FOOD PRODUCTION OF PRIME VALUE

Chairman Lewis Also Wages Greater Care Of Machinery

With farm machinery becoming increasingly difficult to purchase because of the National Emergency, farmers in Prince William County are being encouraged to consider the plan of joint purchase and ownership of equipment, according to P. A. Lewis, chairman of the Prince William County U. S. D. A. Defense Board.

This plan, it was pointed out, is in line with a suggestion made recently by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, encouraging such joint ownership of farm machinery to insure maximum use and efficiency of operation.

With the demands for metal becoming more pressing since the entry of the United States into the war, such co-operation can avoid greatly in prosecution of the war. Moreover, it is likely that preference in deliveries of orders from factories may be given to groups rather than to individuals, Mr. Lewis said.

The Farm Security Administration, an agency of the Department of Agriculture, having had considerable experience in helping organize and administer co-operative groups of farmers, has been working with the County U. S. D. A. Board in furthering the present program.

"Joint purchase and ownership of expensive machinery makes it possible for small operators to have the use of the labor-saving devices at a cost within the ability of the small farm unit to pay," Mr. Goodall, county agent, said.

"Moreover, the supply of equipment should be sufficient to go around and enable us to meet the increased production goals," Mr. Lewis also stated that no farmer should fail to take part in the Prince William County "Food for Freedom" program because of inability to finance his operations.

"Farm owners and farm tenants who have difficulty in getting loans to operate their farms to the best advantage should talk over their problems with Mr. Goodall County Supervisor for the Farm Security Administration," the Defense Chairman said. Mr. Goodall's office is located in Manassas in the Hibbs and Godling Building.

To help small farmers who cannot get adequate credit elsewhere, loans repayable in convenient installments are advanced by F. S. A. for the purchase of such items as seed, fertilizer, livestock and farming implements; also for improving pastures, enlarging or improving barns and shelters, building brooder and laying houses and any reasonable expansion of equipment which can be supported by sound farm plans. The F. S. A. supervisor will advise borrowers requesting assistance in making out their farm plans; and all farmers, of course, are welcome for technical advice at the county Extension Agent's office.

To provide a living at home and surplus food for market is now a common goal for every farm in America. Through the various agencies of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, State Extension Service and Experiment Stations, adequate services are available to enable every farmer to take part in the Food for Freedom program.

Where farming machinery or pure bred sires cannot be purchased economically by individuals, farmers may club together and supply their needs co-operatively, through F. S. A. "Community Service" loans, it was pointed out.

Farm boys and farm girls desiring to do their bit also may borrow from F. S. A. to start 4-H and Future Farmers Projects. The money is available to sons and daughters of F. S. A. borrowers to buy cows, sows, sheep and other animals or to finance "Victory" garden or truck plots.

Mr. Goodall stands ready to help work out agreements with individual owners of machinery and equipment, not being used to its full capacity for its utilization toward increased production goals.

FIREMEN ENJOY ANNUAL BANQUET

Major Davis Makes Epochal Address

The annual fire department banquet was held last night, this year at the high school gymnasium. A delightful supper was served by the Home Economics class under the direction of the PTA, with Mrs. P. A. Lewis as general chairman. The menus were attractively lettered on tiny red hatched cards as a table decoration.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. Murray Taylor, after which the salute to the flag and the pledge was given, with President George B. Cooke leading. Doctor also acted as toastmaster throughout the evening.

The atmosphere of the evening was slightly tense and quite serious in the midst of festivity. Mayor Davis expressed the meaning of this in his address which is printed herewith. All of the speakers emphasized the importance of the active firefighters and their auxiliary agents in the community.

After giving a brief word of welcome, Mr. Davis gave the main address, which is printed in full on page 8.

Mr. W. M. Barbour, chemical expert of the Alexandria Fire Department, was next introduced by Chief Duncan, of that department.

Although interspersed with a highly technical language, Mr. Barbour versed his explanations in such way as to be quiet understandable. He went on to state that while the incendiary bomb was actually developed at the close of the last world war that it was too late to be of much service and that its more terrible usages had been since worked out.

Commenting on the possibility of the Axis powers having any unknown types of gas, the speaker expressed a contrary opinion and showed how the U. S. Bureau of Standards had worked out general classifications to fit almost any possible form of gas that might be used. He went into detail to explain the specifications that such gases must have to be of use in warfare.

One of the most interesting of his various expositions was the use of odors to recognize certain dangerous gases and what to do.

Following this address, Chief Duncan also gave a short talk, emphasizing the need of protection against air raids. He gave a detailed explanation of the several auxiliary organizations and how the members of these groups had to be trained. He stated that the fire department would need more equipment and stated that he would not advise waiting on the Federal Government for financial assistance.

MUSICAL AT ADEN

The PTA of Aden is giving a musical on Tuesday a week (March 3rd) at 8 P. M. Charley King, of Fredericksburg, will preside.

Let's All Pull Our OWN Oar

CAPT. JOYCE SAYS SAND

IS IMPORTANT DEFENSE AID

Your Fire Wardens in Prince William County should feel justly proud you have advocated and stuck to the use of sand for smothering incendiary bombs from the start; and now some others are following in our footsteps. An article in one of the metropolitan papers last Sunday stated that; Arlington County was placing sand at all the schools, making it available to all households in the county and requesting that every household get a bucket-full and keep it in their homes to be available to smother incendiary bombs if and when the necessity arose. The British have tried everything, and have found sand to be the most effective, most economical and easier to get. We should also feel very proud of the fact that a First Aid Station has been set up in every town and community in our County manned by qualified personnel. Classes in First Aid have been instructed all the time in our County, and it is highly recommended to all who can to take the course. Mr. John A. Musselman has instructed and graduated several classes of men in Occoquan and vicinity; and the last class he graduated were all women; and they made the highest record of any class he had. Look to the women to do everything well. Mr. Musselman has now volunteered to instruct a class of our Good Colored Folks in the community, provided a sufficient number of them are desirous of taking the course. Mr. Musselman should be highly commended for his good work, and for giving his spare time to it.

Now that Singapore has fallen to the Japs, and the German fleet has arrived safely at a home port, our work as Air Raid Wardens and as First Aid treaters are doubly important. Some may think the fall of Singapore could have no effect on us here, but it could have, as could the escape of the German fleet from Brest. We hope those incidents will have no special effect on us, but they may and could, so let us be the more prepared.

RECEPTION FOR REV. GIBSON

On Saturday, February 14, at 8 P. M., the Ladies Guild of Trinity Episcopal Church held a reception in honor of the sixty-eighth birthday of the retiring minister, the Reverend A. Stuart Gibson. The guests included the members of the congregation, the ministerial association, and friends from Mr. Gibson's former parish at Aldie.

The Parish Hall was attractively decorated for Valentine's Day and delicious refreshments were served. The guests were received by Mrs. R. B. Larkin, president of the Guild, who was assisted by Mrs. G. Raymond Ratcliffe and Mrs. Eula Holt Merchant.

