

STATE NEWS NOTES

Billy Sunday Teams Active.

With the spiritual revival following the Billy Sunday campaign gathering momentum in the city of Lynchburg as well as in outlying territory for a radius of many miles, the coming week promises to be the busiest one the Billy Sunday Club teams have had since they took up the work left for them at the close of the major campaign. In addition to conducting numerous shop and factory meetings during the coming week, these being held during the lunch hour of factory workers, the teams from the club will conduct one evangelistic campaign each night during the week and assist in another straight through the week.

Foul Play Feared.

Relatives of J. T. Robinson, 24, farmer residing near Beach, Chesterfield County, are appealing to police and newspapers to find the young man who disappeared October 16, following his visit to a local warehouse, where he secured $160 for a load of tobacco. His whereabouts is a mystery, and relatives fear foul play. He has a wife and two small children. As far as could be learned he has not experienced trouble of any kind. It is said he has relatives in North Carolina and Mexico.

Patrick Henry's Grandson Dies.

J. Mattauer Carrington, 74, of South Boston, died in Grace Hospital, Richmond, on Saturday, November 18. He was the son of Dr. Cabell Carrington, of Halifax Courthouse, and a grandson of Patrick Henry.

Mr. Carrington leaves a widow, one daughter, Mrs. Minnie Waddell, of Clover; two grandsons, and one granddaughter, Mrs. Byrd Hart, of Lynchburg. He was a brother of Richard Bruce Carrington, of Forest Hill; Walter Carrington, of Spartansburg, S. C., and C. C. Carrington, of Halifax, and one sister, Mrs. J. W. Beale, of Maryland. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at South Boston.

May Identify Skeleton By Teeth.

All hope of identifying the skeleton of the man found in the woods near Partlock last Sunday rests with local dentists according to police. It is hoped that some dentist, when furnished a chart of the work done on the teeth of the unidentified man, will be able to recognize his work and the characteristic formation of the teeth.

Extraordinary Record of Service.

Philip I. LeCompte, assistant engineer on the steamer Potomac, of the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia Railway Co., that plies on the Chesapeake Bay between Norfolk and Baltimore, and up the Rappahannock River, holds what is believed to be one of the most extraordinary records of service of any marine engineer on the Chesapeake Bay. He has covered the equivalent of forty-seven times around the globe on the Potomac, making an average of 1,100 miles per week and has gone a distance of nearly 1,500,000 miles.

Ninety-Year-Old Veteran Dead.

Father of twenty children, thirty great-grandchildren, William Henry Hall, 90-year-old Confederate veteran, died in Richmond November 18.

Seven of the children were by his first marriage and the other thirteen by the second. Fifteen are living, the oldest, 62. The baby is 5 years old.

Mr. Hall was born in Botetourt county, but spent most of his life in Goochland county as a farmer. Three years ago he moved to Richmond, where practically all of his children and grandchildren live.

He served in the Confederate army, in the Forty-fourth Regiment, Company D. Virginia Infantry, for four years, and was shot twice. He was captured in the battle of Chancellorsville and was taken to the prison at Elmira, N. Y. His command was under Stonewall Jackson.

Liquor Found In Attic.

George Burford, proprietor of a taxi service in Lynchburg, who recently purchased a $10,000 residence in Grace street, was arrested Saturday following a raid on his home by local police, whom they found forty-six gallons of liquor in the attic of the residence. The police also report finding numerous containers, which had apparently been used in handling liquor previously.

In the house the police found a rifle and Burford was also charged with having firearms near the hidden liquor.

Shortly after being taken to police headquarters Burford secured bail in penalty of $10,000 for appearance in the Police Court for preliminary trial under the two charges.

