HIGH SCHOOL ADVANTAGES

Miss Osbourn Explains Business Course Offered at the Agricultural School.

By Miss E. H. Osbourn, Principal Manassas High School.

In the issue of the Journal for August 17, some account was given of the state supported normal course offered in Manassas High School, its advantages, and also its importance to the prospective teachers of the county, since the state is now beginning to require professional training for all teachers.

In this issue I should like to call the attention of the people of our community to the really excellent business course the High School is also offering. The course is given, for the most part, in the third and fourth years, after two years of general high school work; and consists of bookkeeping, both single and double entry, business arithmetic, rapid calculation, stenography, typewriting and business English.

In accordance with the usual policy of the high school in bringing up the work of all the departments, wherever possible, to the best recognized standards, the work in typewriting, rapid calculation and penmanship has been standardized by requiring each graduate to take the initial certificate given by the Underwood Typewriter Company, the National Proficiency certificate, given by the Mcintosh Publishing Company, and the Palmer Stenography certificate.

In stenography a speed of 100 words a minute for three minutes, taken from new matter, and translated at the rate of 25 words a minute, is required; and in spelling a grade of 95 per cent. Academic English and a year's work in American history and civics also form a part of the complete course. Students therefore finishing the course are prepared to do an advanced grade of work and command good salaries accordingly. A diploma is given upon the completion of the full course, but certificates may be obtained for either the bookkeeping or stenographic section of the work.

Some objections have been made that this work has been put mainly in the third and fourth instead of the first and second high school years; but the advantages of the plan are so great as to easily outweigh any drawbacks.

In the first place it tends to keep the boys and girls in school longer. So many fail to realize the priceless value of these years of youth as an opportunity for getting all the preparation possible for after life, that without some such strong incentive, many drift out of school and away from the possibilities of development it opens to them, and so condemn themselves to lives that are poverty stricken in more senses than one. Any plan, therefore, that offers an incentive to a more prolonged stay in school means a chance for richer growth and development on the part of many more boys and girls.

The complaint is also made that parents are not able to keep their children in schools so long. But while that is oftener true in the cities it hardly holds in our own community, where few of the patrons are unable, or unwilling to give their children the advantage of a full course. This difficulty can also usually be met by special arrangement.

TO INCREASE WHEAT CROP

Wheat Clubs Planned to Boost Acreage in County Twenty Per Cent Next Year.

We have been asked by the government to increase our wheat acreage at least twenty per cent, in order to increase the wheat crop another year. An increased production does not depend altogether on the acreage planted; it depends very much upon preparation of the bed, fertilizers, seed and amount of each sowed per acre.

Since increased production depends largely upon methods of seeding, etc., it is believed by the County Agent and others to be a wise plan to work up a Wheat Club, each member of the club to raise five acres the best he knows how and is able to learn how to do it. If enough will enter this wheat club project, I am sure valuable prizes can be secured for the best wheat growers. Rules for such a club and basis of awarding prizes have not been worked out. However, this will be done later and published, and in the meantime I shall try to secure promises for prizes.

It is believed that it will be necessary to divide the club into two sections, one on land that is in corn this year and the other on land that is not in corn.

The object of a club is not simply to stake off five acres of your wheat field and keep a record of what it costs to produce the wheat, or to win a prize, but to use better methods in preparing and seeding this plot than has been your practice, and to see if such methods are profitable. Possibly you cannot afford to spend more time and money on your entire crop this year since you are increasing your acreage at the same time.

Begin now preparing a seed bed, write or see your county agent for suggestions. Let us see if we can plant 500 acres of wheat this fall the best we know how. It will take only 100 farmers in the club to do this. Figure out for your self how much this would mean to the county if we would increase the yield 10 bushels per acre at two dollars per bushel.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Paul Nelson and children, who have been at their Manassas bungalow for the summer, leave tomorrow afternoon for their winter home at Huntington, W. Va. Mrs. Nelson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Robson, Mrs. Robson's father, Mr. Shoemaker, and other members of the family, will remain here for several weeks.

SCHOOLS OPEN NEXT MONDAY

Large Attendance Expected—Faculty of High and Graded Schools.

The Manassas schools will re-open Monday morning at 9 o'clock. Larger enrollments are expected in both the high and graded schools and prospects point to a successful term.

