

PROMISE BETTER FAIR THIS YEAR

Officers Making Every Effort to Hold Banner Exhibition Here August 16 to 19.

(H. W. Sanders, Secretary) Plans for the Third Annual Exhibition of the Prince William Fair Association are rapidly materializing, and prospects are bright for a very successful fair in 1921. If reports may be relied upon, the exhibits this year will be larger than ever before, particularly in the live stock departments.

The attention of prospective exhibitors of draft horses is called to the following change in Class 9 of Section C: "Best two-horse team, and must weigh not less than 2,600 pounds and be shown in harness," which will be amended to read, "Best two-horse team to be shown in harness." The draft horse is an important animal on the farm and there is no intention on the part of the Association to eliminate the lighter draft horses from competition by having such a high weight limit as 2,600 pounds.

Through the courtesy of Clover Hill Farm, a special prize of $10 is offered for the best exhibit of grade Jerseys, to consist of not less than two animals. It is needless to add that Clover Hill entries will not compete for this prize, this year's exhibition herd being composed entirely of purebred animals. Through an oversight on the part of the secretary this special prize was not included in the catalog.

The first day of the Fair will be devoted entirely to the judging of live stock (excepting horses), farm products, and household exhibits. For this work the Association has been fortunate in securing capable men who, it is believed, will give satisfaction in every respect. Mr. Keene, extension specialist from Blacksburg, will judge beef, cattle, sheep and swine; Mr. Buchanan, dairy extension specialist, Blacksburg, dairy cattle; Mr. Quinn, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, poultry, and Mr. Wysor, extension agronomist, of Blacksburg, farm crops.

The bread contest has assumed such large proportions that a special judge, Miss R. Bell Burke, district home demonstration agent for northern Virginia, has been secured by Miss Gilbert to devote her entire time to judging the entries of bread. The names of the judges in the horse department and in the home economics department will be announced at a later date.

After careful consideration of the arrangement of the program for the four days, the following announcement is made for the schedule of events:

Tuesday, August 16—Judging in all departments.
Wednesday, Thursday and Friday—Racing.

Thursday and Friday—Horse Show. By this plan, those who are not interested in the horse show and racing features of the Fair will have an opportunity to devote all their attention to the other exhibits and attractions on the first day. At the same time, those who enter animals for the horse show or races will be enabled to do so with a minimum loss of time and expense.

Arrangements have recently been completed with Mr. Godfrey, owner of the Fair grounds, for the use of the property, and preparations will begin Monday for taking care of the exhibits. Cedar posts for the construction of the necessary buildings will be furnished by Mr. Godfrey, and many of them will be delivered, ready for use, by the end of the week. Other necessary plans will also be completed at that time. All who are in a position to assist with this work are requested to report to the grounds as early as possible next week, and to notify the secretary of the amount of help they can provide.

Ample provision will be made for entertainment features at the Fair, Cloth's Greater Shows having contracted for all midway attractions. A more detailed description of these high-class restricted shows will be given in subsequent issues of The Journal.

VETERANS TO BOOST BATTLEFIELD PARK

HUNDREDS SOB AS TAPS ARE SOUNDED

Congressional Delegation Takes Part in Memorial Services for 7,264 Slain Heroes.

Leaders of the nation mourned the country's war dead Sunday at memorial services on the Army pier at Hoboken, N. J., where lay the bodies of 7,264 men who made the supreme sacrifice on the fields of France.

Congress sent a joint committee, headed by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who spoke at the services. The Army was represented by Assistant Secretary of War Wainwright and General Pershing, who declared the freedom of mankind was the battle cry of the fallen warriors.

Scores of gold star mothers and hundreds of war veterans attended. Every unit that saw active service in France was represented among the dead. Directly in front of the speakers were the caskets of the first three United States soldiers to die in battle against Germany—Corp. Herbert Jas. D. Gresham, of Evansville, Ind.; Private Thomas F. Enright, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Private Merle D. Hay, of Glidden, Iowa—all members of the 16th Infantry, 1st Division, and all killed in November, 1917, in the Lunenburg section of Lorraine.

"They fought for eternal right and justice, as did the founders of this great republic," said General Pershing.

"The freedom of mankind was their battle cry."

Senator Lodge said that "to a few of us there is a peculiar poignancy in this silent array of the dead, because we were among those upon whom fell the grievous responsibility of declaring the war in which these precious lives were lost. No one who has not suffered that experience can realize the pain and distress it brings."

Funeral hymns and the national anthem were sung at the service and prayers were said by a Protestant clergyman, a Catholic priest and a Jewish rabbi. General Pershing and Maurice Casenave, French high commissioner, laid wreaths on the coffins of Corp. Gresham and Privates Enright and Hay.

When the solemn speeches and the songs of mourning had ceased, a bugler played "taps." As the last note sounded pent-up emotions of hundreds of men and women were released in sobbing.

And then the relatives and friends of many of those whose bodies had been brought back from the military cemeteries of France, began to look for the coffins that bore the bodies of their loved ones. Each casket was numbered and attendants directed kin-and these could be heard to say as they found the pine box they sought, "he was my buddy."

"Today," said General Pershing, "we see these thousands of caskets, each testifying to the sacrifice of life itself by some young friend to give us peace and happiness. These were no common souls. Under each flag there lies one who was nurtured at the altar of an American home. And today his patriotic mother or wife mourns her gallant soldier. In this hour no human heart could remain unmoved. We can feel the spiritual presence of those whom we are gathered to honor. We and friends to the section of the pier which was the temporary tomb of their dead.

Always, when the sought-for coffin was found, there would be a scene of pathetic tenderness. A gray-haired mother dressed in the black of sorrow would look along the floor for the number which identified the coffin of her loved one among the thousands.

Finding it, she would gently lift the flag that veiled name and rank. Sometimes the mother would break down upon finding the casket of her boy—sometimes she would bear up in silence. Often those who looked for the coffins were veterans of the war,

STORY OF PARK CREATES WRONG IMPRESSION HERE

Major Ewing Writes Letter of Correction to The Star for Publication.

(Washington Star) July 10, 1921. The Editor of The Star, Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir: I have read with interest the article in your paper of today, "Famous Bull Run Battlefield May be Turned into a Government Park." We are sincerely appreciative of the publicity you are giving the "Manassas Battlefield Confederate Park," but the title which you have used is so hurtfully misleading that in justice to the enterprise which is now under way through the efforts of a Virginia corporation, of which I have the honor to be president, I beg permission to make most emphatic the fact that the park about which your article evidently writes will not be a Government park, nor will the United States contribute any part of the needed funds.

Impatient of the indifference which the Government has all these years exhibited toward a battlefield park on the fields of Manassas or Bull Run, of which your article accurately speaks, the corporation of which I speak and which your article clearly has in mind has obtained an option on a large tract of the famous fields, has it of record, and with this corporation as an agent, the South, the Southern people, the Southern states, are building a Confederate park, so that the title to your article should have the word Confederate where you use the word Government.

