Sunday School Lesson

COMFORTS HIS PEOPLE
International Sunday School Lesson for November 6, 1949

MEMORY SELECTION: "Fear thou not, for I am with thee; be not dismayed, for I am thy God; I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness.—Isaiah 41:10-13; 41:10-13; 41:1-3

In studying the lesson for this week, it would be well to understand the historical background. The section of the Book of Isaiah which begins with chapter 40 represents a situation quite different from that in which Isaiah, the son of Amos, did his work. Jerusalem, the Israel to whom the prophet speaks is in exile in Babylon. Isaiah remained in that part of Jerusalem which remained unruined although threatened by the armies. Certainly, in such a time as this, the children of Israel needed words of encouragement and comfort from God through the lips of His servant. The prophet of the exile knew that he could bring comfort to people, he could open for them sources of strength. He declared, "They that wait upon thee shall renew their strength" (40:13). "I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness.—Isaiah 41:10-13; 41:1-3 thee" (40:10). Once, Israel could feel a sense of power, then hope would be restored in her. Defeat can be turned into victory, loss into gain. The prophet's message is "to give the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness" (61:3).

Since new strength means comfort only when it is linked to a definite program of action, the prophet was bringing true comfort and renewed strength to Israel when he challenged her to use her strength in a great mission for which an opportunity was soon to be opened to her. "Prepare ye in the wilderness the way of Jehovah"—that is the task. "Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low; and the uneven shall be made level, and the rough places a plain."—that is the opening of the way, the clear vision of opportunity.

The prophet knew that his people needed a clear consciousness of the real goal in life, a personal appreciation of it, if strength is to be the source of that deep and happy satisfaction, that peace of mind which make up real and enduring comfort. The Israelites knew—in theory—that this was a glorious task of the most terrible importance, but they had no challenging realization of it to stir their hearts and give them a personal sense of divine mission. What they needed and what the prophet sought to give them was a new self respect, a new appreciation of the value of the lives they were living and the divine mission which was theirs as a nation. He is calling upon them to make the creeds they possessed to believe real principles of thought and action in their everyday lives.

There is no doubt but that our own country, our beloved America, needs much the same message today. There are many evidences of general unhappiness, discontent and maladjustment in our nation. While there is a form of material prosperity higher than ever before in the history of our country, our people, as a whole, are lacking the spiritual balance, to make them the happiest people on the face of the globe.

Management and labor are continually at war with one another, corruption and graft are evident in the seats of government and the homes of the nation are literally seething with discontent. Juvenile delinquency, the appalling number of broken homes and the rising number of chronic alcoholics among women as well as men, are not signs of happiness.

How long will it take our people to realize that material prosperity is not all that matters. Spiritual prosperity, evidenced in the lives of professing Christians, must go hand in hand with material progress. We need to come to the realization that life is not a low thing. Every record of heroic living, of unselfish devotion to high causes, of noble action in pursuit of great ideals, shows how grand a thing life is. There is a higher center for it than this world and that the higher center is God, all true, all loving. To leave him out is to lose the great source of courage, the great standard and the power to see it in the face of danger.

Happenings in Nokesville

By Mrs. Fred Shepherd
Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Gay attended the Notre Dame-Navy football game in Baltimore on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Shepherd, the Ted Shepherds and the Fred Shepherds were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Max Shepherd in Manassas.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. May left last week for their home in Santa Ana, California. They had been visiting their family and friends here for a couple of months. Their son, Russell, who had planned to return home with them to his own home in California, will not receive his release from the Quantico Marine Base until January.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Myers and son of near Leesburg, she's the former Pauline Wells, visited friends here last week. They have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wells and Mr. Nathan Wells in Manassas.

Fred T. Shepherd and Bob Wayland of Manassas are spending several days this week on a hunting trip in Mercer County, Pennsylvania.

Our sincere sympathy goes to Mrs. A. D. Sines who received word on Tuesday morning of the death of her sister, Mrs. H. L. Alley, who died in the Harrisburg, Pennsylvania Hospital on Tuesday. The Sines had visited the Alleys just a week ago. Mrs. Alley had been falling in health for several months. Mrs. Alley, who with her husband served 23 years as missionary to India, will be buried in the Barren Ridge cemetery near Staunton on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Amos Andes of Bealton and Mrs. George Beahm sp. n. Tuesday with Mrs. C. C. Herring because it was her birthday.

