

IMMORAL DISPLAYS

There has been much discussion the past year or so as to the propriety of certain "freak" dances and some of the new styles of ladies' dresses. The dances have been prohibited in many places and some women have been arrested for the display they have made of themselves on the public highway.

The extremists in split skirts is only worn for advertising purposes and deserves a prison sentence instead of a fine. When women of a certain class reach the age where cosmetics have ruined their complexions and their necks are beginning to lose their roundness and beauty, they resort to the display of other parts of their anatomy in order to attract the attention of the men; hence, the split skirt.

Dancing is a very attractive, beautiful and sociable amusement; one almost necessary to the young as an escape valve for surplus energy and joy of life, and no dance that is worthy the name can be immoral to a lady or gentleman. Any one who has impure or immoral thoughts of a dance would much better stay away from the ballroom, because it is through such as they, the "Tango" and other harmful influences encroach upon this great and useful pleasure of the young and old.

POLLARD FOR ATTORNEY-GENERAL

Jno. Garland Pollard, of Richmond, is learned in the law. He is a well-rounded lawyer. He is keen of perception, broad of concept, high of purpose, diligent, painstaking, conscientious; alert and careful to meet the full requirements of the tasks that are set before him.

"Jno. Garland Pollard aspires to be the next Attorney-General of Virginia. He submits his ambition to the arbitrament of the Virginia Democracy." He rests his candidacy upon honorable, creditable, meritorious considerations, and upon what his friends are convinced is his eminently satisfactory equipment to well and faithfully perform the duties of Virginia's chief law officer.

"Mr. Pollard is a Progressive Democrat in State and National politics. His progressivism is in accord with that of Woodrow Wilson. His code of political ethics, his standards of political conduct, his ideals of public service correspond with those of the President. He believes in the democracy of human rights—he believes the Virginia Democracy should be thoroughly democratized—so thoroughly that hereafter no man will be automatically stamped with a practical indignity to hold State office if he dares to withhold alignment from this faction of the organization or from that. He is a Democratic leader—an earnest, militant, progressive Democratic leader—fearing in party clique and in servitude to no man nor to any set of men.—That's Pollard. His face is set toward the morning. He leads in the direction of improved conditions. He represents a splendid inspiration in Virginia politics—he is a gentleman, nobly resolved; fully, bravely equipped with the attributes of strong, constructive, resolute manhood—a Virginian to whom any other Virginian can give the tribute of his support and feel that the act reflects no careless disregard of Virginia's interests, but rather will tend to her great advantage.

The News takes occasion to express the conviction that Jno. Garland Pollard should be the next Attorney-General of the State—and the earnest hope that he will be.—Lynchburg News.

ACCORDING to the Department of Agriculture there are in 1913 about sixteen million head of cattle less than in 1907—six years ago. On the other hand the number of people in this country has increased by nearly ten million in the last six years. Concretely expressed there are this year sixteen million head of cattle less and ten million more people to consume the beef than in 1907.

PARAGRAPHS

If there's a noise at night—it is always poor father who is picked out to catch the burglar.

It is said that liquor improves with age. That may account for the fact that the older some men get the better they like it.

A WASHERWOMAN in Ohio has just inherited $50,000. We positively refuse to say that "while there's life there's soap" or "it will all come out in the wash."

TWELVE billion, seventy-one million, four hundred and eighty thousand new postage stamps have been ordered. This means a lot of work for the country's salivary glands.

STYLES are changing constantly. An Arkansas girl flagged a train with her sunbonnet and saved it from a wreck. The old red petticoat as a danger signal seems to have gone forever.

GLASS buttons, we are told, are being used on summer frocks. Is this, in connection with the cut glass heels on shoes, the first steps toward glass dresses? Honestly, we are getting nervous.

ELLA WHEELER WILSON says retrospection lends much sweetness to a faithful life. Retrospection would be all right, Ella, were it not for the fool things we did in the years that have gone by.

