PICKETT MAKES CHARGE

National Prohibition Speaker Assails the Forces of Rum Tuesday and Wednesday.

"The Kentucky Gatling Gun" was in action in Manassas on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. The shots fired were against the greatest curse in America, the licensed saloon. All who were able to hear L. L. Pickett, minister, evangelist, singer, author, prohibition lecturer and a recent candidate for the governorship of Kentucky, went away with a full appreciation of why he is called "The Kentucky Gatling Gun."

On Tuesday evening Mr. Pickett spoke before a good-sized audience at Grace Methodist Church. This lecture was of more or less an introductory character and in it he gave much valuable information in regard to the need for national prohibition and the success which the temperance forces are meeting with in this country.

At the Manassas Baptist Church Mr. Pickett gave his second address on Wednesday evening.

Here again he spoke to a fair-sized audience and his lecture was most enthusiastically received. In both addresses Mr. Pickett proved to be a man of much forcefulness and of wide acquaintance with all temperance matters. His addresses were listened to with great interest and were heartily commented upon. Among the ideas brought out on Wednesday evening were the following:

We should take our bearings and line up with God on any and every issue. Always line up with Jesus, the side opposite to that taken by the devil. Life is a sacred thing and no man should do things that are evil. You can not be on the fence between God and the devil for there is no fence between them. This life is a big battle between opposing forces on all sides.

When a community licenses a saloon every citizen in the community has an interest in the business. As long as there is a saloon or a distillery in this country the citizens of the country will be partners in the nefarious business. Why, every one of us is now engaged in the business, whether we live in dry territory or wet. The ballot should be considered as a great instrument for good or evil. The ballot is a register of your conviction, a concentrated man.

The question to settle is whether the liquor traffic is not the greatest evil. When a very conservative estimate of the annual expenditures of this country for liquors is given as over two billion dollars we see the immensity of the one and only thing which is causing the hard times of the country. The 600,000 people now engaged in the business will not be forced out of work, but will be forced to work—they now live as parasites upon the other citizens of the country.

The lawlessness of the liquor traffic is one of the biggest arguments for prohibition. The government is a party to every crime that is due to liquor and the majority of crimes can be traced back to liquor. It is now time to give the politician to understand that he must vote right on this biggest of all issues. The parties of the country must adopt a prohibition plank in their platforms and it is now aimed to get 5,000,000 voters signed up making this request, which will be presented to the big national conventions to be held next year.

HE VISITS WORKHOUSE

Senator Works Finds Occoquan Institution Efficient and Sanitary.

The District workhouse, at Occoquan, Va., is an efficient and sanitary institution, in the opinion of Senator Works, of California, who made a tour of inspection through the reservation Wednesday. Senator Works is a member of the joint select committee of Congress charged with the duty of reporting to Congress on the fiscal relations between the United States and the District. His visit to Occoquan was made in connection with his work on the committee, and he plans to visit many of the government institutions in Washington, including the engine houses, the police stations and the hospitals. Senator Works was accompanied on his trip to Occoquan by John Joy Edson, president of the board of charities, and George M. Wilson, secretary of the board.

"The institution at Occoquan was one of the bright spots," said Senator Works. He is of the opinion that the federal government has not done enough for the District of Columbia under the existing half-and-half plan, and he believes that there are many "dark spots," such as the Washington Asylum Hospital and the alley slums, which should be done away with. —Washington Star.

NEXT FARMERS' INSTITUTE

Live Stock and Smith-Lever Act To Be Discussed at Meeting

On December 17.

[By E. K. Watson, Secretary N. V. F. I.]

The Northern Virginia Farmers' Institute will hold its next meeting at the courthouse in Manassas on Friday December 17.

At this meeting "The Care of Live Stock" will be one of the main objects of discussion. Live stock occupies, and always will occupy, an important place on every farm and the proper care of animals on the farm is a subject that should be given a great deal of thought and attention by the farmer. This subject will be discussed by a specialist and everyone who is fortunate enough to hear this speaker will surely learn something that will be of benefit to him in the care of his live stock.

Another subject that will be taken up and discussed fully is the act recently passed by Congress commonly known as the Smith-Lever Act. Under this act a large sum of money is appropriated annually to each state for the purpose of bettering farm conditions. Just the amount of money that is appropriated each year and just how the money is to be spent will be clearly explained at this meeting. As this act gives more money to the farmer of America in the way of instruction etc., and was passed for the special benefit of the farmer, every farmer should know and has a right to know how the money is to be spent.

The question of a county fair for Prince William county next year will also be discussed. There is no reason why we should not have a fair next fall. It will mean work, but anything that is not worth working for is not worth having. Let us have a good crowd the 17. Come and bring someone with you.

Would Make Nation "Dry"

Senator Sheppard, of Texas, will reintroduce the national prohibition amendment in the Senate, and Representative Webb, of North Carolina, probably will offer the same proposition in the House of Representatives.

There has been no conference of the prohibition forces in Congress; neither is the exact strength of the proposed amendment known.

Senator Sheppard has also said he would reintroduce his bill making the District of Columbia "dry." —Exchange.

AIDING LITERARY CLUBS TO ASSIST FIRE COMPANY

Valuable Bulletin Just issued by Extension Bureau of State University.

[U. Va. News Bulletin]

For the purpose of encouraging the formation of the literary societies in schools, and of assisting societies already organized, and also for the purpose of stimulating an interest in public discussion and debate among adult members of communities, the University of Virginia, through its extension bureau, has published a bulletin which should be of great interest and have a wide circulation.

The bulletin, which is the first issue of an extension series, makes suggestions for the organization of high school literary clubs or athletic leagues, gives a model constitution, and parliamentary forms and rules with many illustrations of points of order and how to meet them. The third division of the bulletin is taken up with some interesting briefs for debates, giving the arguments and authorities on each side of such public questions as capital punishment, compulsory education, consolidation of rural schools, good roads, international disarmament, literary test for immigration, recall of judges, ship subsidies, and woman's suffrage. There are also included a number of references on debate and parliamentary procedure.

The extension bulletins are published under the direction of a committee of which Professor Charles G. Maphis, acting dean of the University and director of the summer session, is the chairman.

"It is hoped," said Professor Maphis, "that the manual will prove valuable not only to pupils in school societies, but to members of organizations of any sort where business is conducted and where debate and discussion are indulged in. Farmers' meetings, women's clubs, church societies and social organizations of every kind, should find the rules of procedure herein outlined of value to them in dispatching business in an orderly and parliamentary fashion."

