$270,000 FOR RELIEF WORK

This Amount Raised by Mrs. Vandervelde During Six Months in America.

New York in behalf of America says its farewell tribute to Mme. Lalla Vandervelde, wife of the Belgian Minister of State, who is about to sail for his home in ruined Belgium.

A most remarkable woman is this. She came six months ago on a mission from her King to the American people. Her task has been to raise funds with which to feed the Belgians who were forced into starvation when their country was suddenly turned into one terrible battlefield. By her own efforts she has succeeded. It is largely due to her that the United States is sending one relief ship after another to Belgium, and besides food and clothing has contributed much more than $1,000,000 in cash.

HER WORK IN AMERICA

Mme. Vandervelde has spoken in cities in all parts of the United States and in Canada, and herself has collected more than $270,000.

King Albert himself urged Mme. Vandervelde to come to America to plead for his people. Before leaving the other side, like a good general, she planned her campaign.

Her first extended trip in this country carried her into Canada, and her later trips across the continent, each stop netting many thousand dollars.

"I love America and Americans," said Mme. Vandervelde, in an interview in this city the other day. "You Americans are generous, clever, hospitable and ingenious. The wealth here is marvelous, and yet you do not permit yourselves to blind your eyes to the poverty and suffering in less favored countries.

"The women in the United States are more respected and are better than are women anywhere else in the world. When we started for this country I was told that I would get sympathy in America but little money."

What a mistake that was!

$900 FROM VIRGINIA

"Only the other day I received a check for $900 from Virginia. I had not spoken in that state and the donor is quite unknown to me. I have received checks for thousands of dollars, but I have appreciated just as much the small contributions which have come from more humble sources. At one of my meetings a working man came onto the stage and gave me his bank book. It is a contribution of $7.50—all that he had. The employees of a department store gave $5.8 to me, all saved from their scanty earnings.

"In one place where I was working with the local relief committee a laborer came into the room where we were, took his coat off and threw it on the pile of clothing that was to be sent to Belgium. That is all I have to give," he said, "but some poor devil in Belgium needs it worse than I do." He was gone before we had recovered sufficiently to learn his name.

"Do you wonder I love Americans when I see their intense feeling, so practically demonstrated? Do you wonder that I am eager to get back to Belgium, that I may put new heart into any people by telling them of the mountain of love that I have found bobbing forth for them in the United States?"—New York Evening Sun.

A three-day campaign conducted by the Boy Scouts of Richmond closed Thursday night, more than $10,000 having been raised. The money will be used to advance the Boy Scout movement in Richmond.

A MODEL HOME COITAGE

Dr. Robert Kohn, to be built at Industrial School for Transient Williams.

In the early spring the boys of the Manassas Industrial School will break ground and start building the foundation for a model cottage to be the home of Mr. T. C. Williams, the treasurer and business manager of the school. The cottage, however, is to serve another purpose aside from that of furnishing quarters for a very worthy officer of the school in that it is to be a model in cottage building for the colored community. It is to be a simple six-room house of the bungalow type, built of tiles, with an asbestos shingle roof and made in every way as fireproof as possible. This, of course, is an important consideration in the building of a house so far removed from adequate water supply in case of fire. The rooms will all be furnished in the simplest, most substantial style and furnished in tasteful yet inexpensive furniture. It is desired by the trustees that this cottage should be an example of a model home for the colored farmers of the community; that they may see how the practical and the beautiful may be happily combined at a moderate cost; and that a substantial cottage with all the advantages of up-to-date equipment may be had at a price within the limit of every farmer of moderate means.

The largest part of the money for the building of this cottage has been given by Mr. Morris A. Black, of Cleveland, who is eager to do all he can to give the colored community of this particular section the advantage of learning how to build their homes. The balance of the fund was given by the trustees of the school and some other friends. Mr. Robert Kohn, the New York

ROAD IMPROVEMENT.

A bulletin issued by the office of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture contains a map of Dallas County, Alabama, as illustrating the intelligent handling of the problem of road improvement so as to benefit the largest number of farmers.

The map shows five improved roads centering at Selma. One of these branches a short distance from town making six radiating roads. Only two relatively unimportant roads leading out from Selma are unimproved. The total length of improved roads in the county is 197 miles. While this is only 19 per cent of the total road mileage, as a result of the policy of improving part of the mileage of each important road leading out from their principal market town and shipping point, the farmers in nearly every part of the county have an improved road for at least part of their haul to market. As was pointed out by President Harrison of Southern Railway Company, in his address before the American Road Congress at Atlanta, the farmer should be given first consideration in the selection of country roads to be improved and the greatest possible number of farmers will be benefited by a system of radiating roads such as has been adopted in Dallas County.