MARCHING progress has laid hands upon the last landmark in Richmond of Edgar Allan Poe: His boyhood home, the house of the Allens, long ago gave place to commercial buildings, the Swan Tavern and the Bird-in-Hand have passed away and today the city began razing the old fashioned building in which the poet edited the Southern Literary Messenger.

BACKWARD, turn backward, oh time in your flight; give us a girl whose skirts are not tight; give us a girl whose charms—now please do—are not exposed by so much peek-a-bo. Give us a girl, no matter what age, who won't use the streets as a vaudeville stage; give us a girl not too sharply in view and dress her in skirts that the sun can't shine through.

SCORES of suffragettes-laden automobiles are hastening towards Washington bearing petitions to Congress for an amendment granting universal suffrage, and by the end of this week leaders of the National Woman Suffrage Association said today these automobiles would be numbered by the hundreds. The Senate and House are to be stormed by the motoring women July 31.

MORE than 100 signatures, nearly double the number required by law, have been secured to the petition which residents of Fairfax county have prepared and will present to the circuit court of the county asking that an election be called this fall to enable the residents of the County to vote on the $100,000 bond issue to secure funds with which to improve the five main roads in Fairfax county.

IN HIS annual address President Wilson sounded a note of warning to Wall Street. He declared that any person who would attempt to create an artificial panic should be gibbeted as high as Haman. Wall Street thought this was a figure of speech and some of the big financiers proceeded to apply the screws to the country. The president's denunciation of the "insidious" lobby has brought to the surface the Muthbach, Eustach and Lamar disclosures, and Wall Street has been gibbeted in public opinion, just as Mr. Wilson said.

THROUGH money furnished by Mrs. E. H. Harriman, a school for the study of public service has been established, and already it has a few pupils, if such they may be called. The object of the school is to instruct men in the intricacies of government, and there could hardly be a wiser field of opportunity. The studies include the making up of municipal budgets, the operation of public utilities, street paving, sanitation and all things pertaining to city government. At present all our cities are operated by politicians and lawyers in their own interest. Perhaps, after a sufficient number of men have been educated in the science of city management, the cities, instead of electing mayors, will employ men as general managers, just as railroads and other public service companies now employ general managers.

With the continued agitation of the problem of the high cost of living, the country has awakened to the necessity of eliminating much of the expense which is found between producer and consumer. Farmers have found how to successfully grow all manner of vegetables and fruits, but the problem has been to find a way of marketing these products. Cherries which sold in California at less than 5 cents a pound, retailed in Chicago, St. Louis and other cities for 30 to 40 cents a pound. The express or freight charge was small, but middlemen absorbed the difference between what the California producer received for his cherries and what the consumers paid. In Washington about 1,000 housewives have organized an association for the purpose of solving the question. They propose to run motor trucks to the farms, and after paying the farmers 20 per cent more than they now receive, to sell to the members of the organization at a saving to them of 40 per cent and then have some money left.—National Weekly.

DEATH OF MR. AMOS SIBLEY

The funeral services of Edgar H. Taverner, of Hamilton, who died at his home in that place last Friday, were held at his late residence last Monday afternoon, Rev. Robert Cole officiating. For some time Mr. Taverner had been ill, but suffered a stroke of paralysis last Thursday which resulted in his death. He was sixty years old and was a prominent citizen of the adjoining county. Mr. Taverner is survived by a wife, two sons, John Taverner, and C. B. Taverner, of Washington, three daughters, Mrs. Albert Callow, of Baltimore; Mrs. Laura Taverner, of Hamilton; and Mrs. James R. Dorrell, of Manassas. Mrs. Dorrell left last Friday for her former home in Hamilton, to attend the funeral services.

Yesterday morning, at 6 o'clock, at the ripe age of 90 years, Mr. Aaron Sibley, of this place, died after a three weeks' illness though he had been very feeble for many months. During the eight years of Mr. Sibley's residence in this community he made a host of warm friends, and his kindly face and manners and valuable advice will be missed by many. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Friday morning at the M. E. church, South, the Manassas order, of this place, assisting.

