ASKS SUPPORT IN THIRD ROLL CALL

Manassas Visitor Tells Why Prince William Should Continue to Help Red Cross.

Mr. George R. Laird, of the speakers' bureau of the American National Red Cross and former head of the English department of the University of Wisconsin, visited Rev. DeForest Wade, Prince William roll call chairman, and addressed a meeting of the Bethel Red Cross on Wednesday evening. While Mr. Laird was unable to speak elsewhere, he left a message for the people of Prince William.

"I understand that some of you do not understand why we are making the third Red Cross roll call," he said. "You say the war is over—why the Red Cross now?"

"Well, the war is over," he agreed, "that is, the actual fighting is over, but there are still thousands, tens of thousands of the returned soldiers who are now receiving the care and attention of the Red Cross in all sections of the country. During the last month the Red Cross aided in more than 300,000 cases of needy soldiers, looking after their insurance, securing them jobs, etc. This grand work must go on, and will go on for many months to come. There are millions of suffering and starving people in the devastated regions of Siberia and Serbia and Czechoslovakia and the Near East, where the Red Cross is today spending millions for relief work.

"Even as I speak teams loads of Red Cross supplies are being rushed to these devastated regions. The War Department, acting under a law passed recently by Congress, has authorized and ordered the Red Cross to take over $35,000,000 of food and medical supplies to be distributed to the suffering peoples of Europe. This distribution requires the services of hundreds of trained nurses and medical officers and transportation agents. It is estimated that this will require $15,000,000 and so the Red Cross is doing competition for funds money for the work thrust upon it by Congress and the War Department.

But more imperative and practical than all other reasons for the third Red Cross roll call is this," declared Mr. Laird:

"Right here in our grand old U. S. A., where more than 200,000 perished from the 'flu' last year, right here in old Virginia where the 'flu' claimed more than 15,000 victims and where typhoid and tuberculosis and numerous other diseases are daily and hourly carrying many to their graves from preventable causes—right here the Red Cross is carrying on, through its trained nurses and medical experts, a campaign of education against disease in every form.

"You may be the very one to be sick and seriously sick in the coming cold weather months," Mr. Laird continued, driving the subject home. "your own home may be stricken again as it was last year with the 'flu'.

"Wake up!" he urged. "Wake up to the needs of the hour! Wake up and help the Red Cross wage this splendid war upon the enemies who are more fatal and insidious than even the Huns—famine, pestilence and disease.

"The people of Prince William county are just as patriotic and just as intelligent as the people of any section of the country. I am convinced that when they know the facts they will gladly support the Greatest Mother in the World to help all her needy sons and daughters wherever they may be."

HOMESICK FOR MARINES

Recruiting Tables Say This Is Chief Cause of Re-enlistments.

Homesickness brings more men back into the military service than any other reason, according to officers who have questioned thousands of veterans who have been discharged and re-enlisted since the signing of the armistice. Recruiting tables show that nearly 70 per cent of present day enlistments are of men who have seen previous service.

The case of Sergeant Tony Kane, a Marine, who was among the foremost of Chicago's returned war heroes is typical. Kane was thrice cited, receiving the Croix de Guerre with palm, the Medaille Militaire and the Croix de Guerre with star. He was given a warm welcome when he returned home but a few days after being discharged he again re-enlisted, saying he was homesick and wanted to get back with the Marines.

RATS OPEN DINNER PAILS

Rats in the Tappin coal mine in Ohio are very acute, according to the miners working there. They climb to piles near the dinner pails and wrap their tails about the handle of the lid and help themselves.

A jar of cream left open was appropriated by another rat that dipped it all into the contents and then licked the cream off its tail.

He was educated at the Virginia Military Institute and the University of Virginia and was a vice-president and director of the Capital Construction Company, of Washington; the Virginia Feed and Milling Company, of Alexandria, and the Portner Realty Company, of Manassas.

DEMAND FOR RABBIT PELTS

In recent years several kinds of fur, formerly of so little value as to offer no inducement to the trapper, have been raised in price, and consequently collecting them has been made profitable. Rabbit pelts, which are extensively used by hat makers, are among these products. One Eastern concern has announced that it will need 10,000,000 rabbit skins during 1919 and 1920, and it desires as far as possible to secure them from American sources.

