PITTS THEATRE IS DUE TO REOPEN ON JULY 27

Ground Breaking Ceremony For New Dumfries Methodist Church to Be Held Sunday

At ceremonies to be attended by Methodists from Fredericksburg, Clarendon H. C. Speake, who is 92, and the oldest living active member of the Dumfries Methodist church, will break ground next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the foundation of a new $35,000 church building which is to be erected as the worshiping place for Methodists from Quantico, Triangle and Dumfries.

Stanley A. Owens, Commonwealth Attorney, will tell the history of the Dumfries Methodist church which dates from 1771 when it was founded by the then Methodist Bishop, Francis Asbury. The church was destroyed by Northern soldiers during the War Between the States. The principal address at the ground breaking will be delivered by the Rev. C. Fred Williams, pastor of the Clarendon Methodist church. The program for the afternoon is as follows: Hymn, "Come We That Love The Lord"; Song by the Dumfries choir; Scripture lesson by the Hon. Stanley A. Owens, Commonwealth Attorney; Song by the Quartette of the Fredericksburg Methodist Church; Address by the Rev. C. Fred Williams, Clarendon Methodist Church, Ground breaking ceremonies; Song, "Faith of Our Fathers"; Benediction. Music will be furnished by the Manassas school band.

The building committee for the new church is composed of the pastor, Rev. Clark H. Wood, of Manassas; Henry Amidon, J. P. Williams, E. A. Bauckman, E. A. Northington, Mrs. E. Lillian Garsden and Mrs. Dorothy Ennis.

The first church established in Prince William County was the Episcopal Church in the year 1752, at Dumfries. The complete records were destroyed by fire. It is thought that the Episcopal Church was disorganized, and the Methodist took charge in the year of 1771 under Bishop Francis Asbury. It is not known how many members they had at that time.

The first old church was located on Route No. 1 highway where the W. S. Brawner home is located at present. The first pastor was the Rev. Thomas Coke, D.D., who was the Sup't of the Methodist preachers in America in the year 1783. The church was destroyed by the northern soldiers during the War Between the States.

After the destruction of the original church, services were held in the school building, and in the year 1881, July 11th, a new church was built on the present site. It was dedicated by Robert L. Merchant and wife to the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

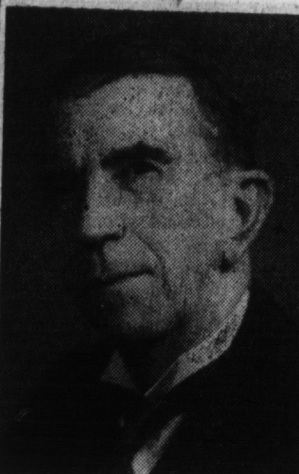

The building committee was composed of Robert L. Merchant, grandfather of Mrs. Randolph S. Brawner, Mrs. W. S. Brawner and Mrs. Grover King Mr. George M. Radcliffe, grandfather of Mrs. H. C. Speake, Mrs. Ella Waters, and Mr. Robert Waters, father of Ruel and George F. Waters, Sr.

In 1906 the present church was built, after tearing down the first building to the floor which was enlarged and used for the present building. The building committee was composed of H. C. Speake, now living, W. A. Speake, D. J. Calvert, George R. Brawner, George M. Radcliffe, J. H. Garrison. The pastor was the Rev. Charles Lynch.

There are four members living now who are 60 or more. Namely: Mrs. Annie Wheat, 98; Mrs. Annie Merchant, 96; H. C. Speake, 92, and his wife, Mrs. Anna R. Speake, age 82.

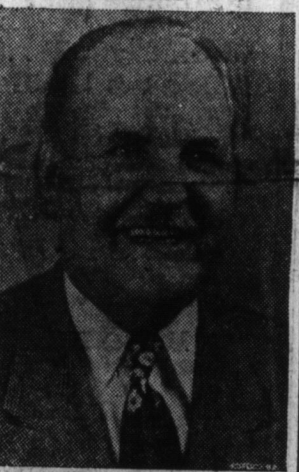

The present church site was dedicated on July 11th, 1881 by Mrs. Robert L. Merchant and wife. On November 29th, 1948 a lot adjoining was purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Warfield S. Brawner.