Other bulletins in press will give a debate and discussion on the subjects of good roads, a list of the lecturers available from the University faculty for extension work throughout the State and the subjects of their lectures. This will be of greater scope and more general interest than before. There will also be published in the near future a high school quarterly for school officials and high school teachers. Copies of the bulletins will be sent free of charge to any one making application.

"BULLETS IN NOBLER WAR"

Red Cross Seals Hoped to Rival Output of Munitions Factories.

With the factories of America turning out millions of shells every month to be used in the European war, the Virginia Anti-tuberculosis Association is endeavoring to rival this output by placing in the hands of those who will use what are termed "bullets in a nobler war" in a circular sent out by the association Wednesday.

"Millions are being spent," says the association, "to destroy human life and factories are working night and day to manufacture shells for that purpose. Here in America, the annual Red Cross Christmas seal campaign is designed to save human life endangered by the ravages of the great white plague. America could not better show its real sentiment than by making this year memorable for the great contributions to the prevention of disease."

Red Cross Christmas seals are now on sale in most towns and cities or can be ordered direct from the offices of the association, 1110 Capitol street, Richmond.

Town Council at Monday Evening Meeting So Directs O. E. Newman.

The November meeting of the town council was held at the town hall on Monday evening with Mayor W. C. Wagener and Councilmen E. R. Conner, C. R. C. Johnson, C. E. Nash, O. E. Newman, A. Speiden, Wm. M. Wheeler and H. D. Wenrich present. Councilmen C. M. Larkin and T. F. Coleman were absent.

Building permits were granted as follows:

To John H. Burke to erect a garage on his lot on Grant avenue.

To F. P. Bell to erect a one story building on the property of Mrs. Runaldue on Grant avenue.

The mayor reported three fines and the sergeant reported dirt sold to Mr. Rosenberger.

The plumber's bond of C. Wade Dalton was presented to the council and was ordered filed.

It was ordered that Councilman O. E. Newman be appointed a special committee to investigate the matter of purchasing fire hose and is authorized and empowered to purchase such hose as he may deem necessary.

F. C. Rorabaugh and others made application for an electric light to be placed on Center street in front of F. C. Rorabaugh's property. The matter was referred to Public Utilities Committee for report.

Report of Supt. G. L. Rosenberger for month of November was received and ordered filed.

A number of bills were examined, passed and ordered to be paid.

Representatives of The Manassas Volunteer Fire Company appeared before the body and asked for control over the fire apparatus. Councilman O. E. Newman was authorized to carry out such suggestions as he thought best and to assist the company in every way.

At 9:30 o'clock the council went into executive session to discuss weighty matters.

The report of the Public Utilities Committee was read and ordered filed.

It was moved that the communication of R. M. Weir, relative to the sergeantship, and the applications of others for this position be held over until the next meeting.

After a motion, duly seconded, it was ordered that Chairman Johnson's report on the expenditure of the $75,000 bond money be published.

The next regular meeting of the town council will be on December 27, 1915.

LAYING OF CORNERSTONE

Minnieville Catholic Church To Have Ceremony on December 5.

The Right Reverend D. J. O'Connell, Bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Richmond, Va., will be at Minnieville on Sunday, December 5, for the solemn blessing and laying of the cornerstone of the new Catholic Church at that place.

The ceremony will commence promptly at one o'clock in the afternoon and it is expected to prove an event of great interest to the residents of that section of the county. It undoubtedly argues well for the religious and economic development of the surrounding district.

On the occasion of his stay in Minnieville the Bishop will be happy to meet the people, regardless of their religious affiliation. The importance of the ceremony is calculated to make December 5 a red letter day in the history of the county, according to the Rev. William Jan, who has charge of this work.

SCHOLARSHIP FOR BOYS

Virginia Bankers' Association Makes Offer to Corn Club Boys of State.

The Virginia Bankers' Association has offered $15.00 to 25 boys who are members of Virginia corn clubs to help pay their expenses in the agricultural short course at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute this winter. The association has a committee on agricultural development and education and the offer is made through the chairman of this committee, V. Vaiden, of Farmville. The 1916 course in agriculture at V. P. I. will begin February 1, and continue through the month. Circulars giving full information about the short course may be had by addressing the president of the college or the dean of the agricultural department.

The bankers' association has shown considerable interest heretofore in agricultural extension work and many of the banks or individual bankers of the state have given prizes to the corn club boys and members of the girls' canning clubs in different sections of Virginia. Last year four banks at South Boston gave to the four boys in Halifax county who got the largest yield of corn on their acres the months' agricultural course at V. P. I., paying all expenses of these boys.

It is a matter of vital importance to the agricultural interests of Virginia that the young men should be educated along lines of scientific farming, as well as taught something of the possibilities that lie before the boy who is content to stay on the farm, and one of the objects of the winter course is to teach the students that life on the farm has a pleasant as well as a profitable side. Tuition in the course is free and the only expenses are for living while in Blacksburg.

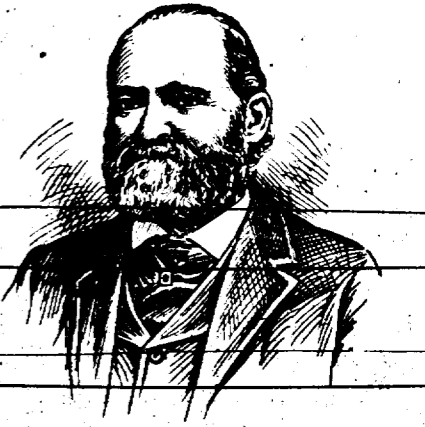

A CORRECTION

Last week THE JOURNAL stated that Beulah Baker, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. D. Baker, was ill of diphtheria. The Health Officer was seen carrying a sign of quarantine and upon being questioned he stated that it was to be placed upon the Baker home. It seems that a mistake was made in the matter and that it was later discovered that the little girl was not ill of diphtheria, but only suffering from a mild case of sore throat.

EDMUND BERKELEY DEAD

Well-known Nonagenarian Succumbed Wednesday—Was in Pickett's Charge.

One of Prince William's oldest citizens in the person of Colonel Edmund Berkeley, ranking survivor of Pickett's famous charge at Gettysburg, passed away at his home, "Evergreen," near Haymarket, on Wednesday morning after suffering a stroke of paralysis. Born on February 29, 1824, at Aldie, Loudoun county, Colonel Berkeley was 91 years of age at the time of his death.

COL. EDMUND BERKELEY

He has only been able to celebrate twenty-one birthdays, however. Had he lived to February 29th of next year he would have celebrated his twenty-second birthday.

