PHONE EMPLOYEES REFUSE UNION ENTRY

Three Cops Are Plenty, Doggett Says

Three policemen are enough for the town of Manassas, particularly when most of their hours on duty are spent waiting for something to happen, according to Councilman Roy A. Doggett.

Limiting the police force to three officers was proposed by Doggett at a meeting of Council last Friday, after Town Manager Ritter brought up the matter of hiring another officer to replace Sgt. Charles Simms, who resigned December 1. Ritter has been trying to find a suitable police replacement for more than a month.

The police work only eight hours a day, six days a week, Doggett pointed out this week, while officers in other towns of comparable size to Manassas work more hours and actually are paid less. Manassas police get $200 per month.

Probably no one in Manassas does less actual work than the police and yet they are relatively well-paid, Doggett declared.

Police could work 12-hour shifts as easily as eight and have more time off besides, Doggett thinks. "If they would do this there would be no need to hire a fourth policeman, because one man could be on duty at all times and each policeman could be off duty 24 hours out of each three days."

Policemen have been working in eight-hour shifts and getting off one day a week, so the 12-hour shift would give them two full days off each week, while working 56 hours during the remainder of the week while time they are on duty.

"You can do a lot of street work on a policeman's salary," Doggett said. "Everybody's complaining about the high payroll the town is running and here is a good place to cut it."

One man on duty is enough, Doggett thinks. "That's all we have now and usually you can't find him."

Doggett stated two men told him they looked for a policeman for four hours one morning about two weeks ago. Their truck had broken down and the men looked from 3 a. m. until 7 a. m. before finding a cop.

The police probably would not object to the new hours, Doggett feels, and says one told him privately that he was well-satisfied with his job and wanted just to keep it.

In case of an emergency, there always are other law enforcement officers around to help the Manassas police, Doggett averred. The State Police and the County Sheriff and deputies, although they don't patrol Manassas, would be immediately available if an emergency arose and there were only one Manassas policeman on duty.

Besides this the town might appoint two special officers to be called for duty during emergencies. The town now has one special officer, Henry Marple, who sometimes works at night and another, easily called, who would be paid only for those hours they might be called to work, Doggett suggested.

"If the police would stay within the corporate limits where they are supposed to stay, and not go running around in the county, they would have more time to do the work they are paid to do," he declared.

The present situation arose at the Council meeting when Ritter recommended that police be paid for overtime worked during December while there were only three men on the force. Despite opposition from Doggett, Council voted to pay each policeman for 32 hours overtime at 86 cents an hour. The amount thus expended, $267.20 per man, will total considerably less than a month's salary for a fourth policeman.

War Not So Noisy In Tokyo; Americans There Look To UN

Americans in Japan, although much nearer the shooting, are less fearful that the Korean "police action" will develop into a third World War than are Americans at home, according to Mrs. June Payne.

Returning to Manassas on leave after five years in Tokyo with SCAP (Supreme Commander, Allied Powers) Mrs. Payne told the Journal this week that foreigners and Americans abroad have great faith in United Nations and place in UN all their hope for the prevention of another war. "However, people in America regard UN as a pipe dream and expect that a full scale war is not far off," she said.

Over-population seems to be the most critical problem in Japan today, Mrs. Payne stated, and yet SCAP has turned official thumbs down on birth control and contraceptives. Birth control runs against the grain of the Japanese mores and also the Catholic Church is very strong there, she added.

Americans in Japan are finding life pleasant and most of the military and civilian personnel are adapting themselves to life in the Orient. Many American men are marrying Japanese women and most of these will bring their wives to America when they return home, Mrs. Payne says. About 2,500 American men have married Japanese women since the war ended, she said.

Some American men have fallen victims to a curious Japanese custom, Mrs. Payne remarked. For many years Japanese women have regarded it as proper and just to throw acid in the face of a faithless lover or roustabout husband.

Quite a few American males have turned up in hospitals with their faces burned by acid. Mrs. Payne, who talks with fervent interest when discussing Japan, started Journal reporters with a report that a Japanese physicist and his staff had succeeded in exploding an atom bomb on the side of Mount Fuji in 1943.

Two years before Hiroshima. The physicist, also a linguist noted in Japan, was Dr. Dakaneti. The bomb was primitive certainly, she said, but it was an atom bomb.

Mrs. Payne said she got the information from Dr. Dakaneti, who works in the office with her. The news has convinced us that he is not a liar.

