SCRIPTURE SELECTION: "Ye shall find me, and find me, when ye search for me with all your heart."—Jeremiah 29:13

Text: Jeremiah 29:1, 4-14; 31:3.

The Babylonians had forced the Jews to end their rebellion by unconditional surrender, the best of the population, those who might be dangerous to a revolt, were carried away to Babylon. Those who were left behind under the leadership of the Babylonian king, Zedekiah, were a remnant.

These who were left, weak and weary, were tempted to rebellion and to persuade some of the earlier exiles in Babylon to join them.

Jeremiah, who had been in Jerusalem, denounced the folly of such a plan and he advised the king to send to the exiles, try to dissuade them from the idea of stirring up trouble. It is this letter that we have for our study.

Jeremiah reminds the exiles that they are not confined to the temple nor to the city of Jerusalem, nor to the land of promise, but in their far-off land of captivity, God's people may find him in prayer and find him in all the plenitude of power, able and willing to bless. Thinking as they did of Jehovah as somehow limited in the full exercise of his powers to the holy land, the exiles could find hope only in an expectation of their own speedy restoration to their homeland.

Jeremiah wanted to give his people a realization that Jehovah was the one God of all the earth, independent of all geographical limitations, always ruling in a righteousness which would never tolerate sin even in Jerusalem, everywhere present to guide and bless all those who called upon him.

This theme—the availability of God—is the message of the Bible. All great souls who have ever lived can attest its truth. Fellowship with God may be had by every one at any time, in any place on one very simple condition. It can be had by those who really want it and only by those. It is a very great thing, the greatest thing in life and like every other great thing, it can be had only by focussing life upon it.

It is well to remember, also that God is not only available to all, but he is inescapable by all. Whether we take God into our lives or not, we cannot vote ourselves out of His world or escape the operation of His laws. God has a part in every transaction in which we are concerned and he it is who decides its ultimate outcome in the shaping of our destiny. This is true whether we know it or not, or whether we acknowledge it or not. Our failure to know it simply means that our life calculations are being made in ignorance of the most important element in every situation.

It is a kind of madness which leaves God out of our thinking and our planning. A text we might well have printed and hung up where we can see it easily is: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." The truth is as true today as it was when Paul first wrote it to his Galatian converts.

And, let us remember, God is anxious to meet the wanderer seeking to return to him. Even though Judah disobeyed Him and insulted Him with willfulness and idolatry, God stood by and did not utterly forsake them. It was this trustworthy, sturdy God whom Jeremiah counted on to bring the people out of their captivity at the end of their 70-year punishment.

Jeremiah knew that when he needed God, He was near by, available. How wonderfully this faith is realized in Him who promised, "Lo, I am with you, even unto the end of the world." God is a personal God, a God with personality. We do not pray to some vague "first cause," but to One who hears and loves us. It is this realization of the presence that brings vitality to prayer and the courage to live a good life. Life is a different thing to a man who believes in and puts his trust in Jehovah God.

Neighborly Yours

By Maggi Marchand Brown

Perhaps you read Mr. Obion-sky's most amazing statement. Just before he left these capitalistic shores, to spend the winter solstice in Moscow, a Russian representative to United Nations shouted at the Western world: "Hail! You wouldn't have any Santa Claus if it hadn't been for the Union of Soviet Republics! Don't you know that the old fool you call Santa Claus got his start in patronage as Russia's St. Nicolas? Our children still cry—I mean they yell like this: 'Bah! Whoever wanted Comrade Nick? Not Russian kids!'"

Searches Soviet Records

Searching the GPU, OGPU and NKVD records, I learned that last December 24, the Russian secret police discovered a jolly fat man on a roof above the Red Square. At midnight in a howling blizzard he wouldn't be a chimney sweep. Then why was he peering down that chimney? Who was he?

Nobody but a Russian general or a commissar could afford such a handsome tunic, and no one else wore gloves in winter. The most suspicious thing of all was a beaming smile that crackled the hoarfrost on the venerable man's whiskers.

Described As Spy

"He's an elegant spy," said the NKVD agent. "The Americans in Germany must have sent him over here. That explains those reindeer named Donner and Blitzen."

