remarkable record of getting property onto the Prince William County assessment rolls for taxation purposes has been made by C. E. Gnadl, commissioner of the assessment rolls. More than $200,000 of unassessed buildings have been put on the assessment rolls since January 1949. Prior to that time this property had escaped taxes. Typical is the discovery of a four year old building which had never been assessed or taxed. At the rate of taxation Commissioner Gnadl's work has brought to the county treasury. There is much property that has not been put on the rolls which only the county is disclosing, according to the commissioner of the assessment rolls.

It is a partisan, non-political attempt to inculcate in the youth America's love of God and country.

A new filing system in the office of the commissioner of revenue accounts for every taxpayer in Prince William County. Office employees worked for more than two months to set up the system which cost about $10,000, and is expected to pay for itself in one year. All 600 new taxpayers have been discovered through the files.

Business Firms Prepare for Exposition Opening At Longview Park For Entire Week Display; Entertainment and Exhibits to Attract Crowds

The long awaited second annual exposition showing the products of industry available to Prince William County residents will open under the auspices of the American Legion next Monday at Long View Park Speedway and will continue until the following Saturday night.

Over the coming weekend more than 39 business firms will be putting their attractive exhibits in place ready for the grand opening of the exposition. These exhibits will cover displays ranging from farm implements and automobiles to household appliances, furniture and services, all designed to make farm and town life more attractive.

In addition to the merchants' exhibits the American Legion committee has laid out an attractive program of entertainment for both young and old. There will be games, rides for the children and the elders too, and other attractions that go with the carnival spirit.

This year's exposition is larger than the previous show and according to the sponsors it could have been expanded greatly, so heavy has been the demand for display booths. Already preparations are being made for an even larger exposition next year.

While most of the exhibits are devoted to merchandising of one kind or another, three booths have been set aside for non-commercial groups. One is for the Prince William Council of Churches, another for the highly community-minded Yorkville Civic Group and the third for the United States Army Recruiting Service. Early in the plans the Manassas Journal reserved a booth to show the press operations but when the increase of business activity at the exposition made it impossible to spare either machinery or personnel for an exhibit, the space was turned over to another business firm. The press will be running at the exposition for any who desire to see them in operation.

By turning to the advertising columns of this issue of the Journal the reader will get information of the type of exhibits which leading merchants of Manassas and nearby communities intend to present for the interest of the expositors visitors. In this group will be found Prince William Electric Cooperative, Wilson Motor Company of Catlett, Brown and Hoot, Inc. of Nokesville, George Turville of the popular service station and appliance dealer of Centerville, McMichael Service Center of Nokesville, Manassas Lumber Company, Manassas Furniture Company, and Birmingham Dairy.

Other regular advertisers led by Cooke's Pharmacy, Wheat Chevrolet, Prince William Motors, Firestone Store, Hynson Electric and Supply Company, Bouquet Mart, Pence Motors, Cio Motors, Agency for angle, the Mercury Agency for Prince William County, R. J. Wayland, for International Harvester, and Gibson Farm Supply, all will be represented at the exhibit.

Brown and Hoot, Inc. is arranging a special display which features paneling, insulation and Kurfel painting. Insulation and Kurfel painting for which this firm is the Manassas representative. Ralph Hesse, the manager, and Maury Wells will be on hand to meet and offer assistance to the visitors problems. Trash Dumps For 2 Districts Are Discussed

Groups of citizens interested in the locations of proposed trash dumps in Brentsville and Manassas magisterial districts, primarily, but in the county generally outside of Occoquan district which has an established dump, met with the Supervisors Thursday afternoon.

In the morning the Board decided to call upon the county health officer to advise on locations of the proposed dumps. In addition to the sanitary problem involved the supervisors were also concerned with the cost of providing ingress and egress to whatever sites are selected.

Two sites tentatively agreed upon are half mile off the state road and approaches will have to be built. The Board also is considering the cost of caretakers.

The supervisors had a heavy docket schedule for its Thursday meeting and were still in session at the time of going to press. An adjourned meeting seemed likely.

Grains Are Mostly in; Hay Cut

Harvesting wheat and other small grains, cutting hay and putting it in the barns made speedy headway throughout Prince William County during the past week under excellent weather conditions. While hot weather and lack of rain dried out the ground for other growing crops and lowered the water pools for cattle, farmers generally were pleased with the pre-fourth of July week for harvesting. Practically every farmer with a combine had all the work he could do for neighbors for miles around.

Corn is coming up right smart but dark hordes of beetles hung over the county and made many a farmer worry about the prospects at picking time. It is too early, farmers say, to spray but small airplanes used in this work were already out scouting for prospects.

