All smoking tobaccos use some flavoring. The Encyclopaedia Britannica says about the manufacture of smoking tobacco, "... on the Continent and in America certain 'sauces' are employed ... the use of the 'sauces' is to improve the flavour and burning qualities of the leaves."

Tuxedo uses chocolate—the purest, most wholesome and delicious of all flavorings! Everybody likes chocolate—we all know that chocolate added to anything as a flavoring always makes that thing still more enjoyable. That is why a dash of chocolate, added to the most carefully selected and properly aged burley tobacco, makes Tuxedo more enjoyable.

THE SPIRIT OF MODERN VIRGINIA

A former resident of Manassas has contributed the following original article for The Journal:

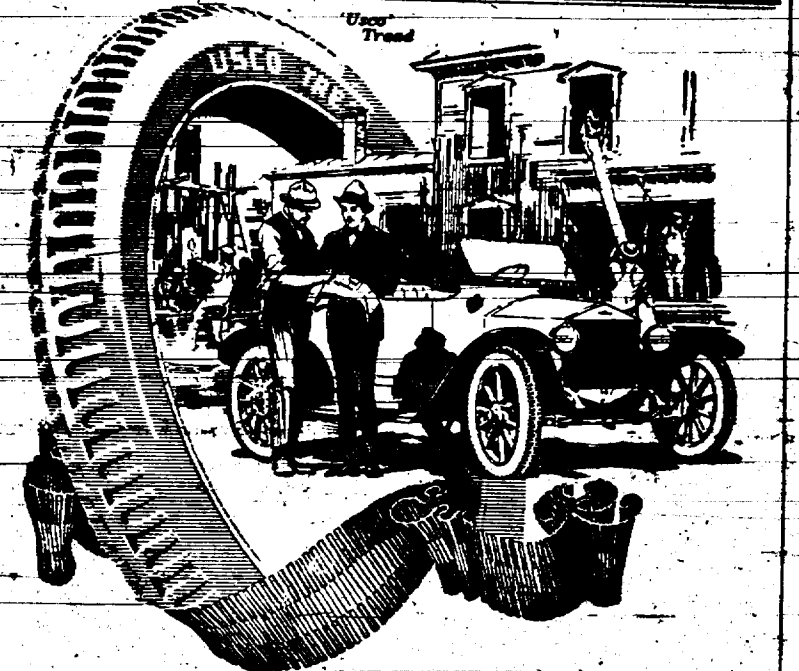

It is my hope to set forth within this article something of the contributing forces of past days which tended to make and have made Virginia the state she is today; and in the ensuing articles to show very strikingly how we may build better than we thought possible, in the future, upon the foundations of the achievements of former years. If it happens, as it may very possibly happen, that at some place in the course of this theme I shall touch with greater force than would seem absolutely necessary upon some phase of conditions which have grown dear to us through usage and time, I beg that you will not be offended. Youth is ever prone to condemn unnecessarily many things which later may be loved and cherished. What I write is written in the sincere hope that in some few hearts a responsive chord may be struck, and thereby my state and your state, Virginia, may be aided in her noble fight upward toward modern progress. With this explanation we begin the present theme—the effect of our past history upon conditions of the present, resulting in the spirit of the modern Virginia.

All of us who have any right to lay claim to the title, Virginian, are more or less familiar with a history of the state, beginning with its settlement in 1607 and ending in April, 1865. Further, we are familiar with the fact that in that time the constant trend of affairs then was ever toward an extremely paternal form of aristocracy. In that time few cities were built, for two reasons—first, because the people were instinctively against city life, choosing rather to live in the country alone on their estates; second, by reason of the fact that the home of the planter supplied him and his dependants with almost all the necessities of life, both social and material. Each plantation, then, was a veritable city in itself, with its owner and his family as the upper class, the poorer whites its plebians, and the negroes as the laborers. In short, it was a reversion to feudal conditions, with all the beauty and smooth working of that system and few of its defects.

