

PLANS COMPLETE FOR REGISTRATION

Local Election Machinery Will Be Used In Selection For Military Training

Awaiting final action of Congress on the important matter of the age limits and the time for action, Virginia has made all plans for putting the selective service regulations into effect with the least possible confusion or delay. Expecting early enactment of a universal draft law the Secretary of the Commonwealth of Virginia has already forwarded to the proper officials in each county and city a comprehensive outline of organization and procedure to be followed whenever the necessary proclamation should be issued by the President.

These plans are now in the hands of the various Commonwealth's Attorneys, Clerks of the Court, and Secretaries of the Electoral Boards and they constitute a complete set of instructions, only to be modified in case some last minute and unforeseen change in the law should be made by Congress.

Immediately following the President's proclamation a day will be set at which time all men of the ages proscribed will present themselves at their respective voting precincts where they will be registered by the local registrar and given a card certifying that they have complied with the law.

Following the registration the selection of men will begin. The first step, naturally will be the collection of all registration cards from the various precincts of each county. In Virginia they will go to the Clerk of the Court, who will ascertain the number of persons registered and file the cards safely in a fire-proof vault for further action by the Draft Board, when it is organized. This procedure ends the Registration and while the actual regulations for the organization of the local Draft Boards have apparently not been issued because of possibility of last minute modifications by Congress, it is generally believed that the procedure will only differ from that of the last World War in such details as are occasioned by a peace-time, rather than a war activity.

The cards will finally be shuffled up well and numbered serially, each registrant being advised of his assigned number. This number will not yet have any significance because the national drawing will not yet have been made. Finally a master-set of numbers will be made up in Washington in some convenient form. Twenty years ago they were little black capsules which were stirred up with a big spoon in a large glass jar. Then the numbers will be drawn out by a blindfolded person, and the sequence will fix the order in which the assigned numbers will be called for examination classification, and, if not exempted, for the year of military service and training required by the selective service law.

Probably President Roosevelt will draw the first number, then lesser officials will draw, and finally as hundreds of numbers are taken out and their sequence tabulated, lesser officials and clerks will take over the job until the task is completed. The publication of the sequence of these numbers will serve to inform all registrants of their position in the list, and then as every community is assigned its quota, men will be called and classified until enough are certified to meet that call and when more are needed the same procedure will be continued.

FIRST MEETING OF SCHOOL YEAR

Educator Pleads For Devotion To Democracy

"Teachers of America—the largest body of teachers in the world free from political dictatorship—are in a central position of influence and power. They are in a position to make the advantages of our American way of life so clear that our nation will go forward stronger than ever. By working at their problems and by a strong example of sacrifice, loyalty and unity, they can exert a mighty force toward constructive achievement. Teachers who by their entry into the profession dedicate themselves to the finer and more abiding things of life, must hold from the faith, renew their strength, and carry forward the banner of American idealism and democracy."

This quotation from "A Challenge to United Action" by Donald DuShane of the National Education Association, was the keynote with which the Prince William County Teachers Association opened their first meeting of the school year, on September 4, in the auditorium of Manassas High School.

Following an inspiring devotional conducted by Reverend Luttrell of Manassas, Mr. Francis Chase, Executive Secretary of the Virginia Education Association, spoke on "Education and the Fight for Democracy." He stated that schools, the most effective agency for improvement and interpretation of democracy, should realize the responsibilities that rest with them and think more in terms of how much they can do for the Federal Government rather than how much they can get from it.

Mr. Chase, most certainly favors Federal aid for Education and at same time called upon educators for increased devotion to democracy—a dynamic democracy that needs no defense.

At the conclusion of this stimulating address, Reverend Gibson and Mrs. Ruby Haydon, called attention to the school activities of the Virginia Tuberculosis Association and the Red Cross.

The group selected as its delegates to the state association Miss Margaret Powell, Mr. Montgomery Johnston and Mr. R. W. Peters.

Mr. Haydon gave a short speech of welcome to the teachers and introduced the new members of the association.