Slated to Win

Representative Howard W. Smith, who is certain to win the Democratic Primary of August 1 when the Eighth Congressional District election will be held.

GOP Nominees

Judge Smith has done little campaigning due to the pressure of Congressional business and particularly his fight to prevent letting the bars down for the importation of milk into Washington from distant points which do not maintain the standards required by the Maryland-Virginia Milk Association. Because of his strong stand on this question he is expected to have almost unanimous support of the dairymen of this area.

Judge Smith last week issued the following statement: "I have delayed opening my campaign for re-election to Congress in order that I might be prepared to meet such issues as my opponents might propose. Although it has been two months since they both filed their notices of candidacy, neither of them has yet issued any statement relative to their qualifications or experience which would justify their election to a Congress that will deal with questions of the most vital importance to you and to all of the people of the United States."

"I hope the voters will feel that the 20 years of legislative experience I have had in Congress qualify me to render valuable service to the Nation in this the most critical period of world affairs."

"Congress has been in continuous session all this year and my duties have made it necessary that I remain in Washington constantly. Day to day developments in the present crisis in our foreign affairs will probably further delay the adjournment of Congress. It will therefore be impossible for me to see as many of my constituents during the campaign as I would like to see."

Judge Smith added that he was soliciting support of his candidacy mainly by means of letters.

The new Independent Hill Volunteer Fire Department netted $800 from its fund-raising carnival held two weeks ago.

Aug. Primary Excites Little Interest Here

Only twelve days remain until the August first Congressional primary election. Interest in Prince William County in the election has been nil and it is generally conceded that in the Democratic primary Representative Howard W. Smith will carry the county by a large vote. His two opponents in the primary, Herman K. Kopp, Jr., a retired naval commander, and Arthur F. Souther, are almost entirely unknown in this part of the district.

The contest for the Republican nomination to oppose the Democratic nominee in the November election is between Tyrell Krum, one-time radio broadcaster of Veterans' advice, who was the 1948 nominee, and Hal Flood Hughes. This fight has been waging warm in Alexandria, Arlington and Fairfax County but there has been little attention paid to it in Prince William County.

With the Democratic nomination for Judge Smith practically in the bag interest naturally centers upon who will oppose him in November. Judge Smith decisively beat Krum two years ago and since that time Krum is reported to have fallen into bad graces with the Republican party leaders in the Eighth Congressional District. His opponent, Mr. Hughes, has come out for "a realistic farm policy, honest stewardship, a balanced budget and repeal of the poll tax."

Judge Smith has done little campaigning due to the pressure of Congressional business and particularly his fight to prevent letting the bars down for the importation of milk into Washington from distant points which do not maintain the standards required by the Maryland-Virginia Milk Association. Because of his strong stand on this question he is expected to have almost unanimous support of the dairymen of this area.

Buys Hotel

Charlie Caviness, who has acquired the lease to the Stonewall Jackson Hotel from Walter Sadd. Mr. Caviness came to Manassas last May 20.

New Inspector To Be Given to Health Office

In conjunction with the Prince William County supervisors, the Fauquier County Board of Supervisors have agreed to the employment of an additional sanitary engineer by the Health Department. He will be assigned to the area between Manassas and Warrenton.

Heretofore there have been only two sanitary engineers in the two counties. Robert Dwight has worked out of Warrenton covering the Blue Ridge Mountains and William Pace has worked out of Manassas from the Fauquier boundary to the Potomac River.

Influx of people from the Washington area into Prince William County has placed a heavy burden on the inspection crew and it was found that Dr. Walter R. Johnson, the county health officer, needed additional help in the Prince William County part of his district.

