ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

DAIRYMEN AT LYNCHBURG GRAND JURORS REPORT HOPE FOR APPROPRIATION R. R. OFFICIALS ALARMED PASSES INTO NEW HANDS HONOR TO GENERAL EWELL

Virginia Association Will Meet Next Tuesday and Wednesday, February 17 and 18.

The meeting this year of the Virginia Dairymen at Lynchburg, Virginia, February 17th and 18th promises to be of more than usual interest. With a total of $200.00 offered in prizes for butter, cream and milk, with hundreds of dollars worth of machinery which will be shown, with the experts of this state and other states to speak on dairy subjects the meeting promises to be the best ever held in Virginia. Every farmer who can possibly do so ought to make a special effort to attend this meeting.

There was a time and not so many years ago, when farmers in almost any county in this state thought that Virginia would never make much of a dairy state. At the same time there have always been men who claimed that the state with its favorable climate for cattle raising, its abundant water supply, its soil that was specially adapted for raising legumes, as well as corn for silage, its long grazing seasons, Virginia was better adapted for dairying than sections north or south of us; and that this idea was not a dream has been proven by the developments in the last ten years, for the production of dairy products in that time has increased more than four fold. Even five years ago there were no more than a half a dozen successful creameries in the state while now the state has thirty creameries and others are being built or in prospect of building.

Some fine herds have been built up in the state and the V. P. I. will soon hold the record of the best producing college herd in the United States.

While the dairy production has enormously increased, the demand for dairy products has also grown. The demand for cream for the making of ice cream is ten times as great now as it was ten years ago. The demand for good creamery butter has also grown as is shown by the fact that all the Southern states are heavy importers of Western creamery butter, but the time is coming when our own state will do what she has never done before—supply her own markets with butter and cream and if that time ever does come the dairymen of Virginia will find an unlimited market for our surplus products in the states south of us.

As Joseph A. Turner, President of the Virginia State Dairymen's Association, has recently stated: "The dairyman sells his crops in the minimum package at the maximum price. If he can get $1.65 a bushel for his corn he can sell it through his dairy cows for more than $1.00 a bushel and keep it on his farm at the same time."

There are sections in every state that have at one time been poor but are now rich because the farmers of that section had the intelligence and forethought to go into the dairy business, and it is a fact that our richest farmers and our richest lands are found in dairy sections. At this age we hear much about soil conservation. Farmers are beginning to realize that the best and most economical system of conserving soil fertility is by a system of dairying. The man that raises wheat and sells it from his farm at 90 cents per bushel, even though he returns his straw back to his farm, has sold for every $1.00 worth of

Find Fifteen Persons Not Assessed With Property Valued at $113,000.00.

To the Hon. J. B. T. Thornton, Judge of the Circuit Court of Prince William County, Va.

Your grand jury would respectfully submit the following report. An examination of the commissioner's books of the aforesaid county shows that in the aggregate the live stock of the county is assessed at a fair taxable rate, but in many cases there is great inequality in the assessment of the same class of stock growing out of the fact that each taxpayer it seems is allowed to set his own valuation. In the matter of farm implements, household and kitchen furniture there is great inequality in the assessment and much of it assessed entirely too low.

Your grand jury is of the opinion that a much more equitable assessment could be made if the commissioners would make a personal investigation of all tangible property and not leave the valuation to the property holder. We would call special attention to a class of persons who claim our county as their residence and voting place, and are not contributing their share in the support of our State and county government.

The law provides that all personal and intangible property, such as bonds, notes, income and all other sources of revenue, shall be taxed where the individual claims as his residence.

In the matter of capital in business we are persuaded that both commissioners and merchants have a misconception of the law bearing on this class of taxation, and would respectfully call attention to the decision of the Supreme Court of Virginia, rendered December 13, 1911, in the case of Bridge-water Manufacturing Company vs. Funkhouser, commissioner.

In our investigation we find that the commissioners had made a distinction between money in bank and other money, i. e., in their interrogatory they only asked about money in bank when heretofore the law made no such distinction, but all money was subject to taxation whether in bank or out of bank.

We respectfully call attention to an emergency bill passed by the General Assembly, now in session, exempting money now in bank from all taxation except State taxes and fixes the rate at twenty cents on the hundred dollars.

WESTWOOD HUTCHISON, Foreman.

[EDITOR'S NOTE.—In the investigation it was found that fifteen persons were not assessed with certain intangible property and they were listed for taxation as per a list which we are not at liberty to publish. The list aggregates $113,000.00.]

wheat $1.00 worth of fertility, or the farmer who sells corn, every $7.00 worth of corn at $1.70 per bushel, has sold $2.00 in fertility, but dairy farmers can sell $150 worth of cream and butter from his farm only take away $1.00 in fertility and if he buys feed to bring on his farm to feed those cows, as most dairymen do, he is adding to his soil fertility by buying it in the form of cow feed. These facts are being realized more and more by the Virginia farmers. The proof of this is that so much interest is now taken in dairy meetings, for scores of men come to discuss these questions, while a few years ago few men gathered at such meetings.

Ten Members of Virginia Legislature Will Patronize Bill for School Dormitories.

BY C. H. YARBOROUGH, JR. (Director Manassas Agricultural School)

The Manassas Agricultural High School will receive $5,000 for a dormitory if a bill, which was drawn by the agricultural directors of the Appomattox, Burkeville, Driver and Manassas Agricultural High Schools, endorsed by Superintendent of Public Instruction R. C. Stearnes and introduced into the Virginia Legislature by Hon. C. J. Meetze and nine other members of the Legislature from the counties in which these schools are located, as co-patrons, is passed.

