

REPORT ON BOARD MEETING JULY 5

First Official Presence of the Two New Members

This was the first meeting attended by Mr. J. W. Alvey, the new member from Gainesville District, who was elected by the Trustee Electoral Board at its meeting in June, Mrs. Anita D. Piercy having withdrawn her name from consideration by the board.

This being the organization meeting the board elected the following officers for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1945: N. N. Free, Nokesville, Virginia, Chairman; P. A. Lewis, Manassas, Virginia, Vice Chairman; R. C. Haydon, Clerk, and Mrs. Marion W. Dickins, Assistant Clerk.

The Board set the regular meeting for the year as follows: August meeting, Wednesday, August 9th; September meeting, Wednesday, September 13th; and all subsequent meetings on the first Wednesday in each month.

The Superintendent made a report to the board of the State Superintendents Conference held in Roanoke, June 29th and 30th. He stated that the greater part of this meeting was taken up with discussion of the State's vocational school program.

An interesting report on the Week Day Religious Education work was presented by the teacher of this work, Miss Hazel Saunders. The report shows that 869 pupils in the County are receiving this instruction and that of this group 35 per cent were not members of any regular organized Sunday School. The Board expressed much interest in the work being accomplished by Miss Saunders.

The Board discussed more or less at length the program now being carried on at the Manassas State Vocational School, and immediately after the meeting the members of the Board visited the school and made a tour of the various shops.

The Superintendent reported to the Board that the Legislation Commission appointed at the last meeting of the General Assembly headed by Dr. Denny, would hold a meeting in Manassas on August 14th for the area of Northern Virginia. The members of the Board decided to attend this meeting in a body and to get the information around through the various communities in the County so that the County may be well represented.

The report from the War Savings Department of the public schools of the County shows that during the session from September 1 to May 31 the schools have sold $160,815.46 worth of bonds and stamps. This accomplishment was very favorable in comparison with similar sales made in other counties in Virginia, there being only a few counties and cities which sold in excess of $150,000.

On motion of Mrs. Floy H. McInteer and seconded by Mr. Barnes, the following resolution was unanimously passed by the Board:

We, the members of the Prince William County School Board, regret that Mrs. Anita D. Piercy, our good friend and associate, has seen fit to withdraw from active service on this Board. We shall ever remember this fine period of association and the genuine interest she took in this body and in its individual members. We shall also remember her keen interest, careful deliberation, fine judgment, and courageous decision on all problems affecting the counties children and their welfare.

We know that her interest in education will continue and that her valuable contribution will continue to be felt both in her own community and in the county as a whole.

Those present were: N. N. Free, J. W. Alvey, P. A. Lewis, A. T. Barnes, F. M. Lynn, Floy H. McInteer, R. C. Haydon, Clerk.

The thorough and efficient work of our School Board under the direction of our highly qualified and popular superintendent, Prof. R. C. Haydon, reflects credit on Prince William and has often been commented on in educational circles throughout the state and we know the standard will be maintained.

Robert Sylvester Lee Aray

Mr. R. S. Aray passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. W. Ellis, on Friday morning, June 30th, after a brief illness. Mr. Aray was born in Staunton, Virginia, November 10, 1864. He has made his home in Manassas for the past 34 years.

He is survived by four children: Mrs. J. W. Ellis, of Greenwich, Va.; Mrs. L. W. Wallace, of Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. W. Laird Aray, of Knoxville, Tenn.; Lt. Edgar M. Aray, now stationed in England; and one grand-

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Tuesday being the Fourth of July, the only business that came before the meeting was the appointment of a committee to decide on the first, second and third winners of Prince William Projects sponsored by the Chamber. Those elected were Mr. Edgar Parrish, Dr. Geo. Cocke and Col. B. L. Jacobson with alternates.

Led by Mrs. Dennis Baker the members enjoyed singing many of the old fashion songs.

Mrs. Slaughter, of Charlotte, N. C., was the guest of her brother, Mr. Stanley Owen.

VACATION HOMES FOR CHILDREN

With summer here, County Welfare Departments are seeking vacation homes for children up to 14 years of age. Since a number of summer camps have been closed, the realization of a few weeks in the open is fast fading for a number of youngsters whose parents are only too willing to pay for a stay in the country.