Mr. Stalin stared hard at the captive. "You remind me of somebody I used to know. Old fellow, do you happen to have anything to do with celebrating the winter solstice?"

"What's that?"

Was St. Nicolas

"When the Teutons were heathens, they had such a yule-feast. Sure, you know me, Joe. I used to be St. Nicolas. But now I'm Santa Claus, an international spirit. Over the whole civilized world I am the patron saint of children."

"How silly! We wouldn't have had any room for you in the Kremlin. If there is any sainthood around here, that's mine. Under-

body I used to know. Old fellow, do you happen to have anything to do with celebrating the winter solstice?"

"What's that?"

Was St. Nicolas

"When the Teutons were heathens, they had such a yule-feast. Sure, you know me, Joe. I used to be St. Nicolas. But now I'm Santa Claus, an international spirit. Over the whole civilized world I am the patron saint of children."

"How silly! We wouldn't have had any room for you in the Kremlin. If there is any sainthood around here, that's mine. Understand? But I remember you, Nick. You used to do your visiting around the sixth of December."

"Now I live at the North Pole," Santa began.

"On which side? Left?"

"All over, and I wish people would stay out of my private airspace." Santa Claus went on with beatific patience.

Became Children's Patron

"After I gave up Russia and became the patron of all the dear children on earth, I have had such a long way to travel from the frozen wastes. I began following the Star of Hope. It has wondrous brilliance. No matter where you are, it's a beacon in the bleakest, blackest night. Even in this blizzard! Look out the window, Joe!"

Stalin twisted around in his chair. "Where is a star? It's a reactionary trick. . . . It's democratic magic! Nick, you are getting my imagination stirred up." Stalin spoke to his secret agent. "This man is a quack and a liar. Turn him loose on his sled! Start the team towards the steppes. We'll see if he can light up a star!"

"The star appeared in Bethlehem long before my time," Santa said, putting on his gloves again. "It was not nice to see you again, Joe. I didn't expect to stay over in Moscow tonight. I've got a lot of calls ahead, and I knew there would be no room for anyone in the Kremlin. So long, Joe, and I hope you enjoy the weather tomorrow."

"Have to work anyhow," Stalin yawned. "I must tell Vishinsky to claim another first discovery on Santa Claus for the U.S.S.R."

To The Homemaker

Ever hear the expression, "busy as a cranberry merchant"? It got started back when commercial canning and refrigerated warehouses were unknown and cranberries had to be sold fresh or not at all. The season was short. Harvesting had to be done entirely by hand. For a few weeks every fall the cranberry merchant was a very busy man. So busy, he became a symbol, and "busy as a cranberry merchant" became a part of the American tradition.

This fall, "busy as a cranberry merchant" is still a valid expression. For cranberry merchants of all kinds—growers, handlers, warehousemen, and processors—are really busy. The crop of 80,500,000 pounds is 21 per cent above average. Most of the crop is marketed in 25-pound boxes, some in bulk, but much of it is sold in one-pound cellophane bags.

Cranberries contribute to the diet only small amounts of Vitamin C and minerals but their bright red color and tart distinctive flavor increase appetite appeal for other foods.

Below is my favorite recipe for Cranberry Sauce. I like it because it takes only about 10 minutes to cook, requires no straining and is simply delicious.

Cranberry Ham Slices are another pet of mine, not only for taste, but because they are easy and quick to prepare yet fancy.

enough for the most festive occasions.

10-Minute Cranberry Sauce
2 cups sugar
2 cups water
4 cups cranberries.

Boil sugar and water together for five minutes. Add cranberries and boil without stirring until all the skins pop open. Five minutes is usually sufficient. Remove from fire and allow sauce to remain in saucepan until cool. Makes one quart sauce.

For a thinner sauce, just bring sugar and water to a boil, then add cranberries and cook until they stop popping.

Cranberry Ham Slices

Mix two cups raw cranberries with one cup strained honey. If raw cranberries are not available or if in a hurry, use canned cranberry sauce. Spread thickly over a center slice of ham and top with a second slice of ham. Insert cloves around edge of top slice of ham. Place in baking dish and garnish top slice with raw cranberries before baking. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 45 minutes.