The Raleigh Nelsons have rented the old Rhodes place near Brentsville now owned by Mrs.
Mike Flory.

This is a last reminder to all Nokesville folks and their friends.
A public oyster-turkey supper will be served at the Fire Hall on Saturday evening, the fifth. When you come to Nokesville for supper, from past experience, you know you'll be satisfied.

Mrs. Pearl Owen, Miss Betty Jane Owen and Jay Owen of Washington visited J. J. True and the M. J. Shepherds on Wednesday.
Jay can now be seen on television twice a week.

Miss Emma Perkins of Ohio, who taught Religious Education in our county schools about 14 years ago, spent Tuesday in Nokesville with Miss Hazel Saunders.

The Kensington Club ladies really "did themselves up proud" when they served a turkey dinner to all the dairymen and their families at the Fire Hall on Friday.
The Hall was just packed and everyone thoroughly enjoyed the dinner.

Halloween parties have taken up most of the spare time of Nokesville's young and old the past week.
The annual custom of all costumed grade children and their teachers marching through the town behind the band was observed again this year on Friday at noon. When the children got back to school, parties were planned for all by the teachers. On Friday night, the high school had their party in the gym.

Two large parties—one at Aden U. B. Church and one at the Nokesville Church of the Brethren were attended by about 150 folks. Costumed folks from wee little folks to grandparents were prominent at both places. After the Halloween march and games, refreshments in keeping with the season were served. At Nokesville tiny Shirley Godfrey captured the hearts of all dressed in a long black dress covered with a white apron and complete with a stiff black bonnet. Rita Barbera won the prize for the prettiest. Bertha Wood for the most appropriately dressed.

At Aden prizes were won by Judy Whetzel, Sturat Smith and Mrs. Susie Smith.

A large group of Buckall and Manassas United Brethren, folks surprised the Aden folks and they all had a grand evening together.

Keep in mind November 18—Friday—as the day for the Turkey-Oyster Supper at the Nokesville Church of the Brethren as part of their Harvest Festival. All day Friday there will be a used clothing and anything else saleable—for sale.

Mrs. Ted Shepherd, Mrs. H. C.
Wood and Mrs. John Fearnough will be hostesses to the Sr. Women's Club on Friday, the eleventh at an all-day meeting at the Shepherd home. The hostesses are making chicken salad and the drinks while each lady is asked to bring a covered dish.

Our Parent-Teachers Association has finally been reorganized and met for the first time on Thursday night in the Halloween-decorated gym.

Presiding over the business meeting was our newly elected president, Mrs. Ralph Spears, whom we're sure, will make a very active president. Stuart McMichael is vice-president; Mrs. James Earhart, secretary; and Newman Hopkins is treasurer. The grade children entertained with all kinds of Halloween stories, etc. After which the social committee served refreshments to everyone.

All of our local H. D. Clubs were well represented on Thursday at the Achievement Day activities at the Nokesville Church of the Brethren. Our Sr. Club had the largest representation in the county with 17 members present. Everyone present seemed to thoroughly enjoy the day which highlighted music by our band, talks by Mrs. Egbert Thompson, Miss Leona Kline and Miss Sylvia style show and music by the Gay Nineties Girls of Manassas.

A family from Maryland has moved into the Walter Eples house.
Mrs. Ewing House assisted Mrs.
W. F. Hale as hostess to the Jr.
Woman's Club meeting at the Hale home last week. Miss O'- Kelly from the R. E. A. office sponsored "Proper Lighting." Mrs. was present and gave a demonstration. Mrs. David Kerlin and Mrs. Vance Somers became new members of the club. Mrs. W. F.
Hale is in charge of selling Christmas cards for the benefit of the club. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Ray Smith on the 4th Tuesday with Mrs. Cale Gibson assisting as hostess.

Lunch was served to approximatly 115 by the Ladies Aid of the church.