The park will be dedicated to the brave soldiers of both armies who were there killed or wounded; but pre-eminently it will be a memorial by the Southern people to the Confederate soldiers of that war and to the but for whom the Confederate soldier women of the South during that time, would not have been the splendid hero he was.

In the initial of the movement it is important, therefore, that a correct understanding of the status, purpose and source of this park should be had by the public. This importance is emphasized by the fact that though your paper containing this interesting article has been off the press only a few hours, three persons have phoned to me, and this is the substance of what each said: "If the Government is to build that park why ask me for a contribution?"

The park, therefore, let it be understood, which the corporation which your article mentions will build, will be built by private donations and un-ummed, it is believed, by the Southern States in honor of their Confederate dead, and by such organizations as the Daughters of the Confederacy, the Confederate Memorial Association, the United Confederate Veterans, and by all who honor valor and high motives and splendid patriotism. The corporation, as I have said, does not forget the heroism of the Federal units of those battles, or the bravery of its individual soldiers; and the directors of the corporation will be glad to consider any monument which any Union unit or Federal soldier or organization desires placed in the park.

Very truly,
E. W. R. EWING,
President Manassas Battlefield Confederate Park, Inc.

MANY TO MEET ON BULL RUN FIELD

Veterans and Visitors Will Inaugurate Park on Battle Anniversary Next Thursday.

A rally and picnic on the Bull Run battlefield on Thursday, July 21, celebrating the anniversary of the battle there, which was the first actual encounter of the war between the states, will mark the inauguration of the Manassas Battlefield Confederate Park. Public ceremonies will be held in the grove at the historic Henry House, beginning at 11 o'clock, after which a family picnic dinner will be enjoyed on the grounds.

Among the speakers expected are: Senator John Sharpe Williams, the well-known Mississippi statesman; Judge Tyson, former chief justice of the Alabama supreme court; Dr. Clarence J. Owens, of Washington, director of the Southern Commercial Congress and president of the park finance board, and Representative E. Walton Moore, of Virginia, prominently identified with the park's finance committee.

Music will be furnished by the Marine band and a troop of cavalry from Fort Myer has promised to contribute to the entertainment features of the day.

Many visitors are expected from Washington and the surrounding countryside. The Southern railway has announced that round-trip tickets at one and one-half way rates will be sold from all agency stations, Washington to Orange, Warrenton and Front Royal, inclusive, for regular morning trains of July 21, good returning on any regular train stopping at Manassas July 21.

Veterans of both armies who participated in the great struggle of sixty years ago are expected to be among the visitors. Dr. S. S. Simpson will be on the grounds to render medical attention, if needed, and two Red Cross nurses will be there to assist him.

Plenty of eats and drinks will be provided for those who do not carry basket dinners. Mr. H. Elmer Metz, of Manassas, will be in charge of the refreshment stand, the proceeds of which will go to the battlefield park fund.

Arrangements are being made to set a fixed rate for automobile transportation from the town to the battlefield.

The finance board of the park association is planning a campaign to raise $50,000, half of which is for the purchase of the land and the other half to be used in laying out the field and placing markers and monuments.

No official statement of the funds already subscribed has been made. A $1,000 gift from Hon. William G. McAdoo was announced last week, and further announcement is expected on the day of the rally.

Governors of the states of the union continue to express interest in the project. "It gives me great pleasure heartily to endorse the memorial to the Confederate dead on the battlefield at Manassas," the latest message received, comes from Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, in a letter addressed to Major E. W. R. Ewing, of Ballston, president of the park association.

CELEBRATE SILVER WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Lewis Observe 25th Anniversary at "The Meadows."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ashby Lewis celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary Thursday evening at "The Meadows," their country home, near Manassas. The celebration was held on the spacious lawn and refreshments were served in the dining room, where white and pink roses added color and fragrance to the setting. The hostess was assisted by her daughter, Miss Marion Mrs. Lewis, and Miss Louise Maloney, of Manassas, and by her house guest, Mrs. William H. Lewis, of Rectortown, and Mrs. R. M. Brawner and Miss Katherine Brawner, of Washington.

A musical program was rendered during the evening, solos being sung by Miss Mary Lee Chapman and Miss Louise Maloney.

The affair was largely attended and many felicitations and good wishes were expressed in the form of handsome and useful silver gifts.

Among the more than 100 guests present were Mr. and Mrs. William H. DeMaine, of Alexandria, and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Roland, of Haymarket.

FOUR SPEAKERS ARE TO ADDRESS COUNTY RALLY

Plans Continue in Motion for Picnic of Farmers', Women's, Boys' and Girls' Clubs.

Plans for a county rally and basket picnic on the fair grounds August 12 have received fresh impetus with the prompt acceptance of every invitation extended to the speakers of the day. The rally is to be held under the auspices of the county farmers' union, the woman's auxiliary and the boys' and girls' agricultural and home economics clubs. An old-fashioned all-day picnic will be enjoyed, with games, music and speeches. Plenty of lemonade and ice water will be provided on the grounds.

The speakers expected are: Mrs. Henrietta Calvin, specialist in home economics, Bureau of Education, Washington; Mr. I. W. Hill, assistant in charge boys' club work in the south, U. S. Department of Agriculture; Mr. Charles S. Barrett, president, National Farmers' Union, and Hon. A. B. Thorahill, president, state Farmers' Union.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Dodge are spending a few days in Norfolk.

GRAVE OF MRS. JUDITH HENRY

Visitors to the Bull Run battlefield next Thursday will see the grave of the aged Mrs. Henry, who was killed in her home, the Henry House, during the battle of July 21, 1861. She was buried by soldiers in the yard of her home.

OFFICER ORDERS SICK MARINE TO GET WELL

Sea Soldier Obeys, Drinks Buttermilk and Recovers from Double Pneumonia.

This is the story of a marine who refused to die because his superior officer ordered him to live. Private Roderick Flagg, of the marine base at Quantico, Va., had 15 minutes to live, says a Washington dispatch. The doctors told him so. That was a month ago. Now Flagg has planned to leave the hospital.

Brig.-Gen. Butler, son of Thomas D. Butler, representative from Pennsylvania and chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, left his breakfast one morning when told Flagg could live but a few moments and had expressed a wish to see him before he had to go.

Walking to the bedside of Flagg, who could scarcely breathe because of pneumonia, Gen. Butler looked into the face of the youth.

"Marines don't die in bed. Marines die on the battlefield," Gen. Butler said, so Flagg declares. "You've got to fight and fight hard. You've got to fight for life, Flagg. Are you going to do it?"

"I told him I would," said Flagg, adding: "That made me feel kind o' good."

"Now, what do you want?" the General asked me, and I told him I wanted some buttermilk. I had been drinking sweet milk, but I couldn't keep it down any more," he said.