CANDIDATES AND THE ENABLING ACT

Two candidates in its favor. Mr. Wedderburn is against it—might be a tie vote. In which event Lieut.-Gov. Woodcast Deciding Ballot. Should the enabling act, which aims to submit to a vote of the people of Virginia the question of State-wide prohibition, reach a vote in the State Senate, Lieut.-Gov. Elliston, if elected, will vote dry; Lewis H. Machen, if elected, will vote dry, and Alexander J. Wedderburn, if elected, will vote wet. The three candidates have, after many delays, submitted to the Anti-Saloon League of Virginia, a statement of their views on the subject.

MR. WEDDERBURN'S ANSWER. Alexandria, Va., July 19, 1913. D. McAlister, General Secretary of the Anti-Saloon League of Virginia, Box 65, Richmond, Va. Dear Sir: Your favor of the 16th inst. in regard to the enabling act, and the letter from yourself and Mr. W. Hooper of the same date, and also a clipping from the Virginia Issue has been received and noted, and while I am in agreement with you upon the prohibition I thank you for the opportunity of placing myself before the association in no uncertain light. I would not desire the vote of any individual under a misapprehension of this or any other subject. In handing you herewith an extract from an address that I am about to deliver to the voters of Virginia, which I have written in answer to your question and which I have placed in my position in regard to the years, very truly, ALEX. J. WEDDERBURN.

EXTRACT FROM ADDRESS. One of the principal issues before the people today is the question of the prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors. While it is to be regretted that such a question should enter our state politics, it is dragged in by those who are profiting by using such a question to divert the public mind from their private interests, and to lead us to dodge or evade the issue. I am a Democrat and do not believe in prohibition; I deny the right of any individual to dictate to me what I shall do, outside of my own family, and I do not believe in the right of any individual to dictate to me what I shall do, outside of my own family. I believe that if one be logical and correct, he is equally so. On the other hand, however, I do believe that each individual has a right to regulate the conduct of his own life. The prohibition would do more to injure the State than it would benefit it. I know from personal experience that such laws are openly and brazenly violated. My home county of Fairfax was divided into two sections, one of which was in favor of prohibition and the other of which was in favor of the sale of liquor. The result was that the prohibition section was defeated and the sale of liquor was maintained. I know from personal experience that such laws are openly and brazenly violated. My home county of Fairfax was divided into two sections, one of which was in favor of prohibition and the other of which was in favor of the sale of liquor. MR. ELLISTON'S ANSWER. Lieut. Gov. Elliston, Secretary: Dear Sir: In answering your letter of the 17th inst. I beg to point out that the enabling act is not a question of party politics, but a question of the right of the people to act for themselves. I am in favor of the enabling act, and I believe that it is the duty of the State to submit the question of prohibition to the people. I believe that the people have the right to decide for themselves whether they will have prohibition or not. The picnic of the W. C. T. U. and L. T. L. was quite a success. It was an ideal day and an ideal place and the day was enjoyed by both old and young. We wish to thank all who helped to make the day such a pleasant one, the gentlemen who so kindly furnished teams and Mr. Billmeyer for the use of his lovely woods and stream. Last Sunday the mill at Rixeyville, near Culpeper, which was owned by Walter Garnett, a well known Manassas man, was destroyed by fire. Nothing was saved except the boiler and lumber, the mill being completely destroyed.

SUDDEN DEATH OF JOHN W. PRESCOTT

Great shock to the community. Was in business here for twenty-two years—was known for his business integrity and square dealing. After a short illness of about a week John W. Prescott, one of our most prominent citizens, died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Goode, Wednesday, at about noon, of diabetes. Very few in Manassas had realized the seriousness of Mr. Prescott's illness, and his death was a complete shock to the entire community and his many friends throughout the county. He was first taken ill Sunday, although for several days he had been complaining. On this day his condition grew serious and it seemed advisable to call in a physician. After holding a consultation with another physician it was decided that an operation must be done at once, and later in the day the operation was performed. Mr. Prescott gradually grew worse, and early Tuesday morning he became unconscious, never rallying from that time until he breathed his last Wednesday.