The high school faculty this year is composed of Miss E. H. Osbourn, principal, instructor in history and science; Mr. H. W. Sanders, director of agriculture; Miss E. M. Grenels, normal training department; Miss Lulu D. Metz, domestic science and Latin; Miss Mildred Belt, modern languages; Miss Mary J. Cox, mathematics; Miss Willette R. Myers, commercial department; Mrs. C. E. L. Hodge, music and expression, and Mr. Ira E. Cannon, manual training.

The new members of the faculty are the director of agriculture and the instructor of modern languages. Mr. Sanders is a graduate of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and Miss Belt is a graduate of George College.

The graded school faculty consists of Mrs. C. M. Larkin, principal, and the following assistants: Misses Kate and Halma Wilcoxson, Ella W. Garth, Beatrice Linstrong, Alice B. Moran, Louise Mahoney and Grace E. Metz. Miss Metz taught last year at Grayston. Miss Mary E. Rosenbloom, who was appointed, has resigned the position to accept employment in Washington. Her successor is to be named as soon as possible. "Parents are requested and urged to enter their children on the first day of school," said Mrs. Larkin, principal of the graded school. "This is especially important in the primary department."

Mrs. E. K. Mitchell broke her wrist and sustained severe bruises several days ago when she fell down the stairs at her home on Quarry road.

SERVICE AT OLD CHRIST CHURCH

Descendants of King Carter Worship at Edifice Built in the Year 1732.

"The grounds of old Christ Church presented a very animated scene on Sunday afternoon when the historic edifice was once more open to the public for divine services," says the Rappahannock Record, published at Kilmarnock, Lancaster county. "In the King Carter pew sat many of his descendants. Among them were Mrs. Mary Landon Deache, of Washington, who was a Miss Mary Armistead and a direct descendant of Robert Carter; her sister, Mrs. Arthur Williams Sinclair, of Manassas who was Miss Eloise Armistead, and Miss Anna Clark, of Baltimore, who is descended from the Ball family and who at her own expense had the baptismal font and the communion table repaired and the steps leading to the pulpit made safe.

"The spirit of those dead and gone ancestors who worshipped there for so many years seemed to hover over the place and one felt as he entered that he was treading on holy ground."

CIVIC LEAGUE AT TOWN HALL

Old Officers Relected and Committees Reappointed—Clean-Up Plans.

The Manassas Civic League met on Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Town Hall, with Mr. G. Raymond Ratcliffe, president in the chair. Owing to the Red Cross society having its meetings on the first and third Mondays of the month, the Civic League will meet on the second Monday. An amendment to the constitution to this effect will be presented and passed in due time.

All the officers were relected as follows: Mr. G. Raymond Ratcliffe, president; Mrs. J. L. Harrell, vice-president; Rev. Alfred Kelley, secretary; Mrs. G. C. Round, treasurer.

The committee appointments were continued and they are as follows:

Municipal Improvement—Mrs. J. L. Harrell, Mrs. H. U. Hoop, Mrs. G. Raymond Ratcliffe.

Ways and Means—Mrs. R. S. Lynson, Mrs. T. E. Haynes substituted for Mrs. H. L. Williams, Miss Isabel Kelley.

Sanitation—Mrs. A. E. Spies, Mrs. H. D. Wenrich, Mrs. W. C. Wagener (substituted for Mr. G. W. Wagener.)

As there are a number of members who are delinquent in their dues, a motion was passed requesting the treasurer, Mrs. George C. Round, to divide the names of the delinquents among the officers and members of the committees who will solicit payment. This was done in order to avoid the expense of a collector.

There was some discussion in regard to a clean-up week in October. As there is still a small balance due from the spring clean-up, it was decided to await the result of the collection of dues before deciding definitely.

After the collection of dues the league adjourned.

DISCREPANCIES IN TAX VALUES

Manassas Station Said to be Assessed at Only $125. Investigation.

That the widest discrepancies exist between the assessments of railroad properties and real estate similarly situated, but owned by individuals, are the facts supported by affidavits in the hands of Attorney-General Pollard. The Attorney-General has called upon the commonwealth attorneys and other people throughout the state to submit any facts that show that unjust and unequal taxation exists.

