Third War Loan Drive
Fifteen billion dollars is the goal for the Third War Loan which President Roosevelt has proclaimed will be launched September 9. In his proclamation the President said, "Our need for money now is greater than ever, and will continue to grow until the very day that Victory is won; so we must ask far more sacrifice, far more cooperation than ever before."

The Army's radio photo service, which made it possible for the public to see newspaper pictures of the assault on Sicily on the same day that the invasion was launched, will be augmented in the immediate future by the same type of transmission from the South Pacific theatre, the War Department has announced. Personnel of the U. S. Army Signal Corps, with their equipment, are now in Australia, finishing preparations for the new service.

Supply of Fats, Oils

Despite heavy wartime demands on the supply of edible fats and oils (principally lard, butter, shortening, and margarine), 44 pounds per capita—about 5 pounds less than in 1942—will be made available to American civilians during the 12 months ending June 30, 1944, the War Food Administration has announced. Of the total civilian allocation, approximately 9 ounces per week per capita will be available for direct purchases, and an additional 4½ ounces for indirect consumption in such items as restaurant meals, bakery products, mayonnaise, etc.

Cost of Living Drops

With other living costs relatively stable, a drop in fresh vegetables and butter prices cut the cost of living for city workers by 0.2 percent in the month ending June 15—the first month to show a reduction since a year before Pearl Harbor, the U. S. Department of Labor reported recently. Food prices as a whole, making up over 40 percent of the cost of living index, declined 0.8 percent. The cost of living index now stands at 124.8 percent of the 1935-39 average. Food prices are 45 percent above January 1941 and more than 16 percent above May 1942.

MOLLY PITCHER DAY

Saturday, Aug. 7, is Molly Pitcher Day in Manassas, and all who make purchases of War Stamps or Bonds in any denomination will receive an emblem from members of the Committee which will be on duty in the Town.

We fancy that the only way in the world to escape these charming young ladies is to buy a stamp or bond.

LADIES JOIN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

BUSINESS WOMEN AND CLUB LEADERS ACCEPT INVITATION

Following an invitation to business women and club leaders of the community and county to become members of the Prince William Chamber of Commerce, approximately half a dozen local ladies are now attending the weekly luncheon meetings of the organization held at the Prince William Hotel each Tuesday at noon. Among those who are increasing the membership formerly comprised of thirty-five businessmen are the following:

Mrs. Robert Lewis, Mrs. E. D. Gothwaite, Mrs. Frank D. Cox, Miss Nell Grim, Mrs. Edgar G. Parrish, and Mrs. Joseph Mills Hanson.

At the meeting this Tuesday, C. C. Cloe, president, presided and extended a welcome to the newcomers and guests. Mayor Davis introduced Dr. Rosenberger, secretary of the Nyack, N. Y., Chamber of Commerce who gave an interesting impromptu talk on the work of the Nyack organization.

Dr. George B. Coker reported that a party has been interested in and investigating the possibilities of purchasing and operating the laundry located on Center Street, Manassas. There have been no definite plans made, however.

Mr. Fred R. Hynson, member of the recreation committee appointed to report on a proposed playground to be developed for the benefit of local citizens and residents of the county, gave an explanation of the idea now being considered by the committee. Mr. Hynson's plan suggested that funds for the purchase of a suitable plot of ground for the project, should be subscribed by private individuals who in turn would own a share in the property to secure their investment. Mr. Cloe appointed Mr. Stanley Owens and Judge Lacey Compton to assist the committee with further developments. Chamber members were requested to consider the advisability of carrying out the project.

ORDERED TO REPORT

The following colored men have been ordered to report for induction into the Armed Forces at Richmond, Virginia, on August 12, 1943:

Buster Grayson, Manassas, Va.; Julian Hampton Childs, Washington, D. C.; James Roy Johnson, Woodbridge, Va.; James Elijah Turner, Nokesville, Va.; John Lane Watson, Gainesville, Va.; James Grayson, Gainesville, Va.; James Everhart, Manassas, Va.

IN APPRECIATION

I want to thank all who worked and voted for my nomination to the office of Commonwealth's Attorney for Prince William County.

I fully realize the responsibility of the office and the opportunity it affords for serving all the people and I naturally shall be proud to render the citizens of my County honest, faithful and efficient service, without prejudice or partiality.

Gratefully,

STANLEY A. OWENS.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL AT BUCKHALL UNITED CHURCH

On Wednesday, Aug. 11 the ladies of the Buckhall United Church will sponsor an ice cream social on the church lawn. The public is invited.

To the Voters of Prince William County:

I want to express my appreciation to the citizens of Prince William who stood by me so loyally in the election.

I received a nice majority of votes in this County, but it was not enough to offset those of Stafford County.

To the people who opposed me, I will say that they did me a favor financially, as the salary the Delegate receives is not enough to compensate for his time and travel.

I enjoyed the work in the Virginia Legislature during my two terms of service and worked hard for the best interests of the two Counties I represented.

Again I wish to thank my many friends in Prince William and in Stafford Counties for their votes in my behalf, and for their continued confidence.

Sincerely,

E. R. CONNER.

HOWARD SMITH IS GUEST SPEAKER

Local Club Earns "Marine Certificate"

One of the best programs for many months was enjoyed by the Manassas Kiwanians at their weekly dinner meeting at the Prince William Hotel Friday evening. Congressman Howard W. Smith, a frequent visitor of the Club, was the guest speaker and his discussion of executive and legislative activities in the National Capitol was enlightening and furnished food for constructive thought for all fortunate enough to hear him. His discussion dealt mainly with National labor relations, bureaucratic trends and the need for maintaining separate executive and legislative branches by our National Government.