Anyone in this locality who would be willing to take one or more children, either girls or boys or both, on his farm, not only as a vacation for the child, but to have him assist with odd jobs for a short or longer period of time, is asked to contact Mrs. Marion Lewis, Manassas, Virginia.

Health and behavior of children are both improved by even a short vacation from crowded homes and busy, hot streets. Many a mother forced to leave her children in someone else's care while she works to supplement her allotment from a soldier husband would be relieved to know her youngsters were safe on a farm and at the same time having a chance to build up their health.

R. v. Stanton Joins the Army

Rev. John Stanton, who has been in charge of the All Saints Catholic Church in Manassas for over a year, has entered the service as 2nd Lieutenant in the U. S. Army Chaplain Corps. Father Stanton was well liked in this section and will be missed by all.

Rev. Samuel G. Chameal will replace Rev. Stanton here in Manassas.

Report of the Judges' Award of The Wagener Prize for the Best Review of the Following Eleven Books—June, 1944

Buchan, Pilgrim's Way; Faulkner, Ploverman's Folly; Adams, The Living Jefferson; Ludwig, The Mediterranean; Douglas, The Robe (Four Reviews made of this); Curie, A Journey Among Warriors; Werfel, Song of Bernadette; Smith, A Tree Grows in Brooklyn; Carroll, Donnybrook; Cannon, Look to the Mountain; Robinson, The Signpost.

Out of these fourteen reviews the judges picked the following papers: FIRST: Mrs. R. C. Haydon for the review of Pilgrim's Way.

The other three are given honorable mention in the order named below:

SECOND: to Ploverman's Folly, written by Frank Cox.

THIRD: to The Living Jefferson, by Mrs. Marshall Douglas.

FOURTH: to The Mediterranean, by Theodore Ritter.

These four papers were selected by the judges, individually, as being outstanding, and we found it hard to select the winner. For one thing, it is hard to judge the respective merits on papers on four different subjects; and History, though it is perhaps Autobiography, Agriculture, Fiction worthy of note that Fiction did not seem to be in the running.

We should have been glad to have given a FIRST to all four and feel that they well deserved it, but finally chose them in the order named. We feel also that all the fourteen papers were exceptionally good and we congratulate all the contestants on the quality of the work done.

Respectfully submitted,

Elinor Clarke Johnson (Mrs. R. C. Johnson).

The Farmers' Contribution to Financing the War

by B. M. Gile
Head, Dept. of Agricultural Economics
Louisiana State University

FARMERS are buying War Bonds to help make it possible for their countrymen fighting on the battle fronts of the world to defeat the armed forces of the aggressor nations. As a whole, farmers have shown that they are willing to make as many sacrifices as any other group in order to win the war. In proportion to their net incomes, they have and will continue to purchase their full share of War Bonds, which constitutes one of the important means for obtaining money or credit to finance the conduct of the war.

While farmers would help finance the war for patriotic reasons alone, fortunately War Bonds also serve to help them accomplish certain personal welfare ends. Among these ends are the future security of their families and the attainment of certain accomplishments for their families. During the war, at least half of the productive effort in industrial plants is being used to produce the instruments used for fighting. This means a shortage of goods available for civilian purposes, both for production and consumption. Farm machinery, buildings, fencing materials that are depreciating and wearing out with use cannot be replaced at the usual rate. The ability to maintain as good a standard of living as we have under wartime conditions is to a considerable extent explained by the fact that we had acquired durable capital goods before the war which are being worn out in production during the war. By purchasing War Bonds with the money which normally would be used for replacements, safe keeping is provided for reserves which can be used after the war to purchase new machinery, building and fencing materials not available now.

There is also an income which would be normally spent for durable consumption goods. By spending as little as possible now, farmers help to prevent further inflation in the prices paid for the inadequate supply of manufactured goods for civilian purposes and also by refusing to follow the upward spiral of land prices, they can help prevent undue inflation in land prices.

While we hope that farm prices will not drop too severely, it seems fairly certain that wartime prices will not continue indefinitely after the war ends. Many farmers are wisely investing as much as possible of their wartime cash incomes in War Bonds as a sort of prudent insurance to protect the family against the hazards of a possible low income period sometime in the future. It also serves to provide a special reserve fund for sending the children to college when they reach that stage in their development.