A GREAT MIND IN RELAXATION

The world is gratefully aware of the marvelous uses which Thomas A. Edison has made of his working hours; the entire civilized section of the race looks to him as one of its greatest benefactors. But, unhappily, it may not be said that the revered wizard always contributes so solidly out of his leisure. Perhaps he has taken so few spare moments in the course of a long career that their use has never impressed him as particularly worthy of concern. In any case, the fruits of his idle-hour reflections occasionally compare very poorly indeed with the rich gifts of his application to laboratory pursuits. And not the least pertinent side of the matter is that his achievements have so elevated him in the public mind as to give an authoritative flourish to his utterances on almost any subject under the sun.

Mr. Edison's recent remarks on the attitude of college men toward work, hard work, doubtless have some foundation in fact and in his own experience; and yet they may not be said to represent the whole truth or half the truth. It might reasonably be inferred from the interview that Mr. Edison is altogether without respect for college education. His observation had been, it appeared, that college men felt themselves to be above hard, manual labor; were averse to getting their hands or clothes soiled; expected promotion to an executive or managerial position almost immediately. For Mr. Edison's purposes, readers must have gathered, college men are relatively valueless.

In this there is a most unfortunate and unfair implication. The reply of President Gray, of Bates College, is sustained by the experience of thousands whose contact with college-trained men has been fully equal to that of Mr. Edison: "The majority of college students are not afraid to look dirt in the face." And President Gray continues with this significant remark—its soundness must be known to every one who has had the slightest contact with American colleges: "More than half of the boys here are earning a part or all of their way through college, and Bates is no exception. . . . There are thousands of young men now in college who are practicing the gospel of hard work."

There are many collegians, undoubtedly, who have no taste for hard work; there are vastly more out of college—who have never spent one day in college—who feel precisely the same way about labor. There are wasters and brainless no-accounts everywhere. But they are not predominant among the young men and women who are crowding the college halls of the country in the search for an education.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

IMPEACHMENT PROCEEDINGS

History records few instances of impeachment proceedings in Congress against officials of the United States. Since 1797 but nine impeachment trials have engaged the attention of Congress, and of these six resulted in acquittals. The Constitution, while providing this means for the removal from office of even the highest among the nation's servants when they have been found incapable of a proper performance of their duties or have perverted the powers of office, does not in letter or in spirit countenance impeachment proceedings by the Congress except as a last resort to relieve a situation that has become intolerable or is a distinct menace to the national safety. Haphazard or superficial allegations against an official have never been considered to justify even the suggestion of impeachment. Yet such proceedings have from time to time been loosely talked about in Congress and occasionally even threatened without the shadow of reason against men occupying high positions of honor and trust in the public service.

For a member of Congress to rise in his place and ask the impeachment of an officer of the government is a serious matter, and that member is assuming a grave responsibility. No member, it has been assumed, who is mindful of his oath would exercise this privilege to gain personal or partisan advantage. None, it is believed, would ever receive the support of his colleagues in making such an attempt. A demand for impeachment, therefore, is a matter for the gravest consideration. It can not be treated lightly, nor can it command serious respect unless accompanied by basically sound evidence.

Every consideration of fairness will support Attorney General Daugherty in his demand that the charges made against him in a pending House resolution be immediately investigated by the committee on the judiciary. The Attorney General has the right to know the exact nature of the charges, and has written a letter to Chairman Volstead indicating his readiness to go before the committee at any moment and face his accusers. If his opponents can show a reasonable probability that he has been guilty of an impeachable offense, the House may be relied upon to take the action necessary to bring him to trial before the Senate, sitting as a high court of impeachment. If they can not make such a showing, the nation will have the right to know that the charges are lacking in substantial basis and that a very serious mistake has been made. And, under such circumstances, Mr. Daugherty has the sacred right to a public vindication, and one that should stand as a warning against those in the future who would go to extremes in harassing government officials in the discharge of their duty to the people. Moreover, the country also has the right to know whether charges of this grave character may be made indiscriminately against an officer of the government and, if so, what recourse the official has, if any, against those who might attempt to besmirch his character because of personal enmity or for partisan gain.