The climax of the evening was reached when Mr. O. D. Waters, on behalf of the Congregation and friends in Manassas, presented a purse to Mr. Gibson who responded in his usual effective manner.

Under the happiness of this social evening could be felt the sadness which not only the church but the whole community feels over the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Gibson from Manassas to their new home at Greenway Downs, Falls Church.

Mrs. Lloyd announced that new Classes for First Aid and Nutrition will be started upon the completion of those now concluding their intensive terms.

Mrs. Peters, Production Chairman, was instructed to purchase wool immediately for 100 sweaters requested by Headquarters for War Relief. This purchase money is from the 15 percent retained locally from the War Relief Fund now being collected. Hospital shirts, layettes, etc will be made by the County members preferring sewing and number of garments will be held here to be used immediately should a situation of emergency arise in this County.

Chairmen of the Juniors, Home Service Civilian Relief, and other Committees told of the activities and accomplishments of their Committees.

Marsteller, Chapter Secretary to which all Red Cross Members are invited; that the Community may be fully acquainted with the requests made of the Chapter by National Headquarters and the immediate responses rendered in work, policy and financial assistance.

It is important that everyone becoming a member of the Red Cross when listed on the annual Roll Call, should appreciate not only the responsibility of maintaining this organization but the privilege of being a member of this World-Wide Agencies of mercy and a fuller comprehension of the very real Red Cross functioning whether at home or abroad, may be readily acquired by attending some of these meetings.

SPORTSMAN'S BILL HAS SPOTLIGHT

Fenwick Fighting To Hold Airport Area In Virginia

The General Assembly of Virginia is now in mid-stream with half of their biennial session behind them and half again to go. Three hundred and forty-two bills have been introduced in the House, one hundred and ninety-two in the Senate, twenty-seven have been signed by the Governor and twenty-two more have passed both houses and are awaiting his signature.

Scheduled for passage this week, following a hearing before the Senate Committee on Banking, is the bill to reduce interest rates on small loans.

From three and one-half per cent to two per cent.

Delegate Charles R. Fenwick of Arlington last Thursday introduced a bill in the Virginia House of Delegates which would attempt to settle the long standing question of the boundary line between the District of Columbia and Virginia. His bill, which has been referred to the Committee for Courts of Justice would ratify the provisions of the Randolph Bill, now pending in the United States House of Representatives, fixing the dividing line at the present high-water mark, leaving the Washington National Airport in Virginia and granting Virginia the right to collect the gasoline tax and liquor tax and making the airport subject to the Virginia liquor regulations. The Fenwick Bill further authorizes that the Attorney General and the Governor shall be empowered to negotiate as to any other reservations relating to the boundary settlement.

The question of the boundary line dates from 1846. Delegate Fenwick said, when Virginia ceded land to the District of Columbia. Since that time the entire lay of the land has changed including the channel. In 1934 a Boundary Commission was appointed composed of one Virginia representative, Hon. W. C. Gloth of Arlington, former Governor Brough of Arkansas and a representative from the District of Columbia. After a two-year study The Commission recommended that the boundary line should be established from headland to headland on the Virginia side. This was ratified by Virginia but Congress refused to do so, and insisted that it be from high-water mark on the Virginia side.

The Randolph Bill introduced at the last session of Congress carries out this provision and places the Washington Airport in Virginia. An amendment to it has been offered by Rep. Nichols of Oklahoma, which excludes the airport from Virginia. Delegate Fenwick and Senator William D. Medley of Arlington, referring today to this amendment, pointed to the situation it would bring about permitting, as it would, the sale of alcoholic beverages by drink and bottle at the airport and the sale of gas for autos exclusive of Virginia tax or District tax, all causing hopeless confusion and underselling.

The most important bill of the session—the biennial budget bill, this year amounting to approximately $217,000,000—is expected to be reported out early this week by Delegate Frank Moore of Lexington, Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. It is believed that among the items included in it will be a half million dollar appropriation towards school bus transportation to be divided among the counties on a percentage basis, half on the number of miles traveled and a half on the number of buses.

The House of Delegates on Tuesday passed the amended fortified wine bill, presented by E. Blackburn Moore of Berryville, which would prohibit the sale of fortified wines of more than 14 per cent alcohol content at any but ABC stores except when served with a full meal at restaurants, hotels and the like.

THIRD DRAFT REGISTRATION

Many Fathers And Sons Register Together

For the third time within the past sixteen months the man power of the nation has been enrolled for war service. On Monday, February 16, those between the ages of 20 and 44 signed up. The previous registrations were on October 15, 1940 and July 1, 1941.

Rich and poor, high and low, talented and untrained, even aliens, all went to their respective places of enrollment and filled out a card for their Uncle Sam. Even Charles August Lindbergh, with all his wealth, had to fill out the little card.

A notable feature of the present registration was the frequent appearance at places of enrollment of fathers and sons, and often the father a veteran of the First World War.

National Selective Service headquarters is not releasing figures on the size of the nation-wide enrollment, but is said to be permitting publication of local figures. Experts, however, place the national enrollment at around 7,350,000 men in the older group and 1,650,000 in the 20-21 year class. It is reported in Washington that the registration was 57,370.

Sometime around the middle of March it is believed that the third national draft lottery will be held to determine the order in which these new registrants will be called for service, and in the meantime Selective Boards throughout the nation are busy going over deferments already made which under relaxed rulings of the War Department may be recalled. Particularly liable to recall are many who have been deferred because of dental imperfections, and imperfect eyesight. The old rule required six masticating and six incisor teeth, all of which had to "hit." Now all that will be required is that the selectee can eat and digest army food, and he can even have false teeth.

The national registration of men from twenty to forty four was held here on Monday, with the schools co-operating in a very excellent style. Eight hundred and eighty six were the totals for both white and colored, divided in magisterial districts as follows:

Coles District	25
Manassas District	262
Dranesville District	102
Brentsville District	79
Occoquan District	123
Dumfries District	304

Total 886

196 to be returned to their respective states and counties, leaving a total of 690 registrants in Prince William, also, some of our registrants will be returned here.

Mr. C. C. Cloe, Chairman of the local Selective Service board, wishes to express his thanks to those who served as registrars, and assisted in other ways in accomplishing this registration, and especially Prof. R. C. Haydon, Division Superintendent of Schools, who was County Chairman of this registration.

The Golden Text will be "The Lord is a God of knowledge, and by him actions are weighed" (1 Sam. 2:3).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The despotic tendencies, inherent in mortal mind and always germinating in new forms of tyranny, must be rooted out through the action of the divine Mind" (p. 225).

CHANGES IN C & P OFFICE PERSONNEL

Appointment of Stuart Cooke, Jr., as district commercial manager of the district was announced today by A. L. Lambdin, general commercial manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia.

The operating area which Mr. Cooke will supervise is served by fifteen exchanges including Richmond, Fredericksburg, Petersburg, Hopewell, Ashland and West Point. He succeeds J. T. Kane, transferred to the company's office in Washington, D. C.