When six months' old Colonel Berkeley was taken up in the arms of Marquis de Lafayette, who was then on his last visit to America. Later he was a playmate in the White House of Mary Donelson, a relative of President Andrew Jackson. Colonel Berkeley was perhaps the oldest living person bearing the distinction of having been entertained at the White House.

Colonel Berkeley attended William and Mary College and graduated with the degree of A. B. At the opening of the Civil War, he raised a company for the Eighth Virginia Regiment, of which General Eppa Hunton was then colonel. Gallant service was seen at the battle of Ball's Bluff where the regiment was sent into the woods as a cat's paw to locate the Union forces under Colonel Baker, a U. S. senator from Oregon, who organized what was then known as the California Regiment, and who was killed in this skirmish with about 1500 Union men.

Major Berkeley, as he then was, was wounded at Gettysburg near the stone wall where at the reunion fifty years later he shook hands with his Union comrades in perhaps the most striking feature of the Gettysburg celebration. After Gettysburg, when Colonel Hunton was advanced to brigadier-general, Major Berkeley became a lieutenant colonel. The Eighth Virginia Regiment then became known as the Berkeley Regiment for its ranking officers were Col. Edmund Berkeley and his three brothers, Col. Norborne Berkeley, Maj. William Berkeley, and Capt. Charles Berkeley.

Colonel Berkeley was of the sixth generation of Berkeleys of Middlesex county. The custom of naming the eldest son Edmund was kept up in the family for nine generations, with the exception of Rev. Alfred Rives Berkeley, of Philadelphia, who attended the funeral of the deceased.

Colonel Berkeley was the ranking Confederate veteran of Prince William. On all occasions when a representative of the "Lost Cause" was wanted Col. Berkeley was the one of all others to be desired. He took a great interest

HUGE AMOUNT FOR LUXURY

American People Annually Pay Out on Unessentials Cost of Many Battleships.

[From Brooklyn Eagle]

The American people spend annually many a battleship's worth on the unessentials of life.

Why adopt this measure? Because a certain part of the population nowadays reckons everything by dreadnoughts, although a dreadnought may cost anywhere from $8,000,000 to $12,000,000.

We paid as much last year for our poodles as we did for some of the all-big-gun ships that were so grudgingly provided for by Congress.

The question naturally presents itself: Is extravagance altogether bad? That it is bad for the person indulging in it no one will dispute.

Spirits and tobacco are the two unessentials that claim the lion's share of American gold. Last year we paid $352,000,000 in taxes on spirits and all forms of tobacco.

For our drinks and smokes alone we paid the United States Government nearly as much as for all other taxable things. Forty-eight per cent of the total revenues of the Government came from taxes on spirits and tobacco.

To produce the $592,000,000 annual output of liquor only 63,000 persons are given employment, while 197,000 persons are engaged in producing the tobacco output of $416,000,000.

Just as the United States is the leading spirits producing and spirits drinking nation, so it is the soft drinks country par excellence. The extent of the total soft drinks consumption may be estimated from the fact that we produce and use up annually more than $7,000,000 worth of soda water apparatus alone.

mate we spend $107,000,000 annually for nonalcoholic cooling drinks.

Last year we imported toys valued at $9,000,000, enough, some persons would say, to buy a dreadnought of the type of the Texas. The domestic production of playthings must at the same time have been somewhat around $12,000,000 if the normal rate of increase has been maintained since 1909.

We may pride ourselves on the fact that in 1914 we imported art works totaling $35,000,000. The appreciation of the American people for works of art is constantly increasing.

No story on American luxuries would be complete without some mention of chewing gum. The United States is the home of the flavored gum and other countries have not as yet hardly acquired the chewing habit. American jaws annually chew the flavor out of well over $100,000,000 worth of chewing gum. The raw chicle gum, one of the main ingredients of the finished article, is imported to an extent exceeding $5,000,000 in normal years.

Motion Pictures in Schools

Motion pictures as an educational agency will be given their first trial in the United States in the public schools of Chicago shortly after January 1.

This was the statement of Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools, and all members of the board of education questioned were enthusiastic in their endorsement of the idea of "screen education."

"After January 1 films are to be quite generally adopted in the public schools," said Mrs. Young. "Next year will see an increased school fund appropriation, and I will recommend that some stipulated amount be set aside for school films, geography, the industries and such subjects to be treated."

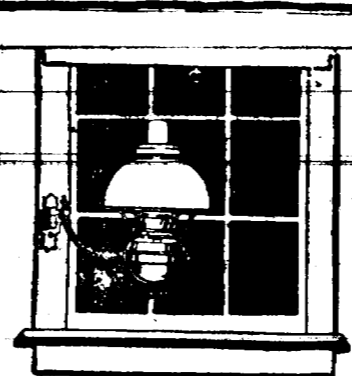

Dr. Peter Clemensen, a member of the Board of Education, said he had seen films used with great success in the schools of Europe and heartily approved their use here.

"Such a visualization of facts is a great assistance to memory," said Max Loeb, another member, "and I am for it strong. I know that as a boy I could have gained a much clearer impression of the facts of geography, and even history, if a motion picture presentation had accompanied the lectures and study of the text. Within a few years I expect to see films used to assist students in all the large cities of the country."—Chicago correspondence to the Washington Post.

GUARD AGAINST SCHOOL FIRES

Of late the daily newspapers have quite frequently made mention of disastrous school fires, fires in which there were not only lives lost but also heavy property damage suffered. When reading of these fires one begins to realize that a school is just as susceptible to fire damage as is a home or a public building. To show the frequency with which school fires occur we need only copy the following clipping from the Boston Globe.

In the United States a fire occurs every day in some school building. In the first 68 days of 1914, 73 fires were reported in public and private schools and other educational institutions. The direct financial loss was several hundred thousand dollars.

The above clipping lays stress upon the frequency with which school fires occur in our country and the great property loss entailed. It does not give any consideration to the heavy loss of life occasionally exacted nor does it give any hint as to the methods that ought to be pursued to prevent such occurrences. We feel that the great emphasis after all should be placed upon these two things—loss of life or bodily injury and methods of preventing fires in schools. Weight brought to bear on these two important points will work to the ultimate good of all school children.

We are not informed as to what is being done in the schools of Manassas and Prince William to prevent fires and to prevent loss of life or bodily injury to the pupils in case a fire does break out during school hours. We do insist, however, that every school in the county should look into these matters most carefully and should make adequate provision for fire prevention and should see that the children go through orderly fire drills. The responsibility in these particulars rests primarily upon the teacher but almost as heavily upon the school trustee. If the one fails to live up to his or her responsibility here it by no means relieves the other. If any of our schools are at all negligent in these matters, if there is room for improvement, let us see that more attention is paid to these means of safeguarding the lives of the little citizens of the county.

