AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Niece of Mrs. L. E. Beachley Killed in Accident in Baltimore.

Notice was received here last Wednesday by Mrs. E. L. Beachley, of the death of her niece, Miss Luella Baker, of Baltimore. Miss Baker with several companions in a large care were running along the street in Baltimore, when another car without warning came rapidly around a corner. The driver of the car in which Miss Baker was, in his endeavor to turn his car aside skidded, striking the curbing with such force as to throw the occupants of the car out, Miss Baker receiving injuries from which she later died.

Miss Pauline Beachley, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beachley, of Manassas, who was also a companion of the car, miraculously escaped with a few bruises. Mrs. Beachley, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Caroline and her son, Edwin, attended the funeral which was held on Friday at the Cathedral cemetery in Baltimore.

Miss Baker had many friends in Manassas, having often visited her aunt here.

PRIZES OFFERED FOR BREED FOWLS

Good Poultry Show Fitting Climax to Season's Work the County Agent Says.

(W. L. Browning, County Agent) After talking with quite a lot of poultry another year. We believe in the poultry industry of the county we have decided that to hold a good county poultry show would be a fitting climax to the seasons work. We believe that a good poultry show would be a stimulant to better and more poultry another year. We believe also that there is no form of livestock kept on the farm that will yield the returns for the amount of food consumed as will a flock of well taken care of birds.

A tentative date of December 16th has been set to hold the show. We want to make this the best and largest poultry exhibit ever held in the county, and will necessarily have to go to some expense for premiums, hall rent, etc. We will appreciate any contributions toward this expense any breeder wishes to send us. We would also like to have before hand as large a list of birds that you will promise to exhibit as we may have some ideas the amount of space and pens to fix. We will offer prizes for both pens and single exhibits of all the most popular breeds now raised in the county.

The county agent just received a letter from former county agent, W. P. Sadler, of Fauquier, who now has charge of the live stock department of the farm of Mr. Singleton, of Loudoun county, saying that the calves that they bought in Prince William last fall and pushed and made baby beaves out of them were shipped last week to Jersey City market and brought 11 cent per pound. If we can't breed calves that top the market like these, why cannot we feed them at home instead of feeding the common grade of stuff that the majority of us are now feeding. It costs no more to grow that high class steer than it does the ones that bring from 5 to 7 cents. It seems that we need more of the kind of beef bulls that get these high grade calves, then we would be producing at home our feeders instead of sending away from home and paying unreasonable freight, sales commissions, etc., making them cost us often more than we possibly get out of them.

It is true that these calves fed in Loudoun were not bought for the price of common cattle, but it paid both the producer and the feeder handsomely manager of the co-operative live stock just the same.

A report just received from the shipping association says that the second co-operative shipment was made from Nekeville last Saturday, and owing to the fact that they did not have a full car load the freight was higher than it should be; also that the cattle did not bring any more than could have been realized at home, but that the hogs and calves in this shipment netted the producer a little better than $50 more than was being offered for hogs and calves at home. Would you like to get in this moving? If so, this association is for you. Get in touch with Manager Will Adamson and advise him when you will have stuff ready to go and how much.

Mr. Frank Robinson, a former resident of Manassas, is in town today. Mr. Robinson now lives at Camp Meade Junction, Md.

This matter was referred to the public utilities committee for investigation, as was also the question of the proposed bond issue, action on both being deferred until the regular meeting in December.

The clerk was instructed to forward amount due for dog tags to commissioner of game and inland fisheries and to order one hundred and twenty-five female dog tags for the year 1922.

O. F. A.'S HOLD SERVICE

Bull Run Council, No. 15, O. F. A., according to a proclamation issued by the president of the Grand Council of Virginia, attended church in a body on Sunday last.

The sermon, which was a Thanksgiving and Memorial sermon combined, was delivered by Rev. William Stevens, of Grace M. E. Church, South. A solo by Miss Louise Maloney added much to the occasion.

On account of the shortness of the service, only about forty of the one hundred and fourteen members, were present.

At a meeting held on Tuesday night a resolution was passed to extend a vote of thanks to Rev. William Stevens for his excellent sermon and also to Miss Maloney for her beautiful solo.

