SELECT SERVICE REGULATIONS

Those Embraced in Non-Productive Occupations—Those Who Are Excused.

The following order from the office of the Provost-Marshal General has been sent out for the information of those who will be affected by it:

The employment or engagement of any able-bodied registrant of military age in any of the following occupations or employments is not sufficiently effective, in the present emergency, to justify the postponement of his call into military service, notwithstanding he may have a late order number and notwithstanding he may have been placed in Class II, III, or IV on the ground of dependency; and all registrants engaged as follows are to be considered by Local and District Boards as engaged in non-productive occupations or employments:

(a) Persons engaged in the serving of food and drink, or either, in public places, including hotels and social clubs;

(b) Passenger-elevator operators and attendants; and door men, footmen, carriage openers and other attendants in clubs, hotels, stores, apartment houses, office buildings, and bathhouses;

(c) Persons, including ushers and other attendants, engaged and occupied in and in connection with games, sports, and amusements, excepting actual performers in legitimate concerts, operas, or theatrical performances;

(d) Persons employed in domestic service;

(e) Sales clerks and other clerks employed in stores and other mercantile establishments.

Local and District Boards must consider cases of withdrawal of deferred classification and late order numbers with sympathy and common sense. The designation and definition of non-productive occupations and employments contained in the foregoing Section 121K, may be extended by Regulation from time to time as necessity may require so as to include persons in other occupations or employment; but for the present and until such extension by Regulation, no occupation or employment not included in the list or description of occupation and employments in the foregoing Section 121K may be held by any Local or District Board to be a non-productive occupation or employment unless a ruling as to whether or not a doubtful occupation or employment is to be considered as non-productive is first obtained from the Provost Marshal General in the manner prescribed in Section 25.

The following grounds shall be accepted by Local and District Boards as reasonable excuse for temporary idleness or for being engaged in a non-productive occupation or employment:

(a) Sickness.

(b) Reasonable vacation.

(c) Lack of reasonable opportunity for employment in any occupation outside of those described in the foregoing Section 121K or those hereafter specified by Regulation or Ruling as provided in this Section.

OLD CITIZEN INJURED

Mr. William Foote Has Fall and is Seriously Hurt.

On Tuesday evening, while engaged in picking cherries in his orchard, Mr. Wm. Foote fell from a small building, a distance of about eight feet, and broke his left thigh, besides badly bruising his arm and one side of his face. He was unconscious when discovered, and there being no one else present at the time it is impossible to state exactly how the accident happened—whether he slipped or a limb of the tree, which he had grasped, broke and threw him to the ground.

At the present writing he is resting comfortably and it is hoped that he will soon be out of any danger, resulting from the accident.

WAR SAVINGS DAY

A Proclamation by the Governor of Virginia.

Whereas, The President of the United States has designated Friday, June 28, 1918, as National War Savings Day; and

Whereas, Those who would win this struggle in which the fundamental principles of civilization are at stake must deny themselves the luxuries that enervate, and prepare themselves in a spirit of self-abnegation to meet all the eventualities of a cruel war waged by a barbaric and unscrupulous foe against those of the people of the world who are actuated by high motives and lofty ideals; now

Therefore, I, Westmoreland Davis, Governor of Virginia, do call upon all the people of Virginia, in a spirit of self-sacrifice, to pledge themselves, during the period June 15-23, to economy and thrift for the balance of the year by agreeing to buy to the extent of their means, as evidence of their patriotism, War Savings Stamps, being always minded that each stamp represents a contribution which makes for the support of our boys in France and our allies; and the maintenance of ourselves as a great nation pledged to freedom and full opportunity for all.

Given under my hand, and under the Lesser Seal of the Commonwealth, at Richmond, this tenth day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eighteen, and in the one hundred and forty-second year of the Commonwealth.

Westmoreland Davis, Governor.

HIGH SCHOOL EXERCISES

Commencement Will Take Place Wednesday and Friday.