A full attendance at the Friday meeting gave the local club an excellent chance to again maintain its lead in July over other clubs of the District, including those of Arlington, Fredericksburg, Frederick, Hagerstown, Prince Georges County, Winchester, Washington, D. C., Alexandria, and Cumberland. A report issued last week by the International Council showed that the local club had earned the Kiwanis "Marine" certificate for having exceeded the goal set in membership increase for the first period of 1943, ending April 30. Other guests included two former members of the Manassas Club, Father Jim Widmer of Fredericksburg and Bill Beachman of Washington.

With the entrance of Herb Saunders as an Ensign in the U. S. Navy this week, a fifth star is being added to the Club's Service Flag.

To the Citizens of Prince William County:

Dear Friends:

I wish to express my deep and sincere appreciation to the citizens of Prince William County for the high honor they conferred upon me in renominating me for the office of Clerk of the Court of this County in the Democratic Primary election on August 3.

Those of us who work in the office are fully aware of the responsibilities that come with this election, and we shall try in every way possible to merit this expression of confidence by our fellow citizens of the County.

Looking forward to having many opportunities to serve you during my term of office, I am

Respectfully,

LEAMON LEDMAN.

Sinclair is stationed at Thermal, California. Miss Bessie, who is a former member of the Journal staff, and Miss Catherine are engaged in war work at Norfolk.

PROF. SAUNDERS JOINS NAVAL AIR FORCE

Prof. H. J. Saunders, Director of Physical Education and Athletics for the Manassas Public Schools, left on Wednesday for Chapel Hill, N. C. where he will take an instructor's course for the Physical Fitness Division of the Naval Air Force. He is now commissioned an ensign in the United States Navy.

Legislative Upset Caused By Vote Outside Prince William

This County Gave Handsome Endorsement to Herring And Conner

The voters of Prince William have registered their viewpoint in Tuesday's Democratic Primary, the results of which are taken to be equivalent to election, since the County is overwhelmingly Democratic. Only under the most unusual circumstances are Democratic nominees defeated in the general election in November, and there are no such circumstances involved at this time.

Prince William County in general, and the Town of Manassas, in particular, registered appreciation of the public services of Hon. E. R. Conner, who had for two terms given this County such outstanding representation in the House of Delegates. For the County the vote was Conner 1246, Moncure 924; and for the Town of Manassas, where Mr. Conner is best known the vote was 523 for Mr. Conner to 266 for Moncure. Mr. Conner's majority in Prince William, however, was wiped out in Stafford where the unofficial returns gave Moncure 957 and Mr. Conner 258.

In the Senatorial race, Prince William gave its own citizen a handsome majority, Mr. George Herring receiving 1117 votes to 507 for Clarke of Fairfax; 342 for Charles Henry Smith of Alexandria and 174 for Richard Smith of Fairfax. However the vote in the heavily populated area of the Senatorial District pushed Prince William out of the race, as has been continuously done for fifty-two years. Unofficial returns from Fairfax gave Clarke 1257, Herring 448, Charles Henry Smith 728 and Richard Smith 721. In Alexandria unofficial returns gave Clarke 2110, Charles Henry Smith 1058, Herring 745 and Richard Smith only 34. Thus Andrew Clarke, of Fairfax, becomes Senator by a very substantial majority.

Within the County of Prince William the contest for Clerk of the Court and for Commonwealth's Attorney was waged intensely, but with a striking lack of bitterness, and the best of sportsmanship was exhibited by the defeated candidates on Wednesday morning. Mr. Leamon Ledman led the County in the number of votes, receiving 1272 to 896 for his opponent. Judge William Hill Brown, Jr., the present Commonwealth's Attorney, was defeated by Mr. Stanley Owens by a vote of 1142 to 1043.

Down in Occoquan District the battle for Supervisor ended with a vote of 210 for Mr. R. S. Hall to 142 for the present incumbent, Mr. G. C. Russell.

An outstanding feature of the election was the valuable service to the community rendered by Coker's Pharmacy where a big bulletin board had been painted upon the window, and returns received until complete.

TO SPEAK ON JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

The Woman's Club of Manassas will meet in the Parish Hall on Monday, August 9, at 8 p. m.

Paul Keve, probation officer with the State Department of Public Welfare, will be the guest speaker. Mr. Keve will speak on juvenile delinquency, its problems and tell of some of the plans now being worked out to remedy the serious conditions which exist.

Others who will contribute to the discussion will be Mrs. Marion Lewis, local director of public welfare, and Lacy Compton, juvenile judge. This is a meeting which should interest every citizen of Manassas, and a cordial invitation is being extended to all to attend and help plan for your county. Show your real interest by being "among those present."

CAN PEAS AND BEANS, TOO!

Peas . . . Some like them hot, some like them cold, but nearly everybody likes them canned, or so claims Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director of Ball Brothers Company. Not everybody likes green or "English" peas and that's all right because there are plenty other peas of different color and flavor.

All kinds of peas, lima beans, and butter beans are canned the same way. All should be picked and canned the very day the pods are full enough to be shelled. At that time they will be from small to medium size, tender and sweet.

Peas and beans begin to lose flavor and food value as soon as pulled from the vine and are likely to spoil if time is wasted between gathering, preparing, and canning.

Flat sour and all other spoilage can be avoided by paying strict attention to canning rules, Ycs, Rules, they are as simple as this:

1. Check over jars and lids the day before the canning is done. If glass top seals or two-piece metal vacuum seals are to be used, examine the top edges of the jars—the slightest flaw may cause you to have to do work over. The same is true of the sealing surface of glass lids. If there is any doubt as to the tightness of the wires on "lightning" jars, fill them with hot water, seal, let stand until cold, then hold upside down and examine for leaks, and don't forget to wash jars, caps and rubbers clean.