Until it has been proved by constitutional methods that the Attorney General is not deserving of the full confidence of the American people, Mr. Daugherty will continue to enjoy the respect and moral support of all fair-minded citizens.—Washington Post.

LOVE EVERLASTING

Life everlasting—ah, what would it be
Were not love everlasting a part of the scheme?
How little we'd know and how little we'd see
Were it not for the light of love's beautiful dream!
How dull we would grow and how weary of all
Except for the roses love's fingers let fall!

We must work, we must wait, we must suffer and bear,
We must face every sorrow and meet every care
But we smile through the struggle because of the light
Of love everlasting that gleams mid the tears,
A ray that shall guide us through danger and night
To the rest and the rime of the beautiful years!

Love everlasting—no sun that goes down
In a shadow of dusk, but a beauty that glows
When the tides of the battle creep on with their frown,
And we turn from the bramble to find life a rose!
To find it made sweet by the love that shall last
When the toil and the tears and the danger have past!

We must sing, we must sob, we must lose, we must gain,
We must smile like a summer through sorrow and pain—
But the more that we weep, that we suffer, and know,
The more will love's beauty be borne to us sweet.
With its light and its laughter, its life and its glow,
And each day like a rose life has cast at our feet!
—The Benstown Bard.

LAUGH AND LIVE

Two fathers of growing families were discussing the rearing and upbringing of children.

"Yes," said one, "a great deal depends on the formation of early habits."

"It does," said the other, smiling. "My mother employed a woman to wheel me about when I was a baby, and I have been pushed for money ever since."—Epworth Herald.

Booth Tarkington tells of an old colored man who appeared as a witness before one of our committees. In the course of his examination these questions were put to the man: "What is your name?" "Calhoun Clay, sah." "Can you sign your name?" "Sah?" "I ask if you can write your name." "Well, no sah. Ah nebber writes ma name. Ah dictates it, sah."—Atlanta Chronicle.

First Lady (in village shop, speaking to another patron) — "Would you mind if I made my small purchase first? We have a horse outside and he won't keep quiet."
Lady — "Certainly; but you won't be very long, will you? I have a husband outside, and he's rather restive, too."
— Punch.

Mother — "Sometimes there are rude boys in Sunday School who giggle and smile at little girls, and sometimes little girls, smile back at them, but I hope my little girl does not behave like that."

Small Daughter — "No indeed, mama; I always put out my tongue at 'em."—Boston Transcript.

Student — "Has not fortune ever knocked at your door?"
Beggar — "He did once; but I was out. Ever since he has sent his daughter."

Student — "His daughter, who is she?"
Beggar — "Why, Miss Fortune, of course."—Beantop.

"And what did the poor little dog do when you brutal boys tied the can to his tail?"
"Oh, he just went broadcastin' down the road."—Philadelphia Retail Ledger.

"Would you call Mrs. Gowitt a good conversationalist?"
"Yes and no. She makes you think of a lot of good things to say, but she talks so incessantly you don't get a chance to say them."—Boston Transcript.

He had been going with the girl for a long time, but though he had faced the terrors of the trenches and even the horrors of the Hun, yet he still hesitated.

"Dearest," said the girl finally, "didn't you once say that you would do anything for the best? Didn't you once ask me to put your devotion to the test?"

"Indeed I did," he responded warmly. "There is nothing in the world I would not do, no sacrifice I would not make to prove to you how much I think of you."
"Well then," said the maid, "ask me to marry you. We've fooled around long enough."

NOT WALKING

Conductor — "Here, you must not smoke in this car."
Irishman — "I'm not smoking."
Conductor — "Well, you have your pipe in your mouth."
Irishman — "Yes, I've got me feet in me shoes, but I'm not walkin'."

Buzz-Saw, Hammer and Crowbar in Surgical Operation

A buzz-saw, two axes, a crowbar and numerous and sundry nails and hammers were held in readiness tonight for one of the most unusual surgical operations in elephant history, says a report dispatched from New York.

It will not be a gland operation because "Hattie" is only 35 years old, and there is no pachydermically speaking.

