BRETHREN CONFERENCE AT ASHEVILLE

The National Conference of the Church of the Brethren is holding its one hundred and fifty-sixth annual meeting this week at Asheville, N. C. Two thousand were in attendance.

The moderator, President Paul H. Bowman, of Bridgewater College, Virginia, was presented to the conference by the retiring moderator, President C. Ernest Davis, of LaVerne, Calif. Dr. Bowman chose the theme of the convention, "Christian Faith in Action," as the subject for the Moderator's address. "The Conference of 1942," he said, "meets on the two hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Annual Conference by the Brethren and is bound by historic tradition to help keep clear our doctrinal position, to preserve the unity of the church, and to develop effective policy in the area of humanitarian service." He stated that times of crisis compel a re-examination of the fundamentals of faith in politics, education, and religion. "Let the church of 1942 steer its course away from theological controversy which has brought us no where except to confusion and bitterness. We shall remember the modern fundamentalist controversy mainly for its spirit of intolerance and ill-feeling. The whole truth is on neither side in such contests. The truth of Christianity is so infinite and the mind of man so finite that none of us can safely assume that our opinions on Christian doctrine are final."

The moderator's address was preceded by official greetings from the countries of the world where the Brethren carry on missionary and relief project. These were presented by representatives from India, China, Africa, Sweden, and countries of South America.

Referring to the peace position of the Brethren, the moderator said, "It is so easy for the peace churches to be misunderstood in a time like this. No one who has followed the history of the Brethren in this country could fail to understand how fundamental is their loyalty to the government. They desire to offer a creative and constructive citizenship. They have taken the ideal of democracy seriously and have advocated the peaceful settlement of international differences as no mere platitude. They find it impossible to abandon that position even in a time of national crisis. 'Our position is difficult,' he said, 'but many of us are willing to suffer for that position and to face the charge of lack of realism in the faith that ultimately mankind will discover that security is possible only in a society where goodwill and neighborliness prevail.'

Some of the people attending from Prince William County are: Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Hottle; Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Blough; Mr. and Mrs. Olden Mitchell; O. R. and Harold Hersch; Eugene Nolley; Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Shepherd; Rev. and Mrs. Paul E. Sargent; Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Kerlin; Lloyd Dill; Miss Jessie Mae Conner; Mrs. S. C. Harley and Rev. J. M. Kline.

RUFFNER - CARNEGIE LIBRARY

SUMMER HOURS:
8:30 A. M. TO 2:30 P. M.
RECENT BOOKS:

Since summer outings are now more or less restricted because of the rubber shortage, the public will have an opportunity to do some very pleasant and profitable reading among the many books of timely and permanent interest which the library now possesses.

Two collections recently acquired and now on exhibition in the Library are of unusual current interest - one relating to South America and the other of books of general travel. The latter has a number of finely illustrated books received in the Wagener collection, on England and the more important countries of Europe and on Egypt and the Holy Land. In addition to these there are some very timely books on Asia and the Pacific, as Crow's "The Chinese are like that," Martin's "Understand the Chinese," Smith's "The Burma Road," Hahn's "The Soong sisters," and VanLoon's "The Story of the Pacific."

The South American collection includes among others, John Gunther's famous "Inside Latin America," Crow's "Meet the South Americans," (a most lively and entertaining book), Peck's "Rundabout South America," Lansing's "Liberators and heroes of South America," Baker's "He wouldn't be king (life of Simon Bolivar), and Ybarra's "Young man of Caracas."

Among recent books in the Library of outstanding value to all interested in the present troubled world situation are: Davies' "Mission to Moscow," a very fine statement of the Russian situation; Shirer's famous "Berlin Diary," Eugene Lyons' "Stalin," Gerald Johnson's "Roosevelt, Dictator or Democrat," a most able discussion of the President's policies and achievements, and DeSeversky's "Victory through Air Power." Of DeSeversky's book, published this Spring and already famous, the critics say that it is as fascinating to read as a novel and is filled with hope - it tells what we can actually do to win the war and how.

Another article soon to be published in the Journal will list the recent fiction in the Library, June 12, 1942.

WHAT THE NEW CREDIT REGULATIONS ISSUED BY THE GOVERNMENT MEAN TO YOU!