Southern States Co-operative; World's Largest Farmers' Co-op

(From an article by Jim Jenkins, Jr., in the Commonwealth)

Southern States Co-operative, a large organization with 228,948 farmer-members who are scattered over six states, probably is creating more controversy than any other business in Virginia.

Hailed on one side by farmers who claim it is a great influence toward bettering their social and agricultural standards, it is condemned on the other side as a tax-dodging outfit that threatens to throttle private industry.

The Virginia-born cooperative has, in total membership, become the largest farmers' cooperative in the world.

From unimpressive beginnings in Richmond in 1923, the Virginia Seed Service, as the co-op was first known, entered an expansion and development program that has resulted in a current annual volume of more than $120,000,000.

Southern States, Inc., is a centralized-federated form of cooperative structure which serves as the administrative, financing, distributing agency for numerous manufacturing, processing, and purchasing enterprises, all of which are operated either as subsidiaries or as affiliated cooperatives, owned and controlled by farmer-members.

Subsidiaries include Cooperative Mills, Inc., with feed mills at Roanoke, Norfolk, Baltimore, Cincinnati and Statesville, N. C.; Cooperative Fertilizer Service, Inc., with plants at Culpeper, Norfolk, Baltimore, and Winchester, Ky.; and the Cooperative Seed and Farm Supply Service, with warehouses at Richmond, Roanoke, Baltimore, Clarkburg, Huntington, Louisville, and Henderson.

Southern States employs more than 2,000 persons to operate its facilities and to staff its general offices in its twelve-story building at Seventh and Main Streets in Richmond.

The Virginia Seed Service was founded in 1923 by William O. Wyser after a group of farmers did something about the high cost of certified seeds.

With $11,000 and two employees, Wyser began the seed service which was to grow into the largest seed-purchasing cooperative on earth.

From an initial $10 seed order, the seed service volume has grown to a current $5,000,000 annually.

After about two years of tough going, the seed service began to expand and handle feeds, anti-fertilizers, and the name Virginia Seed Service was a misnomer. In 1933 after its services had been considerably broadened, the name was changed to the more appropriate Southern States Co-operative, Inc.

In 1938 and 1939 all existing real branches of Southern States Inc., through character amendments, became retail service stores with farmers holding the voting stock.

Today with services available in Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee, the Cooperative not only manufactures feed and fertilizer for members and processes seed for them in their own seed plants, but also markets certain farm products and provides such custom services as spraying and lime-spreading.

A number of local cooperatives affiliated with Southern States produce gasoline and petroleum products directly to the farm. This service was boosted recently when the organization purchased one-fourth interest in Petrol Refining, Inc., of Texas City, Texas. This gave the co-op access to a 17,000 barrel-per-day refinery.

Other cooperatives in the system operate frozen food locker plants. To round out the services, Southern States, in cooperation with other arm cooperatives, manufactures paint, blends motor oil, and dusts, assembles farm equipment and buys nearly 3,000 miscellaneous farm supply items for its members.

According to Wyser, the objective of farmers in the cooperative is to make the business of farming more profitable by lessening the costs of distribution, and supply. The cooperative represents a successful attempt to obtain more profit for the farmer.

The pace-setting of this organization has benefited not only its members, but farmers in general, according to Dean Thomas B. Hutchison of the VPI School of Agriculture. "Its competitive influence has reduced the general level of margins taken by other sources of farm supplies," Hutchison says.

"It has improved the completeness and efficiency of farm services, and raised the quality and adaptability of supplies to the area it serves over those formerly available. This, need is for new members, Muse

Election Returns Show 31 Workers Opposed, 23 Favored Collective Bargaining By CWA

Irate Player KO's Referee

Basketball referee Lou Biskup was knocked unconscious last night by a hot-headed player while he was officiating at a game between the Manassas Hawks and Occoquan.

Jack Friend, Occoquan forward, became angry when Biskup called a foul on him and spoke sharply to the referee. Biskup told the player that the sharp words would cost him another foul. Biskup turned to walk away and Friend floored him with a blow in the mouth that dislodged bridgework and teeth.

Time was called while players revived Biskup, who sent Friend to the showers and then finished the game, although in a daze. Biskup is an athletic coach at Quantico Post High School.

Friend, who is a Fort Belvoir soldier, told his teammates later that he was "sorry it happened." He had just "lost his temper," he said.

Northern Virginia Basketball officials today were considering banning Friend from further league play.