The committee which formulated the bill met the finance committee of the House and urged the appropriation of a greater sum for the purpose above mentioned, but, due to the fact that the calls for money are so great at the session of the Legislature, they would only recommend the appropriation of $50,000 for the purpose, which is to be divided among the ten schools.

The other provisions of the bill are that the local board shall administer the affairs of the school in its district, but there shall be also an advisory board consisting of one man in each county in the congressional district.

The writer went to Richmond also in behalf of the "dog law" and "road law" as desired by the Northern Virginia Farmers' Institute. The dog law, as introduced by Delegate Lewis, does not meet the requirements, and Messrs. Meetze, Oliver and others are to introduce either a substitute bill or an amendment to the present one, which will be more satisfactory. The probability of the bill passing is almost assured. The road law, however, is going to meet with considerable opposition.

PASSES AWAY IN SLEEP

Mrs. Mary Harnsberger Dies After Long and Useful Life—Funeral Here Tuesday.

Mrs. Mary Sprinkel Harnsberger, widow of the late Joseph Harnsberger, died of pneumonia early Monday morning at the home of her sister, Mrs. Lou Nicol. Sleeping quietly, this lovely woman passed away. She was in her eightieth year.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at Grace M. E. church, South, of which she was a member. The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. A. Roads, assisted by Rev. T. D. D. Clark. Interment was made in the cemetery here beside the grave of her husband, who died six years ago. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Nicol; a brother, Dr. George Sprinkel, of Greenwood, and several nieces and nephews, including Misses Lorna and Grace Nicol, Mrs. John S. Wilson, Mrs. Annie Kelly, Messrs. R. B. Sprinkel and Drummond Nicol, all of Manassas.

Among the out-of-town relatives attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harnsberger, of Harrisonburg; Miss Annie Harnsberger, of Orange, and Mr. Robert Harnsberger, of Catlett. Members of her former Bible class at the Aden church also attended.

The pupils of Miss Margaret Temple Hopkins gave a recital Wednesday afternoon at the studio.

Say Maximum Car Limit Bill and Full Crew Bill Work for No Good Purpose.

Cooperating officials of railroads in Virginia are considerably alarmed over two bills now pending in the Legislature. One is known as "The Maximum Car Limit Bill," and the other, "The Full Crew Bill." President W. J. Harahan, of the Seaboard Air Line, Vice President N. D. Maher of the Norfolk and Western, First Vice President Alexander Hamilton of the Atlantic Coast Line, Vice President and General Manager Raymond Dupey, of the Virginian, Vice President and General Manager E. H. Coapman of the Southern, and Fourth Vice President M. J. Cayles, of the Chesapeake and Ohio, in a public statement issued today, say that if these two bills become a law, they will place such a burden on the railroads in the State, as will be a boomerang to the employes who are advocating these bills and seriously hamper the service which these roads are now rendering to the shippers and passengers in the State. These bills, the officials say, have but one object, and that is to compel by legislation the railroads of the State to employ more men in train service, and under these conditions, one or two things must inevitably result: an increase in revenue or expenses reduced. To provide for this contingency, the rates would have to be advanced. This advance the public necessarily pays. These officials also say that such expenditures are unnecessary as they do not add to either the efficiency or service of the roads at present, and in view of the large expenditures necessary for the operation and maintenance of railroads in the State, together with the fact that many of the roads in Virginia derive little, if any revenue from their operations in the State, these bills would only be an injustice and hardship to the public, the employes and the railroads.

A. H. S. FORFEITS GAME

Refuses to Finish When First Half Closed With Manassas in Lead 15 to 4.

With the score, 15 to 4 in favor of Manassas High School at the end of the first half, the Alexandria High School team left the floor Friday night and refused to finish the game. The claim that they gave for their action was unfair decisions on the part of the referee and treatment that they had received from the home team and spectators.

The first few minutes of the game were rough and close fought, the visitors scoring first on a long kick by Wenzel. Roads evened the score by two free tosses and then Janney put Manassas in the lead by a field goal. The visitors scored only once after this on a field goal by Hayes, while, as the game opened up and became faster, the local boys increased their lead by a fusillade of successful shots by Adamson and Roads. As the half ended there was no doubt of the result of the game, the only question being the size of the score that Manassas would roll up. As soon as time was called, the coach of the Alexandria team called his players from the floor, saying that he would rather forfeit the game than finish it.

The line up:
Alexandria Position Manassas
Sullivan R. F. Roads
Wenzel L. F. Adamson
Poes Center Janney
Hayes R. G. Williams
Raison L. G. Blackwell
Substitutions: Duncan for Raison. Goals from floor: Adamson (3), Roads (2), Janney, Wenzel, Hayes. Goals from four: Roads (3). Referee: Mr. Brown.

Hopkins Co. Inc., Now Controlled by Eastern Syndicate Which Proposes Many Changes.

It has been announced that an Eastern syndicate has purchased Mr. C. A. S. Hopkins' interest in the Hopkins Co. Inc., and that this purchase, together with additional stock already acquired, places it in complete control of the company. The new management has declared the intention of reorganizing the company and as soon as the reorganization is completed, it is planned to operate the plant at its full capacity. Representatives of the syndicate have thoroughly inspected the factory with a view to making improvements including an addition which will cover the vacant lots adjoining the present plant and owned by the company. It is understood that the new control has behind it funds in plenty to carry out the projects and it is highly probable that our little city will soon be the location of one of the most enterprising and successful candy factories in the country.