A COLORED SANATORIUM.

When we say that a colored sanatorium for Virginia is one of the really vital needs of the state we are making a very conservative statement. Statistics tell us that the death rate of the colored people in Virginia from consumption is relatively more than twice that of the white people from the same disease. It is also stated that 125 more colored people died of tuberculosis in our state last year than in any previous year. The state has a sanatorium for white consumptives, but for the negroes there is no place where a consumptive can be carried and properly cared for except the penitentiary and insane asylum. Such a condition, to say the least, is deplorable and should receive the consideration of every citizen of the state.

Unsanitary methods of living and of housing among the colored people is the direct cause of the relatively higher death rate among negroes than among whites. As it is, whole families are frequently swept away by the disease. The Negro Organization Society of Virginia has been, and is, doing a valuable work in encouraging and establishing sanitary conditions in the homes and schools of the colored people. This society, together with the Virginia Anti-Tuberculosis Association is backing the movement for a state colored sanatorium. The colored people throughout the state have been appealed to in two ways this week: to clean up and to give towards a colored sanatorium. It is to be hoped that they will show by their support a hearty interest in these steps for their betterment.

The need of a colored sanatorium is not only a question of vital importance to the negro population, but it is also one which concerns the white people to a great extent. Colored consumptives in a community, unless properly cared for, spread the disease far and wide. As a rule the sick are mingled indiscriminately with the other members of the household until he is taken to his bed. Even now, no sanitary methods of isolation are followed, with the result that every member of the household becomes a carrier of the germs and stands a good chance of contracting the dread disease. Colored servants often carry the germs into the homes of white people. A consumptive colored girl may be employed as a nurse for your baby, or perhaps your cook or waitress comes from a consumption-ridden home. So it is right to say that the rapid spread of tuberculosis among the negroes has a social importance to the white people.

We will not attempt to discuss the need of the white population for an enlarged sanatorium. Better accommodations for white consumptives is a very pressing need, however, and one which we must in some way meet. But we must give our attention to this proposed colored sanatorium now, not at some future time when the whites will be well taken care of. The chance of a negro consumptive getting better in his home is a mighty slim one. Once the negro contracts tuberculosis he stands only the barest chance of recovery, for all his home conditions are against him. With his lack of education, his limited knowledge of sanitary methods, and his disregard of early symptoms of tuberculosis, the negro needs special attention in the manner of proper treatment.

The white man should help in the establishment of this sanatorium. By getting the work well under way we will be waging a more systematic fight against the white plague, for then we will have taken steps to check its spread, not only among the negroes, but also among ourselves. A contagious disease among two races which are brought into daily contact with each other must be fought at its basis in each race. In no other way is their any hope of stamping it out. Hence the proposed establishment of a state sanatorium for colored consumptives is a logical and wise step in the betterment of health conditions, and one which deserves your hearty support.

LENT is drawing to a close. This is not intended as a startling news item, for we presume that all have heard of the season before. Fess up now, you members of the Episcopal and Catholic churches, have you practised self-denial as was once a common custom?

HOW TO GET GOOD ROADS.

It's the old subject of good roads. We lay aside other arduous tasks and again consider a question which has been uppermost in the minds of many of us during the past few months. If you live in the country you know what bad roads in the winter are like. You know also that you do not travel over them any more than you can possibly help. Is it not a fact that when you have the most leisure on the farm, when you can really get away without being missed very much, that is the very time when the roads are almost impassable? Why should an intelligent, thrifty people like us tolerate such abominable roads?

Do you not realize that you are really paying most dearly for poor roads? Is your time worth anything to you? How about the wrenching and twisting of your wagons when they go down into deep mud-holes? Mr. Farmer, it has been shown time and again that you pay for the privilege of keeping bad roads in your community. Just because you have not paid for it directly, that does not prove that every mud-hole is not taking dollars out of your pocket.

Now, a few words to the town element. You who live in Manassas have this winter had a sample of what bad roads are like. But you may argue that bad roads in the country, while presenting a deplorable condition for country people, really do not affect you. Here you are wrong. Every citizen of Manassas is affected by every bad road in Prince William county. Indirectly you are also paying for bad roads. Bad roads mean higher cost of fuel, less frequent trips to the market and hence higher prices for foodstuffs. Mr. Business Man is the big loser in town, however. If you want to encourage the mail-order business just keep the roads in as bad a condition as possible as long as possible. Parcel post does not become such an ally of mail-order houses until the roads begin to get bad. Why do you blame a man from ordering goods from a catalogue at home when it is almost impossible to come to your store? What has killed business in Manassas this winter more than anything else? Not the European war, not stringent financial conditions, but bad roads.