Chamber Needs New Members, Muse Declares

Benjamin Muse, Sr., new president of the Prince William Chamber of Commerce, told members Tuesday that "the time now has come for a bigger Chamber."

"In the past the Chamber has been a pleasant luncheon club and while I'm sure everyone has enjoyed the fellowship, we must now assume our responsibilities which have become more burdensome," the president declared in his inaugural speech.

The most immediate and crucial need is for new members, Muse

The first attempt ever made by a modern labor union to gain entrance into the Manassas area was soundly defeated yesterday as employees of the Central Mutual Telephone Co. voted 31-23 against becoming members of the Communications Workers of America.

Fifty-four ballots were cast in the consent election which was presided over by Robert W. Knader, representative of the National Labor Relations Board. A majority of 51 per cent, as in all NLRB elections, was necessary to decide the issue. A majority vote would have given CWA the right to do collective bargaining on behalf of phone employees.

Officials of the phone company declined to comment on the vote, but one did state that the "employees have made their wishes known. Company spokesmen had said earlier that their consent for an election had been given in order to determine the wishes of their employees and that the majority wish would be abided."

Alfred V. Atkinson, president of the Virginia division of CWA, a CIO affiliate, said that he was "disappointed in the results and felt that many employees had been misinformed in regard to the advantages of belonging to CWA."

Asked if the telephone workers union would make any further attempt to organize Central Mutual employees, Atkinson replied, "The union requires that we wait at least one year before attempting to hold another election, but I think that we will make the attempt next year."

Atkinson and E. L. Evenson, vice-president of the Virginia division, toured Central Mutual voting stations yesterday in order to watch election returns.

Reaction to the results was immediate and categorical among local businessmen. One told the Journal "I am very happy that the phone company employees have denied admission to the union. Once a foothold is given the union there is no stopping. They would have been up the street to my place next."

Thus, the most marked characteristic of Twentieth Century American labor conditions, the labor union flopped on its first contact with Manassas, proving once again that small business and agricultural communities are the stronghold of our American heritage.

Union officials stated that they usually encounter much stiffer opposition to unionization attempts in small communities than in large industrial or urban centers. "In an agricultural community most of the people are predisposed against unions even before any attempts to enter are made," Atkinson said.

Union activities at Central Mutual began about three months ago when CWA alleged that it had received letters from Central Mutual employees, complaining of working conditions and wages.

After-hour employee meetings were scheduled by labor organizers, but attendance at these meetings gradually diminished from an initial full-house, phone workers report.

In November, when CWA petitioned NLRB for an employee election, union officials claimed that a majority of the workers favored CWA to do collective bargaining for them. This claim was repeated later, and either the union miscalculated its support, or else many Central Mutual employees changed their minds, for the election results gave a clear majority to those opposing unionization.

The election was entirely in order and no votes were challenged or voided. Polls were set up in Central Mutual's exchanges at Manassas, Triangle, Garrisonville, Occoquan, and Nokesville. The fifty-four voters represented, as nearly as can be judged, almost 100 per cent of eligible voters. Eligible voters were all non-supervisory employees in traffic, maintenance, and accounting departments.

Presumably, Central Mutual will now proceed with its expansion program which includes improvement of working conditions at the Manassas and Triangle exchanges. The two largest Central Mutual operators are reported to have been granted wage increases last month, thus taking the teeth out of one of the arguments for unionization.

Company officials said the entire construction program and plans for wage increases were drafted last summer, several months before any body here had heard of CWA.

Legion Asks For Toys January 16-17

The American Legion's second annual Tide of Toys began here last week as officials of Post 158 announced plans to collect toys for distribution among the children of Europe and other foreign lands.

Toys will be collected in Prince William schools on January 16 and 17 and will be packed and shipped by the local Legion post.

Initiated last year when 3,000,000 toys were distributed to the needy children of Western European nations and Great Britain, the Tide of Toys has done much to cement friendly relations between American children and the future generations of European adults, Legion officials say.

Governor John S. Battle has urged all Virginia children to write a letter of greeting and contribute one serviceable toy to the program. Dowell J. Howard, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, has also urged the school children throughout the State to cooperate.

Bing Crosby is honorary chairman for this year's drive.

"Wildlife, Game Programs Need Intensification"—Hudoba

The various state Game Commissions are doing a worthy job with wildlife programs, but the programs must be intensified if there is to be any ultimate success of wildlife conservation efforts, according to Michael Hudoba of Haymarket.