For the tenant farmers, War Bonds furnish an excellent means for creating a reserve for the down payment on a farm, when more prices are for sale at normal prices. Past experience has shown that the tenant farmer who has accumulated his operating capital and is ready to buy a farm at a time when a land boom is raging, will do better to remain a tenant a few years longer. The increased cost of land rents when prices of farm products are at high levels is small compared to the capital losses on a 100-acre farm that declines 25 dollars per acre below the purchase price, due to lower prices for farm products. It requires a good part of the productive lifetime for most people to save $4,000, for about ten dollars must be earned in order to save one dollar. In any event, it is a serious matter for anyone to lose the savings accumulated from many years of productive effort. This did happen to many thousands of both farm and non-farm families during the drastic decline in prices following World War I.

As contrasted with the last war, farmers are following sounder financial methods. More of them are aware of the truism that prices rise when many are eager to buy, and that prices are low when sellers are plentiful. From the standpoint of personal finance, usually only those things which are immediately necessary should be purchased when prices are high. If credit is used to gain ownership control over land or any durable production goods at materially higher prices, the source of repayment should be in sight within a relatively short time, a year or two at most. In general, it would be advisable to incur only short-time debts which can be repaid before prices fall. War Bonds furnish a convenient investment medium to help farmers who wish to follow a prudent financial policy.

PECTIN PLENTIFUL:

This year's supply of pectin for home jelly-makers will be larger by a half million pounds than last year's supply, the War Food Administration has announced. Pectin is made largely from citrus pulp and also from apple pulp. A new pectin in California is expected to bring total pectin production this year to 6,500,000 pounds or more. Last year it was 6,300,000 pounds.

Along with the larger production this year are smaller demands from commercial preservers and for Lend-Lease. Commercial stocks of preserves now on hand, particularly citrus marmalade and grape jab, are large, so commercial users will not need so much pectin for the rest of the year. Less pectin will be shipped this year to the British for making the jams they use in such quantity—as a spread for bread. A small amount of pectin is used in pharmaceutical manufacturing as a stiffener for ointments and as an emulsifier.

HOT WEATHER MEALS

When the weather is hot, the house-maker's thoughts turn to keeping cool while cooking, and to serving meals not too hot and heavy. Here are some summertime hints for homemakers.

First, continue to serve balance meals—the kind that include during the day milk, fruit, a green and yellow vegetable, and so on. Any one who does the same job the year round needs enough calories in food to provide for the energy spent.

Keep meals simple. Dishes that take short cooking and little preparation often have the most appetite appeal on a hot day. Many egg dishes are quick to prepare. Cooking on the top of the stove leaves the kitchen and the cook cooler than baking. Make the most of fresh vegetables and fruits. They are natural summer foods, neither rich nor calorie-loaded. Raw juicy fruits make quick, appetizing desserts. Serve raw crisp vegetables often—carrot strips, turnip or cucumber strips, wedges of cabbage, pieces of cauliflower and slices or quartered tomatoes.

If iced beverages are the family choice, do not let them prevent the family from getting the regular quota of milk in some form, such as in cooked foods, cheese or ice cream. Milk itself is refreshing when served cold, as it should be to keep safely.

Guard perishable foods against souring or otherwise spoiling to prevent waste, and, even more important, steer clear of food poisoning. Some extra salt in hot weather helps to replace that lost in perspiration. Drinking cool slightly salted water slacks thirst and helps to get back lost salt. Serving salads as salted vegetables—the original meaning of the word "salad—is another way of re-salting.

Practice kitchen fuel economies. For example, save gas or electricity by not turning on the heat until it is needed. Bring food to a boil at high heat then turn to low heat, just enough to keep the food boiling. Plan the oven's workshift so the kitchen does not heat up any oftener than necessary. Start the oven just in time for it to be ready when the food is ready to bake. Bake in the morning, if possible, rather than in hotter afternoon hours.

If there is a porch or other place to eat cooler than where meals are regularly served, this chance of setting adds to comfort at mealtime.

Serving cafeteria-style, letting the family fill their plates at the stove, saves one person from taking many trips back and forth on a hot day.

TO OUR BOYS IN THE SERVICE

The back page of this issue is dedicated to our boys in the service by the business firms of Manassas. For the idea and the work, credit is due Mr. Walter C. Sudd. So, boys, wherever you are in our far flung battle lines, know that we are thinking of you, praying for you, and backing you to the best of our ability.