After attending to the business matters, discussing briefly group insurance, State and National Education communications, the Prince William County Association of teachers adjourned its meetings.

PRINCE WILLIAM 4 H BOYS REPEAT

For Sixth Consecutive Year Team To Go To National Dairy Show

The Prince William County 4-H Demonstration Team was chosen at the State Demonstration Contest at Madens, Va., Monday to represent the State in the National Dairy Manufacturing Contest to be held in connection with the National Dairy Show at Harrisburg, Pa., in October.

The team, made up of Lester Harris, Jr., of Nokesville and Harold Poling of Manassas, accompanied by County Agent Cox, will attend the show as guests of the National Dairy Show Association. The team will compete with other teams from practically every State in the National Contest.

This is the sixth consecutive year for Prince William boys to qualify for the honor of representing Virginia at the National Dairy Show. Back in 1930, Stuart McMichael was a member of the State dairy judging team at the National which was held that year at St. Louis. In 1936, Philip Reading, Egbert Thompson, Jr., and Bill Hale made up the State judging team at the St. Louis show. Again in 1936, Clifford Bear, jr., Billy Hedrick and Billy Harpine won in the State judging contest but because of the distance to Dallas, Texas, where the National was held that year, were given the option of attending the National Livestock Show and 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Gilbert Rollins, Harris Collins and Selwin Smith topped in the State dairy cattle judging contest in 1937 and represented Virginia at the National at Columbus, Ohio. Harry Fitzwater, Cleveland Flory and Frederick Harpine again repeated for Prince William in 1938 and made a creditable showing for the State at Columbus. Last year, Gilbert Rollins and Selwin Smith qualified for the State Dairy Demonstration Team to go to the National Dairy Show in San Francisco. Because of enrolling at V. P. I. last fall, Selwin and Gilbert were unable to take time off from their freshman agricultural courses to go to the West Coast show and accepted cash scholarships in lieu of the trip.

At the State Contest Monday, the Orange County Demonstration team was selected for the State 4-H Dairy Production Demonstration team to go to Harrisburg. The National Dairy Production Demonstration Contest will also be held in connection with the National Dairy Show.

These two demonstration teams, together with a Dairy Cattle Judging Team to be chosen at the State Fair, will make up the Virginia 4-H delegation to compete for National honors at Harrisburg in early October.

Arlington Club Worker Guest Speaker Here

The regular monthly meeting of the Manassas Woman's Club was held in Parish Hall on Monday afternoon, with president, Mrs. C. C. Lynn presiding.

Mrs. W. L. Lloyd, program chairman, distributed the new year books and promised a varied and interesting series of monthly programs.

An invitation was extended to the club members from the Haymarket Woman's Club to attend their September meeting.

After the singing of the Star Spangled Banner by the group, Mrs. Paul Cooksey introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. J. B. Lowell, a distinguished club woman of Arlington, Va., who gave a most interesting talk on "American Citizenship". She portrayed true Americanism as a joy and privilege, and said that our forefathers gave their utmost in work and wisdom to build our democracy, not from a sense of duty, but because of their love of country and what it meant to them to raise their families in a free land.

Mrs. Lowell went on to say, "We, too, love our country. We love our government, and we must cherish and guard them by keeping a watchful eye on each community and see that it is free from any subversive element that might seek to destroy our democracy from within."

Mrs. Lowell, whose talk was sponsored by the Legislative Committee, closed by urging a special citizenship day celebration in the near future, at which time all new voters would be especially recognized.

Dainty sandwiches and tea were served by the hostesses: Mrs. T. J. Broadus, Mrs. John Barrett, Mrs. E. B. Biscoe, Mrs. Dennis Baker, Mrs. A. W. Ballentine, Miss Sue Ayres and Mrs. Lacey Compton.

MRS. ROBERT H. HAISLIP

Our Catharpin community lost its oldest resident when Mrs. Jenetter Taylor Brawner Haislip passed to eternal rest, Monday, August 26, 1940, at 11:15 p. m., aged 93 years, 2 months and 22 days.

She was the daughter of Zephaniah Franklin Brawner and his wife, Fannie Ann Haislip Brawner and was born June 4, 1847.