Dr. J. H. Snyder, veterinarian emeritus of the Central Park Zoo, has been summoned here to save the giant elephant's life.

It is stated that the suffering from a kind of Bright's disease and an operation has been declared necessary to save her life.

"Fifty gallons of chloroform will be necessary to anaesthetize 'Hattie'."

The 1923 SUPERIOR Chevrolet
 4-Passenger Sedanette

Here is the first motor car of this character ever offered in the less-than-1000 class. It is a social and sport car of refined type at the astonishingly low price of $850. It carries an air of distinction, especially appreciated by women. The beautifully designed Fisher Body seats four in comfort. Trunk at rear is regular equipment.

QUALITY has been still further improved by more artistic design and added equipment.

ECONOMY has been still further increased by engineering refinements and greatly increased facilities.

SERVICE is now offered on a flat rate basis by 10,000 dealers and service stations.

PRICES of the new line remain the same in spite of added equipment and more expensive construction, which have greatly increased value.

Some Distinctive Features

- Streamline body design with high hood, vacuum feed and rear gasoline tank on all models; drum type head lamps with lens lenses. Captains open doors of open models. Closed models have plate glass Tornado windows, straight side door tires, sun visor, windshield wiper and dash light. The Sedanette is equipped with auto trunk on rear.

A Concrete Storage Cellar Will Save Your Crop for Winter Use

Furnace heat in house cellars makes an outside cellar necessary for storing vegetables, fruits, preserves and other winter necessities. You can build a Concrete storage cellar that will save crops that might be spoiled without it. A good design is shown above and we will furnish full detail plans with which you can build it yourself. Or we will put you in touch with a reliable contractor who can do it quickly and inexpensively.

This is only one of many practical Concrete Improvements you can put in. Improvements that will save your time, make your work easier, and add a real dollar and cents value to your place. Concrete is the Farmer's best building material because the things that make Concrete are the easiest materials for you to work with. And when you get done, your work will be worth many times the small cost for materials and labor. You can even work on Concrete Improvements this winter by following a few easy rules for making and placing Concrete in cold weather. Spend some time this winter making your place more profitable.

USE SECURITY CEMENT for STRENGTH

Security Cement comes to you ready to use. You can get any quantity for any size job. You ought to have a few bags in the barn all the time for odd jobs around the place. Security Cement is standard; guaranteed by most Government specification, and specially adapted to the needs of the farmer and home owner. It is supreme in this territory.

We are of your opinion with practical help in planning and making Concrete Improvements, no matter what they are. Or we will put you in touch with reliable contractors who will do the work for you quickly, safely and economically.

We sell SECURITY CEMENT for every purpose and are at your service with practical help every day of our week.

Ce-re-alia Sweets

Leave it to The Cow

You can't tell much about a cow's feed just by looking at it. You have got to see it eat it to the bottom, and see if it really pays.

You can tell by looking at Ce-re-alia Sweets that it is fresh, clean and free from dust. It smells good. The label shows the eight well-known milk making feeds of which it is composed, and whether you are going to make money by feeding it.

The only way to satisfy yourself that Ce-re-alia Sweets will actually make more milk or richer milk, is to feed it to one of your cows, and watch the result.

Try Ce-re-alia Sweets Four Weeks at Our Risk

Feed Ce-re-alia Sweets to any cow in your herd for four weeks. If she doesn't give more milk or better milk—if she doesn't show you a bigger profit, you will get every cent of your money back. Ask us for details.

NOTICE

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 17, 1922. To Whom It May Concern: This is to certify that I have this 17th day of October, 1922, appointed C. J. Meetze, of Manassas, Va., my agent, with full power and authority to take charge and operate for me my farm, containing 1,912 acres, located in Prince William and Fairfax counties, known as "Ben Lomond;" also to see after any business which has arisen from the operation of the farm in the past and to act in all matters for me, and in my stead, concerning the operation of the said farm. Witness my hand and seal this the 17th day of October, 1922. F. W. BRUCH.