A JUSTIFIABLE PETITION

At the council meeting on Monday evening a petition was presented to the body requesting that an electric light be placed in front of the property of F. C. Rorabaugh on Center street. The matter was referred to the Public Utilities Committee for an investigation and a report at the next meeting. We are not surprised at the presentation of such a petition; we are more surprised that several such petitions have not been presented the body before this.

The need for more light in several sections of Manassas is quite an imperative one. Generally speaking, the streets are well lighted but just as might have been expected a few places were overlooked when the street lights were put up. It would have been very difficult to have placed just the right number of street lights in just the right places when the street lights were arranged for last year. Now, however, we can see where more light is needed in a few places and we hope the matter will receive the careful attention of the committee and later the council.

Members of the Public Utilities Committee will do well to take a walk over town on a dark night and discuss the need of more light in several places. If the petition for a light in front of the Rorabaugh property is granted (and any who have walked down that way of a night will agree that it should be granted) there is no reason why additional light should not be given to other places. As an example of another place needing light we cite the street in front of Mr. G. D. Baker's on Lee avenue. Just a short while ago an accident, which miraculously did not prove to be a serious one, occurred in the darkened part of the street there. Let us have more light where it is needed. The expense of lighting up the few dark spots of the town will be very small while the protection afforded all, especially our women, will prove a great blessing.

KEEP YOUR GOOD NAME INVOLABLE

A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches and loving favour rather than silver and gold—Proverbs, chap. 22, v. 1.

Any number of sermons have been preached upon this text and still it offers a wide variety of treatment, both in the pulpit and press. The value of a man's good name, both to the individual and community, is far reaching. A good name can not be obtained over night but it can be lost in the twinkling of an eye. Once a man, through years of conscientious labor and unswerving honesty, has gained the respect and esteem of his fellow citizens it does but appear that he should exercise all reasonable precaution that no reflections be placed upon his reputation and character.

We sometimes notice how people of good name fail to take care of this priceless possession when they become pressed for money or have met with some misfortune. A bill becomes due: it is not paid, neither is any explanation made of the failure to do this. Another bill comes due about this time and it too is not paid, neither is any explanation made to the creditor. Well, what is the outcome of this? The creditors can draw but one conclusion, i. e., the debtor is falling away from his good name and is not deserving of the confidence once reposed in him. But all the while the debtor may be perfectly honest in his intentions and is going to settle his bills as soon as he can do so. Here is where the debtor makes a big mistake. When a bill becomes due and can not be settled the creditor is due an explanation; if none is forthcoming he is very apt to wonder as to the debtor's integrity, and rightly so.

The matter of credit is becoming a greater one to the people of our country every day. So many are buying on credit that the business houses are taxed to the limit to carry these accounts. Now every concern which purports to do a credit business must see before hand that a reasonable amount can be carried a reasonable length of time on the books. On the other hand no business house can indiscriminately credit Tom, Dick and Harry without soon becoming bankrupt. So the matter of conducting a credit business depends almost solely upon the reliability of the debtors. If the accounts are paid promptly when due the house can afford to extend the debtor further courtesies of this nature; but if the account is not settled and no explanation is made for the neglect, the house is obliged to place him upon the black list, whether he belongs there or not. Therefore, it is imperative for the better business interests of the country, as well as for the debtor's own welfare, that he keep his good name untarnished at all times.

COLONEL EDMUND BERKELEY

In the death of that nonagenarian, Colonel Edmund Berkeley, on Wednesday at "Evergreen," his home near Haymarket, the county loses one of its most unique and historic characters. After an extremely active four years in the service of the Confederate States of America, during which time he rose to the rank of lieutenant colonel and added to himself the distinction of having participated in Pickett's famous charge at Gettysburg. Colonel Berkeley settled down to the peaceful life of farming. His bigness of character was shown in the manner in which he dealt with the misfortunes and losses occasioned by the war. His it was not to rage vehemently against "those Yankees"; he had the largeness of spirit to accept conditions as he found them and endeavor to make the best of what he had. But at no time in his life was the beauty of his character brought out more forcibly than in his hearty participation in the Manassas National Jubilee of Peace in 1911 and at the dedication of a tablet commemorating this event at Manassas on September 30th of this year. "Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God."

DO YOUR SHOPPING EARLY

Every year about this time we have our attention called to the fact that Christmas is just so many shopping days off. We are told that by shopping early we can not get a better selection, can attend to the choosing of gifts in a deliberate manner and can greatly aid the shopkeepers and their assistants by preventing a congestion of trade during the last two or three days prior to Xmas. And after all we can not but agree with these arguments for early shopping. Nothing is gained by putting off what you know you will have to do and what you can do as well now as at a later time. Let us urge that you attend to your Christmas shopping early this year; once you have shopped early you will never want to go back to the old way of waiting to the day before Christmas and then find that you have to hunt desperately for what you want and finally compromise on things that you really do not care for. Shop early and select useful presents.

U. S. MEAT INSPECTION

Millions of Animals Killed Under Eye of Government During The Past Year.

[The Washington Star.]
More than 58,000,000 animals were slaughtered in establishments under federal meat inspection during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1915, according to a statement made public by the Department of Agriculture recently.

Of the animals subjected to federal inspection, 299,958 were condemned as unfit for human use, and 644,698 were condemned in part. These figures include only cattle, calves, sheep, goats and swine.

Tuberculosis was the chief cause of the condemnations. More than 32,644 carcasses of cattle and 66,000 carcasses of swine were entirely rejected on account of this disease, and in addition parts of 48,000 cattle and 440,000 swine. Hog cholera was responsible for the next largest loss, nearly 102,000 swine being condemned entirely on this account.

DESTROYS TRICHINAE

In the course of its work, the bureau of animal industry, which is in charge of the meat inspection service, has discovered a new method of destroying trichinae in pork, which is an additional safeguard to human health. Refrigeration at a temperature of five degrees F., or lower, for a period of twenty days, will destroy these parasites, it is declared.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Most newspapers wish to publish the letters they receive. There is never room for them all, of course. But those which fail to get in print are usually rejected for one or more reasons:

- They are anonymous.
- They are illegible.
- They are too long.
- They are on subjects of no interest to the public.
- They are libellous.
- They would cause needless pain to worthy persons.
- They are written in ill temper.
- They are absurd.—Albany Knickerbocker Press.