Soon after the War between the States, on January 9, 1867, she was married to Mr. Robert H. Haislip. Three children were born to them: Fannie, who died in infancy; Mr. Howard Haislip, late husband of Mrs. Charlotte Marsteller Haislip, who passed away about four years ago; and Miss Ora Haislip, who survives her.

Mrs. Haislip was a woman of beauty and courage and the retained her courageous spirit throughout the years. She lay in her casket, with all traces of suffering gone from her face, one would have thought that she had not seen more than half a century.

In her early womanhood, before the day of public schools, Mrs. Haislip conducted a private school in her home. Mrs. E. May Dogan, of Manassas, one of those whom she was proud to call a former pupil.

She seemed especially fond of little children and loved to have them visit her. She loved her flowers and just a few days before her death, when she seems to be rallying from her three weeks' illness, she was taken out on her lawn to admire her beautiful August lilies which filled the air with their delightful fragrance.

Mrs. Haislip has had, for many years, the distinction of being the oldest member of Sudley Church, and though the infirmities of age prevented her attendance at church, she remained a faithful contributor to her religious obligations. She was always so glad to have her pastor and friends visit her and one of her last conscious requests was to have brother Schwartz with her.

Her daughter, Miss Ora, had always been her constant companion, caring for her tenderly day and night, and using every effort to make her declining years happy.

To her sympathy of the community was extended as we gathered with her to render all possible assistance during her mother's last days, until she, at last, peacefully fell asleep.

The funeral was held from her late residence August 29, at 2 p. m. The services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. John S. Schwartz and interment was made in the family burying ground on a near-by hill overlooking her home. Many friends and relatives from a distance attended the services and many silent messages of sympathy and love are expressed in the beautiful flowers that covered her last resting place.

Those serving as pallbearers were Dr. Wade C. Payne, of Haymarket; J. Worthington Alvey, Luther L. Lynn, William S. Brower, Emmett N. Pattie and L. Jett Pattie, all of Catharpin.

COUNTY AGENTS COLUMN
CLEAN AND TREAT SMALL SEED GRAIN

Seeding of small grain will soon be under way. Treatment with New Improved Ceresan for smut and other diseases of wheat, barley and oats will be especially important this fall. One-half ounce of Ceresan, costing about 2 cents, will treat a bushel of seed. Ceresan not only controls the type of smut prevalent in Prince William County but will also control stripe and seedling blight and aid in reducing injury from scab.

Thorough cleaning of wheat, barley, and oats is recommended before treating with Ceresan.

SMALL GRAIN FERTILIZER RECOMMENDATIONS

4-12-4 or 4-16-4 fertilizer at the rate of 300 to 400 pounds per acre is recommended for general local conditions on small grain where soils have not received manure or had a legume turned under during the past year. For soils that have had a good application of manure or have had a legume turned under during the past year, 300 to 400 pounds of 0-14-6 is recommended. Where heavy applications of manure have been made and there are no indications of Potash deficiency, the same amount of 20 per cent Superphosphate may be sufficient. These recommendations are based by the V. P. I. Extension Agronomy Department upon experimental results and soil tests.

VIRGINIA OYSTER SEASON OPENS

The "R" months are here, and owners of private oyster grounds in Virginia have resumed tonging and selling their product, commercially, after a four-months' summer respite.

Not until September 15th may waterman take oysters from State-owned oyster grounds to sell for public consumption. Even then, the season is open only in the Potomac River. The remainder of the Virginia oyster beds are closed until October 1st.

The reason for the early opening in the Potomac, explains the Commission of Fisheries of Virginia, is that Virginia and Maryland have concurrent jurisdiction there. The oyster season throughout Maryland begins September 15th, and Virginia has agreed to that opening date in the Potomac.