EFFECTIVE MAY 6, 1942

If you are in the habit of paying your charge account in full promptly upon receipt of your monthly statement the new regulations will not apply to you. You can continue to enjoy the convenience of buying what you want when you want it by simply saying - "Charge it."

But if you let your charge account remain unpaid after the 10th of the second month following the month of purchase, then the Government regulations will apply to you - and you will not be permitted to charge further regulated purchases to your account until the overdue balance is paid.

Make it a habit to pay PROMPTLY upon receipt of bill so that you may continue to enjoy the conveniences of your charge account.

PROMPT PAYMENT OF BILLS IS VITAL TO VICTORY

1. What effect do the new regulations have on my account?

ANSWER: Your present account for the month of May and any unpaid balance prior to May is due in full on or before July 10th.

2. How are charges thereafter payable?

ANSWER: Purchases thereafter are due on or before the 10th day of the second month following the month of purchase. For instance, payment of purchases made in June is due on or before August 10th.

3. What happens if my account is not paid when due?

ANSWER: No more purchases can be charged until such time as the account is paid in full or arrangements made to convert it into an Installment credit.

4. What do you mean by an Installment Credit?

ANSWER: If you have a charge account which you wish converted into an Installment Credit you are allowed six months in which to pay in six equal monthly payments; minimum monthly payment $5.00. No down payment is required at the time of conversion.

5. Can I continue to charge on my regular account while paying on the Installment Credit?

ANSWER: Yes, but the charge account has to be paid according to the new regulations which call for full settlement on or before the 10th day of the second month following month of purchase.

6. Is there still an Installment Account which allows me a longer period of time in which to pay when making new purchases?

ANSWER: Yes, indeed. If you wish to open a regular Installment Account, the new regulations receive a down payment of one-third and twelve monthly payments of $5.00 or more. This, however, does not apply to furniture and pianos, which require a down payment of one-fifth and twelve monthly payments of $5.00 or more.

7. Can I charge any and all purchases, regardless of the amount, as in the past?

ANSWER: Certainly, if your account permits it according to the new regulations.

8. Does this new regulation effect my present Installment Account made before May 6, 1942?

ANSWER: No, it does not. It only effects contracts made after May 6, 1942, unless a renewal or revision is requested of a contract made prior to May 6, 1942.

VICTORY GARDEN VEGETABLES TO BE DRIED

Drying of vegetables and fruits will be very popular this year because we want to use the minimum amount of rubber, metal and other canning equipment, to say nothing of the shortage of sugar, says Miss Alice Webb, County Home Demonstration Agent.

"Can tomatoes and dry the rest of the vegetables" is the slogan which many farm families are adopting because they are learning that to dry vegetables is easy and the quality is excellent. It also saves jar rubbers, metal caps, and storage space.

GENERAL DIRECTIONS FOR DRYING VEGETABLES

To dry vegetables, they should be gathered fresh and prepared as for cooking. Pour a small amount of boiling water over the vegetables, cover tight and steam or boil for five minutes. Then drain the vegetables and spread on screen trays and dry until no moisture can be pressed out; this takes 2-5 days in the sun or 2 to 10 hours in a slow oven.

Ways to Dry Vegetables
Satisfactorily

1. To dry in the sun, screen trays of food should be placed in the sun and covered to keep out flies and insects. At sundown the trays should be taken indoors and put back in the sun the next day.

2. To dry in a warming oven or over the slow part of a wood or coal stove, Racks of several trays may be used or screens may be suspended over an stove and worked by pulleys from the ceiling.

3. If a slow oven is used, the temperature should range between 110 - 150 degrees. The oven door should be left ajar to let the moisture out.

Vegetables may be dried in a hot dry room with an electric fan. Attics with ventilation are excellent for this.

With the exception of tomatoes all vegetables from the Victory Garden may be successfully dried at home. The most popular ones to dry are corn, peas, butterbeans, greens, carrots. The dried greens are excellent in quality and retain their natural green color. "It is fortunate that these vegetables which are most difficult to can are so easily and successfully dried," says Miss Webb.

One warning about storing these vegetables after they are dried is added by Miss Webb. Dried vegetables should be put in moisture proof containers, such as old glass jars which are nicked or unfit for canning, lard tins, sirup buckets, or any jars, crocks or cans with tight fitting covers. Cloth and paper bags are not moisture proof and are not recommended for storing dried foods.