BROWN & HOOFF

A TRIBUTE OF LOVE

Death of Miss Virginia Duty Removes Old Resident of County.

The passing-away of Miss Virginia Duty at Occoquan, Va., on Thursday morning, November 18th, removed from the community the eldest and one of the most beloved and highly esteemed citizens of the village, where she had lived for nearly eighty-five years, and where, from her earliest girlhood, she had wielded an unwavering and highly effectual influence for good.

Being of an excellent moral character, she devoutly embraced the Christian faith and was unceasing in her performance of its good works, as taught by Jesus Christ in His Holy Word.

This consecrated Christian lady descended of the Puritan faith, whose character embodied most unusual strength and tenderness, filled a place within her home and in the community which few but she could have filled.

Moral strength and tenderness, controlled by excellent judgment, were her strongest qualifications and these she daily exercised in the performance of duty, meekly and loyally serving her God and ministering unto her fellow creatures.

Her mission was to love and serve and to faithfully perform her duty as she saw it. Was there illness or death, she was there to minister and comfort—even when enfeebled by her eighty odd years of age.

There was no house too lowly for her to enter. Her Christian grace made no distinction of class, creed or color in the hour of sorrow. Yet, with unswerving loyalty to God, she wholeheartedly espoused the cause of good and censured wrong, irrespective of the wrong doer, for, with impartial discrimination, her righteousness knew no compromise.

Within her home-circle, among her nephews, nieces and other relatives and friends, she will be sadly missed.

The deceased had lived all her life in the village of Occoquan, Va., where she was born and reared and where her ancestors lived for generations before. She was a sister of the sainted Mrs. Mary A. Selesman, widely known for her Christian grace and charity, and a twin sister of Capt. Henry F. Duty, whose memory will ever be revered for his deeds of valor. She was also a sister of the beloved James Duty. They were members of a family widely known for its Christian piety.

Miss Virginia Duty made her home with her brother, the late Capt. Henry F. Duty, whose daughter, Miss Janie Duty, she reared from infancy and loved as her own child.

Miss Virginia Duty was the daughter of Jane Epps Duty and Davis Duty, son of Andrew Woodbury Duty and a great grandson of Asa Davis, whose family settled near Boston, Mass., as early as 1633, and who was a prominent representative of his state in 1777, 1779, 1793 and 1794, and from 1880 to 1886.

Asa Davis performed with distinction military service in the Revolutionary war, and was with Capt. Samuel Greely's company that marched at the time of the Lexington alarm April 19, 1776. He was in Capt. James Ford's company June and July, 1777, also in Lieutenant Brown's company to Saratoga September, 1777, at Burgoyne's surrender. The Asa Davis homestead is still standing in good condition and is occupied by members of his family.

Miss Virginia Duty's mother, Jane Epps Duty, was descended from the Dorns, who were among the first English to settle in Prince William county. Jane Epps Duty's father, John I. Hodges, was a major in the American army in the War of 1812 against England.

Thus, imbued by the traits of her ancestors and sustained by Christian grace, Miss Virginia Duty's beautiful character will ever be remembered by those who knew and loved her.

For some time prior to her death, the deceased had been much enfeebled but seemed to suffer little in the end, but just passed away as the result of her feeble age.

Her funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Bibbins at the M. E. Church at Occoquan, Va., of which she had been a member since early girlhood. Her remains were laid to rest in the Meadow Cemetery beside her parents and brothers, amidst bowers of beautiful flowers which she loved so well.

She early espoused the cause of Christ and remained faithful unto the end. "Her's is a starry crown! In the best day many will rise up and call her blessed!"

HAYMARKET GIRL WEDDED

Miss Clara S. Bell Became the Bride of Wm. J. Weber, of Washington, Monday.

On Tuesday, November 30, at 3 p. m., Miss Clara Singleton Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Bell, of Haymarket, Va., was married to Mr. William John Weber at the bride's residence in the Westchester Apartment, Washington, D. C. The groom is an official of the Treasury Department, and the bride one of the most popular and attractive of Prince William's girls.

The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Forest J. Prettyman, chaplain of the United States Senate and one of Washington's leading pastors, was witnessed by only a few relatives and friends, and the rooms were exquisitely decorated with palms and ferns and fragrant with the aroma of cut flowers.

The bride was charmingly attired in a suit of midnight-blue broadcloth, trimmed with beaver fur, and her hat was of raisin-colored velvet and fur. She wore a corsage bouquet of English violets and lilies of the valley, and in her radiant happiness never appeared more beautiful.

Mr. and Mrs. Weber left for New York soon after the ceremony and sailed for Bermuda on December 1. They will be at home after January 1 at the Westchester Apartment in Washington. We join in the congratulations and good wishes showered on them by their many friends.

in the promotion of peace and most graciously and gladly participated in the Manassas National Jubilee of Peace in 1911 and also in the dedication of a tablet commemorating this event in September of this year. Only recently Colonel Berkeley wrote a letter to the Times-Dispatch heartily endorsing the Peace Jubilee and what it stood for. The JOURNAL copied this letter in its issue of November 5.

Nance, Mrs. John McNeilly and Mrs. Felton, all of Miss., and two sons—Lanier Berkeley, of "Evergreen," and Capt. Douglas Berkeley, U. S. A., and several grandchildren.

Catarrrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, it has a tendency to close, and hearing is impaired, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be removed, and this can be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is induced by a cold of the mucous membrane. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts thru the blood as the mucous membrane of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Circulars free. All Druggists. 71c. Circulars free. P. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

BROOMS TO COST MORE

Broom Corn Crop Has Failed The Last Two Years.

The broom manufacturing industry in America is facing a complete shutdown in four to six months. There isn't any more broom corn. The warehouses are empty, the manufacturers have only the slenderest of stocks and for the second successive year the crop is a complete failure. Everywhere it was raised out. Corn that sold for $85 a ton last January is quoted at $200 now and cannot be bought at any price.

Stocks on hand and what little new crop is available will last the factories not longer than May 1. From then until the 1916 crop is harvested the plants have no alternative but to close their doors.

Twenty-eight of the largest broom manufacturers in the country met in special session in Kansas City to decide what to do. They compared notes all day and reached but one decision. That is to advance the price of brooms at once.

This is the season of the year when the broom manufacturer buys a season's supply and the speculator stocks up the warehouses. Last year, because of a crop failure, the manufacturers bought only from week to week and the speculators found no corn to speculate on. The second crop failure this year came with warehouses empty and no large factory stocks on hand. One broom corn warehouse in St. Louis, with a rent of $500 a month, has but one carload of corn in it. The United States imports but little corn normally—22 tons per year. This year the war will prevent any importations.

