

HAYMARKET

At the Baptist Church Sunday morning Rev. Edward Taber delivered a sermon which in part was as follows: "No life, no matter how successful apparently, can be counted worth while if there is no such thing as a future life. Every person has in him the instinctive craving for life. The instinct of self-preservation is the strongest of all instincts. Christianity offers the hope of immortality. It is not a false promise, as are some of the religious fads. Christianity's sane and logical promise, based on reason and the teachings of Christ, offers a hope that is re-echoed in the hearts of the world."

ABOUT THE COUNTY FAIR
 Prince William people are no doubt very generally informed as to the financial predicament the local fair association now finds itself in. It is conceded by all that this crisis is not the fault of any one person or group of persons but the result of bad weather during the recent fair and just prior to the holding of the Labor Day races, which were arranged in an effort to recoup a portion of the losses sustained at the fair.

The one question now is "Do the people of Prince William want an annual agricultural fair?" If they do, they must get together and show that they have the spirit of indomitable perseverance, which so often is the price exacted for success. There must be a way of getting the fair association on its feet again—and the sooner the means are devised and settled upon, the sooner the task will be an accomplished fact.

With such natural resources at our command, and with the splendid spirit shown by those in charge of this year's fair, it will argue poorly for Prince William to drop back into companionship with the few counties in the country that hold no fairs. Where are we to stand agriculturally ten and twenty years from now? It will depend largely upon the incentive our citizens receive to continually better their crops, cattle, poultry and produce of all kinds. To keep abreast of the times we MUST have an annual fair.

In connection with perpetuating the county fair, the Woman's Auxiliary to the Farmers' Institute of Northern Virginia has gone on record that it will have nothing to do with the fair, if racing is to be on the program. This brings to a head a point that must be settled before another fair can be planned.

It is The Journal's opinion that a general meeting should be called of the stockholders of the fair association and others interested in the future of this county's progress. At this meeting the racing question should be discussed with an open mind—and the decision arrived at, if representative, should be adhered to. And at this meeting we suggest that it be decided whether or not "side shows" of questionable conduct are to be permitted to sow their seeds of moral corruption at future Prince William fairs.

If Prince William fairs of the future are to be kept clean and to be recognized as agricultural fairs there are other things to look after besides racing, if racing is voted out. Without any reflection on the present management, which was undoubtedly overloaded with detail work incident to the running of the fair, there should be a constant and rigid inspection made of the so-called "innocent amusements" that so insidiously creep thru halls and which do greater harm to the young men of the county who attend the fair than all the good the fair can possibly accomplish. Better still, the association should exact proof beforehand that every amusement, whether out in the open or behind tent flaps, will be as acceptable to ladies as men.

AMENDMENTS UP FOR VOTE
 At the coming November election, voters of Virginia will decide the fate of four proposed amendments to the state constitution. Since these amendments, if passed, will aid most materially in Virginia's progress, it behooves every citizen of the county to get back of them and endeavor to get Prince William to vote solidly in the affirmative.

One amendment is to permit the Legislature and Governor of the state to provide by law for the issuance of bonds to meet federal aid for the building of good roads—dollar for dollar. New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois, California and Alabama have already amended their state constitutions, providing for the issuance of bonds to carry out their programs of building state highways. Many other states are either voting on this subject this fall, or are making preparations to submit the same question to their people. Will Virginia voters make it possible for the state to have a system of improved highways in from five to six years instead of sixteen years as estimated necessary to complete the present limited program?

One point about this proposed amendment should be clearly understood. When you vote for it you are not voting for the issuance of any bonds—you are only voting authority to the Legislature to provide funds from time to time as they are required; and State Highway Commissioner George P. Coleman is the authority for the statement that the Legislature could authorize the issuance of serial bonds up to the amount of $50,000,000 without increasing the general tax of the state one cent.

