corps.

The marines—More familiarly known as "Devil Dogs" and "Leathernecks" and famous as "the first to fight"—have had a colorful history since the founding of the corps in a Philadelphia tavern used as the meeting place of early American patriots. And that history is recounted in interesting, graphic detail in an illustrated story scheduled for publication in The Washington Star of Sunday, November 5.

CELEBRATION MARKS TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF COMPLETION OF TRANSCONTINENTAL TELEPHONE LINE

1,700 Calls Go Daily Via 4 Cross-Continent Lines
Linking East and West

The final telephone pole in the first transcontinental telephone line which was placed on the Nevada-Utah border on June 17, 1914. The first call went through from coast to coast on July 29, 1914.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the first telephone conversation ever to be held between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts took place recently when nearly 200 men who had played a part in the planning, designing and building of this first transcontinental telephone line met in seven cities from coast to coast to celebrate this event. That historic call took place on July 29, 1914, when Theodore N. Vail, then president of The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, New York, talked with G. E. McFarland, then president of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, San Francisco. Until this line was completed, it was possible to talk from the east only as far west as Denver, Colo.

The seven cities linked by telephone for the anniversary celebration were New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, Denver and San Francisco. First on the program was a roll call from New York, to which the other six cities on the line responded, the conversation between New York and San Francisco recalling the epochal first talk in 1914. Dr. Frank B. Jewett, president of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, who organized the research in transmission which had to precede the physical extension of the line, spoke of some of the problems involved and how they were overcome. At the conclusion of the formal program, the telephone line was made available to all present, so that old friends might chat back and forth from city to city.

A feature of the anniversary program was a conversation held between the Voders which are part of the Bell System exhibits at the World's Fairs in New York and San Francisco. This was the first time in history that these man-made voices were transmitted from coast to coast. Voders are those marvelous machines developed by the Bell Telephone Laboratories which actually create speech out of electrical circuits and filters when their keys are manipulated by the skilled fingers of trained operators.

Although the first test conversation was held between New York and San Francisco on July 29, 1914, the transcontinental telephone line was not made available for public use until January of 1915. In that year it carried an average of three calls per day. Today there are four transcontinental telephone lines, and they handle an average of 1,700 calls a day between the Pacific coast and points east of Denver.

THE WORLD AROUND US

By
O. J. Schuster

A WORLD WAR OF WORDS in the same sense that France, Germany, and Great Britain are nations, overshadows the war of big guns, submarines, and bombing planes. This fact offers America its most Ideas and ideals of a hundred nations promising possibilities. The U. S. A. represents many different cultures, all of them transplanted from foreign nations like Iraq, Siam, Iceland, and Finland as well as big nations like France, Russia, Great Britain, Germany, Japan, and the United States are asserting their rights. This war of words, this clash of ideas, this insistence my minorities that their interests in the world's natural resources be given fair consideration and shown respect represents WORLD DEMOCRACY IN ACTION. THREE PROMINENT AMERICANS, in a radio forum this week, expressed their conception of Americanism. One of them was J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. His honesty and sincerity cannot be questioned, but many Americans doubt the efficacy of his methods. He would proceed ruthlessly against all those he classifies as "criminals." His attitude seems more that of a dictator than that of a democrat. His address abounded in MUSTS. The American people MUST do this, MUST change so-and-so, MUST rid our country of policies subversive to AMERICAN IDEALS. His attitude is that of ruthless war on crime, not that of a scientific investigation of the causes of crime and a determination to remove those causes.

MRS. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT was another of these forum speakers. She pleaded for thoughtful consideration of minorities in both domestic affairs and in international relations. She urged the need of clearer conceptions of what such current terms as AMERICAN IDEALS and the AMERICAN WAY really mean. She would have us face our own intolerance and mob persecutions, such as were widely practiced in the United States during the World War and which she illustrated graphically. She would seek understanding of the causes of crime and center efforts on the removal of these causes in so far as is humanly possible. She would not crush evil ruthlessly but would lead the way to higher ground and a larger outlook, guided by the searchlight of evolution.