A native of Richmond, Mr. Cooke attended McGuire's University School, after which he went to V. M. I. and the University of Virginia. After graduation from the latter institution in 1923, he joined the ranks of the telephone company at Richmond and has progressed through assignments of increasing responsibility until his present promotion.

J. Robertson succeeds Mr. Cooke as district commercial supervisor of the Richmond area. A native of Rocky Mount, Virginia, Mr. Robertson graduated from V. P. I. and began his telephone career in Washington in 1929. He later served the company at Roanoke and Alexandria before coming to Richmond in 1938.

Appointment of W. E. Perdue as district traffic manager of the Richmond district was announced today by W. H. Trapnell, general traffic manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia.

Mr. Perdue succeeds W. G. Morrel, who will assume the post of district traffic manager for the Tidewater area with headquarters at Norfolk.

A graduate of the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., Mr. Perdue joined the ranks of the telephone organization at Washington in 1927. He has been in charge of Traffic operations during the succeeding years at Alexandria and Norfolk, prior to his appointment as general traffic engineer in April, 1940, which post he held until his present assignment.

Leslie Emery, 29-year old Falls Church artist on the staff of the WPA Virginia Art Project, stands beside his canvas which depicts the Red Cross in action following an air raid. Mrs. Maron Beck, Red Cross administrator at Falls Church, posed for the central figure.

The painting enlisted favorable comment at a recent Victory Dinner held in Fairfax County. The 34x40 inch painting has been sent to National Red Cross headquarters in Washington for possible approval and reproduction as a nation-wide poster. Mr. Emery studied at the Corcoran Gallery of Art at Washington where he won first prize in portrait painting in 1935.

MANASSAS NOSES OUT NOKESVILLE BY SLENDER MARGIN

Manassas High and Nokesville High put on a real battle last Tuesday night at Nokesville. Manassas emerged victorious in this encounter by the slender margin of two points after getting away to a slow start and having to overcome Nokesville's third period lead. Bolding, guard for Manassas led his team's attack with seven points, followed by Capt. Dick Haydon with six points. Coach "Herb" Saunders has banded together a team composed of only two lettermen and the rest newcomers and he deserves a lot of credit for his splendid work. The Manassas boys have compiled a very good record for the games they have already played. If they keep up their winning ways the entire squad will go to Charlottesville for the state tournament.

In the girls game it found the local girls edging out the Nokesville ladies by the score of 23 to 16. Ellis looked best for Manassas while Garman was the star for Nokesville.

SIGNIFICANCE OF WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

Washington's Birthday is one holiday that is observed with more than special interest in Williamsburg, Virginia, for it has been said that Williamsburg, more than any other city or place, shaped the domestic, social, political and military courses of Washington's life.

Williamsburg, the colonial capital of Virginia, first knew George Washington as a gangling, bashful youth from the country districts, come to town in an effort to secure a surveyor's commission from the College of William and Mary. He was successful in his quest, and armed with his patent set out on his first expedition to the wild Indian country, an experience which was to lead to his being chosen as envoy of Governor Dinwiddie to warn the French against their threatened encroachments in Virginia territory along the Ohio River, and later, when his warning went unheeded, to his being placed in command of the Virginia Militia in its struggle against the French.

With his military reputation established, Williamsburg next knew Washington in his role as a legislator, and for 16 years Washington served as a member of the House of Burgesses at the Capitol in Williamsburg, first as representative from Frederick County, and then from Fairfax. During these years Washington was not only learning his administrative lessons in the then brilliant political center, but was growing in ease socially as well, for it was axiomatic that whoever was received in the mansions of the prominent families of Williamsburg, as he was, could walk with grace in any company. Even his married life was interwoven with Williamsburg, for he chose as his wife Martha Dandridge Custis, a resident of Williamsburg, the widow of Daniel Parke Custis and accounted the wealthiest woman in the city. Apart from his other ties, Washington was often in Williamsburg to administer his wife's property, and there still stands a little brick building known as "Martha Washington's Kitchen," which was attached to the large Custis house, long since destroyed.

It was from Williamsburg that Washington rode to Yorktown in the fateful year of 1781. From his headquarters at the house of George Wythe on the Palace Green he could see the Palace of the Royal Governors from which as a young man he had set out on his first expedition years before, and adjacent to the Palace he could see the Theatre, in which he had spent so many pleasant evenings enjoying "comedies, drolls and stage plays." At the foot of Palace Green he passed Bruton Parish Church, Court Church of the Colony, where he had often worshipped and where his pew may still be seen. At the doors of the inns and taverns he may have seen the proprietors of wetherburns, Mrs. Dawson's, Charltons, the King's Arms, the Raleigh - all places where he had frequently stayed or supped. At the head of Duke of Gloucester Street stood the College of William and Mary, from which he had received his commission, and at the foot of the street loomed the stately Capitol where he had sat so long as a Burgess.

Even before Yorktown, Williamsburg had begun its decline with the removal of the Capitol to Richmond in 1779, and after the surrender of Cornwallis the destinies of Washington and Williamsburg diverged. Yet the First President could never have forgotten the lessons he learned in Williamsburg, and for its part the city still treasures its memories of the once-familiar figure of Washington. In the restored city the Capitol and the College still stand at either end of Duke of Gloucester Street; the Palace, the Wythe House and Bruton Parish Church look as they did in the 18th century; the Raleigh, and many other old taverns have been restored or reconstructed; and Robin Hood's son showed up in Sherwood Forest recently and he turned out to be just as dashing a swashbuckler as his colorful sire. In fact, the chip off the old block turned out to be a couple of swashbucklers. The multiplication was due to the fact that the son, who is Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., was playing the famous twins of Dumas' romantic thriller, "The Corsican Brothers, which starts at the Pitts Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, February 23 and 24 thru United Artists release.

FAST OUTDOOR SCENES IN NEW DUMAS CLASSIC

The picture was made in a hundred-acre glade of giant live oaks some fifty miles from Hollywood, a location called Sherwood Forest, ever since Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., chose it as the spot for filming one of his greatest hits, "Robin Hood." Doug, Jr., immediately felt at home in the Forest—not only because his father christened the location, but because he was playing a sword-fighting, wall-scaling role which his father too would have enjoyed to the hilt.

One of the scenes shot in the Forest required 150 extras and about seventy horses; it showed how the members of a noble Corsican household and all their retainers were put to the sword and exterminated, root and branch. It was war on a small scale and pretty gory, but after all, it was paper blood that was spilled—and it was in the interests of the entertainment. It was quite a fight in spite of the fact that the swords were made out of plastic and the daggers were rubber and the pistols fired blanks. Men fell off horses and other fighters rolled around on the ground and women of the clan threw breakaway furniture made out of papier mache. Fairbanks thought it was a swell brawl and Director Rottorf smiled all over at the enthusiastic fashion in which his extras gave their "lives" for their art.

MAC ARTHUR
FOR PRESIDENT

No better evidence could possibly be found that the United States has not really awakened to the enormity of the danger which confronts us than is contained in the MacArthur for President boom.