2. Use young, tender, freshly gathered vegetables—and they won't be fresh after being out of the garden all night.

3. Prepare no more than your canner will hold and not that many if the canner is large and the help small.

perature that makes you say "Whew, ain't it hot in here!" The quicker you make it too hot for bacteria, the better. So, don't piddle around when canning vegetables or anything else for that matter. If you have no pressure cooker, use a water-bath canner (never an oven or a steamer for vegetables). And remember to boil beans and peas 15 minutes before tasting them—even if a pressure cooker is used—for about once in a million or so times, a toxin forms in non-acid foods. Such toxin can be destroyed by boiling. Failure to take this precaution has been known to cause serious illness. Reboil non-acid vegetables left over from one meal to another.

To use a water bath right: Have the water steaming hot and deep enough to cover the tops of the jars two or more inches when they are put into the canner. Get the water boiling as quickly as possible and keep it boiling steadily every minute of the time called for in the recipe. Take the jars out of the canner as soon as they have processed long enough: complete the seal on all jars that require it (all except two-piece vacuum seals should be partly sealed before and completely sealed after processing—the vacuum seals are sealed before only); stand the jars far apart on a cloth or folded newspaper to cool. Make sure every jar is sealed when put away for winter and, believe it or not, there will come a day when you will say "I didn't dream it possible that canned peas could taste so much like garden fresh ones."

New Zealand Is Geared for War

Entire Male Population of Country Up to Age 65 Listed for Service.

WELLINGTON, N. Z.—New Zealand, in the fourth year of this world-shattering conflict, is a state organized almost entirely for war.

The army has called up and medically listed the whole male population up to age 45. All workers up to the age of 65 are covered by labor decrees and may be held in their present jobs if these are deemed important or drafted to other tasks of greater moment to the nation. War industry, within the limits of New Zealand possibilities, has been greatly stepped up. This country is now making light tanks for its own use, supplying large quantities of fuses for empire-made shells under a plan which was intended to link Australia, New Zealand, India and South Africa on a munitions production line, building ships of various types for employment in the Pacific operations.

Mobilized for Defense.

Earlier in the South Pacific struggle, when New Zealand did not know just how much aid she could expect, a large army was mobilized to defend these shores against possible Japanese invasion under a plan to sever the eastern sea lane to Australia. The improved Pacific situation and the fact that many men may now be rated as trained soldiers has enabled the army to let some of the reservists go back into the production line.

But these things could be had only at a price in the industrial field. Not only luxury trades but industries of first importance have been forced nearly to shut-down level. The building industry, long maintained because of the shortage of homes, is barely moving.

Transport has also been throttled down to necessity level and the many foreign traders who used to thrive on the spending of a community always well supplied with cash have had to find other jobs. What comes into New Zealand now is what is needed to help win the war.

The change in the whole national setup was apparent last Christmas, when stores closed up over Christmas and New Year's because the strain on their stocks had made it not worth while for them to stay open.

What They Can Do Without.

For the New Zealander the war has been a revelation in what he can do without. With his gasoline ration cut to a mere dribble, tires unobtainable for pleasure motoring, with newspapers refusing new subscribers and even cutting off their lists those who go away for vacations, with telephones so short that he is unable to get one when he moves house, luxury foods vanished out of the shops and tea and candy available in small supplies, with even such things as vegetables scarce in places and at high prices, the native inhabitant has found that he can still live a comfortable life.

In any event the New Zealander has tailored his life to helping the war drive. The men left now are mostly in essential industry or are over age even for industrial mobilization, which reaches up to 65. They frequently toil long hours and on top of this have some home defense job.

Women, besides running their homes, knit and sew, staff soldiers' clubs, pack prisoners' parcels, drive autos for civil defense units and belong to various auxiliary outfits with the fighting forces. Today they have a new task: they must help entertain American boys who are eager for home life and quickly responsive to what they get of it.

Americans, looking over the New Zealand scene, never fail to wonder at the things New Zealanders can do when so many of their men have been mobilized.

Finds 'Outpost' Shopping Better Than Back Home

SEATTLE, WASH.—Isabel McCullough, Red Cross recreational supervisor stationed in Alaska, spent her leisure for more than a year planning that shopping trip to Seattle.

Back to civilization she started out. Two hours later she reappeared at the hotel.

"The shopping trip was a failure. It took 45 minutes to get one small item and I quit. No clerks, no stocks.

"My favorite restaurant had no steaks at all and in fact little meat of any kind. I could get but one cup of coffee and one pat of butter."

But in Alaska—ah!

"There the steaks are two inches thick. We drank all the coffee we wanted and there isn't any limit on the butter."

She's ready to start back.

Has Two Generals for Town's 200 Population

OAKDALE, ILL.—This little southern Illinois village boasts a general for each of its 100 inhabitants.

Brig. Gen. Norman F. Ramsey, head of the Rock Island, Ill., arsenal, and Maj. Gen. R. L. Maxwell, commander of the recently completed Camp Ellis, Ill., both were born in Oakdale.

Test With Glider Promises New Use

Proves Craft Can Operate Under Its Own Power.

MINNEAPOLIS.—A slender, 35-year-old army air force colonel tossed away his cigar, stepped into a big, snub-nosed monoplane and flew it twice around Wold-Chamberlain field here to prove what he had hoped—that a glider can be flown under its own power.