Column For Teen-Agers Only

A bright lad named Donald Montgomery, aged 13, walked into The Journal office the other day, looking for a job. He looked like material for a printer's devil so we let him stick around. Since then he has been like the current crop of files, you can't shoo him away. Most of the time we find him hovering over the typewriter or calling up other youngsters on the telephone. Just before press time he came up with the following items which he promptly labeled "Column for Teen-Agers Only." He insists that it be used. How can one resist a persistent 13 year old boy? Donald is smart. Next year he will go to Osborn High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oral Montgomery who live on the Centerville road. His father is a Tech Sergeant at the Marine Corps Schools at Quantico. So here goes, "Column for Teen-Agers Only."

The Girl Scouts planned their annual picnic for June 29. Unfortunately it rained so they had a picnic lunch at the American Legion Hall. I haven't found out where the picnic would have been had it not rained. After lunch the girls played games and had a beauty contest. I couldn't find out if there was a decision but those attending were Ann Carroll, Nancy Blake, Patsy O'Bannon, Carolyn Laws, Janet Miller, Joyce Earheart and Phyllis Richardson. In addition to Shirley Saylor and Betty Jenkins who arranged the picnic.

The playground at Osborn High school will be open every day except Saturday and Sunday. The time for games is between 9 o'clock and 11:30 in the morning and 1 o'clock and 3:30 in the afternoon.

A group of Teen-Agers went to Massanutta Springs from June 26 to July 2. They had a wonderful time. They had vocal training, piano and instrument lessons and entertainment of all sorts like folk dancing, moving pictures and recitals.

Among the activities provided were swimming, baseball, tennis, volleyball and croquet. Those from Manassas who were there were Ann Lewis, Mary Sue Carter, Faye C. Wood, Jean Childs, Woods, George Helms, Peggy Hawkins, Gloria Wayland, Linda Hardesty and Lois Guy.

The Rural Electrification Act requires that REA loans be repaid over a maximum 35-year period and carry 2 per cent interest. The cooperative received approval of its new $462,000 loan only after REA had completed a thorough study of the application. This study indicated that the cooperative will be able to construct the 165 miles of new lines for 660 rural families and have ample reserve from consumers' power bills to meet operating expenses and repay, with interest, all money borrowed from REA for its rural power facilities, Mr. Van Doren said. Rates charged consumers by the cooperative are based on the actual cost of service.

Since Prince William Electric Cooperative was organized in 1947 the cooperative has met all payments on schedule and has paid REA a total of $126,843.48 in principal.

In addition, we recognize our obligation to provide service which is adequate to our expanding needs. We have rebuilt our living arrangements and our farm production around electricity, and it must be provided continuously and in ample amounts.

The prospect of 660 rural families for getting electric service were advanced greatly with approval of a new REA loan of $462,000 to the Prince William Electric Cooperative of Manassas, Francis S. Van Doren, president of the Board of Directors announced Wednesday. The loan will provide funds to finance the construction of 165 miles of line to serve the hundreds of waiting families.

The additional lines will be constructed in Prince William, Fairfax, Stafford and Fauquier Counties. Funds are also included for utilization and miscellaneous equipment, system improvement and the installation of a short wave two-way radio communication system to be used in the operations, giving better and more continuous contact between headquarters and the construction and service crews of the electrical cooperative.

Construction of the new lines will be pushed as rapidly as materials and labor can be obtained. President Van Doren said.

The Cooperative now has 675 miles of power lines, which bring electric service to 2700 rural consumers. Upon completion of its present building plans the system will be increased to 840 miles of rural lines, serving 3360 consumers.

"It is our purpose to see that rural electrification in our area keeps pace with its advance in other sections of the country," Mr. Van Doren declared. "Congress has indicated its interest in rural electrification by making about two billion dollars available for loans since 1935. This Federal rural electrification program has been a leading factor in raising the Nation's level of electrified farms from 1 out of 10 in 1935 to 7 out of 10 today.

"In addition, we recognize our obligation to provide service which is adequate to our expanding needs. We have rebuilt our living arrangements and our farm production around electricity, and it must be provided continuously and in ample amounts."

Price of Milk Controversy

The subject of the price of milk sales. This dairy and others man-paid the farmer is always uppermost to Prince William County. It is also a subject of extensive controversy. Malcolm Lamborne, Jr., a featured writer of the Washington Evening Star, dealt with the price of milk to the dairies, the farmer and the consumer in a comprehensive article published July 5. It is reprinted below with credit to the Evening Star and for those readers of The Journal who had not previously seen it. Mr. Lamborne's article follows:

Who gets how much of the price of a quart of milk sold in Washington?