It is announced that the plant will be operated not only for the purpose of supplying the present trade but for increasing this business to jobbers and retailers. In addition to this the new management proposes to establish in various cities throughout the country retail houses through which a special brand of candy, successfully manufactured at this plant, will be sold direct to the consumer, upon a plan similar to that of the united cigar stores.

Persuance to the consummation of these plans at the annual stockholders' meeting, held here last Saturday morning, Geo. N. Jesse, a Washington attorney, was elected to the presidency of the company and Mr. C. M. Hopkins was elected secretary and treasurer.

It has been made public that Mr. C. A. S. Hopkins would be retained by the new management, but in what capacity has not been stated. Mr. Jesse has declined to reveal the names of the persons he represents but announces that the entire matter will shortly be made public and clearly states that the minority stockholders will receive fair treatment in all matters pertaining to the business of the corporation.

KINCHELOE-LEE WEDDING

Miss Mary Bertha Lee, adopted daughter of Mrs. J. M. Lee, of Harrisonburg, and Mr. Philip Richard Kincheloe, of Manassas, were married last evening at Catholic; the bride being accompanied by Rev. G. C. Minor, pastor of the Church of Christ, and was witnessed by a small gathering of relatives and intimate friends.

Not until late yesterday afternoon, when they were invited to attend the wedding, did even the most intimate friends of the bride learn of her plans to be married. She has been connected with the clothing department of B. Ney's store for some time, and has many friends in Harrisonburg.

Mr. Kincheloe is an express messenger on the Southern Railway, running between Harrisonburg and Manassas. He and his bride will make their home in Harrisonburg.—Daily News-Record.

Mr. Kincheloe is a son of Mr. D. E. Kincheloe, of Buckhall, this county, and has many friends in Manassas and vicinity.

People of Prince William Celebrate Centennial Anniversary of His Birth.

The people of Prince William and visitors from neighboring counties and states celebrated at Lunner building last Saturday the one-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Lieut. Gen. Richard Stoddard Ewell, probably the greatest of Prince William's Military chieftains in the War Between the States.

The meeting was opened with "America," sung by eight male voices, who also rendered "Way Down Upon the Sewanee River" and "Old Folks at Home." This choir included Messrs. A. F. Rose, of Warrenton; G. Raymond Ratchliffe, C. C. Collins, J. L. Muser, S. T. Weir, W. R. Myers, W. G. Covington, and Rev. T. D. D. Clark, of Manassas.

Mr. Rose, who is a member of Joe Kendall Camp, C. V., received a storm of applause when he sang "We are Old Time Confederates," "I'm Going Back to Dixie" and "Palms of Victory." The whole assemblage joined in the refrains. Mr. Rose wrote these words:

"WE ARE OLD TIME CONFEDERATES"
We are a band of brothers,
We are a band of brothers,
A band of Southern brothers
Who fought for liberty,
Jeff Davis was our leader,
Lee and Johnston were our chieftains,
Oh, they were glorious leaders,
They were good enough for me.

CHORUS
We are old time Confederates,
We are old time Confederates,
We are old time Confederates,
They're good enough for me.

We followed Stonewall Jackson,
The Christian soldier, Jackson,
The terror-striking Jackson,
He was good enough for me,
We fought with Hood and Gordon,
With Longstreet, Polk and Claybourne,
With Ewell, Hill and Hardee,
They were good enough for me.

We rode with Stuart and Hampton,
With Fitz Lee, Duke and Morgan,
With Forest and Joe Wheeler,
They were good enough for me,
We marched with Epps Hunton,
Smith, Randolph, Turner Ashby,
With Billy Payne and Mosby,
They were good enough for me.

Now our country is united,
Now our country is united,
North and South again united,
It is good enough for me,
We all must meet in Heaven,
We all must meet in Heaven,
Meet to dwell with one another,
And rejoice eternally.

The invocation was made by Dr. H. L. Quarles, pastor of Manassas Baptist Church and chaplain of Ewell Camp.

Dr. Jesse Ewell, of Greene county, a relative of the general, read an interesting biographical sketch. Dr. H. M. Clarkson, poet laureate of the Confederacy, received the usual applause when he read the following poem:

RICHARD S. EWELL
[By Dr. H. M. Clarkson.]
All hail to brave Ewell, Prince William's own son!
All hail to the warrior, for what he has done!
All hail to the chief, to whom tributes
we bring!
All hail to the soldier, whose praises we sing.

We honor the youth, who was sent to arrest
The savage Apaches, the plague of the West,
Returning a hero, receiving the thanks
Of comrades, of country, of men of all ranks.

Yes, praise to young Ewell, who with his dragoons,
Ran down to the death, a vile band of poltroons—
Of Navajo Indians, who on a raid,
Had robbed the whites' beautiful meadows.

All praise to the man, who in Mexico made
A name for himself, which all time cannot fade
The first on the march, and foremost in the fray,
He fought from the Gulf to Molino del Rey.

The North and the South after warring in words,
Resorting at last to a trial of swords,
In spirit unfriendly for decades of years,
For war to the knife each party prepares.

Hark! hark from the South the alarm—
"No arms!"
The men and the boys from our cities and farms,
From mountain, from valley, from workshop, and street,
With swords, and with sabres, in rendezvous meet.