The ladies of the Women's Bible Class of the Nokesville Church of the Brethren planned a get-together for Mrs. John Miller at the Miller home on Tuesday night.
Despite the unusually inclement weather a large number of folks came. Mrs. Miller is planning to leave soon to spend the win-

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa:

My mother treats my sister and me like babies. She apparently doesn't want us to have friends, for every time a young man comes to see us she insists on sitting in the room with us and if we go anywhere she goes along.

As a result you can imagine how few and far our dates are getting to be.

Another thing, both of us have finished school and would like to get jobs so that we could have better clothes and perhaps buy a little car. But mother can't bear the idea of her daughters working outside the home although we have plenty to do inside it.

What would you advise us to do as we are getting nowhere fast at this rate?

SISTERS.

Answer:

Your mother is either one of those women who are about 30 years behind the times or else she is a possessive soul who prefers to run her children's happiness in order to satisfy her own peculiar love. Her subconscious idea is to hold on to you and your sister and keep you with her always. She doesn't stop to think that, if she succeeds, she will one day die and leave two single women alone in the world—robbed of their chances for a normal happy life.

Every girl who has finished school should prepare herself for some kind of job. One never knows when they will have to earn a living in these precarious times and the girl who is wise will not depend on some man coming along to provide her with a meal ticket.

So my advice to you and your sister is to go out and get yourselves jobs or prepare yourselves for some kind of position. Tell your mother that her idea of girls being too delicate to work outside of the home is out of date and that you are living in the year 1949 instead of 1849. Tell her also that although you love her very much, that she can show her affection for you by not running all your dates away.
You are glad for her to come in and speak to them but not to spend the evening with them. Every girl has a right to some privacy with her company.

Good luck!

LOUISA.

Farm Price Support Assured

Final action by Congress, accepting the free conference compromise of the Farm Bill, makes it certain the farmers of the nation will continue to receive price supports upon ninety per cent of parity. This is well for the country, as well as for the farmer. In fact, the economic prosperity of the nation depends, to a large extent, upon the economic well-being of agriculture. The farmers of the nation have a surplus cash to spend, the demand for manufactured goods dwindle. This lays off workers and slows down the circulation of cash which promotes business and makes profits possible.

In most discussions of the farm bill, emphasis is laid upon the fact that no reduction in farm support prices will mean no reduction in food prices for consumers. Truly enough, there is hardly ever reference to the tariff which makes the consumer pay more for manufactured goods. Apparently overlooked is the connection between farm support prices and a tariff wall. So long as a tariff protects manufacturers, forcing them to buy products on an artificially supported market, there would be a compensating arrangement to give the farmer a fair deal. While we are most heartily behind full price supports for farm products, we do not lose sight of the fact that they are justified by a tariff policy of the United States. If the nation ever gets to the point of abolishing its tariff walls, then the time will be at hand to do something about parity price supports.

How One City Got a New Industry

When the war ended, Hazelton, Pennsylvania, had 4,000 unemployed. Its principal industry, hard-rock mining, was providing less employment. Younger folk were leaving for other states and returning veterans showed little inclination to work in the mines. Facing these factors, the business men of Hazelton organized a committee to seek a new industry from some other section of the country. They recently dedicated a $3,500,000 plant, including three buildings with 10,000 square feet of floor space, manufacture automotive and industrial wire and cable. How did Hazelton get this industry, with its annual payroll of $750,000? They promised the company half million dollars if it would build in Hazelton. It raised $659,000 through popular contributions which poured in at an amazing rate. Donations ranged from fifty cents to $20,000 and 20,000 of the city's 38,000 people participated. At the end of a three-weeks' campaign, the committee had collected $65,000. There were no certificates, no stocks, no bonds. In addition, arrangements were made to lend the company $700,000 to help in the cost of the plant. This sum will be repaid at the rate of $90,000 a year for ten years, after which the plant will belong to the company, which invested an additional $2,300,000.

We call attention to the Hazelton campaign because it illustrates how one community secured a new industry for the purpose of providing employment for the unemployed. It took hard work, no doubt, to raise the money, to make a $500,000 gift to an industry. Nevertheless, the end result was that the industry located in Hazelton and, presumably, will add to the income of that city for many years.