Our gallant commander in the Philippines, fighting for his life, and that his brave men; anxiously waiting for the reinforcement which his military judgment must tell him is not really coming; would indeed be thrilled to know that his countrymen's idea of recognizing the gravity of his situation is to run him for President.

It could eventuate that this war will not be finally won under our present Presidential leadership, but whatever the future holds, it is present with which the military situation is concerned, and that present, so far as General MacArthur is concerned, offers far more prospect of death or imprisonment than of civilian politics.

To say the least, the MacArthur Presidential boom is grotesque.

DARK DAYS AHEAD

The fall of Singapore has not come as a great surprise to competent observers of military affairs. Nor is there much possibility that we will be spared the eventual humiliation of the complete defeat of General MacArthur in Bataan.

There is also great probability of still further disasters. In fact, until we really get down to this grim business of war in deadly earnest the United States, for the first time in its international history, is likely to get one black eye after another.

In contrast to our flabby effort, with its Communistic background, fifth column activities, labor strikes in defense industries, extortion of exorbitant fees from non-union workers, fan dancers and glamour-boys in civilian defense, we have only to take one look at the single minded fury with which we are confronted to realize that unless our war effort is stepped up, we can even be ingloriously defeated.

Let's be worthy

No finer example could be set for our country in its present great war than the fierce determination, the calm fortitude and the boundless faith in his fellow men exhibited by George Washington at Valley Forge. Let us prove worthy of him, modern Americans.

At the fall of Singapore, it was reported by the British Commander, the gallant Sir Archibald Wavell, that there were no Japanese prisoners in his hands. This means that his attackers did not surrender under any circumstances, but fought against any odds until killed by death. There is probably no parallel example in modern warfare where in a major military engagement no prisoners have been taken by the defenders. This really means something, and if we figure that this war will not affect every human being in this country, we fail to read the hand writing on the wall.

"No prisoners" is the most solemn warning we have had so far.

NAVY CONTINGENT ARRIVES

On Saturday morning last a reconstruction battalion of 125 enlisted men of the U. S. Navy arrived under Commander C. E. Young. They were immediately domiciled at the State Vocational School and an intensive program of thirteen hours daily begun.

On Sunday morning most of the men attended service.

At noon a delegation of the Manassas business and civic leaders went over and made the boys feel right at home.

On Sunday morning most of the men came up into town and attended church services.

Last night a dance was given to the boys. Much credit for the success of the affair is due to the Young Women's club under Miss Walser Canner and to Misses Randolph and Phyllis Richardson, of Fairfax, who headed the young ladies of that community who came over. Mrs. Murray and Mr. Loughborough did much toward getting the girls together and arranging for their transportation.

In response to an invitation from the Arlington Recreational center, twenty five of the men will go down late Sunday afternoon to a buffet supper and minstrel show. Every effort will be made to give the lads some entertainment during their very brief stay here.

AMERICA'S VOICE TO THE PACIFIC

Lights flickered out as San Franciscans went to bed. But on top of Nob Hill, in a carefully guarded hotel suite, a crew of 22 men knuckled down to work. They run KGEI, the powerful short-wave radio station which beams news, a La American, to Tokyo and points south. The story of this vitally important radio station and its program in three languages is told in an illustrated feature article appearing next Sunday in the Washington Sunday Star.

SPORTSMAN'S BILL HAS SPOTLIGHT

Pulaski as a sub-committee to study and report on the redistricting bills now before the Assembly. This is a matter which has been a political football for several sessions of the Assembly but is scheduled to go through in some form before adjournment of the present session. Moore representing 33,262, Huff representing 22,767 and Sterrett representing 19,292 are three delegates unaffected by the proposed redistricting changes. The Constitution authorizes that redistricting be done every ten years but does not state that it be done on a population basis.

Levin Nock Davis of Accomac is the chief patron of the Governor's Slot Machine Bill, introduced yesterday. The teeth of the bill are in the new section directing the Governor to call on the Attorney General when necessary to prod local law enforcement officers to enforce the anti-slot machine law and if they fail to act then they will be subject to removal from office and the Attorney General is authorized to institute proceedings to remove them.

The House of Delegates has refused to accept the Senate amendment to the Moore speed bill wherein they suggested that the maximum speed limit for busses be raised from 40 to 45 miles an hour, the same as passenger vehicles. Both Houses and Senate agreed on the maximum speed for trucks at 40 miles an hour.

At a public hearing before the Senate General Laws Committee last Thursday night, following an afternoon discussion meeting with Governor Darden, representative sportsmen and conservationists from every section of the State, presented an amendment to the proposed Moore Reorganization Bill whereby the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries would be consolidated under the leadership of one man with an advisory board of nine, to be selected, one each from the nine congressional districts.

Under the proposed Reorganization Bill, the Commission would be composed of five, including the Commissioner. Under the present law the commission is composed of seven.

Both Governor Darden and the Reorganization Bill's chief patron, E. Blackburn Moore, approved the amendment offered by the sportsmen, but the Governor made one request, that final action not be taken on the amendment until due notice had been given of the proposed change to all interested parties. The General Laws Committee set Wednesday, February 25th at 10 A. M. as the time for a final public hearing on the proposed amendment.

The proposed amendment provides that the "Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries shall consist of a chairman and an advisory committee of nine members, all of whom shall be appointed by and shall serve at the pleasure of the Governor, all powers of administration to be vested in the Chairman of the Commission and the Advisory Committee to consist of one member from each Congressional District of the State, and to serve in an advisory capacity only."

The amendment was presented by J. A. Pugh of Norfolk, after being drawn up by representative sportsmen all over Virginia. Mr. Pugh pointed out that there are now 145,000 licensed hunters and fishermen in the State and it is from their license fees, plus a small amount of the dog tax, that the Commission is financed. He further pointed out that some sections of the state were now going without representation and he believed the great amount of dissatisfaction could be cured under the proposed amendment.

Mr. Moore said that the reason why drafters of the Reorganization Bill did not propose such a set up as that requested by the sportsmen was that "it went much further than we thought the sportsmen would want, but I would like to see it."

WINS COVETED SCHOOL HONORS

Miss Brower is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Brower, of Gainesville.

Miss Betty Brower, of Gainesville, was one of six attendants forming the court of Miss Frances Thomason, of Roanoke, who was crowned Miss NBC 1942 in a colorful ceremony which highlighted the annual Co-Ed dance at Hotel Roanoke on February 6.

Identity of the queen and her court was not revealed until their presentation at the dance, chief social event of the club's year. Miss NBC is chosen annually to represent those qualities most valued in a National girl student. Her attendants are those receiving the successive largest number of votes in the school-wide election.

EMPLOYMENT SERVICE PLACES 954 IN JANUARY

Employment in the Northern Virginia Area continued at a boom level in January, with a total of 954 placements made by the Alexandria and Arlington Offices of the United States Employment Service, according to the monthly report of Carter W. Friend, Manager. The Alexandria and Arlington Offices serve Arlington, Fairfax, Prince William Counties and Alexandria City of Northern Virginia.