Elected to Student Council

The organization of a student government officially began at the Manassas State Vocational School, Manassas, Virginia, with the election of representatives to a student council. Each shop group of the school chose its own representative to the council and these students in turn will elect a president and secretary for the school as a whole.

The representatives are John Bunch, Warrenton, Va., for the drafting class; Paul Bieber, Manassas, electricity; Tommy Tomlinson, Alexandria, machine; Edward Sonafank, Nokesville, radio; Oscar Bushey, Cherry Hill, sheet metal; Tommy Harnes, Alexandria, welding; and Milton Edson, Arlington, woodworking.

SENT US BY MRS. VERA MERCHANT

Dear Mom:

Everything is going fine here and before too long France will be a free country again and I know the French people will be as happy as we are back in the States.

I arrived in France two days after D-Day and we came in under the greatest armada of planes and ships that a man could ever dream of. We immediately went in with our doughboys and gave the Germans something they shall never forget. The mines, booby-traps, artillery fire and snipers are the worse things to watch out for here and I mean the snipers are terrible. They are much worse than the Japs and they are out to kill. A lot of them are women, so we can't even trust the French people as they may be German spies.

On the way in the German artillery shelled us and that night German planes bombed us, but we came through OK and we have the Germans on the run now. The nearest that I came to getting knocked off was by a sniper, who took a crack at me, but his bullet sank in a tree about eight inches over my head. These Germans are yellow rats. They shot some of our men who were waving the white flags and they killed other fellows who were completely defenseless. We won't forget these things you can bet on that.

How's little Rosie, Skeeter and the Ducks. I hope you're all well and happy as that's what I want more than anything in this world, and please don't worry about me as I don't even have a scratch and I'm on my way home, except I have to go through Berlin first. Are the fellows in the service now?

I'm sorry Walter failed as he would have made a swell soldier for Uncle Sam.

Write me when you can as I love to hear from you.

Love to all,
Bud.

Buy and Keep War Bonds

by C. O. Noble
Head, Dept. of Agricultural Economics
University of Florida

FARMERS of this Nation are performing a magnificent job of essential food production during the present emergency, in spite of their great handicaps in obtaining the necessary materials, equipment, machinery, and labor. Due to their determination to do a good job and to favorable prices for farm commodities, they are receiving higher net incomes than during the twenty-year pre-war period. The question arises as to the wisest use to make of these net incomes that will hasten the winning of this war and at the same time assist in preventing dangerous inflation during and immediately following the war. Farmers, like all other workers on the home front, are not satisfied with merely doing well the job that is expected of them. They are eagerly on the alert for other ways they may help to bring peace at the earliest moment.

As I see it, the wisest use a farmer could make of his current net income would be to:

1. Keep the farm in condition to produce to its full capacity. This is extremely difficult due to shortages of materials, equipment, machinery and labor; but it is being done by all good farmers. Much attention must be given to keeping machinery in good repair and to making the most efficient use of labor.

2. Avoid new mortgage indebtedness, and reduce present indebtedness beyond the original plan, if practicable. Meet all payments for borrowed working capital when due.

3. Place every dollar not utilized in maintaining a healthy farm business into War Bonds and plan to hold on to these Bonds until they mature, or until after the war emergency has passed. This will be the best known method to help finance the war, to help prevent inflation, and at the same time to build up the investor's financial reserves for the post-war period. You will note that no mention has been made of personal consumption expenses. These should be kept down to the bare minimum. Our rationing system is a great aid in holding down spending for consumer goods, but every patriotic citizen should think many times before purchasing an article that is not an absolute necessity. If War Bonds are purchased first and with the determination of holding them to maturity, it will be surprising that we can do without so many supposed necessities.

MR. O. D. WATERS EXPLAINS OPA

Sheriff Kerlin in charge of the program Friday the 30th of June got Mr. O. D. Waters to explain to the Kiwanis Club the true inwardness of the O. P. A. Not very long ago Charlie Alpaugh rather heatedly tried to take O.P.A. apart and show what made it tick was not true Americanism.

Mr. Waters started with the following parody:

"The time has come," Charlie Alpaugh said.

"To speak of many things,
Of O. P. A. of chewing gum
And cabbages and kings.

For I'm very mad with O. P. A.
You can see that from afar.

They took away from me any gas.
Now I can buy me no cigar.

They tell me that it's needed,
But that's what gets my spleen,
When did war become as important
As my Lady Nicotine?