Decceased had reached the age of sixty-one years. In 1891 he came to Manassas, and for 22 years was in business here, conducting a stove mill, and was also interested in several other business enterprises. About a year ago he gave up an active business life, and since then has been making his home with his daughter, Mrs. Goode. Mr. Prescott was one of our largest real estate owners, and was a director in the People's National Bank of Manassas. All during his business career he was known for his integrity and square dealing in all business transactions, and it was these qualities, coupled with his sincere friendship, that won him the popularity that was justly his. Manassas and Prince William will be poorer because of the removal of this good citizen, and his presence will be greatly missed by his many friends in this section of the country.

Mr. Prescott is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. William Goode. He also leaves a brother, D. H. Prescott, of Manassas, and three sisters, Mrs. L. T. Hogan, of Florida; Mrs. G. S. T. Fuller, of Melford, Mass., and Mrs. A. E. Conner, of Executive, New Hampshire. The pallbearers will be selected from the following friends of Mr. Prescott: Messrs. W. R. Myers, C. E. Nash, R. S. Hyson, C. J. Meetze, T. H. Lion, J. E. Herndon and J. E. Nelson. The funeral will be held in the Methodist church, south, Friday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, and interment will be in the Manassas cemetery.

SEASON'S BANNER EQUINE EXHIBITION

Attendance breaks records. Thousands witness classy events on last day—number of hoped exhibitors present—list of prize winners. One of the largest crowds that ever attended a horse show in Manassas witnessed the second day exhibition here last Thursday. Every seat on the grandstand was taken and the grounds were overflowing. The show, like the first day, was a very classy affair throughout, and interest in the large classes ran high. The real winners of the show were Dr. V. T. Churchman, of Charleston, W. Va., and Mrs. Allen Potte, of Gordonsville. These two exhibitors, with their fine strings of horses, carried off many firsts and seconds, and easily outclassed the other entries in their classes. Ideal weather conditions prevailed during the second day until the late afternoon, when a shower relieved the intense heat somewhat. The Manassas horse show for 1913 will go down in history as one of the most notable and successful exhibitions in Virginia. Following is a list of the prize winners for both days:

THE dairy demonstration train of the Southern Railway made its promised stop at Manassas on Monday, when a small but interested audience listened to several excellent lectures on the way to produce more and better dairy products. The train would undoubtedly have had a larger and more enthusiastic audience except for the contradictory and inconsistent attitude of the Southern Railway in opposing the minimum rates on lines that have been freely given by the other railroads of the state and are now enjoined on the Southern as the result of a law suit brought by the State Farmers' Institute. The morning session was devoted to a description of a correctly formed dairy cow and a discussion of the most common forms of disease and their control. Dairy and beef cattle differ in the form of the body in many respects. Any dairyman who expects large returns from cows of the beef type is doomed to disappointment. Only those cattle which have the wedge form, thin neck and angular frame, can be expected to devote their food to the production of milk. There is no one best breed. The four dairy breeds—Jersey, Guernsey, Holstein and Ayrshire—have each their good points and their admirers. The best individuals of each of the four breeds have all made over 1000 pounds of butter in a year in official tests. The breed that you like is the best so long as you keep within the four breeds named. Tuberculosis is the most prevalent disease among cows. It is not in any essential different from tuberculosis in people, and is undoubtedly in a few instances communicated to children who drink infected milk. The disease spreads rapidly in dark, ill ventilated stables, and slowly in sanitary ones. Unless in the last stages the disease is not to be recognized, except by means of the tuberculous test. It is best for all dairymen who expect to continue in the business to rid their herds of this dangerous disease. Goryet is another common disease and is applied to any inflammation or infection of the udder. In its early stages it may be readily cured by a thorough treatment with hot water to allay the inflammation, but when the trouble is of long standing it is incurable. The lecture on feeding, while rather elementary, reiterated the need for a liberal, succulent, well balanced ration. Corn silage is the basis of all dairying. It can be produced at a cost of $2 a ton and will supply the starch and sugar of the ration at a low cost and in an appetizing form. Cottonseed meal is the cheapest form of protein, but it is not safe to feed over two or three pounds a day. Wheat bran is a good source of protein, but it is often too high in price. The speaker advised a ration of 400 pounds of crushed corn, 100 pounds of cottonseed meal and 200 of dried brewers' grains, fed in proportion to the milk produced.