Gen. Butler asked the doctor why the boy had not been given buttermilk, and was told that it should not be prescribed in this case.

"Well, you have told him he can live only 15 minutes; why not give him what he wants?" the General said.

"Go get some buttermilk," was the command to his orderly.

A few minutes later word was brought to Gen. Butler that there was no buttermilk to be had on the Quantico reservation.

"What's the nearest place you can get it?"

"Fredericksburg, 22 miles away, sir," was the response.

"Get the fastest car in post and go for it," he commanded and turned to Flagg.

"Now, Flagg," he said, "you have already lived longer than they said you could. You have got to live until we go to Fredericksburg and get your buttermilk. That will take more than an hour, but you've got to live until then, and after you get the buttermilk you've got to put up a fight and get well."

"They brought me the buttermilk," Flagg says, in closing the story, "and I guess I drank a half gallon of it. It certainly did taste good, and I have been getting better right along. I have been out of bed two weeks now and I'm going to make a live of it."

BLACK BEAR VISITS NEARBY

A full-grown black bear has been at large near Warrenton, according to a Warrenton dispatch on Friday. Several boys saw it near the road while coming home in a car one night. Later it was seen by Norval Ramey, while plowing on his farm, five miles from Warrenton. Several other young men saw it this time, but it escaped while Ramey went to a neighbor's house to borrow a gun. Many others have noted the tracks. It has been many years since such an animal has been seen in Fauquier. It is supposed to have come down from the mountains of Rappahannock.

A black bear, about half grown, has been seen at large by several people in the vicinity of Inlet, Culpeper county, during the last three weeks, and many have seen its tracks. Mr. Feigner Neal plainly saw the bear run across the road in a leisurely manner in front of his car about dusk about ten days ago. A colored man shot at the animal with small shot in the woods near Inlet, says the Culpeper Star.

STATE NEWS NOTES

Reports from all this section of Virginia say the results of wheat threshing are disappointing, according to the Loudoun Mirror. When the grain was cut, farmers were agreeably surprised to find the heads filled out apparently better than was expected. The appearance was deceptive, however, as indicated by the actual yield. Those in position to know say that from ten to twelve bushels to the acre is about the best that can be found, except in exceptional instances.

Miss Adelaide Douglas Simpson, of New York, a graduate of Bryn Mawr and Columbia, and former dean of women at Hillside College, Michigan, has been elected dean of women at the University of Virginia. Miss Simpson is a native of Louisville, Ky., and received her early schooling in Philadelphia and New York. The creation of the office of dean of women at the university comes after a year of co-education in the professional and graduate schools. Nineteen women registered during the past session and degrees were awarded three of them in June.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wallace, Mrs. Adelaide Wallace and Mr. William Wallace, of Leesburg, were badly poisoned as a result of eating lettuce taken from their garden, in which the potato vines had been sprayed to kill bugs. The spraying material, which had been put on the potatoes only, had in some way gotten on the lettuce, poisoning those who ate it. A physician was quickly summoned and they are now reported to be improving fast.

An hour after completing arrangements with an undertaker for the funeral of her daughter, Mrs. Sallie Dudley, who died during the morning, Mrs. S. Bettie Coleman, eighty-one years old, was struck by a train on the Southern railway Wednesday evening and killed. The accident occurred near the Dudley home, seven miles south of Charlottesville. The distressed mother was run down while returning to the house from a visit to a neighbor.

Because she "primed too much, wore skirts that were too short and placed her hair in puffs about her ears," Miss Elizabeth Buchanan has been suspended as a member of the intermediate class of nurses at a leading hospital in Richmond. Miss Buchanan said that she consented to dress differently if it was required of all the nurses, but that unless the general prohibition was made she would continue to dress as she had done. She was then dismissed by the superintendent, but her case will be considered by the hospital board.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue has announced the transfer of Robert A. Fulwiler, of Staunton, from the position of supervising federal agent for the southern department for the enforcement of prohibition to federal director for the state of Virginia. The transfer is in accordance with the reorganization program of the prohibition service which contemplates the abolishment of all regional directors and the appointment, instead, of a prohibition director for each state. Mr. Fulwiler succeeded S. H. Brame, of Richmond, who recently resigned as chief of the southern department.

Judge E. C. Moncure, one of the grand old men of Caroline county, succumbed to an attack of acute heart disease at his home at Bowling Green on July 7. Judge Moncure had reached the ripe old age of eighty-five and was a Virginia gentleman of the "old school," loved and admired by all who knew him, says the Fredericksburg Free Lance. He served in the Confederate army during the war between the states. He was county judge of Caroline for a number of years and later represented his county in the House of Delegates.

Opposing state bond issues now for good roads, favoring rural school development and opposing a "one-man commission" for the development of the roads of the state, Mrs. W. T. Yancey, of Bedford, has announced herself a candidate for the house of delegates from Bedford county. She will enter the democratic primary in August. Mrs. Yancey is the first woman candidate for political office in that section.

Three hours after he had attended the funeral Saturday afternoon of a neighbor, David W. Mumford, who had been drowned in Wilcox lake, a bathing resort near Petersburg, Herbert Mallory, nineteen years old, had fallen a victim to the same waters. He drowned while in swimming at a time when the beach was crowded with several hundred bathers. He was a fair swimmer and was outside the safety ropes when he was seen to go under.

Bathers at Petersburg's new bathing resort, who have been making the trip through the streets of the city to the lake clad only in bathing suits, have come in for police action. The practice has been banned by Director of Public Safety Walker, and those caught going through the streets in them will be haled to police court.

Mrs. Joseph Packard Laird, of Hanover and Fairfax counties, wife of Dr. Laird, of Miami, Fla., died on Sunday at her summer home in Wilmington, Del., after an illness of several days. Mrs. Laird before her marriage was Miss Matilda Page, daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Frank Page and Mrs. Lettie Morris Page, of Fairfax, and a niece of the famous Virginia author, Thomas Nelson Page.

More than 1,500 delegates are in attendance at the Virginia Beach Baptist summer encampment and training school for church officials and workers.

At a special election in Mount Gilead district, Loudoun county, the question of bonding the district for $80,000 for the erection of school buildings at various places in the district, lost by a majority of 140, according to a news dispatch from Purcellville. Only a small vote was polled and but little interest seemed to be manifested in the election. Purcellville was the only precinct that cast a majority in favor of the issue.

Ezekiel Moore, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ezekiel Moore, Jr., of Alexandria, is in a serious condition in Alexandria hospital, after swallowing part of a bottle of carbolic acid and being badly burned about the body when the remainder spilled out. The child's mother was ill in bed and the child was discovered by his young sister.

A horse apparently blinded by the light, furnished passengers on a night train out of Washington considerable amusement near Alexandria a few nights ago. Despite the blowing of the train whistle the horse failed to budge from the centre of the track and ran all the way from Addison to Four-Mile Run. Finally the conductor of the train put on dimmers and the car sped past the horse.