The inspection not only includes setting the requirements for septic tanks and their construction but also the location of wells to be drilled. Much of the time of the inspectors is also taken up with seeing that the sanitary standards of dairies are maintained.

William Pace, who has been the Prince William County inspector, is temporarily on leave completing guides for a degree.

The Quick Way Laundry on North Main St. opened last Saturday and many people with heavy wash to do found the automatic washers and driers convenient during the rainy weekend.

The Manassas Volunteer Fire Department will hold its annual carnival July 31 through August 5 at the high school field. Games and entertainment for everyone will be featured.

The Triangle Lions Club held its regular meeting at the Recreation Center on Monday afternoon. New members welcomed were Mrs. Lee Roy Peters and Mrs. Jim Sis.

Hotel Lease Is Sold By Sadd To Caviness

The deal by which Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Caviness take over the lease of the Stonewall Jackson Hotel from Walter Sadd, and which was forecast by The Journal last week, was consummated Wednesday morning.

Caviness came here from Orange last May 20 and have been operating the hotel for Mr. Sadd, the widely known Ford dealer of Manassas. At that time the management agreement between Sadd and Caviness provided that the latter could purchase Sadd's lease at any time. The papers signed Wednesday make Caviness' ownership retroactive to June 1.

Caviness has operated hotels in Danville, South Boston, Orange and Cape Charles. But for the Cape Charles hotel this is the only one of the group in which Caviness has owned the lease.

At Cape Charles he was active with the civic leaders in developing the town as a tourist center and he has ideas to exploit Manassas as the focal point for tourists visiting the Manassas Battlefield and other historic spots in Prince William County.

Since assuming control of the hotel in June Mr. and Mrs. Caviness have made extensive renovation of the property and have installed new furnishings and furniture.

Mr. and Mrs. Caviness have turned the Stonewall Jackson into a popular place for Manassas assemblies and social meetings places. The Thursday night Family dinner was an innovation that proved to be popular. Their plans call for small and select parties in the dining room, wedding receptions and club and civic meetings.

Due July 27

Senator Ben Pitts, president and general manager of the Pitts Theater chain, who has spent thousands of dollars rebuilding the fire-gutted Pitts Theater here, to give Manassas one of the finest of the smaller Virginia motion picture houses.

Cops Unhappy With Mayor So One Quits

Manassas police indicated at a special called meeting of the Town Council last Monday night that they have the "metropolitan itch." They want big town equipment, such as tear gas bombs to put down rioters and dangerous criminals; they want a camera to aid in the detection of crime and feel they need some of J. Edgar Hoover's fingerprint equipment. All they have, they complain, is a badge and a pistol.

It would be nice, too, the police told the town council if the town would finance a communications system. This they did not define, but it is presumed they want two-way radio, a desk sergeant on duty at all hours like the big towns have to accept calls and thus put a stop to the noisy telephone bells which ring in heard up and down Center street at all hours of day and night, often when police are not within earshot.

All of these things were incidental to other complaints of the Manassas police about the town council, particularly Mayor Harry P. Davis, who presides at the mayor's court, and metes out fines and punishment not agreeable to the police. It was an offshoot to complaints about interference from Councilman Roy Doggett whom they charge parks illegally, speeds through the streets and criticizes them to citizens.

There were many things with which the police were dissatisfied, but mainly the acts of Mayor Davis as judge of the mayor's court that irked them. Mayor Davis was not present at the council meeting, but the gist of the police dissatisfaction was that Mayor Davis is too lenient and lets offenders off with such minor fines or punishment that the police are frequently taunted, like Keystone cops, with the remark, "You didn't get much for your trouble did you, flat foot?"

The police thought the mayor "should stick it to them like fair-fax does."

Things like this have been boiling up in the breasts of the grey coated guardians of the law for so long that Police Officer James Colbert just couldn't stand it any longer. He took pen in hand and wrote out his resignation, citing all these things as reasons why he couldn't continue as a police officer after July 31. His dissatisfaction probably was aggravated by the fact that after he had arrested a drunk driver a few days before and the offender had poked Colbert in the jaw, Mayor Davis only fined the man $18.