Commissioner G. Walter Mapp has warned oyster houses that in order to meet the requirements of the Federal and State Health regulations they must observe the following rules:

Packing rooms must be screened; provision must be made for the continuous supply of hot water; shell bins must have proper flooring with adequate drainage; benches must be of approved construction; provision must be made for sterilizing utensils and equipment; facilities for handwashing must be available; and adequate refrigeration must be provided. Virginia packing houses meeting the Federal and State requirements are certified for both local and interstate shipments for this season. Reinspection will be made from time to time and licenses can be revoked.

NEW FARM PROGRAM GROUND LIMESTONE AVAILABLE NOW

1941 agricultural conservation program ground limestone is available now and farmers may avoid next spring's rush by placing orders at the county agents' office for fall delivery.

Ground limestone may be efficiently applied now on grass land to be plowed for corn next spring as well as on corn stubble and small grain this fall. Most farmers have more time to apply lime during the fall and early winter months than in the spring.

PONTIAC TO HAVE ONLY 100 PER CENT OIL CLEANER

Previews of the 1941 Pontiac cars reveal that the company's engineers have designed and perfected the first built-in oil cleaner in the industry that cleans 100 per cent of the oil before it goes through the pump and into the bearings.

The new type cleaner for which patents are pending will be an exclusive feature on all 1941 Pontiac six and eight cylinder engines, according to H. J. Klingler, president and general manager of the company.

Most oil cleaning devices he points out operate by passing engine oil through some sort of a filtering element which sooner or later becomes clogged and has to be replaced. Also, most filters work on a by-pass principle by which only a small percentage of the oil is filtered and then only after having gone through the oil pump and to the bearings.

The new Pontiac oil cleaner, Klingler says, is built into the engine and not attached, never has to be removed and cleaned and every drop of oil has to pass through it before it goes to the pump and bearings.

Located at the inlet to the oil system in the bottom of the engine base, the cleaner consists of a settling chamber which is concentric with the oil inlet tube. Around the settling chamber is an inverted cup and between the cup and the settling chamber is a cylindrical screen.

All of the oil passes first through the screen which takes out any large particles of dirt. Then it enters the inlet pipe and is drawn upward flowing against the bottom of the inverted cup. This changes its direction and causes it to flow downward around the outside of the inlet pipe for a short distance where it strikes a flat baffle. The baffle causes the direction of the oil to be sharply reversed throwing all particles of dirt out of the oil stream and into the settling chamber where they settle to the bottom.

In all the experimental work it has never been necessary to empty a settling chamber and since the oil near the bottom of the chamber is not disturbed, the dirt does not again enter the oil stream.

After reversing its direction at the baffle, the oil is sucked through the oil pump inlet into the pump and then pumped into the engine bearings.

It is stated that examination of the dirt trapped in the cleaner shows that it comprises particles of grit of even microscopic proportions, as well as metal and carbon particles. Tests have been conducted with many kinds of oil at different engine temperatures with uniformly amazing results.

"The new oil cleaner will add materially to the life of engine bearings, especially in dusty countries and, we feel certain, is destined to add another important engineering first to the already long list of universally adopted features that have been pioneered by Pontiac," Klingler said.

THE GAME PROBLEM IN VIRGINIA

In the letter published in the opposite page, Dr. Leslie C. McNemar puts his finger squarely on the weakness of game conservation in Virginia—(1) lack of recognition of the farmer's rights in the game and fish restoration program and (2) incompetent leadership in the State Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries.

"The remedy is obvious", Dr. McNemar points out. When farmers themselves become active in the crusade for better management of Virginia's wildlife resources, "Either our Game and Inland Fisheries Commission will get on the job or it will be promptly replaced by men who can and will do the job as it is being done in our neighboring states and as it ought to be done here."

LAND OWNERS URGED TO CONTINUE TENANTS

Now is the time of year for landlords to be thinking about who will farm their land during 1941, according to W. H. Goodall, jr., supervisor for the Farm Security Administration in Prince William and Fairfax Counties.

"There are a number of reasons why a tenant, if he has been satisfactory, should be told at this time he may continue on the farm another year or even longer", Mr. Goodall said. "Not the least reason is that if the tenant knows he will farm the same place next year it is likely that he will plan for cover crops, or make other constructive plans for next year, in time for them to be effective".