The closing exercises of the High School will take place next week on the following dates:

Wednesday.—The oratorical prize contests for the boys and for the girls will be held at the High School at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The friends of the students are invited.

Friday.—The commencement exercises at the auditorium of Eastern College at 8 o'clock at night. Dr. W. M. Forrest of the University of Virginia will make the annual address, his subject being "A World Peace."

Saturday.—The Alumni Banquet at the New Prince William Hotel at 8 p. m.

—Master George Larkin severely injured his wrist on Monday night while engaged in cranking an automobile.

FATAL ACCIDENT

Brother of Prof. Hodge, of Manassas, Killed by Truck.

Another of those unaccountable accidents caused by auto trucks and other similar conveyances took place last Wednesday week in Brooklyn, N. Y., when Mr. R. J. Hodge, brother of Prof. B. T. H. Hodge, of Manassas, and Mr. J. W. Hodge, of Washington, D. C., was knocked down on his way to business, riding his bicycle, early in the day and fatally injured. Mr. Hodge had lived many years in Brooklyn and was a much respected citizen, strictly performing his duties in connection with the Y. M. C. A., a work he highly enjoyed.

He was taken at once to the hospital, and although everything was done to save his life, he passed away on Thursday morning without regaining consciousness.

MANASSAS BOY HONORED

Alford Prescott, Teacher of Physics at Salem, Mass.

Mr. Alford Prescott, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Prescott, formerly of Manassas, is now teaching physics in the High School of Salem, Mass. The physics instructor was unexpectedly called away, and the Principal of the High School sent to Tufts College, asking for a senior to fill the vacancy for the remainder of the term. The college authorities recommended Mr. Prescott for the position, though he was only a sophomore or second year student.

It will be remembered that over a year ago, before America declared war, Mr. Prescott went to France as a volunteer member of the Tufts College unit to offer his services to the allied cause in the Great War. He was not qualified physically to permanently enlist, and therefore returned to finish his college course, which he seems to be doing with some distinction.

Mr. Prescott was a graduate of the class of 1916 of Manassas High School.

A DISTINGUISHED VISITOR

An Old College Chum the Guest of Lieutenant Round.

Lieut. George C. Round is having a re-union with his college chum of 1860-61 at Wesleyan University, and it goes without saying they both are having the time of their lives. The name of the chum is George L. Thompson, who served as a Methodist pastor for half a century in Connecticut and around Brooklyn and New York City. He has served two terms as chaplain of the Connecticut Legislature and has travelled extensively in Europe and the Holy Land. He is now living in Sarasota, Florida, and is on his way north to visit friends during the hot weather.

Rev. Mr. Thompson was in Manassas September 30, 1915, when the Jubilee Tablet was dedicated by Prince William county in commemoration of the Jubilee. He made the dedicatory prayer on that occasion just before the unveiling by Colonel Berkeley and Lieut. Round.

Many of our citizens recall the impressive ceremony to which he contributed in such a remarkable degree.

123 YEARS OLD

RAISING A CROP

William Peyton, Visited by His Friends, Found Hoeing an Eight-acre Field of Corn.

Born in 1795, and able to hoe corn and look after other crops in 1918 is a mighty rare record for any man, stamping him as a wonder in the human family in this day and generation, but that is the record of Wm. Peyton, colored, who resides on a small farm about three miles back of Little Hocking, Ohio.

According to the records of the Creel family, of this county, one of the oldest pioneer families in Wood county, Peyton was brought to this county when he was two years of age, by the original Creel family, when they migrated from Prince William county, Virginia, to Wood county, in 1797, according to the statement of one of the descendants in discussing this remarkable man on Wednesday. When the Creels came to Wood county, they had a patent for six thousand acres of land and they located near Davisville, where some of the descendants still reside on the original farm, or a part of the original farm. They brought a number of slaves, horses, cattle and other property, making the trip through the mountains in teams. This was in 1797, and it is also declared that Wm. Peyton, then two years old, was one of the party, having been brought through by his slave "mamie." He lived with the Creel family until about thirty-eight years ago, when he purchased the small farm in Ohio and has since made his home there, making his own living. During the past few years his granddaughter, now married, has been living with him.