FREIGHT CAR BROKEN INTO

About four o'clock on Sunday morning last, Sergeant Miller was awakened by a messenger announcing that a robbery was being committed in a box car near Brown & Hood's mill. Upon hastening to the scene of action Mr. Miller could only see one man, but heard others in the car. He fired several shots which were returned by the robbers, after which they took a hurried departure. Fortunately only a small amount was stolen from the car, such as tobacco, cigarettes, oranges, apples, etc., owing to the prompt arrival of Mr. Miller.

CANNING CLUB GIRL WINS PRIZE OFFERED

Cora Sheemaker Wins Burpee Can Sealer Offered by the Farmers' Exchange.

The Farmers Exchange, Manassas to encourage production and conservation of foods by the Canning Club Girls offered to the girl putting up the greatest amount of products from club garden, home garden and orchard a Burpee Can Sealer. This sealer is equipped for sealing both quart and pint cans. One dozen of each quart and pint cans goes with the sealer as the gift of the Virginia Can Company, Roanoke, Va.

This sealer has been won by Cora Sheemaker, Haymarket, Va., although the season was the driest and garden production the lowest for many years. Cora put up 806 containers of vegetables, fruits, preserves, pickles, jelly and 6 quarts of Mushrooms. Of the number 57 quarts is fruit and 68 glasses of jelly. She has as a net profit $81.50. Cora is the first girl in the county to attempt the canning of mushrooms. When asked how it was done she said, "I did just as Uncle Sam's Bulletin said and my mushrooms are keeping fine." Madeline Pettit comes second with 193 containers, a net profit of $46.39; Olivia Athey 159 containers, a net profit of $68.77; Olivia sold 344 pounds of vegetables fresh and realized $18.80. Her total yield of vegetables was 1975 1-2 pounds, the highest yield in the county. Alice Breedon 140 containers and Helen Arthur 124. These five girls made the highest average in the county.

The drought destroyed some of the gardens to the extent that the girls did not raise enough for table use.

For 1922, a 12 quart Aluminum Steam Pressure Cooker will be given to the girl making the Best Year's Record. All work must be completed by October 31, 1922. This cooker will be equipped with three inset dishes and can be used for either cooking or steaming. Newman-Truener offers a pair of kitchen scales as a second prize, and it is quite evident that some one interested in the girl's work will offer a third.

These prizes will not be given unless there are as many as fifteen contestants.

Wanted—For the Canning Club for 1922, 25 new members who are willing to do the required work and keep her record book according to directions given by the County Home Demonstration Agent.

ANTI-BEAR BEER BILL IS LAW OF LAND

Long Debated Question of Legality of Medical Beer is Settled When President Signed Bill

President Harding signed the anti-beer bill on last Wednesday. His signature on the bill, on which congressional action was completed last Friday, automatically closed the gap in the nation's prohibition laws revealed last March by Attorney General Palmer in an opinion that there was nothing in the Volstead act to preclude the prescription of beer as medicine.

Prohibition advocates in Congress soon after publication of Mr. Palmer's ruling evolved the bill which, in a somewhat changed form, was on Wednesday made a law of the land.

Treasury officials because of the pending legislature, withheld issuance of regulations making prescription of beer possible until last month. Since the regulations were issued about half a dozen brewers have obtained permits to manufacture beer for medical purposes, but owing to the numerous changes made necessary in instructions to prohibition directors and other officials it is not believed that much beer has been prescribed as medicine.

Passage of the anti-beer bill "marks a new step forward in the enforcement of prohibition," Commissioner Haynes said in a formal statement. The act he said, strengthens the hands of the prohibition forces in dealing with the alleged medicinal prescriptions sold on the open market and used for beverage purposes, and also limits the activities of the "few physicians" who were issuing prescriptions for liquor to people not actually requiring it.

"No embarrassment in the enforcement of prohibition," Mr. Haynes said, "is anticipated from the provision imposing penal liability upon officers searching dwellings without warrants and searching other property without warrants maliciously and with out reasonable cause. The officers are given fair warning that they must not search dwellings without warrants, and no attempts to do so will be made. It will be a very rare case in which, under the act, an officer can be prosecuted on account of the search of other property. Before a case against an officer can be sustained it will be necessary to show not only that the officer did not have a warrant but that he acted maliciously and without probable cause.