Full directions for drying many vegetables are available in a printed circular called "Saving Fruits and Vegetables by Drying, Brining, Sulphuring," prepared by Janel L. Cameron State Food Specialist of the Virginia Agricultural Extension Division are available at Miss Webb's office, 201 Post Office Building, Manassas.

HOW MUCH SUGAR
DO YOU NEED?

None! Sugar is prized mostly for its sweet flavor. Food experts say you really don't need any sugar at all. To supply the energy that sugar gives us, we can eat cereals, breads, potatoes, fats and other similar foods.

The amount of food energy needed from sugar or from other foods—varies with different people. Infants, small children, white collar workers, use less energy than very active people like teen-age, factory workers, farmers, etc.

If you are in the habit of using more than you are now getting here are a few tips:

1. Use things other than sugar for sweetening. Cook cereals with dried fruits to sweeten them. Use sirup and honey instead of sugar in baking.

2. Don't sugar sweet foods. Many fruits are sweet enough in themselves. Cakes need not frosting. Milk has its own sugar.

3. Don't add sugar to vegetables rich in sugar such as corn, carrots, sweet potatoes.

4. Dissolve all the sugar you put in your coffee and tea - more stirring - less sugar. Tea sweetened when hot requires less sugar than if sweetened when cold.

5. Prepare simple desserts. Custards and puddings need little sugar. Use less sugar and add a pinch of salt to bring out the sweet flavor. End some meals with a salad. Use more fresh fruits.

6. Your sugar ration is all you will want if you plan meals wisely, cook carefully and don't waste any. If you have a very sweet tooth and insist on want more sugar than your's going to get, remember WE'RE IN A WAR.

Recipes to Match Your
Sugar Ration
Baked Apples

Wash the apples and core without cutting through the blossom end. Place the apple in a baking dish. Fill the holes with sirup and raisins or nuts. Cover the dish. Bake in a moderate oven (350 F) until the apples are soft. Serve hot or cold with or without whipped cream.

SAFEWAY Homemakers' Guide

NUMBER 47 ★ How to get sure-fire canning results ★ Low priced produce to "put up"
★ Sugar substitutes and how to use them ★ An easy way to find time to play

Don't risk spoilage
this year in your Home Canning

Read and remember these precautionary suggestions that come from the Safeway Homemakers' Bureau. They will help protect your canned fruits and jellies from mold—help protect your canned meats, vegetables, fish and poultry from dangerous bacterial spoilage.

To avoid the danger of spoilage that botulism bacteria brings, pressure cooking is the only really safe method of processing meat, fish, poultry, and all vegetables except tomatoes. The pressure cooker maintains the above-boiling temperature required for thorough sterilization.

Tomatoes and fruits, because they are acid, don't favor growth of botulism bacteria, so you may can fruits and tomatoes by any reliable method that's convenient.

Sterilization of jars, lids, and rubbers is always important. Examine them before you begin, and discard any that are nicked and cracked, because such defects prevent a perfect seal. For the same reason, be sure jars and lids fit together tightly.

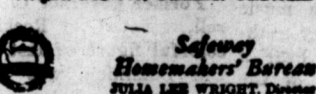

Wash jars (and old lids, if re-usable) in hot soap suds; rinse well; cover with warm water in a large bottle or dish pan, and boil 15 minutes to sterilize. A clean dish towel on the bottom of the pan guards against breakage. Let jars stand in hot water until they're ready to use.

Sterilize flow tops or lids by placing in pan and covering with boiling water. Always use new rubbers, and dip in boiling water to sterilize before using. There are several kinds of fruit jars and lids, so be sure you thoroughly understand the kind you use. Because sealing methods differ.

No matter what method of canning you use—(open kettle, hot or cold pack), no matter what means of processing (water bath, steam rooker or pressure cooker)—be sure to carry out the specific directions that fit the method you are using.

Ordinarily the hot pack or pre-cook canning method is considered best. Bring the food to be canned to the boiling point; pack into hot sterilized jars and process.