On Wednesday John and Haridin Creel, prominent residents of Clay district, and R. E. Creel, of this city, motored down to the Peyton home, as they have the highest regard for the old man, who has seen the passing of several generations of the family. They found him in the cornfield using his hoe, a heavy, hand-made affair, vigorously and industriously. He gave "his boys," as he called them, a very warm greeting, took them to the house where they remained with him for several hours, chatting over old times. He told them he had planted and was tending eight acres of corn, a large patch of potatoes and there are other small crops under cultivation. He remarked that he felt well and fit, but that his eyesight was not as good as it used to be, but that he still had a good appetite, sleeps well, and is enjoying life. He told his visitors that he intended to come up to Parkersburg soon to visit some of his old friends, and then will extend his trip to the home of the Creels, and intends to walk the whole distance.

Peyton was one year of age when George Washington was serving his last year as President of the United States, and has seen this country develop from a small nation of several million people to the greatest country on the globe with over one hundred million population, and he is still here, able to hoe his own corn crop and enjoying three meals a day.

That's some record, isn't it? —Parkersburg (W. Va.) Sentinel.

War Savings Stamps are guaranteed by the United States Government and pay compound interest at the high rate of 4 per cent. They are free from taxes, and here is the way in which they grow in value:

	Cost in	And Are Worth
	June	on Jan. 1, 1923
1 Stamp	$4.17	$5.00
20 Stamps	83.40	100.00
50 Stamps	208.50	250.00
100 Stamps	417.00	500.00
200 Stamps	834.00	1000.00

They are better than cash in hand, they pay you 4 per cent interest—and in any case of emergency you can have them cashed for what you paid, plus the interest earned by simply giving ten days' notice to any Money Order Postmaster in the United States.

HELP TIGHTEN THE GRIP—Each dollar you lend will help to choke the Kaiser into insensibility. The War Savings Stamp you buy today means a tightening of the grip at the throat of militarism.

The beast that strangled the women and children of the Lusitania will in turn be strangled, if you do your part. The measure he gave to Belgium and France will be measured unto him; for we, by buying War Savings Stamps, will not fail to keep the hold that we have.

Peace can be obtained only through men, munitions and money.

NATIONAL WAR SAVINGS DAY MUST BE SUCCESS

The National War Savings Committee, which is carrying on, through its state and local committees, a nation-wide campaign to get all the people on or before June 28 to pledge themselves to save to the utmost of their ability and to buy War Savings Stamps with their savings, has given out the following statement:

"Those of us who remain at home while others do the fighting have an ever-increasing number of opportunities to do definite and highly important work for our country. We wish to do this work as an expression of the gratitude we feel in being privileged to continue at our usual tasks, to enjoy the loving companionship of our families, to meet freely with our friends and neighbors, to enjoy all the security of life and most of the pleasures and the economic privileges of peace times while other men, who have had to put aside all these things, are fighting our battles for us on the sacred soil of France and on the high seas.

"Our new opportunity to serve comes as a result of designating June 28 as National War Savings Day, a day on which all men and women and all children of sufficient years to appreciate the day's significance are called upon to pledge themselves to save to the utmost of their ability and to conserve all possible labor and materials for the government, and to buy War Savings Stamps with their savings. Our part is to do everything possible to make this day stand out among the great days of this period of the war.

"Could any one of us be asked to do less than this? Could any one of us refuse to do so little a thing to win a war for the world's freedom? Could any one of us put aside this plea for saving while all Europe is crying out in its agony to be released from the clutches of the monster that is befouling all it touches? Could we refuse so simple a thing and at the same time ask other men to give their lives that our own precious lives be spared and our firesides be kept safe from the terrors of the Hun?

"Our duty is clear, our privilege is great, our sacrifice is little, our work is important.