"It, therefore, appears that so long as a prohibition officer has reasonable ground for suspecting a violation of the prohibition act he cannot be punished for searching property other than a dwelling without a warrant. No substantial decrease in the activities of prohibition officers is anticipated as the result of the new act, and I am entirely confident that the United States attorney and the Department of Justice are not going to institute proceedings against officers, except in the case of a wilful and wanton search by an officer without reasonable grounds for doing so."

The regular monthly meeting of the Daughters of the Confederacy will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 3 p. m., at the home of Mrs. W. A. Newman.

EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE

Many Interesting and Instructive Addresses Made By Leading Educators of State.

(Miss E. H. Osbourn, Principal Manassas School)

The State Educational Conference held in Richmond during Thanksgiving week gave enthusiastic evidence of the steady advance being made in all educational lines in Virginia. Innumerable conferences were held—for superintendents, for trustees, for supervisors and principals; for high, grammar, primary and rural school teachers; for all lines of academic work; for music and art; for agricultural, home economics, industrial and commercial education; for the Virginia Division of the National Council of Administrative Women in Education, and a whole series for the Co-Operative Education Association, under whose auspices the patrons league work of the state is carried on.

In addition to the many conferences, dinners and luncheons were given by the alumni of the University of Virginia, and of Columbia University, William and Mary and Randolph-Macon College, and of the state normal schools. Further festivities were also held to the week by the enthusiastic evocation given the great French commander, Marshal Foch, who was the guest of the City of Richmond on Wednesday and Thursday.

Among the principal speakers of the conference were President Alderman of the University of Virginia, President Chandler of Williams and Mary College, President Payne of Peabody College of Education, Dr. Snedden of Columbia University, Dr. O'Shea of University of Wisconsin, State Superintendent Harris Hart, Governor Westmoreland Davis and Congressman Tower of Iowa.

Supt. Hart in his comprehensive report for the year stressed the widespread evidence of a constantly growing interest in education throughout the state as shown by increasing demands for more and better schools, for a longer school term and more opportunities for teacher training. He referred also to the large per cent of illiterates still in the state and urged the necessity for more teachers and a compulsory attendance law, if this evil were to be wiped out. More financial support must also be given as the total funds of all counties is not now over 61% of the sum needed for the effective working of the school system. In his final summary he endorsed the following recommendations of the recent state educational commission to be presented to the General Assembly this year:

1. Material increase in the state fund, to bear at least one-half of the cost of instruction.
2. Allocation of a part of the state fund to equalize educational conditions.
3. The county as the unit of administration.
4. A compulsory attendance law.
5. Expansion of teacher training facilities as a fundamental necessity.

The meetings of the Co-Operative Education Association were rich in reports and discussions of how the work of the patrons' leagues had aided in improving the schools, in obtaining better health conditions and better roads and in developing strong community spirit. Mrs. B. B. Mumford, president of the association, in her annual report showed progress along all lines, the association for the past year having raised nearly $200,000 for educational purposes, with three hundred and seventy-three new leagues organized, bringing the total number to 1,595, with a total membership of 41,000.

Among the many notable addresses special mention should be made of the important address of Dr. Snedden, Professor of Vocational education of Columbia University, in which he stressed the vital necessity of vocational education in some form for all vocations, industrial as well as professional, and the present haphazard and "pick and choose" method of getting training in a large number of occupations was a waste of money, effort and waste in the industrial life of the nation. At the close of Mr. Snedden's address, the organization of a state society for vocational education was perfected, the aim being to improve conditions in general for employer and employee.

Another very valuable address was given by Dr. O'Shea of the University of Wisconsin, who made a strong plea for more simplicity on the part of the school and the state. He said that the school should be a place where the child can learn to live.

STATE NEWS NOTES

Lynchburg Masons are completing plans for the organization of a Scottish Rite consistory at the place. There are only four other such organizations in the state.

Reports of the official election figures on the governorship, with ten counties and one city missing, indicate that the majority for Trinkle will go to about 70,000. His majority at this time is 65,839 over Tucker, 62,000 over Anderson and Mitchell. Mrs. Curtis received 199 and Goodman 181.

The location of a school at Lynchburg for the training of negro girls, to be backed by the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Northern Methodist Church, is now practically assured, the chamber of commerce has been advised. The school is to be built, it is expected, early in the coming year on the site of the old Morgan college, a school for negroes, which was burned six or eight years ago. The city has already arranged to extend the city water system to the property.