On the application of W. T. Wine et al for a change of road it is ordered that J. M. Hoot, M. Crump, B. W. Stork, N. Berryman and Newton Sayers be appointed viewers, any three of whom may act, to view the ground and report the result as to whether such change shall be proposed, and if any yard, garden or orchard will have to be taken and the said viewers shall also ascertain and report to the board whether the said road will be improved. Continued on last page.

On the application of Mrs. Sarah Burwell for outlet, it was ordered that John Adams, J. P. Smith, J. N. Utterback, C. W. Forsythe and H. F. Lynn be appointed viewers, any three of whom may act, to view the ground, and to make their proper report to the board, and also report to the board what damages E. A. Heineken shall be entitled to. It was ordered that J. E. Nelson, G. D. Baker, G. W. Johnson and F. A. Cockrell view and report the benefits to be derived from a change of road at Mitchell's Ford on Bull Run. Ordered that J. S. Evans have the bridge near Buckhall repaired and report the cost to this board. Whereas, it appears to the board by a survey made July, 1913, by the county surveyors, that there has been encroachment by the adjoining land owners on the Page and lane road. Therefore, it is resolved and ordered that the superintendent of roads of Gainsville district remove all obstruction in said road and open the same. The allowance to Sattie Jewett is hereby annulled upon the order of the overseer of the poor for Occoquan district filed. It appearing that the bridge at Occoquan at Janney's mill needs a floor it is ordered that G. M. Davis advertise for bids for material required for said floor and report the same to this board. In re the footbridge at Reevesford. The bid of Wm. Hootle at the price of $150 is accepted, it being the lowest, and it is ordered that the commissioners heretofore appointed have same erected in accordance with plans filed and report same to this board. Ordered that John R. Tillett, upon presenting to the clerk a receipt for the Southern A. N. Co. showing freight paid and arrival of the joints and channel beams for repairing Bladensburg bridge, the said clerk shall issue a warrant to Mr. Gillett for $2.35 per hundred pounds for said iron. The report of the commissioners appointed to advertise for the erection of the bridge was filed and contract was awarded to the Roanoke Bridge Co. at the price of $1050, the company to complete the bridge according to the plans within ninety days. H. F. Lynn and Charles R. McDonald are appointed commissioners with instructions to superintend the erection of the bridge, enter into contract with said bridge company, and report according to law. On the application of W. T. Wine et al for a change of road it is ordered that J. M. Hoot, M. Crump, B. W. Stork, N. Berryman and Newton Sayers be appointed viewers, any three of whom may act, to view the ground and report the result as to whether such change shall be proposed, and if any yard, garden or orchard will have to be taken and the said viewers shall also ascertain and report to the board whether the said road will be improved. Harvesting over; many disappointed. Proper way to grow wheat. Harvesting will soon be over, and there are many disappointed men. Many have expected large and have harvested barely enough to pay the cost of growing the crop. Others have been more successful and have made a good profit from the wheat crop. Wheat growing is getting "knocked" in many places, and people are growing something else that they claim will give them more money. There is money in wheat, yet if the proper methods are used in growing it. Too many farmers do not give enough attention to the preparation of the wheat seed-bed. Large acreages of wheat are sown in a haphazard way in a soil that has been poorly cultivated and hardly pulverized any at all. Wheat requires a firm seed-bed. Wheat does not do the best on land that has just been plowed with several inches of loose soil. We need for the best development of wheat, a firm moist subsurface, with two or three inches of loose soil on top to provide a dust mulch to conserve the moisture. The seed should be placed in the firm, moist soil and covered with the loose moist soil. This turn should be covered with the loose dry soil, which will keep the moisture from escaping. A full crop cannot be grown on land that is loose and lumpy; the whole depth of the furrow slice. In order to prepare a seed-bed that will give the maximum crop requires more labor than the average farmer likes to put on his crop. Again, I would say that it is better to put more labor on a smaller acreage and get the same quantity of wheat and not have to go over so much ground. Farmers do not try to put in more of anything than you can well care for, and you will come out better at the end of the year. All the labor put in giving land thorough preparation will pay many times over. To-day, I saw one man harvesting one and one half tons of hay per acre, while his neighbor in the adjoining field was not getting more than one half ton. The principal difference was in the preparation, and methods of seeding. Land that has been summer fallowed and plowed during the early summer will be easiest to prepare. It has two or three months in which to settle and the few rains that will come will give thorough preparation. Land that is being plowed for wheat should be harrowed immediately after the plow so that no clods will have a chance to form. The land should be plowed as early as possible and harrowed. After this surface cultivation will be all that is necessary, which cultivation can best be given with the disc harrow. The harrow will give some subsurface packing and at the same time pulverize the top soil and kill all the weeds. Over a large part of the Southern territory wheat follows corn in the rotation. This will necessitate quick preparation in order to get the wheat soon in time to give any growth before winter starts. Many practice harrowing the land after the corn is put into the shocks, and in this way preparing the soil for the drill.