"National War Savings Day is to be the great rallying day on which everyone in our country is expected to pledge himself or herself to save and economize. This saving and economizing will first of all leave in the markets a greater supply of labor and materials for the use of the government with which to fight the war. And then the money savings of the individuals are to be invested in War Savings Stamps.

"What the government asks us to do is to pledge ourselves to buy at definite periods with our savings a specific amount of War Savings Stamps. The thing to be accomplished is to get subscriptions which will take care during the balance of the present year of the unsold portion of the authorized $2,000,000,000 of War Savings Stamps authorized by the Congress to be sold during 1918.

"When one stops to think of the matter, it is really a small thing to raise $2,000,000,000 in a country of more than 100,000,000 people. If everyone would do his share, it would be necessary for each person to subscribe to only $20 worth of stamps.

"The duty of us at home is to see to it that the entire amount is subscribed. We must work to that end. We must add to our already great army of war savers. We must make more sacrifices ourselves and urge sacrifices upon others. National War Savings Day MUST BE made the great success all of us hope for."

GREAT OPPORTUNITIES NEGLECTED

While the German armies are wearing themselves down to defeat in France in the insane attempt to destroy the French and British armies, it is incumbent upon the allies to be using their wits in devising means of expediting victory. Within a few weeks, as the war is going, the allies will have before them the duty of assuming the aggressive. The German armies will have been outfought; the German people will realize that their imperial chief highwayman has led them into a fatal trap; the horrors of famine and cold will assail the German nation, which will see that the plunder taken from small prostrate nations can not be retained; the victim nations will begin to revive hopes of resuscitation; the oppressed peoples of Austria-Hungary and Turkey will see the possibility of successful revolution, and neutrals that have been inclined to back Germany will perceive that the German military system is doomed.

What are the allied governments doing to promote these movements? What is the political policy of the allies?

So far as allied influence upon events is ascertainable, there is no political policy uniting the allied nations. They are carrying on nobly in military and naval matters, but they seem to be neglecting the equally important field of political strategy. Nay, they are pursuing conflicting individual policies in many cases when they should have amalgamated their interests long ago in one comprehensive political scheme.

There is abundant opportunity for the exercise of national political policies by each of the allies, while at the same time cooperating in a general political policy toward the enemy and toward neutrals. The large and vital interests of the allies are identical, and they can be compressed into one word—survival. Until the survival of each of the allied nations is made sure beyond the power of any enemy to destroy it, the allies have no right to pursue individual policies working to the detriment of the common cause. Nor have they any right to strike out independently for survival itself. If such action would be injurious to another ally. The allies can not hope to fight and defeat Germany singly. They can not expect Germany to spare any ally that may be tempted to pursue a policy contradictory to the best interests of all. Germany, instead of being grateful to an enemy for any act of forbearance or courtesy, would merely take advantage of it to slaughter that nation sooner than otherwise.

Russia must be helped. Why do the allies hesitate? They should allot small and tried detachments of troops to an international force to be sent into Siberia to serve as a rallying point for all loyal and sensible Russians. If the bolsheviki attack this force, let it kill off the bolsheviki. The bolsheviki are not the Russian people, but an ulcerous excrescence similar to the I. W. W. of America.

Austria must be dismembered. Why do not the allies get busy? Are they afraid of Karl Hapsburg, the occupant of a bloody and usurping throne? That throne should have been knocked over and ground to dust centuries ago. It can not stand against the hurricane that is sweeping the earth free of tyrants, usurpers and nation slayers. Down with it! It is a reproach to the free nations of the earth that they stand dumb while millions of liberty-loving people are trying to break the Hapsburg bonds. By fire and sword, by guile and artifice, by money and bomb, the free men of the world should tear to pieces the Hapsburg empire along with the Hohenzollern system that is trying to strangle the liberties of all men.