For complete directions on all types of canning, including putting up fruits without sugar, write for Julia Lee Wright's new coloring booklet. Send your name, address, and 10c in coin or stamps to Julia Lee Wright, Box 600, Oakland, California.

CHURCH FOR ALL-ALL FOR ALL

THE BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

It is a privilege to have their children receive the daily Bible education, it will prove a precious heritage to them in after years. Finally be ye all of one mind, having compassion one of another, love as brethren, be pitiful, be courteous.—1 Peter 3:8.

WE MUST PREPARE FOR ANY EVENTUALITY

The National Office of Civilian Defense has expressed the belief that we must now be prepared for attack, and that attack, when it comes, will be aimed against the first line of our defense, which is commerce and industry. It is where commerce and industry center, that our target areas lie and where protection must be had.

Virginia is carrying a big share of the war commerce and industry so vital to the Nation and our fighting forces. For this reason we must be prepared for any eventuality. Enemy forces may never attack us. On the other hand, we may be attacked next month, next week, or even tomorrow.

Preparations must be made now, for what may come in the future.

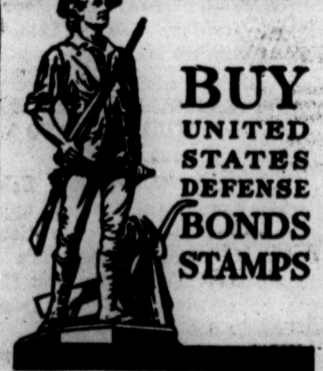

Until the people of England were educated to deal with specific problems created by air attack, the death rate and property loss was unusually high. Since civilian defense protective measures and auxiliary groups have been organized and trained and placed on duty, the death rate and property loss has been reduced to a small fraction of the initial losses and casualties.

Measures of civilian protection have already been taken in Virginia and more and more units of the U. S. Citizens' Defense Corps are being organized and trained to meet any situation or threat that may come by land, sea, or air.

When an emergency arises, the state, city, town, and county authorities will be ready to do everything within their power to protect the people. The task of civilian defense, however, is that every citizen is called upon to do his or her part and to combat any dangers that may arise with courage, calm, and intelligence.

We are making and must complete, preparations for every eventuality, however improbable. We must also realize that though we are adequately protected, we may be harmed.

False security is an unsound policy. Regardless of what our defenses may be, if the enemy chooses to attack, some of the bombers will get through. When they get through, men and women will be killed and property destroyed. Our problem of civilian protection is to minimize these casualties and this destruction by adequate preparation.

APPOINTMENT OF ELMER DAVIS

It is a pleasure to read that the President has overhauled his publicity machine, placing Elmer Davis at the head. Davis has the confidence of the public, which is more than can be said of the polyglot outfit the new set-up is designed to replace.

One of the most disgusting and discouraging aspects of the present national emergency has been, and still is, the extravagant and overlapping propaganda work of the United States Government through its multitudinous departments and agencies, each seemingly trying to outdo the other in the volume and the worthlessness of its releases of "news."

If a little newspaper like ours receives hundreds of pounds of trash under government mailing frank, the amount broadcast to the large metropolitan publications must indeed be staggering and it is certainly time to call a halt.

One ray of light has been coming out of the War Department however, which we ought to except from the foregoing general criticism.

This is the modest, but effective work of its Bureau of Public Relations. The material which has been coming from this outfit has been concise, useful to weekly newspapers, and evidently economical.

We presume that under Elmer Davis, there will be more of the level headed service and respect for costs and paper supply, that has been evidenced by the Publications Branch of the Bureau of Public Relations of the War Department. Certainly if we are all asked to save paper, the Government ought to point the way.

Dear Sirs:—

A statement in the Editorial Section of the Washington Post this dates should be very pleasing to Draft Dodgers, in that the Military Affairs Committee have stated that married men would not be drafted until the unmarried men are taken first. This gives all Draft Dodgers who have not already done so a grand opportunity to evade the draft by getting married.

With such a premium on marriage, we wonder who will be left to fight the Japs and Nazis. We know a large number of young people will take advantage of this premium placed on marriage. If that is patriotism, we wonder what we should call the boys who have joined our Armed Forces and are laying down their lives that others may live in peace?