The pioneer of this flight, believed to be the first of its kind ever made in this country, is Col. Fred Dent, a West Point graduate of 1920 and head of the army's experimental glider program at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio.

The flight was historic in this respect: It showed that a big glider—a towed airplane is what Dent calls it—can be motorized and flown under its own power, despite the fact that it was never designed with that idea. In this case, a small, air-cooled engine was attached under each wing and these engines can be put on in a hurry.

Dent declined to discuss what the army has in mind for this two-engine version of the towed airplane. However, it is known that these possibilities are under study.

Use of the craft "in our present activities" when it is necessary to get soldiers and equipment across short overwater jumps, where no dock facilities are available at the desired landing point. The Germans did something like this at Crete, but with towed planes.

Ability to land in an incredibly small space.

Relieving the overburdened army air transport services on cargo that does not need to move immediately.

Armed Cowboys Drive Herd Into Wyoming Park

JACKSON, WYO.—Cowboys—the real stuff—with rifles slung in saddle scabbards and pistols shoved in hip holsters drove 600 steers onto the Jackson Hole National Monument area.

No trouble was expected and the weapons were carried just in case, said Charles Kratzer, spokesman for the citizens' committee which vehemently protested a presidential order two months ago creating the park in western Wyoming. Cattlemen must get their stock across and they can take no chances, Mr. Kratzer explained.

Livestock ordinarily grazes in the center of the area now designated as a park. It long has been a summer feeding custom to drive herds into the area. Officers of the Jackson Hole Cattle and Horse association said this practice would be continued.

Charles J. Smith, administrator of the park, said he was not informed of the plans for the armed guard and added he had no intention of stopping the drive. He explained cattlemen who previously had used the area may continue to do so.

Mr. Kratzer said no permit was obtained from the park service for the drive.

Mightier Bombers Will Soon Be Seen in Action

WASHINGTON.—There's fresh evidence that new and more powerful types of American combat planes will be in action soon.

An OWI release telling of savings effected through contract renegotiations discloses officially for the first time that this country has for many months been producing 2,500-horsepower aircraft engines, probably the largest in production in any country.

Cost of such an engine was listed as $96,000, compared with $110,000 "approximately a year ago."

There was no indication what planes are being or will be equipped with these powerful engines, but no types now in action are fitted with such engines, whose additional power could be used either to lift greater weight or to get greater speed.

Sailors Saved by Life-Jacket Signal Lights

MIAMI, FLA.—Red signal lights attached to their lifejackets were credited by four members of a navy gun crew with the speedy rescue of 95 men who took to life boats and rafts when their merchant ship was torpedoed late in April in mid-Atlantic by a submarine.

Several hours after the ship went down, the survivors heard a plane which had come in answer to the distress signal sent by their radio operator.

"Let's light up, boys," the lieutenant told us, and every one switched on his little red signal light," one of the survivors reported. After 12 hours in life boats, the torpedoed men were picked up and landed in Puerto Rico.

Truck Farm Is Looted After Army Offers Gifts

LOS ANGELES.—The army, taking over a plot of ground here for a supply depot, said the public was welcome to the vegetables growing there. Why no one responded was a mystery—until Joseph Chin, Chan Wing, Aaron Lee, and A. Luna told officers people had taken thousands of potatoes and strawberry plants, beets, cauliflower, and cabbage from their nearby truck garden by mistake.

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself.
St. Luke: 10:27

THE THIRD WAR LOAN

The President this week issued an appeal to the American People to "back the attack" by subscribing fifteen billion dollars to the Third War Loan which will be launched on September 9.

Prince William County has every reason to be proud of the splendid manner in which it has met its quotas. The various committees have worked intelligently and effectively, and there is every probability that our County will not lag in the approaching drive, or in any other similar effort.

This newspaper wishes to take this occasion to thank the various firms of the County that have contributed so helpfully in sponsoring the many bond sale advertisements which have appeared in our pages, and to express the hope that we will continue to receive and to merit this important assistance.

In some counties we note that very intensive advertising campaigns are being put on with the aid of expert high-pressure salesmanship brought into the County for the purpose and working privately on a commission basis. We have no quarrel with such methods, and we do note that they seem to be operating very profitably to those newspapers that are willing to subject their clientele to this expert solicitation, but we believe that in such a distinctively small-business area as ours, it is unfair to expect our hard pressed small-sized enterprises to do more along this line than they see fit to volunteer. Under this viewpoint, Prince William has met its bond sale quotas so far, and we believe that our good friends will appreciate our forbearance in advertising solicitation and will continue in good measure to volunteer their support of bond sale advertising.

"AIRPLANE POWER"

"Engine Design as Related to Airplane Power" is the title of a booklet just released, in a preliminary edition for limited distribution and subject to correction, by the General Motors Corporation, which, if becoming available to the general public, will go a long way toward making the average citizen "air-minded."

It represents a very successful effort to "take you behind the scenes and acquaint you with a few of the problems involved in the design of military aircraft, with special reference to engines and supercharging equipment."

A highly technical subject of extreme significance to every citizen is here brought down to the realm of popular understanding. Anyone who has had experience in driving an automobile, and that includes most of us, can immediately step right over into the very heart of aviation considerations by study of this little booklet of some eighty pages, understandingly illustrated.

The country is being flooded with high-priced technical books on aviation which are almost out of date before coming off the press, but here is a booklet which recognizes that "Things are happening so fast that anything that is written is likely to be out of date before it is published," and outlines the fundamentals involved and asks the great general public for ideas and suggestions before printing in final form.

General Motors has rendered a valuable public service in the publication at this time of such a valuable treatise, which may be secured free of charge by writing to General Motors, Room 11, Detroit, Michigan.