This war does not end by the halting of the barbarians at the gates of Paris. It ends only when there are no organized barbarians armed with the weapons of science. There is no middle ground. Free men have their work cut out for them if they desire to remain free. They have the power to destroy their would-be destroyer. Up and at him, then! Not only by ancient methods sanctioned by treaties—treaties are no more—but by methods of extermination should the free nations destroy the robber nations. Propaganda is as destructive as bombs, yet the free nations do not use it. Political weapons are more powerful than armies, yet the allies do not even hold political conferences except as purely incidental and subordinate adjuncts of military operations. They leave to Germany the immense field of political warfare, where deadly weapons of inconceivable efficiency are wholly at Germany's command. Let the allies look at what Germany has done in Russia, absolutely without let or hindrance by any organized allied effort, and then blush for permitting the enemy to outwit and outmaneuver them.

Where is the allied leader who will have the simple good sense to propose an immediate conference of the allies with a view to organizing united political action against the enemy?—Washington Post.

WAR-TIME NERVES

As the war progresses to its finish, which will come some glad day, perhaps even nearer than is now expected, the strain upon those who await its outcome with the most intense anxiety daily becomes more difficult to stand. The tense situation encourages the development of a state of mind which is harassing, and one which, if not checked, must ultimately result in a more or less serious collapse after such long-continued pressure.

Great restraint of natural impulses toward over-excitement concerning the war is essential as well to the individual as to the national well-being; Americans must keep their heads cool and their bodies strong in order to do their full duty in this great emergency. They must not give way to feelings of despondency when temporary discouragements to the advance of the cause occur, nor should they become too sanguine of immediate success when the news comes of a decided advantage. The untroubled and serene mind is to be sedulously cultivated in these stirring times.—The Bellman

Miss Holmes sent in a report to the league of the funds raised by the teachers during the term and of the use made of same, turned over a check of $11.86 to the secretary of the league to be paid over to the treasurer of the league, with the understanding that any expense incurred by Miss Holmes during the summer looking after the school grounds should be paid out of this sum. The report was accepted with this understanding.

Chas. Crosep, while plowing corn on the Quigg farm, killed a very large black snake and called the Quigg boys, Paul and Walter, to view the remains; they brought the snake to the house to exhibit it and said that there was a lump on one side that seemed to have something alive in it. They talked of cutting it open to find out what it was but decided finally not to mutilate the long body of Mr. Snake, but as they were carrying it out another snake jumped out of the dead snake's mouth and was promptly killed by the boys.

They said the snake was nearly as long as the black snake, but of a lighter color.

It is also reported that Mr. J. L. Fristoe killed two snakes a few days ago, one a long black snake with a striped snake twisted around the neck of the black one, evidently choking him.

THE NEW DE LAVAL. If you have ever owned a separator of any other make, there is one outstanding feature of the NEW De Laval that will appeal to you as much as even its mechanical superiority, and that is its simplicity. You won't find any complicated, troublesome parts in the NEW De Laval. It does not get out of order easily, even when it is misused; and if for any reason you ever should want to take it apart, the only tool you need is the combination wrench and screw-driver furnished with each machine. The NEW De Laval is the simplest cream separator made. A person who has never before touched a separator can, if necessary, unassemble a modern De Laval machine down to the last part within five minutes, and then put it together again within ten minutes. This is something that cannot be done outside a machine shop with any other separator made, and any separator user who has ever had to wrestle with the complicated mechanism found in other separators will appreciate what it means to him. Don't fail to stop in and see the NEW De Laval the next time you are in town. Even if you are not in the market for a separator right now, come in and examine a separator that is said by experts to embody the greatest improvements in cream separator construction in the last thirty years.

OPINION OF SUPPORTER OF WHITE FOR CONGRESS

Mr. White Expected to Poll a Large Vote in the Lower Part of the County.

Ocoquan, Va., June 10, 1918. Manassas Journal Co.

Gentlemen:—I enclose a clipping from the Loudoun Mirror which I would like for you to give place in this week's issue of The Journal. Mr. White is expected to poll a large vote in the lower part of the county. The Journal circulates among White's friends here, and all think that you should give something of the other side of the case. Yours respectfully, J. M. BARBEE.

