Drama Grips Evangelist's Tent Meeting

By W. M. Hines, Sr.
I watched an evangelist battle with the Devil Sunday night and saw the preacher lose! But after listening to him for two hours I am still willing to bet on the evangelist. His defeat, I am sure, is only temporary.

I had gone to hear the Rev. Homer Peterson, of Norfolk, a Pentecostal evangelist of the Full Gospel Church over at Annandale school grounds. I went at the suggestion of the Rev. A. H. Salter, who lives at the Gothaite Apartments in Manassas and who is pastor of the Annandale Full Gospel Church. Mr. Salter, himself a powerful preacher, had been describing to me the ministry of Evangelist Peterson. The preacher, he said, just closed a revival in New Jersey and had been scheduled to come to Manassas. There was a conflict in arrangements, however, that resulted in his setting up his big tent on the school grounds at Annandale where he will be conducting revival services for folk from miles around during the next week and a half.

No Holds Barred
But back to the dramatic story of the evangelist's tussle with the Devil. It was real and as in the wrestling matches of television, there were no holds barred. All through the evening the odds were on Evangelist Peterson and the audience was with him from the beginning—Save only a 22-year-old girl and the Devil—and except for the final round the girl was with the evangelist, too.

The sun was hardly setting in the West when the services were opened by Mr. Salter. The crowd had come on foot and in automobiles of all makes and descriptions. Most of the cars were fine, sleek, 1950 models that indicated an economic stability on the level of any church congregations. By eight o'clock half the tent's thousand seats were filled. An orchestra and an excellent song leader were helping everyone enjoy old-fashioned hymns. During one of the hymns a woman and her daughter walked through the open side of the tent and took seats about two rows in front of me.

She Walked Out Twice
There was nothing unusual in her appearance or demeanor. Soon they both sang and prayed with the rest and, except for what transpired at the end of the service, I might never have recalled either of them. But afterward I remembered that twice during the services the girl got up and walked out of the tent and then came back. I realized afterward that she was nervous, but the woman with her, motherly, and I should say about fifty, sat there with all the confidence and assurance of one who had found an almost indescribable peace through religious faith.

I watched the four men on the platform, wondering the while which might be the evangelist. The Rev. Salter was the only one I recognized. But, when after the voluntary testimonials had been given by persons who had attended previous meetings, and the Rev. Mr. Peterson advanced to the lectern I recognized, as the congregation did, that here was a dynamic individual who had a message that he believed so thoroughly he could impart it to the others without the slightest difficulty. And so it proved, except for the 22-year-old girl.

Seems Bigger Than He Is
Up there on the rostrum Evangelist Peterson appears big and powerful—the kind of man who has the physical strength to fight the Devil or anything else. But he is in fact a rather short man. His voice booms and is all the more powerful through the microphone which he grasps. The Mike sways on its

Photograph of Virginia Family Reproduced By New Process of Engraving on Plastic

The above photograph will be interesting to Journal readers for two reasons. First, it shows Lester Vernon Peterson, communications electrician of the United States Navy, greeting his wife, the former Jane Marshall of Manassas, and their daughter upon the arrival of Mrs. Marshall and little Carol Ann at Pearl Harbor. Mrs. Marshall is the daughter of Thomas Marshall of 466 Lee Avenue. The other interesting fact is that the picture is the result of a new engraving process which has been developed for the economy over zinc engravings which were formerly used. The saving is 20 percent and we believe the result to be as satisfactory, if not more so, than zinc. The above photograph was reproduced on a plastic plate slightly less than 1-36 of an inch thick, yet it is sturdy enough to stand 200,000 press impressions.

Betty Jo Armstrong Weds William H. Lee

White lilies and white gladioli together with ferns and cathedral candles formed a garden setting in the Bridgewater Methodist Church on Saturday, June 24, at 4 p. m. for the marriage of Miss Betty Jo Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Wayne Armstrong of Mt. Crawford, to William Herman Lee, son of Mr. Travis R. Lee and the late Mrs. Lee of Richmond.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Herbert E. Hudgins of Grace Methodist Church, Manassas, assisted by Rev. G. W. Bates, Jr. of Bridgewater Methodist church, and was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white rayon tulle gown made with an off-the-shoulder neckline, trimmed with point d'est pert, long sleeves, and a bouffant skirt ending in a long circular train. Her finger tip veil of tulle was attached to a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white calla lilies.

Mrs. Dwight Jordan, of Bridge water, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Mazelle Robertson of Axton, Va. was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Warren Spitzer of Harrisonburg, Va., sister of the bride, Mrs. Ernest Whitte of Burkeville, Va., Mrs. Paul Wisman of Edenburg, Va., Miss Mildred Ritchie of Dinwiddie, Va., and Sue Massey Hook of Manassas, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

The bridesmaids were attired alike in ankle length gowns of white organdy over yellow, lavender, and green taffeta, and carried arm bouquets of white shasta daisies and wore headresses of matching flowers.

James S. Lee of Richmond, brother of the groom, was best man and the ushers were Wayne Armstrong, brother of the bride, G. Wallace Hook, of Manassas, Russell Owens of Buckroe Beach, and Clyde Harding of Richmond.