When questioned yesterday, Mr. Pollard said that he had affidavits from Charlottesville, Danville and Manassas, all of which make known the valuations that had been placed against the property of the railroad. It is claimed that the station property at Manassas is assessed at $125, while the property of adjacent owners, not judged more valuable than that of the railroad, is assessed at $2,000. So far as can be learned, no reason is given for the difference in the valuation of private and corporate property, while it is known that the one is assessed by local officials and the

PAY TRIBUTE TO DRAFTED BOYS

Catharpin Citizens Arrange Fete for Men of New National Army.

C. A. Montgomery, County Agent. A pleasant picture remains in the minds of all who attended the rally held at Catharpin Saturday evening when a number of the patriotic men and women of the community met to pay tribute to the drafted boys. The school building, which was decorated by Misses Dorothy Sanders, Carrie Fetzer and Majorie Brower, was draped with the Stars and Stripes and graceful festoons of red, white and blue were suspended from the ceiling. Goldenrod, the national flower, was prominent in the decorations.

Mrs. Etta Lynn, who for many years was the teacher of Catharpin school, was called upon to make the address of welcome. Feeling that every mother's son in the community is her "boy," Mrs. Lynn asked to be excused, requesting Mrs. Walter L. Sanders to speak in her stead, which she did in a few well-chosen words.

The community was proud that Rev. C. K. Millican, pastor of Sudley Church; Hon. C. J. Meetze, Prince William member of the House of Delegates, and Mr. C. A. Montgomery, county agent, found it worth while to pause in their busy lives to join in the tribute. Each one gave words of kindly counsel, fellowship, good will and cheer, wishing the boys good luck and God-speed.

Miss Fetzer read a selection and two beautiful piano duets were given by the Misses Sanders and the Misses Smith. The assemblage sang "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "America."

The color scheme was carried out at the table when refreshments were served, the snowy cloth being draped with the national colors. The centerpiece was a graceful arrangement of red, white and blue. The bountiful supper consisted of chicken, sandwiches, salads, coffee, ice cream and cake.

The boys were entertained with music throughout the evening. All joined in singing the closing hymn, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

General regret was felt that two of the neighborhood boys, Harry Pohn and Leonard Senesney, had started to camp before the invitation had been received.

WOODYARD-WERNER

Miss H. Ruth Werner, of Rutherford, N. J., and Mr. Clarence M. Woodyard, of Independent Hill, were married in Washington September 1 by Rev. H. F. Bryn. Miss Lillian Garrison, of Independent Hill, was maid of honor, and Mr. Arthur C. Werner, only brother of the bride, was best man.

After the wedding the happy company motored to the home of the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. J. W. Daniels, of Washington, where the wedding supper was served. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Werner, of Rutherford, N. J., parents of the bride; Mr. A. F. Woodyard, of Independent Hill, father of the bridegroom; Miss Sallie Cooper, of Brentsville, and Mr. J. W. Daniels, of Washington.

Miss Dorothy C. Haydon is attending the Fauquier teachers' institute at Warrenton.

OCCOQUAN

Clarence M. Selecman, a son of the late Albert A. and Mary Duty Selecman, died August 2. His death is the fourth to occur in the family in the last two years. He is survived by two sisters and two brothers, Mr. George D. Selecman and Miss Gertrude Selecman, of Washington, and Capt. J. T. Selecman and Mrs. W. S. Cross, of Occoquan, and a sister by adoption, Miss Janie Duty, of Occoquan.

Mr. Selecman was a descendant of families prominently identified with the early history of Occoquan. He was a great grandson of Henry Selecman, who settled Occoquan early in the seventeenth century and his mother was a descendant of the Don family, among the first settlers of Prince William county. She was a granddaughter of Major John F. Hedges, who saw service in the American army in the war of 1812, and a great-granddaughter of Asa Davis whose family settled near Boston, Mass., about 1640.

Albert Alan Selecman, son of Mr. George D. Selecman, has enlisted in the signal service of the District of Columbia National Guard.

The institute for teachers of Occoquan district will be held at Bethel High School Saturday, September 22, at 2 o'clock. All teachers of the district are urged to be present. A cordial invitation is extended to the patrons and teachers of the county. JNO. T. DAWSON, JR., President.

NOW TAKING US SERIOUSLY

There are evidences that the central powers at last are taking America's entrance into the war seriously, if not gravely. German and Austrian newspapers, after having been throttled by their respective governments for months, are giving warning to their people that a new and important factor must be calculated upon, and that an element of uncertain results has been injected into the fight, which should no longer be disregarded.