There may be objections to the donation of large sums of money to industries for the purpose of persuading them to locate in a particular city. We share these objections, to some degree. Nevertheless, municipalities looking for industries must take cognizance of what other areas offer. Obviously, an industrial plant, seeking a location, considers the cost and if some anxious community provides part of the cash, the company is apt to be persuaded.

Hunting Toll Reaches 61

Since September 1st, sixty-one persons have been killed by accidental gunshot while hunting and, with the annual Fall shooting season approaching its peak, other deaths will undoubtedly occur.

Strange to say, squirrel hunting has accounted for the most of the deaths, eighteen in half a dozen states. Eight deaths occurred in the pursuit of deer and a like number in the shooting of duck.

One hunter, who sought safety from death by wearing a white sweater, was shot when mistaken for an albino deer. Another curious report tells of the death of a hunter in West Virginia while using the antiquated bow and arrow.

It may be impossible to prevent the accidental killing of some hunters but the death toll is large enough to warrant the suggestion that all hunters exercise extraordinary care before pulling the trigger.

Washington Notes

HOME BUILDINGS

If present building trends continue for the rest of this year, more than one million homes will have been started during the current year. July, August and September were record-breaking months in the number of homes on which construction was begun. The first nine months of the year have contributed 743,000 new, permanent homes.

and apartments. Farm homes are not included in the totals.

AUTOMOBILES

Fifty-one per cent of 50,400,000 American families own at least one automobile and one out of seven owns two or more.

INSURANCE

Statistics reported by the Federal Reserve Board reveal that 71 per cent of the 50,400,000 American families hold life insurance policies with premiums above $100 a year. Seventy-one per cent have bank accounts or Government savings bonds, and 45 per cent own a home or a farm. The survey counted only those families living together, and pooling incomes for expenses.

ACCIDENTS

The cost of accidents in the United States last year is estimated at $7,400,000.

CENSUS

In order to take the census next year, the Department of Commerce estimates that about 140,000 enumerators will be employed for the 1950 census of population, housing and agriculture. They will visit 40,000,000 dwellings and six and one-half million farms to collect the necessary information.

DEFICIT

The United States faces a fiscal deficit of approximately $5,000,000,000 at the end of June, 1950, if the government spends all the money the 81st Congress has provided.

ARMY CUT

Further reductions of Army personnel by perhaps 40,000 men are expected in view of the announcement by Louis A. Johnson, Secretary of Defense, of a "planning" of $13,000,000,000 for all three armed services, which is $1,400,000,000 less than that of the current fiscal year and over $2,000,000,000 less than the actual total of appropriations and authorizations.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

The safety officials are warning that the last three months of the year are "the killed months" for motorists and pedestrians. Reasons for the increased danger are shorter days, with dwindling visibility, and twilight haze. "Slow down at Sundown. Look out when it's dark," is the warning given motorists.

RENT CONTROLS

Rent controls have been lifted on 2,000,000 dwellings since the present law went into effect April 1, leaving 12,500,000 units still under controls, according to Housing Expeditor Tighe Woods.

Fewer people live on farms in the United States than at any time in nearly 70 years. Despite the increase in population of the country as a whole, the farm population has dropped from a total of 32,077,000 in 1910 to its present total of 27,776,000, while the number of persons in non-farm areas has increased 99.8 in the same period.

Neighborly Yours

By MAGGI MARCHARD BROWN

For years, and often from a distance of thousands of miles, I have made periodic visits to Washington to see what was going on along the Potomac. In fact, the first money I ever earned was spent on an excursion to the Capital, and so I was fortunate enough to be on hand the historic day that World War I was declared. Since then I have kept close track on changes in the great city.

Unlike London and Paris, Washington has no forgotten years. It was not built on an ancient site and there is little use in exploring the underground for relics of the past. Still, I have always hoped to make a discovery, to bring something to light that would furrow other people's brows. Until the other day, my nearest success was in unearthing some Indian bones at Piscataway creek.

$2 Million Move

Moving day along the Potomac is always hopelessly interesting, particularly when a two-million-dollar shift of government property is in progress. That is why I went calling at the Pentagon last week. Locating my former colleagues in National Defense, at any time, is a game of banter, for the divisions shift around almost as often as boxcars in railroad yards.