"That question is being asked these days by many customers. The answer varies with the group you happen to put the question to. It's complicated, too, by a natural reluctance on the part of distributors to give out figures that would let competitors know too much about their business. The milk business here, as in most metropolitan centers, is a highly competitive one.

"This article will attempt only to approximate how the milk dollar 'pie' is sliced and passed out to claimants. Most of the statistics are based on the experience of the industry in 1949.

●The Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers' Association, which represents farmers supplying about 86 per cent of Washington's milk, estimates that its 1,700 members received 11.7 cents a quart for all milk and dairy products sold here last year. The association places the average home-delivered price in 1949 at 21.8 cents a quart. On the basis of these figures, the dairies' return would be 10.1 cents a quart.

"The dairies, however, insist that since about 75 per cent of all milk sold here is retailed as bottled milk (for which the farmer receives $5.97 a hundred pounds), the return to the farmer should be around 13 cents a quart. Obviously this estimate paves down the dairies' return.

"The Bureau of Agricultural Economics supports the dairies' statistics. This Agriculture Department agency estimates the average retail price of all milk sold here last year at 20.75 cents a quart. This includes store sales of all dairies, both those buying their milk from the producer association and those dealing independently with other farmers.

"The agency places the return to the farmers at 13.34 cents a quart and the return to dairies at 7.41 cents a quart.

"On this question of the dairies' return, Government agencies that have made studies here and in other cities report that Washington dairies have the smallest margin of profit for bottled milk of any distributors in the country. Needless to add, the dairies concur in this finding.

"An official of one local dairy observed recently that his firm could not stay in business if it depended entirely on its retail milk price.

"That doesn't look as though farmers were rolling in wealth," this official commented.

"Meanwhile, the Washington housewife waits momentarily for an announcement from her dairy that the price of milk is going up—probably half a cent a quart—to bring it to 21 cents.

"With an eye on that narrow price return, the dairies explain the increase is necessary because of gains won by the truck drivers following settlement of the milk."

AN IMPRESSIVE
RECORD

★ Although tuberculosis is one of the oldest known diseases, its cause was first conclusively proved when Robert Koch isolated the tubercle bacillus a little over fifty years ago. The success resulting from vigorous public health measures, particularly in the last quarter century, is impressive. At the beginning of the century, tuberculosis led the list of diseases as the most frequent cause of death. Today it has dropped to seventh place. There is no reason why it should not drop completely from the list of important causes of death.

This splendid record has resulted from the combined efforts of many agencies. An enlightened public opinion with respect to the value of the physician's services has contributed immeasurably. Have that long-delayed physical examination today. We are prescription specialists.

Expectant Mothers Must Undergo Tests

According to law passed by the 1950 session of the Virginia General Assembly all expectant mothers are required to take serological tests for syphilis, warns Dr. Walter R. Johnson, health officer. Facilities for making the blood tests are available at the Health Office in Manassas.

Every attending physician is required to take or cause to be taken a blood sample within 15 days after his first examination, and submit the sample to an approved laboratory.

If a midwife attends, the midwife is responsible to see that a blood sample is taken and submitted.

All results of tests are kept confidential, and used for statistical purposes only, according to Doctor Johnson.

Following The Red Sox

The Manassas Red Sox beat the Manassas Macs 3-1 in the Fourth of July game at Gravelly Field to take the second of three scheduled games between the two teams. With the Macs 4-1 Memorial Day win the city championship now will be decided on Labor Day when the teams meet for the third time.

About 800 fans saw the Red Sox push runs across in the second, third, and eighth innings while holding the Macs to a single tally in the fifth.

Carlin Posey opened the second inning for the Red Sox with a single over second base, and went to second on a sacrifice by Shelton and then scored on Eddie Tyson's high pop that fell for a single in short right field.

In the third frame Buddy Merchant slammed a triple off Mac hurrier Stanley Seger that went over the head of left fielder Slusher.

With none out and a man on third, Macs' manager Howard Ackison pulled Seger from the game and sent Russell Polen to the mound.

Polen threw his second pitch to Deavers high and catcher Martin let it pass and Merchant scored with the second Sox run.

In the eighth Merchant again pulled up at first this time on an error by shortstop Saylor and stole second and went to third on a scratch single by Deavers. Dallas Posey then sent a long fly to center field and Merchant raced home with the final Red Sox run.

The Macs lone run came in the fifth when Stuart Vetter singled and scored as Smith tripled to deep center.

Is Our Way to Help You Gain

Independence

Prince William Electric Co-op.

is an organization of like-minded citizens banded together to attain the conveniences which were denied rural Virginia for years.