The other three proposed amendments very seriously affect the public school system of the state. The most important of these is that relating to the school tax. As the citizens of this county are already informed, in particular patrons of the Manassas schools last session, the constitution as it now stands provides that no school tax shall exceed five mills on the dollar. This small tax is woefully inadequate under present-day conditions. The proposed amendment provides that the aggregate of district and county taxes shall not exceed a maximum to be fixed by law.

Another proposed amendment would kill Virginia's present inadequate but specific section relating to the compulsory education of children between the ages of eight and twelve and would substitute therefor the provision that the General Assembly may, at its discretion, provide for the compulsory education of children of school age. Such an amendment to the constitution is badly needed.

As the constitution now stands, there must be three school trustees for each magisterial district. A third proposed amendment provides that there shall be not more than three trustees in each school district and that men and women may serve as such. This would permit the General Assembly of 1922 to be free to reduce, if it deems wise, the number of trustees and to form the county rather than the school district as the unit of operation. Such a change, it is stated, would preserve the district as the unit of representation on the county board and as the basis of local taxes, but would eliminate a great deal of duplication of work that exists under the present system. This proposal, in other words, has as its aim the bringing of greater efficiency into the administration of the county and district school work, and as such should be passed.

FIRE PREVENTION DAY NAMED
 President Wilson has issued a proclamation fixing October 9 as "Fire Prevention Day," in order to call attention to the dangers from fires in the United States, the most careless country in the world in this respect. There never was a time in the history of this country when fire prevention needed the emphasis it does now. The more thickly populated we become, the greater the ultimate damage of each fire; and the more nearly exhausted our timber supply becomes, the greater the economic loss entailed by each conflagration—whether in city, town or woodland. With the children of today the parents of tomorrow, "Fire Prevention Day" should be observed with appropriate exercises in every school in the land.

WOMAN PROVING HER WAY
 The selection of Miss Mabel T. Boardman, noted Red Cross leader, as one of the commissioners for the District of Columbia places emphasis upon the modern conception of woman's ability to do things out in the business world as well as in the home. President Wilson, we feel confident, has chosen wisely in appointing Miss Boardman to this responsible position. Her ability to manage and direct is not questioned by any; that she will lend her weight to better city government for the District is predicted on every side. More and more, business men are recognizing the business capabilities of women who are devoting their lives to work that has been thought in the province of men alone.

DOCTOR'S THRILLING STRUGGLE WITH DEATH IS VICTORIOUS

Fierce Battle with Grim Spectre Brings Health to Dr. Reese and a Message of Hope to Millions of Sufferers

After Dr. H. V. Reese had suffered for 10 years and been told by the greatest stomach specialist in the country that there was no hope for his recovery, he determined to spend his remaining days in experimenting upon himself in an endeavor to develop a remedy for sufferers from stomach, liver and kidney troubles such as himself.

Dr. Reese's condition at this time was so critical that it was impossible for him to retain food in his stomach. It being necessary to wash that organ out two or three times a day. This in addition to the severe liver and kidney trouble which generally accompanies stomach trouble.

After months of heart-breaking failures and with his condition growing worse, Dr. Reese finally hit upon the Formula which is now known as The Reese Formula R-11 that completely restored his health.

This happened in 1888, twenty-one years ago. Today at the age of 73 years Dr. Reese weighs 175 pounds.

The Reese Formula R-11 is sold at Coker's Pharmacy, Manassas, Va.

WHERE ARE THE OTHER TEN?
 When Manassas High School opened Wednesday morning it was found that thirty of the forty graduates last season of the local graded school were enrolling. This is a very good record, but, from the point of view of better citizenship, it is not one to be satisfied with. Where are the ten who failed to enter the high school after receiving all needed preparation? In this day, when education—high school and college, too—is becoming the recognized standard of equipment of our young people, every effort should be made to get graded school pupils to take up the full high school course. Who will "follow up" the ten graduates of the graded school who failed to enroll with the high school Wednesday?

