FRIDAY AFTERNOON, SEPTEMBER 29, 1922

The resignation of Rev. T. D. D. Clark from the pastorate of the Manassas Baptist Church will be regretted by his congregation and the community at large.

Mr. Clark is a profound student and an able preacher. Not in years, if at all, has any church in Manassas had a pastor who has rendered a more devoted service to the cause of christianity than has Mr. Clark. His plain yet powerful presentation of the gospel gave him great power as a preacher, and his gentle and unobtrusive manner caused him to be liked as a pastor. He was an untiring worker and seldom failed to accomplish what he set out to do. Under his first pastorate the new Baptist Church building was erected. When he was again called to be pastor of the church a part of the debt for the new building still remained unpaid, and this debt was wiped out and the building dedicated shortly after he began his second service with the church. During his ministry a number of members were added to the church, and it can be truly said that the ministry here was a successful one. But not alone has he been active in church work. He has always taken a deep interest in the civic affairs of the town and has been ready and willing to render any service in his power for the betterment of moral and social conditions.

Fortunate indeed is the hospital movement that Mr. Clark has determined to devote his time to it. He is an indefatigable worker, a forceful speaker, a man of splendid address, tactful and resourceful. If anyone can raise the funds necessary to erect and equip the Manassas Memorial Hospital, he can. If he is successful in his endeavors, and we believe he will be, Manassas and the community will be under everlasting obligations to him. It is seldom that a man gives up his life's work for an undertaking out of which he neither hopes nor expects earthly reward. Such, however, is Mr. Clark's undertaking, and the town and community owes it to him and themselves to see that he is not allowed to shoulder the entire burden. They should give him their very best moral encouragement and financial support. If the people will rally around him in this work, the necessary funds will be raised, and he will be in a position to enter again into active ministry and church work in which men of his calibre are so much needed.

PASSING THE MAXIMUM

A friend has written me a letter as follows: "A long time ago, the man who was then my employer told me the probable maximum salary I could earn in business. It was substantially more than my salary at that time, but the mere statement that it was the maximum disturbed me so deeply that I carefully took an inventory of myself and then consulted some older business friends.

"One man said this to me: 'Jay, go back and make yourself so indispensable to that man that he will put more and more work in your hands, and forget all about this maximum salary.'

"I have long since passed the 'maximum' set and have never had occasion to regret the decision to remain with the company."

In my own experience as an employer I have frequently had men and women come to me in a frank and friendly spirit to discuss their future. This is always embarrassing. None of us knows what our own future will be; much less are we qualified to promise a future to another.

But this much we can say: That the man who is willing to give generously of his brains, time and energy will rise to the proper level just as surely as cream rises to the top of a milk pail.—The Type Metal Magazine.

FOUR-FLUSHERS

A friend of the writer who has unusual opportunities to observe people says mankind naturally divides itself into two parts—four-flushers and those who are honestly trying to perform.

Everyone falls into some division of one of these classes, he states.

Is he correct?

I think so. The people who are trying to give service in return for a living far outnumber the four-flushers, but the latter are decidedly more conspicuous.

The four-flushers congregate where they can be seen and heard. They are quick to adopt new titles and new nomenclature to describe their activities.

They are the deadweight of industry, and the ball and chain of politics.

They thrive in those professions and activities where the service rendered is intangible. Gifted with an easy flow of language and a prepossessing personality, they wiggle their way into jobs where they stick until they are asked to move on.

Every trade organization and every professional group have to waste a lot of valuable time and effort cleaning out the four-flushers. Detecting and fighting them is a continuous process—like keeping one's shoes clean.

You can never say, "That job is done for all time."—The Type Metal Magazine.

A NOVEL COMMENCEMENT

A new theory has been developed to explain why country boys succeed so well in the city, and why so many of the city leaders were born and reared in the country.

It seems that the average country boy thinks that the city boy is a super man. He must be, he reasons, or he couldn't get along.

Thinking along these lines, the country boy concludes he must work very hard or he will not get by in the city.

So he digs in, applying himself to his task with all the vigilance of a small boy who is ambitious to become a big league pitcher.