Because of the excessive cost of annual moving to both tenants and landlords, many landowners are giving borrowers of the Farm Security Administration leases of from three to five years.

A check of the families in the counties on the FSA program reveals that a large number of them have leases of from three to five years or written leases with renewal clauses. These are helping the tenants save as much as 50 dollars a year each in moving costs and are providing for more stable type of land-use which benefits the landlord as well as the tenant. "Owners ought to be interested enough to see that fertility is conserved and that land does not erode."

"Surveys have shown", he continued, "that owners who give long-term leases have their farms in better shape and that the improvements are in good condition. We have learned that if a family knows in August or September that they will be on a farm the next year or two they will immediately take an interest in improving the house and barn and use better farming methods."

"All FSA borrowers use approved farming methods under the guidance of the county supervisor. Tenants who move each year usually mine the soil and leave it poorer than before. A short term lease doesn't encourage a tenant to build up land from which he receives sharply limited profit".

Supervisor Goodall, said that he will be glad to explain the FSA's flexible farm lease to owners who are interested. In addition to suggesting early fall action on leasing matters, he urged families who are eligible for rehabilitation loans to make their applications now so that work of making farm and home plans and other details may be worked out in time to begin farming early.

JESSE JAMES SAME ROLES

When Jesse James, six guns blazing, rode triumphantly across the nation's screens in the person of Tyrone Power, it was a foregone conclusion that the James legend would not end with just one picture. For one thing, "Jesse James" proved that popular demand for fast-action pictures was greater than ever. For another, the cast of the picture turned in such outstanding performances in their various roles that everybody wanted to see them again. Consequently, it's pleasant to learn that most of the favorites of "Jesse James" are back in action in "The Return of Frank James", the new Technicolor film which opens Thursday and Friday, September 19 and 20 at the Pitt's Theatre.

First and foremost of these, Frank James had to be Henry Fonda. Fonda placed his individual stamp on the role of the quiet, grim older brother of "Jesse James", and no other actor could ever be conceived in the role.

Of the many other unforgettable characters, most of them are back again, too. Chief among these is John Carradine, once again as the villainous Bob Ford.

Another returning villain is Donald Meek, as the railroad magnate. He was, perhaps, the real menace of "Jesse James". People who believe in strict poetic justice should be gladdened to discover that Meek finally gets his just deserts, even though it's taken two pictures to catch up with him.

J. Edward Bromberg, who played the railroad detective, is back as Meek's henchman.

One of the best-remembered characterizations in "Jesse James" was that of Henry Hull as the peppery newspaper editor, Major Rufus Todd. Hull, too, is a "repeat".

Others cast for their same roles in "The Return of Frank James" as in the original James picture are Ernest Whitman as "Pinky", Charles Tannen as Charlie Ford and George Chandler as Roy.

Gene Tierney and Jackie Cooper are featured in the picture, with Eddie Collins, George Barbier and Russell Hicks completing the mast.

RESTOCKING PROJECT BRINGING DEER BACK TO WESTERN VIRGINIA

More than 2,000 deer are now to be found in the forests of western Virginia in sections where deer had not been since about 1900, it was reported to the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries this week. While these deer are the result of numerous releases of small numbers of deer which have been made in 20 western counties since 1926, an investigation carried on for the Game Commission disclosed that the greatest progress in the deer restocking program has come during the past three years. During this period the Commission has been able to speed up its deer program with the aid of federal funds made available by the Pittman-Robertson act.

During the past 13 years over 600 deer have been released on 22 acres of suitable deer range in the Virginia mountains, and with very few exceptions a satisfactory herd of animals has resulted in the vicinity of each point of release. It is conservatively estimated that the original 600 deer have increased to well over 2,600, and a number of the herds have spread and joined other herds until deer are now to be found throughout some rather large areas in Augusta, Rockingham, Tazewell, Bland and other counties.

In fact, the deer have become so well established in some sections that the investigator, Field Biologist Donald J. Woolley, believes that there is a possibility of several of the herds becoming large enough to justify a short open hunting season as early as 1942 or 1943.