The results of this condition of affairs upon the present history of the state were many and far reaching. During that period its result was excellent. At no time had the nation got very far away from the English idea of a government by the aristocracy. North, south, or west, each was equally ready to have the burden of government laid upon the upper classes. Education, in the main, was only for the rich, which made it an absolute impossibility for the poor to be sought but the governed. The training in monarchy which they or their ancestors had undergone in Europe for centuries was not to be eradicated in a single generation. As a nation we were a democracy merely to the extent that where once the divine right of kings to rule had been paramount, here it was the right of the aristocracy of wealth and education. Under such conditions the part which Virginia's sons—each with ample time to prepare himself—played, was a very natural one. It was to ington, Madison and Jefferson, and to the state such families as the Lees and Randolphs. Unfortunately, however, our particular system of government, there began during the Revolutionary period and grew apace thereafter, a spirit of true democracy. This spirit, which had its inception during the Revolution, declared itself in Lincoln's words, "A government of the people, by the people, and for the people," and showed the stuff of which it is made in the present World War by our fight "to make the world safe for democracy." Beginning simultaneously in all the thirteen colonies this spirit freed us from England, and then in the south, having done its work, it lay dormant, despite the fact that the south apparently was its fierce partisan. But we were acting a lie, and the world knew it when the doctrine of state rights came up, and was fastened to as the policy of all the south.

Thereafter with the north and west as the representatives of democracy, and the south of the old aristocratic system of government, and with slavery as the apparent cause of the trouble, the fight went on and culminated in the Civil War. The outcome of that struggle is too familiar to bear repetition. Beaten, the south clung tenaciously to its ideals, changing only to an extremely conservative people and for at least a time, with little or no voice in the affairs of the nation. And it is

The More You Use Your Car The More You Need Good Tires

Your car's usefulness is increasing every day.

It is becoming more and more of a real necessity to you—both in your business and home life.

For that very reason you need good tires, now, more than ever.

The out-and-out dependability that created so tremendous a demand for United States Tires in times of war is just as desirable today.

It reduces tire troubles to the vanishing point—multiplying the usefulness of your car and putting the cost of operation on a real thrift basis.

United States 'Nobby', 'Chain', 'Ucco', and 'Plain' are the most popular fabric tires built. They have all the strength and stamina our years of experience have taught us to put into tires.

There is also the United States 'Royal Cord', the finest built for passenger car use.

Our nearest Sales and Service Depot dealer has exactly the trade you need for your car and the roads you travel.

We will gladly help you pick them out.

United States Tires are Good Tires

this conservatism, the natural and logical result of this defeated system of aristocracy, which is the almost insuperable obstacle which we of Virginia confront today. Centering about the "Lost Cause" its very roots so grown into the hearts and lives of the people as to present the aspect of a wholly proper and necessary growth, it is at once our dearest friend and our most insidious enemy. The defeat of the Confederacy put to naught our former system of training our sons and daughters. The life of the scholar in the hustle and stir of our modern life is of little value to any one, except perhaps the extremely introspective, a type which will continue to grow to full maturity under almost any conditions. The new world calls for a very different type, the specialist, in any vocation. The old life of the south developed men who could do almost anything which they might be called upon to do, and do it well. It was broad where today it is necessary to be narrow. Our system of training our sons and daughters, and I mean in all respects, is obsolete today.

Thus, very briefly and broadly speaking, I have tried to outline the social history of Virginia up to the present time and to present the spirit of the modern Virginia thereby. The slogan of this day is democracy in its widest sense. We have not been democratic in the past. Today is the day of opportunity. Our men are returning home immeasurably broader in mental vision than they ever were before. They are willing and ready to aid this Old Dominion of ours to regain its former prestige and power in the nation. They lack only encouragement from you, the men and women who are the ruling power in the state. If you fail them you will have traded the birthright of generations of progress for the pottage of long dead years and opportunities, and shall deserve the sneers of sister states and the contumacy of your posterity. Our past is the most brilliant of all the states; our present an indolent consideration of past greatness and the progress of others; our future either a continuation of this deadly lethargy, or a grasp of opportunity which in the course of a few generations shall place us again upon the plane of equality with the other states, and enable our children to acknowledge without being half ashamed, as we are at present, that we are Virginians.