Tuberculosis kills nearly 1,000 Americans a week, 125 a day. It kills at the rate of one person every 11 minutes.

Wonderful! Amazing! Extraordinary! Super!
That's the way women describe these new Larkwood "3 V" Nylon Sheers.

Three V-shaped reinforcements are knitted into the Vamp-Top . . . and what do they do?

Just listen: (1) cut down runs because they act as a shock absorber for strains and garter pulls; (2) give you a comfortable no-bind fit because, for the first time, a stocking is knitted to shape to your thigh; (3) and even the man in your life will go for this . . . your seams are sure to be straight, because the center V is a permanent guide for placing your garters.

In Small, Medium and Tall . . . properly dimensioned in size and shape through Larkwood's special Volu-Metric Control . . . not just different in length, but in "volume content" for each leg type to assure you longest wear, best fit.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa:

I have been worried for a few years. I love my husband but I never like for him to dance with strangers. He said he would not do it but the other night we went to a dance which was in two halls. He left me in one hall and went dancing in the other. I don't feel good towards him. What shall I do?

N. M. E.

Answer:

I don't know exactly what you can do about it but if your husband likes variety in his dancing partners why not get together with several couples you know and go to the dances in a group? Then you both can confine your dancing to people you know and not have to seek a change by picking up strangers.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa:

I am a girl of 17 and my mother won't let me go out with boys. What do you think I could do to convince her to let me go out with boys?

BLONDIE.

Answer:

Your mother is being very foolish not to allow you to go with boys at all because you are likely to pick up any old good-for-nothing who makes love to you when you get the chance.

I don't approve of girls having as much liberty as some of them do now-a-days, but a girl of 17 should have enough sense to know how to behave around boys. She certainly is old enough to begin having dates. If your mother will make your friends welcome at your home and you will co-operate by getting home at a reasonable time and not go any place she objects to she will be following a much wiser course than to try keeping you away from boys altogether.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa:

I am very worried because my younger sister is trying to get my boy friend away from me. She does everything she can to attract him and he doesn't like to come to the house on account of her. She is always telling him things about me which are not true and that causes us to argue which suits my sister just fine. I have told my sister about causing trouble but she just laughs. I am afraid I will

Veterans News

Loan Rules Change

Two changes in the GI loan regulations, designed to make it easier for veterans to finance and occupy homes purchased with the aid of loan guarantees under the GI Bill, have been announced by the Veterans Administration.

One change will permit a veteran to occupy the home of his choice even though some outside work, necessarily delayed because of inclement weather, remains to be completed. The other provides an optional flat allowance instead of certain "origination" costs which may be charged to home-buyers by lending institutions.

Involves Outside Work

The first change involves such outside work as unfinished sidewalks, curbs, gutters, driveways and final coats of exterior paint. Heretofore, VA has required a certificate that the home was completed before issuing a loan guarantee to the lender. Severe weather conditions in many parts of the country, therefore, have resulted in delays for veterans in moving into new homes which were fully suitable for living purposes, except for the unfinished exterior work.

Under the new plan, an amount equal to one and one-half times the $50 estimated cost of the unfinished work will be placed in escrow to guarantee completion, and VA will issue its regular guaranty on the loan. This procedure will be instituted only at the request of the veteran buyer.

Second Change Made

The second change concerns numerous miscellaneous expense items incurred by lenders in connection with the making of a mortgage loan. Included are the lenders costs for appraisals, inspections, preparation and mailing of papers, and a variety of fees, such as those paid to notaries and trustees.

Previously, all such cost items had to be accounted for individually. Under the new regulation, the lender may, at his option, charge instead an amount equal to 1 per cent of the amount of the loan.

The optional allowance is available only to straight, first mortgage GI loans where the veteran gets all his financing at the 3 per cent interest rate. VA regulations and instructions for their administration have been issued to VA field offices concerned.

Robert Alvey was honored at a shower given Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Jean Rion near Manassas.

In Catharpin this week, people were still hunting still butchering, were building bath rooms (Gordon Pattle), papering rooms (Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cassey), and were very busy shopping. Favored shopping centers were Manassas, Alexandria, Clarendon, Leesburg, and Washington.