Why White Will Be Nominated. (From Loudoun Mirror)

First. Because he is the logical representative of the interests of a large majority of the voters of the Eighth Congressional District. As a practical farmer, he is the one who knows their needs and the proper legislation that should be enacted to meet them. His past record proves him to be a man who gets what he goes after. The farmers know this and they are going to vote for him.

Second. The laboring men in the cities, towns and counties are beginning to realize that as consumers, their interests are identical with the producers. Anything that stimulates production makes for lower prices. He stands for the consumer as well as the producer.

Thousands in the district are reading his platform. They are thinking over the democratic principles contained in it. The people are intelligent and recognize the truthfulness of his statements and the indisputable soundness of the plans in that platform.

Let the politicians and their press becloud the issues and deride the motives that prompt a man of the calibre of Lige White to champion the peoples' rights; but the consumers as well as the farmers are going to give him the necessary votes to insure his nomination and election.

It is not Mr. White's fight but the people's and he reluctantly consented at a personal sacrifice of his own business interests to make the fight for them, believing that no personal consideration should stand in the way of performing a public duty.

Third. Because he stands for legitimate business. While realizing that farming is the foundation of human existence and the backbone of all industrial endeavor, and that the interests of the consumer are identical with those of the producer, he believes that all legitimate business is entitled to a fair profit and should be protected.

The Loudoun Mirror is proud of the unselfish support it gave to Governor Davis, and if it contributed to any extent in bringing about his election, it feels amply repaid in having its political judgment verified, for he is making good, and will continue to make good.

We feel no less convinced that the future will verify the correctness of our statements about Mr. White. He will be nominated and elected and will make a congressman of whom Loudoun, the eighth district and the nation will be proud.

CONSCIENCE AND CORN BREAD

The great war is testing the merit of things new and old. New ships, new guns, new battle planes, new contrivances and inventions, are expected to help win the war. But there are some old things which may also be expected to help win the war. Conscience is one of these old-fashioned things—the faculty of seeing and knowing things to be right.

Help your government and yourself at the same time—buy War Savings Stamps. A war saver is a life-saver.

this faculty will insure success of the new enterprise of war and at the same time insure the permanency of everything old that is worth abiding. Hence, the ruthlessness and hardness of war will be transient phases of a national life that is created and equipped for the more precious things of peace, for conscience is just the knowing that every moment of any present has both a past and a future. The good, as well as the evil, that men do, lives after them. Conscience will see to it that less of the evil and more of the good shall live and thrive.

Corn bread is another old-fashioned thing. It was once the symbol of poverty, rural destitution. The necessity of eating corn bread was deemed either a punishment for laziness and thriftlessness, or a reproving visitation of Providence.

The times and the sense of values have changed. The plebian corn bread of peace and rural meagreness, is now the bread of victory and triumph.

But—and here is the test—will the people of our country eat the bread of old-time rural meagreness in joy and gladness. They must either eat corn bread now as victory bread or eat it later as the bread of slavery.

A good conscience will make corn bread both wholesome and respectable. — American Fruit Grower.

LETTER FROM RELAY, MD.

Views on Woman's Suffrage Predicts Victory.

(By Estelle Greene Day) Editor Journal:—It looks like the forty years struggle for suffrage is about to end in its acceptance as a feature of America's fighting program for world democracy. It must come as a moving indication of the deep honesty of purpose behind our nation's program. Tremendous strides have been made by the cause throughout the world within the last three years. Numerous states and nations have paused in order to enfranchise 40,000,000 women. All this reflects the determination of leading statesmen and political leaders (not tricksters) to regard suffrage as a genuine war measure.

Even the President so considers it. Nine great states and nations have extended suffrage to women since 1915. In point of numbers Russia heads the list with approximately 26,000,000 enfranchised women; Great Britain next, 6,000,000; New York with practically 3,000,000 new citizens. Within the last three years British Columbia, Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario and Denmark have fallen into line, and within the past year partial suffrage, ranging from presidential to municipal, has been granted in Texas, Michigan, Arkansas, Nebraska, Rhode Island, Vermont, and North Dakota.