The bride's mother wore a gown of aqua sheer crepe with black accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

Candles, white flowers and evergreen decorated the table at the reception and the three tier wedding cake was cut by Mrs. Thomas Miller, of Broadway, Va., sister of the bride. Mrs. Miller was assisted by Mrs. Allen K. Phillips of Staunton and Mrs. G. Wallace Hook presided at the punch bowl, assisted by Mrs. Carl Bowman of Staunton.

After a southern wedding trip, the couple will make their home at the Gothaite Apartments in Manassas. For the trip the bride was dressed in a white palm beach suit with white accessories and wore

U. Lacey Compton says that the dam built several years ago below the city dump in northern Manassas is possibly the cause of an early prevalence of mosquitoes, noticed by residents of that end of town. Compton has asked the Town Council to investigate the pool of stagnant water behind the dam, and also any other standing water around Manassas which might provide breeding grounds for insects. Council members could not remember any mosquito control measures ever having been practiced at the dump.

Birmingham Dairy, Inc., was voted a reduction in water rates by Town Council last Tuesday. The dairy had threatened to drill its own well after water rates were increased for out-of-town consumers last month. Using 1,500,000 gallons during the quarter just ended, the dairy was billed $450, while the bill for the same quantity during the corresponding quarter of last year was $313. Under the special rate he bill for last quarter will be $375; his amount is determined by figuring the same rate now charged own consumers plus 20 per cent.

Guest Editorial

By Pat McNair

Are there ten young fellows in Prince William County who will call me on the telephone and talk about the National Guard unit that is being formed in Manassas? My telephone number is 481-W-2.

That question is a challenge to every fellow in the county whose age is within eight years of mine, either way. And I am 26.

Fifteen of us young fellows who see a future in the National Guard unit in Manassas, who believe in our country and who believe most firmly in protecting and preserving the kind of government we live under have joined a cadre which will be the basis for a full strength National Guard company later on. The fifteen of us want ten more to go along with us right now so that we can get recognition from the Federal Government.

Why do we want recognition? Because recognition means that the government will spend a lot of money in paying us for belonging to the National Guard. It will build a barracks and a guard room in Manassas and purchase a lot of supplies from the local merchants. It will help business for one thing.

But more than helping business it will help those of us who belong to the guard. If we stick with the guard and attend drill once each week and go to National Guard camp for two weeks each year at the end of our tour of service we will be eligible for retirement rights. That is the money side of it. But there are a lot more things besides money to be considered.

For instance we will be better physically for the training we have. We will be better citizens and we can help other people to be better citizens, too. There isn't any reason why citizens are not better than why any young man should not be in the National Guard today. It has more to offer us than we can offer it. I believe if a lot of parents understood how much the Guard means to a community they would urge their boys to join up. We have experienced officers. And that is important.

I am sure if I could talk face to face with a group of young men and their parents not one fellow would hold back any longer. What we need right now is ten more like the fifteen who have already signed up.

Will ten of you give me a telephone call and let me tell you just how I see what the Guard has to offer?

I am sold on the National Guard and I want you to be, too.

WOMAN'S CLUB

Some 50 or more members of the Manassas Woman's Club and their guests met in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cooksey on Monday evening for their annual garden party and regular June meeting. The weather was perfect and the garden a place of real beauty and natural charm. The party was one of those informal good-time parties for which the meetings of the Woman's Club are becoming noted, and which are largely responsible for the rapid growth of the Club and the increased attendance in recent months.

Group singing, games, stunts, and home movies of recent events in and around Manassas were presented by the recreation committee under the leadership of Mrs. Leona Barlow.

Soft recorded music added a note of harmony and beauty to the perfect setting among hot-bordered paths where lovely groups of blooming flowers, lilies, roses, daisies, and other summer flowers, gave color and life to the party.

Delicious refreshments were served from the tea table which had as a centerpiece an arrangement of gorgeous yellow marmalade roses, grown and arranged by Mrs. Cooksey.

Hostesses were Mrs. E. H. Marsteller, Mrs. Clyde Nelson, Mrs. C. C. Lynn, Mrs. Eula Holt Merchant, Mrs. Margaret Lewis, and Mrs. William L. Lloyd.

During the brief business session a sum of $10 was voted to the Manassas Recreation Association for its program.

The following new members were presented and voted into full membership: Mrs. Elaine Hartley Levine, Mrs. J. M. Young, Mrs. Nellie Purvis, Mrs. Helen Gehnoe, Mrs. Cordelia T. Presnikoff, Mrs. Clara Cooper, and Mrs. William Barbee.

The next regular meeting of the Club will be held in September. However, committees will be actively at work planning an extensive program of Club activities for the fall and winter months.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPERS

Mrs. Robert A. Hutchinson and her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth White, were guests to the Bethlehem Good Housekeepers Club at their home on Richmond Ave. June 21st. Mrs. D. J. Martin called the meeting to order and Mrs. Clarke Wood led in prayer. Mrs. R. C. Powell read the minutes of the last meeting and Mrs. C. B. Compton, acting treasurer, called the roll. Mrs. John Cox passed around membership blanks for the Recreation Association. The members signed and paid or pledged a fee of $1.00.