Old Dick, our young Richard, who knew how to fight,
Asked not of Virginia if wrong, or, if right,
But swore that his sword he would never more wield,
Except his dear mother, Virginia, to shield.

Virginia—he loved her like mother, or wife!
Virginia—he loved her more dearly than life!
He showed it, he proved it on many a field,
Which, save with his life's blood, he swore not to yield.

He proved his good faith, when at Groveton he fell,
His leg badly shattered by bursting of shell,
And next when heard of, he was charging again
On "Rifle," his warhorse, in lead of his men.

Old "Rifle" was fond of a fight as old Dick,
A sensible horse, with a hazardous trick
Of plunging in front, as if charging the foe,
Some said, as his rider had trained him to go.

If none but the brave be deserving the fair,
The hero of Groveton was granted his share,
For after brave fighting, he won his fair bride—
And happy together, together they died.

By all the grave wounds, which his gallantury cost,
By all the rich blood, which in battles he lost,
Sweet fear to brave Ewell, Prince William's own son, Praise, praise to his memory for what he has done.

amaker has given to commemorate the valor of Pickett's men in the famous charge at Gettysburg. Mr. Compton was captured within the enemy's lines as was also a brother of Mr. Hutchison.

Capt. J. R. Rust, of Haymarket, gave an interesting black-board sketch showing Ewell as a factor in the success of Jackson's valley campaign and his successful charge—the only one—at Gettysburg.

Rev. T. D. D. Clark pronounced the benediction.

Preceding the exercises a bountiful luncheon was served to veterans and friends by Manassas Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

A TRIBUTE

"Tis but an olden theme
To sing the faithful dog—If in this our world
True friendship is a scarce and chary plant
It might be well to stop and sow its seed
Even in the humble bosom of a brute."

Today flowers bloom above his grave,
That narrow confine, wherein sleeps in undisturbed
Repose—the ashes of him once dear to me
The truest friend life ever gave—he'er was at my Side—faithful through all vicissitudes and change.

No selfish motive swayed his heart—no flattery
E'er stained his lips—he gave me all his love, and
For my life laid down his own.

All human love compared with this seems base—
For such does self, e'er dominate. His lot was lowly,
Few men, such mighty lords are they, would stoop—
To claim e'er his acquaintance—and yet his Soul compared with theirs, was as a planet
To you twinkling star

His life was brief—but measured by his deeds
Of love 'twas ripe and full. Sad I said it is, for Such an one, there is no future—where he might Claim eternal life—as well deserved by his life here.

For he was but my dog, companion

Senator Thornton's Vote.

No matter how people view the passage of the enabling act by the Senate yesterday they cannot help admiring the action of Senator R. E. Thornton, of Fairfax county, who represents this senatorial district in the upper house of the legislature. As is well known, Senator Thornton is a most conservative man on the liquor question. He does not use intoxicants in any form, and on general principles is opposed to their use. At the same time he was elected to represent a district that favors the legal sale of whiskey. Alexandria city has always been a wet town and in a recent election in Fairfax county when W. T. Oliver was opposed because he voted against the enabling act the voters sustained his action by a large majority. Senator Thornton announced several years ago that he was in the senate to carry out the views of his constituents and would therefore oppose the enabling act. This he has done without the least hesitation and his position has always been plain. Yesterday when the bill came to its final vote and many of the wet senators who had previously fought the act saw that the bill was going to pass, they jumped from their former position to the dry side and thus floated away with the majority. Senator Thornton stood firm in his position, however, and his was one of the eleven negative votes cast against the bill. — Alexandria Gazette.

MANASSAS.
[By Rev. T. D. D. Clark.]
A name forever memorable because of the first great battle of the Civil War, which was fought in its vicinity on Sunday, July 21, 1861.

Thy name is thine alone; thy fame can never be
Each patriot town and hamlet claims its well earned share;
Each brave unsullied soul that dauntless dared and died,
Each patriot maid and matron, here and everywhere.

Thy name remember was but little known
Till war's strange fortunes massed on hill and plain;
Its iron hearted, iron-handed hosts,
And shook these States from Texas on to Maine.

Thy name henceforth is wedded to thy fame;
And must no more indifferent live alone,
Exalt its worth for her illustrious sake,
And patriot lips shall praise thee for thine sake.

Lieut. George Carr Round, present owner of historic Belle Air, the old Ewell place, made an address and exhibited several old papers found on the premises. One of these was an old survey—probably made by George Washington—which was pasted on a copy of the Pennsylvania Gazette, an old paper published by Benjamin Franklin. Another was a letter written long years ago by Ewell's father as a young man explaining to his own father his expenditures while away from home.

Mr. Westwood Hutchison, commander of Ewell Camp, presided in his usual admirable manner. Toward the close of the program to Mr. A. H. Compton on behalf of John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, one of the several

A PLEA FOR APPRECIATION

We sometimes pause to wonder how much THE JOURNAL is appreciated in the homes of Prince William county, whose every public interest is the centre of so much thought and attention each week of the year before THE JOURNAL goes to press; and when we think of the many small matters that are considered so carefully that little errors may not creep in, there arises the question as to how much censure is heaped upon our humble heads when unavoidable mistakes occur.

Mistakes are natural; it is impossible to progress without error, and it happens that the errors of a newspaper come out in cold type. Even should we wish it, they are impossible to hide, and so, in each instance, a wave of real regret follows the discovery while, for the sake of less in the future, the thoughts are cast aside.