What we want is permanent good roads. A little scraping with a road machine, a few ditch-diggers here and there and the filling in of a few bad mud-holes may tide the roads over until next winter. But you hope to be living then, and living in a community where the roads are fine the year round goes a long way towards making you contented. Resolve to stop spending several hundred dollars on patching up the roads every spring. Let this money go towards permanent road building under an expert and we will have invested it far more wisely.

No good roads have come to a community by merely discussing what a benefit they would be. Every one agrees that good roads are a necessity, so discussion is really out of order. Mr. Taxpayer, you will have to go down into your jeans before good roads will become a reality. Good roads will cost, but they will pay for themselves over and over again. Let us have a hand issue, even if it is for just a few miles of a good road; more will follow quickly. The all-important thing is to make a start. Do not lose your voice by talking about what good roads will do for a community; start the ball rolling by circulating a petition for a vote on a bond issue.

WHY WORK?

Have you ever thought of the mission of work? To watch some people at their daily tasks you would think that they had benevolenced to work because of some misadventure. Certain it is that every one does not find the message in work that God has put into it. One law, as inescapable as that of gravity, is that life without work becomes a something that has lost its balance.

Very few of us do too much work; more frequently we have not enough to do. Nothing is more conducive to good health than plenty of interesting work. This, combined with good food and fresh air, is better than all the medicine in the world. The next time you think you need a tonic try some good hard work; you will forget all about the tonic.

Did you ever see some able-bodied man who has retired from work? He looks like he is lost and, in reality, he is. To keep a machine in good running order the wise thing to do is to keep it going. This rule can also be applied to man. Many a man has died prematurely because he stopped working. If you want to reap the greatest joy out of life, no matter whether you are young or old, you must go for it via the work route.

MRS. WHEELER HOSTESS

The regular meeting of the Governor Good Housekeeping Club was held at the home of Mrs. J. D. Wheeler at Wellington, March 18. It was an afternoon with St. Patrick and the Irish poet, Moore. There was quite a good deal of business to be talked over, after which luncheon was served and enjoyed. We had several guests, among them Mrs. Shaw, our Woman's Auxiliary Secretary, who is always so interested in the club work. SAC'Y.

Build Up Your Strength

Rexall Wine of Cod Liver Extract contains all the valued drug principles of purest Cod Liver Oil without the nauseating taste of the oil itself, and has proven ideal in treating run-down, weakened conditions, especially in children. Most persons in whom are found tubercular tendencies are to a greater or less extent anemic—the blood pale and impoverished. Rexall Wine of Cod Liver Extract, in addition to the medicinal virtues of Cod Liver Oil, contains potassium of iron to help supply this deficiency. In the treatment of children who are pale and listless and who catch cold easily, you may confidently expect an increase in the appetite and weight and the general appearance of good health very quickly after beginning the use of sometimes after two or three days' treatment. We strongly recommend, however, that the treatment with Rexall Wine of Cod Liver Extract be continued until such a time as there is every indication of a perfect, healthy condition. Aged persons who find their general strength below its normal state will find in Rexall Wine of Cod Liver Extract that mild, healthful stimulant which the system is so greatly in need. Remember, Rexall Wine of Cod Liver Extract is guaranteed to satisfy, or money back. PRICE, $1.00.

IN MEMORIAM.

On Thursday morning, March 18, at 11:45 o'clock, the Death Angel hovered over our vicinity and took from our midst one of our citizens, Calvin C. Pote. He was born Oct. 22, 1855, and at his death he was 59 years, 4 months and 24 days old. He came to Virginia in 1894 and has been a resident of Prince William county since that time. In 1891 he was joined in marriage to Barbara Helminger. This union was blessed with nine children. He leaves his wife and six children: Ira H. Thomas, J., of Clifton, Va.; Roy R., of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Carrie Lawrence, of Yorkshire farm, near Manassas; Harry Lee and Lizzie H. Pote at home. Two brothers, Messrs. Andrew C. Pote, of Baker's Summit, Pa., and David Pote, of Coaling, Okla.; three sisters, Mrs. David Miller and Mrs. Emma Eckhard, of Baker's Summit, Pa., and Mrs. David King, of New Enterprise, Pa. He was a member of the Brethren church for over 24 years. Funeral services were conducted at the home Saturday at 1 o'clock and at the Central Branch church at 2:30 o'clock, in the cemetery nearby. Services were conducted by Elders A. Cassir, E. H. Hough and John King. Texts, Rev. 20-24 and Hebrews 9-11. Hymns, "We'll Never Say Goodby," "Peacefully Sleep," and "We Are Going Down the Valley," were selected by the wife and children. The pallbearers were J. J. Cannon, A. G. Harley, T. H. Marks, N. E. Hattie, J. E. Hattie and F. H. Nelson.