In the course of a few years he finds out that city men are not super men at all and that he is just as bright as they are. He also discovers that city men are not mules for work, as he supposed, but that most of them spend a large percentage of their time in an effort to dodge work. Fortunately, however, by the time the country boy "comes to his senses" he is so entrenched in the habit of industry that he can't emulate his city cousins.

And so he continues to work his head off and builds up a fortune and is envied by the next generation of city sports.

P. S.—As we finish writing the above, a man at the next desk leans over and tells us we have missed one important point.

"In addition to what you have written," he says, "there is still another reason why the country boy, with the right stuff in him, succeeds so well in the city. When the country boy comes to the city he doesn't know a soul, he has to fight so hard, friendless and alone, that his whole moral fibre is stiffened. If he survives this ordeal, he can't help making good when conditions and friends begin to favor him."—The Type Metal Magazine.

MARYLAND MUSINGS

(By the Beantown Bard, Folger McKinsey)
Virginia

Oh, Virginia, are you dreaming in your valleys as of old,
With your meadow blooms of purple and your orchards
globed in gold;
With your lovely rivers singing on their journey to the sea
In the summer lands of memory that are full of dreams for me?

Virginia, oh, Virginia, when my heart is sick and sore
With the struggle and the conflict, I am knocking at your door;

Just to beg you for a blossom, for a morning, for a dream
Of your valleys and your foothills and the music of a stream!

In a sweeter world than this is, so they tell us, we shall rest;

In some country of the spirit, in some Aiden of the west;
But when troubles cloud my sunshine and the cares are storming round,
I'd be glad for old Virginia, just to touch her holy ground!

Oh, Virginia, are you singing in your gardens of the rose
Where the Rappahannock wanders and the Shenandoah flows;
As I know you'd sing to me, dear, if from sorrow I could see
To lie down upon the bosom of the land that sings of Lee?

LAUGH AND LIVE

THE COOK

Kicker—"Fire the cook?"
Bocker—"Well, we handed her her passport."

MODERNITY

Letchwooth—"Can your little boy walk yet?"
Heckler—"Walk? Why, the kid's learning to fly!"— Judge.

THAT'S DIFFERENT

Debtor—"I want to pay that little bill of yours."
Creditor—"Thank you, sir; thank you."
Debtor—"But I can't."

Oh, Gee!

"Whatcher look so happy for, Jones?"
"Got an increase."
"Salary or family?"

REASON ENOUGH

Suzie—"Papa, what makes a man always give a woman a diamond engagement ring?"
Her Father—"The woman."

REAL DAYLIGHT SAVING

"Is your boy in favor of daylight saving?"
"I reckon he is," replied Farmer Cornsweat. "If he gees on stayin' out o' nights, pretty soon he won't be usin' say daylight at all."

HIS FROM MISSOURI

In the 1904 election, George, a Kansas druggist, bet heavily that Roosevelt would carry Missouri. Missouri, at that time, was regarded as a part and parcel of the "solid South," and the wager provided considerable amusement for his fellow townsmen. The amusement turned to admiration after election, however, when the results showed the State in the Republican column.

But a friend of George's refused to credit his prophetic power and insisted that he tell where he had got the tip.
At last George confessed.

"To tell the truth, Jim," he said, "I was drunk that night and thought I was betting on Iowa."

FORDSON FAIR EXHIBIT WILL BE UNSURPASSED

To Be Greatest Demonstration of Its Kind Ever Held in This Country.

With the snorting of motors, the screaming of winches, the whining of steel cables, the clatter of loaders and huge shovels, and the bedlam of other mechanical noises, the Fordson Industrial Tractor Show now in progress at the Richmond State Fair is winning the unqualified endorsement of the thousands of visitors viewing this huge exposition.

Included in this demonstration, which is being given free of charge daily from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. up to and including October 10, are over one hundred mechanical exhibits all operated by tractors, and many of which have never before been shown as industrial adjuncts.

This monster demonstration is given for the purpose of acquainting municipal and industrial leaders of the territory, as well as leaders in agriculture, with the value and uses of the tractor.