On the SCREEN

"Without Honor"

In this film Laraine Day, who has golden dreams of a husband who is a lover, is tied to Bruce Bennett, impersonating a faithful but insensitive husband, who is too dumb to cater to her yearning for a sweetheart's attention. So, as you might expect, she fastens upon Franchot Tone, also married, but yearning for extramarital thrills. They decide upon separate divorces but Mr. Tone gets cold feet. Miss Day threatens to kill herself and in the ensuing struggle, Tone is severely wounded. She leaves him for dead. Other complications arise before the film is brought to what Hollywood considers a "happy ending."

"The Fallen Idol"

A British importation, this film is a sleek and urbane thriller which has in it all those things for which British pictures have been generally respected and renowned. It tells a fabricated story of a foreign ambassador's little son who finds himself suddenly confronted with a frightening problem in a lonely embassy—the lad thinks his cherished ideal, the butler, has committed murder and is in peril of being caught. Tenderness toward the haunting friendship between the youngster and the much distracted man is beautifully interlaced with terror and excitement in explosive incidents.

Bobby Henrey, a tow-head, never before in films, gives as fine a performance of a child as can be imagined. Along with him, Ralph Richardson plays the butler disarmingly, and Michele Morgan, Sam Dresdel, Dora Bryan and Dennis O'Dea are excellent in a finely balanced cast.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

VENTURA, Calif.—Harry Wilton Field, 35, took his two children

along with him as he drove a trailer load of trash to the city dump. In the rear-view mirror, he saw that the trash was afire. He stepped on the gas to beat the fire to the dump. Rounding a curve, the car door flew open and Field fell out. The driverless auto with the children aboard sped down the highway. Then the car turned itself around in the road and headed toward Field, ran him down and knocked him to the pavement. Then the car stalled. Fred was treated for cuts on the head—the children were unhurt.

Don't Let Death Take Your Holiday

The wreath is a traditional symbol of Christmas. In windows and on front doors of homes all over America, the bright red and green of holly will signify the joyous festivities of the holiday season.

For Christmastime should be a time of happiness. Every family looks forward to the joy and celebration that the holiday period should bring. But every year thousands of families in our country see Christmas joy turned into suffering and tragedy because of needless and preventable accidents.

The National Safety Council points out that hundreds of persons are killed and thousands more injured by accidents during the Christmas-New Year's holiday season—the year's peak accident period. The No. 1 killer is traffic, and its death toll on Christmas Day is two or three times the annual daily average.

To keep death from taking your holiday—or the holiday of your loved ones—is a simple thing. It costs nothing, takes no time and requires only a little effort. It only means being aware of the extra holiday hazards and of the extra caution, common sense and courtesy needed to overcome them.

Refuse to drink if you are driving. Wait for the light to change. Yield the right-of-way. Discard a string of Christmas tree lights with worn insulation. Throw away gift wrappings as soon as presents are opened.

These are little things—but they pay off big in holiday happiness. These little extras go a long way toward keeping the lights on in your home and the red and green holly wreath on your door.

They will preserve for you and your loved ones the joy and delight that is America at Christmas.

Religion As a Part of Life

Every once in a while we pick up a newspaper to read that some solemn orator had declared that if the American way of life is to be preserved, religion must be a part of the life of every American.

Nobody that we know of disputes the statement. It is often made, however, by those who mean that their form of religion must be a part of the life of every American.

This is, of course, nonsense. While we yield to no one in the importance that we attach to a religious life, we insist religiously upon the right of every American to exercise his freedom in regard to religion as in regard to everything else.

A generalized statement that religion must be in the life of our people means what the speaker happens to think it means at the time. Usually, the utterance is connected with some particular ecclesiastical organization or quoted for some political, economic or social purpose. Where is it used to emphasize basic right of individuals to worship as they please?

We are not sure but we suspect that there are boys and girls in Manassas who are very much interested in what Santa Claus thinks.

Military Power Will Restrain Russia

The only way to keep Russia from deliberate military aggression in the immediate future, according to Lieut. General Walter Bedell Smith, who served three years as Ambassador at Moscow, is an unwavering and positive application of the program of the Atlantic powers.