CHARMING PIANO RECITAL BY PUPILS OF MRS. BAKER

Last Friday evening many music lovers in Manassas and vicinity gathered at the high school to hear a musical treat in the recital of the pupils of Mrs. Dennis Baker.

The general rendition, technique, pedaling, and tone quality were excellent throughout the whole program. Some of the numbers were long and the scales involved, but the pupils went through them like real masters of their art, showing genuine interpretive ability.

Their charming instructor had arranged a beautiful floral setting for the presentation and all of the young ladies had pretty little nosegays.

At the conclusion of the program, Mrs. Baker presented unique testimonials for excellence during the year. They were little corsages made up with defense stamps, a truly patriotic gesture. The lucky recipients of the gifts were Bonnie Lynn and Celestine McLearn.

A remarkable feature of the recital was the coolness of the performers throughout a very heavy thunderstorm which threatened to extinguish the lights on several occasions but "the play went on," and no one faltered.

GARDEN CLUB TO DISCONTINUE FLOWER SHOW

The June meeting of the Manassas Garden Club will be at the home of Mrs. Paul Cooksey on Tuesday the 23rd at 2:30 P. M.

They plan to have two classes of flowers shown at each meeting and voted on by the members present. This month the classes will be:

1st. Arrangement - roses.

2nd. Arrangement - mixed flowers (not over five varieties).

The hostess invites those bringing flowers to come early to arrange them.

FORMER GOVERNOR O'FARRELL HONORED IN HOME TOWN

Former governor Charles T. O'Farrell, a native of Rockingham, and a colorful figure of last century in the Old Dominion, was honored in his home town on Saturday by the unveiling of a portrait painted by Mrs. Mary V. Wilton, of Harrisonburg, who is a sister of Mrs. V. W. Zirkle, of Nokesville.

The presentation was made at a session of the court presided over by Judge H. W. Bertram, the presentation act being performed by C. Clyde Koontz, acting on behalf of the Board of Supervisors, with E. D. Ott accepting the portrait.

A flag, given simultaneously, was presented by Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence Hoover and accepted by Justice Russell Weaver. Joseph W. Wine led in the pledge of allegiance and the singing of the national anthem.

W. W. Wharton was in charge of the Bar committee, assisted by Captain Hamilton Haas, Lieut. George Conrad and D. Earman Wampler.

Attending from this area were Rev. and Mrs. O'Farrell Thompson, of the Seminary, Alexandria, Virginia. Mr. Thompson is a grandson of the former governor.

TIRE SITUATION GROWING WORSE

Tire quotas in Virginia are covering only 35 per cent of the eligible and approved applications, Bri-Gen. J. Fulmer, Bright stated this week.

The State director of the OPA indicated further that the tire shortage was continually growing worse. Almost every ration board in the State has its desks piled high with approved applications which cannot be filled because quotas are insufficient to take care of them.

With the month of June half gone, the State pool from which extra tires can be obtained is exhausted except for a few casings. An appeal has been made to Washington for replacements from the national pool.

The time may be approaching, General Bright declared, when defense workers will be unable to keep their cars moving and when some industries dependent on tires will be faced with closing down.

FALL GARDEN PLANS

Now is the time to plan your fall and winter gardens, County Agent Frank Cox says. Recent rains have put a new zest in the spring and summer crops, but recently only the planting and care of fall and winter gardens will assure the abundance of food that every patriotic farmer should produce for his family.

Plantings of many fall garden crops should begin about mid-June in the higher altitudes, and progressively later toward the Tidewater section, where fall garden plantings usually begin in late July or early August. Some vegetables can be started much later, of course, and still have time to mature before killing frosts.

Mr. Cox says that he has a list of recommended varieties to plant and the approximate dates for starting them in the fall garden, which anyone who does not have this information may get for the asking at his office. Gardening now or later, to be successful, has the usual requirements of thorough soil preparation, liberal fertilization, thorough cultivation (shallow but often enough to keep out weeds), and control of insects and diseases. In addition, hot-weather makes it particularly important that the soil be firmed well over seed at planting and topped with a mulch of well-rotted manure or leaf mold. Firming insures germination of the seed. Mulching prevents a crust from forming and keeping the seedlings from coming through.

Rotenone dust or rotenone spray is recommended for most chewing insects. If rotenone materials are not available, pyrethrum makes a good substitute, Mr. Cox says. Nicotine sulfate (Black Leaf 40) is an excellent material to use on aphids or plant lice.