Hudoba, who is Washington editor for Sports Afield, concluded this in a recent paper read before a meeting of game and fish commissioners in Richmond. The paper was printed in the December issue of Virginia Wildlife, a monthly magazine published by the Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries.

Game and Fish commissions have faced tremendous problems during the last 20 years, Hudoba says, because the number of hunters in America has quadrupled and the population has increased by 20 million people. During the same time more land has gone into food production and more has been lost to erosion.

In spite of these negative factors, there still is game enough and

Prince William County Civilian Defense Organization

The above diagram showing the tentative organization for civilian defense in Prince William was released this week by Hutton Tiffany, Director-Co-ordinator of County defense efforts. The organization, complete except for appointment of chairmen for Evacuation, Rescue, Emergency Medical Care, and the highly important Mutual Aid and Mobile Support, has been approved by J. J. Wyse, State Co-ordinator for civilian defense. This plan brings Prince William to the level of other Virginia Counties, which have been planning civilian defense organizations for several months. Tiffany has not announced who will head the Mutual Aid and Mobile Support division, which is probably the most important division of the organization. In the event of an atomic bombing of Washington or any of Virginia's metropolitan areas, the stricken city would expect aid from other localities, since, as Government officials have declared, an enemy attack would place a burden on the bombed city that could not be handled by that city's defense agencies alone.

Highway fatalities in Prince William County during 1950 totaled 12, according to a year end report of the State Police Department. July and September were the worst months with three deaths each. November had two fatalities and there was one each in March, May, and November.

James Jones, 59, of Manassas, is being treated at Arlington Hospital with several broken ribs and lacerations after being struck by an automobile as he walked on Route 28 at Yorkville on one evening last week, according to Trooper Phil Herndon. The driver of the car was identified as Basil Sutton.

Farm machinery repair classes have been scheduled at Brensville district High School for each Tuesday and Thursday evening for a period of six weeks, beginning January 9. Chief subjects will be tractor repair and maintenance. Farm machinery dealers of Prince William will cooperate in the course to be taught by Philip Reading and Oden Bredan. Time for the classes is 7:30 p. m. until 9:30 p. m. The first meeting only will be held at S. A. Mokichewski Service Center in Nokesville next Tuesday. International Harvester servicemen will conduct the first class.

John Parrish of Manassas, who has been in George Washington Hospital for the past few days with a blood ailment, is now getting much better and is expected to be back at his home on Sunday at the end of this week.

Two movies, "Communism" and "Our Stand In Asia," will be shown at Manassas at their meeting Monday night, January 8, at 8 p. m. in the U. S. Government, were obtained through Sgt. Frank George and the Army Recruiting Service. Legion members and ex-service men are invited to attend. Officials said.

Complete reports are not yet in from officials of the Prince William Peninsula Association expect that the $2300 quota from sale of Christmas Seals will be reached. If the quota is attained the Association will be able to carry out its tuberculosis and prevention program in Prince William during the coming year. It is not too late to contribute the fund, officials reminded residents this week.

More than one billion coins into the new meters installed about the city of some 2,500 communities, according to the American Automobile Association, were received at A. A. headquarters in Washington indicate that the total parking meter take for the year will be in excess of $900,000.

Capt. and Mrs. Jesse Morse of Ashhire are preparing to leave for Texas next week when Capt. Morse will graduate from the Food Service School at Fort Lee. The couple have lived at Yorkshir for 10 years.

The Woodbine Parent Teachers Association will sponsor a cake walk Friday night, January 5, at 8 p. m. in the Woodbine School.

The Rev. R. M. Japhet, well-known teacher and evangelist, is conducting a Bible Class each Sunday evening at 7:30 p. m. at the Auburn Community Church on Route 805. The public is invited.

The Feast of The Epiphany celebration of Holy Communion will be held at Trinity Episcopal Church on Saturday, January 6 at 8 a. m. The Rev. E. Guthrie Brown announced this week.

Mrs. Rose Hottel of Haymarket and Mrs. W. H. Lamb and Miss Mary Wharton at Royal Oaks, Centerville, during the Christmas week.

Six Major Causes For Animal Reproduction Failure

There is only one thing tougher on a farmer's pocketbook than animals lost through disease and death—the animals which never make it into the world because reproductive troubles snuff them out before birth. According to veterinarians, there are six major causes of breeding failure in farm animals: infectious diseases, such as brucella, account for a large number of premature losses. Nutritional deficiencies also play a part, and hereditary weakness figures into many unproductive matings. If diagnosis rules out these three causes, then endocrine disturbances should be considered, because spots in the glands that control reproduction are a common cause of breeding troubles. Last but not least, an investigation may show that poisoning or an injury accounts for the trouble.