The New York Times, which has been printing excerpts from the book of the former Ambassador, says that General Smith "comes to the bleak conclusion that the present Soviet regime is the prisoner of its own dogma by which it must stand or fall and that this dogma—product of Communist ideology and great Russian ambitions—calls for world-wide revolution to establish Communist domination."

The Ambassador believes that Soviet policy is influenced by hostility toward the West, somewhat intensified by the feeling of insecurity of those who live by terror. Consequently, he thinks that Soviet energies are concentrated on making Russia as strong as possible and prospective opponents as weak as possible.

The General is of the opinion that the Atlantic powers, if they create a counterforce able to balance Russian might and make aggression too risky to be tried, might find that the Russians are interested in getting along with the rest of the world.

Chinese Situation Up-to-Date

Uncensored dispatches from Korea, sent by correspondents who recently left China, report increasingly heavy bombing of Chinese seaports from which the Communists are expected to launch invasions of the last island strongholds of the fading Nationalists.

The Chinese Reds meanwhile are moving offensively toward Chungking in an effort to push the Nationalist Government from one of its few remaining strongholds.

A dispatch from that temporary capital of the Nationalists, tells of the arrival of Senator William F. Knowland, of California, who, with Major-General Claire Chennault, conferred with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. Both of these Americans advocate assistance to the general.

VIEWS AND REVIEWS

What They Say Whether Right or Wrong

Alvin C. Eurich, educator:

"Colleges have hardly touched the field of training for Government service."

Omar N. Bradley, chairman, U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff:

"We have proved in the past our readiness to defend liberty."

Charles E. Wilson, industrialist:

"No company and no industry in the American economy is yet big enough to bring enough goods to enough people."

Marriner S. Eccles, member Board of Governors, Federal Reserve System:

"The outlook at the present time is for an expanding economic activity with high employment."

Daniel Auster, Mayor of Jerusalem:

"There is no force in the world that can impose foreign rule on our capital."

James F. Byrnes, former Secretary of State:

"Loyalty to country must be placed above loyalty to a political party."

Earl Wilson, newspaper columnist:

"I hope no teachers are stifling 'Twelfth Night' down the brains of their students."

James F. Folsom, Governor of Alabama:

"The Republicans don't have any roads, schools, hospitals, bridges or politics to give out and neither do the Dixiecrats."

Edward L. Bortz, past president,

American Medical Association:

"Actually, the life span today is no longer than in the days of Christ."

Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese leader:

"We are now concentrating our troops so that the battle for the southwest can be sustained."

Nellie Ross, former Governor of Wyoming:

"I don't know of any woman whose background and experience and knowledge of national and international affairs prepare her to take over the office of President."

Sidney J. French, dean Colgate University:

"The smaller colleges have in the past trained considerably more than their share of the nation's leading scientists."

S. Paul Johnson, aeronautic expert:

"Intercontinental guided missiles with atomic or high explosive warheads are certainly under intensive study and development by every major power in the world."

W. Burton Martin, Presbyterian missionary:

"Being Christians means we are partners with God."

Personality of The Week

E. D. Gothwaite, County Real Estate Man, Former Chemist

Although E. D. Gothwaite, of the real estate business which bears his name, was trained as a chemical engineer, most people of Prince William County do not know him as such.

Born in 1895, at Port Hope, Ont., Canada, Mr. Gothwaite received his early education and was graduated from high school at Nutley, N. J., a suburb of New York City.

Passing his entrance examination for the Stevens Institute in New Jersey, Mr. Gothwaite, instead of going to that school, transferred his credits and attended Armour Institute of Technology, now the Illinois Institute of Technology, at Chicago. He was graduated from that Institute in 1915 with a degree in chemical engineering.

Enlisted in Army

After a couple of years in various chemical laboratories, the real estate man enlisted in the Army in 1917 as an engineer, and was honorably discharged in 1919.

Going back to chemical work after the war, Mr. Gothwaite began travels connected with his work which would take him to many parts of the world. It was in 1919, that his interest in vegetable oil chemistry resulted in his being sent to South America several times by his employers to investigate various phases of vegetable oil products.

Traveled to Philippines

In 1922, Mr. Gothwaite was in the Philippines as technical advisor to the Philippine government on coconut oil products. He remained there for three years.