Samuel F. Kitchen, of Yale, Sussex county, was accidentally shot Thursday afternoon while hunting with several friends. Mr. Kitchen was standing on a stump with a gun by his side, when it slipped from his grasp, fell to the ground and exploded. A full load of shot penetrated his abdomen and inflicted a severe injury. He was taken to a hospital in Petersburg by Dr. Crawford of that county, where he was operated on by two surgeons during the night. His condition is very serious.

Charles Thomas Price, Confederate veteran with a distinguished war record, died November 25, at Gales, Va., aged seventy-seven years. He was one of the few surviving veterans of the war between the states who participated in the hanging of John Brown at Harpers Ferry in 1859. He served with distinction throughout the war, his company being in 119 battles and skirmishes, in fifty-seven of which he took part. He was a graduate of Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, Va.

Mrs. T. M. Conner, republican, has succeeded her deceased husband, a democrat, as postmaster at Harpers Ferry, W. Va., her nomination having been confirmed by the Senate. Following Mr. Conner's death, an examination was held, and Leslie Duke, active democrat, was recommended for appointment. After he had spent several months getting a suitable building, he found that his nomination had not been confirmed. Mrs. Conner became a candidate and her nomination went through.

Andrew Haley, fourteen years old, of Warrenton, was killed by an automobile on East Main street, at that place November 25th. He was in a buggy with Joe Bryant, a young white boy, who was delivering milk. He jumped over the wheel directly in front of a car driven by a colored man named Bell from Casanova, who ran over the boy before he could turn his car. Haley was taken into Dr. Trow's office, where he died in a few minutes. Bell and his companion stopped and gave help, and eye-witnesses believe they were not responsible for the accident. Haley leaves his mother, now living in Washington, and a number of brothers and sisters.

Deserted on a lonely Virginia road by five young men who attempted to assault her, Mary Chism, twenty-five years old, 1145 21st street, Washington was picked up by a passing automobile and while enroute to Washington, the machine was forced off road and Miss Chism was cut by broken glass, according to a story she told the police. She is in Georgetown University Hospital, recovering from her injuries, and the police are searching for the five youths. The woman told the police that she met the men near 25th and K streets and accepted their invitation to take an automobile ride. Near the Virginia side of Chathambridge, she said, the young men attacked her, but her screams frightened them.

After falling out of an airplane at a height of 100 feet into the Potomac river and being injured five times in an equal number of automobile accidents this year, Capt. Blanchard Robey, pilot of a government mail boat at Colonial Beach and former Georgetown University foot ball star, received the greatest shock of his life Tuesday in a letter from a firm in Minneapolis, Minn., urging him to purchase a wooden leg. Despite his numerous accidents, Captain Robey still is in perfect physical condition, except that he limps slightly from the effects of a leg which was broken several months ago, when an automobile in which he was riding turned turtle at King George Courthouse. The letter pointed out that if Capt. Robey had no immediate use for a wooden leg, he probably would need it soon, and that the firm would be pleased to have his measurements.

GAINESVILLE

Mrs. Kate Whorton is seriously ill. Mrs. Charles Lewis, of Manassas, was a visitor to Gainesville on Wednesday.

Mr. E. H. Murphy, of New York, who has been living near Haymarket for several months, accompanied by Mr. Tom Percy, passed through Gainesville on Tuesday, with his pack of hounds, numbering twenty. We learn Mr. Murphy may reside in Prince William county permanently, and if so, will organize a Hunting Club, having been granted the privilege of hunting from the Percy farm to the Bull Run mountains.

Mr. Willard Pearson broke the record hunting recently, with the aid of his fox hound, "Nimrod." Mr. Pearson caught fifteen opossums in one night's sport.

The patrons of the Gainesville school and all who are interested in civic improvement are requested to attend a meeting at the school house on Tuesday evening, December 6th. Hon. C. J. Meetze, of Manassas will address the meeting and we hope to organize a Community League.

"GETTING THINGS" FOR VIRGINIA

In his address before the Richmond First Club, Governor-Elect Trinkle made a homely remark which at once explains many things about which Virginia complains, and should be borne in mind when it is inclined to become querulous and ask why it is not going forward more rapidly. "We cannot get things for nothing," said the man who during the next four years will be expected to "get things" for Virginia, and who will be measured largely by his ability as a "getter." Leading educators having agreed recently that a moderate use of slang is permissible when it is expressive, it may be permitted us to observe that when Mr. Trinkle said that he "said a mouthful."