This is an indication of a market which should interest many a farmer boy. This fall and winter dried, cased rabbit skins will probably bring a reasonably good return. They are sold by the pound, which will contain seven or eight skins. Many farm boys can readily acquire, in the course of the winter, large numbers of skins which will net them a tidy sum and, in addition, they will have the pleasure of trapping experience.

The United States Department of Agriculture will supply any inquirer with the names and addresses of possible purchasers of rabbit skins and other pelts.

WRAP TAILS AROUND HANDLES OF LIDS AND PULL THEM OFF.

Rats in the Tappin coal mine in Ohio are very acute, according to the miners working there. They climb to piles near the dinner pails and wrap their tails about the handle of the lid and help themselves.

A jar of cream left open was appropriated by another rat that dipped it all into the contents and then licked the cream off its tail.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

¶ There are 30,000 soldiers still in the hospitals of the country; that the Red Cross is serving them?

¶ An appropriation of $2,100,000 has just been made by the Red Cross to carry on its Camp Service?

¶ Approximately 300,000 soldiers' and sailors' families are being cared for each month by the Red Cross?

¶ $210,000 has just been appropriated to continue canteen service until the end of the year?

¶ Red Cross Commissioners are operating among the sufferers of twenty-three countries?

¶ The Government has turned over to the Red Cross more than $10,000,000 in food and medicine for distribution overseas?

¶ $1,800,000 has been appropriated by the Red Cross to combat the spread of typhus, which is claiming thousands of lives in Siberia?

¶ The Red Cross aims to provide every community with Public Health nurses to forestall such calamities as the influenza epidemic?

¶ The Junior Red Cross is undertaking the alleviation of suffering among hundreds of thousands of European children?

CAN YOU FORGET THAT

¶ There are thousands and thousands of soldiers still in service overseas? The Red Cross is serving them. Then how about those 40,000 ships that are keeping vigil on the Mexican border? The Red Cross is not forgetting them, either.

¶ Does it look as though Red Cross work and responsibilities are over?

RED-CROSS HOLDS PUBLIC MEETING

Overseas Soldier Speaks in Interest of Third Roll Call—Many Present.

The third roll call of the Prince William Red Cross was formally launched Sunday evening when a mass meeting at the Manassas Baptist Church was attended by Red Cross members of every faith. Rev. Alexander Stuart Gibson, county vice-chairman, presided, and the address of the evening was made by Mr. Walker G. Glenn, of the United States Army, who told from experience in America and France of the wonderful work of the Red Cross in behalf of the soldier.

Mr. Glenn also spoke briefly of the peace program now under way and the opportunity of every citizen to share in the good work. He concluded by urging the people of Prince William county to rally to the Red Cross and make the roll call the same sweeping success that our boys attained in France.

After a song service led by Rev. T. D. D. Clark, the meeting opened with prayer by Rev. William Stevens, which was followed by the Scripture reading by Rev. L. C. Messick.

Rev. DeForest Wade, roll call chairman, made a brief address. Rev. Mr. Wade spoke of the interest manifested in the work throughout the county and thanked the roll call workers for the ready support volunteered at the opening of the campaign. Not one person whose help was asked, has failed to respond, he said.

After singing "America" the meeting closed with benediction by Rev. T. D. D. Clark.

AUXILIARY WOMEN TO MEET HERE NEXT WEEK

First Business Meeting of Organization Since June—Members Urged to Attend.

(Miss Lillian V. Gilbert, Secretary)

The monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held on Friday, November 14, at 2:30 p. m., instead of on the third Friday, as the usual custom has been for meetings. This meeting will be held in the agricultural high school building, and lunch will be served here by Miss Metz and her class in home economics. All members of the auxiliary are urged to be present, as much business of interest will be on hand, owing to the fact that there has not been a business meeting since June.

It is hoped that the members of the auxiliary will also attend the morning session of the farmers' institute which will be held at the courthouse. All men who are interested are invited to attend the woman's meeting.

PROVES CO-OPERATION IN RED CROSS ROLL CALL

Publicity Chairman Writes Open Letter to People of Prince William County.

(C. J. Meetsla.)

As publicity chairman of the Prince William County Chapter, American Red Cross, I wish to urge upon every citizen of the county the great importance of enrolling in the Third Red Cross Roll Call, which closes on the night of the 11th, the first anniversary of the signing of the armistice.