Aniline dyes, used to give the brooms a uniform color and to dye the red and green twine bindings, have advanced from $1 to $7 a pound. The grade of velvet used for banding cannot be bought and even the wire has jumped.

Efforts of the bureau of naturalization of the Department of Labor to interest candidates for American citizenship in the public schools and the schools for the alien are bearing fruit. Approximately 400 cities and towns have joined in this nation-wide educational movement, and the number is said to be increasing daily.

Is Tuberculosis Curable?

EVERY once in a while people will ask "Do you really think consumption can be cured?" and then, when they are told that thousands of cases all over the world bear witness to the fact of the curability of this disease, they wonder why their several friends and relatives, who died with tuberculosis, were not cured.

Tuberculosis is curable, but not everyone is cured, and not everyone can be cured. The chief reason why more consumptives are not cured is because they have waited too long before they heeded the warning danger signals of the disease, or because some doctor to whom they went did not recognize this deadly plague. In its early stages, consumption can be cured, and the patient can generally resume his normal life within a period ranging from six months to two years, depending on circumstances. As high a percentage of actual recoveries from tuberculosis may be found in really early cases who follow the right course of treatment as in almost any other infectious disease.

What, then, is the right course of treatment? This article cannot prescribe for individual cases, but it can and will tell what are the essentials in taking the cure for tuberculosis.

First of all, there is a good doctor or when you are advised whose advice and inspiration is most valuable to you. He will not give you much medicine, because there isn't any drug or "cure" that he can prescribe that will do more than to relieve some immediate symptoms, such as constipation, cough, headache, etc. If your doctor begins to talk of a "marvelous remedy" which will cure you, it is time you looked for another physician. That man is more than likely a quack and is simply after your money. There is no sure or quick "cure" or remedy for tuberculosis that you can buy at a drugstore or that a doctor can give you.

The second essential in the cure of tuberculosis is fresh air. To the healthy person the best tonic is fresh air at work, at play, and during sleep. To the consumptive, however, air is medicine. He must take it in as large doses as he can, the more the better. It may not be easy for one who has been accustomed to indoor work to sleep and live outdoors, but since fresh air is vital, he must accustom himself to being outside all he can. At sanatoria for the treatment of tuberculosis, patients are out of doors on porches or elsewhere almost all the time. If one is at home, he can with a little ingenuity arrange devices for outdoor sleeping and sitting. The National Tuberculosis Association, 105 East 22nd Street, New York will send free of charge to anyone a booklet entitled: "Directions for Living and Sleeping in the Open Air."

The next essential in the cure of tuberculosis is rest. Like fresh air, rest must be taken as a medicine by the consumptive. The reason for rest is evident, when you stop to think the way the germs of tuberculosis work. As they destroy the tissues of the lungs or other parts of the body, they make a wound or a cavity. This wound, like a cut on your finger, will not heal if it is being opened all the time. To keep the lungs as quiet as possible, rest in bed, or in a reclining chair is absolutely necessary. The dose of rest you take will depend on your doctor's advice. He will tell you when you can get out of bed and when you can exercise and how much. But first and foremost you must learn to rest, in order to give the lungs a chance to heal.

Besides a good doctor, fresh air and rest, the cure for tuberculosis requires good, wholesome food. In normal health, food of the right kind is very necessary, but in tuberculosis it is doubly important. Food is the fuel which heats the body and gives it its energy or you might almost say "steam." In tuberculosis one must pay special attention to food, because he has to provide fuel not only for the ordinary functions of the body, but he must provide an additional supply to meet the waste and damage done by the germs of the disease. This doesn't mean that you must be continually stuffing yourself, for if you do that you will upset your stomach, bowels, and liver, and you will counteract all the good the food might do. Neither does it mean that you must eat just one or two kinds of food, such as milk and eggs, which some people think are a cure for tuberculosis. They are excellent foods for people who can eat and digest them readily, and every consumptive should try to acquire an appetite for them. But meat and potatoes and bread and butter and good vegetables and almost any other nourishing, wholesome food in plenty of variety are needed also. Don't rely on tid-bits and sweets, but stoke your body furnace with food-fuel that will keep it running in the best possible order. Your doctor is the best one to advise on foods.

And, finally, a last essential in the cure of tuberculosis may be summed up in these words: "Don't worry." Keep a hopeful state of mind. If you give up and say "It's no use," you will never get well, no matter how patiently you follow the other essentials of a cure. Getting well depends for the most part on you. Reason, hopefulness and courage will do more for you than all the doctors in the world.

Just a word as to where to take the cure. If you can go to a sanatorium, do so. There are not enough sanatoria for everyone, however. So you may have to stay at home and fight alone. Remember, tuberculosis can be cured if you take it in time and do your part.

A Word to the Wise is Sufficient

Do you know it to be a fact that Sprinkel has done more to reduce the cost of living in the town of Manassas than the United States? Don't you notice a reduction in the fact that there has been a steady advance in the market opening, from ten to fifty per cent? What do you think of paying for sugar today if but for—oh, well, never mind more than Sprinkel charges, you pay too much.

Evaporated peaches, 7 cents per pound, (three for 20 cents) very largest that grow for 9 cents, (three for 25 cents) cents per pound, apricots, 14 cents per pound, good large country shoulders for 14 cents. The very best, dried, at 13 cents, good sweet breakfast bacon, 12 cents, corn meal at 24 cents per peck, coal oil at 11 cents. If you have not tried any of my 14-cent coffee, you are making a mistake; a great many are using this coffee in preference to the former used at from 20 to 25 cents per pound; not less money, but because it is better, so they tell me. Flavoring that FLAVORS; if so, and you will bring you let you have what you want at one-half retail price. You with the most excellent quality of my own marmalades for 10 cents, and lemon, two ounces for 15 cents. If it is quality and at the RIGHT prices you want to see me.

These are said to be at least "dope fiends" in Norfolk.

The State Auditing Committee has completed its report and sent it to Gov. Stuart. The committee found that the public service has been honestly conducted, and that there has been no misappropriation of funds.

W. Atlee Burpee, head of the firm of W. Atlee Burpee & Co., and a noted horticulturist, died at his country home in Doylestown, Pa., last Friday. He was 57 years old and had been in failing health since last July.

The United States now faces a big shortage in chewing tobacco, not because there is not enough tobacco in the country, but because the European war has cut off the supply of licorice root, an extract from which is used to make the tobacco palatable.