A few days ago the Cologne Gazette, an organ of the German government, took notice of America's preparations for war. It cited the fact that a formidable army was being drafted in this country; that unlimited supplies were being bought by the allies in American markets, and that much of this was actually being delivered, notwithstanding the U-boat campaign. This has now been followed by a striking editorial in Neue Freie Presse of Vienna. This journal complains that the greatest obstacle in the way of peace is the United States. This country, it is contended, has revived the hope of the entente in victory, and is making headway in its plans for throwing a million men against Germany. "In sober judgment," the article concludes, "it must be conceded that winning America to a hostile policy, even to war against Germany, was a brilliant success for British diplomacy in fact, a masterpiece of diplomatic work."

After minimizing the damage that the United States might inflict upon them, even scoffing at us for four months, the present admissions of these organs that a new and perhaps powerful enemy is arrayed against them, have deep significance. This is more marked for the reason that these publications would not have been possible without the express consent of the German and Austrian governments. We may well believe that Berlin and Vienna are paying the way for the shock which they now foresee. They are attuning their people to the inevitable. They must have realized that American resources are soon to have a decisive effect upon the war, and that it would be folly to longer deceive their people as to possible eventualities. — Times-Dispatch.

RALLYING TO THE COLORS

The manner in which the young men of America are responding to the government's call for conscription under the terms of the universal service act, provides an inspiring vindication of the wisdom of the policy involved. It does more than this. It suggests a conclusive answer and scathing rebuke to those of our public men who insisted in Congress that the law was not only contrary to the accepted principles of free government, but that its attempted enforcement would breed vigorous protest throughout the United States, and probably lead to an expression of physical resistance of alarming and demoralizing proportions. It is recalled in this connection that Speaker Champ Clark, in the course of a bitter arraignment of the compulsory service proposition, declared that in his state people likened the word "conscript" to the word "convict," and indicated that in his judgment almost the same degree of odium attached to both. This conception of the policy was taken up and echoed by other Congressmen in attempt to make it appear that an offense of considerable magnitude against the rights and liberties of the American people was contemplated by the then pending bill. Happily, the rapid and ill-supported contentions did not prevail, and the act was passed. Now has come the time in which the so lugubrious prophecies receive conclusive test, and the American people are able to measure their value in the scales of actual proof. The result is, of course, highly gratifying. — Lynchburg News.

Sure, I'm from the trenches, And I'm shy a leg or so, But cheeks that doesn't matter, For I just had to go!

I left my wife and kiddies, And I went to France to fight, For their flag and home and country And the things I knew were right.

And though I've got a timber leg, Say, pardner, I expect The loss ain't what it would a-been Had I lost my self-respect!

So here I am, back home again; I've done my little bit, And the wife and kids are proud because I happened to get hit. Yes, sir, they're of this old peg, As proud as they can be, For it's the finest part, they say, Of Dad's anatomy.

And when I hear them talk like this It makes me pretty mad, Because I've got an arm or two My country could have had.

And the only man I envy Is one who thought his share Was both his arms and both his legs, And left them "over there!"

BUSINESS IS GOOD.

"Business seems to be good this morning, Mr. Saunders," I remarked, as I stood talking with him. "Business is always good now," he replied. "You see, it's this way: I find that sanitary methods are the least costly, for cleanliness is the cardinal virtue of efficiency. I am becoming efficient; my customers know they can rely on me for good meat and prompt service. When they are entertaining I never disappoint them. My patrons are therefore satisfied and I don't have to waste time listening to complaints about tough steaks, etc. I get that time in on service." As I left I could not help but remarking that sanitary methods plus service were the things that make business. Take at look at

Marines Make Time.

What is believed to have been a record in "lashing" and "stowing" was made by the U. S. Marines serving on board a super-dreadnaught of the Atlantic fleet recently, according to reports received here today. When the call "up all hammocks!" was sounded shortly after midnight the sea-soldiers were sleeping in their hammocks. In just five minutes and twelve seconds they "turned out," "lashed and stowed" their hammocks in the nettings, dressed themselves and were at attention on the quarter-deck ready for any duty which might have been required of them.