It has been a fight for FREEDOM!

All fights for freedom are not fought on the battlefields with armed force. There is also the struggle of each person to achieve the individual freedom which democracy gives him the RIGHT TO SEEK. In his efforts there is little of the drama and excitement of a battlefield, but history shows that the battles of a nation for freedom can be won only so long as the individual has achieved enough economic freedom to fight for.

We are proud to have had a small part in the fight for freedom by helping farmers free themselves from these hard masters. Our locally-owned, locally-controlled rural electric system will continue its efforts toward freedom from drudgery, limited only by the freedoms of other businesses and individuals.

months ahead, since she will be teaching the third grade here next year.
 Both the Senior and Junior Women's Clubs are planning to visit the Paul Cookseys at their cottage in Maryland on Wednesday, July 19.

Those in charge would like to have a bus load so there will be room for quite a few. Don't you want to go along?

Tropical fish is becoming a hobby with so many folks these days. If you want to enjoy watching some very beautiful fish and hear all about their habits, visit either the Ernest Splitters or the Wade Wheelers. Personally, we could sit for hours just resting and watching home.

Anna, Mary and Ernest Hooker entertained a large number of their friends at a part on Monday evening.

Congratulations to "Grandma and Granddaddy" Sonafank on the arrival of a little baby to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sonafank in Manassas.

Mr. Nunzio Barbera spent last week with the Ted J. Shephers while finishing up his work here. The Barberas will live at Keyser, West Virginia, where Mr. Barbera will teach in the school there.

Miss Joyce Moyers arrived on Tuesday to make her home with the L. J. Bowman. Miss Moyers is the new librarian at our school. She is from Broadway and is a graduate of Bridgewater College. She is a former roommate of Rosa Lee Behn and Mary Elizabeth Hooker.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Gibson left on Thursday for their new home at Leesburg where Mr. Gibson will be director of education of Loudoun County. The Gibsons made many friends the past few years. They were very active both in their church work at the Presbyterian Church at Greenview and in the church organizations, and in the Junior Women's club and the Ruritan Club. Needless to say we bet they will be coming back to Nokesville quite often.

Mrs. Lella Robbins of Richmond and Mrs. Gladys Keeney and son, Charles, of Atlanta, Georgia, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Judson Herring. Also visiting "great grandmother and grandfather" Herring has been little Jeanne Marie Heflin, tiny daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Heflin of Manassas. Mrs. Heflin is the former Marie Hooe.

Harry Allen Fitzwater, Jr. came home last week from the hospital with his mother. We hear he's already making himself well-known to all his family.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lang have named their little daughter, born at the Physicians Hospital in Warren, Pa. as Ann.

Arthur Collier of Akron, Ohio is spending the summer with his aunt and uncle, the Willard Wilkins. His little sister and brother, Janice and Bobby are visiting their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hensley of Glen Echo, Maryland. Their mother recently had a major operation but is progressing very nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Frederick Roy, Jr., and their new little son spent the baby's "first day away from home" on Sunday when they visited the John Fearnoughs.

Mr. and Mrs. Bascom Williams and little Marilyn spent the weekend with the Carl Millers. Bascom will get his doctor's degree in Agriculture on August 14 and the Williams family will then go to Fargo, N. D. where he will be Assistant Professor of Agriculture at the college there. Also spending the weekend with the Millers were David Welmer and his nephew, James of Washington.

Eloise and Vera Sonafank are attending the Vocational School in Manassas where both are taking up a business course.

Miss Dawn Alry of near Harrisonburg is to arrive this week and "set-up housekeeping" in the Stuart McMichael apartment. Miss Alry is our new band teacher and we are all very anxious to meet her.

Stuart Smith, Charles Croushorn and Roy Whetzel are attending a 4-H Camp at Blacksburg this week. Among those who spent the 4th at Colonial Beach were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fitzwater, Mr. and Mrs. Wil Albrit and Mr. and Mrs. Miller Whetzel.

We had a very enjoyable time on Sunday evening visiting with one of our former schoolmates, the former Olivia Berryman. She and her husband, Mr. Johnson and their daughter, Carolyn, of Arlington are visiting her father, Mr. T. N. Berryman. We hadn't seen Olivia for several years, so we had a grand time visiting.

Miss Anna Hooker is employed as bookkeeper at Nokesville Supply Company this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Cook of Washington, D. C. spent Friday with the Carl Millers.

Mrs. Belle Wampler arrived Monday from Southwest Virginia to visit her children and is now here visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Hooser and family. She along with the Hoosers attended the funeral of Mrs. Mollie Tiller at Pender. Mrs. Tiller died early Friday morning.