The police themselves brought the special meeting about. They had something to talk over privately with the town council. They had expected, they said afterward, that they were going to talk things over in a closed meeting to which the public was not to be invited. Somewhere along the line the idea of a secret meeting was overlooked and somebody let the whole world know about it.

With a better communication system, a camera and fingerprint equipment the police might be able to learn who tipped off the private meeting. If they had the tear gas bombs the police might subdue him and bring him to justice,—police justice.

Crew Is Held Ready to Put In New Seats

When the remodeled Pitts Theater reopens within the next few days it will be one of the most modern and attractive of the smaller Virginia motion picture houses.

Senator Ben Pitts, president and general manager of the Pitts Theater chain, have spared neither money nor effort in the rebuilding. It is more than four months since the incendiary fire swept the motion picture house at midnight.

At the time of going to press on Thursday it was not possible to give the exact date of the opening but it is tentatively set for July 27. The date had originally been set for July 15 but delay in the shipment of seats from Michigan withheld the announcement but on Thursday it was learned that the seats were enroute by freight and a crew of workmen were being held in readiness to install them upon arrival. This, it is estimated, would not take more than two days.

Mr. Martin, theater district manager, was in town early in the week from Culpeper, and was in communication with the motion picture distributors in order that the latest film possible to obtain would be selected for the opening day.

Perhaps no establishment in Manassas could have been missed more by the public than the Pitts Theater. It was the only place of entertainment and the thousands of people who had come each afternoon and evening for the picture showing found themselves without entertainment. The merchants missed the crowds that the theater brought to town and business generally suffered as a result.

The rebuilding was practically a complete reconstruction job. This was not required solely by the damage the fire caused but because of the enlargement plans both on the ground floor and in the balcony. The theater will have a seating capacity of 42 more persons than formerly. The lower floor will seat 425 and the balcony 117. The stage has been moved back and the foyer enlarged and wider exist provided.

The roof is of the heaviest construction laid upon new steel beams 35 feet long and 18 inches wide resting on individual columns and bracked in between with supports that form both an H and an X. There are eight cross beams thus supported.

The interior is constructed entirely of insulated material. The ceiling is made of a processed insulation tile and the walls are of the same material but in panel style. The wainscoting is of serrated plywood. All the interior was supplied by Brown and Hooff, Inc. The other lumber which went into the reconstruction was furnished by Manassas Lumber Company.

The theater will be air conditioned. This was supplied by J. F. Broadbush of Fredericksburg. The cooling system, in connection with the boiler room, this time will be outside the main theater building, behind the stage.

It was not necessary for the theater to rebuild the projection room. This was not damaged by the fire but new motion picture equipment, the National Theater Supply Company of Baltimore. This included entirely new sound equipment of the most modern type.

The draperies and curtains, rich and of a deep maroon color, have been furnished by the Paramount Decorating Company of Philadelphia while J. F. Duman, of Baltimore, have supplied the new carpets.

The color scheme of the interior is attractive and soothing. The ceiling is grey, the wall paneling blue and the wainscoting is rose topped with a soft green. Around the walls, and close to the ceiling to give a perfect indirect lighting effect are three sets of lights, red, white and blue.

The supervising contractor for the rebuilding has been Nick Rooney of Herndon.

President Jack Ratcliffe, of the Chamber of Commerce, interestingly related to that organization at its meeting on Tuesday, the historical information he gathered while on a vacation to Nags Head and The Lost Colony. We invite him to write about his trip for The Journal.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Grace Methodist Church, will hold its picnic at the home of M. W. J. Saylor on Tuesday, August 8, 1950 at 6:30 p. m., D.S.T. All members are invited to bring their families.

Wind Storm Knocks Out Power System

A violent wind storm on Sunday, July 16 uprooted trees and laid low about ten miles of Prince William Electric Cooperative's lines in the Manassas district. All along the Bethel Road, leading into Woodbridge, lights were out. The trouble was not reported to PWEC headquarters for hours, because all telephone service in the area was disrupted.