He goes on (O. D. does) and shows that the Lake Jackson squire can't get an auto tire, etc.

With this laughable preface he gives a very good account of the reasons for the existence of O. P. A., that it was not merely instituted for the suppression of dangerous inflation but that it actually is accomplishing it. Of course, not every one is happy over being deprived of his many treasured luxuries, but still it is good for him and country. Historically he showed by examples from even the war between the states and World War I how much better off we are now. Of course, the seller likes prices to go higher, but there are many more buyers. In World War I prices within 3 months rose 52 per cent, in this war the cost of living has risen only 13 per cent.

The S. S. Price Co., family groceries, claims that in the last war $49.75 bought 1 pound of Swansdown flour and 100 pounds of sugar; now the same sum buys the same things and 88 other items, when they list.

Chester Bowles only a few weeks, director of O. P. A. appeared before the Senate Investigating Committee, and after he told his plan, every member Democrat and Republican shook his hand, pledged him their support that the O. P. A. would be extended another twelve months beyond June 30.

The Kiwanians appreciated this well-handled statement by Mr. Waters and even Mr. Alpaugh seemed in an apologetic mood.

Mr. Walter Sudd was appointed a committee to see the influential men of the town to further the efforts of the Manassas Journal to give publicity to the Fifth War Loan. The Board of Directors is backing him.

Mrs. Edgar Parrish and daughter, Mildred have returned from Palm Spring, California. They spent some time with Lt. Harry J. Parrish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Parrish. He is stationed there.

All Fats Are Good

When you buy fats and oils for your family, you demand quality. Your food standards are high. But when industry buys fats and oils essential to the manufacture of synthetic rubber, plastics, lubricants, munitions, and countless other necessary war and civilian products, quality is not the prime consideration. Because all salvage fat, no matter how far it has gone beyond the food stage, still contains ingredients that technicians and chemists break down and transform into useful and indispensable elements. Fat is urgently needed in factories and war plants. By saving salvage fat for industry, you not only keep the production lines humming, but you insure more food fat for your family because then food fat does not have to be diverted for non-food purposes.

How to torture your neighbors

ONE OF THE liveliest forms of torturing your neighbors is to barbecue some meat out in the backyard (of course, if you're in a good barbecuing mood, you'll invite them over!). Here are a few suggestions which experienced barbecuers have found useful (remember that it's just about the same as indoor broiling, except that the heat comes from underneath):

Give barbecue flavor to meats by marinating them for several hours before cooking, in French dressing or a spicy barbecue sauce; or swab them with either while grilling the meat.

Broast of lamb is deliciously different, when barbecued (allow 1 1/2-lb. per person); season, and grill for about an hour or until done, turning often.

Barbecue ears of corn simply by removing silk and husks, and grilling for about 10 minutes, turning and brushing frequently with melted butter or margarine.

Evidence Favors De Gaulle

"Not a single group of France," says Pertinax, the well-known journalist whose articles occasionally appear in these columns, "is known to have expressed disapproval or dissatisfaction."

Reference is to General De Gaulle and his Committee of Liberation and their actions in France since the invasion.

That is not final, of course. Pertinax has many connections with those in France who know and he is thoroughly familiar with the background and with the French people, but there may have been expressions of approval or of dissatisfaction of which he has not been informed. Yet the fact that he can make the flat statement and stand upon it is of importance. Certainly it indicates that there is widespread approval of and satisfaction with the De Gaulleists. If Washington has been looking for evidence of that before recognizing De Gaulle's government, it would seem that it has it now.

"The Dancing Masters" Hits Peak in Hilarity With Hula-Happy Comedians

Get set for a non-stop marathon of hula-happy fun—a rhumba riot of high hilarity—when Laurel and Hardy take over the screen of the... Pitts Theatre... in 20th Century-Fox's laugh riot, "The Dancing Masters."

Advance reports unanimously acclaim the new joy-packed film, in which Stan and Oliver are starred with a top-notch cast headed by lovely Trudy Marshall, as the best of the famous fun team's long list of howling hits.

"The Dancing Masters" provide the inimitable zanies with an uninterrupted series of side-splitting sequences that exploit their sure-fire laugh tactics to the fullest.

Laurel and Hardy are cast as the co-owners of a school of "terpsichorean art," but since neither knows a sailor's horn-pipe from his windpipe, customers even scarcer. And to make matters worse, they are strong-armed into an "accident insurance" policy by a group of gangsters.