The total represents an increase of 122 or 14.6 percent over the figure reported for the same month a year ago. Of the current placement, 601 were described as "regular" jobs which provides employment lasting one month or more. Of the total, 592 were men and 362 were women.

During the month the office received 954 new applications and 811 renewals making a total of 1,763 applications for the month. Members of the Offices staff also made 43 visits to employers.

As a part of the nation-wide system of Employment Offices, these Offices placed with local employers, 22 persons who were brought in from outside of the local area. Also, the Office in serving the trainees from the Manassas State Vocational School as well as local residents, placed 115 persons with employers in other areas, mainly with shipyards, airplane manufacturers, and navy yards.

Those other than the regular members attending were Mr. and Mrs. William Swartz, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart McMichael, Mrs. Marie Reading, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Whetzel, Mrs. Ira Ridgeley and Miss Vada Lee Stultz.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Shepherd recently visited Mrs. Walter Yankey at the Warrenton hospital, who with her husband are very proud of a baby girl.

The regular monthly meeting of the P. T. A. will be held on Wednesday at 2:30 at the school. All the members are invited to come. One of the faculty members will talk to the group on an important phase of school activity.

FISH TRUCKS ROLL DESPITE TIRE SHORTAGE

In spite of the shortage of rubber tires, trout by the truckload are being released in many Virginia streams in preparation for the opening of the 1942 fishing season, according to G. W. Buller, the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries' Superintendent of Fish Propagation, who described this year's supply of trout as "an exceptionally fine lot of fish."

The trout, Mr. Buller explained, were hatched from eggs produced by selected, large, fast-growing, three-year old fish, and will be at least eight inches in length when released. Those falling below the eight-inch limit will be held in the rearing ponds and allowed to grow until next spring.

Both rainbow and brook trout are being shipped from the Commission's hatchery at Marion and from the rearing station at Montebello. Many trout from federal hatcheries are also released in Virginia streams each year.

The usual fish stocking procedure has been altered somewhat by the shortage of rubber tires brought about by the war, but a cooperative agreement worked out between the Game Commission and the United States Forest Service will make it possible to deliver fish to all suitable trout streams this year.

Streams north of the central part of Augusta County, both in and out of the National Forests, will be stocked with fish brought from the Federal hatchery at Leesport, West Virginia, in Forest Service trucks. The Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries will distribute fish to all streams farther south. This plan eliminates many of the long hauls made by both Commission and Forest Service trucks in the past.

Unusually dry weather caused many streams to go dry last summer, and the carry-over of fish from last season is believed to be very poor. Most trout streams are now said to be carrying a satisfactory volume of water.

SERIOUS FIRE ON RAILROAD BRIDGE

Fredericksburg firemen and Quantico Marines fought a blaze that threatened the R. F. and P. R. R. drawbridge over Aquia Creek Saturday night and delayed southbound trains for two hours.

The blaze broke out in the frame tender shack housing the draw machinery when the head of a stove blew off as Knoxville tried to start a fire about 8 p. m. An oily rag caught fire and the flames spread quickly. Knoxville, with his clothes afire, escaped through a window. Bridge guards extinguished his burning clothes.

The guards fought the fire as best they could but the frame shack in the middle of the wooden trestle burned rapidly and the blaze soon spread to the cross ties which are coated with highly inflammable creosote. Notified of the conflagration, the Fredericksburg Fire Department sent fifteen men in cars carrying five-gallon tanks which are strapped to firefighters' back and the water is played through a short hose.

The firemen checked the spread of flames from the shack to the bridge but it was not until a detachment of 100 Marines arrived that the fire could be fought effectively. The Marines also carried five-gallon tanks but when they formed a bucket brigade the fire was put out in a few minutes.

Six southbound trains were held up from about 8 to 10 o'clock on the north side of Aquia Creek, but northbound traffic moved after a short delay.

One Marine and a negro firefighter fell into the icy waters of the creek, but were rescued. A. H. Stone, Fredericksburg fireman, fell in the space between the north and southbound tracks at the south end of the bridge, a drop of 15 feet, and was severely injured.

NEW "CRISTO" FILM UNREELS ROMANCE OF GREAT HERO

Against a background of bold heroism, diplomatic intrigue, thrilling romance and sweeping adventure, Edward Small's latest film production, "The Son of Monte Cristo," will have its premiere showing at the Pitts Theatre on Wednesday, February 25th through United Artists release. With a stellar cast featuring Joan Bennett, Louis Hayward and George Sanders, "The Son of Monte Cristo" unfolds a story concerning the young and gallant Count of Monte Cristo; son of France's greatest swordsman, and the villainous dictator of the little grand duchy of principality of lichtenburg, squeezed between the Russia of the Czar and the Germany of Bismark in the late nineteenth century. The nominal ruler, Grand Duchess Zona, played by Joan Bennett, is held a virtual prisoner by the dictator, portrayed by George Sanders.

When Zona secretly departs for Paris to ask help from Louis Napoleon, she meets the daredevil Count of Monte Cristo, whose identity is kept a mystery. The story reaches a thrilling climax when the Count becomes interested in the cause of the lovely duchess and plots with the dictator's enemies to overthrow his iron-hand regime.

Coming on the twenty-fifth anniversary of the filming of the first "Tarzan" picture, M-G-M's "Tarzan's Treasure" will be open next Thursday and Friday, February 26 and 27 on the Pitt's Theatre screen as one of the most entertaining of this popular series of pictures.

Johnny Weissmuller, as "Tarzan," again presents his breath-taking feats of swimming underwater, diving off cliffs and swinging through the trees, while Maureen O'Sullivan offers a fascinating picture of a wife who can do wonders into transforming a tree-house into a comfortable home despite the absence of such modern conveniences as frigidaire, plumbing and electricity.

Laid in the world of the jungle, peopled by wild animals and the perilous traps and devices of nature, the new "Tarzan" tale revolves about Tarzan's association with the members of a scientific expedition who come upon his jungle paradise and finding gold, seek to permeate the ugliness of civilization upon this untouched haven. After one of them attempts to murder Tarzan, they abduct Jane (Miss O'Sullivan) and "Boy" (Johnny Sheffield), their adopted son, then fall into the hands of savage tribesmen. But Cheeta, the faithful ape, finds Tarzan, and the jungle monarch, together with his army of elephants, saves the day.

We wish to thank our various correspondents for sending their notes early this week.

PHONE COMPANY REPORTS INTERESTING FISCAL DATA

While operating revenue of the telephone company increased 18.9 percent over 1940, operating expenses, including taxes, increased 22.2 percent, it was reported today by President Lloyd B. Wilson in the annual report of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

Operating revenues totaled $15,830,867, while expenses were $13,275,643, leaving net operating income of $2,555,224 available for interest and dividends, or 4.40 per cent of the average book cost of the plant as compared with 4.94 per cent for 1940 and an average of 5.08 per cent for the last five years.