CATHARIN G. H. CLUB. Mrs. C. H. Helminger was the hostess of the Catharin Good House-keeping Club, in March 1, all the members being present. This was the first meeting of the fourth club year and the new year books were presented and admired. On the front page may be seen a photograph of the attractive and lovable little club mascot—Hansel and Gretchen. The program, consisting of humorous readings, was well rendered and enjoyed by all present.

On March 17 the club was entertained at the parsonage by Mrs. C. Although the attendance was small there was manifested the same interest and enjoyment that pervades all these gatherings. The subject of "sermons" a question that should be of vital importance and interest to all mothers, was discussed. Both hostesses served delicious luncheons and, needless to say, full justice was done them. These luncheons have become such specimens of the culinary art that the writer of this article has no more adjectives left to describe them. She therefore begs the secretaries of the sister clubs to suggest some new ones. L. E. S., Sec'y.

NEGRO DEATH RATE LESS FIRE COST IS ENORMOUS HIS LECTURE INSPIRING PHOTOGRAPHS

Census Bulletin Gives Figures for 1900-1910 Decade—Due to Ownership of Homes.

Directing attention to decrease in the death rate of the negro population of the country far in excess of the decrease in that for the white population, the bureau of the census, in a statement, attributes the fact to the increased home ownership among the negro population. The negro mortality statistics are for 1910, and the decrease was noted in the comparison with the figures of 1900.

In the decade from 1900 to 1910 the number of homes owned by negroes in the southern states increased by 102,012, or 31.4 per cent, this advance covering increase in farm homes of 30,439, or 16.7 per cent, and in other homes of 72,463, or 43.8 per cent which represents the number of homes in 1910.

Discussing the decline in the death rate among the negroes, the census bureau takes as a basis for its calculation the so-called registration area, which contained 19.7 per cent of the total number of negroes in the United States in 1910. The deaths in the area numbered 49,493, with a death rate of 25.5 per 1,000 population—a decrease in comparison with the rate in 1900, which was 23.4 per cent.

Both negroes and white show decreases in death rate in 1910, as compared with 1900, according to the bulletin, the decline for the negroes being 2.1 and for white 2.5 per 1,000 population. Every city in the south, except Key West, Fla., and Memphis, Tenn., showed a lower death rate for negroes in 1910 than in 1900.

SWANSON LAUDS WILSON

At Launching of Pennsylvania He Responds to the Toast "To Our President."

At the banquet following the launching of the Pennsylvania on March 16, Trustmaster Hopkins gracefully welcomed the guests and called upon Senator Claude A. Swanson to respond to the toast, "To Our President."

The junior senator from Virginia was awarded an ovation. Mr. Swanson said that ordinarily he was very long-winded but that this time it was not necessary—the achievements and patriotism of Woodrow Wilson speak for themselves. The senator said he had served in Congress under Cleveland, McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, and Wilson, and that during the two years under the latter he had become firmly convinced that Woodrow Wilson has the virtues of all four of his predecessors combined.

Woodrow Wilson first taught Congress how to work, said Senator Swanson. Formerly it was the style to work one day and take six to tell about it. Now the vogue is to do a lot of work, say little about it and let the results stand for themselves.

"There can be but one word said about our president," said the speaker, "and that is, he has kept the faith." The president was lauded for the greatest achievement in American history—the elimination of sectional lines, there being no North and no South today, the senator declared.

In Woodrow Wilson there are also combined, said the senator, the virtues of Washington and Jefferson. Not since Lincoln has a president had such burdens upon him, but "Woodrow Wilson is a man dedicated to peace, honor and liberty, and whatever differences we may have with him, we'll stand by our leader in the time of trial and tribulation. Woodrow Wilson will preserve peace, but with courage and in the interest of American honor."—Exchange.

Our Carelessness Costs Us Five Hundred Dollars a Minute—Precaution Needed.

[From the Philadelphia Ledger.] Franklin H. Wentworth, secretary of the National Fire Protection Association, is authority for the statement made before the Philadelphia Association of Credit Men that the fire loss in the United States amounts to $250,000,000 a year, or $500 a minute.

The average per capita fire loss for the United States is $3, according to a recent computation, which gives $1.65 as the figure for Philadelphia, $2.70 for New York and $5.15 for Boston. Our extravagant carelessness is in marked contrast to the showing for European cities, which gives 25 cents for Berlin, 38 cents for Bremen, 47 cents for Paris, 50 cents for London and $1.42 for Petrograd.