However, to explain the wherefore of all this talk: The thoughts were occasioned principally by a perusal of the leading editorial in the Richmond Times-Dispatch of January 20 which makes it very clear that the county readers of our many Virginia weeklies are getting their money's worth even though they fail to realize it until the rates are forced upward by reason of the increase in price of everything required to make a paper valuable to the reader.

THE JOURNAL does not ask for praise, nor even commendation, but it does sincerely and earnestly request your appreciation and your support. The small sum of one dollar a year means little to you as an individual while THE JOURNAL misses many dollars in friends if you find it something less than two cents a week cheaper to read your neighbor's copy or let the week go by.

Every subscription and every ounce of good will helps a paper to increase its usefulness and advertise the county to her people and to prospective residents.

We do not entertain the idea of increasing THE JOURNAL'S subscription rate but we would be very happy to feel that our efforts are recognized in some fraction of the degree in which our labors are spent to merit that appreciation.

The marked growth in our subscription list of recent weeks is a material assurance that the people of Prince William are not insensible to the efforts we expend.

The Times-Dispatch says: Their readers may declare it a combination of restraint of trade, but the weekly newspapers of the country continue their movement to raise their subscription price from $1 the year to $1.50 and upwards. Within two months, we are advised, 1,100 weekly papers have made this change in rate, with additions to the list almost daily.

In so doing, they have our hearty good wishes, even as in the past they have had our wondering admiration. It has always been a puzzle how some of these weekly papers have maintained their high standards during recent years without an increase in price. The cost of print paper is greater, the wages of labor are much higher, typographical display has become more expensive, and above all else, the reader demands more news and more costly news. Yet, at the present low prices, THE MANASSAS JOURNAL, the Virginia Gazette, the Salem Times Register, the Covington Dispatch and a dozen others we might mention publish every week papers that compare favorably, in form and content, with any weeklies of the land.

Nor have we understood why citizens of any county decline to subscribe to the county paper, or, what is worse, decry it. To be sure the four-page county weekly is not as crowded with the news of the world as is a city twelve-page daily. But, in its way, it is as important. Its purpose is different, its field is distinct, and it meets one of the needs of the local reader. From it and from no other source can the farmer get news of his neighbors; in its columns can be fought those local battles which sometimes are as vital to the comfort of the community as the campaign carried on in Congress.

We can, of course, only judge the merits of the weekly papers by their interest to us. And, frankly, we find them among our most valued helps. Their coming on Friday and Saturday—the days when most of them appear—brings us two pleasant and informing hours. If we, who study only the editorial pages, find that these papers repay careful scrutiny, we cannot understand how a single resident of the county where a weekly is published can fail to subscribe to it, to support it, to profit by it, and to enjoy it.

We say it with diffidence, but we have always thought that the true Virginian should read his county paper and a certain daily, which, in modesty, we shall forbear to mention.

In another column will be found the report of the grand jury empaneled to investigate the assessment of taxes in this county.

From this report, it appears that $113,600.00 was omitted from the tax books for the year 1913; which the grand jury, making its report reported omitted from the 1912 tax books $71,367.00, a total of $184,967.00 which has heretofore been omitted from the tax books.

It is not the purpose of this article to attempt to fix the responsibility of omitting nearly two hundred thousand dollars of taxable property from the tax books; nor to say whether such omission was the result of deliberate intention or evasion or ignorance or inadvertance. The fact remains, the tax payers—those who have heretofore paid the taxes—have been compelled to make up this deficit.

It has been said we are a nation of tax dodgers. Few people relish the payment of taxes, and the sympathy of the average man is with the man who can successfully evade the payment of his taxes.

A moment's reflection will demonstrate that for every dollar of omitted taxes, the tax payers have to pay just that much more.

Any work, whether done by a grand jury or the commissioner of the revenue, which tends to lay the burden of taxation on all alike, should receive the hearty commendation of every honest citizen.

WHEN WE ARE BIRDS

While most of us are groveling on the earth, occupied with the routine affairs of life, our friends the aviators are perfecting the science of aerial navigation and preparing to amaze us with new achievements. The trick of flying upside down has already become familiar as a circus stunt, and would probably fail to hold general attention but for the practical possibilities in the construction and management of these machines to which it points the way. How rapidly the science of aviation is growing and how greatly its field is expanding is shown by the round-the-world flight proposed by well-known aeronauts, and by the still more startling one-day flight across the Atlantic, for which Rodman Wanamaker is specially constructing a large aeroboot.

Five years ago we would have laughed at such a proposition as impossible, but now we feel that all the chances are in favor of success, and that if it is not accomplished this summer it is bound to be accomplished in the near future.

It is difficult to restrain the imagination and to make sober predictions of what men in their thirties will live to see in the matter of aviation, but in view of its progress in the last decade, and of the things it is now doing and attempting, the reality may approach the wildest dreams of poetry and the loftiest flights of fancy. — Baltimore Sun.

GENERAL EWELL

On the eighth day of February, in 1814, Richard Stoddard Ewell, the greatest military chieftain to which Prince William county lays claim, was ushered into a world which gave no thought to the service it would be his to render in the days of '61.

Last Saturday the people of Prince William met to offer tribute in commemoration of the centennial anniversary of his birth. The population is far from being wholly Southern, but "friend and foe," they joined in tribute.