BRENTSVILLE

The rain was very welcome here, as it was very dry, and early gardens were suffering from the drouth and heat.

Rev. Barnett Grimsley, of Manassas, held regular services at the Baptists Church on Sunday afternoon.

Miss Olive Holsinger has joined the list of commuters from Bristow to Washington during the summer months.

Mr. Kenneth Keys is visiting his sister, Mrs. Landes, in Washington.

Miss Violet Keys entertained the members of her Sunday School class at her home Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Paul Cooksey, president of the Brentsville Hcmg Demonstration Club, recently received a check for $20 from the Fair Committee as the club's prize money from the exhibit at last year's fair. This is expected to encourage the members to begin this year's work with renewed interest.

Mr. W. B. Kerlin, of Aden, was in town last week, roofing the new residence of Mr. Paul Cooksey.

Miss Florence Owens is attending the summer normal at Charlottesville.

Mrs. John Alden Samsians, of South Ste. Marie, Mich., recently visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Rammons.

Mr. Willard Emmons, of the University of Virginia, is spending his vacation with his parents.

The ball game last Saturday was well attended. Independent Hill was outclassed by the local team. The feature of the game was in the sixth inning, when Paul Keys stepped into the pitcher's box and struck out three men in succession.

Only one inning of the game between Buckhal and Brentsville was played, owing to the storm.

Here's why CAMELS are the quality cigarette

BECAUSE we put the utmost quality into this one brand. Camels are as good as it's possible for skill, money and lifelong knowledge of fine tobaccos to make a cigarette.

Nothing is too good for Camels. And bear this in mind! Everything is done to make Camels the best cigarette it's possible to buy. Nothing is done simply for show.

Take the Camel package for instance. It's the most perfect packing science can devise to protect cigarettes and keep them fresh. Heavy paper—secure foil wrapping—revenue stamp to seal the fold and make the package air-tight. But there's nothing flashy about it. You'll find no extra wrappers. No frills or furbelows.

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And remember—you must pay their extra cost or get lowered quality.

If you want the smoothest, mellowest, mildest cigarette you can imagine—and one entirely free from cigarettey aftertaste.

It's Camels for you.

Quick, clean heat
for every kind of cooking

IT is hard to appreciate the convenience and satisfaction of cooking with the New Perfection until you have actually done so.

It's a relief, especially in warm weather, to be rid of carrying coal, wood and ashes, sweeping up litter and blacking the stove. And then you don't have to "rush the fire" on baking days and heat up the kitchen. Two burners on the New Perfection will give you all the heat needed for any kind of baking. You can regulate the heat produced by each burner, warm something gently on one and roast over another in a New Perfection oven.

The long blue chimney of the New Perfection supplies just the right draught to drive the heat of the white-tipped flame forcibly against all the cooking utensils. The white-tipped flame produces the most heat and does not soot up your kettles and pans.

The New Perfection is simple, practical, economical. Supplies heat instantly, and when you are through just shut it off and save your fuel. You don't have to watch it. No adjustments to take care of. A boy or girl can fill it and clean it.

For the most satisfactory results use Aladdin Security Oil regularly. You always find it clean and efficient.

New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves are sold at most hardware, furniture and department stores.

THE MALES IN POWER

Distressingly cruel to the fair bachelor girls as it would seem, Uncle Sam's figures showing a preponderance of two million males in America cannot be ruled aside. It has long been a popular supposition that there were more women than men in the country, making anything but spinsterhood in a certain number of cases physically if not personally impossible.

Now comes the census man with a declaration to the effect that the new world has always held a greater number of men. There are 53,000,376 men and 51,810,233 women in America, he says. The men hold numerical power in every State except Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama.

ANOTHER WOUNDED SOLDIER

That Woodrow Wilson is as much entitled to wound stripes as any American soldier wounded in France is a sentiment which makes a powerful appeal to many Americans. When John G. Emery, national commander of the American Legion, at the Georgia Legion convention made the assertion, quoting his predecessor, the late Col. Frederick W. Galbraith, the Legionnaires burst into a perfect storm of applause, which has continued to reverberate as it goes the rounds of the press.

"Woodrow Wilson, too, fell in the battle to make the world safe for democracy," says the Roanoke Times, "a victim not of enemy bullets but of knife thrusts in the back. But though they broke his body they could not daunt his unconquerable soul, or kill his glorious ideals. Those ideals will yet triumph and the faith to which he clung steadfast will yet pervade the peoples of the earth."

Mr. Wilson's broken body, his useless arm and halting step, are mute testimony of his sacrifice in the war for the peace of the world. American sentiment has already placed the gold wound chevrons on his arm, and it remains for the American people to see that his glorious ideal of world brotherhood shall be attained—that his sacrifice may not have been in vain.

MONEY FOR ROADS

Virginia is not one of the twenty-five states in the union which have authorized bond issues for road improvement to supplement other funds for the construction of state highways now, according to the Highways Green Book of 1921, just published by the American Automobile Association. Whether she shall be is something for our next legislature to decide.

The total amount available throughout the nation, through state and county bond issues during 1919, 1920 and 1921, is nearly a billion dollars, to which may be added funds derived from direct taxation for roads, from the motor vehicle tax and from federal aid.

It is interesting to note that while Virginia funds available for road construction during these three years are far below the funds allotted by many other states, Virginia's showing is distinctly creditable in mileage of roads constructed and in contracts under way, for the amount of funds which the state has been able to provide.

THE IRISH TRUCE

The news from Ireland has assumed a fairer color. After pillage and riot and bloodshed, lasting over a period of unhappy years, a truce has been declared. Both Britain and Ireland have asserted their willingness to work out together a plan by which there may be peace in Ireland once more.

In view of all the circumstances, the long duration of the struggle and the serious situation it has created, the task which the conferees shall set themselves will be a task indeed for worthy men. Not the least of the difficulty will lie in the framing of terms which may be acceptable to all Ireland.

The Irish question, normally a domestic problem for Britain, has threatened to assume international proportions. Only a levelheaded government under strictly level leadership has enabled the United States to preserve a neutral demeanor under the pressure brought to bear by our many good citizens from the emerald isle.

It is wonderful news, and particularly to America, that they are ready to settle the matter between themselves. The willingness expressed on both sides to get together for mutual hope and happiness is a sign of fairer weather in the British isles, which is warmly welcomed around the world.

THE SLACKER LIST

In another column of The Journal will be found the War Department's list of "slackers" from this county, men who were called and failed to report for service in the world war. There are seven, not a bad percentage when the population of the county is considered. There is further cause for congratulation in the fact that a majority of the seven apparently are not Prince William men but men who were merely drawn to this section by war work.

But any slacker record is a stain on our escutcheon. It is possible, of course, that some of them enlisted elsewhere, and have records of honorable service. The War Department's records do not show it. If they have friends among us who know of such service they will certainly make it known to the War Department, clearing the man of the slacker's stain and making a brighter record for Prince William.