NOTICE

The Public Take Notice: Ben Lomond Farm has recently been assigned by its owner, Mr. F. W. Bruch, to the state of Virginia, as a bird and game sanctuary. This means that no hunting or trapping will be allowed upon this farm by any person, white or black, under the penalty of the law, and the law will surely be enforced. This notice in regard to the state of Virginia having taken over this farm for this purpose was published last week, and persons have ignored it, but the game warden is going to be on the job, and if people will insist upon coming upon property without permission, they will do so at their own cost. This notice means all. C. J. MEETZE, Mgr. Ben Lomond Farm.

CLIFTON

The Rev. T. H. MacLeod preached Sunday morning at usual hour in the Presbyterian Church on the subject of "Putting on the Lord Jesus." Rev. C. H. Fry gave an account of his visit to the Convention recently held in Norfolk, to his congregation in the Baptist Church at night. Miss Harding had her friend Miss Blankenbaker, of Washington, to spend the week-end with her. Miss Harding entertained a number of the young people Saturday night in her honor. A young son of Mr. and Mrs. Brown Beach, is critically ill at their home here. Mr. Charles Croesen, who has been quite ill, is slowly improving. Mrs. Young and her small daughter are expected back to Mr. Luther Burke's this week. Mr. Sam Hensberger and three sons, of Midland, were visitors in the neighborhood Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Landes Detwiler have moved from near Midland to the old Compton place recently bought by Mr. William E. Detwiler, of Philadelphia. Mr. J. E. Brown is home sick. Mr. Willard Webb, who has returned from a surveying trip to Arizona for the government, was a recent visitor at the home of Mrs. Margaret Detwiler. Dr. J. H. Ferguson's cook, Landonia Johnson, became the bride of James Robinson in Washington last week. Who will be the next? Mrs. A. D. Bauserman has returned from Pittsburgh where she attended the funeral of her brother-in-law, who in the streets of Pittsburgh was killed by being struck by a truck. Many will remember the son, Ralph Wells, who visits Mr. and Mrs. Bauserman every summer. He is survived by two older sons and his wife, who is Mrs. Bauserman's sister.

TOKEN

Preaching services were held at Purcell School Sunday, conducted by Rev. Mr. Lawson. Miss Lola Cornwell, of Baltimore, is visiting her parents here. A league meeting was held at Purcell School Saturday night. Mr. C. J. Meetze, accompanied by four talented young ladies from Eastern College Conservatory, added a most interesting feature to the meeting. The recitals of these young ladies were certainly fine and well worth coming out to hear, although the weather was unfavorable. We were sorry to note the absence of Mrs. Chandler, but the school children spoke their pieces well, the program being called off by their old friend, Mrs. Dell Corawell. The meeting was adjourned by Mr. Hensley, to meet again December, 16. Don't think we have ever known the farmers to be so well up with their work this early in the fall. Mr. Richard Cornwell, of Baltimore, is visiting relatives here. He and his brother, Harry, have recently purchased an automobile. Mr. Berkley Fair, who has been employed near Alexandria for some time, is home at this writing. Mr. John Fair is indisposed with lumbago.

UPPER PRINCE WILLIAM

Mrs. W. E. Tyler, of Aldie, Loudoun county, was badly burned about the head and face recently when the steam blew the top from a can of water which was boiling on the stove. The Aldie Hunting Club has made a record catch of 'coons and 'possums this fall, having captured eight coons and twenty-one 'possums in less than two weeks. Mr. James Furgerson is quite sick at his home near Aldie. Mrs. L. A. Turner is visiting at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Roster, in Washington, this week. Mrs. T. Gales Hutchison was hostess at a meeting of the Hickory Grove Good Housekeepers' Club on Saturday, November 12. An oyster supper and bazaar for the benefit of the Episcopal Church will be held at Aldie High School on Friday night, December 1. Mrs. Roy Rhodes, of Washington, is spending some time with her mother, Mrs. C. E. Skinner, near Little River Church. Aldie high school will soon have electric lights, arrangements having been made with Mr. Carrol Tyler to install them at once.