One of the passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, included in the Lesson-Sermon, reads as follows: "Spirit, God, has created all in and of Himself. Love's Young Dream Punctured In A
Gay M-G. Comedy - Drama

Love's young dream comes in for hilarious complications in "This Time for Keeps," Metro-GoldwynMayer's gay picture of newlyweds and their woes, showing at the Pitts Theatre next week on Wednesday, June 24.

The story opens with Ann Rutherford and Robert Sterling, as newlyweds, returning from their honeymoon, setting down in a new home. The first rift comes when Friend Husband fails to notice the bride's new hat. There are further complications when Father-in-law decides to take the bridegroom into his real estate firm. The bride's kid sister adds complications when she imagines she's in love with another sister's boy friend, and sets out to "glamorize" herself and vamp him.

Miss Rutherford, playing a young matron, figures in love spats which she handles with a deft flair for comedy. Sterling, too, is excellent in the comedy sequences. They also have some effective dramatic and romantic moments.

Virginia Weilder, as the irrepressible younger sister trying to make pig-tails glamorous, provides abundant comedy in the story. Guy Kibbee and Irene Rich play the doting father and mother-in-law, whose kind intentions only help keep the pot of turmoil boiling until, in the final episodes, the troubles of the battling newlyweds are solved.

Charles F. Riesner directed with his usual skill at comedy sequences, and supporting players include Henry O'Neill and Dorothy Morris.

Highlights in the comedy are the youngster's masquerade party, little Miss Weilder's absurd "vamping," and the office complications in which Kibbee garners many laughs.

Soldiers of Production

America's "soldiers of production," men and women working in the plants of American industry, have their uniforms, too. Some uniforms worn by G-E workers on vital production jobs are shown below.

1. Not a gas mask, but a special nose mask to guard his breathing, is worn by this spray painter at his job in one of the General Electric plants.

2. Like a man from Mars, the "cold room" research man is a strange sight as he tests airplane instruments for high-altitude performance in a G-E laboratory.

3. Frankenstein? No, just another G-E worker. His job is sandblasting big turbine castings for Uncle Sam's ships at one of the General Electric plants.

4. The helmet he wears is to protect him from light! The rays from a welder's arc could cause blindness if he did not wear this strange headgear.

General Electric believes that its first duty as a good citizen is to be a good soldier.

KIWANIANS DEMANDING NON-PARTISAN EFFORTS

"We insist that those elected to office, from the head of the government on down, must lay aside all partisan politics for the duration of the war," Corwin E. Roach, Springfield, Ill., told delegates at the closing session of the 27th annual convention of Kiwanis International at Cleveland this week.

Mr. Roach is chairman of a citizenship committee of the service organization. He demanded those in authority to reduce to a minimum all expenditures not necessary for winning the war.

"We have a right to demand these things because our governments shall not be jeopardized by socialism, fascism and communism," he explained. "These are days of decision. We see our words change quickly into action, then action into armed men and the implements of war! There is no time for hesitation!"

Mr. Roach said people are constantly advocating a free press, freedom of worship, freedom of speech and assembly. "Yes, we all believe passionately in these! But too many forget that we must first promote an intelligent understanding of our problems. We want sane and sound discussion," he stated.

The Kiwanian urged members to return to their 2,180 communities and seek cooperation of all local groups in all-out war effort.

The convention adopted a slogan for the remainder of the war. Delegates cheered the effort of "Victory — by United Effort — by Individual Service." The slogan will soon appear in thousands of communities.

J. Neal Mancill, Dallas, Tex., business standards chairman said business must accept the responsibility of building public confidence and seeing to it that free democratic business institutions are preserved.

In our all-out effort, we must not lose the things which must be saved. Free enterprise has been held up to the public with ridicule. We have been told that crookedness, trickery and sharp practices are the rules for the free enterprise system.

"Not to combat this type of rumor which is gaining a foothold is suicide," he said.

Mr. Mancill told members that business is service. It supplies human needs and happiness. Business and private enterprise, he explained, are the vital mainstays in the mechanics of the American system.

"We must remember that character is the foundation of ethical practices and national character, is the sum total of our community character," he stated. "America has always held high the Golden Rule."

