KANSAS is discussing the feasibility of regulating love affairs by law. It is doubtful if the experiment would prove a success, as love and reason usually have nothing in common. Imagine-impetuous love at first sight sanctioning the suggestion that there ought to be a law prohibiting young people from marrying after being engaged less than a month. However, the other suggested law might infuse courage in bashful lovers by the requirement that after an engagement of five or six months, the knot must be tied at once or the engagement called off.

THE action of the Government in taking up the fight against typhoid is well timed, as the prevalence of the malady is alarming. The Public Health and Hospital Marine Service has expressed its belief in the artificial immunity, within certain limitations, afforded by antityphoid vaccination, already compulsory in the United States Army for soldiers under forty-five years of age. In the judgment of the Commission the vaccination should be practiced only upon healthy subjects, free from organic or other defects, and from local or general affections, no matter what their nature, especially tuberculosis.

"ALL live men are advertisers, and the only man who should not advertise is the man who has nothing to offer to the world in way of human service, and such a man is a dead one, whether he knows it or not. Advertising is a legitimate and ethical proposition. Life is too short for you to hide yourself away, mantled in your modesty, and let the world hunt you out. Even the dead are advertisers, for on visiting a beautiful cemetery the other day I noticed that on nearly every marble slab was given a list of the virtues, talents and beautiful qualities which the dead man was supposed to have carried in stock."—Elbert Hubbard.

THE Taft-Bryan controversy deepens in interest, as the following excerpt from an editorial in The Commoner shows: "At Cherryville, Kan., the President repeated the challenge he issued at Detroit to Mr. Bryan to produce an example of restraint of trade that would not come within the scope of the Supreme Court decisions in the Standard Oil and tobacco trust cases. Mr. Bryan challenges him to make public the written and verbal recommendations upon which he appointed Justice White to the position of Chief Justice over Justice Harlan, and the recommendations, written and verbal, on which he appointed the Justices whom he placed on the Supreme Bench. It is a question, or was it a question, that all of his supporters took the trust side of the question."

VIRGINIANS LIKE NEBRASKA PRAIRIE

FIND "WILD WEST" NOW A MYTH

High Civilization on Scenes Made Famous by Lurid Literature—Milford, Pretty, Prosperous Town.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Sullivan, formerly of Independent Hill, will be interested in the following letter:

Milford, Neb., Oct. 10, 1911.
Editors THE DEMOCRAT,
Manassas, Virginia.

"Dear Sirs: You asked us to write to you when we found a location, so as Fred is very busy I will undertake to do so myself. We are more than pleased with this part of the country and our prospects are of the very best.

"Milford is a lovely little town, modern in every way—pretty houses, well-kept lawns, lots of trees, cement walks everywhere, electric lights, city water works, good roads and up-to-date business houses of every line. We are surrounded on all sides by large, prosperous farms and we find that nine out of every ten of the farmers own an automobile.

"There are a number of large buildings here, canning factory, bottling works, good schools, four churches and several different lodges. The State Old Soldiers' and Sailors' Home is located here in Milford, also the State Industrial Home for Girls.

"We are on the main overland road leading from Omaha out to Colorado and almost every day automobiles loaded with tourists pass through here.

"Milford is the home of the well-known Shogo Lithia Spring and the medicinal properties of this sparkling spring water was discovered by one of the early pioneers of this locality, who found it to be a cure for fever and ague, when that disease was prevalent among the early settlers.

"Early history relates that the Pawnees, Otoes, Omahas, and Wichita tribes of Indians used this water for ages past as a panacea for many ailments. The spring finds its way to the surface through a crevice in the rock banks of the Blue River, where it gushes forth in pure, sparkling water from great depths as is evidenced by the difference in the temperature from the water found in the ordinary wells of this vicinity.

"This spring water was commercialized in 1904 when the proprietor excavated back into the bank, following the vein until it was found bubbling up through an aperture in the rock over which he erected a concrete building 14x22, covering the spring basin in the stone, with a superstructure of two stories and commercially bottling the water. Shogo Lithia Water and drinks made from this water, ginger ale, etc., has found a market from the Atlantic to the Pacific and has even been shipped to the Gulf States, Panama Canal zone, Jamaica and Cuba, and in the torrid zone has stood the test and remained pure under the heat of the southern sun.