HELPS SOLDIERS ON WAY TO CAMP

Red Cross Canteen Service Will Provide Refreshments on Troop Trains.

Canteen service of the Red Cross for members of the National Army and National Guard as they travel to the cantonments is being enthusiastically welcomed by the troops assembling at mobilization points and at junctions and wait-overs. Reports received by Foster Rockwell, director of canteen service, from many chapters which have been serving light refreshments to the detachments passing through their towns, show the appreciation and enthusiasm of the troops.

At Washington, D. C., where the local chapter has been serving as high as 20,000 cups of coffee in a day to the troops passing through, the soldiers leaned out of the car windows when they saw the Red Cross uniforms and gave an extemporized but spirited Red Cross cheer. From all parts of the country comes the same story—the soldiers fully understand the meaning of this patriotic service of the women of the Red Cross.

Only a small proportion of the National Army has as yet gone into the cantonments, and the heavier work of the Red Cross canteen service is still ahead. But most of the chapters have the work fully organized and feel themselves equipped to meet whatever emergency may develop.

The Red Cross canteen service hopes to keep the Red Cross uniform conspicuous in railroad buffets and restaurants all over the country while the troops are moving. The canteen service uniform for women consists of a white apron and bib, with a Red Cross on the front of the bib, and a Red Cross cap. The male workers wear a lapel badge of white ribbon with a Red Cross and the legend "Canteen Service."

Railroad officials are authorized through the war department to daily inform Red Cross chapter heads of the local movement of troops.

Besides supplying refreshments to the soldiers going through, canteen service workers perform many other little services for their convenience, such as mailing letters or postcards. The interest which the women of the country have thus been able to show directly, through the canteen service, has given the soldiers new heart, made a profound impression, and and fresh spirit, because they realize that the women of the whole nation are personally sponsors for their comfort and welfare.

Relatively simple as this activity of the Red Cross canteen service may seem to be, it typifies at this moment, as no other thing does, the national spirit that is back of the Red Cross.

For Your Safety in a Thunderstorm.

If you are out of doors in a very severe electrical storm, it is well to observe the following rules for your own protection:

1. Keep away from wire fences. They may carry a dangerous electrical charge long distances. Cattle in pastures are frequently killed from the neglect of farmers to ground the wire of the fence.
2. Keep away from hedges, ponds and streams.
3. Keep away from isolated trees. Oak trees are frequently struck; beech are seldom struck. It is safer in a dense forest.
4. Keep away from herds of cattle and crowds of people.
5. Do not hold an umbrella.

6. It is safer to sit or lie down in an open field than to stand.
7. Drivers should dismount and not stay close to their horses.
8. Do not work with any large metal tool or implement. If you are indoors—

1. Keep away from the stove and chimney. The hot gases from the chimney may conduct the lightning to and down the chimney.
2. Do not take a position between two bodies of metal, as the stove and water pipe, for example. An exception to being near metals is the case of an iron bed. One of the safest is on a mattress in an iron bed, provided you do not touch the metal. The metal surrounding you makes a safe cage which prevents the lightning from reaching a person inside.
3. Do not stand on a wet floor nor draw water from the well or faucet.
4. Do not stand directly under a chandelier, near a radiator, nor on a register.
5. Do not use the telephone.—Electrical Experimenter.

LITERATURE FOR MEN IN THE ARMY

American Library Association Asks for Books and Current Magazines.

The American Library Association is, at the request of the United States government, collecting books and current magazines for the use of our soldiers and sailors in the camps, at the front, and in the hospitals. In Virginia, the Virginia State Library is acting as the agent of the association doing the work. Many books have already been collected in Richmond and other cities of the state, and a very great many more will come in from those sources. It is felt, however, that the people of our state who do not live in cities would like to have an opportunity to participate in the good work, and there is no likelihood that too much literature can be assembled for the purpose set forth. Later on, the association hopes to be able to secure from the people of the whole country as much as $1,000,000 with which to erect library buildings at the camps and buy the very best books to put in them, but at present the books themselves are being given. So far as Virginia is concerned they are being sent principally to Camp Lee (near Petersburg) to be cared for temporarily by the Y. M. C. A. It is hoped that such persons reading this notice as may wish to give books or magazines will send them in at once. Magazines should not be over six months old. Any good readable book of general interest whose binding is in good condition will be suitable.