Can it be said by any citizen that they oppose such a worthy cause, a cause which is first aid in every disaster, the cause which meant so much to our boys in winning the war? Who knows when a great disaster may come to us here in Prince William? If it does, the Red Cross will be the first to come to our relief. Can we expect help from them if we don't do our part toward maintaining it?

You have the dollar and also the heart. Will you allow the heart to govern? Suppose the flu comes again. What then? Let us hope and pray met. What is the Red Cross doing toward the support of our health officers, our nurse and county officials in many ways? Will you co-operate? Less than the price of two dozen eggs will make you a member for twelve months, ten ten-cent cigars will make you a member for one year, seventeen Coca-Colas will make you a member for 365 days, four twenty-five cent movie tickets will make you a member for 52 weeks. Will you deprive yourself of these things just once in order to relieve suffering humanity?

I would suggest a Red Cross meeting on Tuesday night, November 11, to celebrate the signing of the armistice and to enlist every person in the county. I will do all I can to get speakers. Call on me.

MANASSAS LOSES GAME

Gridiron Honors Go to Alexandria—Game Here November 22.

The football team representing Manassas High School was defeated by the Alexandria High School team Saturday at Alexandria by the score of 13-0.

Despite the rain the teams met on the muddy slippery gridiron on scheduled time. Alexandria scored one touchdown in the first quarter, two in the second, one in the third and one in the last. Among the several reasons assigned for Alexandria's triumph is superior weight, the Alexandria athletes being said to outweigh the Manassas team by an average of about fifteen pounds per man. This was the first game that the majority of the Manassas boys had played.

Manassas and Alexandria will meet again Saturday, November 22, on home grounds.

LET'S KILL THE RAT
 Prince William is soon to have a "kill-the-rat" campaign, according to a well-founded report, and this campaign in spite of other enterprises that contribute to busy days is expected to attract the interest and support of every farmer and of every housewife, and through them of every citizen. Similar campaigns have been an unqualified success in other communities. In one Virginia county the governing body offered out of a special appropriation one cent a rat-tail to every child who took part, and it was necessary to order a halt in the midst of the campaign until a new appropriation could be provided.

Such a campaign will mean dollars and cents in the pocket of every citizen. How much it costs the average farmer to feed the unwelcome rat population that he supports reaches an astonishing figure.

How many rats are living on Prince William food that might buy extra comforts for the farmer's wife while feeding hungry mouths elsewhere? This is a question that the Journal's force of statistical experts is unprepared to answer. Someone with a good working knowledge of the multiplication table, however, has figured that in ten years the descendants of a single pair of rats, if allowed to multiply undisturbed, would number 48,319,698,930,344,720.

Prince William probably had more than one pair of rats ten years ago and it is more than probable that each rat family has a considerable number who have survived the ravages of trap and poison and the family cat.

TRY THEM ON YOUR FAMILY—AND YOURSELF

With the approach of winter, and as the young folks enter school again, let's take a mental inventory. If your school days are just a memory of the sunlit past, are you still a student in the broader training school of everyday living, or are you lost in the whirl of events without a moment for recaptulation?

Let's take an evening off and see where we are. Here is a list of questions to whet your appetite. Try them on the family, adding a few of your own making. Send us some of your questions, if you feel like it, and we shall pass them on to our family of readers.

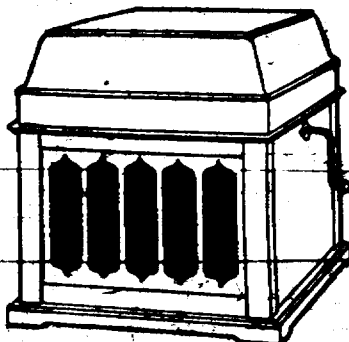

1. How many magisterial districts are there in Prince William county?
2. When and where did a grand jury meet in this community?
3. Were our present county officers nominated at a party convention or at a direct primary?
4. In what way were the present governor and other elected state officials nominated?
5. Does our country constitute a house district by itself?
6. How many representatives has our district in the House of Delegates?
7. What constitutes our senatorial district?
8. How long does the superintendent of schools serve?
9. Where does the circuit court sit?
10. When was Prince William county settled? When did it become a county?
11. In what magisterial district is Greenwich located?
12. What important incidents of history have taken place in our community?
13. What officers does the county have?
14. How many members in the Manassas town council?
15. What part of the school expenses are paid by the county and what part by the state?