WOODLAWN

The civic and school improvement league will hold its regular meeting December 1st at 7:30 p. m. Program of songs and recitations. Mr. G. W. Beach will give us a talk on how much work it will take to get an education. We will also have a box party and pie social. The public is cordially invited. Don't forget the date—December 1st (Friday), at 7:30 p. m.

GAINED OFFICE WITH CROWBAR

Famous Connecticut Governor, Senator and Insurance Magnate, Expires.

Morgan Gardner Bulkeley, president of the Aetna Life Insurance Company since 1879; mayor of Hartford, Conn., from 1880 to 1888; governor of Connecticut from 1889 to 1893, and United States senator from 1905 to 1911, died at his Hartford home recently, after an illness of three weeks. He was born at East Haddam, December 26, 1837. The death of Mr. Bulkeley recalls the famous legislative deadlock of 1891, when he forced his way into the executive chamber at Hartford with a crowbar. The term of office to which Mr. Bulkeley had been elected as governor expired in January, 1891. Under the state constitution, as it stood at that time, a majority of all the votes cast was necessary to elect a governor and, where there was no such majority, the election fell to the general assembly. There was a dispute as to the legality of rejecting about 1,800 so-called "speckled" ballots, cast in 1890, which had been thrown out by the counters at the polls. Luzon B. Morris, the democratic candidate for governor, had a plurality of about 4,000 over Samuel E. Mervin, republican, but, if these rejected votes were included in the total, he still would lack a majority. The republican house insisted on canvassing the votes and the democratic senate refused, so that it was impossible to declare anyone governor. The only state officer elected was the comptroller, a democrat, who had a clear majority. Under those circumstances Governor Bulkeley held over through failure to choose a successor. The comptroller refused to admit him to the state house, and then followed the incident with the crowbar at the state house door. The supreme court decided that he was de facto governor. Governor Bulkeley "held the fort" for two years after his own term had expired, but the democratic senate refused to recognize his authority. The deadlock episode led to a constitutional amendment that provides for election of state officers by a plurality of the votes. Young Bulkeley left school at an early age and became an errand boy in Brooklyn, N. Y., later becoming a member of the firm by which he was employed.

BRENTSVILLE

Mr. Edward Earhart spent several days in the mountains hunting, recently. Miss Louise Suthard has gone to Washington, where she will make her home. Mrs. Whetzel, of Nokesville, visited Miss Dora Lam last week. Mr. H. S. Lam is spending some time in Washington. Mrs. E. H. Keys has been quite sick. Miss Olive Holsinger, of Washington, spent the week-end at her home here. Mrs. Elmer Landes and children, of Washington, have been visiting her father, Mr. E. H. Keys. Mr. John Donovan has accepted a position in Washington. Miss Myrtle May was a recent Washington visitor. Homer Kell of Primary Grades of Brentsville School. HAYMARKET

The Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Moore Brown, who left on Saturday for their new home in St. John's Parish, Lynchburg, were given a farewell reception at the parish hall on Friday afternoon by the Woman's Guild of St. Paul's Church, of which Mrs. Brown was president. The hall was beautifully decorated and arranged for the occasion, the decorations consisting of small pine trees, with which the windows were darkened, potted ferns, autumn leaves and chrysanthemums. The table decorations were rhyssanthemums and lighted candles. Ices, confections, cakes and coffee were served by members of the guild. A large number of guests was present, and included about fifty of the Sunday School children. Mrs. Brown was presented with a bunch of pink roses by the guild.

Mr. James Hulfish, of Alexandria, was a Haymarket visitor on Sunday. Mr. O. B. Barksdale has recently been appointed station agent for Haymarket and has taken charge of the work. He will be joined by Mrs. Barksdale and their two children on the first of December.