After a trip home to the United States, he again traveled half-way around the world to Singapore, where he was in charge of designing and constructing oil mills throughout the Far East.

Returning to the States in 1932, Mr. Gothwaite opened a contracting business in Washington, D. C., which he later moved to Manassas, and in 1940, he moved to his present home at Centreville.

Married Arlington Girl

Marrying Miss Helen Pepper, of Arlington, in 1920, Mr. and Mrs. Gothwaite will soon be celebrating their thirtieth anniversary.

Both Mr. Gothwaite and his wife are active in civic affairs. Mr. Gothwaite is outgoing president of the County Chamber of Commerce and was elected recently president of the Kiwanis Club of Manassas. Mrs. Gothwaite is presently engaged in working on the Christmas parade and celebration which will take place here December 16.

The Readers' Forum

Dear Mr. Editor:
Here is my Christmas message of 1949:

Prophetically returns, another time, the mysterious "Star Over Bethlehem," rubbing the gloomy darkness of the night in a worldly manner to all humanity.

The time has come to forget and forgive and put aside all else of greatness and, best of all, to remember the birth of Christ and maintain same with all the intensity of its great splendor.

Again we gather around the beautiful Christmas tree, decorated and lighted. The gathering of the folks both young and old is on in the expectation of the coming of Old

E. D. Gothwaite

Mrs. Gothwaite, who also has traveled a great deal with her husband, is known largely by friends by the nickname, "Pep."

Fond of His Work

In commenting on his work, Mr. Gothwaite says that he gets a great deal of pleasure out of it. His primary interest is aiding in the orderly development of this County, not only as regards to necessary housing, but also by increasing general opportunities for citizens of Prince William County by increasing local employment. And this largely accounts for his interest in developing the industrial and commercial possibilities of the area.

"I expect to spend many more interesting years here and hope to be able to continue to associate myself with those who are of like mind in the proper development of our community," Mr. Gothwaite declares.

Nick or Santa Claus. Their wide-open eyes, cheer in their hearts, as the sweet memory of its infancy of not too long ago is recalled.

Christmas has returned, to the end that in order the desolated men will be highly illuminated by the shining Star of Bethlehem, which may descend upon them, melodies of the angels singing—"Peace on Earth and Good Will to Men."

Listen to the voice of wisdom: the Redeemer who beckons to you and calls: "Come to Me if you are oppressed and forsaken, I will comfort and console you." Humility arises, glorified from the love of His writings and sacrifices. So let's have a beautiful Christmas in Christ, Our Lord.

Sincerely yours,

JOHN SCIUTTO.

"Sell your hammer and buy a horn," would be a very good slogan for our town, especially in view of the fact when you hear so much "knocking" done by citizens.

Our town isn't always deserving of the hard knocks it gets. There is that old saying, "We usually find

We know the fellow who carries a chip on his shoulder is going to get it knocked off in no gentle manner, while the friendly person gets the smiles instead of the jolts.

The more annoyed we are, the more annoyed we get, but one of the best ways to get our town on the map is to "root" for it, and put all these petty grievances and matters which we think are unjust in the background.

Washington Notes

STATE BONUSES

Eighteen states have approved bonuses to veterans of World War I totaling $2,500,000,000 for 7,515 men and women who served with the armed forces. So far, states have paid out almost $1,000,000 to some 5,000 ex-GIs.

U. S. POPULATION

The population of the United States was 149,947,000 on October 1st, according to the Census Bureau, which estimates that it passed the 150,000,000 mark at that time. That figure, which includes 487,000 in the armed forces overseas, represented a 24,000,000 increase during September and a nearly 1,000,000 for the first months of 1949.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

The Postoffice Department is reminding the senders of Christmas cards that a two-cent stamp must be needed this year to mail Christmas greeting in an unsealed envelope. Formerly, such a card could be mailed for one and a half cents, but under the new which took effect on January 1, higher rates applies.

From where I sit... by Joe Marshall

Now Hospitals Are "Banks," Too!

Doc Simpson was saying, "Hospitals are building up 'bone banks' that work just like blood banks. When bone is needed, the surgeon takes one from a refrigerator, cuts it to the right shape and simply splices it in."