THE VALUE OF SCOUT TRAINING

An unusual demonstration of the value of Boy Scout training which should be an inspiration to boys of the newly-organized troops here occurred in Richmond a few days ago when a thirteen-year-old boy's knowledge of administering first aid probably saved the life of his little playmate who cut an artery in her foot while bathing in a stream near a city park.

Denise Trevillian, the little lady of the story, was wading knee-deep near the bank when she fell. Nelson Phillips, our Boy Scout hero, waded to her, with his pal, and together they brought her to shore, making a basket of their hands. Nelson tore away part of his shirt, wrapped the bleeding cut, and with a towel and stick made a turning kit above the wound, temporarily stopping the flow of blood. When a doctor, summoned by the chaperone of the youthful bathing party, arrived on the scene, one of the boys led him to his patient, who lay comfortably against a tree, her head resting against a pillow made from the thoughtful boy's coat, and her foot propped above the level of her body to keep the blood away from the cut.

While our Boy Scouts are not called upon to save a life every day, their training is invaluable for every-day occurrences and a wonderful asset in time of need.

ARE YOU YOU?

Are you a trailer, or are you a trolley?
Are you tagged to a leader through wisdom and folly?
Are you Somebody Else, or You?
Do you vote by the symbol and swallow it "straight"?
Do you pray by the book, do you pay by the rate?
Do you tie your cravat by the calendar's date?
Do you follow a cue?

Are you a writer, or that which is worded?
Are you a shepherd, or one of the herded?
Which are you—a What or a Who?
It sounds well to call yourself "one of the flock,"
But a sheep is a sheep after all. At the block
You're nothing but mutton, or possibly stock.
Would you flavor a stew?

Are you a being and boss of your soul?
Or are you a mummy to carry a scroll?
Are you Somebody Else, or You?
When you finally pass to the heavenly wicket
Where Peter the Scrutinious stands on his picket,
Are you going to give him a blank for a ticket?
Do you think it will do?

At night there will be band concerts in the park and boat excursions.

Reduced fare of one way and one-half for the round trip will be sold from railroad stations in Virginia, according to announcement received by Mr. M. M. Ellis, an officer of the local branch of the American Legion. In order to obtain the reduced fare, special credential blanks are required. These can be obtained by writing to Mr. R. Allen Ammons, vice-president of the Eightieth Division Veterans' Association, Richmond Post No. 1, American Legion, Richmond, Va.

Many Virginians served at Camp Lee and in France with the Blue Ridge Division, and indications are that there will be a large attendance from this state.

AERIAL TRANSPORT HERE

A twelve-passenger Martin aerial transport, running out of gas, landed here Monday evening, en route from Dayton, Ohio, to Langley Field, and resumed its journey Tuesday morning. The plane, bearing an army officer and six men, left Dayton at 2:10 p. m., ran into a mountain storm in West Virginia, which it was unable to escape even at an altitude of 10,000 feet and lost its bearings, reaching Manassas, 100 miles out of its course, about 7 o'clock.

The plane landed in a field on the Portner estate, near the Sudley road, where it was viewed by many townspeople.

SINGLE FARM EXHIBITS TO BE FEATURE OF FAIR

Kline, Clover Hill, Hundley and Ivakota Farms Were Exhibitors Last Year.

"The best time to begin preparing your exhibit is at the close of the previous year's fair," said Mr. H. W. Sanders, secretary of the Prince William Fair Association, discussing plans for the single farm exhibits which are to be a special attraction of the fair in August. "For it requires twelve months to assemble a representative collection of farm products. If you have not done this, however, you should begin at once to prepare this exhibit for the 1921 fair, and in the coming month you should be able to prepare a creditable and representative collection of the products raised on your farm."

"To the winner in this class," he continued, "a large silver cup will be presented by the Manassas Feed and Milling Co., which is in addition to a $30 money prize. For permanent possession, the cup must be won two years in succession. What better advertisement could a farm have than the ownership of such a trophy!"

"Last year's competitors in the Single Farm Exhibit, in the order of merit as decided by the judge, were J. M. Kline, Clover Hill Farm, Mrs. H. L. Hundley, and Ivakota Farms. Some of the same exhibitors will be back again this year with a larger and better exhibit. Don't miss your opportunity to enter the competition for a prize that will be a source of pride to the winner and an inspiration to the younger people in your family.

"How good is your farm? The tendency to judge the merits of a farm by its size is being rapidly succeeded by a tendency to judge its merits by the quality and variety of its products. An excellent opportunity to determine the character of your farming operations as compared with those of your neighbors is offered at the coming fair. Your attention is especially called to pages 15 and 17 of the Catalog for rules governing the Single Farm Exhibit."

BUSY GRINDING The All-Purpose Flour

¶ Though business is admittedly dull in many places and in many lines of industry, our modern flour-grinding mill is kept busy turning out "WHITE ROSE"—the all-purpose flour.

¶ To be a user of WHITE ROSE is to know why it is in such demand. To have baked with this high grade flour that adapts itself to the making of fine bread, cake, pastry and biscuit, is to be a booster of the "flower of flours," as WHITE ROSE has been aptly termed.

WHITE ROSE NOT HIGH IN PRICE

¶ Of course, WHITE ROSE flour is not the cheapest you can buy. We could not make it the all-purpose, pure and highly milled flour it is and sell it as cheaply as you can buy some less desirable brands for. You would not like it as well, if we did.

¶ But taking into consideration the quality bread and cake and pastry you can make from a sack of WHITE ROSE and the consequent elimination of having to have on hand two or three different kinds of flours to meet the various kitchen needs, WHITE ROSE is very economical and highly satisfactory.

¶ If you are not a WHITE ROSE user, become one. Should your grocer not be able to supply you, we will gladly take care of your orders, if you will send us his name and address.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

At a meeting of the School Board of Occoquan District, held July 9, 1921, the following resolutions of respect were adopted:

On June 24, 1921, the death angel came and took from our Board Brother Corbin Thompson, our chairman. He was a faithful member of our Board, having attended his first meeting on September 7, 1911, and ever ready after that, at the call of the chairman to obey. He was elected chairman of the Board March 13, 1913, and served in that capacity until his death. He attended his last meeting of the Board June 16, 1921, having served the district faithfully for nearly ten years. He was ever ready to help in every undertaking for the upbuilding of the schools of the district. It may well be said of him that he did what he could for the schools. Therefore, be it resolved:

- 1st—That we tender the bereaved family our deepest sympathy.
 - 2nd—That the Board has lost one of its most faithful members, and that in the home there is a vacancy that can never be filled.
 - 3rd—That these resolutions be inserted in our minutes, a copy be sent to the family, and also to the county paper for publication.
- E. S. BROCKETT, Acting Chairman
W. A. KIDWELL, Clerk.