Why must the conservative eastern states continue to be the last to place their capable women on the same plane as their equally capable men, so that they can not only work side by side to better the world, but will have the power to help place the best men in office to enforce laws beneficial to the community?

This is what suffrage has done and is doing in Kansas. Don't take my word, but ask the governor and officials of that state. Rest assured that no woman will be compelled to register and go to the polls any more than the men are, but if only one woman desires to become a full fledged citizen she should have the right. This is simply justice. Relay, Md., June 10, 1918.

Where farmers have their own corn mills and grind corn meal for food and feed stuffs, they do not require licenses if they grind only for themselves. They do require licenses, however, if they grind for neighbors, or any one else for pay, or if they sell for feed any corn, bran or corn meal resulting from the milling process.

The Food Administration has established no grades on corn meal as yet. This matter is under consideration and it is expected that grades will be established within the near future.

It is the opinion of the Law Department of the Food Administration that the Food Control Act does not give jurisdiction over the farmers' own products. Under this rule it is not possible to limit prices on products of their own production held in storage by farmers, with the exception of wheat. The price of wheat was fixed by Presidential proclamation.

At the present prices of corn, barley and oats, millers should be offering meals and flours made from these grains at prices considerably lower than the price of wheat flour. The price of corn meal should be at least twenty-five per cent. less than that of wheat flour, and oat meal even lower. White corn flour and barley flour should be selling at least ten to fifteen per cent. below wheat flour. Retailers should not take more than sixteen to twenty per cent. on the sale price for handling these products.

In view of these facts, there is no justification for bakers raising the price of bread on the plea that substitutes for wheat flour are higher than wheat flour itself.

There should likewise be no objection by consumers on this score to the application of the 50-50 rule.

There seems to be widespread misunderstanding as to the grain content of graham flour, whole wheat flour, and various other products and breakfast foods.

Graham flour and whole wheat flour are both wheat flours, differing from the white flour only to the extent that they include more of the bran and germ.

Macaroni, spaghetti, noodles, etc., are pure wheat products as are also many of the proprietary breakfast foods, such as Wheatina, Farina, etc.

As a food butter contains two elements which make it distinct from other foods:

First, its power to stimulate growth.
Second, its power to serve as a source of energy for the maintenance of bodily activity.

From this point of view, it may be truthfully said that butter fat has no substitute.

This applies in a less degree to dairy products containing dairy fat. The United States is now the last reserve for milk products. The dairy herds of Europe have been greatly depleted.

Last year, two hundred and fifty-nine million pounds of condensed milk were shipped to Europe—over a hundred million pounds more than during the preceding year.

Cheese exports increased from forty-four million pounds in 1916 to sixty-six million pounds in 1917.

Butter exports increased from thirteen million pounds in 1916 to twenty-six million pounds in 1917.

There will be need to further increase these figures in 1918, and it is, therefore, essential that the dairy herds of this country maintain their production at a high level.

Dehydration means removing water. The principle, particularly as applied to fruits, has been known throughout the ages, but its application in a thoroughly satisfactory way is of very recent development. The Food Administration is now endeavoring to standardize the process and make it the practical means of conserving fruits and vegetables to an extent that will prevent any waste.

Properly dehydrated products have the same nutritive value as when fresh; their physical nature is practically unaltered and they are little affected in taste. The bulk is reduced from one-third to one-fifth and weight from one-third to one-twelfth by the removal of the water. When the water is restored, the product returns to a condition so closely approximating that of the fresh that when cooked it is in all essentials comparable with it.

This process will conserve great quantities of vegetables and fruits that would otherwise go to waste.

Any community or group of people interested in establishing a dehydration plant should lose no time in communicating with the Food Administration.

Hotels, restaurants and boarding houses are now allowed to purchase sugar in quantities sufficient for their present requirements. The total amount of purchases at a single time, however, should not exceed thirty days' supply.
