Royal E. Cabell Gives Facts and Figures From Actual Experience

ROYAL E. CABELL

Addressing a meeting of several thousand Virginia citizens recently in reference to the coming election in Virginia in September, Royal E. Cabell, formerly United States Commissioner of Internal Revenue, whose special duty it was during that time to see what the conditions were in the so-called prohibition States, gave some pertinent facts and figures in reference to State-wide Prohibition and its failure. Mr. Cabell said:

"My experience and my observation while I was connected with the Federal service led my judgment to this definite conclusion, that the liquor laws of Virginia, based on local option and local self-government, are as good as the liquor laws of any State in the Union; that the regulations are as strict and that they are as well enforced as those of any State in the Union; and that the situation in Virginia with respect to alcoholic liquors, whether considered from an economic, social, moral or any other standpoint, is as good as any State in the Union, and far better than that obtaining in any of the so-called prohibition States."

PROHIBITION DOES NOT PROHIBIT

"Records, Federal and local, show that the enactment of State-wide prohibitory laws not only does not prohibit, but that it does not diminish the consumption of strong drink in the area covered by such laws, and that in many sections of such area an actual increase is indicated."

STATE-WIDE PROHIBITION INCREASES CRIME, SOCIAL DISORDER AND CORRUPTION.

"That as State-wide prohibition destroys regulation of the sale and handling of liquor, the handling of that business, or the sale of liquor, passes from the hands of responsible persons into the hands of irresponsible persons, the baser and the lower portions of the population, with the result that the vilest kind of liquor and liquor substitutes are sold to people illegally, resulting in increased crime, social disorder and corruption; that use of habit-forming drugs is promoted and increased, and that instead of improvement in such States, there is indicated a strong probability and evidence of impairment of the social fabric."

"The internal revenue records show that when State-wide prohibition is enacted in a State, the distillers simply go across the line into the nearest wet State, from which there are advantageous freight rates; or, if they go out of business, the distillers in these other States increase their business to include the production of the territory which they would naturally serve; that the increase in output in such neighboring States is as great or greater than the entire former output in the State that has gone dry. It causes increased shipments in dry territory. That it does not even put dealers in alcoholic beverages out of business; but, on the contrary, from two-thirds to three-fourths as many persons qualify under the Federal laws to sell liquor after the State passes prohibition laws as had qualified prior to the enactment of such laws. Bear in mind that every person who sells alcoholic liquor is required to qualify under Federal laws, without regard to State laws. There is an enormous increase in illicit distillation."

"Bear in mind that twenty-four States in the Union have, at one time or the other, enacted State-wide prohibition laws, and that of those twenty-four States only nine have those laws now on their statute books. Fifteen of twenty-four States that enacted prohibition laws no longer have them on their statute books."

BIG SHIPMENTS INTO PROHIBITION TERRITORY.

"In a number of localities rail-road shipments are checked up and recorded by State authorities. Thus we find Topeka, Kansas during one month, received in this manner 90,000 quarts of liquor; Memphis, Tenn., for the last six months of 1912 received by rail alone 112,000 gallons of hard liquor. It was found that in the years of prohibition, Birmingham and Jefferson county were handling as much liquor traffic as was handled prior to prohibition. There is more drinking in Kansas now than ever before. Prohibition in Kansas is a fetish, a sort of blind worship. It has failed signally for thirty-eight years."

PRESIDENT WILSON OPPOSES STATE-WIDE PROHIBITION.

"President Wilson, at whose feet I had the honor of sitting when a student at Princeton, has put on record his opinion, which has been quoted to you, in which he expresses vigorous opposition to State-wide prohibition as violating fundamental principles of local self-government."

"We all need have no fear that if the citizens of Virginia do appreciate the principles involved they will do as our forefathers have done, will meet and overcome this attack even as they have met and overcome every other similar attack, however disguised, and will save to ourselves and to our posterity the blessed heritage of local self-government that has come down to us from our ancestors."—(Adv.)

WASNT FROM MISSOURI.

It wasn't a Missouri editor but a printer's devil who was going through his first experience on "making up" forms. The paper was late and the boy got the galley mixed. The first part of the obituary notice of a pecunious citizen had been dumped in the forms and the next handful of type came off of a galley describing a recent fire. It read, like this: "The pall bearers lowered the body to the grave and as it was consigned to the flames there were few if any regrets for the void wreck had been an eyesore to the town for years. Of course there was individual loss, but that was fully covered by insurance." The writer thinks the editor wrote the obituary that way because the lamented partner of her joys and sorrows owed him five years' subscription.

HITTING BACK.