At the show, a tractor equipped with locomotive wheels may be seen operating on railroad tracks hauling construction cars and other railroad equipment. This locomotive tractor shows that the gasoline engine is being utilized in many parts of the country to supersede steam as power.

In another part of the exhibit a huge derrick, is being operated by a winch installed as a part of the tractor itself.

A rock crusher moved into its location by tractor power and then operated by the same tractor that hauled it is being used in daily demonstrations to show road builders how their problems can be solved.

Other road-building machinery includes graders, ditchers, scrapers, block and pavement plows and plows which will cut their way through roots of trees.

Tractors are being shown loading trailer dump bodies which are then hauled by tractors, unloaded and brought back to where the excavating operations are in progress.

People have thought of the tractor purely as an agricultural implement. At this exhibit they can see how it has become effective, and is a part of the general industrial life—doing work easily, quickly and economically which heretofore has required special equipment and special engineering ability for its performance.

ROANOKE IS OPPOSED

That Section Against Call, Declares John W. Hancock in Talk.

Voters who participated in the forthcoming November election will have two tickets presented them when they enter the voting booths. One of the tickets will carry the names of the candidates for the United States Senate, and the candidates in the congressional districts, and the other ballot will contain the words "For a Constitutional Convention" and "Against a Constitutional Convention."

Virginia went through the heavy expense of a constitutional convention in 1902, and there followed sessions of the General Assembly in 1902, 1903 and 1904 during which the statutes were made to conform to the new Constitution.

Colonel John W. Williams, clerk of the House of Delegates, was asked yesterday what the cost of holding a constitutional convention would amount to, and he said a conservative estimate would be $750,000, as the convention could hardly get through its work within a year's time.

It was pointed out that after the constitutional convention had completed its duties, the General Assembly would have to be convened to change the existing statutes to conform to whatever changes were made by the constitutional convention, and it was roughly estimated that it would take at least eighteen months' time, in view of the fact that the 1902 changes necessitated sessions of the Legislature extending through the best part of three years.

The combined cost, then, if a constitutional convention would be more than $1,000,000.—Richmond-Times-Dispatch.

State Fair Opens October 2; Lasts Eight Days; Wonderful Program

Bright and early Monday morning, October 2nd, the gates of the great Virginia State Fair swing open for the big seventeenth annual exposition. This year the fair will continue for eight days, through Tuesday, October 10th. Following is the schedule of special days: Monday, October 2, Children's Day; Tuesday, October 3, Virginia Day; Wednesday, October 4, Richmond Day; Thursday, October 5, Farmers' Day; Friday, October 6, Homecoming Day; Saturday, October 7, Tournament Day; Monday, October 9, and Tuesday, October 10, Automobile Race Days.

Gates open daily at 8 A. M.; all exhibit buildings, the Midway and other attractions open at 9 A. M., and the big show continues without let-up or intermission until 11 o'clock at night. Judging of exhibits starts at 10 o'clock each morning. Cervone's Band concerts are another morning feature. The open air vaudeville and band concerts start in front of the grandstand at 2 P. M., and the races at 2:30 P. M. The flying circus is another afternoon feature. At 7:30 P. M. the night vaudeville performance takes place before the grandstand followed by Pain's fireworks.

Many new and improved features are to be seen for the first time. The splendid new cattle barn will attract many, also the new hog and sheep sheds, a large new addition to the poultry building and a new half mile race track which will be used in addition to the one mile track. The championship Tournament with crack riders from Southern States will be a delightful revival of old-time Virginia sports on Saturday, October 7 and automobile speed events on Monday and Tuesday will please auto race enthusiasts. The Fair management promises the most dazzling midway ever presented at any fair or exposition, while the exhibits of live-stock, agricultural products, boys and girls baby beef clubs, women's work, etc., are ahead of any previous Virginia State Fair.

All railroads are offering special excursion rates to Richmond for the State Fair.