The moving pictures at the Parish Hall will be closed for the season on Saturday evening, when William S. Hart, in "The Testing Block," will be shown.

A community league was organized on Wednesday evening by Mr. C. J. Meetez, with the following officers elected: President, R. A. Rust; vice-president, Mrs. M. F. Lightner; secretary, A. B. Rust; treasurer, T. O. Latham. Twenty-five members were enrolled. The first meeting is scheduled for December 15, when it is expected that an interesting program will be presented.

The residence being built by Mr. W. M. Jordan, on Carolina Road, is almost completed and will be occupied by Mr. Smedley and his family.

Miss Mary Anne Tyler, of Washington, is at her home here for a visit.

GAINESVILLE

Mr. Grafton McGill, of Washington, spent Sunday with his sisters, Misses Inno and Loretta McGill.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Graham, of Washington, spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Graham's sister, Miss Louise Cave.

Mr. Homer Heflin has gone on a business trip to Baltimore.

Mrs. Berghalder Clark is visiting friends in Washington and later will go to New Jersey on a visit.

Mr. Winston Carter, a former Prince William county boy, who for a number of years has been engaged in business in New York state, has been visiting relatives here and looking after "Erindale" farm, near Hickory Grove, once the home of the Carter family, where Mr. Carter is planning to build and move his family; in the meantime they will occupy a home in Manassas.

Misses Loretta and Inno McGill and Miss Lucy Buckner motored to Washington on Wednesday.

Recent visitors to Gainesville were Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Hoop, of New Baltimore; Mr. H. H. Johnson, of Washington, and Mr. M. M. Washington, of Greenwich.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Strother attended the Washington Poultry Show.

Mr. Boyd Beach is a clerk in the store of Mr. Heflin, succeeding Mr. John Sweeney, jr., who has been suffering from an infected eye.

Dr. W. J. Wittig, federal dairy and farm inspector, was in Gainesville on Monday, inspecting the modern and model dairy equipment of Dr. E. H. Marsteller at "Melbourne Farm," near Gainesville.

Owing to the enterprise of Mr. Roland, of Haymarket, the dairymen of the neighborhood are now able to market their milk on Sunday. Mr. Roland either sends the milk to Warren-ton by truck, where it is shipped to Washington, or sends it direct to that city.

Highway Nearing Completion

Proper publicity for the Lee-Jackson Memorial highway, extending from Washington through Fairfax, Aldie and Ashby's Gap to Winchester, where it connects with the Shenandoah Valley Pike and half a dozen other trunk lines, is to be given by the American Automobile Association, according to an agreement made with the Chamber of Commerce here, has been announced by Andrew Bell, secretary of the latter organization.

A. G. Seiler, general manager of the automobile society, is to make a trip by automobile over the road November 24 for the purpose of logging it and making strip maps for the association's road books. Completion of the Lee-Jackson road, now under construction, will shorten the distance between Washington and Winchester about thirty miles.

To Maintain a Standard—

is not always an easy task. In these times when the public is clamoring for something cheaper, it's a great temptation for merchants to cheapen their products. We have always refused to do this for the quality here must be kept up. We buy only the best and sell only the best—and at prices that are consistent with a standard quality. Selling only meats we have no "baits" to throw out. Our only inducement for you to buy is: Quality plus Service and Sanitation. Our steadily increasing patronage warrants us in our belief to fight along this line and not be tempted to resort to the line of the least resistance. Your children will receive every kind attention here. May we serve you?

The Buick They Judge By

The Model "45" Six-Cylinder Touring—$1195

The famous Buick five-passenger, six-cylinder open model today, as in past years, sets the standard of automobile value.

It is the motor car by which others are judged because it represents the best of each year's developments in mechanical refinements, appearance and riding comfort.

The Buick Model "45" combines the characteristic Buick qualities of performance and stability with distinctive beauty and a completeness of appointments not to be found elsewhere.

We'll be pleased to give you a demonstration any time.