erally for consideration at the state.

J. TAYLOR ELLISON.

MR. MACHEN'S REPLY.

J. W. Hough, Esq., President of the Va. Anti-Saloon League, Norfolk.

Dear Sir:—I have received your courteous letter requesting my view on the liquor question and my probable action in the event of my election as Lieutenant-Governor.

I have not heretofore made any public statement of my position upon this measure, because the likelihood that the presiding officer of the Senate would vote up or in case of a tie vote is so remote as to make that official's opinion of little or no importance.

However, since you ask me the question, I must say candidly that I have never been a prohibitionist. I have thought that local option was the most advisable method of dealing with the liquor question, so that whatever restriction was sought to be applied should rest upon the majorities of the respective localities.

I have recognized that the Mann law and the Byrd law were measures of rural prohibition, and that they have worked well; yet I have been inclined to believe that the people of Alexandria, Richmond, Norfolk and the other cities would regulate the liquor traffic better themselves than by outside dictation, and that the temperance people in those communities could, if they chose, achieve more satisfactory results by gradual restriction leading perhaps to ultimate elimination rather than by the sudden abolition of the legalized sale of liquor.

However while I have never been a prohibitionist, I have always been a democrat. Having spent the twenty-one years of my life in the service of the people, I cannot hesitate to apply the principle to the liquor question.

My answer then to other questions of similar importance.

The right of the people to vote as a whole upon questions of state politics, in my opinion, is a fundamental popular right which I think no true Democrat should deny.

Therefore if a bill should regulate the liquor question to the people of the State, and should come to a vote in the Senate, while I would be the presiding officer of that body, I would undoubtedly cast the deciding vote in its favor.

Should the question be submitted by the people of the State, I would reserve the right to vote upon it as might seem more expedient at the time.

I do not know that I can say anything else that would be of interest in this connection, except that personally I do not use any alcoholic liquor as a beverage.

Respectfully yours, LAWIS H. MACHEN.

STATE FARMERS' INSTITUTE

The Summer Session of the Virginia State Farmers' Institute will be held in Lynchburg, August 7th and 8th.

All railroads have made special rates for this occasion and it is hoped that farmers generally will attend.

In addition to an excellent program covering a variety of topics, many things of importance to the farmers along legislative lines will come up.

Among the prominent speakers are Senator Hoke Smith; Dr. Thorne, of the Ohio Experiment Station; Wing, of Alfalfa fame; Hon. E. Nordman, of Wisconsin; Bradford Knapp; and T. O. Sandy, in charge of demonstration work; C. V. Piper and C. B. Smith, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and others.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Institute will hold its meetings separate from the men and they have a splendid program. The farmer's wife and daughter should also come along.

Write to B. Morgan Shepherd, Secretary, Richmond, Va., for a program or any other information.

TESTS OF SENSE OF SMELL

Experiments Have Proved That It is Much More Acute in the Male Than in the Female.