To Maintain a Standard—is not always an easy task. In these times when the public is clamoring for something cheaper, it's a great temptation for merchants to cheapen their products. We have always refused to do this for the quality here must be kept up. We buy only the best and sell only the best—and at prices that are consistent with standard quality. Selling only meats we have no "baits" to throw out. Our only inducement for you to buy is: Quality plus Service and Sanitation. Our steadily increasing patronage warrants us in our belief to fight along this line and not be tempted to resort to the line of the least resistance. Your children will receive every kind attention here. May we serve you?

Miss Hudson organized a High School League last Friday afternoon with the following officers: Miss Harding, president; Misses Campbell and Prince, vice-presidents; Miss Bailey, secretary-treasurer. Miss Hudson is chairman of committee to arrange for an entertainment Halloween and Miss Campbell chairman of a committee to organize and arrange basket ball team. This league will meet the third Friday of each month and the object is to build up the school. All students of the high school are members and are expected to help the cause in every way possible.

Frederica Sauber, Jr., was a week-end visitor in the village.

Miss Ruth Rordon also spent the week-end at her home here, returning to her school at Ox Roads for the week's work.

Miss Georgie Marshall is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Douglas at Thoroughfare.

Mrs. Richards is able to be out again after an attack of rheumatism. Mr. G. A. Hall is also better of an attack of asthma lasting for two or three weeks.

Mrs. Margaret Detwiler was ill for several days last week.

Mr. Thomas Webb, of Mt. Rainier, Md., was a Sunday visitor, attending Sunday School and church much to the joy of his many friends here.

Mrs. Vernon spent the week-end in the City.

Miss Nancy Merchant is taking shorthand at Stewart's Business College, commuting daily.

Mr. V. V. Mason has closed his ice cream parlor for the season.

MINNIEVILLE

The Greenwood Primitive Baptist Church will hold a union meeting commencing on Friday, the 29th, at 2 o'clock, continuing Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. Jamison held services at the Presbyterian Church Sunday.

Miss Pauline Carter and Mr. Robert Potter, of Washington, motored to the home of Miss Carter, near Minnieville, and were married on last Wednesday, Elder W. M. Smoot performing the ceremony, after which dinner was served, and the young couple left for a northern wedding trip. Minnieville extends them hearty congratulations for a long, happy and prosperous life.

The Minnieville school opened last Monday with a good attendance. Miss Florence Lion, of Manassas, is teacher.

Quite a few of the folks attended the community fair on Saturday at Bethel.

Miss Ogie Bailey is on the sick list.

Mr. J. T. Clarke motored to Teaneck on Sunday, where he will visit his wife and little John Thomas, Jr. Mrs. Clarke and Jack have been visiting her home in Stafford for a few weeks.

Mr. Paul Clarke visited his parents over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. James Alexander and two daughters were week-end guests of Mr. Alexander's mother recently.

Mr. T. J. Davis was in town on business last week.

Messrs. D. C. Alexander and W. A. Windsor were Washington visitors last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Rush Herford were callers at the homes of Mr. C. E. Clarke and Mrs. W. A. Dane Sunday.

Miss Lucile Clarke had as her guests Sunday Miss Clara Carter and Messrs. D. C. Alexander and E. S. Kidwell.

DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN BOOK, 1922

One hundred and thirty-two pages of facts, figures and arguments make the Democratic Campaign Book for 1922 a valuable source of interesting and valuable information concerning the failures and faithlessness of the Harding administration and the permanent achievements of the two preceding Democratic administrations.

This Campaign Book will prove of indispensable usefulness not only to candidates, speakers and officials of the present campaign, but also to the voter, man or woman. The statistical matter and all the data regarding taxation, the tariff, governmental expenditures, legislation and other like subjects are from authoritative sources. Many of the indictments of the present Republican administration's breaches of faith, incompetence and reactionism are copied into the book from the speeches of Republican officials and editorials appearing in Republican newspapers.

All the issues of the present campaign are fully treated. The book will be a guide also to the understanding of the national campaign of 1924.

Individual copies of the Democratic Campaign Book will be supplied free of charge to National Committeemen and Committeewomen, State Chairmen, County Chairmen, Democratic candidates for the Senate and House of Representatives, listed Democratic speakers and to Democratic editors. The price to others and for extra copies will be ten cents the copy.