A YALE UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR was another of these forum speakers. He migrated to America from Europe after distinguishing himself as student in European universities. His outlook therefore is from a broad international viewpoint. A devoted American citizen, he foresees great possibilities for this country, also grave dangers which an unwise course might bring to our people. The professor does not regard the United States as a nation in the same sense that France, Germany, and Great Britain are nations. This fact offers America its most promising possibilities. The U. S. A. represents many different cultures, all of them transplanted from foreign nations like Iraq, Siam, Iceland, and Finland as well as big nations like France, Russia, Great Britain, Germany, Japan, and the United States are asserting their rights. This war of words, this clash of ideas, this insistence my minorities that their interests in the world's natural resources be given fair consideration and shown respect represents WORLD DEMOCRACY IN ACTION.

DEMOCRATIC IDEALS, American Ideals, what are they? Does any one group have a monopoly of them? No two of these groups, these different nationalities, have the same picture of AMERICAN IDEALS, nor is it likely that any two of these groups would make the same classification of the "criminals" in the land. J. Edgar Hoover tells us that we have an average of 33 murders every 24 hours. Only a small percentage of the murderers have been convicted and punished. Crime in the United States costs our people more than $15,000,000,000 a year, more than three times the cost of the Federal Government. Thus the war on crime does not appear very successful. May there not be wiser methods, safer methods for the future of America? Does Mrs. Roosevelt or Mr. Hoover most nearly express the AMERICAN WAY, the DEMOCRATIC IDEAL?

THE WORLD AROUND US

O. J. Schuster

WE ARE IMITATORS, not creative thinkers. Original ideas and actions are limited to the very few persons who learned to struggle heroically and continuously against the conventions of the imitators. These few develop great intellectual power while the masses—including politicians, industrialists, financiers, editors, teachers, and other "educated" persons—never develop so much as 10 per cent of their intellectual possibilities, but just imitate what some individual or group starts, be the fashion wise or foolish.

A VERY FAMILIAR ILLUSTRATION of this impelling craze to keep up with the Jones is the habit of Chinese mothers of binding the feet of their girl babies to keep the feet small and "beautiful"—and almost useless. Henry Fairfield Osborn, one of America's greatest scientists, visited Mongolia a few years ago and while there watched the Chinese harvest their fall crop of grain and tubers. He tells us:

"All women were hobbling along on close-bound feet in shoes with sharply pointed toes, in imitation of the beautiful princess of an early dynasty who set the fashion of small feet in court life. This fashion spread to every rank of life thru the mothers' conviction that only the daughter with tiny feet has any chance of matrimony."

THUS THE WOMEN OF CHINA enslaved themselves for a thousand years by imitating a frivolous princess with a senseless idea of beauty. We have laughed at and ridiculed this absurd way in which the Chinese endeavored to keep up with their Jones, but we would show more intelligence, more originality, if we examined some of our own stupid imitations. For several hundred years it was considered indecent for a western woman to sit astride of a horse, and only recently has the side-saddle gone out of use. Why? Because 400 years ago Queen Elizabeth, because of a physical defect, set the style of sitting sideways on her horse. The court ladies all imitated her and the whole feminine world aped the court ladies.