But withal, Stan and Oliver are not too burdened with their own troubles to come to the aid of Mary Harlan, one of their dancing school pupils, who is having boy-friend trouble with her parents. In a typically mananamous gesture, they offer to "front" for her sweetheart, Grant Lawrence, in demonstrating his new flame-throwing machine to Mary's father in an effort to get the latter to finance the production of the important invention.

The demonstration is a blazing success; not only so Laurel and Hardy succeed in destroying the "military objective," but also the Harlan home, as well as the flame-throwing machine itself.

Despondent over the havoc they have wrought, the boys resolve to raise the money to finance the production of another flame-thrower for Grant. Hardy remembers the "insurance" policy which is supposed to pay $10,000 to a broken arm or leg, and promptly decides to have unsuspecting Stan's limbs broken for the cause. How he pursues his scheme of getting Stan involved in an "accident," leads to the fastest-moving and most hilarious climax in which the side-splitting team of comedians have ever been seen.

WHEAT LOANS AVAILABLE

Producer May Repay Loan; Repossess The Wheat

Any farmer who as landlord or tenant produces wheat in 1944 is eligible for a Commodity Credit Corporation loan at prevailing established rates on wheat that is of acceptable quality and grades No. 3 or better, the Prince William County AAA committee says. The wheat must be in acceptable storage on the farm or in an approved warehouse.

A farmer who obtains a loan still retains title to his wheat, the AAA emphasized. He may repossess the wheat at any time prior to the maturity of his loan by repaying the principal plus interest and storage charges. If the loan is not repaid prior to maturity the CCC takes title to the wheat in payment of the loan.

The rate for the county in which wheat is stored is the applicable loan rate on loans, said P. A. Lewis, chairman of the county committee. The Prince William County rate for No. 2 wheat is $1.51 per bushel. Germania Mills, Fredericksburg, Virginia; Luray Elevator, Luray, Virginia; Edinburg Mills, Edinburg, Virginia; H. H. Sweetwood, Maurertown, Virginia; are the nearest commercial warehouses that have been approved for storage. Warrenton Production Credit Association, Warrenton, Virginia, and Fauquier National Bank, Warrenton, Virginia, are among the approved lending agencies.

When a producer applies to the count office for a loan on his wheat he should have already determined where he wishes to store it and that acceptable storage space is available to him, the announcement said.

Why a Farmer Should Buy and Keep War Bonds

by G. H. Aull
Head, Dept. of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology
Clemson College, S. C.

FARMERS in my section of the country do not need to be told why they should buy War Bonds. Many of them have sons or brothers in one or the other branches of the service and they have a direct and personal interest in providing them with the supplies and materials of War. They know, also, that so long as they assume this responsibility and use their own funds for this purpose it will not be necessary for Uncle Sam to create new and inflationary dollars in order to do the job.

I think, too, that farmers look upon their purchases of War Bonds as actually serving a threefold purpose, either one of which is sufficient to justify whatever temporary inconvenience this might necessitate. In the first place, by buying War Bonds farmers make another direct and vital contribution to the winning of the war; secondly, they help keep prices within reasonable bounds; and finally, they build up a highly important reserve supply of funds which may be drawn upon after the war. This reserve may be applied to the purchase of needed items of equipment and supply which either are not available now, or, if available, more expensive than normally would be the case. Meanwhile, of course, their investments in War Bonds will draw interest and if allowed to mature will return four dollars for three.

Most farmers I know can teach the rest of us a great deal when it comes to reasons for buying War Bonds. They have been accustomed to small income in the past and have been quick to see that recent increases are due to large scale government spending and, therefore, not likely to continue indefinitely. Since goods for civilian consumption are both scarce and expensive, and since further demands could serve only to push prices still higher, it has appeared both logical and patriotic for farmers to use surplus funds to finance the purchase of essential military equipment.