Good rations and sanitary surroundings are more important than drugs in controlling internal parasites of livestock.

Vibronic infection, caused by a germ called Vibrio fetus, is being recognized as an important cause of breeding troubles in cattle.

Mr. Broadbudd, Miss Pickrel Wed

The marriage of Miss Shirley Pickrel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Pickrel, Altavista, Va., and Mr. John T. Broadbudd, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Broadbudd, Manassas, took place Wednesday, January 3, at 4 p. m. in the First Baptist Church, Altavista. The Rev. T. Buse officiated.

The bride was attended by Mrs. John T. Broadbudd, Jr., her only attendant, and Mr. Broadbudd served as his son's best man.

The bride was attired in a champagne tulle gown with navy accessories. She carried a white orchid. The groom wore a tuxedo. In keeping with the Yuletide season, the home was decorated with Christmas greens and white candles.

After the ceremony, a small reception was given by the bride's parents and members of the family. The bride was graduated from Altavista High School, and received her degree from Madison College, June. At present, she is a member of the Thomas Jefferson Junior High School faculty in Arlington. The groom attended the University of Virginia and was graduated from Lynchburg College in June. He is a teacher of Physical Education at Fairfax High School, Fairfax, Va.

Mrs. John T. Broadbudd, Jr.

In the American tradition, I think that is a worthy tribute to the work of the Game and Fish Departments and Commissions, and to the support of conservation forces," Hudoba said.

Several ways of improving the work of Commissions are suggested by Hudoba. First, the programs are not 100 per cent efficient due to failure of the public to observe conservation tenets. There has been a failure in public information to stress necessary practices.

Domination of fish and game by "politics" also hinders the efforts of commissioners. Tenure of office for constructive fish and game programs must be assured and sportsmen have a responsibility to assure that fish and wildlife administrators do not have their administrative talents impaired by petty politics.

And third, there is needed an improvement of fish and wildlife values in programs dealing with the resources of soil, water, land, and forest. Broad factors, such as pollution of waters, unwise use of land, unwise forestry and impetuous drainage, have terrific impacts on fish and wildlife resources and ought to be considered in any conservation program.

Increased budgets also would permit improvement of Commissions' work. Without funds, the administrator is handicapped in organizing and holding the best conditions for advancement of the programs.

Nokesville

By Mrs. Fred Shepherd

The Fifth Sunday night community service, which was held at the Nokesville Church of the Brethren, was very well-attended. About twenty-five young folks, representing the whole district, took part in the service along with four ministers, Rev. Albert Winn, Rev. D. D. Fleishman, Rev. L. W. Griggs and Rev. Fred Edge. The Community Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Flory, added greatly to the message of the evening. Talks by Myrna Dove, Bertha Wood, Connie Shepherd, Dixie Payne, Dorothy Marshall, Mildred Weeks, Lois Flory, Frances Owens and Miss Hazel Saunders each gave a message of thought for the New Year. Miss Edna Armstrong was at the organ, and Miss Mary Hooker was at the piano. The ushers were Harry Miller, Jr., Paul Irvin, Jr., Sherwood Vance and Billy Fleming. The offering, which will go for Religious Education in our school, was $45.15. The Senior Woman's H. D. Club met at the Fire Hall on Tuesday with Mrs. Mary Nelson, Mrs. John Williams and Mrs. C. W. Thomas as hosts. After devotionals by Mrs. Tompkins, the vice-president, Mrs. Blake Fleming conducted the business meeting. A committee was appointed to have charge of the devotions each month. The committee includes Mrs. Olive Hooker, Mrs. L. J. Bowman and Mrs. Fannie Armstrong. Mrs. J. F. Hale, Mrs. T. B. Fieckinger and Mrs. Mary Nelson are to meet with Mrs. Manning, the home economics teacher to plan for the February meeting. Every member is asked to bring all her old cards, (birthday, Christmas, etc.) to the next meeting to be sent to a hospital where they are badly needed. A donation was made to the Polio March of Dimes.