During the exercises the grey-haired veterans rose to speak in glowing eulogy of "old Dick Ewell." A sort of mist seemed to come over the eye and the spectator was lost in wondering admiration of the man whose memory elicits such enthusiastic praise from noble men more than forty years after he has "passed over the river," without a living descendant to keep his memory green. Surely, in all his lifetime, General Ewell never conceived a greater earthly happiness than a knowledge of his comrade's lasting love.

VIRGINIA'S new executive is proving himself a man and a governor, worthy of the Old Dominion State.

THE administration's Mexican policy may receive criticism by the ton but the critics fail to present a better one.

LET your mind be a storehouse but don't tax your brain with information you can get from your neighbor any day. Remember the things worth while.

It is not his ability to keep abreast of the times but rather the inability of the times to follow him that proves a man truly great. It sometimes requires the next generation to recognize his genius.

We note among the recent promotions in the Government Printing Office that of Mr. Byron F. Hixson, a Manassas boy, who has been advanced to the position of monotype machinist. "Mr. Hixson was appointed from Virginia in 1908 as a helper, and by attention to duty has advanced to his present position," reads a G. P. O. note in the Washington Star. "He recently passed the civil service examination for monotype machinist with a high average and shortly afterward was promoted by the public printer."

Battle monuments for Confederate regiments at Gettysburg are suggested by Representative Walters of Pennsylvania, who has talked with several southern representatives on the subject. Mr. Walters is of the opinion that markers or monuments showing the position of the Confederate regiments should be provided exactly as the northern states have done for their regiments. "Since the reunion of the blue and the gray on the battlefield last summer," said Representative Walters, "Gettysburg has become a national shrine."

Prepayment of postage on first-class mail is no longer required according to a new order, promulgated by Postmaster General Burleson, which reads as follows: Letters and post or postal cards may be dispatched whether or not any postage is paid thereon. Other articles shall not be dispatched unless paid at least in part, and in all cases of insufficient payment double the amount of the deficiency shall be collected from the addressee. The option of no prepayment does not apply, however, to either letters or other articles mailed with the apparent intention of avoiding prepayment.

More than 25,000 citizen soldiers of Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware will have a taste of actual warfare this summer in the maneuvers which will take place on Virginia soil in the form of an attack on the city of Washington. The Pennsylvania troops, which form the Seventh Division of the National Guard, will make the attack and the other states, comprising the Eighth Division, reinforced by Troops from Fort Myer, the only regulars in the game, will defend the city. This will be the only big war game staged since the maneuvers here some years ago.

Men's Bible Class Organized.
On Sunday morning a movement was started that promises to be a great boon for the men of Manassas. About thirty of our young men met at the M. E. Church, South, and organized an undenominational Bible class. A temporary organization was effected, motto selected and committee appointed to look to see what could be done in general for the uplift of the men of Manassas. The class wishes to emphasize the fact that no special creed will be taught and therefore requests the men of Manassas to be with us. Our president, Mr. G. Raymond Ratcliffe, will gladly explain it to you.

The will, insurance policy, mortgage, note, stock, inventory, bond or stock certificate, when lost or destroyed causes endless trouble, misery and legal expense

EXHILARATION SPELLS DISASTER

Scientists tell us that no man can indulge in alcoholic drinks without materially impairing his faculties. Speaking of the dangers that may result from even a single drink the Portland (Me.) Express not long ago said: "The business man may be deliberating soberly over the advisability of making an investment. If it turns out well the profits will be large, but it means the tying up of a large sum, and after all it has rather a questionable side. Certainly it is something that needs a more thorough investigation. Perhaps weary of the perplexities of the problem the merchant turns out a stiff drink of liquor and drinks it. Somehow in a very few moments those enormous profits seem more alluring and the risk more chimerical. 'Nothing ventured, nothing gained. I'll take a chance,' says the business man and he does. Win or lose his judgment is not normal, for it is absolutely certain that without the drink he would have made the thorough investigation before investing. "The chauffeur driving a big touring car comes to a narrow chance between vehicles. In his absolutely sober, sound senses his judgment impels him to slow down and wait until passing traffic has removed the risk. The same chauffeur, had he before leaving his garage taken one drink of liquor, might have acted differently. Nobody would dare suggest that he was intoxicated. With a cigar between his teeth the alcoholic odor might have been unnoticeable, yet through his veins the quickened blood stimulates him to just that recklessness that overbalances his normally good judgment. "I can make that all right," he thinks, and the big car shoots ahead. "He, too, may or may not succeed in his venture. But he has taken a risk that he would not have taken had he not drunk the liquor. Herein lies the danger of even moderate drinking. One drink may have no outwardly visible effect on a man, yet once it gets into his blood he is affected. That is what he takes it for; not necessarily to make himself drunk, but for the exhilaration, an exhilaration which spells disaster. With whom do you wish to entrust your savings for investment, the man who drinks or the teetotaler? Whom do you prefer shall drive your car, the abstaining chauffeur, or the one who takes an occasional drink?"

MILK AND WHISKY.

A certain man was in a bar-room complaining loudly of the high cost of living. Among other things, he mentioned milk. "Just think of it," he said, "milk nine cents a quart. Now is a poor man to buy milk for a family at such a price as that?" Shortly afterwards he began to inquire of the bartender the price of different grades of whisky. The best grade was $1.50 a quart, another grade could be got for $1.25, while a still cheaper one was only $1 a quart. The customer thought a few minutes, and finally settled on that at $1.25. Milk nine cents a quart; whisky $1.25 a quart? No doubt the milk is high and wages are low enough, but we venture to say that the man who pays $1.25 for a quart of whisky, when his children could get fourteen quarts of milk for the same money, is a poor father.—Exchange.