AUTUMN

Warm in her blanket of red-brown leaves,
 The old earth lies today,
 And neither the winter, the summer,
 the spring,
 The flowers that blossom, the birds
 that sing,
 More joy to the heart of the earth can bring
 Than autumn leaves at play.
 The grass is fresh with the green of spring
 Though the trees their garments shed,
 And the ghostlike breeze of a winter
 wind
 Speaks joy for the days ahead.
 The golden rays of the autumn sun
 Are richer than summer's glow
 As snug in her blanket of red-brown leaves
 The old earth waits the snow,
 To sleep the sleep of the weary at rest
 And with dawning spring to renew with zest
 Her call to the children with which she is blessed

Then the Amberola Records, made for the Amberola alone! They are practically unbreakable and everlasting—what a contrast to the costly fragileness of other phonograph records.

And for range of music—the widest in the world—all the best, all the latest. An endless feast of fascinating melody.

Yet the biggest surprise of all is the price! This wonder phonograph costs less than inferior competitors! There is not a single drawback to your owning an Amberola right now!

Don't listen to the claims of other manufacturers—listen to their machines. Then come in and compare the matchless tone of the Amberola. Edison's wizardry will win you every time.

We'll expect you in today—now don't forget.

DANGERS OF THE COMMON "COLD"

Health Officer Writes Interesting Treatise on Affections of Head, Throat and Nose.

[This article on "common colds," written for the Alexandria Gazette, is from the pen of Dr. L. E. Foulkes, Alexandria city health officer, who spoke in Manassas last spring at a Y. M. C. A. institute, at which time Dr. Foulkes was in the army.]

A man stopped me on the street the other day and said, "Doctor, will you kindly tell me what is a cold and how it is caused, I mean the ordinary common cold in the head, combined sometimes with sore throat, that seems to afflict most of us during the fall and winter seasons?"

I was very glad to answer his question and as it is one of general public interest at this time, I will give my explanation of this annoying and often serious affliction.

The trouble which is generally spoken of as a common cold in the head, is a condition caused by germs and is highly contagious. When these germs extend the infection downward into the throat, we have the condition popularly called "sore throat."

A "common cold" is a name that people apply to almost every mild infection of the nose, throat or lungs. If the trouble is located chiefly in the nose, it is called a "cold in the head" and if in the throat and lungs, "a cold on the chest." But it must be remembered that a "cold" is only the popular name to describe a condition, and has no scientific meaning. It is just about as descriptive as to say a person has "liver trouble" or "stomach trouble."

A so-called "cold" is no trifling matter, as it indicates an infection by one or more forms of the various disease producing germs or bacteria as we call them, that are able to cause more or less serious diseases of the respiratory tract, such as rhinitis, tonsillitis, pharyngitis, diphtheria, pneumonia, etc. The "pneumococcus," the germ causing pneumonia, is often present and is frequently the actual cause of a so-called "cold," which later may develop a true case of pneumonia. If the germs remained in the nose and upper part of the throat, you might have simply a long continued and very obstinate "cold." But if conditions are favorable, the pneumococci work on down into the lungs and pneumonia follows.

You will often hear a person in describing some friend's sickness, say, "He caught a bad cold and it later turned into pneumonia." People do not "catch cold" but become infected with germs that cause a known disease. Such germs are generally passed from one person to another by the act of coughing, sneezing or loud talking. This is what we call spray or droplet infection and such diseases as influenza, grippe, measles, whooping cough, pneumonia and tuberculosis are usually transmitted in this manner.

Did you ever notice that if one member of a family "catches a cold" the others generally follow in line? The reason is very simple, as most people look upon a "cold" as a very harmless affair, hence take no precautions to prevent infection. So it is not hard to understand why the "cold" soon passes from one member of the family to the other.

A "cold" must not be considered a disease in itself, but merely a symptom of a disease that may or may not fully develop later. But all will depend upon prompt treatment or upon the kind of germs causing the trouble, or the degree of natural immunity of the person, or the general good health and powers of resistance.