My impression is that a great many War Bond purchasers are not fully informed as to the necessity for keeping them until they mature. (Reference of course, is primarily to purchasers of "E" bonds which return $100 for each $75 invested if held for ten years). However, I believe this is less true in the case of farmers than of other groups. The reason is obvious: farmers just naturally do not sell a hog until it has reached optimum weight. Even so, farmers need to be reminded that the war must be fought and won with Bonds which they buy and keep, not which they buy and cash in. There are certain less obvious but equally valid reasons why farmers should strive to keep the Bonds they buy until the date of their maturity. For example, there is the question of prices. Present indications are that prices will continue relatively high during the early years of the post-war period and may even increase. A flood of post-war buying, especially if it is supported by individual sales of War Bonds, might generate a serious inflationary movement which could easily absorb a large proportion of wartime savings. In spite of all that can be done to prevent it, there will likely be a tendency in this direction. This is especially true since the availability of many items will be limited for at least a few years after the war. The probability is that those who keep their bonds will be able to cash them in after prices have declined rather than when they are at their peak.

There is, of course, the possibility that we shall experience a post-war depression instead of a post-war boom. In the one instance farmers would see prices of things they sell decline more rapidly than prices of things they buy; in the other, wages and non-agricultural prices would rise more rapidly than prices of farm products. In either case the result would be bad and I am certain that farmers will wish to do everything in their power to prevent it.

Aside from these more or less theoretical reasons why farmers (as well as all others) should be exceedingly slow about cashing in their War Bonds, there is another intensely practical reason. It might be stated in the negative: "Why shouldn't farmers keep their War Bonds?" Most of them have purchased Bonds out of surplus earnings resulting from wartime governmental expenditures. If history repeats itself these earnings will continue high for a few years after the war and ordinary farm needs presumably may be financed from current operations. It is to be hoped at least that farmers will not need to dispose of their accumulated savings in order to meet post war needs and until War Bonds mature—their interest yield will doubtless compare favorably with that from any other investment. Farmers, of course, should not neglect their resources or permit their operating efficiency to decrease merely for the sake of holding on to their Bonds. They should, however, be certain of a real need for the money before they cash them in prematurely.

Calling the attention of Church people to the needs of men and women returning from the Services, the Rev. Almon R. He tells of a wide variety of needs many of which can be supplied through the interest of Christian people.

A former drug store, the Canteen serves soft drinks, sandwiches, regular meals, provides games, music, reading matter. Women of the various parishes do the work, wearing bright red striped uniforms. The picture shows Bishop Fred Ingley visiting the Canteen. Some 350 Churchwomen each week volunteer their services. The Canteen is highly popular.

Scrape, Scoop and Skim

In our new belt-tightening war economy, three "S's" have become watchwords. Successor to the three "R's", hallowed by our grandfathers, is the new emphasis on Scrape, Scoop and Skim conservation.

SCRAPE the used cooking fat from every pan, every plate returned after a meal. Even bones and gristle can be melted when the oven is lighted, and added to the used fat container. SCOOP all globules of fat from the water in which fatty foods such as frankfurters have been boiled. Every single drop is needed for munitions, medicines and essential civilian manufacture. SKIM the fat from stews, soups and gravies. You still get two red ration points for every pound of used cooking fat you take to the meat dealer.

How the Farmer May Stretch His Wartime Dollar!

by Ben F. Alvord

Head, Dept. of Agricultural Economics
Alabama Polytechnic Institute

FARMERS as a group are frequently assumed to be able to make each dollar go farthest and buy most. This reputation may perhaps not be deserved. They have had of necessity, however, much practice in stretching dollars. Their families are larger and their cash incomes invariably average smaller than those of the average family of the United States. Now is the time for all farmers who really want to continue to be good dollar stretchers to give careful thought to how they handle their affairs.

The farmer must get his dollar before he stretches it. It takes long, hard hours of work on the part of the farmer and his family to produce crops now for hired labor is scarce and often impossible to get. However, prices of products farmers sell in this country are about twice as high as they were in 1940 and prices farmers pay for fertilizer, machinery, and other production factors average only about fifty per cent higher than in that year.