As he pointed out to the business men who heard him, Virginia has no reason to be ashamed of its status among the States along educational, road or other lines of State endeavor when its present standing is gauged by the amount of money it has been willing to spend. What we have spent, we have spent well. While there may have been a certain amount of waste because of occasionally injudicious methods, the loss chargeable to that score has been reasonably small, and it is the State's proud boast that the waste through graft or wilful extravagance has been nothing.

Our schools and our roads today represent practically full value received for the money that has been expended on them. Our cheeks flush when we see how far down the list of States Virginia stands in the item of education, but it is improving its relative position even with the funds now provided, and if it wishes to go to the top of the list, as it says it does, then only a more liberal expenditure will place it there. We are disgraced and humiliated by our shameful roads, but we are building as rapidly as the money available will permit, and if we really want an adequate system, such as other States have or are building, cash alone will bring it to us.

"We cannot get things for nothing." That old-fashioned formula of the incoming Governor should be effective when the General Assembly convenes. No one realizes more keenly than he the difficulties of the position in which he will be placed when he takes over the reins of office. Here among ourselves let it be admitted that we have talked much and loud and long about the things we want in Virginia, but we have not always been willing to loosen the purse strings to satisfy our own desires. Time now is almost at hand when we must produce the money if we want results. If we have not the financial courage of our convictions, then we should cease our talking and rest satisfied with what the money we are willing to provide will purchase. Virginia is no longer a poor State, and while extravagance would not be tolerated, it is in position to purchase those things which it must have if it is to rank in progressiveness with its sister Commonwealths.

Judged by his recent addresses, the new Governor will go into office in a liberal and open, yet sanely conservative, frame of mind. He knows what the State needs. He knows what it wants, but even he does not know how far it will be willing to go to obtain its desires. At least his leadership promises to lie along the line of progress. Virginia can follow if it will.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

LOWERING FREIGHT RATES

Agreement by the railway executives to effect a voluntary reduction of 10 per cent in freight rates on agricultural products is a wise move and a necessary one if the railroads are to continue to have public support in their efforts to struggle out of the financial morass into which the war and the period of government operation plunged them. The announcement comes none too soon nor is the measure of the reduction any greater than is necessary to satisfy public expectations. Had the railway managements gone ahead with their plans to press for further wage reductions without any concessions in the way of cheapened transportation it is more than likely that when another crisis came in relations with their employes they would have found much diminished volume of public support back of their contentions.

Every reduction in freight rates is bound to result in increased business and increased revenues for the carriers, and the swing of the circle will bring lowered costs of equipment and materials for replacement and lowered cost of living for railroad workers, so that gradual wage reductions may come logically and without injustice, and the public has a right to expect that this process will continue until the cost of transportation is brought to a level of relative equity in respect to the cost of other commodities.

When on October 22 last the United States Steel

Corporation announced a reduction of $7 a ton in the price of steel rails—a matter of direct concern to the railroads—Judge Gray preached a little sermon which the railroad managers might well take to heart. In the course of it he said: "Present costs of production do not justify this action, but it is hoped and expected reductions in freight rates and otherwise, together with larger operations, will soon have a beneficial effect upon our costs."

In those few words is said all there is to say about the only practical process of deflation. And it is a process in which the railroads necessarily must share, despite the fact that government control deprived them of all opportunity to participate in excessive war profits and at the same time burdened them with tremendous operating costs in the determining of which the owners of the roads had no voice.—Washington Star.

CANCELLATION AND THE TAXPAYER

Out of the $26,000,000,000 of war debts created by America, approximately $10,000,000,000 is money loaned to Allied governments and now overdue. The country has been deluged with propaganda looking toward the cancellation of these debts. If it were simply a question of the American people paying the $10,000,000,000 represented by these debts we could, perhaps, afford to do that.

However, the cancellation of the war debts is but the first step of the international financiers. Their big idea is the stabilization of the world's finances. This is a proposition that involves, not a policy of inflation that will make money as cheap as that of the bankrupt nations of Europe, but a policy that will give an American guaranty that Europe's almost worthless money shall be equal in purchasing value to ours. This means, of course, that American labor and America's natural resources shall underwrite the financial deficiencies of an inflated Europe.