A REAL FELLOW
 Oh, the fellow with brain is a wonderful chap
 Whose praises we heartily sing,
 When generous wisdom he places on tap
 To his words with attention we cling.
 And the man with a heart is a man that we prize,
 As his sunshine effaces the shade.
 But the one who is finest of all, in our eyes
 Is the fellow who isn't afraid.
 The fellow with wit is a source of delight
 And the fellow with sense we hold dear,
 But here's to the fellow who knows he is right
 And follows his course without fear.
 Brain, heart, wit and sense all have place in the plan
 On which the true hero is made.
 Humankind at its best is expressed in one man:
 The fellow who isn't afraid.

MILLIONAIRE OIL MAGNATE IS OUTWITTED BY LOCAL MAN

J. C. Arnold Obtains for Trifling Sum Asset for Which Millionaire Offered a Million

J. C. Arnold, printer and linotype operator, of Huntington, W. Va., has as he says, the distinction of putting one over on the country's greatest oil magnate. In an interview Mr. Arnold tells the full details in a most interesting manner.

"About a year and a half ago," says Mr. Arnold, "I began having attacks of stomach trouble, which continued getting worse until my liver and kidneys were so affected that I was forced to quit work. I had been working night shift on an Akron paper and shifted without avail. I was taking medicine continually, first one doctor and then another but kept getting worse. 'Every time a friend suggested a remedy I tried it, until at last some one recommended the Reese Formula R-11. By this time I had given up hope but began taking the Reese Formula R-11. I had no confidence in it or anything else. Imagine my surprise when after taking about half the first bottle my condition began to improve. I continued taking it and before finishing the third bottle I was completely restored. I am again working and feel better than I have for many years."

"The Reese Formula R-11," continued Mr. Arnold, "cost me a dollar and a quarter a bottle and considering the fact that a millionaire oil magnate offered a million dollars for a relief from stomach trouble I think I am some financier."

"But then people don't think they can get relief unless it is expensive. All I can say is that it only costs one dollar and twenty-five cents, the price of the Reese Formula R-11, to relieve stomach trouble, for my case has proven it."

If you wish further information, write direct to our Medical Advisor, Medical Department, The Reese Formula Co., Huntington, W. Va.

The Reese Formula R-11 is sold at Cocks' Pharmacy, Manassas, Va.

To Property Owners in Northern Virginia

Several weeks ago I announced the opening of a real estate office in Manassas. At that time I had every intention of devoting myself to selling properties of this section of Virginia.

Since then, however, I have been extended the privilege of buying an interest in The Manassas Journal Publishing Company, and of serving as editor of The Journal. This opening offers such an opportunity for service to Manassas and Prince William that I, in a sense, feel it my duty to take up again my old newspaper work. I, therefore, herewith announce my retirement from the real estate field.

To some my early change in plans will no doubt appear somewhat strange. My sole explanation in coming to the decision above mentioned is that I feel the step taken will be to my ultimate good—and, as far as in my power, to the good of my Yellow men.

10 cents extra for every pound of his cotton

What farm experience has taught Jim Littlefield about overalls

WHEN Jim Littlefield, of Braden, Oklahoma, turned in his cotton crop last year, he got a ten-cent premium on every pound. Experience has taught him the grade of cotton that pays him best. And this same experience has taught him the sort of work clothes that wear best on the job.

James Littlefield has tried a lot of overalls since he started cotton raising—and today you'll find Jim in Blue Buckle Overalls.

No matter how heavy the work is on his farm, he has found that Blue Buckles stand every test he gives them. And today millions of men, raising the nation's food supply, running trains, mines, and factories, have found that Blue Buckles meet every test.

Find out for yourself about Blue Buckles. Test the long-wearing denim cloth, the wide, double-stitched seams. Try on a pair. Feel the comfort of the big, roomy Blue Buckle pattern—the free swing raglan sleeves in the coats. Blue Buckles never bind or rip. Solid workmanship in every detail is bound to give you your money's worth.

All sizes—Men's, Youths', Children's. Ask your dealer today for Blue Buckles.

"Blue Buckles stand the heaviest farm work."
(Signed) James M. Littlefield