Any form of "sore throat," particularly in children and young people, should always be regarded seriously. Diphtheria begins with a mild sore throat and is often looked upon as a simple "cold." If this disease is not promptly recognized and protective measures taken at once, many other people may become infected with these dangerous germs, especially small children.

Don't take foolish risks in such a case, but have your doctor see the throat without delay. If the throat looks at all suspicious, he will make a swab and send it to our laboratory for microscopical examination. The germ of diphtheria is a living organism that can be seen, measured and easily recognized beyond any shadow of doubt by a trained expert.

Many cases of sore throat in children seem so mild that they are treated with various home remedies or patent medicines and no doctor is called. Many of such cases are really a mild form of true diphtheria, and while the patient may suffer little or no harm yet is just as capable of infecting others seriously, as if he or she had the disease in its most virulent form. That is the way many epidemics of diphtheria are started.

The point I wish to make right here is that there is no such thing as a harmless "cold" or "sore throat." It may turn out harmless to you, but you are liable to transmit a dangerous infection to others.

I have often been asked the question, "Do drafts cause colds and sore throats?" In my opinion they do, but not directly. This opinion is based upon many years of careful observation.

I cannot enter into a long technical explanation here so will simply say that a draft of cold air chills a part of the body, which results in a congestion of the delicate mucous membrane lining the nose. The first effect of this is a sneeze. Now the nose of a healthy adult will secrete about one pint of watery serum in 24 hours. You don't notice this, however, as it is evaporated by the inspired air and serves to moisten it before it enters the lungs. So when the lining of the nose becomes congested by the chilling effects of a draft, the secretion of this serum is greatly interfered with and causes a still greater congestion and swelling of the membrane. The nostrils are now filled to such an extent that breathing is difficult or rendered impossible through the nose. We now have a condition that is abnormal and which is highly favorable to the rapid multiplication of any germs that may be present.

Kindly note that I use the words "rapid multiplication," and there is a good reason for so doing. Let us suppose for instance that there is just one single diphtheria germ in such a nose to start with. In half an hour this germ will grow larger and split in half, then we have two. In another half hour these two will split into four and these four later into eight and so on, until at the end of only 24 hours we will have the unthinkable number of two hundred and eighty trillion germs, all the product of that one lone "bug."

This will give you an idea why disease germs—minute organisms invisible to the naked eye—can do so much harm and are so easily spread from one person to another.

Remember then that a "cold" is a danger signal. The color of this signal (the throat) may mean only that you must slow down, then again it may mean that you must stop and stop short at that!

MORAL—DON'T BORROW

A man who was too stingy to subscribe for his home paper sent his little boy to borrow the copy taken by a neighbor. In his haste the boy ran over a $4 stand of bees and in ten minutes looked like a warty summer squash. His father ran to his assistance, and failing to notice the barb wire fence, ran into that, cutting a hole in his anatomy and ruining a $5 pair of trousers. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the corn field and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing a racket, the wife ran out, upset a four-gallon churn full of cream into a basket of little chickens, drowning the entire hatch. In her haste she dropped a $35 set of false teeth. The baby, having been left alone, crawled through the milk into the parlor, ruining a brand-new $25 carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man, the dog broke up 11 setting hens and the calves got out and chewed the tails of four fine shirts on the clothes line.—Exchange.

DROWNED IN RAPPAHANNOCK

Fred Hager, a traveling salesman for the Van Camp Products Company, of New York, was drowned in the Rappahannock River last week. He was going from Urbana to Irvington with a companion on a small steamer that carries the mail between those places. Hager took a seat in an arm chair at stern of boat, while his companion went inside, and when the boat was opposite Wharton Grove Camp it was observed that Hager and his chair were both gone. The steamer turned and went in search of the missing man. The chair was found floating in the water, but Hager had disappeared. The body was found afloat near Wharton Grove Camp later.—Frog Lance.

CLEAN AGRICULTURAL FAIR

"The Manassas fair was one of the cleanest agricultural fairs that I have visited in the state," says Mr. C. G. Burr, state boys' corn club agent, in the Agricultural Club letter for October, "practically no sideshows being allowed. People from all over the county gathered in large numbers and their attention was concentrated upon the study of the agricultural exhibits. Interest was about equally divided between the splendid exhibit of canning club products, corn, pig and poultry. Orrin Kline, a club member, won first prize on his ten ears of white corn, in open competition with the farmers of Prince William County."