Each lady of the Nokesville Church of the Brethren is asked to bring or send an apron to the Woman's Work this month. Mrs. Carl Miller asks us to say "Thank you" to the "so very many" folks who have sent her cards, fruits, etc., during the past three weeks she has been ill. We were so glad to see her able to be back at church again Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Collier and family of Arlington were Sunday guests of the Willard Wilkins. Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Owens, Jr., who live near Vienna, were Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Owens, Johnnie, Miss Frances and Mr. John Bear, the W. F. Hale family, the Cleveland Florys, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hale and the Mat Loefflers.

Mr. and Mrs. Flory Diehl of Washington, D. C. and Maryland, have named their 7 pound-11 oz. daughter, Lynda Jean. Bet "Grandpa" Diehl in Sebring, Florida will be anxious to see her.

Mr. and Mrs. Nunzio Barbera, Rita and Ernie of Keyser, W. Va., visited the Ted J. Shepherds on New Year's Day. The Barberas were returning home after spending several days with Nunzio's parents, who have recently moved to Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Link and the children visited in Washington, and with Mrs. Link's relatives in Clarksville, W. Va., during the holidays. Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Shepherd and the children were Opl. and Mrs. M. E. Bryant and little son and Mrs. Bryant's mother, (Mrs. Bryant is Sunny's teacher) of Longview and Mrs. and Mrs. Wade Whetzel and Wade, Jr. (Mrs. Whetzel is Joie's teacher). Mr. Charles Beahm of near Rosslyn spent a couple of days this week with his folks here. Nokesville folks will always have a "special place" in their hearts for Charles and we still wish he and his pretty wife would make their home among us.

The D. D. Fleishmans entertained about twenty young folks of the Valley church in their home on New Year's night. The young folks enjoyed an evening of worship, recreation and refreshment.

Capt. and Mrs. Jack Mitchell, and Sharon, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller, Sr., Mr. Charles Miller, Jr., Mrs. Elizabeth Raglan and Donna Lee and Mrs. Josephine Cowne spent Christmas day with the George Cowne family. Capt. and Mrs. Mitchell, and the little girls are leaving this week for Savannah, Ga. where Capt. Mitchell, who has been ill quite a while, will be stationed.

Mrs. Joe (Amy Lee) Wilson of Nashville, N. C., and her mother, Mrs. Gies Miller of Bealton visited the Bowmans one day last week. Both the Millers and the Wilsons keep in touch with Nokesville friends through this column. Amy's husband owns the local newspaper in Nashville.

Weekend guest of Mrs. Anna Hooker was one of her fellow students at William and Mary, Miss Jean Kramer of Alexandria.

Miss Alice Flory returned home on Sunday after spending most of last week attending the Recreation Leaders Laboratory at New Windsor, Md. Around 130 young people attended, most of them from Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia. Other nearby ladies who attended were Miss Lauree Hersh of Manassas and Miss Theresa Clingenpeel of Oakton. Alice has so many enthusiastic reports to make of her week's activities and we hope she will share them with the Nokesville young folks as often as possible.

The D. D. Fleishmans spent two days last week with Mrs. Fleishman's parents near Bridgewater.

Mrs. Frances Oimstead and three children, (two of school age) of Fairfax are the new folks who have recently purchased and moved into the former Billy King house.

Mrs. Laura Tschiffly and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Trenis, are vacationing in the South.

We are very sorry to hear of the illness of Mrs. Welton Albrite. Somehow we can't imagine Vera being ill for long. We do hope she can get better fast. She is now at Arlington Hospital.

Mr. Clay Wood, Sr., was removed to the home of his daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Braun, where he will rest for a few days before coming home. He is convalescing at Sibley Hospital.

Mr. Marie Krause of Queen Anne, Md., a fellow-student at Bridgewater College spent Monday night with Jay Garman and the two boys along with Miss Mary Hooker were taken back to College on Tuesday by Ernest Hooker.

The A. C. Bears, Jr., have moved in the house on the Harry Miller farm. Little "Chubby" Bear is visiting his grandparents, the Sr. Bears at Churchville.

The S. D. Somers family had their entire family home with them on Christmas day.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Britton spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. John Meador of Hyattsville, Md. The David Kerlin home on next Sunday afternoon.

Young People Enjoy Gala Yule Dance

More than 100 young people, including the Occoquan High School Class of '49 and a large group of vacationing college students were entertained by a group of parents at a dance-party on Wednesday evening, December 27, at the Manassas High School Gymnasium. The party was held from 8 to 12 p. m., and continuous dance music was furnished by a five piece orchestra from Elkton, Va.