A WARNING

It has been brought to our attention that cruelty to animals is going on in Manassas. One boy (whose name was given us) threw a tiny kitten across the street. Another chopped a cat's tail off. If any more of this occurs, as this is a statutory offense, we will prosecute the offenders in court.

Richmond, Va.

Editor, Journal:

I passed through one of the most beautiful towns in your county I've ever seen, but it deserves a better fate than the piles of trash and rubble indicate. The night noises are intolerable, dogs, horns, children, no surcease. Why not have a clean-up campaign and make this beauty spot a "thing of beauty and a joy forever"?

JAMES THORNTON

Ed. Note:

We are not certain, but we fancy that our esteemed correspondent refers to Manassas, and with all due respect, while we realize that our town has much room for improvement, yet we think things are not quite so bad as they must have appeared in the middle of the night to someone who obviously could not sleep. Our town is pretty nice, all things considered—at least we think so.

SOME NEW BOOKS AT THE RUFFNER-CARNEGIE LIBRARY

The problem of a lasting peace is becoming more vital every day to America as well as the rest of the world. Yet our aspirations and ideals in this direction are not altogether new. Twenty-five years ago President Wilson expressed them with moving eloquence and a fierce sincerity. But after the War, these ideals and aspirations were frustrated, not by wickedness, but by ignorance and indifference. Since then America and the world have been getting a very expensive education as to the meaning of war. Is it not then more than ever necessary for us to inform ourselves as to the causes of this War, and as to the factors necessary to the formation of an enduring peace? The leading articles and editorials of the greater newspapers and magazines are a help, but a clearer understanding is more likely to be obtained by reading some of the many excellent books on the subject now coming out.

The Library already has some of the best of these, and especially recommend the following:

Angel, Let the People Know; Agar—"A Time for Greatness"; Reston—"A Prelude to Victory"; Hoover and Gibson—"The Problems of a Lasting Peace"; Willkie—"One World"; Lippman—"U. S. Foreign Policy, The Shield of the Republic".

References have been made to all of these in recent Library articles in the JOURNAL, but we would like to recommend again the last two on this list: Willkie's "One World" and Lippman's "U. S. Foreign Policy". Willkie's lively and penetrating narrative makes very clear several matters of great importance. Among them: that whether we like it or not, Soviet Russia is now a going concern and will emerge from this war a great power, and our next door neighbor, with whom we must learn to live; also that the colored races of the world, more particularly now of Asia-Chinese, Japanese, East Indians—are awakening; rapidly through the impetus of the growing industrialization of the world and are no longer willing to submit to the dominance of the white race as in the past. This, indeed, is the inner meaning of the Japanese war. Consequently, Europe and America must learn to make better adjustments to them. In other words, "Our thinking must now become world wide."

Of Lippman's "U. S. Foreign Policy, The Shield of the Republic", the Readers' Digest has this to say in the preface to the condensation of the book, published in the July issue: "Those who think that foreign policy is a difficult subject will be fascinated by the clarity and irresistible logic which Mr. Lippman charts a course that will ensure both our national self interest and future security."

"What Walter Lippman, America's most distinguished political writer, says brilliantly, with passionate belief, out of deep knowledge and ripe wisdom, is of vital interest to everyone of us. No more important book has been written for Americans in a generation."

Another book of much interest on the recent Library list is Holt's "Life of George Washington Carver," the famous negro biologist of Tuskegee, outstanding alike for his scientific genius and for the remarkable advances he brought about in Southern agriculture. This book should have a wide reading. It might help towards the solution of the racial problem we have at our own door.

The most outstanding of the fiction recently received is Marcia Davenport's "Valley of Decision," a story through four generations of a wealthy iron master's family of Pittsburgh. This book, nearly rivaling in popularity Douglas' book, "The Robe," bids fair to become an American "Forsyte Saga."

Home Canners Warned

Home canners have been warned by the U. S. Department of Agriculture against the use of "canning powders" and other chemical preservatives. W. G. Campbell, Commissioner of the Federal Food and Drug Administration, said that use of some of the "canning powders" constitutes a definite health hazard. The term "canning powder," includes boric acid and its compounds and substances like metabisulfite which yield sulfur dioxide when brought in contact with an acid-reacting food product. The safe way for the home canner is to process foods adequately with heat and not to use chemical preservatives. For safety's sake, rely on thorough heat sterilization.

Gas Coupons Changed for Trips

Motorists can use their "A" ration book for trips into, or out of, the Eastern gasoline shortage area, according to rules recently announced by OPA. Since July 21, Eastern motorists have been using "A-6" coupons, while those outside the East have been using "A-7a". To overcome these difficulties in travel "across the border" a new amendment to the Gasoline Rationing Regulations permit "A" ration holders to exchange any of their valid "A" coupons for other coupons that may be used in the area in which they expect to travel. Exchanges may be made and further information secured at the War Price and Rationing Board.

The provision permitting retailers to make emergency reductions in the point values of rationed meats, fats and dairy products in imminent danger of spoiling, which was to expire July 31, has been extended indefinitely, OPA has announced.

Mass Mailing Finished

Approximately 122,000,000 copies of War Ration Book Three had been mailed by the first of last week. OPA announced that: (1) anyone who does not receive his War Ration Book Three should apply at his local board between August 1 and 10; (2) a plan is now being set up to distribute War Ration Book Three to members of the armed services who are eligible for ration books; (3) persons receiving War Ration Book Three should sign their names and addresses in the spaces reserved for that purpose on the cover.