The deer investigation was made through the Virginia Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit, which is supported by the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service, the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and the American Wildlife Institute. The results of the study are to be used as a guide to further restocking work, and in determining when an open season on the various herds will be justified. It is the purpose of the Game Commission to allow hunting of the deer just as soon as this can be done without danger of destroying the new herds.

The only discouraging finding made during the whole study, according to Mr. Woolley, is, the large loss of deer caused by the self-hunting dogs which are allowed to roam at will in many of the counties. A number of the counties now have laws which provide the deer adequate protection from dogs, and where these laws are enforced the deer have thrived. However, it has been repeatedly demonstrated that deer can not be successfully established where they are constantly molested by dogs.

"STAGECOACH WAR" RECALLS HISTORY OF MORGAN HORSE

After more than one hundred and fifty years of fortunes and vicissitudes, during which he served in the cavalry divisions of the world's most famous armies, carried hunters over the moor, served as mount for policemen, postmen and pony express riders, a famous American horse is back at his old job of tooling stagecoaches over the American landscape!

He's Justin Morgan's horse, who is exactly as old as the United States, and the historic event occurs in Clarence E. Mulford's "Hopalong", latest of the popular "Hopalong" Cassidy action romances, which opens Wednesday, September 18 at Pitt's Theatre.

Much of the plot of "Stagecoach War" is concerned with the merits of the mustang as against the Morgan as traction power for stagecoaches, and this fact serves to recall the romantic history of the Morgan, one of the few distinctly American strains, who made his debut as a breed strictly as a stagecoach horse.

The Morgan bloodstream was started during the closing years of the American Revolution when a patriot lad in Westchester County, New York, sole the charger of Lieutenant Colonel James Delancey, in command of the Queen's Rangers, a Loyalist outfit operating in what is now The Bronx. Readers of James Fenimore Cooper's famous novel "The Spy", will recall Delancey as the commander of the "Cowboys", the band that made one huge No Man's Land of Westchester County and the Bronx during the Revolution.

Delancey's horse was named "True Briton". He was an English thoroughbred who traced his blood directly to The Godolphin Arabian, the Arab barb brought back to England by the Crusaders, and who is recognized as the founder of the thoroughbred strain.

The lad galloped "True Briton" to White Plains, sixteen miles away, where he sold him to a Connecticut farmer connected with the Continental forces based in that city. After the war "True Briton" was taken back to a farm near East Hartford, where in time, he became the sire of a foal which belonged to an innkeeper and stage operator named Justin Morgan.

The foal grew up to become one of the most famous horses in New England. History does not recall his name but he was referred to by horsemen as "Justin Morgan's Horse". When he was not racing him, or showing him off at county fairs, Morgan used his horse in the stage service. Within a few years Justin Morgan's horse—or, as he later came to be known, Morgan's horse—became the founder of a new and distinct blood line—the Morgan line, and it was not long before his sons and grandsons were operating on hundreds of stage lines throughout the young republic.

At first the Morgan was recognized primarily as a post horse but as more and more sportsmen became interested in him, he was developed as a saddle horse. From saddle horse to cavalry mount was an easy transition. The Morgan became the standard mount of the United States Cavalry and served valiantly in the winning of the West. Later, other nations became interested in the strain and there's hardly an army in the world which does not include this blood in its cavalry stock today.

The Morgan is characterized by his toughness, strength, docility and comparative smallness—characteristics which make him particularly adaptable for stagecoach work, and it is this kind of work you'll see him do in "Stagecoach War", in which six of them pull a stagecoach at full speed over some of the most dangerous mountain country ever filmed.

"Hopalong" Cassidy, hero of Stagecoach War", does not espouse the cause of the Morgan in the picture; "Hoppy" favors mustangs for the job of hauling coaches over the mountains. We won't tell you which breed wins out in the picture—because the picture has a surprise ending, but we do guarantee that you'll be thrilled by the sight of the six sturdy Morgans going full tilt over the countryside.