HITT TWINS NOW NINETY-FOUR

Calpeper Claims Oldest Living Twins in America

A dispatch from Roanoke, Va., to the Washington Post, of last Sunday, says:

The claim of James H. and John B. Whitehurst, of Bethel, N. C., that they are the oldest living twins in the country is met by the Smith brothers, James E. and J. B. Smith, of Coyner's Springs, near Roanoke, who on the fourth of May, 1919, celebrated their 84th birthdays. The Whitehursts were 81 on Nov. 22.

The above Whitehursts and Smiths are mere youngsters as compared to two old gentlemen living on the Hazel River, about two miles from Rixeyville, in Calpeper county—Messrs. Festus and Silas Hitt, born in 1836, who in a few months, will have reached the grand old age of 94 years.

Both are hale and hearty, able to do a day's work in the field, and only last year they walked to Calpeper and back to their home in one day, a distance of 22 miles.

With their brother, Paul, the three Hitts came into the world on the same day—triplets—and were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwell Hitt, who will be remembered by some of the older citizens of Calpeper. All three served in the Confederate army and were gallant soldiers, Paul dying of fever, it is said, during the war.—Calpeper Star.

Lunch Nourishing And Appetizing

Once more the children are back in school and the task of preparing an appetizing lunch in their mother's every school day. The problem is to make a real contribution to the food which the children require to meet the needs of their growing bodies and active brains, to satisfy their appetites, and to keep them in health. It does not necessarily mean expensive foods or the expenditure of great effort on the part of those who fill the lunch boxes. Home economics specialists have made a study of this question and have plainly set forth some interesting facts in Farmers' Bulletin 712 "School Lunches," which is available for distribution and can be obtained free, so long as the supply lasts, by application to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

The following suggestions are among those made in this bulletin for well-balanced school lunches:

- 1. Sandwiches with sliced tender meat for filling, baked apple, cookies or a few lumps of sugar.
2. Slices of meat loaf or bean loaf, bread-and-butter sandwiches, stewed fruit, small frosted cake.
3. Crisp rolls, hollowed out and filled with chopped meat or fish, moistened and seasoned, or mixed with salad dressing; orange, apple, a mixture of sliced fruits, or berries, cake.
4. Lettuce or celery sandwiches, cup custard, jelly sandwiches.
5. Cottage cheese and chopped green pepper sandwiches or a pot of cream cheese with bread-and-butter sandwiches, peanut sandwiches, fruit, cake.
6. Hard-boiled eggs, crisp baking-powder biscuits, celery or radishes, brown-sugar or maple-sugar sandwiches.
7. Bottle of milk, thin corn bread and butter, dates, apple.
8. Raisin or nut bread with butter, cheese, orange, maple sugar.
9. Baked beans and lettuce sandwiches, apple sauce, sweet chocolate.

Don't Miss These Eye Don'ts

5. Don't write, read, or sew lying down.
6. Don't try to enlarge or brighten your eyes by dropping ballast into them.
7. Don't rub your eyes.
8. Don't use your eyes when they smart and water.

RED-HEADED KNIGHT CLIMBS TO RESCUE

At Behest of Shoeless Heroine Saves Kitten From Perilous Heights.

Chivalry, as it was of old, is not entirely dead as this story of a cat, a kitten, a very little girl, two hound-dogs and a red-headed boy attempts to prove.

The other morning at Tenth and Clay Streets, a big tabby cat, carrying a kitten which apparently did not have its eyes open yet, started to cross the street.

Enter the heroine, dressed in a gingham frock, no shoes or stockings and her hair down her back. In short order the fiery-headed son of Ireland repented under the gulfing remarks of the stockingless one.

It required nerve to reach up and take the kitten from the jaws of the cat, but it was accomplished without mishap. But how to get the kitten down became a grave problem.

To extricate himself without leaving the major portion of his trousers hanging on the pole appeared impossible without dropping the hapless kitten.

But enter the villainess in the shape of the little girl's mother. Parental command had to be obeyed, so the hero again found himself alone with his entanglement and a strange kitten.

As the curtain went down on the last scene of the drama, the tabby still sat perched high on the cross bar, the kitten lay by the foot of the pole unharmed and he of the suburn locks was disappearing in the distance.