Some interesting experiments have been made in the relative acuteness of the sense of smell in individuals. A series of solutions of oil of cloves, artificial musk, extract of garlic, bromine and other materials were prepared by successive dilutions until the limit of perception was reached, and then the solutions were placed indiscriminately, and submitted to several persons of both sexes to classify them properly by the sense of smell.

The results showed that, on the average, the sense of smell was much more delicate in the male than in the female, but the degree of keenness ranged widely as between individuals. Thus, three male observers were able to detect one part of oil of bitter almonds in two million parts of water, though the greatest number of females could not detect the presence of this same product in solutions of almost overpowering strength.

The following figures give the average limit of delicacy of perception: Oil of cloves—(males, 1 in 32,128; females, 1 in 50,867); artificial musk—(males, 1 in 788,570; females, 1 in 1,234,567); bromine—(males, 1 in 43,900; females, 1 in 335,254); female, 1 in 16,344; oil of bitter almonds—(males, 1 in 113,900; female, 1 in 18,990).

DOG NOT THE ONE TO BLAME

Pet Could Not Help It if Owner Chose to Imitate His Peculiar Style of "Decorating."

This is a familiar fact, but the man does not recall that he ever encountered a case, before yesterday, in which a human being was deliberately trying to imitate the dog. But he struck the case at last. Coming down Fifth avenue yesterday afternoon was a woman dressed in a clinging black silk gown, around the bottom of which was a ring of black-brown fur, which seemed to be bear skin. The skirt was close and supple, and it outlined the lady's limbs as she walked.

She was wearing a black-brown fur of the same kind. The skirt was so close that she trotted rather than walked. And trotting at her side was a black French poodle, which had been dressed in a black-brown fur of the same kind that she wore.

His body had also been adorned, except for the space around his shoulders, with black-brown fur of the same kind. He was in the main a canine duplicate of the lady who was leading him, but as the skirt was artificial, and beyond the dog's head, the similarity between the two was reached by the woman copying the dog's style, and not by the dog conforming to the woman's.

HARVESTING OVER; MANY DISAPPOINTED

If the corn has had the best of cultivation, this plan will be all right, and will give results.

Where land is to be plowed late in the season for wheat, the harrow should follow the plow every day or better every half day.

This breaks up the lumps and will prevent packing, and will do some raking. Land in this condition should be harrowed at least three times before undertaking to seed.

Be sure to put enough seed in the ground to give a sufficient stand. Many make poor crops for the simple reason that they do not put the seed in the ground.

You cannot make a mistake in trying Cardui for your trouble. It has been helping weary, ailing women for more than fifty years.

The fast Clifton baseball team defeated the Indian Head baseball team by the score of 14 to 8, last Wednesday at Indian Head. Kummer, for Clifton, pitched a tight ball allowing only four scattered hits and striking out sixteen men. His excellent pitching should have deserved a shut-out, but for the poor support given him. The big strikers of the contest were Will Ford, Fulcher and Cather, the trio getting eleven hits among them and Ford and Cather played superb ball in the field. Another feature of the game was the excellent game put up by Frank Ford at first base. In a double header with Greenwich last Saturday Clifton won one game by the score of 8 to 1, and tied up the other 4 to 4. On the second day of September Clifton will play Green's Nebraska Indians at Manassas. This promises to be an exhibition of high class baseball and will undoubtedly draw a large crowd.

itching, testating skin eruptions, dizziness, anxiety, drive one's good. Don't let your back all be could get and made millions from it. Those who have tried the Bromo-Lithia will not take the time to say it is a blessing to all.

The Democrat from personal experience wishes to recommend Bromo-Lithia to all who suffer from Headache, Stomach and Bowel Complaint. It is the best remedy of its kind upon the market today. The Bromo-Lithia has long been used by the stock raisers and hunters have enjoyed it for more than 15 years. When that stock raiser gives away some men brought up the Bromo-Lithia and it is rapidly taking its place everywhere it is known. The stock raiser has only lately been offered to the public, and it is already proving good dividends. It is a harmless remedy as any doctor will testify, and the ingredients being named on the wrapper.