European war securities are held by the international financiers. These securities (nominally representing billions of dollars) are almost worthless. An agreement on the part of America to cancel the war debts and stabilize the finances of the world, would mean that European war securities would be increased in value to par at the expense of the American taxpayer. The international financiers would be the real beneficiaries, and the American people would be the proverbial "goat."—Dearborn Independent.

HELP FOR FARMERS

If the government would see that just what equitable laws are passed abolishing discrimination in favor of manufacturers and speculators, and give the farmer a chance to get pay for his products in proportion to the investment, the sacrifice and the labor he uses, there would be no necessity for a commission to improve the country homes. With money the farmer will do it himself.

But artificial laws, and schemes to enrich the few at the expense of many, are like artificial heat and burn out when the means by which they are kept in force shall be supplanted by a natural order. In the long run nature asserts itself, and the oppressed rises above the oppressor.

The increase in consumption is greater by more than ten to one than production. Cities are growing almost beyond the means of calculation. These vast centers of population have to be fed and clothed or perish. The time will shortly come when the financiers of these centers must see that unless they change their tactics, the entire population of cities will be at the mercy of the country. Then will come the scheme to get control of the land, and if they succeed we shall finally become a nation of renters, similar to Ireland. Each day that rolls around it is getting harder to get land and own a home. In less time than 50 years, 100 acres of land in Surry county will represent a fortune. With a population of 150,000,000 the scramble for land will become the problem of the age. It is possible that some benefactor of the race, not engaged in politics, will modify and adjust the question of taxation advocated by present economist, and by such means protect the people from the encroachments of the money power, and make it so that a man may own a home.

The man today who wants to serve his country cannot do better than own a home, remain upon it, and stand for the interests of the agricultural class.—The Claremont Herald.

LAUGH AND LIVE

NOT A DESCENDANT

A caustic professor of biology was expounding the evolutionary theory, when he was interrupted by a "smart Alec," who inquired:

"Did I understand you to say, Professor, that you descended from an ape?"

"Yes, sir," was the quiet reply, "you understood me correctly."

"Well, Professor, I wouldn't dispute your word for an instant, but I am sure that I never descended from an ape."

The professor from over his spectacles carefully scrutinized every inch of the young man's person before replying. "I quite agree with you, Mr. X. You have not descended from an ape. As yet you have not ascended quite that far in the evolutionary scale."

WHY HE ASKED

"Ma, do we keep a hen any place?"

"Why, no, my son. Why do you ask that?"

"I heard pa tell the new maid he would take her out into riding when he sent the old hen away for the summer."—Boston Transcript.

STANDS OR FALTERS

We all know today how strictly in force is the public decree of economy. The war is no longer accepted as an excuse for inflated prices. But the demand goes farther than this, in as much as its basic requirements is for something better—Merchandise which is not thrown around in a shipshod manner, but goods bought in quantities and handled in an efficient way in order that overhead will be reduced. People have had their eyes opened as never before, and no longer are they satisfied with mere nicely worded advertisements. THEY DEMAND TO BE SHOWN.

We have always tried to anticipate the desires of our customers and we have therefore built an addition to our meat market and hereafter offer in season, THE MARKET'S BEST SELECTIONS IN

FISH AND GAME

It will now no longer be necessary for the anxious housewife to have to listen with an unexpected ear and sometimes in vain for the cry of the meat and fish vender. For she can merely phone us and rest absolutely assured that it will be delivered at the appointed time. The cost will be no question and no forty and one families will have handled the food that's for her and her children. In this manner you economize, not in price alone, but that "SOMETHING BETTER" at the same price. That and that alone is true economy. May we serve you in our new place with

FISH, GAME AND MEATS

In the same sanitary way? Your presence will be greatly appreciated.

IN MEMORIAM

MATTHEW—In sad but loving remembrance of my dear mother, Martha A. Matthew, who departed this life a year ago, November 4, 1920. Moments of sadness still come o'er me,

Years of sorrow silently flow; Memory keeps you ever near me, Though God took you a year ago. You don't know the sorrow to be left alone

Till God sends a message to your home; 'Tis sad when He calls for one or the other, But the saddest of all is when God calls our mother.