Storage for Potatoes

Arrangements have been completed to provide additional storage facilities for handling the late crop of 1943 Irish potatoes, the War Food Administration has announced. WFA has approved the allocation of materials for the construction of storage facilities sufficient to take care of 15 million bushels of potatoes. Farmers should apply to their County War Boards for approval to begin construction.

Binder Twine Supply

An adequate supply of binder twine is available for this year's harvest of grain crops, the WFB Binder Twine Sub-Committee has reported. This ample supply has been made possible through the blending of cotton with henequen to produce a new twine which has proved satisfactory.

Increase Shoe Supply

To increase the supply of children's and infant's shoes, and men's work shoes, WFB recently amended order M-217 (Footwear) to permit a 25 per cent increase in the output of shoes for boys, misses, children, and infants. Production of men's work shoes may be increased by 15 per cent and men's safety shoes by 25 per cent. The order also will permit increased production of shoes at price levels where there is greater consumer demand.

Fewer New Tires

Smaller quotas of new passenger car tires for August and larger quotas of used and recapped tires have been announced by OPA, based on rationing allotments assigned for the month by the Office of Rubber Director. The August quota of Grade 1 tires is the lowest since last April. OPA officials warned that drivers who are eligible for new tires may have to accept used or recapped types as long as the quota of new tires is low.

TELEPHONE SERVICE FOR SERVICE MEN

"It may have been 'Dear Mabel' and the love letters of a rookie in the last war," but this time it's "Operator, let me talk to the folks."

More soldiers, more sailors, more marines are making more telephone calls to their mothers, wives, friends and sweethearts. These calls are important to the men and their families. They create happiness and happiness builds morale.

In a country at war telephone men

Or there is the story of the lone some lad from North Carolina at the Norfolk Naval Base. "I haven't had one word from my folks in two weeks. Can't you help me get them," he asked the telephone manager. Of course, he could and, of course, he did. And when the boy came out of the booth after talking with the folks, he seemed to be walking on air. Said he, "everything is fine in North Carolina." Then, there is the boy at Fort and women will always have important jobs to do. Not the least of these is the job of furnishing the best possible telephone service to men in the armed forces.

(Right) Group of soldiers at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., waiting to make calls from 7 attended telephone booths in men's service club.

After Pearl Harbor more and more men poured into camps already established throughout the country and a program was immediately undertaken to expand and improve telephone service for these men. Public telephones were the first need. Scores of them were installed even before the boys arrived at camp. For example, in Virginia there are over 300 public telephones in service on army and navy reservations. But "Johnny Doughboy" also "goes to town" and he makes telephone calls while he's there. So countless booths and telephones have been placed in the cities throughout the country where service men go.

Back in the camps special telephone managers have been appointed to look after the telephone service for the boys. All of these managers can tell countless stories of their experiences. For example, every night for two weeks, a Baltimore soldier called from a telephone trailer stationed at Camp Lee to his old home town. Then, one night he emerged, beaming from ear to ear, to confide, "She just said yes." Ah, love! Ah, telephone!

MIRTH AND MUSIC, GALS AND GAGS COMBINED IN LAUREL AND HARDY LAUGH HIT

Laughter reigned supreme as Laurel and Hardy in zoot suits, making instruments and cuddling blondes, bowed in at the Pitts' Theatre yesterday in their latest 20th Century-Fox laugh riot, "Jitterbugs."

Always masters of fun, Ollie and Stan are at their best in their new picture. Hilarity reigns throughout as the lean member of the team goes through his famous "double take" routine, while the rotund Hardy is good for a laugh a minute.

The story has the boys cast as wandering minstrels of jive, replete in super-zoot suits. They take up with a fast-talking "con" man who gets them in a jam at a country carnival. Just when things look blackest, they find an "out" which serves to get them in still more WOODBINE

SILK WORMS DROPPED FROM TELEPHONE JOB

Have Synthetic Successor

The silk worms of the Far East have lost their jobs of supplying insulation for several billion feet of wires produced annually for use in telephone central offices. The use of cellulose acetate yarn, an improvement rather than a substitute, was recently announced by Bell System engineers after extended tests.

Importation of "spun tussah," the type of silk used in the insulation of telephone wires, was interrupted by Japan's war on China. This insulation is made from the cocoons of wild silk worms and utilizes the short lengths of fibres discarded when the long ones are taken for higher grade textiles.

In silk as in many other materials, the curtailment of supplies by war conditions did not find the telephone industry unprepared. Twenty years ago a preliminary study was made of samples of imported acetate yarn. This indicated that its insulating properties were superior to those of silk. By 1925 such yarn was being manufactured in this country, and trial installations were being made.

For some years, cost problems and mechanical difficulties stood in the way of extensive use of acetate yarn on telephone wires. But its increasing use in the textile industry eventually brought price reductions, and effective methods of handling it in the wire manufacturing processes were developed. In the meantime, continued tests were proving its advantages over silk. By the time spun tussah was no longer available, acetate yarn was already being used on all switchboard wire, switchboard cable and distributing frame wire in Bell System central offices.

Quandary: An elderly couple who own a large place not far from New York, are eager to aid in the "food for victory" campaign by turning most of their landscaped acres into farmland. But though they are willing to pay top wages, they have been unable to find anyone to do work for which their age unfits them. Their butler, who has been employed by them for some time, was born on a farm and knows much about agriculture. Also he wants to get back on the land and show what he can do in the way of food production. Seemingly, that would be a solution of the problem. But there is a hitch—the butler fears that if he registers as a farmer, under the McNutt manpower edict, he will be sent to some point remote from esteemed employers and his friends. So he continues as a butler in a New York town house while acres lie idle.