Mrs. L. J. Bowman spent Sunday and Monday in Chicago, Illinois and visited the Perry Fitzwaters there. She then came to Greenville, Pennsylvania to visit the Harry Hoffacker family. She will "be glad when I get on the last bus for home." She's had such a wonderful trip and warns us never to say "Well, why did you miss seeing this or that?" for she says she has seen plenty of wonderful places. She is to come home on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cow and family of Shadyside, Pennsylvania spent last week with the Fred T. Shephers.

The All 'Round Tractor

ALL 'ROUND THE FARM
 ALL YEAR 'ROUND

Why buy a tractor that gives you only part-time service? Working time is what counts, and the Ford Tractor does such a variety of jobs that it "works more hours, saves more hours."

Ford Hydraulic Touch Control, Implement Position Control, Triple-Quick Attaching of implements... and the big Dearborn line of implements makes this THE all 'round tractor. By all means, come in and get the facts. You will like our parts and service departments, too.

FORD TRACTORS now coming the assembly lines at the Ford Plant in Dearborn, Michigan. Plant are equipped with the new Proof-Meter, instrument which "takes the work out of tractor operation." Usually five instruments in one, the Proof-Meter shows engine speed, tractor speed, power take-off speed, pulley speed and total hours worked by the tractor. The farmer in the picture is recording hours of tractor operation for use in determining his farming costs. In the lower right hand corner is an enlarged close-up of the Proof-Meter, which Dearborn Motors officials say is the first instrument of its kind to be made available on a farm tractor.

Guest Editorial

By Joseph Mills Hannon
It is strange that although the name of Manassas is known and known only throughout the world on account of its connection with two important military events, the battles of Manassas, or Bull Run, in 1861 and 1862, the town has never until the present time had a military organization of its own. Many communities smaller than Manassas all over the country have long maintained units of the National Guard and found them well worth having. It is high time that Manassas, thirty miles from the National capital, should do likewise.

Whenever the nation becomes involved in war the towns in which formations of the organized militia, or National Guard, exist, immediately become proud of the distinction, if they were not before. They find themselves more alert to the emergency, and better prepared to shoulder their share of its responsibilities, because a nucleus of military organization is in their midst in which the most patriotic and high-spirited young men of the community can immediately volunteer their services and know that they will become effective much sooner than under the operation of the draft.

These young men, selective through their readiness to serve, have the satisfaction of entering a unit of recognized standing, already thoroughly organized and more or less advanced in training, and of doing so, not with strangers, but with friends and neighbors of like mind who share the pride of representing their home community, and the stimulus of feeling the special interest and hopes of that community centered upon them. The pride of corps and branch of service comes later. But every veteran who has entered military service by way of the National Guard knows that the consciousness of representing his own State and "home folks" has a big share in building and maintaining his morale in time of war.

National Guard has established a magnificent record of service to our country. Particularly since the Spanish-American war, in 1898, legislation and Army direction have tended to increase the efficiency and importance of the Guard in the national defense system. In World War I, 17 divisions, or practically one-third of the total in the United States Army, were from the National Guard, and of the 29 combat divisions which fought in France, 11 were of National Guard origin. In World War II there were 20 Guard divisions, and it was fully acknowledged, as in Kahn and McLemore's Fighting Divisions, that at the beginning of the war "the only divisions upon which the War Department could depend for reasonably immediate battle service were the Regular and Guard outfits." Without our Guard divisions we simply would not have been able to conduct our early operations in the Pacific and Mediterranean Theaters.

But to the community in which it exists the advantages of having a National Guard unit are by no means confined to the distinction it confers on its home station in time of emergency or war. Since the foundation of our government in 1776 we have enjoyed, on the average, eight years of peace to every one year in a state of war. So by far the greater part of the time the community enjoys the benefits of a high grade school for the useful training of a large group of its young men in many lines, and a virtual club for their enjoyment and that of their families and friends.

It is estimated, moreover, that a unit of the National Guard of the type planned for Manassas will bring annually into the community a revenue of about $35,000, and it will eventually result in the erection of a substantial armory, and probably other buildings. On national holidays and other occasions of popular observance there is ready at hand a trained and uniformed body to represent and reflect credit upon the community, and give tangible evidence to the world that it is bearing its share in the defensive preparedness of the nation. In times such as the present, critical alike for the welfare of our own country and for the future of democracy and human freedom throughout the world, places of such thoroughly American character and antecedents as Manassas owe it to themselves and to the nation to be among those which are unmistakably represented in the national defense by a unit of the armed forces.