"You doctors are sure making progress," I says, "but tell me, are any of the patients fussy about whose bone they're getting?"

"No sir," replies Doc. "No more than they worry about whose blood they get. No one yet asked for a bone from a man who went to the same school or church he did."

From where I sit, it would be a better world if we were half as willing to accept other people's ideas and tastes, as we seem to be willing to accept their bone and blood. There'll always be differences. Some like buttermilk, others would rather have a sparkling glass of temperate beer. But underneath we're pretty much the same—deserving each other's respect and tolerance!

SOIL-CEMENT—today's biggest value for light-traffic streets

SOIL-CEMENT makes taxpayers' dollars go farther because about 90 per cent of the required material is usually native soil on the site. It's easy to transform high-maintenance cost streets into strong, long-lasting pavement good for years of all-weather service with soil-cement. Soil-cement's superior value and durability for light-traffic streets is thoroughly established. Thousands of miles of soil-cement paving are now in service in the United States.

District in the aggregate principal amount of $110,000 to raise the funds necessary to finance the construction of a sewerage system in and for said Sanitary District, pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 126 of the Acts of 1946 of Virginia, such sewerage system to be a specific undertaking from which said
Sanitary District may derive revenue?

The provisions of Section 1 of said Chapter 126 of the Acts of 1946 of Virginia limiting the amount of bonds of said Sanitary District to eighteen per centum of the assessed value of all real estate in said Sanitary District subject to local taxation, shall not apply to the issuance of said bonds but,
from and after a period to be determined by said Board of Supervisors, not exceeding five years from the date of said election, whenever and for so long as such undertaking fails to produce sufficient revenue to pay for the cost of operation and administration called the Greenwood Club, met at the home of Mrs. Ina Gough in Nokesville, last Thursday. As the president, Mrs. Allen Schaeffer had already been elected, the remaining officers were elected as follows:

Mrs. Susie Dennis, vice-pres., and
Mrs. Catherine Hopkins, sec-treas.
Other leaders for the year were also elected. After the business meeting, members enjoyed games and singing, and exchanged Christmas gifts. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

The Presbyterian Sunday school council met on Monday evening.
A film, "We Crusade for Christ," was shown. It showed methods for improvement of the Sunday school.

A Christmas film, "The Shep-

Weekly Social Security News

What does a person have to do to come under the social security system?
ANSWER: He must work in a job that comes under the law; that is, in a factory, mill, shop, mine, store, filling station, cafe, hotel, theatre, laundry, or some other business or industry, and he must get a social security account number card to make certain that his wages are properly credited.
After the worker obtains an account number, the Social Security Administration sets up an individual account for him.
Every time his employer reports a certain amount of wage earnings for him are credited to the worker's social security account.
Later on when the time comes for the payment of benefits, this account will be used as the basis upon which the insurance payments are calculated.
For further information, write the nearest office of the Social Security Administration located at 619 First Street in Alexandria, or see the social security representative when he is in Manassas, the third Thursday of each month at 9:30 a.m. in the courthouse.

SOME STUFF! GAS RANGE!

The NEW AUTOMATIC GAS RANGE!

Around the holidays—with big meals to prepare for family or guests—you'll appreciate a new automatic gas range more than ever! You'll appreciate the convenience of putting the dinner into the oven, setting the clock controls, and forgetting about the whole thing until serving time. You'll appreciate having so much more time to spend with your guests, too! Yes, the new gas ranges are really "some stuff!"

SOME STUFFING!

—FOR THE HOLIDAY BIRD

Here's an inside story on a wonderful holiday meal—some delightful variations that provide delicious ways to "give your family the bird!"

STANDARD DRESSING
(For a 12 to 16 pound Bird)
1 1/2 pound loaf bread, stale
1/2 to 1 pound butter
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon white pepper
1/4 cup minced onion

METHOD
1. Remove crusts. Cut bread into 1-inch cubes and drop into a large mixing bowl.
2. Cut butter into dice, about 3/4-inch.
3. Toss all ingredients together using 2 forks or hands.
*Use 1 cup bread per 1 pound fowl.
*You may substitute 1 cup rich chicken or turkey stock for 1/2 pound butter.