Officers of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage are wondering how they can best make use of $10,000 contributed by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont for the express purpose of "converting" President Wilson to the support of a proposed suffrage amendment to the Federal Constitution.

An unprecedented demand for coins with which to make up the pay rolls of munition plants and other industrial establishments has kept the employees of the Philadelphia Mint working overtime for the past six weeks. Superintendent Joyce has estimated the output at $600,000 a day.

Virginia last year spent more than a million dollars in school buildings alone; there was an increase in school enrollment of more than 28,000; illiteracy has been wonderfully reduced, and education generally throughout the state has been advanced remarkably during the last twelve months.

Pensions totaling $674,000 were distributed to 445 professors or widows of professors by the Carnegie Foundation in the last year, according to a report at the tenth annual meeting of the trustees recently. The general endowment was reported to be $14,382,000, and the income for the year $712,000.

Three hundred thousand dollars is the amount of United States Treasury funds on deposit in Richmond national banks that will be withdrawn on January 1, 1916, and placed in the Richmond Federal Bank, which thereafter will act as the depository and fiscal agent for the government in Richmond.

The proportion of suicides to the population in 1,800 cities in this country last year was higher than for any year since 1909, according to F. L. Hoffman, statistician for the Prudential Insurance Company. Mr. Hoffman's report shows that 4,962 persons killed themselves. This is at the rate of 20.3 for each 100,000 of population.

The twelve Federal reserve banks earned $221,954 during October, while their current expenses during that period were $134,017, according to a statement issued by the Federal Reserve Board. The earnings were about $2,000 greater than any previous month shown. The Richmond bank led all others in earnings, with $26,872. Its expenses were $10,138.

Postal savings deposits during October increased $2,150,000 over the preceding month, giving, according to postal officials, "a clear reflection of the great tide of prosperity and commercial activity that is sweeping over the country." Savings on deposit on October 31 aggregated $71,500,000, and the individual depositors numbered 562,000. New York city, excluding Brooklyn, had $14,822,020 of this total.

With a monthly payroll of $1,600,000, the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Powder Company pays out more money at Hopewell than any other corporation in Virginia—an amount probably equal to the pay roll of all the industries in any of the cities of Virginia except Richmond.

Black Diamond, the aged buffalo, whose likeness is printed on $10 treasury notes and is stamped on the latest 5-cent pieces, was put to death at New York recently because of old age. He was more than twenty years old, and the largest bison in captivity. He had been an inmate of the Central Park corral for many years. Black Diamond's hide, which measured 13 by 13 feet, will be made into an automobile robe. The bison weighed 1,550 pounds, from which 750 pounds of dressed meat was obtained. The head, which will be mounted, sold for a considerable amount of money.

Value of the Playgrounds

It is gratifying to note that from a number of the leading cities of the country are coming testimonials of the value of the playgrounds in the upbringing of children. So much attention is given to the matter in Scranton that satisfaction will be expressed here that our judgment in this particular is confirmed by that of leading men and women of affairs in other large communities. Not only has it been found to be of great advantage in Scranton and elsewhere, to keep the children off the streets during the school vacation season, but reports have it that the children get added enjoyment from what is styled "organized play"; that is, play under the direction of trained instructors.

It will be remembered that there are a number of people who contend that the children should be permitted to play as they see fit, following their own choice in such matters, without any attempt being made to tell them what they shall do to provide their own enjoyment. The answer to this is the popularity of the playgrounds with the children. Those who attend grow to like their instructors and obey them as well as they do the teachers in our public schools. These teachers aim to let the children enjoy themselves to the fullest, but always to prevent the little people from overdoing themselves. The Scranton Republican.

THE SCIENCE OF RESTING

I know from personal experience that to "think" of nothing when you try to get to sleep at nights, or lie down to rest in the day, is an almost impossible task. It requires a strong brain and much will power to create a mental vacuum. But any woman can steal away for a while to a dark room and lie with her eyes closed and think of things that have no bearing on her daily activities.

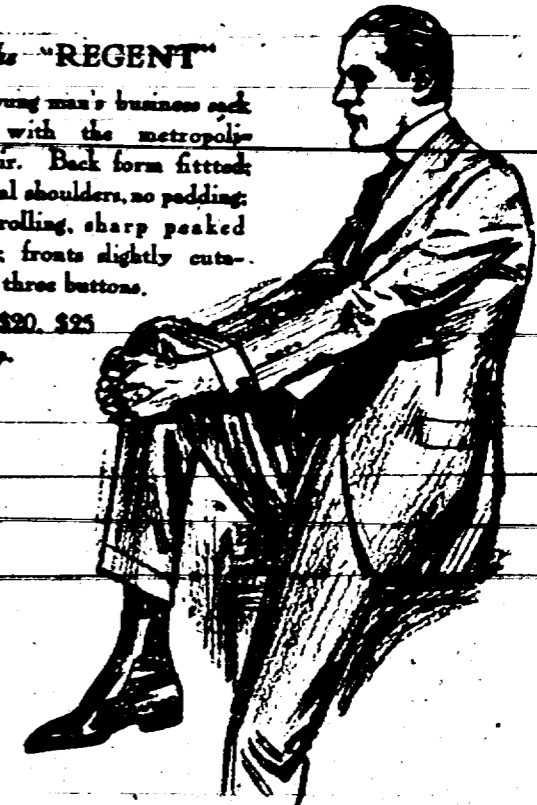

Routine is one of the deadly sins of life. It is thinking the same thoughts and doing the same duties day in and day out that destroy bodily and mental vigor. For this one hour while you rest think of anything that is foreign to your steady routine. No matter how foolish your thoughts may be, the lighter they are the more weight will be removed from your mind. When your mind is at rest your body quickly responds.

Someone asked Herbert Spencer how he managed to accomplish so much work in a day's time: "I always put my head to sleep for one hour a day," was the reply. His sleep may have been only day dreams, but at least he understood the technique of resting. By taking this one hour off the time that followed was put to twice as good advantage. He went back to his work refreshed.—Elise Morris, in the Southern Woman's Magazine.

THE STORY OF A DOLLAR

How a Dollar Loves to Stay at Home Rather Than Go to a Mail Order House.