SENSATIONAL CAST ENACTS
REX BEACH'S "THE SPOILERS"

Heralded as one of the most memorable pictures of screen history and based on the best of Rex Beach's best seller books, "The Spoilers" comes to the Pitts Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, June 22 and 23.

The raw, gripping saga of the Klondike co-stars Marlene Dietrich, Randolph Scott and John Wayne. Produced by Frank Lloyd, maker of such screen smashes as "Mutiny on the Bounty" and the contemporary "Saboteur," the film backs its theme by confrontation with a pretentious supporting cast. Among the featured players are Margaret Lindsay, who will have the opposite feminine lead; Harry Carey, top-liner of more than 300 pictures; Richard Barthelmess, in a comeback character lead; and William Farnum, star of the original "Spoilers."

In addition, Robert W. Service, poet laureate of the Alaskan gold rush and writer of "The Shooting of Dan Mc Crew," appears on the screen for the first time, playing himself in a brief sequence.

The keynote of the new "Spoilers" is the famous quotation from Kipling, "There's never a law of man or God holds North of '53."

It is the story of La Dietrich as Cherry Malotte, a shrewd, seductive, beautiful woman, and of the two men who fought to the death over her love and the possession of the fabulous Midas gold mine.

It is said that the unforgettable fist-fight of the first "Spoilers" has been re-filmed by Producer Lloyd with even closer vividness and spell-binding action. Another highlight is the scene in which Miss Dietrich turns on Wayne with wildcat fury at the break of their love affair.

Ray Enright, veteran of the megaphone, was the director, with special credit to B. Reeves "Breezy" Eason for the spectacular fight scenes. Lee Marcus was Lloyd's associate producer and Milton Krasner was on the cameras. Lawrence Hazard and Tom Reed wrote the screen play. It is a Charles K. Feldman Group Production.

STILL VISITING

Americans are still visiting their National Parks, although war conditions have reduced the number of visitors to about one half what it was this time last year, Newton B. Drury, Director of the National Park Service announced this week.

To meet this condition, Mr. Drury said, a flexible system has been devised so that accommodations can be maintained at the various Parks. Travel to the Shenandoah National Park in Virginia, he added, has so decreased that the decision has been reached not to open the main cottages, but to keep available a few rooms at Panorama, Swift Run and Big Meadows.

VIRGINIA HAS WEALTH OF IRON ORE DEPOSITS

Word spread over the Old Dominion like wildfire last week following the War Production Board's request to Governor Darden to ascertain potentialities of such deposits being worked for the war effort.

The State Conservation Commission was flooded with reports from all parts of the state extolling the possibilities of many sections with at least 12 of these indicating possible workable sources of low grade deposits of ore, N. Clarence Smith, State Conservation Commissioner reports.

Reports of especially good veins came from Pittsylvania and Patrick counties. Mine fields were also listed in Craig, Botetourt and Nelson counties as well as in Pulaski, Carroll and Grayson counties.

The Oriskany field near Covington and the Clinton vein in Lee county has previously been considered by state conservation officials. Mention of one mine in Scott county and one in Shenandoah county was also made.

LAST VIRGINIA CAMP CLOSED

The closing of Camp Roosevelt at Harrisonburg last week saw the departure of the last of the Civilian Conservation Corps work units in the state.

Camp Roosevelt was the first Civilian Conservation Corps camp in the nation and was visited by the President and many officials and foreign dignitaries during its existence. It was the first and last of 12 camps located in the George Washington National Forest since the inception of the corps in 1933.

NEEDED STREET

Passersby have noted the actual beginning of the extension of Church Street, (old Centreville Road) to Grant Avenue. Grading work has been about completed.

This week light poles which have ruined dozens of nice fenders and wrecked the tempers and religion of many scores of drivers are being replaced with poles well enough within the curb lines to prevent ordinary occurrences of the old trouble. Many thanks, Mr. Town Manager.

Ever since 1935, when 100-octane gasoline was first produced by Esso research, we have supplied it to the U. S. Air Forces, and have turned over to other refiners the working details they needed to make it cheaply and quickly. And greatly to America's gain, the improvements in plane and engine designs take full advantage of this super-fuel.