"Milford only has a population of about 800 but is growing rapidly and is becoming quite a summer resort. I had a delightful visit at my old home in Madison while Fred had the time of his life looking for a location and has now covered almost the entire middle west and enjoyed his travels. We have a nice large store building here and expect to open a variety store here on the 14th of this month. We are convinced that this is the right part of the country for young people to progress.

"Here the money keeps turning and changing hands and is not salted down for the next generation to enjoy. We hope at some future date to go further west or northwest, but for the present will make our home here.

"We still have a keen interest

A DRESSY SHIRT WAIST

Showing a model of a very pretty shirt waist we have a very pretty model, shown in the accompanying illustration. The waist is built on the well liked Gibson lines, with the deep tuck extending out over the shoulder, short in front and full length in the back. The closing of the waist is in the back. In front there is a small pointed yoke at the neck, edged on each side by small revers. Below this there is a panel, formed by two outward turning tabs. The sleeves have a small cap at the top and a deep cuff at the wrist with a puffed section between them. This waist may be developed in any soft silk, such as mesaline or pongee and equally well in gingham, madras, challis, etc.

The pattern (4978) is cut in sizes 32 to 42 inches bust measure. Medium size requires 3/4 yards of 37 inch material.

To procure this pattern send 25 cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

Gangrene and Oxygen.
A remarkable instance of the advantage which medical men may derive from chemistry has been published in the reports of the Hospital Hotel Dieu, at Paris. A young student wrote a thesis in which he showed that gangrene and deficiency of oxygen were to be regarded as cause and effect. Dr. Langier, surgeon-in-chief of the hospital, having a case of spontaneous gangrene under his care, proceeded to test the theory. The patient, a man seventy-five years of age, had the disease in one foot—his toe was mortified, and the whole member was in danger. The diseased part was enclosed in an apparatus contrived to disengage oxygen continuously, and in a short time the gangrene was arrested and the toe recovered its healthy condition. A singular experiment tried upon another patient, equally aged and equally successful, from which the inference follows that treatment with oxygen is an effectual remedy for a disease which too often infects hospitals.

Didn't Need It.
It was the anniversary of his young son's birthday, and the proud father, who felt that he ought to give the lad something, stepped into a bookseller's shop.
"What kind of book would you like, sir?" asked the assistant, to whom the other had confided his purpose.
"Something that would be useful and educative," answered the father, forgetting that he always detested such books in his own boyhood.
"Well, here is a very excellent one on 'Self-Help!'"
"Self-Help!" exclaimed the father. "Ben don't need anything of that kind. You ought to see him at the Summer-table!"

A Summer Butterfly.
"That fellow thinks he has a sense to flirt, but he'll get his."
"Why his sense of security?"
"Oh, he was divorced by some judge, with a proviso that he must not marry again."

for restitution of a certain sum of money which he claimed rightfully belonged to him in a horse trade which he had with the sheriff, and that he used the disk of cloth in wadding his gun. He told how he had waited by the roadside for Thornton's approach and after the commission of the crime had ridden to his home in King William county in the darkness of the night without being seen on the way.

WIDOW SCORNS RESTITUTION
Freeman's confession of the Thornton murder was published in pamphlet form and circulated in Caroline county, and when the facts became known to the board of magistrates who tried and convicted Young they sent a committee to Young's widow, expressing profound sorrow for the grave mistake and offering to aid her in any way possible. The committee was coolly received by Mrs. Young and their offers scornfully refused.

MUST BE EYE-WITNESS
"The board of magistrates, so I am told, passed a resolution that no man should again be hanged in Caroline county unless there were an eye-witness to the murder. I read Freeman's confession from one of the pamphlets referred to which was given me by John Coats, of Caroline county, these pamphlets having been distributed by W. W. Dickinson, a merchant at Golansville, in the county referred to, and of which I was at one time constable.

"It looks to me as though Beattie is guilty of the crime of which he has been convicted, but since my knowledge of the miscarriage of justice in the Thornton murder case, I am not much of a believer in putting a man to death on circumstantial evidence."

DOWNWARD COURSE

Fast Being Realized by Manassas People.

A little backache at first. Daily increasing till the back is lame and weak. Urinary disorders quickly follow.

This is the downward course of kidney ill. Don't take this course. Manassas residents should profit by the following experience.