Some time ago the Merchants Trade Journal passed on to its readers the little story which follows. So much truth is contained in it that we are anxious to have our readers take in the lesson which it teaches. The story is worded as follows: "I am a dollar! A little ageworn, perhaps, but still in circulation. I am proud of myself for being in circulation. I am no tomato can dollar—not I. This town is only my adopted home but I like it and hope to remain permanently. When I came out of the mint I was adopted into a town like this in another state. But, after a time I was sent off to a big city, many miles away. I turned up in a mail order house. For several years I stayed in that city. Millionaires bought cigars with me. I didn't like that, for I believe in the plain people. Finally a traveling man brought me to this town and left me here. I was so glad to get back to a smaller town that I was determined to make a desperate effort to stay. "One day a citizen of this town was about to send me back to that big city. I caught him looking over a mail order catalog. Suddenly I found my voice and said to him: 'Look here, if you'll let me stay in this town I'll circulate around and do you a lot of good. You buy a big beefsteak with me, and the butcher will buy groceries and the grocer will buy hardware and the hardware man will pay his doctor bill with me, and the doctor will spend me with a farmer for oats to feed his horse with, and the farmer will buy some fresh meat from the butcher who will come around to the dentist to get his tools mended. In the long run, as you see, I'll be more useful to you here at home than if you'd send me away forever. "The man said it was mighty stiff argument. He hadn't looked at it in that light before, so he went and bought the beefsteak, and I began to circulate around home again. Now, just suppose all the other dollars that are sent to Chicago or some other big city were kept circulating right here at home, you could see the town grow. "Honest, now, ain't I right?" Another good way of spending that dollar of yours is for fifty-two issues of THE MANASSAS JOURNAL. It will not only be keeping that dollar at home but it will also tell you how it will be to your advantage to keep many of its fellows here too. Remember that the dollar kept at home will bring you returns while the dollar sent away may never benefit your community in the least."

Mr. Will Alexander called at the home of his mother, Mrs. E. J. Alexander, Sunday. The death angel has visited our neighborhood and taken from its midst a noble young fellow in the prime of manhood, Archie Bailey, who has been in declining health for about a year. His death was due to tuberculosis, followed by pneumonia. Everything that could be done was promptly done, but without avail, and Wednesday morning the end came, as a shock to the community, although it was not unexpected. To the grief-stricken father, the heart-broken mother and bereaved brothers and sisters our hearts have gone out in deepest sympathy in their sad bereavement.

CLIFTON DOINGS

Rev. Alford Kelley held the usual services in the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning and administered the Holy Communion. Ten young girls and boys joined the church at that time. The Mission Band of the Presbyterian Church met Sunday afternoon at Mrs. Quigg's home with an attendance of twenty-three members and five visitors. The program was jointly conducted by Misses Richards and Burke with Miss Adams at the piano. The following of-ficers were elected: President, Frances Beckley; vice-president, Esther Adams; secretary, Ruth Quigg, and treasurer, Paul Quigg. The collection amounted to $2.12. It was decided to hold the next meeting in the church on the fourth Sunday in December. The prayer meeting Sunday night was led by Miss Rosemond Burke. Quite a number took part and the meeting was both interesting and profitable. Tuesday Rev. Alford Kelley and sister, Miss Isabelle, were down making calls. Mr. and Mrs. Richards and daughter, Miss Ruth, left Tuesday on No. 10 for Washington for a three months' sojourn. There are several new families in the neighborhood—one in the Olin house, one in the Ford house and one on the Collier place. W. H. Mathers is building a large new barn on his place. Dr. Ferguson has been on a visit to his old childhood home near Petersburg. Superintendent Hall and John D. Garrett, clerk of the school board, visited the school Monday. Tonight the School League meets in the school building. The teachers will furnish the entertainment, the chief of which is a debate by four pupils of the high school. Miss Sara Grewe and brother, Arthur, were Sunday visitors in the village and attended church and Sunday school. Miss Sara left for her school Sunday afternoon and Mr. Arthur returned home Monday night. He returns to Canton, Pa. next Sunday. Thanksgiving passed quietly—most of the men and boys went hunting. Mrs. Defwiler is well again, and her daughter, Margaret, is sick now.

HAYMARKET HAPPENINGS

Mrs. Ida Bond, wife of W. H. Bond, fifty-six years of age and a resident of this place, died in a Washington hospital last week and the remains were brought to Antioch and funeral services held there on Monday. Mr. C. E. Jordan made a trip to Charles county, Md., the first of the week to inspect some land recently purchased by the Canal Zone. The tract consists of about 1,000 acres of which about fifty will be set apart for experimental purposes. Mr. E. H. Hunt, Mr. J. W. Dunbar and Mr. G. Raymond Ratchiffe, of Manassas, motored to Upperville the latter part of last week on a hunting trip. They report game as being very scarce. Messrs. Rector and Hunt recently made a business trip to Alexandria. They are now having the interior of their store overhauled. Mrs. G. E. Armour left for Winchester Monday to be with her father who is critically ill and is not expected to recover. Mr. J. E. Beale has finished his warehouse and has rented it to Jordan & Jordan. Mrs. G. B. Brady was a Manassas visitor on Monday. Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Pickett were guests of Miss Agnes Foley Sunday. Mr. R. B. Gosson, of Waterfall, was in town Wednesday. Mr. M. McCoy was in Washington on business Monday.

We regret to report the death of Mrs. William Bond which occurred at Georgetown Hospital, Washington, on Saturday last. Interment was made at Antioch cemetery on Monday. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. L. Neff, assisted by Rev. J. Murray Taylor. Mrs. Bond, who was formerly a resident of this neighborhood, was much loved and a host of friends sympathize with her bereaved family. Miss Estelle Burgess made a shopping trip to Washington last week. Miss Sarah Crews, of Clifton, spent several days of last week at her home near here. Mr. W. H. Bond, Miss Jane and Mrs. Charles and Annie Bond, of Vienna, are spending a few days at the home of Mrs. J. P. Smith.

AN APPLE BETWEEN NEAR

There are a large number of refreshing stimulants for professional men and business men, and for all brain workers in general. An authority speaking of the apple says: "Malic acid, that great germ destroyer, is the most prominent of its acids, but its malic phosphates are of equal balance in keeping liver, stomach and intestines in healthful activity."

FARMERS TAKE NOTICE

The way to make two blades of grass grow where one does now: Buy the celebrated Magnesium Lime from Leesburg Lime Co., the lime that has been sold in Loudoun and Fairfax for the past twenty-five years, and out produced them all, and the reason for it is because it contains Magnesium and Oxide of Iron in right proportion to Calcium Carbonate, and the United States Agricultural Department in Year Book 1901, page 161, states that Magnesium is absolutely necessary to plant growth and nothing else will take its place. Send orders to W. T. Thomasson, Manassas, Va., or direct to us and same will have prompt attention.