JUST A FEW THOUGHTS

Suppose every dollar that goes out of our town for things that might be bought at home was spent here, many more men in our town would have jobs.

THINK ABOUT THAT—If I spend my dollars out of town and you spend your dollars out of town and all the people spend their dollars out of town what will become of our town.

THINK ABOUT THAT—If you want your dollar to remain at home, work at home, live at home and board at the same place, then spend it at home.

THINK ABOUT IT—The fellow who has no good word for his home town or his home industries and home merchants reminds one of the man described in the following:

"He gets up at the alarm of a Connecticut clock, buttons his Chicago suspenders to Detroit overalls; puts on a pair of cow hide shoes tanned in Massachusetts; shaves with a Michigan razor sharpened on a Pennsylvania strop, and dries on a cotton towel made in New Hampshire; sits down to a Jamestown table, butters his Rochester bread, made of Minneapolis flour, with a Franklinville

AN "IF" FOR GIRLS

If you can dress to make yourself attractive,
Yet not make puffs and curls your chief delight;
If you can swim and row, be strong and active,
But of the gentler graces lose not sight;
If you can dance without a craze for dancing,
Play without giving play too strong a hold,
Enjoy the love of friends without romancing,
Care for the weak, the friendless and the old;
If you can master French and Greek and Latin,
And not acquire, as well, a priggish mien;
If you can feel the touch of silk and satin
Without despising calico and jean;
If you can ply a saw and use a hammer,
Can do a man's work when the need occurs,
Can sing, when asked, without excuse or stammer,
Can rise above unfriendly snags and slurs;
If you can make good bread as well as fudges;
Can sew with skill, and have an eye for dust;
If you can be a friend and hold no grudges,
A girl whom all will love because they must;
If sometime you should meet and love another
And make a home with faith and peace enshrined,
And you its soul,—a loyal wife and mother,
You'll work out pretty nearly to my mind
The plan that's been developed through the ages,
And win the best that life can have in store,
You'll be, my girl, a model for the ages,
A woman whom the world will bow before.
—ELIZABETH LINCOLN OTIS,

NEW METHOD OF MAKING A LAWN IN A FEW WEEKS

A new, quick method of establishing stands of sod on lawns, and more especially on golf greens where the grass gets severe usage, has been worked out by botanists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Bent grasses, which grow from runners, are principally used in the method. A quantity of healthy sod is stripped at a depth of approximately 1 1/2 inches, which gathers in most of the grass roots with as little dirt as possible. The sods are run through a feed cutter which is so arranged as to slit them into ribbons about 2 inches wide and the ribbons are shredded by hand, leaving a mass of grass roots. These roots are sowed broadcast on the ground, which has been carefully prepared by plowing and harrowing; and if a golf green is desired it is usually covered about an inch deep and rolled.

For ordinary lawns it has been found sufficient to broadcast the sod shreds and harrow or disk them in. By this method a good stand of sod has been obtained in as short a time as three weeks. The method has been used on golf courses throughout the country. A green of the public golf course in Potomac Park, Washington, D. C., prepared in this manner, is regarded as one of the finest in the country.—Weekly News Letter.

KANN'S—SECOND FLOOR

WE ALL BACKED THE SOLDIERS IN THE ARGONNE—BUT "Home Again Johnnies"—What About Them?

day it would be when he came marching home again—dear Johnnie of the Stars and Stripes.

Armistice Day—do you remember how we sang and shouted and beat gongs and rang bells? It was all over—the horror and the misery.

Peace again at last—sweet peace, with the folded wings and the radiant eyes.

"Home Again" Johnnie—"Home Again"—we could hardly wait for the day. And the first regiment that landed—were you in New York when the signal came—a troop ship at Fire Island—was there ever such a madness of delight? They got the news on lonely farms—nobody knows how—the birds seemed to know it. Johnnie was coming home—he was in the harbor of his home country—he was ashore—he was in the detention camp—hurrah, he was on the train for "Home, Sweet Home."

"Good-bye, old O. D. lid"—what fun he had following the new song. He liked it better even than "Over There." "Good-bye, Forever"—no more trenches, no more hospitals, no more trying wistfully to understand foreign ways—it made the heart sing to think of it.

But that was very long ago—two years, wasn't it? Today?

Today—"Home Again Johnnie" walks the streets looking for work. He stands in line at the employment agency with a dull ache in his heart, hoping against hope.

He watches for the postman. Maybe today the letter from Washington will come. How can he live with no money and no friends and no place to go—and that cough hanging on and the dull pain in the back of his head never gone?

Gratitude, Where? A hero—not he, though he wore a hundred medals and sports the croix de guerre never so bravely? He's just poor Johnnie, come marching home—and creeping out into the sunshine, waiting for news—from his grateful country, in Washington.

Do you remember when Harry Lauder started to sing about the soldiers—and he made his little speech about the wounded Scots and English? "We aren't going to have any of our boys standing on the corner in the rain, selling pencils—not after this war," he said. And we all choked up and applauded and were warm and happy and proud.

What are we doing for them now—our own boys? We don't even want them to sell pencils—it looks badly; and if we catch one of them begging? What crime have they committed, except fighting and suffering for us? "When Johnnie Comes Marching Home Again"—poor Johnnie—I'd hate to start that song anywhere near that line of 500 soldiers who have so many of those polite letters from Washington in their pockets—and nothing else. I'm afraid "Home Again Johnnie" couldn't remember the chorus.

On leaving the University, Mr. Gilpin engaged in farming both as owner and renter and today still follows the same business. When he answered his country's call, he arranged to have his farming operations continued uninterrupted realizing that food would help to win the war.

Though a member of the General Assembly, then in session, Mr. Gilpin patriotically declined to avail himself of his exemption and entered the aviation service and subsequently distinguished himself in France and on the Ypres front in the Aviation Corps.

Mr. Gilpin was a member of Governor Stuart's staff and is Vice-President of the Boyce State Bank, Inc., of Joyce, Va.

It is therefore on Mr. Gilpin's record that we bespeak for him the cordial support of our fellow-democrats of Virginia. His type is needed in public life. (From editorial in The Clarke County Courier, Berryville, Va.)

He served on the Committees of Finance, Appropriations and Roads and had a large hand in shaping many progressive measures emanating therefrom, which are now our statute books.

FORMER STUDENT WRITES OF SCHOOL

Says Manassas Gets More Out of High School Than She Invests in It.

To the Editor of the Manassas Journal:

It is my desire to bring to the attention of the people of Manassas and vicinity certain facts which have been very forcefully impressed upon me. These facts concern our schools, of which we have every reason to be proud.

In 1918, while doing substitute work in Salem (Mass.) High School, a school of about 1,200 students, I was very much surprised to find that the diploma from that school would not admit its students to any college in the United States, but that they were required to take special examinations at graduation before they could enter an A grade college. The same is true of Methuen (Mass.) High School and of a great many other schools in Massachusetts, Georgia and other states.