Closed Car Luxury Unsurpassed
The 1923 Six Cylinder Seven Passenger Sedan—$2195

A dignified beauty and richness unexcelled by any closed car mark the new Buick seven passenger sedan. Lengthening the body, lowering the top and raising hood and radiator have improved the streamline appearance made possible by the long wheel base and added attractiveness has been given by the handsome nicked drum-type head and cowl lamps.

The roomy Fisher built body is furnished in rich plush. Deep cushioned seats for five with two comfortable folding chairs accommodate seven grown persons with ample room for everyone.

The chassis has been improved materially and its easy riding qualities heightened by a new rear spring suspension. In the famous Buick Valve-in-Head engine, changes also have been made to increase dependable performance.

In every detail of body, chassis and power plant, this Sedan has no superiors among closed cars of even greater price.

ATLAS PORTLAND CEMENT

THE same spirit of progress that replaced the horse with the automobile, has replaced temporary, inflammable buildings with permanent fire-proof structures. One man has done much toward this change—your building material dealer—by heavy personal investment in slow moving, low profit stock—building materials. His judgment in favor of permanence is vindicated by its nation wide acceptance. His judgment on individual materials is equally good. He calls Atlas "the Standard by which all other makes are measured."

I Will Sell Bacon Hall Farm At Auction

ONLY 1200 FEET FROM HAYMARKET, VIRGINIA

MONDAY, OCT. 2, 1922

Commencing Promptly at 10 O'clock A. M., Rain or Shine

386 ACRES SUBDIVIDED

DINNER SERVED ON THE GROUNDS

LOCATION:—Right at Haymarket, and between Haymarket and Gainesville, both excellent shipping stations on the Southern Railway. Two railroad stations almost at your door; 40 miles from Washington, 12 miles from Warrenton, on the Warrenton and Fairfax Highway; also fronts the Catharpin Road.

DESCRIPTION AND SUBDIVISION:—All that portion of the farm lying near Haymarket is being subdivided in 5 and 10 acre tracts, fronting the Warrenton and Fairfax Highway. A broad avenue lined with beautiful trees furnishes the entrance to the home place, embracing the main residence, which will contain about 200 acres, 10-room two-story dwelling, set in a beautiful oak grove, on an eminence commanding a view of the entire surrounding country. Large horse barn, also large cattle barn with 100-ton silo, granary, meat house and all necessary outbuildings. One of the small tracts will contain a good 5-room house, now used as a tenant house, lying close to the main road. There will also be several tracts fronting the Catharpin Road. The farm is watered by Little Bull Run; over 300 acres, including all the 5 and 10-acre tracts, are in grass, ripe and ready for the plow, or ideal to continue as grazing land, as has been done in the past. Here is one you do not have to spend any money on.

HAYMARKET:—A progressive little town made up of as high-class citizenship as you will find in the State of Virginia; the kind of people you like to live among. Haymarket has several excellent stores, garages, churches and schools; the new bank has market has several excellent stores, garage, churches and schools, and the new bank has been organized, and the building is now being erected. You can do your banking, your shipping and your buying without burning a lot of gasoline, and your family can have the necessary social advantages without going 15 miles from home.

ATTEND THIS SALE:—Buy the home place—or buy a 5 or 10 acre tract, and cast your lot in a progressive, broad-minded community. The citizens of Haymarket will welcome you, as they are working to build their town, and they are building it.

SOUVENIRS:—Simply as an advertisement, $100.00 in gold will be given away at this sale; you do not have to be a purchaser in order to participate for the souvenirs and the gold.

THE TERMS WILL BE EASY, AND WILL BE ANNOUNCED AT THE SALE.

My fourteen years' experience in selling real estate exclusively at public auction, having conducted more than 500 sales, and my complete and trained organization, enables me to serve both buyer and seller in a rapid and businesslike manner, and I will not consume your valuable time and mine by dwelling several hours on each tract of land. When you stop bidding, I SELL IT. Be on time at this sale. My signature to this advertisement is your guarantee of a square deal.