Yuletide decorations were used, and included a large Christmas tree in the center back, with pine trees banking the sides. The floor glistened under a canopy of curled paper streamers. Mrs. Paul J. Cooksey arranged the refreshment table decorations. Home-made cookies and sandwiches were prepared by the hostesses and soft drinks were served throughout the evening.

Hosts for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Martin, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Cooksey, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Royer, Mr. and Mrs. Conway Seeley, Mr. and Mrs. Ferris Gue, Mrs. Myrtle Mitchell, Col. and Mrs. Everett L. Rice, and Mr. and Diehl.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kerlin entertained their children and their families at their home on Sunday. The Kerlins are looking forward to their fiftieth wedding anniversary celebration which is being planned by their children and will be at the David Kerlin home on next Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. L. L. Lomas. Guests described the party as "one of the most delightful of Christmas week."

Mrs. Payne

is speaking the truth but the press correspondents pay no attention to him or to us when we tell of the explosion, Mrs. Payne added. All of which may mean that this is the dutiful nephew of a fanciful uncle.

This is the first trip home in three and one-half years for Mrs. Payne and she says the difference is remarkable. Over there in Japan things move slowly, the people, the autos, ("Yes, they have quite a few charcoal burners, of course"), even these days. Here in America, it's really much different, as we often proclaim. The Japanese are a passive, negative people, she thinks.

The great hope of most youths in Japan is to come to America, but often when they get here they are disappointed, she said. One Japanese girl who won a scholarship to a large mid-western university wrote to her friends in Mrs. Payne's office, that she didn't like America at all. "I came over here to study," the girl wrote, "but all I find is that students have beauty contests. They have had one each week I've been here," the girl said.

All Japanese men and women are bow-legged, Mrs. Payne remarked. This condition results from the general practice, still followed, of mothers carrying their babies on their backs. The child rides with legs straddling the mother's waist and then they look like cowboys when they are adults, she said. "Emperor Hirohito is more bow-legged than you can imagine."

Living conditions for Americans in Japan are excellent, she reports. She tells of a personal maid who does all the housework and laundry for $18 per month. "The maid even clips my toe nails." And once when I was sick she never left my side and placed her futon (Japanese sleeping pallet) on the floor and slept beside me. This quality of devotion and faithfulness is characteristic of the people, Mrs. Payne believes.

There are few Russians in Japan, according to Mrs. Payne. However, she tells of a personal anecdote of a party at the Soviet Embassy one evening. A low-ranking Russian diplomat got "potted" and ran around with his fore-fingers wagging from his forehead, shouting, "I'm a red devil, I'm a red devil." This diplomat left for Russia soon afterward, Mrs. Payne added.

who had never repented and were self righteous, he told them "Search the scriptures, for in them ye think that ye have eternal life; and they are they which testify of me." Take notice that Christ never said, "I will make you fishers of men" until he commanded "Repent and believe the gospel."

Jesus said that repentance is necessary. He said, "unless ye repent ye will likewise perish. Repentance is necessary for salvation; for without repentance or turning to God there is no salvation."

If you are a Sunday School teacher or profess to be a Christian and have never truly repented and cannot say with assurance that you are saved and that you know that your sins are under the blood of Jesus Christ, then you are as the Pharisees to whom Jesus said, "Every plant which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up. Let them alone; they be blind leaders of the blind, and if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch." Instead of standing in front of the class, kneel at the foot of the cross and accept the gospel, then Jesus will say unto you "Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men."

Sunday School Chamber Lesson

By T. H. CARRICO
Jesus begins his ministry
MARK 1:1-20

Now after that John was put in prison, Jesus came into Galilee preaching the gospel of the kingdom of God, and saying, the time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand; repent ye, and believe the gospel.

Repent ye, and believe the gospel; these are the words of the Son of God. No where in the Bible have these words been taken back. Christ never spoke idle words. He taught that it is necessary to repent and believe and it is necessary at the present time.

First let us see what repentance means. It is a complete about face; it is a turning from something to something. It is not first giving up something or turning over a new leaf, or making a few New Year's resolutions.

Some tell us that being sorry is repentance. God says "Godly sorrow leads to repentance." The true meaning of repentance is forsaking ones sins and turning to God for help and forgiveness.

John the Baptist was the greatest preacher and he called on men to repent. There was no earthly class of people who had to repent. All have sinned and come short of the glory of God, so all have to repent in order to be saved.