Pence moved last week from the house of Mr. R. C. Bowers to the Lutheran parsonage, one door west of the Lutheran Church. Miss Myrtle Priest, Miss Mary L. Sarrell and Mr. Charles Romia, of Washington, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Priest and family Sunday. The Epworth League of the M. E. Church, South, will hold a social at the home of Mrs. T. F. Coleman Friday evening, March 7. All are cordially invited to attend. By request of New Hope Church, the Rev. Westwood Hutchison will hold services March 9, at 7:30 p. m. All of the members are cordially requested to be present, and the public is cordially invited. Among the bills, passed by Congress during its closing hours and shortly given the presidential approval, was the wheat guarantee measure, carrying an appropriation of $1,000,000,000 to maintain the guaranteed price of $2.25 per bushel. Rev. H. Q. Burr and Rev. J. M. Bell, of Manassas, and Mr. W. B. Winslow, of Buckhall, attended a meeting in the interest of the Methodist Centenary Movement on Wednesday at Alexandria. The Manassas Produce Exchange moved on Monday from the C. M. Larkin building, on Centre street, one door west of the block mill, to the store formerly occupied by the firm of Maddox & Byrd. At the public sale of Mr. B. Lynn Robertson on Friday last, all the articles brought good prices. Especially were the cattle in demand. One five-year-old registered Hereford bull brought $186. There will be an oyster supper at Bethel High School, Agnewville, Saturday night, March 15, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Supper 50 and 75 cents, ice cream, cake and candy will be sold. Proceeds for the benefit of Bethel Community League. Mrs. Estelle D. Day, of Reisterstown, Md., formerly of Manassas, is spending the winter in Phoenix, Arizona, which place is the headquarters of her daughter, Wilma G. Rhodes, who is in the Indian Service as National Supervisor and is now in New Mexico. Mr. L. B. Cooper, street car conductor in Washington, where he has been employed one year, came home last week ill with malarial fever and a severe cold. He is confined to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cooper, near Brentsville, but is reported as improving. Miss Lola Cornwell, whose parents live near Token, has been spending the winter with Mrs. James Parks, at Tracy's Landing, Md. She recently paid a visit to her home. On Monday next she will return to Baltimore, where she had been living previously to her marriage.

The Prince William Red Cross will hold a meeting Monday evening, March 10, at 8 p. m. at the Baptist Church. The program includes a business session and musical numbers by Mrs. B. Lynn Robertson, Miss Margaret Clark and others. The public is cordially invited to attend. The Anti-Saloon League of America has sent a receipt for $11.72, the amount of the offering made at the recent union meeting to rejoice over the ratification of the prohibition constitutional amendment. The receipt will be turned over to the secretary of the Manassas Ministers' Conference. Lieut. W. E. Hutchison, who has been located at Eastern College as instructor of the S. A. T. C., has been given his discharge and on Monday will return to civilian life to his home in Springfield, Mass. He will resume his studies at Bowdoin College, which he left about one year ago. He expects to finish his senior work and graduate in June. Private Maury Montgomery Lake, who was reported "missing in action" some time in October, is now reported in the revised casualty list as killed in action, adding one more gold star to Prince William's roll of honor. Private Lake was a son of Mrs. Nannie Lake, of Culpeper county, and a nephew of Mr. W. M. Wheeler. He was drafted last spring, while living at Wellington, and received his military training with the 318th Infantry at Camp Lee. The annual conference of the M. E. Church, South, will begin at Staunton, Va., on Wednesday, March 26, and continue in session until the announcement of the appointment of ministers, which usually occurs on Monday. Bishop E. R. Hendrix, of Kansas City, Mo., will preside. The congregations at Bradley and Buckhall, where the local pastor also preaches, have had a petition circulated, requesting the Bishop to reappoint Rev. H. Q. Burr. Many of Mr. Burr's friends in other denominations wish also that he may be returned for another year to Manassas. Why is it that the more thickly settled a community is the worse the roads are? Manassas has worse thoroughfares than any other section of the county, according to the traveling public. True it is that the town streets are used more than county roads, but then there is more money to keep them in repair. One of the worst places in town is Centre street, the main highway of Manassas, especially between the high school and the western end of the cemetery. What is the remedy? Sergt. Robert C. Leachman, who volunteered for the army at Welch, W. Va., June, 1917, went to Camp Sheldon, Miss., where he spent over one year. In October, 1918, he was sent to France as a member of the 150th regiment of Infantry, A. E. F., but in France he was transferred to the 49th regiment. He did not enter the fighting during his stay there. He returned in February and is now in Manassas. He expects to have a position at the shipyard at Alexandria, having already signed up to that effect. An interesting debate was held at the High School yesterday afternoon by the boys of the Junior year. The debate was given before the school. The subject was resolved, "That the United States should adopt universal military training, corresponding to the Swiss system." The speakers on the affirmative were Messrs. Leon Waters and Ralph Larson, while the negative was upheld by Messrs. Walter Sanders and Victor Haydon. After careful consideration by the judges, Messrs. Metz and Grenels and Mr. Sanders, the decision was rendered in favor of the affirmative.