In six European countries the average annual fire loss is 33 cents per capita. There are eight fires for each 10,000 of the population. In the United States there are 40 per 10,000. Berlin, with 3,000,000 people, expends $300,000 on the fire department and suffers a loss of $175,000; Chicago, with inhabitants numbering 1,000,000 less, spends $2,000,000 on the fire department and has a loss of $5,000,000.

The figures tell their own story and point their own moral: Each American, young or old, pays a tax of $3 a year for somebody's carelessness with matches or cigarettes, the improper supervision of storage of inflammable waste, the sweeping conflagrations started by careless campers or passing locomotives. For 32 years past the total bill is nearly $6,000,000,000 in property losses and nearly $4,000,000,000 in insurance. It is a terrible penalty for the national vice of negligence and the laxitude of public sentiment. No wonder the insurance rates remain high, as long as ordinary precautions are neglected by the individual and laxity in the enforcement of such laws as there may be is officially tolerated.

RURAL SOCIAL CENTERS.

We need social centers where our young people can be entertained, amused, and instructed under the direction of cultured, clean and competent leadership, where artistic surroundings stir the love for the beautiful, where art charges the atmosphere with inspiration and power, and innocent amusements instruct and brighten their lives.

To hold our young people at home and on the farm we must make home-life, farm-life, and country-life more attractive, as well as the business of town and farming more remunerative. The school house should be the social center, properly equipped for teaching and building character, so that the lives of our peoples can properly function around it and become supplied with the necessary elements of human thought and activity, and organization.—Exchange.

U. D. C. to Observe Anniversary

Manassas Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will observe the anniversary of the battle of Shiloh at the chapter room in the M. I. C. building on Tuesday evening, April 6, beginning at 8 o'clock. An interesting program will be given, one feature of which will be the presentation of a life-size replica reproduction of the V. M. I. portrait of the Bay Major of the Confederacy, Joseph W. Lister, to the Manassas High School. A social half hour and refreshments will complete the program. The public is cordially invited. Admission, 10 cents. Proceeds to be applied to the Shiloh monument fund.

Dr. Turner's Lecture Was Well Received—The Trio and the Magician—Conclusion.

Continued From First Page. gram of the festival. Her impersonations gained the rapt attention of the audience, even that of the little boys, and encore after encore found her as popular as ever. She was especially fine in her delineation of children.

Miss Burke, pianist, and Kauppi, boy cornetist, gave several good musical renditions at both appearances. Kauppi, a boy of about sixteen years, played the cornet in a masterly way.

Springer, the magician, proved the drawing card for the little tots, both in the afternoon and in the evening. He performed many clever tricks, all of which were veiled in that mystery which surrounds the workings of a master magician.

SOME REMARKS.

The festival came to a close with all those who attended ringing its praises. About 100 tickets were pledged for a similar festival for next year and a few guarantees were secured. At present nothing definite is known; in order to get the festival a sufficient number of guarantees will have to be signed up first.

All the lycans people expressed themselves as being highly pleased with their reception and stay in Manassas. Surely Manassas has only the most amicable feelings towards an association which has connected with it men and women of the type who for three days came amongst us.

THE JOURNAL wishes to express itself as highly pleased with the fine lectures and entertainments afforded our people, but deplors the fact that the guarantees, in some cases, paid quite high for their public-spiritedness.

A RE-EMPHASIS ON THE

Richmond Will Extend Big Week—come to Confederate Veterans—June 1, 2 and 3.

The twenty-fifth annual reunion of the survivors of the heroic Army of the Confederacy will be celebrated in Richmond on June 1, 2 and 3. It is particularly fitting that this quarter-century anniversary should be held in the old Capital of the Confederate States of America. Already Richmond is making big preparations for this event, and invitations will go forward to many distinguished men and women, asking them to attend this great gathering.

Fifty years ago the war came to an end, and Richmond was left an humbled, depleted city. Now it is one of the foremost of the South, and the magnificent reception which it is planning for the old soldiers and their friends promises to give to it the reputation of "unexcelled in hospitality."

The railroads throughout the state are offering especially attractive rates to this reunion. Below we give the reduced fares to Richmond and return for Manassas and near-by stations.

Table with 2 columns: Station, Rate. Manassas $2.95, Colberton 2.95, Culpeper 2.55, Delaplane 1.65, Fairfax 2.15, The Plains 1.35.

Tickets will be on sale May 29 to June 2, and will be good until June 10, longer if extended. The Southern Railway has promised every possible concession in their power to make this reunion a pleasing and memorable event to all who may attend.