NORTH CAROLINA SATISFIED.

Hon. E. B. Glenn, ex-governor of North Carolina, in a recent tour of Alabama in the interests of statewide total abstinence, said: "There is not any danger whatever of North Carolina ever again joining the ranks of liquor states. The people of our state are too well satisfied with prohibition. They have seen the state grow and prosper until today we rank second in textile production. A few years ago North Carolina was known only for its turpentine. Today we are famous as a manufacturing state. "North Carolina is clean and expects to continue clean. There is not even the remotest prospect of our state ever wanting to give up state-wide prohibition."

HOW BEER DRINKERS DIE.

A foreign writer says: "In the manufacture of beer we find by chemical and microscopic examination such adulterants as formalin, with its destructive action on all the internal organs, salicin, picric acid, quarsia, strychnia, aloes, copper and arsenic. "In view of these facts, is it any wonder that we have so many peculiar sudden deaths of late years ascribed to acute indigestion? Is it any wonder that in the city of Munich one out of every sixteen of the hospital patients dies from beer-drinking disease?"

A SCIENTIFIC FACT.

A man may undertake marriage without wrong to himself, his wife or posterity, if he is morally and physically sound. But the habitual drinker has no right to marry, not even the man or woman who indulges in an occasional drink. It is a scientific fact that the child conceived at a time when either parent has been drinking is inevitably born with nervous disorders which may very seriously affect his life.—Dr. George J. Fisher, M.D.

ARMY CUTS OUT ALCOHOL.

The Austro-Hungarian army, according to the Vienna correspondent of the Journal of the American Medical Association (May 31, 1913), is closely limiting the use of alcohol. "The present unsettled political conditions in Europe have resulted in keeping a large number of soldiers in readiness for more than half a year, and the provisions for hygienic welfare of several hundred thousand men are being put to a crucial test. "A fact worthy of notice is the nearly complete absence of alcohol from the daily bill of fare of the soldiers on the frontier. The water supply in that country being none too good, care has been taken to instruct the soldiers in this respect that they are being constantly told that the old statement, 'bad water is made innocuous by alcohol' is a dangerous misrepresentation. "It has also been ascertained that whenever a period of endurance was required of the soldiers those who took no alcohol were much more fit for work than the other men. In mountain climbing the consumption of alcoholic beverages was distinctly detrimental to the accuracy of stepping. The effect of sweetened liquid (sweet tea, coffee or milk) was very gratifying. The sweet, mild black Italian or Turkish wine with a very low percentage of alcohol was ranked with these other beverages, but even this wine was disallowed when long exercises were taken. "The experiences obtained by the army authorities will no doubt lead to a complete elimination of alcohol as 'war ration' except for medical use. Although here also experience speaks at least not in favor of an addition of alcohol for pneumonia, typhoid and general debility. "It is also noted that total abstainers form a negligible fraction among those soldiers who have to be punished for disorderly conduct, breach of discipline or other minor offenses of a military nature, although total abstinence is frequent now in the rank and file of the army, for, in the anti-alcohol movement in Europe, says the correspondent, 'our army is one of the leaders.'"

GOOD BETTER MEAT.

Total abstinence for a town or county is good from a business standpoint, but there is something better and that is total abstinence for the state. It must certainly be conceded that a state whose taxable property has increased in ten years $1,000,000,000, or at the rate of $100,000,000 a year is amazingly prosperous. Kansas is the commonwealth of which this fact is stated, and ex-Governor Stubbs is the man who vouches for the figures. He further affirms that Kansas contains more taxable property to the citizen than New York or Massachusetts; that its farmers own eighty-five per cent. of the bank deposits, and that these have increased at the rate of $10,000,000 a year for ten years; that it has many well-populated, agricultural counties in which the jills and the poorhouses have had no occupants for years. All the other total abstinence states can testify that prohibition brings financial prosperity as well as home happiness and individual well being.

WHAT DID JOHN HAVE TO SHOW?

In a certain community which was going to vote "wet" or "dry," an Irishman and a publican were discussing the question. Finally, the Irishman, whose given name was John, said to the saloon keeper, "Yes, Bennie, I'm going to vote 'dry' next fall." "Now, John, you are joking," said the publican, "you are too good a friend of mine to put me out of business. Just think, I have been here twenty years, and all the money I have made I have put into this business. How am I going to get my money back?" The Irishman said: "Well, Ben, I have been here twenty years, and all the money I have made I have put into your business. How am I going to get back my money?"

INSURANCE AND LIQUOR.

The following strong temperance testimony has just been given by an industrial insurance man: "In Munich, a city of about 35,000, our company placed many policies, the payment of which were met promptly and cheerfully. Last year the city voted wet, since which time our collectors have had the greatest difficulty in securing payments. In fact, delinquent payments and lapsed policies are now the rule instead of the exception. The industrial insurance men in the future will all vote for a temperance city, because it sustains and promotes their business."

LONG AND SHORT ELOQUENCE.

Several pages of a certain number of the Congressional Record are taken up by a speech of Congressman Rathbone on Personal Liberty—a defense of the liquor traffic. But what is all the long eloquence of this representative? In answer to this short eloquence of a woman writer to the Star: "My husband is also a firm believer in personal liberty, therefore the saloons get his money and my personal liberty consists in washing and scrubbing in order to feed my children."