OCCOQUAN

OCCOQUAN AND VICINITY
 A note received from our postmaster, Mr. A. B. Rogers, who is recuperating at Orange, Va., from his recent illness, stated he would be back with us again soon. We will be glad to see him on the job again. Mrs. Fred Woodyard is taking excellent care that our mail is properly attended to in the absence of Mr. Rogers.

We are sorry to learn that our friend, Mr. Alvin D. Davis, the postmaster at Lorton, Va., is ill in the Doctor's Hospital in Washington, D. C., and we hope he will soon be well again. Mrs. Timms the asst. postmaster is taking proper care that the mail is well cared for in the absence of Mr. Davis.

We are pleased to note that Mr. W. B. Davis of Occoquan is improving from his recent accident which crippled him very much.

A CORRECTION: Miss June Timms of Lorton who was reported in last week's Journal as spending the week end at Virginia Beach; spent it at the home of Miss Louise Finen at Fairfax, and not at Virginia Beach as stated.

The Phoebe Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary met at Pohick Manor on Wednesday, September 4th, with Mrs. Hooper and her sister, Mrs. Rogers as hostesses. There was a very good attendance, which everybody enjoyed very much.

The following letter was received from the Potomac River Power Squadron, re their visit at Occoquan on Labor Day:
 Captain Thomas F. Joyce, Occoquan, Va.
 Dear Captain Joyce:-
 On behalf of the Potomac River Power Squadron, I wish to express to you, and through you, to the town of Occoquan, our most sincere thanks for the good time, and cooperation afforded us in our rendezvous at Occoquan on last Saturday, August 31st. Those who were able to be present not only felt welcome, but also were impressed by the thoughtfulness which prompted such a welcome; as evidenced by, "in one particular alone", the use of the fire house, offered at the cost, at least, of putting the new engine out in the rain, and the labour necessary to condition it. All of these things together make us feel that we want to come again, and see some of the things that you told us about; so my guess is, you will see us again.

Sincerely,
 John C. Lokerson, N.,
 Commander.

In reply to the above correspondence, the undersigned desires to state that:

The citizens of Occoquan always enjoy having those good folks visit us and say as long as they can. They are all outstanding citizens, whom any community should feel honored to have them visit them. We hope the weather will be more favourable on their next visit, so as to enable them to see our beautiful trails, and scenery along the Falls of the Occoquan. Come again when you can. Do not wait until next year.

Thos. F. Joyce,
 Mayor for all the citizens of Occoquan and Vicinity.

Glyndon Wolf of Occoquan was accepted to membership in the O-W-L-Volunteer Fire Dept., as our newest member. We welcome Mr. Wolf. He is a fine young man, who we are sure will be an asset to the Department. Mr. Wolf is employed in the Occoquan Pharmacy.

There are some other young men in our community who should apply for membership in the Fire Department. It shows lack of community spirit and lack of good citizenship in young men who do not make every possible effort to support this worthy cause. A community Volunteer Fire Department should receive the active support of every good citizen in the community. We are sorry say some of the citizens of our community do not act as good citizens should.

WAS IT IN VAIN?
 By Algia A. Martin

The world of late is full Of war, greed and hate, But, I pray it will stop Before it is to late.

Nation, trying to crush Nation Brothers taking guns in hand, God did not mean it like this When he made this lovely Land.

I think it is so very sad Our world has this awful pain, It makes us feel as if our Lord Was crucified, but in vain.

I pray that soon we will see Each Nation, from hate to part, That there will be Brotherly love In each, and every heart. (rights reserved).

THE THRUSH'S SONG
 In the stillness of the evening,
 When th' hush of night is coming on,
 We hear th' melodious songster,
 Singing so sweetly, his own dear song.
 Bring back forgotten instances
 When we wandered through the wood-lands
 We'd listen to that lovely song.