Thus, farmers tend to have a greater margin over production costs than usual and on the average should have more dollars to stretch. Some factors in the present situation hinder dollars stretching and some help. Living costs, even for the most necessary articles and services, have mounted and taxes have climbed sharply. On the other hand, the farmer is forced to spend less for automobile driving and other travel; he is forced to produce and store certain foods that he customarily buys; and he is duty bound to economize in other ways for the war effort. This situation means he has some dollars at least to stretch. Stretching requires that he pay some attention to the value of the dollar. He can stretch his dollar by paying debts. His dollar purchases less of many things now than in 1940, but it purchases just as much release from debt as ever. Thus, it is a good time to pay off debts—especially the longtime debts. That is one place where he can make his dollar valuable. A second place where his dollar is as valuable as ever is in the purchase of United States Bonds. A cheap dollar, such as we have now, buys just as many United States Bonds as it did in 1940 when a dollar was worth about one-third more than at present. Thus, buying a Bond stretches the dollar! If the Bond is kept until it matures, he has at least one extra dollar for every three that he spent for E Bonds. He has also the chance of getting an extra margin in case prices drop to the 1940 level when his Bond matures. This latter margin is not a certainty, but such a price change could come. It did come after the previous war. If we assume that our progress in World War II is at about the same point as our progress in 1918 was in World War I, it is interesting to note that the all commodities wholesale price index dropped a net amount of about 27 per cent in the 10 years following 1918 and a further 23 per cent in the following 5 years. That is, $75 invested in bonds, such as our present E Bonds, in 1918 would have amounted to $100 in 1928 and if then cashed, would have purchased at wholesale in that year as much goods as $135 would have bought in 1918. The increase in dollar value of the Bond plus the increase in purchasing power of each dollar would have increased the purchasing power of the investment over the 10-year period by about 80 per cent. The farmer has this extra chance to stretch his dollar. Such dollars would have had an extra stretch sometime after the Civil War, sometime after the Spanish American War and again sometime after World War No. I. The chance stretch might not come after World War No. II, but the Bond investment is a good "buy" anyway since 3 dollars invested still means 4 dollars return for all Bonds kept to maturity.

4-H Club Goes All Out in War Bond Effort

The Four-H Clubs of America, 1,700,000 strong, are making a vital contribution to the war program helping in the gigantic problem of keeping the food supply line strong and in buying War Bonds. Here are some scenes of 4-H boys and girls at their war work. No. 1 shows Glenn Whittenberg, of Hidalgo County, Texas, with his fine litter which will help the food supply. Glenn is putting his profits in War Bonds. No. 2 shows an ambulance purchased by the 37,000 members of the 4-H Club members of Virginia. Representing the Virginia Clubs in the picture is Carolyn Steele, Fairview, and Richard Fleming, of Branesville. Major Barnard Sobol, USA, is accepting the ambulance, with Director M. L. Wilson of the Extension Service

Department of Agriculture, looking on. No. 3 shows Billy Fleming of Fairfax County, Virginia, helping Dad with the chores. Billy is putting his earnings into War Bonds. 4-H Club members own 90,000 head of dairy cattle. No. 4—4-H Clubs make a mighty contribution to the poultry and egg supply, raising 9 million chickens in 1943. Here is Helen Wheeling, Brown County, South Dakota, with a couple of her birds. She also buys War Bonds with her profits. No. 5—4-H Clubbers are also Victory Gardeners. Here is Jane Budder of Frederick County, Maryland, in her garden. These farm youngsters raised 5 million bushels of garden produce last year. Back the Attack—Buy More Than Before.

They don't want your tears

"DON'T CRY. Don't let them see you cry!" Whispers the older Red Cross Worker.

And as the litter of wounded come up the gangplank of the hospital ship, the young novice swallows, shuts her eyes for an instant, and nods.

They don't want our tears . . . these boys of ours. Not though they face a future that at first can seem harder than death.

They want our courage . . . they want our resolution. Courage and resolution to match and sustain their own.

Courage to keep us going on with this great task—no matter what it may cost these coming months in blood and sweat.

Resolution to back the boys who are taking these risks, with every breath that's in us and every dollar we can raise or scrape.

The boys realize, far more than we can, how fast war uses up machines, ammunition, equipment.

The guns and tanks that took Hill 609 in Tunisia had to be rebuilt or replaced before they could thunder down upon Messina and Naples.

The landing barges that brought our men to the perilous beaches of Salerno must be repaired and refitted before they can drive ashore in France or the Balkans.

We cannot win the war with the bullets our bonds bought last summer. Those bullets are already buried in Jap and Nazi graves. And another horde of the desperate, cornered enemy is coming on.

Bullets and shells . . . tanks and guns . . . ships and planes. These are the things the boys are asking us for . . . the boys at the front and the boys behind them who will never again do things with two hands, or walk with two feet, or see with two eyes.

They don't ask us to give what they have given. They only ask us to skip the easy tears . . . to invest our money instead of spending it . . . to lend the mere money price of Victory.

They only ask us to buy War Bonds