THAT RUG FOR THE BATHROOM

Is Apt to Present Something of a Problem, but Its Solution May Be Found.

Somehow a bathroom rug is a more or less unsatisfactory proposition. It is very likely because water will splash upon it and damp towels and unslipped feet insist upon seeking its soft surface. And so, from sheer sanitary necessity, the bathroom rug must be washable; and from sheer contrariness will slip and wriggle—at least nine out of ten do.

But there is one kind that is more quietly inclined than most, because it is heavier—the old rag rug of our grandfathers' days. Cut an oval from some heavy washable material the size you desire the rug when finished. Desim would answer the purpose. Then from strips of some heavy, soft, washable goods make an even braid, being careful to fold in the rough edges neatly while plating the strips. The braid may be as wide or as narrow as you wish, and the strips cut accordingly. If the rug is to be blue and white, have one strip of white and two of blue, so that the rug will not show the soil too easily. Do not have the strips too long, and have one shorter than the other. This is to prevent them from becoming tangled in the plating, another strip can be attached to it neatly and the joining will be scarcely perceptible. Braid only a short length at a time, sewing them to the oval piece of denim, which forms the foundation, as they are finished. Use strong linen thread and sew along each edge of the braid, concealing the stitches under the loose parts of the braid.

PRACTICE TYING LILY BOW

It is the Latest, and Really Deserving of a Place in Every Woman's Scheme of Costuming. Do you know how to tie a lily bow? You should experiment with some old lengths of ribbon if you mean to make for yourself a velvet-crowned autumn hat whose smartness will depend entirely upon the poise of its trimming. First you take your five half-yard strands of sash ribbon and, sewing one end of each about the base of a hat's crown, draw the entire number over its apex so that they shall form a puffy appearance which will not be pretty in the silk ribbon, but which is lovely in the new velvet. Having firmly twisted the whole mass together with a bit of hat wire, run the slenderest of wires along both sides of each of the ends and then twist them into shapes as nearly as possible resembling the leaves of a lily. One end should be bent so that its stipes partly overlap at the top while they open out toward the bottom, another should become a half spiral, and should be half double and a fifth should look like a budding leaf. Don't get discouraged when they refuse at first to take lily leaf shapes. Wired ribbon will stand a lot of handling and, once having acquired the knack of twisting it into lily shapes, to repeat the process with velvet will be a brief task.

SHIRTTWAISTS FOR THE FALL

The chic shirtwaist this fall will be washable. "No starch" is the verdict for the fashionable shirtwaist. Many waists of chiffon will be worn. Chiffon waists may be washed if stiffened with a somewhat stronger gum water, two teaspoonfuls of the stock solution to a cupful of water. Plain shirtwaists will be worn this fall—linen, duck and gingham being popular. Extremely simple cuts are the rules in shirtwaists. Very close to the man's shirt is the fall waist for women, elongated shoulder line and short yoke being the rule. Cotton crepe, voile, satin and brocaded waists must all have the short yoke. For a plain tailored waist of linen, madras, pongee or wash silk the yoke may be omitted and the plaits at both front and back run to the shoulder. Stitching will be made prominent on tailored waists.

Thanksgiving Novelties

For instance: All vegetables. That is, in appearance. Even the guests represent them. Vegetable decorations are not novel, but carrots made of yellow cheese are. A garden basket of spun sugar with ice cream vegetables for dessert is another. Bonbon boxes of wax are made like different vegetables. And women represent heads of lettuce and radishes, with crinkly green cheese paper leaves. The men are lanky ears of corn dressed in bared yellow paper and they are also cucumbers and stalks of celery. It might be a lot of fun for a week-end party or some one looking for unusual features for entertaining.

Knockabout Wraps.

Brand new sport coats, appearing lately at the French polo games, flared at the lower edge instead of clinging to the limbs. Such coats have semi-belted backs and high pockets and are infinitely snappy in style. Some good-looking knockabout coats for fall wear, just brought out here, are of Scotch homespun in mustard color, with deep raglan shoulders, big pockets and the new flare cut at the lower edge.

FARM STOCK

DISEASED FEET OF CATTLE

Sudden Lameness Often Caused by Small Scratch or Abrasion—Keep Animals Out of Mud.

By C. C. LIPP, Assistant Veterinarian, University Farm, St. Paul, Minn. It is not at all uncommon for cattle to show a very sudden lameness.

An examination of the lame foot will usually reveal swelling and tenderness. If the space between the claws is cleaned out, the skin abrasion is usually plainly evident.

Treatment consists in keeping the affected animals out of the mud and wet manure for several days.

The severer form should receive, in addition to a thorough cleaning, a dressing of equal parts of iodotannin and boric acid under a bandage for several days.

Dr. Hodgkin Makes Charge.

Manassas friends of Dr. Hodgkin, a former resident and recent town visitor, will be interested in the following from the Times-Dispatch of yesterday:

According to charges made by Dr. J. B. Hodgkin, of Urbanna, in a letter to Governor STUART, the tobacco furnished the 900 old veterans in the Lee Camp Soldiers' Home is of a grade which has been condemned as unfit for the public market.

"The old soldiers are furnished with plenty of tobacco," said Dr. Hodgkin, "I am no judge of that, but all of it comes in tins which have holes punched in them."

No official notice will be taken by the Governor of the charges brought by Dr. Hodgkin. The letter was filed away with the office correspondence, where it can be reached in case an investigating committee is appointed by the General Assembly to go over the affairs of the home.