Bandits: Speaking of food, Frank Crumit is responsible for the statement that there are now "meatnappers" in New York with dogs as the culprits. Prowling about the city, Frank told me as Julia Sanderson listened, is a hoodlum gang of canines led by a big brown mongrel. These dogs keep vigilant watch on patrons of butcher shops and lunch rooms. If they emerge with parcels, the dogs swoop down, make a grab and in a flash have vanished with their booty. Their latest victim was a young woman who lives on 24th street. As she came out of a 48th street lunch room, the leader of the pack snatched a hamburger sandwich from her hand. Instead of running away, the dog calmly ate it. The girl was afraid to so much as move since her left hand already bore marks of teeth.

Hot Stuff: A gentleman—let's call him Jones—who lives in Jersey, has effected a considerable tire and gasoline saving by using his hunting horse to draw a cart. The animal has to be watched closely, however, to keep it from wrapping the cart around a tree. So, a flaw in the thrift program. The other afternoon, as Jones was taking a drive, a lighted cigarette dropped into his vest. Since he could use only one hand to extricate it, he was, as might be said, handicapped. However, he retrieved it, but a few minutes later, found himself afire. He might have been hurt seriously but a friend happened along. The friend held the horse while Jones put out the fire—but not until an expensive waistcoat had been ruined utterly, a snappy tweed coat burned extensively and the end of a high-priced necktie consumed.

Information: John B. Kennedy showed me a copy of a letter a flying officer is supposed to have sent to his mother. It reads: "Dear Mom: Can't write a thing—the censor to blame. Just say I'm well and sign my name. Can't tell where we sailed from; can't mention the date and can't even number the meals that I ate. Can't say where we're going; don't know where we'll land; couldn't inform you if met by a band. Can't mention the weather, can't say if there's rain—all military secrets must secrets remain. Can't have a flashlight to guide me at night; can't smoke cigarettes except out of sight. Can't keep a diary for such is a sin; can't keep the envelopes your letters come in. Can't say for sure, darling, just what I can write. So I'll call this a letter and close with 'good night.'"

This Great Big Town: A Soviet tank corps captain, at 50th and Broadway, explaining to an American officer why Russian captains wear only one bar instead of the customary two: "In our country, the conservation of metal is more important than the display of rank." John Kieran, in the NEC lobby, relating to his "Information Please" companion, Franklin P. Adams: "It's in the middle of the night and I'm fast asleep. The 'phone rings and a fellow requests the answer to a question asked on a recent program. Pleadingly, I ask if he can't call me at the office in the morning. 'In the morning,' he says, 'I won't care if I don't know the answer.'"

REGINA, SASK.—Bill Whittleton and George Hambly were glad to pay the telephone bill of $5.71, because the call was to Betty Grable.

Hambly not only got Miss Grable but he let Whittleton talk to her too, so they decided to split the bill.

Yanks 'Outfox' Enemy in India

Fliers Stationed High in the Mountain Wilds Spot Japanese Planes.

WASHINGTON.—How the Japanese are "outfoxed" by members of the United States army air forces who stationed themselves high in the mountains of eastern India and warn of the approach of Japanese planes was told by Col. Emmett O'Donnell, chief of staff of the 10th air force, who has just returned to the United States.

Aircraft warning net teams who must live in the mountain fastnesses amid savage head hunters detect the Japanese planes, relay the word to the 10th air force and American planes take to the air and "greet" the Japanese, Colonel O'Donnell said. The Japanese have neither been able to advance into India or to exploit their gains in Burma as a result of this vigilance, he said, adding: "The work of these teams has been outstanding."

Advance Warning.

Colonel O'Donnell, whose home is in Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, said the secret of successful defense of India is to have advance warning of approaching enemy bombers.

"These men are in real headhunter country," he said, "but the Americans have gone in there and succeeded in getting along on friendly terms with the headhunters. Most of these men are in such remote places that it takes from two to three weeks to reach them by trail. Supplies are dropped regularly from the air."

These hardy outfits are composed of radio operators, observers, radio repairmen and a medical attendant and cook. More and more of the units are being established, Colonel O'Donnell reported.

Colonel O'Donnell said medium and heavy bombers of the 10th air force had practically put Rangoon's harbor out of operation, and had blown up lines of communication, important bridges and supply dumps and installations in Burma. He asserted that as fast as the Japanese repair bridges or railways the 10th air force bombers attack them again.

Morale Is High.

"The 10th and the 14th air forces have done and are doing a remarkable job in India and China," he said, "especially considering the difficulties of operating in such remote localities."

The morale of the troops is very high in spite of the country's intense heat, Colonel O'Donnell added.

Colonel O'Donnell was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1928 and played half-back on the academy football teams of 1926 and 1927. After graduation he studied and trained at Brooks Field and Kelly Field in Texas, where he was graduated with the rating of pilot.

'Sewing Machine' Runs

Without Use of Thread

PRINCETON, N. J.—Radio-electronics do many things these days that were impossible a few weeks or months ago. For instance, a radio "sewing machine" that "stitches" thermoplastics together without thread is the latest piece of magic from the RCA laboratories.

The idea is expected to find a wide application in the "seaming" of raincoats, caps, and weather balloons now being manufactured for the armed forces from synthetic materials. The nearest thing to thread in this sewing machine is a radio-frequency current applied by two small roller wheels between which pass the two pieces of thin plastic to be joined.

The unit is effected by heat induced inside the materials by the radio-frequency currents. Technically, the union is made possible by the "dielectric" losses in the materials, created by the struggle of the current to get through the material. The heat thus generated causes the materials to fuse or weld in a tight bond stronger than the material itself.