Taxes amounted to $1,506,622. Pointing out that taxes equaled approximately 11 per cent of the total expenses, the report added, "it can be seen readily that this item of expense materially affects the price of telephone service to the customer."

The net again in telephones for the District of Columbia in 1941 was 46,598, which was considerably more than the gains in 1940 and 1939 combined.

Local and out-of-town calls increased 17.2 per cent over the previous year. Out-of-town calls in 1941 were 36 per cent over 1940; however the level since December 7th has been more than 75 per cent above the corresponding period of a year ago.

Expenditures for new plant construction, not including plant and material taken out of service and reused, amounted to $14,282,000. Including reused material the total gross additions to plant amounted to $17,017,362, an increase of $7,152,173 over 1940. The book cost of plant serving the District of Columbia at the end of the year was $63,345,263, and about $197 per telephone, or an investment of approximately a million dollars for each square mile.

The report states that additions to the services of existing departments and new bureaus of the government have required the installation of more than 200 switchboard positions and more than 20,000 lines. Among the larger jobs were the new dial systems installed in the Office of Production Management, the Federal Security Agency, and the Municipal Center. The general offices of the Navy Department and the State Department, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Navy Yard, and the Veterans Administration were enlarged to dial operation. Because of emergencies, many of these requirements had to be met on short notice, making it necessary to maintain supervisory and installation forces on a 24-hour basis. The total cost of those projects amounted to approximately $2,700,000.

Eight new dial offices, of which five were opened in advance of schedule, made it possible to rearrange facilities and relieve congestion in certain areas, resulting in improved service throughout the city. The cost of these projects was approximately $4,700,000.

To meet the large increase in long distance calls 211 positions of toll switchboard, an increase of 75 percent, were installed at a cost of about $750,000.

The number of employees at the end of the year was 5,435, an increase of 1,997, or 31 per cent over the beginning of the year. Eighty-three company employees were serving in the armed forces of the country at the close of the year.

Summarizing the year's operations, the report states that during the year the company was faced with problems unparalleled in its history. The national defense program first gained impetus in 1940 and continued at a rapid pace. The resulting expansion of governmental and business activities was reflected in increasingly heavy demands for telephone service.

Following the outbreak of war in December, the number of calls was abnormally high which made it advisable to suggest that the public limit temporarily the use of service to necessary calls so that the facilities might be available for defense purposes.

C. & O. Using New-Type Locomotives

One of a fleet of ten new Allegheny Type locomotives placed in service on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway's mountain run, between Clifton Forge, Va., and Hinton, W. Va. The units of this fleet, built at the Lima Locomotive Works at a cost of approximately $2,500,000, are the largest and most powerful ever used on the line. They introduce a wheel arrangement never before used on the railroads.

Mammoth Engines Now In Service On Mountain Route

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway has placed in operation a fleet of ten new "1900 series" freight locomotives of mammoth size and distinctively new design, embodying a wheel arrangement—the "2-6-6-6"—never before seen on the rails.

Larger and reportedly more powerful than any heretofore operated by the C. & O., the new locomotives have been assigned to service in the heavy coal freight moving over the route traversing the Allegheny mountains, between Clifton Forge, Va., and Hinton, W. Va. Their appearance on this run, starting about the middle of December, when the first unit of the fleet was commissioned in service, has been occasioning considerable interest and curiosity.

The Lima Locomotive Works, of Lima, O., built the ten new units at a cost to the C. & O. of approximately $2,500,000. The final unit of the fleet was delivered and put in service on the trans-Allegheny route about a week ago.

Called "Allegheny Type"

The name, "Allegheny Type," has been coined to designate the design and wheel arrangement innovated by this leviathan fleet. The engines have two sets of six-wheel driving units, a six-wheel trailing truck under the firebox and a two-wheel pilot truck. This wheel arrangement is said to contribute maximum grate and combustion area and volume, enabling utilization of greater boiler capacity. Engine and trailer have a combined overall length of approximately 113 feet. Each engine has four cylinders, 22½ x 33 in., fed directly from the boiler. The locomotives are equipped with roller bearings on journals of the engine truck and drivers.

The working boiler pressure is 260 lbs. per square inch. The locomotives have a maximum starting effort of 110,200 lbs. and are capable of a sustained speed of 70 miles an hour.

Weights in working order is 724,500 lbs. Combined weight of engine and tender in working order is 1,152,000 lbs. For improved weight distribution, the tender employs one six-wheel and one eight-wheel swivel truck. The tender's capacity is 25 tons of coal and 25,000 gallons of water.

In the brief period of their operation between Clifton Forge and Hinton the new engines have amply demonstrated their efficiency and adaptability in the movement of the heavy bituminous traffic over the grades of this mountain route. As a result of their proved efficiency the C. & O. has placed an order with the Lima Locomotive Works for an additional ten locomotives of the same design.

Impressive Appearance

Impressive in appearance as well as size, the new locomotives only slightly resemble the Mallet engines that have been in operation on the road for several years. They belong to the single expansion articulated type, the most modern version of this type ever built. The locomotives are provided with two complete sets of frames, flexibly connected beneath the boiler, to enable engines of their great length to be easily and safely operated around curves.

The new "Allegheny Type" locomotive was conceived and developed by the Mechanical Department of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, under the direction of its Chief Mechanical Officer, Mr. D. S. Ellis, of Cleveland, Ohio.

GUARD AGAINST RABBIT DAMAGE TO FRUIT TREES

In the winter a shortage of food often causes rabbits to feed on the bark of trees, but valuable young fruit and shade trees can be protected from rabbit damage by collars of 1/4-inch or 3/8-inch galvanized wire hardware cloth placed around the bases of the trees, according to biologists of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries. Those collars it is said, should be set well down in the ground to keep mice and other gnawing rodents, as well as rabbits, away from the trees.

The guards are made by bending pieces of the screen around the lower trunks of the trees and fastening the two overlapping edges together with flexible wire. The screen cylinders should be several inches larger in diameter than the trees to allow for growth. When properly set, they can be left on the trees for several years.

During deep snows rabbits may be able to reach the bark of the trees above the guards. It is well, therefore, to keep the snow tramped down around the protected trees.

Trees and shrubs may also be protected from gnawing animals by obnoxious paints. Such paint should be applied to all bark surfaces which are to be protected. While one thorough application in the fall provides reasonable protection, safety demands that the painting be repeated in mid-winter.

One good "rabbit paint" can be made quite easily by mixing a pound of melted resin with a pint of warm denatured alcohol. The resin should be heated over a slow fire until it melts. The alcohol should be warmed by dipping the bottle or can into hot water until it reaches approximately the same temperature as the resin. Then the warm alcohol is mixed with the resin and stirred to an even consistency.

This paint must be placed in a container which can be kept tightly closed when the paint is not in use.