J. G. Downing, Mosby, Va., says: "For ten years I suffered from kidney trouble. My back was intensely painful, particularly when I stopped or lifted and the least work tired me. I was languid, had dizzy spells and was annoyed by the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills relieved my difficulties and the doctor of my local town advised a permanent cure. I give this remedy my hearty endorsement."

White Loaf Flour

HAS MADE MILFORD MILLS FAMOUS

Why not keep your money in the County? Why do you buy flour from other mills that never deal a penny's worth with you? Why not buy from your home mill and your own customer, who spends all he has to spend in the county? Our flour has made good, and if you will only try it, you will find out for yourself. If our flour was not up to date, why would we be grinding and selling it all the time and to the same trade. I have regular customers for White Loaf who had been using all kinds of spring wheat and fancy patent flour. We must spend our money with those who spend their's with us.

Doak, of Clifton, will give one of the Southdown rain lambs from the prize sweetstake pen at the State Fair. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Nall celebrated their thirtieth wedding anniversary Wednesday at their home near town. Only immediate relatives and friends attended. Mr. and Mrs. Nall received many beautiful presents. Among the guests were the Rev. and Mrs. Charles L. DeLong, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Rosenberger and Mr. and Mrs. Snowden Hall. A book-title party will be given on next Tuesday night, October 24, at the Ruffner building for benefit of the Carnegie library by members of the High School Improvement League. Guessing the titles of books represented by the guests will be a feature of the evening. Prizes will be offered. A candy sale will be held. The admission will be ten cents. The School League has already given several entertainments for this purpose, and quite a considerable purchase of new books has been made in this way. It is hoped that the public will cordially respond to this new effort of the League, and help in the excellent work of building up the library, making it modern in appointments and of real value to the reading public.

Mrs. Frank Clark, of Front Royal, is visiting Mrs. M. B. Nicol. The Civic League is planning a social to be held in the Ruffner building on Halloween. C. A. Heineken has been elected a director in the Penn-Vir Coal, Oil & Gas Company. James E. Nelson attended the funeral of the Rev. Thomas B. Shannon yesterday in Newark, N. J. J. L. Harrell has returned from a visit to Bristol, Tenn. He was accompanied here by Mrs. Harrell. Mrs. John Wilson, who has been quite ill, has been undergoing treatment in a Washington hospital. G. C. Hutchison, of Haymarket, has returned from a trip of three weeks through southwest Virginia buying cattle. Invitations have been issued for a Halloween party at the home of Miss Maude Hall on Tuesday evening, October 31. Three double bananas in a bunch were curiosities on exhibition at the grocery store of C. D. Welch and Brother this week. R. M. Waters and D. R. Lewis were in Washington yesterday taking the civil service examination for positions in the Government Printing office. John Hedrick last week bought C. M. Payne's meat market in Nokesville. He also purchased R. A. Nedrow's residence property and is building a barn on the lot. Mrs. S. T. Hall leaves tonight for a visit of two weeks with her son, W. C. Hall, in Pittsburg, and with relatives in Uniontown, Pa. She will be accompanied by her little grandson, Elmer Hedrick, of Alexandria. To the member of the Boys' Corn Club of the Manassas Agricultural High School whose acre of corn is grown at the most net profit, W. B. Doak, of Clifton, will give one of the Southdown rain lambs from the prize sweetstake pen at the State Fair. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Nall celebrated their thirtieth wedding anniversary Wednesday at their home near town. Only immediate relatives and friends attended. Mr. and Mrs. Nall received many beautiful presents. Among the guests were the Rev. and Mrs. Charles L. DeLong, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Rosenberger and Mr. and Mrs. Snowden Hall. A book-title party will be given on next Tuesday night, October 24, at the Ruffner building for benefit of the Carnegie library by members of the High School Improvement League. Guessing the titles of books represented by the guests will be a feature of the evening. Prizes will be offered. A candy sale will be held. The admission will be ten cents. The School League has already given several entertainments for this purpose, and quite a considerable purchase of new books has been made in this way. It is hoped that the public will cordially respond to this new effort of the League, and help in the excellent work of building up the library, making it modern in appointments and of real value to the reading public.