When Christ was talking to men

said, and remarked that a dozen leading businessmen in Manassas attended only once or twice a year and 50 other Manassas should be attending meetings but do not.

County representation at the meeting is very poor, Muse noted. The president suggested that all other Chamber business be set aside in order to proceed with a membership campaign which would strengthen the Chamber.

Muse appointed a membership committee to be headed by Charlie Caviness with Jack Shireman as vice-chairman. Other appointed members of the committee were George B. Cooke, Mrs. E. D. Gothwalte, Carl Kinchele, Charleston Gnad, Selwyn Smith, C. A. Roland, Lawrence Weekley, Dan Kalso, R. C. Powell, D. J. Martin, E. G. Parrish, and S. A. McMichael.

Auto Accident Damage In Excess of $50 Must Be Reported

Virginia motorists are cautioned that they must report all accidents where total damage amounts to an apparent $50 or more.

This was recently emphasized by George T. Riggins, director of the bureau of safety responsibility of the State Division of Motor Vehicles, who said considerable confusion exists over the interpretation of Section 46-998 of the Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Act.

"Many motorists believe they only have to report an accident when the damage amounts to $50 or more on their own automobile. This interpretation is incorrect," Riggins said, and quoted the act as follows:

"The driver of a vehicle involved in an accident resulting in injury to or death of any person or total property damage to an apparent extent of $50, or more, shall, within five days after the accident, make a written report of it to the division."

Using a simulated accident case as an example, Riggins explained: "Say two cars are involved in an accident and the damage to one is $49 and the other $5, making a total of $54 damages to both cars. Both drivers must report the accident to the Division of Motor Vehicles."

On the other hand, should total damage to both cars amount to less than $50, then the two drivers are not legally required to make the report.

The law also applies to non-collision accidents, such as sliding off the road or colliding with a fence post or utility pole. "Should a driver lose control of his car, skid off the road and crash into a fence causing apparent damage of $50 or more to the fence and his own car, then he must report the accident," Riggins stated.

Co-op

after all, is the reason for a cooperative.

Here is how the farmers control Southern States Cooperative: A farmer purchases $500 worth of supplies from the Manassas or the Nokesville stores, for instance, during one fiscal year. The local board of directors declares a patronage refund of one per cent, so that the farmer receives a $5 refund. This is paid in the form of common stock of the local store and it makes him a legal voting member. The stock has a par value of $1 per share and pays annual dividends of six per cent. The stock is redeemable in cash at par value ten years from date of issue.

Southern States is now capitalized for $50,000,000, of which preferred stock represents $25,000,000 and common stock the other half. Over 100,000 farmer-members hold stock in the Cooperative.

All this adds up to a big business that competitors of Southern States, who pay federal income taxes, claim is unfair to them. Individual business has fought the cooperative through many media. The prime bones of contention are the patronage refund policy, which will amount to over $1,250,000 this year.

Club News

The Book Club, sponsored jointly by the Manassas Recreation Association and the Woman's Club of Manassas, will hold its January meeting on Monday, January 8, 1951, at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. William L. Lloyd, 331 N. West Street. Mr. Lilly, leader of the group will present for review and discussion, "A Hog on Ice," by Charles Earle Funk; it is a new book on the origin of American phrases.

and the blanket exemption from federal income tax which Southern States enjoys because, under federal statute, it is a nonprofit organization.

General Manager O. E. Zacharias says that Southern States Cooperative desires no tax advantage. To back this statement he points to a resolution adopted by the board of directors at its meeting on January 2, 1947.

"As for the net margins which are not used for patronage refund, but which go into reserve, Southern States Cooperative would find no quarrel if Congress amended the present exemption law," Zacharias declares. "To show our good faith, we have not set aside any reserve during the past five years."

"This may be so," the individual businessman concedes, "but the fact remains that private enterprise cannot expand at the same rate a cooperative can, because the cooperative is not burdened with federal income tax, the heaviest tax borne by other businesses."

"The whole thing," another man argues, "reminds me of the story of the little boy who was joyfully stamping an anthill. An ant looked up at him and cried, 'They hold on there fellow. What's fun for you is death for me!'"

Southern States points out that "any organization which wishes to enter into a contractual obligation, as do cooperatives, to serve its customers at cost, and refund to them any net margins over cost, would thereby exempt themselves from federal income tax liability. But private enterprise does not want to tie itself down with these restrictions."

"And that," Wysox concludes, "is their prerogative."