CAMP LEE GRATEFUL FOR SWEATERS AND MUFFLERS

When Camp Lee's Provisional Regiment and Military Police and soldiers from other posts were placed on guard at vital points in this area of Virginia shortly after America was at war, E. Morris Abernathy, Field Director of the Red Cross, and Frederick Garrity, Assistant Field Director, requisitioned warm garments from the National Headquarters in Washington. Chapters from New York to California and Honolulu responded with hundreds of sweaters, mufflers, and wrist guards. As these began to arrive at Camp Lee in mid-January, Mr. Abernathy and Mr. Garrity turned the articles over to the Military Police, who distributed the sweaters and mufflers to guards who were exposed to the freezing weather.

Almost as soon as distribution of the hundreds of articles began, hyena-like rumors began circulating both through Virginia and in a number of other states that the articles were sold by the Red Cross to the soldiers. Lt. Ernest L. Booch, Commander of Camp Lee's Provisional Military Police Company, stated:

"I take this opportunity on behalf of the Commanding General, the officers and each enlisted man of the Military Police Company at Camp Lee to express to the American Red Cross, through you, the sincere appreciation and gratitude for the recent donation of sweaters and mufflers to this organization.

National Red Cross chairman Norman H. Davis has stated, "It has always been and now is the definite policy and instructions of the Red Cross that no charge shall ever be made to any service man for any Red Cross article or service which is furnished from the funds or supplies contributed to the Red Cross desires complete information concerning the incident and the situation will be promptly and vigorously corrected."

SENATE ACTION AROUSES BYRD

Virginia Senator Critical
Of Pension Benefits

An erroneous implication has been drawn from a public statement recently issued by the Civil Service Commission as to whether or not a Congressman or Senator who retires, voluntarily or by defeat, on January 1, 1942, after five years of service can purchase a life pension by the payment of 5 per cent of one day's salary.

Mr. Harry B. Mitchell, President of the Civil Service Commission, informs me that my previous statement, to the effect that such a pension can be obtained for life by the payment of $1.39, is accurate.

This life pension to individual Senators and Congressmen will vary in accordance with the length of service from approximately $60 per month to approximately $350 per month.

The same public statement by the Civil Service Commission further said that no pension could be paid until a Congressman or Senator is 62 years of age. Mr. Mitchell now informs me that this is erroneous and that a pension can be paid to members of Congress beginning at the age of 55, although the amount would be computed on the basis of 62 years of age.

Mr. Mitchell informs me that the Civil Service Commission shortly will issue a clarifying statement.

The public discussion of this matter so far has failed, also, to reveal that under the law as passed, if a Senator or Congressman becomes disabled to perform his accustomed work, by certification of proper medical authorities he at once becomes eligible for a pension, regardless of age.

I feel impelled to make this statement of fact because of the misleading information that has been published.

It is very unfortunate, I think, that a pension bill for members of Congress should have passed the House of Representatives without discussion or explanation, and without a roll call. Neither was there adequate discussion in the Senate, despite the efforts of some of us to do so, although there was a roll call in the Senate on an amendment and on the bill itself.

A repealer of that section of the Retirement Act relating to pensions for Congressmen and Senators has been introduced by Senator Bailey, Senator Burton, Senator Johnson of Colorado, and myself. We will press for prompt action. The country is demanding its prompt repeal.

Congressmen and Senators should never be regarded as Civil Service employees. Under our constitution they are elected for specific terms. It was never contemplated that the elective branch should be considered as holding life positions. They can only hold office subject to the will of their constituents.

If we in Congress vote for pensions and new perquisites for ourselves, then we cannot deny similar favors to all other citizens.

At a time like this when our peril calls for great national sacrifice and self-denial, members of Congress should, I think, set the example.

The Observer Says

With a feeling of relief that Governor Darden has taken direction of Civilian Defense in Virginia and coordinated the fine volunteer work of our State with the constituted authority of Cities, Counties and Towns, we cannot but wonder just what kind of an idea of Civilian Defense exists at the national headquarters of O. C. D.

We find a man, whose real name appears to be "Hesselberg" under an apparently assumed name of Douglas, being assigned at a high salary as an "art director." Representative Ford of California, where "Hesselberg" lives, says, according to Associated Press dispatches, that he once refused to read the Declaration of Independence on a patriotic radio program sponsored by the American Legion because in the program "the Communist party was charged with being un-American and dangerous."

We find a dancer, Miss Chaney, with apparently no special qualification beyond being a personal friend and associate of Mrs. Roosevelt placed in Civilian Defense at $4600 as head of a division of children's activities. We find a Hugh Fleming, from the United States Forest Service getting $5600 as chief "promotion assistant," etc., etc., until we discover that the O. C. D. finally has decided to set up its own Press Office to handle its own announcements to the American people, thus bringing in to being another huge publicity organization to cover the daily press, periodicals, trade press, news, news reels, photographic service and all that goes with the modern national publicity machine.

T. B. GROUP SEEKS MORE FUNDS FOR NEGRO WORK

Continued high mortality from tuberculosis among Negroes has caused the Virginia Tuberculosis Association to appeal to the General Assembly of Virginia, now in session at Richmond, for an emergency appropriation of $75,000 a year to hospitalize actively infected members of that race, according to a release from the State association.

In his budget, Dr. I. C. Riggins, State Health Commissioner, has asked the Legislature to appropriate money for a new building at Piedmont Sanatorium, the state hospital for tuberculous negroes. This institution now has 265 beds, and Dr. Riggins is advocating the new building to provide an additional 200 beds.

On Monday, February 9, receipts from the Christmas seal sale were still coming in. Mrs. J. Blaine Gwin, seal sale chairman revealed at that time when she announced total receipts as $9,643. The association still has hopes of passing the $10,000 mark for this year's budget.

Ever see this flag?

It is the U.S. Navy "E." This symbol, on a Navy vessel, indicates special "excellence" in some activity such as gunnery or engineering.

1. The "E" is the highest group honor awarded by the Navy. Crews work hard for it, and are proud to see it on their vessel.

2. But today, with so many industries producing equipment for the Navy, the "E" has been awarded to a few factories, too.

3. One factory so honored is the Erie, Pennsylvania plant of General Electric, where the award was made for speed in the production of naval ordnance.

4. The "E" flag was hoisted September 19, and hundreds of Erie G-E employees are proudly wearing "E" buttons to show that they, too, share the honor.

General Electric believes that its first duty as a good citizen is to be a good soldier.

SUGAR RATIONING

DUE IN MARCH

It is stated in Washington that sugar rationing will be ready for administration by local authorities by March 7.

In the meantime, the Government Printing Office, assisted by a number of large printing concerns is busy turning out one of the largest rush printing orders ever handled.

It is estimated that 700 million forms, cards and booklets are being printed, and that a few days after their distribution a registration will be held throughout the United States at the public schools, when each person will be furnished with his or her copy of "War Ration Book Number One," which will contain stamps for the following 28 weeks.

At the time the books are received each person will be required to make a statement as to the amount of sugar on hand, it is stated, and stamps will be taken out to this amount and heavy penalties imposed for any misstatement made on the existing household supply.

As the time for rationing approaches, official announcements will be made from the Office of Price Administration.