The president, presented Mrs. Robert M. Bailey of Kinsale, Virginia, a guest. The group was invited to the dining room where the table was beautifully appointed. June 21st being the birthday of Mrs. C. R. C. Johnson a member of long standing the hostesses chose to honor her. Though Mrs. Johnson was detained at home because of illness the formalities of singing "Happy Birthday" and cutting cake were carried out. The decorations were in Club colors of yellow and white including an artistic arrangement of daisies, the Club flower. Mrs. White poured punch and Mrs. Hutchinson cut the cake, explaining that the three candles were symbolic of gains present and future. Mrs. E. L. Byrd in deference to Mrs. Johnson read a favorite poem, Wordsworth's "Daffodils."

On July 19th, a picnic will be held on the Martin lawn, meeting at ten a. m. For information contact Mrs. C. B. Compton, chairman.

W. S. U. S. NEWS

Also the entertainment committee had a discussion of their plans for a fund-raising entertainment to be held soon.

The hostesses topped off this fine evening of fellowship with very delicious refreshments.

It was decided for the July meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Amelia Johnson with a picnic supper. All members are to bring their families to share in the evening's activities.

Introduced to a dance crowd of about 400 by Fairfax County Sheriff John Taylor, Miss Sours received a wrist watch given by Marx Pharmacy of Centreville, a bouquet from the Bouquet Mart of Manassas, and a complete outfit of clothing from the Surplus Store in Manassas.

Second place winner in the contest which raised an expected $2,000 for the Centreville volunteer fire department, was Miss Jean Fisher, sponsored by George Turberville's Store of Centreville. Third place went to Miss Catherine Knapp, sponsored by King's Service Station.

Work has already begun on the Centreville fire house, and with receipts from the contest now in, it is expected to be completed within two months.

Representative Howard Smith was present early in the evening and was scheduled to crown the winner, but he was suddenly taken ill and forced to leave.

Centreville firemen were well pleased with the contest and gave a round of applause to Mrs. Thomas Clure who originated the fund-raising idea and served as contest chairman.

pedestal as he talks and walks across the platform. He read a verse from the Bible about Christ casting out the Devil but he quoted it only once. His message was joy and peace, not fire and damnation. For the rest of his sermon he spoke of the joy, peace and jubilation that comes from accepting God. It was obviously not a prepared sermon and his personality seemed to come down from the rostrum as if he had settled himself in the seats beside his listeners.

True, there was some emotional response from his congregation but less of it than I had expected to find at a pentecostal meeting on the traditional "sawdust trail." As he warmed up and spoke fervently he grasped the microphone more firmly and swayed with it like a pendulum.
He unbuttoned his double-breasted coat and I thought he was going to take it off, but all the while he was convincing the crowd that there is more in life in forsaking evil than sticking to it. Finally he reached over to the lectern and looking at his watch said, "The hour is growing late and I shall not keep you longer. Let us pray."

Three Come Down the Trail.
And while he prayed he asked any in the congregation who were willing to renounce the Devil to come in front of the rostrum and kneel with him. Three women—
one wearing a black flowered dress, the 22 year-old girl and the girl's mother came forward. The audience continued in silent prayer.

Evangelist Peterson first knelt with the woman in the black flowered dress. He told her she could go to an adjoining tent with a woman from the audience for silent meditation if she desired. The two women left. Then he turned to the girl and her mother; extending the hand of fellowship while the congregation continued with bowed heads in silent prayer. It was then that the peace and quiet of the tent was rent with a shrill cry of the girl, "I won't—I want"—and she fled from the bright lights into the darkness and through the maze of automobiles and was gone. What she wanted no one heard. Her mother's convulsive sobs had drowned out the words and the mother stood there shaking like an aspen.

It was a difficult moment for Evangelist Peterson. He and the audience prayed that the girl would

Nokesville

The Nokesville delegation to the 24th State F. F. A. Convention June 19-22 composed of three judging team members and two State Farmer applications received high recognition.

The judging team composed of Charles Caion, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Caion, Harry Miller, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Miller, Sr. and Lloyd R. Cowen, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Cowen, Sr., all of Nokesville, won second place in the State Dairy Judging Contest.

The Dairy Judging Contest was one of the main features of the State Rally with the largest number of participants of any of the contests. One hundred and twenty teams with 360 participants competed.

The second award in the dairy contest is an all expense trip to the Atlantic Rural Exposition to represent Virginia Future Farmers of America.

Our boys will compete against dairy teams from several states. Last year teams from Indiana, Virginia, Delaware, and West Virginia competed.

Herbert Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dillon Wood and Jay Garman son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Garman, both of Nokesville, received the State Farmer Degree, the highest award the Virginia Association of Future Farmers can bestow on its members.

●Mrs. J. M. Keys, Jr., of Longview was one of the four prize winners in the recent National Crochet contest. More than 47,000 pieces were entered in the contest.