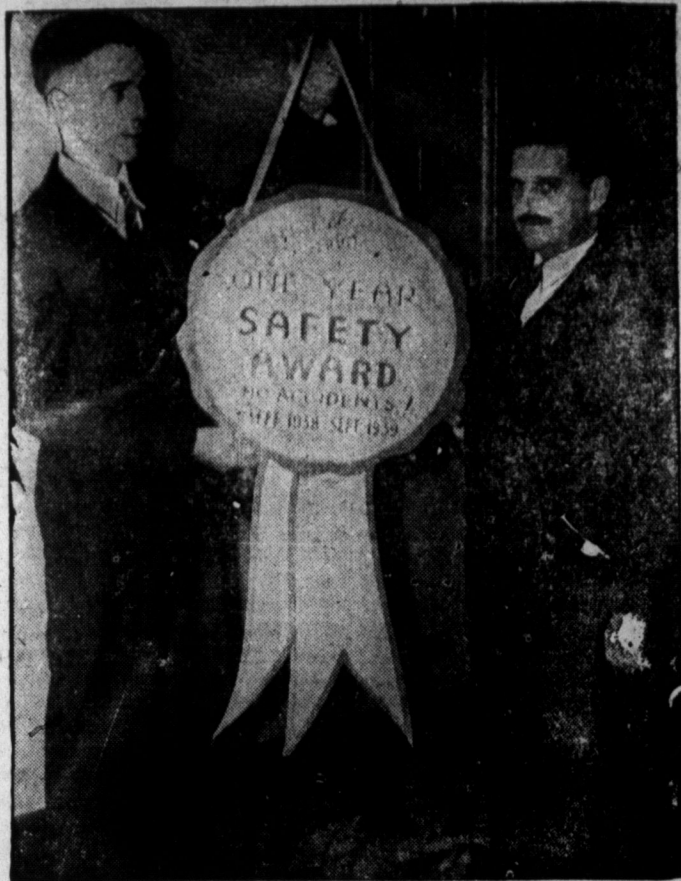

PAINTED LIPS AND PAINTED FACES are as common among women in western nations as painted barns and houses are thru the countryside. This fashion was started fifty years ago, in the last years of Queen Victoria's reign when the fashionable ladies surrounding the gay Prince of Wales (later Edward VII) started the lip-stick and cheek-paint business. The women in all western nations imitated the court ladies. We quote again from Osborn:

"Imitation less painful than the bound feet and less objectionable than the use of cosmetics now molds all feminine worlds into one; the women of every country follow suit, and the original art of dress and of personal ornament has declined. Unless this fatal imitative movement is checked, the dress of the entire Christian and Moslem world will soon be uniform and the creation of the uniform dress will be in the hands of London tailors and of Parisian dressmakers."

IMITATION, IMITATION EVERYWHERE. Creative thinking, originality in the art of living, is limited to a very few individuals in all countries, democracies as well as dictatorships. Our whole educational system is predominantly imitative. School buildings, school equipment, school procedure repeat themselves in the smallest village as in the largest city. We may pay lip-service to the superior education CCC boys are achieving in their tents or rude shacks and in their active life in field and forest, but in practice we go right on building bigger and more costly schoolhouses and in putting our children thru the same treadmill routine of repeating what is recorded in textbooks. Children enter the schools as unique individuals but they emerge from the grades and higher schools as uniform as shingle nails, more alike than snowflakes.

AND THE BIG DAILY PRESS is so imitative and as uniform as the school, doing more to destroy originality and creative thinking by our youth than in educating them. We quote the great scientist, Osborn, once more:

"It seems a harsh thing to say of the American press, but if I had the power of a Mussolini I would shut it off from our school youth entirely; I would exclude absolutely the irreverent 'funny page'; I would substitute for it a simple unsensational literature, of the kind that the youthful Benjamin Franklin found on arrival in the great city of Philadelphia." (Quaker culture prevailed then, 200 years ago.)

WEEVILS IN STORED GRAIN

Every fall the Virginia Agricultural Extension Division gets many requests for information on the control of weevils and moths in corn, beans, peas and other crops usually stored for the winter. Plant pathologists of the Extension Service say in reply:

The most satisfactory method of killing insects in storage is fumigation with carbon disulphide, a liquid which on exposure to air turns quickly to a heavy gas. The bin or container must be made air-tight in order to confine the gas.

The liquid is used at the rate of one pound to 100 cubic feet of air space to be fumigated; for small quantities, one teaspoonful to a cubic foot.