Woman Gardener Finally

Gives Up in Despair

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—Thrips and aphids, destructive little bugs, swarmed into Mrs. Kate Fusco's Victory garden. She exterminated them.

Next came snails. She got rid of them too. Then heavy rains wrecked the vegetables, so Mrs. Fusco replanted.

Just when the garden showed promise again, a heavy truck with faulty brakes rolled down a hill and through the Victory patch. "I'll buy my vegetables at the market," said Mrs. Fusco.

School Players Take

Script Too Literally

VANCOUVER, WASH.—Vancouver high school's senior play cast took the script too literally. A scene called for Lloyd Boddy to be bound, gagged, placed in a coffin, and left there. Long after rehearsal was over, the stage crew heard muffled cries coming from the coffin. Inside they found Boddy.

CANNERS, KNOW YOUR JAR TOPS!

So many new tops and jar closures are on the market that it will pay all canners to pause and study the directions which should come with every package of tops or jars, says Nell Grim, home demonstration agent.

The new jars with glass tops and wide metal bands are easy to use and safe, but they must be used differently. Never screw band down tight until after taking from the processing kettle. This is just the opposite from the metal tops with metal bands, which must be screwed tight before they are processed, and not tightened after they are processed.

All metal bands should be removed after 24 hours. If not taken off then, they may rust and be almost impossible to remove when the food is to be used.

Mason zinc tops are good so long as they are not bent and are free of "pin holes," and lining is not cracked. "Pin holes" come from using the tops on pickles or foods with strong brine or acid solutions. If it is necessary to use a knife in removing zinc tops, run it between the rubber and the jar; never between the rubber and the cap.

which may bend the cap enough to ruin it.

Some metal tops must be boiled before using; other just dipped in hot water. Be sure to know which way to treat the kind you are using. Manufacturer's directions are on each package of new-style tops.

Much food has already been wasted from using jars without following directions. Jars have exploded or food has spoiled because jars were not sealed correctly. The canner may think "Gremlins" are at work when really she herself is responsible.

So many of our boys are in the service of our country that it keeps everyone busy writing letters and cards. Many interesting letters are received from the boys overseas. From time to time we want to write about some of their experiences that the censor has passed.

We sincerely hope that all of our boys will return safely to tell of many experiences that we know they can't write home about.

Help Yourself Buy War Bonds

In Belgium the Nazis now are selling property confiscated from loyal Belgians to residents co-operating with their Nazi masters further complicating the fiscal affairs of that troubled land.

HAYMARKET

Miss Mae Edmonds of Haymarket was a Sunday evening caller of Miss Dolly Johnson, of Edgehill Farm. Miss Dolly Johnson just received a letter from one of her brothers in Camp Beale, California saying that he has just got out of the hospital after having his tonsils taken out. She is looking forward for him home in September.

Mrs. William B. Johnson has been ill.

AMERICA SHOULD KEEP ITS LIFELINES STRONG

1 WHEN YOU READ of the enormous amount of troops and materials of war that the railroads are so successfully transporting today, it is not surprising that many people have assumed those figures represent big profits for the railroads. Actually, this is not true, even though the Class I railroads carried 80% more passengers in 1942 than in 1941, and 33% more freight.

2 IT IS TRUE the railroads are earning more money today than they have in recent years, but for many years past they have been making far less than other businesses. Even in 1942, a peak year, earnings were only 5.56% on investment. And in the ten years ending with 1941, the average earnings were only a fraction over 2%. Many small businesses like the little retailer pictured above have, over the years, made much more money per dollar invested.

3 IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR the standard return fixed by the government for the railroads amounted to 5.21% on investment. Today the railroads are earning about 6% — a little more than they did in 1918. But they are carrying 24% more passengers and 55% more freight.

4 MAJOR FINANCIAL PROBLEMS now faced by the railroads include heavy taxes and greater cost of materials. Equipment now in service bears extra strain. The wheels pictured above travel more track in a week than they used to cover in a month. And rails and cars and engines are being used up at a rapid rate. Normal repairs cannot be made because of shortage of materials and man-power. Funds which should be put aside out of current earnings for making these repairs in the future are now taxed as "profits."

5 WEAKENING OF THE RAILROADS would be a national calamity. They are our lifelines, the vital arteries of our industrial and commercial system. America must keep its railroads strong. Too much depends on them today, and will depend on them tomorrow, to risk the effects of any policy that would endanger what we now enjoy — the finest railroad service in the world.

No second chance...no other choice

FOR THOSE WHO FALL and freeze on the lime-covered floors of the cattle cars that carry them to German labor camps—there is no other choice.

For the little children of Tepelini and Salonika and Athens who wait with swollen stomachs for the food ship that never arrives, there is nothing else to do—but wait.

For the Russian peasant with no choice but to burn his home before the Nazis reached it; for the Chinese of Nanking who suffered the terrorism of the Jap; for all of those in nameless graves and numberless cells—for all of them—there was no second chance, no other choice.

But for you—a choice still remains. For you—among all the peoples of the world, the road to freedom is still clear.

Never before have we been able to measure the price of freedom for ourselves and our children in such tangible terms. Will you help to keep the road to freedom open? Will you invest—all you can—in War Bonds?

It's not so much to ask. Many of us are making more money than we have for years. The things we'd like to buy with that money are scarce—or unavailable. So, we're asked to loan money at good interest—$4 for every $3 when the Bonds mature. Money to help pay for the war—keep prices down—provide peacetime jobs and peacetime goods and a generally decent world for all of us when the war is won.

Chances are you're already in the Payroll Savings Plan—buying War Bonds—doing your bit. But don't stop there. Raise your sights! Do your best!