Two great oak trees had fallen across the PWEC lines in the storm. Earlier rains had saturated the woods and roadways, and the unusual downpour on Sunday, accompanied by wind, left a trail of destruction. Service along Bethel Road was soon restored.

Firebug Sent To Marion For Observation

Harry Warder, 19, of Manassas was this week committed to Southern State Hospital in Marion, Va. for mental observation following his confession that he set fire to $50,000 Pitts theater on March 13, 1930 and stole the movie film "Seabiscuit," which had been the main feature of that night's show.

On Tuesday H. Thornton Davies attorney for Warder waived trial justice and a grand jury hearing and Commonwealth Attorney Stanley Owens recommended to the court that Warder be sent to the mental institution.

Warder also confessed other crimes which, according to police, included robbery of Wenrich's

Jewelry Store of $300 worth of merchandise, theft of a car and drive contribution receipt containing $10, from Cooke's Pharmacy, theft of a German Luger pistol, belonging to James V. Davis, Jr., from a war souvenir display in the windows of the Journal, and to setting fire to a bag of clothes hangers on the back porch of a neighbor, Raymond Fishpaw.

Warder was apprehended by police late last Thursday afternoon after firemen, answering a fire call to his home, found the missing "Seabiscuit" in Warder's second-floor bedroom.

The fire alarm was sounded at 3:30 p. m. and the Journal staff had printed half of the week's edition and almost all the papers for Manassas, city and rural route subscribers had been sent to the post office for delivery.

At 4 o'clock Alby Conner, an employee of A&P rushed into the Journal office, exclaiming breathlessly: "They've found the movie 'Seabiscuit' at the fire."

Back in March, following the theater fire, the possible whereabouts of this film had been the cause of much speculation and it was generally thought that its discovery would probably throw much light on that mysterious fire.

Hearing Conner, the Journal editor shouted immediately, "Stop the press."

Conner, who is a 1930 graduate of Osbourne high school explained that the film had been found in a house behind the Safeway Store, where firemen had answered a call half an hour earlier.

"Larry" Weekley, Journal reporter, went off at a run up Center Street for further information. He visited the site of the fire, questioned firemen, and went to the Town Hall and talked with the fire chief, policemen, and town officials.

While he was gone, printer, Bill Linthicum, removed page one from the press while the editor appraised the value of the story to come, wrote new headlines and edited several stories on page one, eliminating a paragraph here and another here to make room for the new story to come.

In 15 minutes Reporter Weekley was back again with information for the story. In 10 more minutes he had written the story, and it was rushed paragraph by paragraph to Linotype and Pressman C. B. Rorer.

Meanwhile Linthicum set by hand new headlines for the story.

Inside another 10 minutes Rorer was passing hot type to Weekley, who pulled proof for errors. In seconds the type was in the page forms again ready for the press.

Only 45 minutes after the press had been stopped, it began to roll again and papers with a re-made Page One rolled off at the rate of 1500 an hour.

The postoffice was phoned and requested not to mail the copies of the Journal delivered earlier because a substitute edition would be forthcoming.

This is how every Manassas boxholder had a paper by 5:30 p. m. Thursday with the complete story of the recovery of the film and papers went out to rural subscribers at the usual time the next day.

Briefly, that is what happened at the Manassas Journal last Thursday when the Journal did the quickest job of re-making a paper ever done in Manassas. In point of time, 45 minutes, that feat is seldom bettered even in large cities where newspapers are geared for late news and re-plates.

A Manassas business man, who had purchased one of the first editions of the Journal, came in at 5 p. m. for additional copies and remarked that it was too bad the Journal had missed the fire story. When he was shown a copy of the late Journal, with its eight-column headline and complete account of the fire and discovery of the film he was amazed, and said "Boy, that's really getting out the news."