ADDRESS OF HON. HARRY P. DAVIS DELIVERED AT THE ANNUAL BANQUET OF THE MANASSAS VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT

"A year from now, we will look back on our way of living and our attitude towards life in February 1942 and we will be amazed at the changes that have taken place.

At present we are just on the threshold of these changes but from our position on the stoop we are able to peep in through the partly open door and see a hazy outline of the panorama of social conditions in our nation all out for war.

The first change we will note, will be within ourselves. Gone will be the easy going, devil-may-care outlook that has been so typically American for the past 20 years.

It will be replaced by a grim determined unity of purpose, tempered by a kindly and understanding of our fellows that such a unity of purpose engenders.

We will also note innumerable material changes caused in a few cases by shortages but in many more by implication. Sugar will be sugar whether it be granulated or pulverized. Soap will be soap regardless of lack of delicate scent and fancy wrapper.

Simplification will be noticed, not only in food and household essentials that we consume but in the clothing that we wear. Gone will be the myriad of styles and colors to be replaced by set patterns and hues. Shoes will be made for walking and not for admiration.

So many of the little commonplace things of today will have changed or disappear entirely that an enumeration of them would seem endless. There is no doubt but that our way of living will be greatly changed.

But what will our way of working be like?

Agriculture and mining will be much as they are but with an ever growing demand for labor to replace that sent to the armed forces and war industries and to the demand for greater production.

Business, retail, wholesale and industrial will have undergone almost revolutionary changes in virtually every conceivable line.

Managers and clerks in retail stores will become combinations of stamp collectors, stock takers and accountants and last and not least, we must guess not east, salesmen, because after all they will have goods for sale.

Transportation of products from mill and factory to their destination will have become the number one national business problem. In spite of efficient management there will not be enough cars to handle the traffic. Synthetic rubber will not be produced fast enough to adequately augment the available supply of real rubber, and as a result swarms of trucks and automobiles that should be working day and night will be laid up in storage.

It is not a pretty business picture that we see. It is a war picture.

At this time we have heard some of these rumblings, and we are experiencing the beginning of some of these things.

This dinner is being held this evening under the entire different conditions than existed a year ago.

A year ago, our Nation was more or less a divided Nation. A substantial number of avowedly patriotic citizens resented the steady trend toward war and a still greater number gave only half hearted support to the Administration's defense program. However in fairness to this group, it must be recorded that their thinking was sincere and their opposition honest.

December 7th, 1941 changed all this in a twinkling of an eye. While the "Sease Pleez" diplomats were talking peace to our Secretary of State in Washington, the quiet of a sabbath morning was disturbed in Hawaii by dropping bombs, sinking American ships, killing American civilians, soldiers and sailors on American territory.

Japan had perpetrated the most outrageous double crossing act in the history of the world.

Our National Congress, which only a week before had viewed with criticism many of the acts of the President, declared war, with but one dissenting vote in both houses, following his six minute recital of the raid on Pearl Harbor.

Japan, egged on by Hitler had accomplished in the bare space of a few minutes, a Unity among the American people which months of normal activity could not have accomplished. To both of these gangster Governments we owe a tremendous debt.

We go forward toward war with a united country pledging the fullness of its manhood and womanhood; industrial might and colossal wealth, to Victory. The way will be long and hard and tremendous sacrifices will be demanded from all of us before the victorious end has come.

As we trek these roads of hardships let us always remember just what we are fighting for. That we may not easily forget, Hitler has once more shown us the light.

In his speech before the Reichstag declaring a state of war between the German Government and the United States, he said:

"A historical revenge has been entrusted to me by the Creator.... Looking back, I can honestly thank Almighty God for giving me the strength and knowledge to do what I have done...."

The world is asked to believe that Almighty God has entrusted everything to a man who persecutes people because of race—to a man who crushes the weak, bombs the helpless and breaks every spoken and written promise with torpedoes and tanks.

The world is asked to believe that God has deserted the peoples of Belgium, England, Denmark, Greece, Holland, and Poland and finally the United States in favor of one who has declared his intentions of destroying their freedom of worship and action.

As we carry on to Victory...let us carry these words of Hitler over and over again to our people.

Today, our country in common with other peace loving countries faces a world whose domination is sought by a brutal and ruthless conqueror, who has exceeded every other conqueror in the form and method of cruelty.

We face the possibility of encirclement by every continent outside of America. For if Hitler wins in Europe, he wins in Africa and in Asia for he has been seeking to undermine the independence of South American republics, to say nothing of his impious undercover efforts in our country.

We face the possibility in that event of a continuous and perpetual military establishment as a part of our regular program in our Country in order that we may never be caught unprepared for a possible hostile world. In this event we are faced with complete change in the methods of our life and the objectives which have made our nation glorious. We will face burdens never dreamed of and restraints never conceived in the development of our national life. We will face the possibility that our own free institutions, under which we have enjoyed freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of religion, freedom of thought and freedom of lawful pursuit of happiness, shall be crushed, and that we shall be compelled to indulge in physical, moral and mental regimentation.

If all the prayers of millions of our people should prove futile in the face of the satanic onslaught inspired by the Devil and conducted by his outstanding agent on this earth, Adolf Hitler, then we shall be ready to accept our responsibility and do our duty as God may give us the light to see it and the courage to perform it. You and I of the present generation, as prudent and responsible citizens, having the welfare and the destiny of the Nation temporarily in our charge, cannot afford to let it happen.

Being aware of what is happening in other parts of the world, we have heard the expression "it can't happen here," but it can happen here unless each and every American citizen is awakened to the fact that we are at war and participating in the most stupendous war of all times, a war involving most of the entire world and with the enemy in our front and back yards, an enemy whose thrust is hurtful, whose eyes drip hate, and who seeks, with dishonored sword and treacherous deeds to pierce our hearts and souls.

To meet this onslaught, you and I who are not in the armed forces of the Nation have a big and important job to perform, that of applying ourselves diligently in our everyday lives to assist in producing indirectly if not directly something that will back up the armed forces and to detect and assist in eliminating fifth columnists who through every artful device known to modern propaganda is attempting to destroy confidence in our institutions, to inject doubt and confusion and division as to our future course, and to create the inevitable havoc which follows when confidence is lost and fear seizes the reins which guide the actions of men.

As a further aid to the cause, we might pledge ourselves, to keep ourselves fit, physically, mentally, spiritually to be ready for any crisis, and to discipline ourselves for strength.

To go about our business with a clear eye, a cool head and a stout heart, neither scared by wild rumors nor deluded by false security.

To do our particular job better than it was ever done before, dedicating our skill to our country's service.

To take an active part and interest in our government and make it our business to understand public affairs, laws and policies.

To help build our community as a wholesome, balanced community, because if all communities are sound, America will be sound.

To exercise our right to vote in every election, appreciating the right of the ballot now denied in many lands.

To work for unity among all our people and oppose efforts to create hatred based on race, creed or color.

To encourage our boys and girls to revere and respect our American traditions, and finally keep faith with ourselves, our country and our God.