NETZ CARS WIN GLIDDEN AND ANDERSON TROPHIES

Over the road that would test any make of car, and particularly the big high powered gear transmission car, the Boston team of three Metz Cars of the greatest transmission type demonstrated their ability to negotiate anything in the line of rough country that any automobile could be driven over, in the long grind on the Glidden Tour from Minneapolis to Glacier National Park, Montana, and entered the last control with a perfect score, and the winner of the Glidden and Anderson Trophies last week.

The famous cup of the Classic and American Automobile road contest, come back to the city in which it originated, and which the owner, Charles J. Glidden, claims as his home.

The win of the three Metz Cars not only brings fame to the makers, but honor to Boston, and added prestige to the gearless transmission type of automobiles. From the time the tour started and practically through its entire time, the drivers were confronted with most dehydrating conditions for it rained practically every day of the tour, and as it progressed, the roads became worse in condition.

If ever a comparison was a test between the gear type of transmission and the friction driven car, it was had on the Glidden Tour just ended and the gearless type of transmission came out with flying colors. At every control, the drivers of the Metz team, which included Mr. Charles H. Metz, president of the Metz Company, and his son, Walter Metz, were given a most enthusiastic reception. They were entertained several times on the trip, and at the big Pow-wow arranged by President Hill of the Great Northern Road, they were the center of attraction, and were critically examined by the Indian chiefs.

Mr. Metz sent the following telegram to Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston, when he found that his team had completed the tour with a perfect score and had won the Glidden Trophy.

"Boston: Team of three Waltham Metz made cars won Glidden Trophy, America's Classic automobile road contest, Minnesota, North Dakota, and Montana Roads so rough that refer granted time extension in order to allow five other cars to check in without penalty. Out of the twenty-five entries, the pick of America's best makes, our cars were the only ones that checked in on time at every control in the original schedule. Does this not show that Yankee wit, and New England grit are still supreme? Hurry along the best of Boston steamers. We want to supply the world with Metz Cars, shipping them from Boston Harbor."

R. K. Bodine & Son, of Nokesville, are agents for the above car. Advertisement.

END OF GOOD ROAD BUILDING

In spite of the widespread character of the agitation for rural good roads, the building of good roads has been a matter of local will and local expediency. There might be national and state conventions in favor of improving the highways. But when it came to constructing them, the work and cost rested upon county administrations, and sometimes upon even smaller governmental units.

It is not without significance that the federal government has undertaken to restore the National Road through Ohio and that there is a fair possibility that a coast-to-coast highway will be constructed with private funds within the course of the next three or four years. They mark a change in the popular ideas to which shall build roads and keep them in order.

The reason for this change is plain. The automobile has brought about a revolution in the character of the traffic. Automobilitas have demanded more and more extensions of good road system. They have demanded roads suitable for their purpose. They are causing the responsibility for roads to be lifted from township and county authorities and placed where it now rightfully belongs—upon the shoulders of the state and federal authorities.

Out of these tentative federal and private enterprises we think we can foresee good road construction upon a scale so broad that the pioneers in the good roads movements might wonder at the magnificence in their dreams. We may be entering upon an era of road building far busier than the era in which America did the greater part of her railroad building.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS

The regular summer examination for public school teachers for the year 1913 will be held in the Bennett Building, Manassas, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, July 30, 31 and August 1, beginning promptly at 9 a. m. each day.

The subjects for the first day are: Geography, spelling, grammar and composition, theory and practice of teaching, civil government and reading. Subjects for the second day are: Drawing, physiology and hygiene, arithmetic, history of Virginia and United States history. Subjects for the third day are: Elementary algebra, science and English history or general history.

The examination in theory and practice of teaching will be based upon Chancellors Class Teaching and Management; in physiology and hygiene upon Ritchie's Human Physiology; in reading and drawing the examinations will be on both methods and subject matter.

In order that proper arrangements may be made for the convenience of the teachers, it is highly important that each applicant notify the division superintendent at least ten days in advance of the examination.

GEO. G. TYLER, 3224 Division Superintendent.