State Seeks Betterment of Timber Lands

Which of the pictures in the adjoining column is your woodland? Sixty percent of the total land acreage in Prince William and Stafford Counties is in timberland and much of it looks like picture number two. This picture shows land severely cut over that will not produce any dollar return for another sixty years. When 60 per cent of our county is in this condition it is poor business. Poor business for who? Poor business for the landowner, the grocery man, the retail merchant and the banker.

Picture number one shows what can be done by the right kind of cutting operation. "You can have your cake and eat it too," not for long though unless more landowners realize the need for taking care of that 60 per cent of their property that has so badly been forgotten.

Approximately 2½ million feet of lumber was cut in Prince William County last year and approximately 3 million feet of lumber was cut in Stafford County. Only 1 per cent of this was cut on a marked basis, according to Charles J. Witter, assistant district forester for these counties, located at Charlottesville. Mr. Witter stated the only way of controlling cutting is to have the trees marked. Marking cutting will leave sufficient seed source and growing stock to keep the woodland productive. Picture number one is a typical marked area that has been cut.

Besides the lumber produced in Prince William and Stafford Counties over 2,000 cords of pulpwood and other wood products were produced. This, too, can be cut and still leave a desirable young stand of timber. The Virginia Forest Service also marks young stands for improvement cutting.

How can you have your woodland look like picture number one and keep the approximately 1,000 people working in the woods and in wood-using industries in Prince William and Stafford Counties employed? If your woodland looks like picture number two consult your District Forester, Box 1368, University Station, Charlottesville, Va., for his advice on how to bring it back into timber production. On request a forester will examine your woodland without cost or obligation to you. He will furnish you with a report giving a brief description of your woodlands along with recommendations as to its proper management. If this report indicates a cutting is necessary then the forester is in a position to mark and estimate the trees that should be removed. The trees marked will have two marks on them, one of which will remain on the stump and will be the owner's check on the cutting operation. On completion of the marking the owner will be submitted a report showing the number and estimated volume of trees marked by species. With this information the owner will be in a better position to arrange a satisfactory timber sale. The estimates made by the forester are accurate within a plus or minus 5 per cent, Mr. Witter said.

Picture No. 1. This is the way your woodland should look, according to Assistant District Forester, Charles J. Witter. The Virginia Forest Service offers its service free to land owners who want to bring their woods back into production.

Picture No. 2. This is how the State Forestry Service says much of the timber acreage of Prince William County looks. It will take another 60 years before it will produce a dollar to the owner. The state says this is poor business not only for the owner but everyone else.

ter said. The tree measurements are taken with instruments, thus insuring this accuracy.
If you want to increase the profits from your woodland, and help keep timber growing in Prince William and Stafford Counties, contact your District Forester.

pointment, requiring the full time of the pastor, and not being supported by the Board of Missions. The growing communities which this church serve are Dumfries, Triangle and Quantico. The Methodists realize that much is to be done for the spiritual welfare of its people, and to this end they are moving forward.

The new church will have 11 Sunday School class rooms which will care for about 400, and the main auditorium will seat 200. It will be equipped with a modern kitchen and social hall.

The present membership is 150 and is still growing. The present pastor, Rev. Clarke H. Wood was appointed to this church in the fall of 1947, having left the Annandale Church in Fairfax County after a pastorate of three years, during that time the new Annandale church was built on Columbia Pike. Mr. Wood is known throughout the Virginia Conference as a "Church and Parsonage Builder." Several churches and parsonages have been built during his ministry.