Manassas High School prepares students for any college in the United States. The entrance requirements for Cornell, Wisconsin and Harvard are as stern as any in this country, yet we have several students who have done satisfactory work at Cornell, and both Wisconsin and Harvard have accepted, as satisfactory, the subjects offered for admission by students of our school.

In addition to this, students are really prepared to do work of a college grade when they leave Manassas High School, while this is not true of many graduates of other accredited schools. Many of the students, who entered college with me, from schools which were accredited found it very difficult to keep up with their college work because of poor preparation. A number were forced to leave college without a degree, while no graduate of Manassas High has been forced to leave for this reason.

It becomes evident, then, that Manassas High School is not only an A grade school, but that it is exceptional in its excellence, since it achieves what many larger, better financed and equipped schools fail to do. This is because Manassas High School requires, for graduation, that a student pass the examinations given by the General College Entrance Board, an organization representing all the major colleges of the United States, and recognized by all as setting the standards for scholarship in secondary schools. Manassas is probably the only high school in Virginia which makes this requirement, for most of the other schools are content to reach the standard of the Southern Association, and do not hope to achieve that of the nation-wide group.

This exceptional standard of our school is important, not only to the graduate who wishes to enter college, but also to those who go directly to the business world. There are few business men or organizations who are not familiar with the standards of the General College Entrance Board, and who do not recognize in them good, practical preparation for the business, political, and social duties of life. Loss of this standing would not only limit the colleges which our graduates could attend and make work in college difficult for those who did enter, but it would take from all the advantage, which they have in the outside world, of recognized exceptionally high standing.

But Manassas does not owe her exceptional schools to the money she is putting into them. Financially, the school has been running behind during the past few years, and the increase in the school tax, of from fifty cents to seventy cents on the thousand, is barely enough to run the school as it is at present, to say nothing of paying off the present debt. In addition to this, a substantial increase in the enrollment is expected for next year. Since every seat is now taken, additional equipment is needed to meet this increase. It becomes apparent that at least one department must be cut out of Manassas High School next fall, unless additional funds are raised.

How it is possible even to approximate a complete high school on this meager tax is a marvel to me. Out of the forty-eight states of the Union, Virginia stands forty-second in expenditures for her schools, a disgrace to the acknowledged culture of many of her people. Among the counties of the state, Prince William stands far below the average in money put into her schools. Teachers' salaries are higher in almost every county than they are in Prince William. Look for a moment at the school taxes paid in other communities—Methuen, Massachusetts, pays $11 on the thousand to her schools. It is true that in this town assessed values are low, but even taking this into consideration, they pay from eight to ten times as much toward their schools as the people of Prince William. The school tax in Medford, Massachusetts, is $11.50, about forty per cent. of the total tax; and assessed valuation is not low in Medford. In fact, in all of the New England states the school tax per thousand dollars assessed value is at least seven times the tax paid in Virginia. There is, admittedly, much more wealth in these states than in Virginia and this makes the income to be devoted to school work still greater. In some of the Southern states, too, where the negro population almost equals the white, the school tax is more than twice that of Prince William.

And yet Manassas High ranks ahead of many of these better financed schools! It is a marvel of personal service and self-sacrifice on the part of the present principal and the present corps of teachers that this standing has been maintained. But there is a limit even to the power of service and Manassas is face to face with the probability of losing this standing, this unusual opportunity of an education for her children. It has been built at the cost of years of tireless and devoted effort—it can be lost by a few months of inefficient handling; and will be irrevocably lost unless adequate funds are immediately forthcoming.

I appeal to every former student of Manassas High School to make it a personal duty to talk and work for adequate funds and unbounded support for their school. Competition for teachers in the United States is keener now than ever before and a large percentage of High School teachers are incompetent. Manassas is blessed with good ones, but they remain only because it is their home and their school that they work for, and not on account of their small salary. Most of them could easily double their incomes by moving to city schools, where there are countless opportunities.

The facts stated above have been carefully verified and are conservative in putting the situation before you. I feel that the people do not know how little they are putting into their schools in contrast with other places, and how much they are getting out of them in contrast with other places. As one, who has many times congratulated himself on being a graduate of Manassas High School, while competing with the graduates of the best high schools of many large cities, let me urge your unlimited financial support for the sake of your children and those who will come after. First reach it and then work for a repeal of the state law which limits the tax for school purposes to $1 on the thousand.

Sincerely yours,
D. ALFRED PRESCOTT.

U. S. TUBES
The same standard of quality built into U. S. Tires is put into U. S. Tubes.

Why some men seem to have all the tire luck —

YOU probably know a man whose car is a hobby with him. He knows just why it's the best little old car there is of its class.

And he'll stand up for that car against the world in any kind of an argument.

Year by year an increasing number of men feel the same way about U. S. Tires.

For a while they may try "job lot" stuff, "bargains," "big discounts" and "rebates."

But usually it doesn't take long for a man to sense the economy of the standard quality tire.

For years U. S. Tire makers have been building quality tires for sane tire users—for the car of medium or light weight no less than for the heavy car.

The tire buyers of the land have responded with a mighty U. S. Tire following.

The U. S. Tire makers meet the responsibility for supplying this nationwide following with characteristic energy.

Ninety-two U. S. Factory Branches are established, covering the entire country.

Find the U. S. Tire dealer who has the intention of serving you. You will know him by his full, completely sized line of fresh, live U. S. Tires—quality first, and the same choice of size, tread and type as in the biggest cities of the land.

THE BEST ADVERTISING COMES FROM OUR CUSTOMERS

From time to time buyers come in our offices and make purchases for building and improving who tell us they do so because our material is so well spoken of by those who have dealt with us in their community and this has happened a number of times recently from buyers who are much nearer large cities.

Where there is a rather large number of people grouped in an organization like ours who are all working hard to maintain a high standard of quality and service at fair prices it is difficult for the customer to fully understand how much those who deal with us can make us feel that we are accomplishing the things we are working for.

Aside from the purely business feature it is very pleasant to constantly make new friends for our company and we wish to assure each of our customers who are instrumental in bringing us new business that we appreciate their telling their neighbors of their pleasant transactions with our company.

THOMPSON WILL FILED

Estate of Late Dairy Proprietor Valued in Excess of $100,000.

(Washington Star) A certified copy of the will of Corbia Thompson, proprietor of the Sharon dairy, who died last month at his farm, in Prince William county, Va., has been filed here. The American Security and Trust Company having declined to act as executor in Virginia, letters of administration, with the will annexed, have been granted there to Thomas E. Keith. Ancillary letters were granted by Chief Justice McCoy to Mr. Keith to cover the property of the estate in the District. Mr. Keith gave a bond of $120,000.