ADVERTISING GREATEST BUSINESS GETTER OF DAY

Newspaper Advertising Better Than All Other—Some Say No Need to Advertise. Subscriptions and advertising are the only sources of revenue a newspaper has, and often the subscriptions do not pay for the cost of white paper. Advertising today, especially in newspapers, is the greatest business getter in the land. This is acknowledged by men who know. People read advertisements in newspapers. They have been educated to do so. Every merchant in our town ought to advertise. You remember the story about John Wanamaker. The first day he was in business his receipts were $24.64. He kept the 64 cents and spent the $24 the next day in advertising. We all can't duplicate this feat, but according to the best statistics available 3 per cent of the gross sales should be put aside for advertising. Possibly you will say, "I don't need to advertise. I've been in this town thirty years and everybody knows me." Possibly they do, but did you ever stop to think of the sales you lose because your fellow competitor advertises? He may advertise the same goods you have in your stock, but the people don't know that you have them. The other fellow gets the sale because he advertises. And then how much more business would you do if you did advertise?

We know of one merchant who advertised a lot of goods at 19 cents a yard. They cost him 27 cents. He took a clean loss, but while the sale was going on he could buy them in with the other goods and the result was that he cleaned his shelves of the old goods and he broke even on the deal. Advertising and good buying liquidated his stock without a loss. We can't all be John Wanamaker, but we all can advertise in proportion to our business. Results will be sure if you advertise honestly and give service. A newspaper can bring people to your store, but it can't make people buy your goods. Your clerks must do that and it depends on the service you give as to how successful your business will be.

What is done in the big cities can be done right here in this town if you will show the pep, give the service and advertise. Make business good. You can do it through this newspaper.

HICKORY GROVE

The Hickory Grove neighborhood has had rather more than its usual amount of gaiety recently.

On Friday, November 18, the Patrons' League of Hickory Grove school was most delightfully entertained by some of the talent of Eastern College as well as by the popular president of the Prince William School League, the Hon. C. J. Meetez. Those taking part in the program being Miss Hazel Nelson, teacher of expression, and two of her little pupils, Esperance Holiday and Virginia Bogges. Miss Nelson completely charmed her audience by her quaint impersonations and her pupils, who both show decided talent, added much to the occasion.

Miss Beatrice Luke also entertained us with several violin selections which were much enjoyed.

On the following Friday, November 25, a bazaar was held under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Grace Episcopal Church for the benefit of the parish.

The sale of fancy articles including scarfs, aprons, center-pieces, etc., attracted a large number of buyers, as did also the Christmas cards and homemade candy. Light refreshments, such as pies, cakes, sandwiches and hot drinks were sold throughout the day.

Though the crowd was not a large one every one bought generously and a neat sum was realized.

Great credit is due the Misses Ewell of Edge Hill in their unselfish participation, as is their wont in all public affairs.

Among those who attended the bazaar were Rev. T. M. Browne and Mrs. Browne, of Haymarket, also Miss Bessie G. Meade and Mr. Browne's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ashton.

Mrs. W. P. Wilson, of Hickory Grove, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. T. O. Taylor, at Manassas.

Miss Jennie Ewell, of Washington, spent several days last week with her sisters at Edge Hill, and very ably assisted at the church bazaar.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Latham have returned from their wedding trip and are at home to their friends at Locust Bottom.

Mrs. Joseph Turner had as her guests last week her aunt, Mrs. George Powell, of Fairfax, and her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Murray, of Ironton, Ohio, and Mrs. Elmer Beall, of Greenville, Ohio.

A beautiful flag was presented to Sudley Church last Sunday morning by Mrs. Isabel Worrell Ball, of Washington, assistant editor of the National Tribune. In the presentation speech Mrs. Ball gave many interesting facts concerning the American flag as well as the flags of other nations. A short speech by Gen. Washington Gardner, Commissioner of Revenue, was also enjoyed by the large congregation present.

He Tried SUNOCO Oil

And this is what he said:

"That SUNOCO OIL I got from you proved to be fine; especially for the Haynes. It has worked better than it ever has since I bought it. I have been trying to buy some more of the oil since my return, but no one seems to handle it out here. I am writing to the factory today to have them send me some. Tell Ludd (I think that is the name of the fellow that works there with you all the time) that all I have to do with the Haynes is give it lots of Suneco oil and gasoline and drive it like Sam Hill."

The writer is Mr. J. B. Gibson, who recently left here in his Haynes for Webb City, Mo.

What Mr. Gibson thinks is the opinion of many other SUNOCO users. Have you tried it on your car?