A long suffering weekly editor sore over criticisms of the critic and the evil-minded, hits back at the entire crowd in the following well directed sarcasm: "A few days ago Lord Decies (the same who married one of the Gould girls and her money) while traveling in California with his wife lost his handbag containing his comb and brush, and had to comb his hair with his wife's comb. This interesting item of news was telegraphed all over the world by the Associated Press. And now another startling news item has been discovered. Miss Eleanor Wilson, the President's daughter, attended a theater a few nights ago and not having had her supper, she actually ate a bun while viewing the performance. This too, was hurriedly telegraphed all over the continent. Yet some people think the county papers are publishing piffle when they say that Abner Green has painted his barn or that Mrs. Kate Kermoodle has bolts."—Fancaster Herald.

A FEW QUESTIONS.

People who never mind their own business are very much such a class of animals as the cross, surly, wifed dogs that are always barking, biting and snapping somebody. We wonder if they would appreciate a lecture? We will ask them a few questions just to find out. Don't you think the world and the people in it will live and prosper without the tremendous anxiety you carry on your shoulders by keeping an eye on everything and everybody in the whole neighborhood and world besides? Can't Mrs. A. make a sweetcake without our living awake at night for fear there is going to be a wedding and you will not be invited? Can't Jennie have a new gown but what you must immediately see it, know the price, and for what special occasion it was purchased, or die of curiosity? Can't neighbor B. or his wife go by theater a few nights ago and not see somebody and have a lighted his bolts."—Fancaster Herald.

SOME PRIZES FOR HORSE SHOW

the month of our big and horse show is here, and few short weeks remain before the two day exhibition already has awakened in this section of the state, the surrounding country. It seems useless to say this year's performance will be previous ones, but from number of inquires received early a date and the many prizes for information which is coming into the hands of the managers, it does not seem that we are to have a show, one which will many others on the Virginiacircuit.

Among the attractions which using keen interest are the new classes that have been to the already excellent work of which will be shown the outside course, the winner of the same to receive prizes the United States Government. These no doubt will rank the best and will be few.

management has received from the Wright Company, they will be on the ground one of the most modern, active and up-to-date, merry-go-rounds. This will add to many amusements which are being the public who like a diversion from the show, it has also been received from gentlemen who were selected and they have signified intention of coming and seeing their pleasure at the unity.

The usual work of repairing show grounds after its twelve days of idleness will begin in the future and many new improvements will be added to which assure every competitor.

In the past, a first class will furnish music during performances. For future consideration regarding the show, the columns of THE DEMOCRAT.

MANASSAS PEOPLE FLEECE
On May 12th this town was thoroughly canvassed by two young men who looked like Jews. They claimed that they were working to pay their way through college and showed papers appointing them agents for the Metropolitan Circulators Corporation, 523-14 Euclid Building, Cleveland, Ohio.

They were offering "Everybody's 3 months' trial and Woman's World a year for 49 cents." When anyone refused to subscribe, they then stated they were allowed to give choice from a number of the very best magazines as premiums in order to secure new subscriptions. This sounded very plausible, as the Woman's World gets 96 line for advertisements and because of the large circulation and it pays them to keep it up at any cost and they can get their own magazines to give them thousands of subscriptions for reading notices, etc. One named H. Hoffman signed the receipts and the other acted as the boss, as he decided what could be given and what not they gave receipts for the premium magazines separate on which was printed the name of the company and "this is a premium offer in conjunction with the regular advertising campaign of the Woman's World."

In this way they raked in thousands of subscriptions over the country from people who do not want Woman's World and would hardly accept it as a free gift, but who did want Munsey's Harper, St. Nicholas, etc.

The Metropolitan Circulators Corporation upon being appealed to by one family from which they secured six subscriptions in that way, said they had discharged Hoffman some time ago and that they did not authorize persons to take subscriptions for other magazines than Woman's World and Everybody's and we are not concerned other than to make an effort to cause the arrest of this man for the sake of business as a whole. We are offering a reward of $25 for the arrest and conviction of this man.

Their name leads one to believe they are taking subscriptions for all magazines, or for only the Metropolitan Magazine.

This is not the first time that strangers have come to Manassas and taken away hundreds of dollars by making false claims. They get the money and leave and are never found again.

Could not the Town Council require all strangers trying to get money to take away, to pay a tax and put up a bond before allowing them to solicit? It would be a relief to the citizens not to be annoyed by constant appeals to subscribe for what they do not want just to help some unknown party or on some plea of charity. Beggars often look more able to beg from Negro women often come from the front door and ask for money for their church. How much it goes to the church? Citizens need to pay a tax to carry on their business and earn a living here and they should be protected in every way possible from those trying to live on the public without honest work.

A book agent from New York toiled several here into paying nearly one hundred dollars for books worth less than $25, but as they did not use the mail to secure the subscription, they were safe to use it to collect the money and send the books, and could not be reached through the postoffice, the only way in which the Government protects us from frauds, or rather punishes the frauds after they have stolen all they can get by making it so expensive for anyone to get justice and so doubtful about getting it, that it really protects criminals.

Other papers please copy and warn their readers about H. Hoffman and others like him.

A FRIEND.