The carbon disulphide should be poured onto burlap bags placed on the grain and the whole top of the bin or container covered tightly. If fumigation is to be done in a large bin or crib with tight sides and bottoms, fairly good results may be obtained by covering the grain, after the liquid is poured on, with canvas, blankets or similar covering. Since this will not give an air-tight job, it is well to increase the amount of liquid used.

Unless the bin or crib can be tightly closed up after fumigation, the grain will become reinfested with insects, and it will be necessary to fumigate a second time.

Treatment with carbon disulphide is most effective at a temperature of about 75 degrees Fahrenheit. It is not effective below 60 degrees.

Carbon disulphide is highly inflammable and care must be exercised in using it.

For further information on fumigation problems, see your county agent.

89 MILLION PHONE CALLS MADE EVERY DAY IN THE UNITED STATES IN 1939

20 Million Telephones Linked By 94 Million Mile Wire Network

The part the telephone plays in the life of the American citizen is revealed by the fact that telephone users have made an average of 89,600,000 calls each day so far this year. Of these, 2,930,000 were out-of-town calls, according to statistics prepared by The American Telephone and Telegraph Company. For the first six months of this year there was a daily increase of 2,400,000 telephone calls.

This volume of calls was made from 20,385,000 telephones now serving the United States through 18,809 central offices. There are 6,616 separate telephone companies operating in this country.

The calls were made over 94,000,000 miles of wire covering every section of the country, 77,530,000 being for local service and 16,470,000 for long distance communications. Of the total telephone wire mileage 60.8 per cent is in underground cable, 33.7 per cent in aerial cable and 5.5 per cent in open wire lines.

More than 318,500 men and women are employed in the telephone industry. This does not include 30,543 employed by the Western Electric Company and 4,632 employed by the Bell Telephone Laboratories, manufacturing and research organizations, respectively, of the Bell System.

Stockholders of The American Telephone and Telegraph Company now total 642,000, the average holding per stockholder being twenty-nine shares.

WEATHER REPORTS AND NAUTICAL INFORMATION NOW BROADCAST BY NORFOLK RADIO TELEPHONE STATION

New Service Added by Bell System Ship-To-Shore Agency

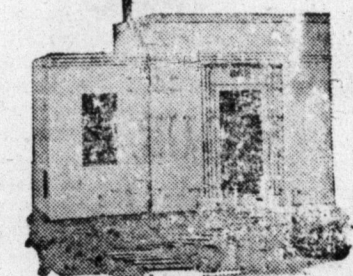

A new service has been added of interest to mariners which will include weather reports, U. S. Coast Guard notices and Navy hydrographic office information. Mariners will also be informed of channel lights and buoys, of the time and range of bombing practices at Fort Monroe and Fort Story, and other details and conditions of interest.

There are many interesting aspects to this new service. The transmitting station at Virginia Beach is handled by remote control from the telephone company's Norfolk office. All information to be broadcast will be assembled by the Coast Guard and through the cooperation of Capt. T. G. Grapster, commander of the Norfolk division, arrangements have been made to have reports forwarded to the telephone company's office by means of a teletypewriter, a machine which typewrites electrically over telephone wires.

Details of the new service will include sending information received from the Coast Guard twice each day at 11:20 a. m. and 11:20 p. m., Eastern Standard Time. The reports will be read twice each time they are broadcast. Advisory storm warnings will also be received from the Coast Guard and will be broadcast immediately upon receipt and at two-hour intervals on the odd hours up to the time of the next regular broadcast.

Any vessel having coastal-harbor telephone service will be able to receive these reports in the general area between Cape May, N. J., and Cape Hatteras, N. C., or while 200 miles out at sea.

This new service will be furnished as a supplement to that already received by ships having radiotelephone connections with station WGB. It is now possible for any vessel having this contact to be connected with any of the 20,385,000 telephones in the United States.

phone station WGB, located at Virginia Beach. This service will involve twice daily broadcasts of information