CHESTNUT DRESSING
Add 1 pound of chestnuts to the Standard Recipe.
To prepare: Place chestnuts in cold water to cover. Bring to a boil and boil gently for 5 minutes. Drain. Peel and skin. If the meats are not tender enough, drop in simmering, salted water and simmer until tender.

SAUSAGE DRESSING
Break 1/2 to 1 pound sausage into small chunks and brown lightly. Add to the Standard Recipe.

ONION DRESSING
To the Standard Recipe, add 2 or 3 cups chopped onion cooked in 4 cups boiling, salted water. Drain thoroughly before adding to other ingredients.

OYSTER DRESSING
Add 1 pint or more oysters to the Standard Recipe. These may be chopped, left whole, added raw or pre-heated in 2 tablespoons of the butter.

NEWS HOLLYWOOD

Errol Flynn's newest flame is an Italian princess, for whom he is said to be anxious for a good film role in "K.M." scheduled as his next picture.

While all of Hollywood was agreed that the public wouldn't go for war pictures, some of the best films of the year deal with this subject. They include "My Foolish Heart," "The Hasty Heart," and "Three Came Home." Also there's "Battle Ground" and "Twelve O'Clock High," which have war backgrounds.

Edith Head, who designs clothes for such stars as Betty Hutton, Diana Lynn, Marie Wilson, Barbara Stanwyck, Hedy Lamarr, Betty Davis and Susan Hayward, averages two dress creations every working day. She has designed 603 dresses, gowns, coats and costumes.

In "My Blue Heaven," Betty Grable and Dan Dailey will be kneed in babies and head over heels in love. Childless, they make arrangements to adopt two infants. Then Betty discovers she'll have up to October 1st of this year. In the meantime, she finds time to design and make her own clothes.

Micheline Puelle and Cecile Aubrey are to be co-starred in "Riviera Story," which Bill Periberg plans to make in Technicolor on the French Riviera next summer. He would love to get Danny Kaye for the picture, too.

Walter Huston will work for his son, John, when he does a role in "Reminiscences of a Cowboy," which is being adapted from the novel by Frank Harris. Huston is also set to play Peter in "Quo Vadis."

Since her success in "Mrs. Mike," Evelyn Keyes wants the lead in "Craig's Wife," and her boss, Henry Cohn, is likely to give it to her.

Joan Leslie has announced that she wants four children. She says: "One wouldn't be enough, two would fight, three would be confusing, but four would be just right." All she needs now is the husband, which she hasn't found, as yet.

In "My Blue Heaven," Betty Grable and Dan Dailey will be kneed in babies and head over heels in love. Childless, they make arrangements to adopt two infants. Then Betty discovers she'll have her own. Since the other two have been signed for, all three arrive at the same time.

While Cathy O'Donnell is in London, doing "Mrs. Miniver," she gets special food sent over from Zurich, Switzerland. It's cheaper to send it from Switzerland than from the United States.

Janet Blair has signed for the Mary Martin role in the road company of "South Pacific," which opens its tour here in April, then goes east to Chicago.

Patricia Casino, Rita Hayworth's stepmother, who is, by the way, two years younger than Rita, is beginning what she hopes will be a new and brilliant career in pictures. She's to have a role in "Here Lies Love," with Claudette Colbert, which should get her off to a flying start.

GOODWILL GREETINGS

SANTA ANA, Calif.—When local shoppers return to their parked cars and find a ticket on them they are delighted. The tickets, instead of being notices to appear in traffic court, actually are Christmas greeting cards, placed there by local traffic officers.

Advice: Anyone who is lavish with the compliments will get along in this life. People absorb flattery like kittens lap up cream.

A Christmas Present we ordered 3½ years ago!

Excuse our blushes, but our pride is showing. It's a grand and glorious feeling to be headed for the cheery Christmas season with not 1 but 101 bright and shining presents for the Southland.

We're talking, of course, about our 101 new streamlined coaches, all-room Pullmans, diners and lounge cars. They've been going into service almost daily since the first one reached Southern Railway tracks last July.

Nearly all of these cars—ordered more than three years ago—will be in our trains by Christmas. Expensive? The price tag reads $11½ million! But we enjoy playing this kind of Santa Claus for the Southland we serve.