Test Your Identification Skill and Win $5.00 Journal Prize

Here is a test of skill for readers of the Manassas Journal. Above are pictured sixteen persons whose names are household words all over the country. They appear on television, the radio and some have been in the movies. Their pictures are printed without names to see how well you can identify them. If you are good at identification and know your T.V. radio and screen personalities then it should be easy for you to identify them. And if you do identify them in accordance with the rules, then The Journal has a little prize for you. All you have to do is to fill out the names on the blank below corresponding with the pictures above. Put your blank in an envelope and mail it to The Manassas Journal. The first person to send in the correct list of names will be paid $5.00 by The Journal for the result. Remember the blank must be filled out. It must be mailed. The earliest hour indicated on the postmark after 8 o'clock on Friday morning, July 21, will be the one which will decide the winner. Employees of The Journal and members of their families are ineligible. Everyone else may compete. It will be fun and it may be profitable. So here goes. Fill out the blank below; put it in an envelope and drop it in the postoffice. If you have been nice to the postmaster maybe you will get your envelope stamped first. It is the hour on the envelope which decides who mailed first. If you don't win, you will have had fun just the same. From time to time The Journal will make other tests of your identification ability.

"QUO VADIS?"
(WHICH WAY?)
By Kenneth R. Pennie,
Greenwich, Va.

Our nation is facing a crisis and we as its citizens will have to make a momentous decision whether we will choose to remain a free people or go down to disaster as a slave state. We will have to choose between two ways, the Way of the Right or the Way of the Left.

The Way to the Right is the conservative and frugal way, the way we have pursued for over 300 years, and it has led us always upward, and onward from a weak and despised little Republic to become the mightiest nation on "God's Footstool." It has been the successful way because "The Founding Fathers" planned it as the result of deep and careful thought, and it is based on the firm foundations of a realization of the fundamental "Dignity of Man" and a deep faith in "Almighty God."

This "Plan for Living" has given us, and has protected us in the enjoyment of two of the greatest treasures man can possess in this life, "Individual Liberty," both of mind and body and "Liberty of Action" within the framework of the laws of the land. The exercise of these two fundamental human rights has allowed our citizens a free and unhindered development of their individual initiative to make of themselves whatever they wished to become, the result of which has been to enable us to attain the highest standard of living for the individual that has ever been enjoyed by the citizens of any people either ancient or modern.

The way to the left, the road down which we are rapidly traveling is "The Primrose Path," the way that will assuredly lead us to disaster. The advocates of this left, or "Primrose" way of life, promise many things, such as "Security from the cradle to the grave," an "easy and luxurious life," a "Land of Milk and Honey." Further this is to be a "Something for Nothing" program, for they glibly tell that when their way of life has been put into full operation the individual citizen will be able to enjoy all of its advantages without exerting the slightest effort on his part.

We are not informed what price we must pay to achieve this "Heaven on Earth," nor what the vast sums of money that will be necessary to finance this grandiose plan.

The first installment will be the loss (the irrevocable loss) of all of our personal liberties, and then we will have taken away from us (by force) everything we possess, and that we hold dear, from which on it will be but a single step until each and every one of us will not be human beings, but slaves in the image of God, but slaves of a "Totalitarian State," the victims of a Frankenstein monster that will consume and dissipate every good thing that our industry and hard work in the past has achieved for us.

Time is passing rapidly, and there remains but little of it in which to make our choice, for the selfish, unscrupulous politicians, the crooked, avaricious labor leaders, the academic "Crack Pots" are all joining together with the "starry-eyed" well intentioned, but impractical reformers, are hustling us down "The Primrose Path," (to the left) at an ever faster tempo. Here we know it, we will have gone too far to the left, to permit of our turning back.

What can we do, what steps should we take to halt this march to disaster, this macabre "Dance of Death," and to lead our country to "The Right" again?

It is the opinion of this writer that the first and most important step looking to our deliverance from the forces that would first rob us, and then enslave us, is to call a halt; and an emphatic halt to the wasteful, unnecessary and unthinking dissipation of the finances of our country that has been indulged in by our government for the past ten or more years. National bankruptcy can only be avoided by a return to a spending program based on common sense, which will limit us to spending only what we can afford. "Deficit Spending" must cease and we must balance the Federal Expenditures with the national income, for even a government, can no more spend over and above its income and remain solvent, than can an individual. Unlike the Prodigal Son, of Bible fame, we will have no fond father to whom we can turn for help when we have spent ourselves into "National Bankruptcy." There will be no Santa Claus to "bail us out."