Now, both, in the quiet evening,
 And early on the summer's morn,
 We welcome our gentle songster
 Carolling his sweet, bird lilt song.
 Does he sing for his mate's pleasure?
 To us? (he's a beautiful bard)
 Does he loves his Divine Maker?
 And is singing to his God?
 —Eva Everett Davison.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
"Substance" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 15.
The Golden Text will be "I we hope for that we see not, then do we with patience wait for it" (Rom. 8:25).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Blessed is the man that trusteth in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord is. For he shall be as a tree planted by the waters, and that spreadeth out her roots by the rivers, and shall not see when heat cometh, but her leaf shall be green, and shall not be careful in the year of drought, neither shall cease from yielding fruit" (Jer. 17:7, 8).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy: "The universe reflects and expresses the divine substance or Mind; therefore God is seen only in the spiritual universe and spiritual man, as the sun is seen in the ray of light which goes out from it" (p. 300).

BAPTIST MISSIONARY MEETING
The missionary society will have an all day meeting beginning at 10:30 a. m., on Tuesday, September 17. The morning session will be on Star Missions and the regular monthly meeting will be at 2:30 in the afternoon. This meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. David Ferguson.
Mrs. Ferguson will be the program leader.

IN MEMORIAM
In sad but loving remembrance of our son and brother, Daniel L. Tolson, who departed this life three months ago September 14, 1940. Oft times our thoughts go wandering
To the grave not far away,
Where lies the sweetest memory
That will never fade away.
Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tries to break, but all in vain.
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
Years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never.
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.
His devoted parents, brothers and sisters.

WAGE CREDIT STATEMENTS READY FOR ACCOUNT HOLDERS
Opportunity for social security account holders to check up on their old-age and survivors insurance accounts is offered by the Social Security Board in an announcement issued today. W. G. Baylis, manager of the Alexandria office says that the Board is now ready to furnish to any account holder on request a statement of the wages credited to his particular account for 1939 and at least one quarter of 1940.
Mr. Baylis explained that the social security accounts are the Social Security Board's record of each worker's wages as reported to the Government by his employer. The monthly benefits payable to insured wage earners, to their wives or widows, and their children, or to their dependent parents, depend upon the amount of the worker's wages. Therefore, it is important for the worker to check up once a year and find out for himself whether the record is correct.
Such an opportunity is provided by the Board once a year beginning now, and for the account holder's convenience, a postcard to use in asking for the statement of his wages is also provided. This card may be obtained at the Alexandria office of the Social Security Board, 313 Post Office Building. All the worker needs to do is fill out this card and mail it, or write a letter making the same request. In either case, he gives his name and address, his social security account number, and the date of his birth to identify his account. He will receive the reply in a sealed envelope, in accordance with the Board's regulation which requires that any information about anybody's social security account shall be confidential.
The statement of wage credits will show the total of the worker's wages reported to the Government by his employer or employers for the year 1939, and in addition for quarters in 1940 so far as the records have been posted. It will show also the total of all his wages as reported and processed since his social security account was started.
Employers send in the wage reports with their tax returns, every three months, to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. There the tax returns are audited. Then the wage reports are forwarded to the Social Security Board, where the wages reported for each worker are transferred to his own particular social security account. The figures can then be furnished him on request.

A JOB FOR EVERY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT

For the first time in many years every able bodied male high school graduate of this community has the definite assurance of employment. It has been often said that the greatest needs of youth were the security of permanent employment, opportunity for learning a trade or further education and proper recreation.
The Army offers just this opportunity to all able bodied youths past eighteen years of age and especially desirable are the openings for High School Graduates.
The Air Corps, the Signal Corps, the Chemical Warfare Service and the Ordnance Department all have opportunities for high school graduates.

The units in these organizations are expanding rapidly which makes for fast promotion and many specialist ratings carrying additional pay.
If you are a high school graduate, want a good home, good food, proper medical and dental care, adequate and comfortable clothing furnished to you, a chance for further education and opportunity of ample recreation; go to the nearest recruiting officer and ask him about any of the above branches of the service.
The Army also has something to offer to young unmarried men not less than 20, or who have not reached their 27th birthday, who have completed two full years of college, or have an equivalent education. If physically qualified, they may become Flying Cadets in the Army Air Corps with possible commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps and Regular Army. Cadets are paid a salary of $75.00 per month while learning, plus food, clothing, shelter and free instructions.