EDUCATIONAL
THE TEACHER AND THE SCHOOL (Continued)
THE MAKING OF A TEACHER.
Chapter I. Scholarship as a Factor in Success.
What time is required to transform a weak, uncultured, inexperienced young man or woman into a strong, learned, and capable teacher? Give these reasons for your answer.
What did David Page write in regard to the responsibility of the teacher? What do you think of the responsibility?
Mention several qualifications that will win success in teaching.
What habits should students acquire in school, that will be part of their equipment for the work of the teacher?
What is the first essential qualification of a teacher?
For what does scholarship stand? Upon what must successful professional training rest?
Explain fully what is meant by the "spirit of the teacher."
Give one true meaning of "scholarship."
Explain how scholarship aids the teacher: (a) in creating interest in school work; (b) in preventing disorder; (c) in commanding respect and confidence; (d) in securing and holding attention; (e) in inspiring faithful study; (f) in setting up ideals to be attained.
Chapter II.
Why is the professional training of teachers the most important problem that confronts American education today?
Why has professional training been neglected in the United States?
What is our greatest educational waste? Why is there such general dissatisfaction with the work of the school?
The increasing complexity of society demands that our attention shall be given to the deeper social, industrial and spiritual problems of education. What does this demand have in regard to the great need for trained teachers?
What does the scientific of teaching mean?
Why should every teacher have a knowledge of psychology?
Of what value is "method" to a teacher?
What does a teacher gain from a study of psychology?
Why is the study of the history of education a source of inspiration?
How is the art of teaching best acquired?
What is the "personality" of a man? What is meant by "aptitude for teaching"? Give some qualifications for teaching that are essential to the success of a teacher.
Explain how professional training would (1) prevent failure; (2) save health; (3) give correct standards; (4) prevent costly experimenting on pupils.
Chapter III.
What three things must the real teacher know?
Why is child-study a necessary part of the teacher's preparation?
Explain the expression "in loco parentis."
Why has harvest has sowed rapidly for its neglect and abuse of little children?
What was the attitude of the Old Education toward children? What was the effect of this attitude upon the schools, the pupils, and the teacher's preparation?
The New Education is based upon the knowledge of children. Childhood has its own way of seeing, thinking, and feeling. Explain, then, how careful and constant study of children will help the teacher: (1) to understand actual conditions and values; (2) to avoid mistakes; (3) to consciously shape the child's mind.
What are some of the results of teaching without a knowledge of child-study?
Explain how imitation and motor-memory in the child are most effective means in the proper acquisition and development of children.
Compare a school where the child-study has been neglected and that of a school where it has been neglected and that of a school where it has been neglected.
What has been the effect of the child-study upon women's clubs, public interest, the home and the school, the spirit of the teacher?
Compare a school where there were signs with one that is hopeless.
What is the most important element of improvement that belongs to the recent history of education?
The introduction of professionally trained teachers. It is the recognition of adult experiments that graduates of normal schools continue to improve in skill and efficiency for many years. Such a teacher is constantly increasing the number of successful devices to secure good behavior without harsh measures, and to secure industry and critical attention to study.

Gave Up Hope
I suffered five years, with awful pains, due to womanly troubles, writes Mrs. M. D. McPherson, from Chadbourn, N. C. "They grew worse, till I would faint if I could not walk at all, and I had an awful burning in my side; also a headache and a backache. I gave up and thought I would die, but my husband urged me to try Cardui, so I began, and the first bottle helped me. By the time the third bottle was used, I could do all my work. All the people around here said I would die, but Cardui relieved me."
TAKE THE CARDUI Woman's Tonic
For more than 50 years, Cardui has been relieving woman's sufferings, and making weak women strong and well. During this time, thousands of women have written like Mrs. McPherson, to tell of the really surprising results they obtained from the use of this purely vegetable, tonic remedy for women.
Cardui strengthens, builds, restores, and relieves or prevents unnecessary pain and suffering from womanly troubles. If you are a woman, begin taking Cardui today.

AN ADDRESS TO THE VOTERS OF THE FOURTEENTH VIRGINIA SENATORIAL DISTRICT.

Fellow Citizens:—In requesting your votes for the State Senatorship, it seems necessary that I present my views upon matters of public interest that affect the welfare of the people who vote for me. In the first place, I do not desire to accept any office unless I am confident that I can do it to the satisfaction of the people. I am confident that I can do it to the satisfaction of the people. I am confident that I can do it to the satisfaction of the people.