The second step and of equal importance with the first, is a carefully planned program, strictly and conscientiously administered that will result in a continuous reduction of the staggering National Debt, that hangs around the economic neck of this country's industry like a millstone. The burden of merely carrying the interest alone, on this debt, if it is allowed to continue to pile up, will result in the final extinction of private enterprise in this country for any profits that might be realized by such enterprise will have to be seized by the government, (in the form of taxes) to pay the interest charges on the National Debt. When this point is reached then our magnificent industrial empire, which is the foundation of our nation's property will collapse, and such a downfall will carry our economy with it.

The third step necessary to enable us to circumvent the wolves of exploitation, both foreign and domestic, that are howling at our doors, calls for an educational program that will impress on the individual citizen a realization that he personally is obligated to his government, that he owes the state something in return for what he receives from it, and not, as the popular and ever growing conception that "The state owes him everything and he owes it nothing." He must be taught that he, together with all the other individual citizens, are "The Government," so whatever the government gives away is being taken from him, and is coming out of what he possesses. A realization of this will cause him to think ere he allows a continued squandering of the National Treasury, for the immediate political benefit of the few with no regard to the future well being of all the country.

The fourth and last, and the one many would call the most important step of all, in our program of withdrawal from the abyss of national disaster upon which we are teetering, is a revival of self discipline on an individual, and national scale, both for the young and old. A citizenry lacking in discipline, will result in a government without discipline for after all a popular form of government such as ours, is only the reflection of the morals and thoughts of the individual citizen that give it existence. An undisciplined government, is like a ship without a rudder, an unstable thing, the prey of every wind that blows, so an undisciplined citizenry has no depth of character and will become the prey of every "crack pot" idea that it may be exposed to. Self discipline, both individual and national, begets right thinking, and we must THINK, gore-ly before we can ACT correctly, for, "As a Man Thinketh, So Is He."

There are other steps to be taken, before we can get our Great Nation turned to the right again, but for four steps that this writer has outlined above, appear to him to be of fundamental and FIRST importance. To be effective they must be undertaken, whole heartedly and immediately, for those who would regiment us into a police and slave state (where we would not dare to call our God-given souls our own) are highly organized, and hard at work day and night to encompass our downfall. They are a thoroughly disciplined organization, "trained to the last minute," and find with the zeal of an ideology that breeds the fanaticism, makes martyrs. It is the most dangerous and vicious enemy to our Way of Life that we have.

This is the desperate crisis that confronts us, this is the CHOICE we must make, and these are the most important steps that must be taken to save ourselves, and our country.

The barbarous are at our gates, "The Warmer Calletch in the Night," and time is running out!

Quo Vadis?

Dr. Johnson Seeks Spots Where Trash May Be Buried

In carrying out the wishes of the Board of Supervisors to find places for the disposal of trash that is now being dumped along the highways Dr. W. R. Johnson, county health officer, yesterday called upon property owners with low spots in their places that need filling, to be in touch with him. He seeks roadbeds or other suitable spots into which trash, not garbage, may be dumped.

The determining factor for Dr. Johnson to make a selection will be accessibility but not too close to a primary road and where the highway department can bring heavy bulldozer equipment to cover the trash after it is dumped. The places must be convenient to the more communities.

Persons having such places available and willing to cooperate in this anti-trash along highway drive, are asked to communicate with Dr. Johnson at his office in Manassas.

Those who met the Harry Hoffackers of Greenville, Penna. when they visited the Bowman families here many times will be glad to know that Mr. Hoffacker is improving slowly after being critically ill at the Greenville Hospital since the first of last week.

Also, do you remember meeting the Dr. A. C. Renolls of Hanover, Pa., when they visited the Bowmans several times? Mrs. Renolls recently was killed by a careless driver in front of their home when she was crossing the street to her sister's home. The Renolls had just recently been given a big celebration in honor of their serving the Reformed Church for fifty years.