Mrs. Wm. J. Young has finally been able to get away on a trip to visit friends near Reading, Pa. She left on Monday. Young has been recuperating on going for several months, but she is one of those rare personages these days, who loves her neighbor better than herself. Frequently she had set a time to leave, but there was a neighbor in sickness or trouble or needing help of some kind and she always postponed her journey and went to the assistance of the one in need. We are glad that Mrs. Young has at last gotten away and trust that this Good Samaritan friend of everybody will enjoy her greatly needed, long delayed and fully deserved vacation. The government having decided to make the Marine Barracks at Quantico a permanent training ground, it has become necessary to purchase the land. At various times recently experts in searching title deeds have been spending considerable time at the county clerk's office, investigating the titles to the various plots to be purchased. They represent land and title companies, which investigate titles, but do not guarantee them to the government. They merely state the facts and then give advice. When the titles are satisfactory, the question then arises as to compensation for land taken. Some of the land owners ask twice as much for the land as it is worth, seeming to think it honest to get double value for their property. The government will assess the land at a reasonable price and then acquire the property. The effort to raise the $100 quota of Prince William county for the Blue Triangle Investment Campaign of the Y. W. C. A. has as yet failed. Possibly the asking for such a small amount, in comparison with the large sums requested for Y. M. C. A., Red Cross, Armenian and Syrian Relief work, has led many persons with us to think that the money would be raised easily without their assistance. So far, for the above-mentioned or some other reason, only $15 has been subscribed. Let us all get together and give something. We have given to protect the boys. We will give also to guard the girls. Anything you have from 10 cents up to that many dollars, can be left at The Journal office, and we will turn it over to Miss Mary Larkin, county chairman. If you really want the NEWS of the county The Journal will give it to you every week for a year for one dollar, in advance.

A TRANSPLANTED FLOWER (By Mrs. B. T. H. Hodge.) There is a reaper, whose name is death. And with his sickle keen, He reaps the bearded grain at a breath, And the flowers that grow between. Only to dear little Elizabeth Lewis here is no death. To her it is all life, life, and joy and happy meeting with her Saviour and loved ones. Her little life from the first was frail, and lent many of the available opportunities of development she seemed to be specially blessed and happy in her comfort in religion. Her faith was wonderful. She was her mother's companion day by day, and with her mother attended the missionary meetings of the church, where she was enrolled as a member, and contributed regularly to the funds of the society and responded to the roll call. Endowed with a trustful and loving nature, she won affection from others and made clearer the thought that "a little child shall lead them." A perfect understanding existed between her and the devoted mother, and as the little life became more frail, day by day the intimacy grew closer, and closer, and the mother was privileged to catch glimpses of the "land not very far off," and rejoice with her little child in perfect confidence that she was ready to answer the Saviour's call without fear or dread. This dear little one left a "good-bye and a sweet kiss" for her friends she could not see, and with a gentle sigh she slipped away to her heavenly home. Shall not we who linger longer awaiting our Saviour's call take to heart the lessons we may learn, and with increased faith and courage and hope in the life that now is and that which is to come, go on our way rejoicing? While we sympathize deeply with the bereaved parents, brother and loved ones, we rejoice that this tender little flower is only transplanted to the fields of light, where she will grow and strengthen in the sunshine of her Saviour's smile. CARD OF THANKS We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness during the illness and death of our dear child, Myrtle, and for the beautiful flowers. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Gregg, Va. The Journal—$1.00 a year—and worth it.

The land, over which the new Colchester road will go, having been sold to Carl Lynn and John K. The board adjourned to Tuesday, March 25, when they will consider the report of the committee, recommending that the road from Samuel R. Low's to Amidon's corner go by way of Joplin instead of Dumfries. All interested parties are invited to be present at that time.

HON. C. C. CARLIN WILL NOT QUALIFY FOR CONGRESS

Opportunity for Congressional Aspirants to Enter the Race—Several Candidates Now Registered

Congressman Carlin, in speaking at a banquet of the Retail Merchants of Alexandria, on March 5, 1919, as a part of his speech, gave out the following statement:

TO MY FELLOW CITIZENS:

On March 5, 1919, I wired the Governor of Virginia as follows:

"I hereby notify you that I will not qualify as a member of the Sixty-sixth Congress from the Eighth Congressional District of Virginia, to which I was elected last November. A vacancy is thus created to be filled as provided by law."

There are many reasons for this action on my part. First, it is impossible for me longer to retain my health and bear the physical strain of the constantly increasing demands made upon me.

Second, I desire to return to the practice of my profession as a lawyer, where opportunities are at present open to me which might be closed by advancing years, and I have reached the conclusion that I owe it to my family and myself to do so now. I shall form a co-partnership with my son, Captain Charles Keith Carlin (who will shortly return from France), with offices in Washington, D. C., and Alexandria, Va., and shall continue to live, where I have lived since my birth, in the city of Alexandria.