Each person who reads this notice should feel that an opportunity is presented him to show his appreciation of the sacrifices being made by our young men in the cause of all.

The books and magazines may be sent very cheaply by parcel post. They should be directed to the Virginia State Library, Richmond, Va.

What is believed to be the first instance of its kind recorded in the "World's War" is that of an American college closing its doors because more than two-thirds of its student body and nearly half the faculty have voluntarily enlisted in the United States Army or Navy. This signal honor belongs to a Catholic college, Little Rock College, Little Rock, Arkansas, of which Father Herbert Heagerty is president.

COUNTY EXHIBIT AT STATE FAIR

Canning Club Members and Others Will Contribute to Red Cross Food Supply.

The county food exhibits at the state fair this year will be given to the state Red Cross Food Conservation Committee. The fair is to be held at Richmond the week beginning October 8, and it is expected that Prince William will send a fine exhibit.

This county has been asked to send in addition to other fruits and vegetables a special exhibit of cherries—preserved, canned, pickled or dried. Fairfax is to specialize in grapes and Culpeper in jellies. The neighboring counties of Fauquier and Loudoun have not received special assignments.

Each county home demonstration agent has been instructed to ask every person who has entered the Food Production Force as a patriotic service to contribute at least toward the gift.

"In order to make this contribution of the greatest value," reads the letter of instruction, "it might be well to recommend to the girls and women that as far as possible they combine their gifts so that the products can be shipped in case lots, as a case of tomatoes or beans, or a ten-pound package of the same dried fruit or vegetables."

The exhibits must be ready for shipment by Tuesday, September 25. They may be left at the office of The Journal, to be placed on exhibition in The Journal windows. Further information concerning the exhibit may be had from Miss Lillian Gilbert, county home demonstration agent, Manassas, Va.

Board of Health Issues Warning. Anticipating the early appearance of diphtheria in the commonwealth, the State Board of Health today issued a public appeal for the prompt diagnosis and early treatment of all such cases in order that diphtheria may be kept under control throughout the state and may not appear in epidemic form.

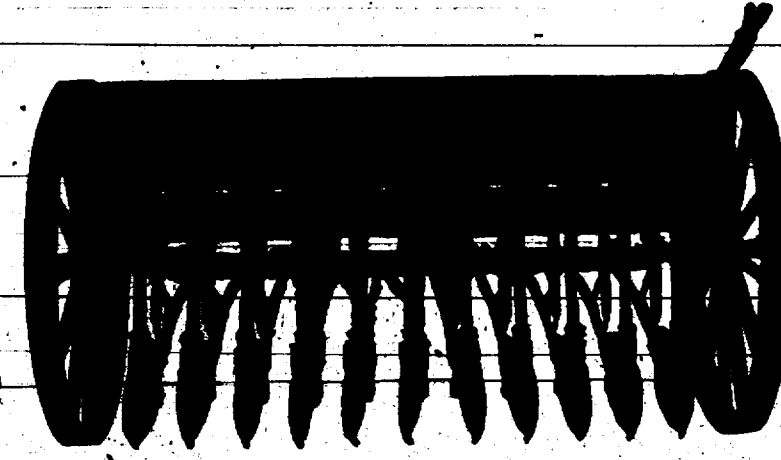

The records of the board show that diphtheria usually makes its appearance in Virginia late in August and that thereafter, unless proper preventive measures are taken, the disease spreads rapidly until the autumnal crest is reached. Investigations made by the board have likewise shown that many of the most serious outbreaks of diphtheria in the state have had their origin in cases so mild as scarcely to show symptoms.

"Where the early cases are neglected," states the board, "or where there is laxity in quarantine and other essential precautions, diphtheria is readily spread by the insanitary habits of childhood and by the use of the common drinking cup.

While diphtheria antitoxin is a remedy of unusual value and will cure practically every case of diphtheria, if it is given in the early stages of the disease, it is manifestly better to prevent the spread of the disease than to rely upon curative treatment. In view of the fact that infantile paralysis is still claiming victims in Virginia, it is of peculiar importance to the public health to take proper steps for the prevention of this disease. Some of the steps most useful in the control of infantile paralysis are likewise indispensable to the prevention of diphtheria. This is notably true of the common drinking cup, which is so dangerous that no public place should for a moment countenance its use.