The will provides that certain furniture be given to his daughters, Mary V. and Frances J. Thompson, and a nephew, Edward Thompson, and the other household effects to his wife, Mary I. Thompson. The remaining estate is devised to the American Security and Trust Company in trust, to continue the business until a sale is made, but if the nephew, Edward Thompson, desires to purchase, he is to pay only four-fifths of what another would offer. The trustee is to pay one-third the net income to the widow during her life, $1,000 to the nephew, and, should he not buy the dairy, an additional sum equal to one-fifth the price received from the sale. Mrs. Annie Herrell, a sister, is to have $500, and a like sum is given to his brother, Arthur Thompson. James A. Fling, an employe, is given $500, and John A. Riley and Ernest Thompson, also employes, $300 each. The remaining income is to be paid to the two daughters, each of whom is to have the right to dispose of one-half the estate by her will.

Until a sale of the business is made, the trustee is directed to pay the widow $75 per month for her maintenance.

The estate is valued in excess of $100,000. Attorneys Barbour, Keith, McCandish and Garnett represent the executor.

TELL YOUR WIFE

If you are in trouble or a difficulty, tell your wife—that is, if you have one—all about it at once. Ten to one her invention will solve your difficulty sooner than all your logic. The wit of woman has been praised, but her instincts are quicker and keener than her reason. Take counsel with your wife, or your mother, or sister, and be assured light will flash upon your darkness. Women are too commonly pronounced shallow in all but purely womanish affairs. No philosophical student of the sex thus judges them. Their intuitions, or insights, are subtle, and if they cannot see a cat in the dark cupboard, there is no cat there.

In counseling a man to tell his wife, we would go farther, and advise him to keep none of his affairs secret from her. Many a home has been happily saved, and many a fortune retrieved by a man's full confidence in his "better half." Woman is far more a seer and prophet than a man, if she have a fair chance. As a general rule, wives confide the minutest of their plans and thoughts to their husbands, having no involvements to screen from them. Why not reciprocate, if but for the pleasure of meeting confidence with confidence? We are certain that no man succeeds so well in the world as he, who, taking a partner for life, makes her the partner of all his purposes and hopes. What is wrong of his impulses or judgment she will check and set right with her almost universally right instincts.

"Helpmeet" was no insignificant title, as applied to man's companion. She is a help-meet to him in every darkness, difficulty and sorrow of life. And what she most craves, and most deserves, is confidence—without which love is never free from shadow.—Shenandoah Valley.

DAZED DEMPSEY

Jack Declares Georges "Shook Him Up" in Second Round of Recent Battle.

Jack Dempsey, during his visit to Chicago recently, admitted that he was hurt and dazed by the now-famous right-hander that Georges Carpentier landed on his jaw in the big fight at Jersey City; and had Carpentier been a little slower in landing the second blow, and struck a little harder, it might be a different story. The first blow to the jaw dazed Dempsey, but the second landed to "brush the cobwebs from my brain," as Jack explains.

Jack is not trying to fool anybody. When he's hit, he admits it. He was hit hard three times in that second round and is glad that he was hit the second time. It is an old story and has happened before, but because it occurred in the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, and Jack tells it himself, it is a brand-new story and a good one.

Here is how he describes the punch sensations he experienced during that blizzard second round which came mighty close to making a pugilistic history that would have pleased France almost as much as the triumph in the recent big fight of another kind over there.

Jack Was Caught Napping

"He caught me napping when he leaped in with that first right-hander, and it was a whale of a punch. I proved then and there that I could take the best wallop without falling. But the punch knocked me dizzy. I was punch-groggy and no mistake. But it knocked me off my balance, and before I could get steadied he crashed another one right on to the same spot—the old chin button. Funny thing. That second punch couldn't have been as hard as the first; it simply served to shake me up and brush the cobwebs from my brain. There were cobwebs there, too; I freely confess that. I was not close to a knockout or anything like that, but I was somewhat scrambled up. Such a thing happened before—the first punch having a man groggy and the second one bringing him to. That was exactly what happened in my case. When the second one landed and shook me into a realization of what was coming off, I was all right. He started the third one with my head clear, and I head-slipped it so that it landed high up on the head instead of on the jaw. Then I rushed into a clinch and was safe. I don't think I was in serious danger, and believe that if I had gone down I could have got up and won, but then a fellow does not care to get that close to glove disaster. It is too risky with a puncher like Carpentier.

"From then on I was careful and he could not hit me with that right. He tried some awful nasty uppercuts with the right, but I always avoided those. They carried tremendous power, too. It was with a straight right that he nailed me. The uppercut I solved right from the outset.

"Anyway, that is my story of the second round, and will go down into history, as it is absolutely a true one as I remembered it. I just had a few bad seconds. All the rest of the fight I was master of the situation, and I think I could have finished it more quickly had I tried to hurry.

"Carpentier was formidable enough to make me fight with my left shoulder bunched up to protect my jaw. I did not do that for Willard, for Brennan or for Mike. I was at my best at Jersey City, and my best is good enough to have put me at the top. So you see it took something of a fighter to toss a slight scare into me that day at the Jersey City ring.

"I know now that they will be for years to come. But what I have given you stands as my version of the stormy period I had in the second round as I remember it."

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George C. Round. Very few were present. The following women answered to roll call: Mrs. Round, Mrs. J. A. Hill, Mrs. W. B. Doak, Mrs. H. L. Hundley, Miss E. H. Osbourn and Miss L. V. Gilbert. There was one visitor, Miss Williams.

After the usual opening exercises, the minutes of the June meeting were read and approved. Report of the committee meeting held in the county agent's office June 24 was made. At this meeting it was decided to hold the county rally and picnic on the fair grounds. Messrs. R. L. Lewis, Samuel Harley, George McDonald and Harry Hundley are to see that everything is ready by the date named—August 12, the regular meeting day for both the county farmers' union and the woman's auxiliary.

Plans are being made for a big rally and picnic. All those who have been invited to speak have accepted the invitation. Mr. I. W. Hill will not sail from Europe until July 22, but he assures us he will be here. The president of the county union has received a message from the state president, Hon. A. B. Thornhill, saying that he will be present, and it is quite evident that Mrs. Calvin will be here. All those who enjoyed meeting and hearing Mr. Thornhill last August will have the pleasure of hearing him again.

Posters are being made and will be sent all over the country. It is the intention of the organizations of the county to have as big representation of the county people at this rally as possible.

The next meeting of the woman's auxiliary will be held the second Friday in September, as the rally will be held on the date of the August meeting.

FAMOUS TWINS VISIT US

Those interesting twins—Appre Tite and Appre Hension—paid us a visit this week. Appre Tite was enjoying his usual health, and his sister, Appre Hension, was in her usual mood. 'Twas only after much persuasion on her brother's part that she ate her dinner. After that she felt better and by the time she had her dessert—The Velvet Kind Ice Cream—she was feeling very much better and bought a pound of Martha Washington at the new price of 87c, which tickled her so that she promised to tell her cousin, Appreciation.