I would not be frank if I did not say that I have for several years contemplated this step, but believing that the sixty-sixth congress would be democratic, and that there would be open to me greater fields of usefulness in the Congress of the United States, I was willing to sacrifice my personal interests, and even my health, for my district and my constituents; but as the sixty-sixth congress will be republican, these reasons no longer exist, and although I confess it has caused me many heart-pangs to reach this conclusion, and to sever my official connection with the district, and the people whom I know so well and for whom I have a genuine affection, yet for the reasons assigned I have decided to take the course indicated.

Since I have been your representative, I have been conscious of but one desire—to serve the best interests of my constituents in my country, and my state, and for twelve years I have abandoned my profession and given my entire time and attention to the interests of my district. I retire with the full knowledge that I have at all times fulfilled my duty to the best of my ability, and for several years past have done so at the sacrifice of my health and financial interests.

I wish to express to the people of the eighth congressional district the deepest gratitude for the honors they have conferred upon me. They will always be the object of my sincere affection.

Those already mentioned as possible candidates as successors to Congressman Carlin are Messrs. E. Walton Moore, of Fairfax, and Geo. L. Browning, of Orange.

Hon. E. Walton Moore, of Fairfax, has announced himself as a candidate to succeed Congressman Carlin.

GET YOUR DOG TAG

Unless You Pay the Tax, the Dog Will Be Killed.

County treasurer J. P. Leachman has received the following self-explanatory letter from Mr. E. Nash Biliboly, state commissioner of game and inland fisheries:

"Kindly advise this department of the total number of license tags issued by you under the provisions of the new state dog law. This statute became operative February 1, 1919, and the department is now checking up to ascertain the number of dogs owned in the state on which the tax has been paid.

"The law requires game warden to kill all dogs on which the tax has not been paid and which are found roaming at large without license tags. It is the purpose of the department to shortly issue instructions to its wardens to proceed to kill all such dogs, and it might be well for you to advise the dog owners in your county of the steps the department will take looking to a strict enforcement of the law."

Treasurer Leachman reports that he has so far sold 900 tags.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of our little daughter, Elizabeth.

LET US HAVE COUNTY MEDICAL INSPECTION

Each School is Asked to Raise $5.00 or More as Exercise on Friday, March 14th.

Office of Division Superintendent Gainesville, Va. March 3, 1919.

To the Teachers of Prince William County, Virginia.

Dear Teacher:—The attention of the people of Prince William county is now called to the danger of other epidemics more serious than the "flu," which our state authorities fear may follow in the pathway prepared by the influenza during the past year.

Asiatic cholera is now raging in Russia and Serbia and is as easily brought to America as influenza, and would find here a fruitful field due to the weakened condition of the people.

Our state health authorities are anxious to meet the situation and for Prince William county to participate we will have to raise $1,000 to meet a like amount from the United States government; this will insure the necessary medical inspection, not only of the school children, but all people and communities throughout the county for a whole year.

This opportunity is offered to the first twenty counties of Virginia which meet the demands first. Already six have raised the amount asked and have the campaigns in operation. If we are to participate we must make haste. The amount necessary to meet expenses has been apportioned among our several agencies for collection and we are asking each teacher, both white and colored, to raise not less than $5.00 by public subscription among the patrons. This method will call the attention of all people to the necessity of the work and apprise them of their duty.

Arrange a program, if possible, for Friday, March 14, and ask your patrons to meet with you and your minister or other speakers to discuss the situation and take your collection. Let the leagues contribute $5.00 or more to the fund. Let each school observe the week of March 10-14 for this health campaign and report results on Saturday the 15th to the Division Superintendent.

The schools have aided in many drives during the past year for other things. They are now asked to help themselves and we feel sure the people of the county will respond freely to protect their children and their communities from danger. You will please make this an issue during the week mentioned.

Let me ask that each community be thoroughly canvassed and every one be given an opportunity to contribute. Trusting you will enter into the spirit of the work and awaiting your report with interest, I beg to remain,

Very cordially yours, Chas. K. McDonald, Division Superintendent.

Box for Confederate Home

Editor Journal:—Will you grant me the privilege, through your paper, of expressing my appreciation of the hearty co-operation of the members and friends of the Daughters of the Confederacy in collecting, recently, an acceptable box for the Home of Needy Confederate Women in Richmond.

The soliciting committee did not visit the homes of all who would possibly have gladly contributed to this most worthy cause but the shipment sent them last week, we are sure, will be most gratifying to the board and pleasing to the dear folks in that institution.

We thank all contributors who enabled the checker to so generously respond to an appeal from the President of this Home.