"Diphtheria antitoxin can now, as in the past, be had at prime wholesale cost, through the State Board of Health."

CAREER OF AN OLD RESIDENT

Mr. Round Writes of Mrs. Fannie L. Benavidez, Who...

By Lieut. Geo. C. Round. Last Friday, September 7th, I was at the Valley View churchyard and witnessed the closing scene in the earthly life of this interesting woman.

"I am the Resurrection and the Life; he that believeth in me though he were dead, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."

This was first heard at the grave of Lazarus by his sister Martha and she was so impressed that she exclaimed:

"I believe that thou art the Christ, the Son of God."

I first knew Mrs. Benavidez as Mrs. Fannie Brigg. It was by that name her memory is still cherished by scores of her pupils at school and hundreds of her neighbors while she resided in Prince William.

Her parents were emigrants from England but Fannie herself was born in Philadelphia in 1851. Her father's business caused the frequent removal of the family, so that before they became citizens of Prince William county she had resided in a number of places in New York, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

About 1889 she went to Florida and taught at Fernandina. Subsequently she passed an examination for a government teacher in Indian schools in the far West, in which her service for over fifteen years was in Oregon, Arizona, New Mexico and Nebraska.

Probably about two-thirds of her life, over thirty years, was spent in teaching. For many years she made her home at Denver, Colorado, and engaged in business which required traveling through the far western states. For some time she was engaged in library work for which she was well adapted.

She married Mr. Benavidez, a Spanish gentleman, whose career was cut short by the Galveston flood in which so many perished.

Mrs. Benavidez visited her relatives in England three times, first when quite young, in company with a favorite uncle and lastly during the present world-war. She gave at my table recently a very vivid description of the first German air raid on the English coast, where she happened to be visiting at the time.

She was a brilliant conversationalist, and seemed well informed on every subject, the result of wide experience and travel and extensive reading.

In person Mrs. Benavidez was tall and straight and she had a frank, open manner which attracted to her both young and old. She was plain spoken and did not fail to criticize openly what she thought worthy of criticism, but she seldom made enemies by this habit because of her generosity of spirit.

She had a marked individuality and never could be mistaken for any one else. No society could be dull where she had the right of way.

Her only relatives remaining in America are her brother Charles Brigg and his daughters, Mrs. Lulu Helman, and Miss Mabel Brigg, residing in Broken Arrow, Oklahoma. Mrs. Helman was the only relative who could be present at the burial.

The pallbearers were C. J. Meetze, B. T. Hodge, O. E. Newman, S. T. Hall, G. L. Rosenberger and Joseph H. Dodge.

As she neared the end of life her mind drifted back to her Virginia home. She still retained all her mental characteristics and much of her bodily vigor. While making her home at the residence of her fellow teacher, Miss Osbourn, she was suddenly summoned by the Master and she now rests alongside her mother almost in sight of their former home, where she awaits the resurrection of those that sleep and the life of the world to come.

The second great advantage of the four year plan is that it insures a far higher grade of business preparation on the part of the students taking the course. The short business courses often given to pupils just out of the grades mean only that the boy or girl turned adrift into the business world with such scant preparation must take small pay and have little chance of promotion. A fuller training, and especially one that involves some general education, means more salary at the start, and above all it means a much greater chance to rise to high position.

A student who has a good command of English both written and spoken, and some general cultivation of the mind such as even a good high school course can give, has a far greater chance to rise to positions of importance in the commercial world than those without such training. The few who have risen to power without education are only the exceptions that prove the rule.

From every standpoint then; the conditions of our community life, the greater incentive to a longer stay in school and therefore a better education for a larger number, and finally the far greater efficiency of the business preparation itself that the four year plan involves would certainly seem to make it the best, even if some concession should be made from time to time to fit special needs.

HICKORY GROVE

The Red Cross lecture given by Rev. J. F. Coleman at the U. D. C. Hall on Monday, September 8, was successful in every way. The weather proved favorable and the attendance unusually good. There was some stirring music, the programme consisting altogether of patriotic airs. A well-covered and beautiful fancywork table proved attractive and the delicious refreshments no less so.

Mr. Coleman's account of the Red Cross society from its earliest beginning and also of present war conditions was most thrilling. Such things stir the heart and hand to new action.

A neat sum was realized, to be equally divided between the church and the Red Cross.