Searching out a branch of the Judge Advocate General's Office, I landed, after 64 concrete steps, in the No. 2 basement that stretches far and wide under the Pentagon. As a fagged adventurer, I wandered through storerooms, machine shops, truck runways, on an unblazed trail amid stacked office furniture and equipment. Builders were at work tearing down partitions and setting up partitions. Down there in the earth was the commotion of moving and change, and the traffic was perilous.

Makes Discovery

Eventually I came to a retiring room. Inside I found water to quench the thirst of a lone and lost wayfarer that had traveled in government circles. But wait! At last, I had made my discovery!

In the farthestmost recess beneath the Pentagon, in a room where few persons ever go, were two handsome stone fountains. Made of smooth, richly veined brownish marble, the huge round bowls were fashioned like the beautiful fountains which are the joy of passersby before the Federal Reserve building on Constitution Avenue. For some obscure reason, National Defense has hidden them away, side by side, in a narrow space, where they look like bumptious intruders. No gurgling waters delight the ears. Absurd shower attachments permit a light sprinkle, in neat circles over the strange bowls. The purpose that is the moving question.

Of course, there is no apparent way of knowing from whence came such fountains, because nobody in the United States Government can explain the impulses to move hither and yon.

This tale of discovery on the Potomac leads me to suggest that Manassas or another town could use a couple of choice fountains as a city attraction. Why not ask Mr. Louis Johnson if the sculptured pair of great bowls cannot come out of hiding? To waste beauty is indefensible, especially for the Department of National Defense.

Veterans News

Veterans planning to go to school under the GI Bill, with certificates of eligibility issued before November 1, 1947, were advised recently by Veterans Administration to make certain the school is permitted by law to offer training to veterans at Government expense.

The law does not allow veterans to take GI Bill courses in schools which have not been in operation on their own for at least a year, or in schools not having approval of an appropriate State Approving Agency.

Legal Permit Required

If a veteran enters a school falling in either of these categories, he will receive no subsistence and he will be required to pay his own tuition and supply costs even though he has a certificate of eligibility. Certificates are valid, VA explained, only in those educational institutions or training establishments where GI Bill training is permitted by law.

A veteran may check the status of the school he wishes to attend by calling at, or writing to, his VA office.

A new law which goes into effect December 1, 1949, increases the basic compensation rates paid to veterans for service-connected disabilities and in other ways liberalizes the regulations affecting compensation.

For all World War II veterans with service-connected disabilities and those World War I veterans whose disabilities have been determined by VA to be directly service-connected, there will be a general increase in rates of 8.7 per cent. For example, a veteran who is 10 per cent disabled and comes under either of these two categories will receive an increase in his monthly compensation check from $13.80 to $15. A 100 per cent disabled veteran will get $150 instead of the $138 he now receives. Between these two cases, the increase will be proportionate.

The law also provides additional compensation for veterans with dependants who were rated 60 per cent or more disabled were eligible to receive additional compensation.

Meeting to Be Held For Legion Teams

Joe Johnson, chairman of the athletic committee of Prince William Post 158, of the American Legion, announced this week that a meeting of all those interested in playing on either the boy's or girl's basketball teams, sponsored by the post and auxiliary, will be held the first part of November.

The exact date will be announced later.

Passes to Be Sold

Practice sessions will begin immediately after Thanksgiving, with several games scheduled before the Christmas holidays.

The legion will sell, again this year, season passes to the games which will go on sale within the next few weeks.

"This Christmas... I'll be in Hot Water!"

"NEVER let it be said that I don't love the frills and the furbelows, the gadgets and the gimmicks that are part of Christmas. Like all women, I think a Christmas gift should be gay and glamorous and have a touch of luxury about it.

"But tell me... is there anything more luxurious than soaking in a tub of really hot water? Is there anything gayer than taking off on a Monday because your washing's done in half the time, thanks to plenty of hot water? And if there's any more wonderful gift than everyday help with household work, I don't know what it is!

"My own personal Santa is a man who can take a hint (besides, he likes plenty of hot water for his own showers and shaving—he likes the LOW COST of electric water heating, too!) So... we're getting an automatic Electric Water Heater THIS Christmas... and I love it!"
