For Midsummer LYONS VELVET HATS

If history is to be believed, women at one time wore straw hats in summer, and velvet hats in winter. Woman is a creature of moods and by no means dependent upon the weather man to tell her what to wear.

In winter she wears hats of straw or lace—in summer, behold, she dons the chapeau of velvet.

Because it is becoming almost always, and because it seems peculiarly adapted to seaside wear we excuse the inconsistency of lovely woman's fads, and applaud her in her chapeau hat though the weather be 100 degrees in the shade.

These new models are in large, medium, and small shapes. The color list includes blue, brown, pheasant, cherry, taupe and black.

The trimmings are of pin ostrich, in fancy effects.

Community Fair Plans Discussed—Expect to Make Presents Next Time.

(Elsie H. Copen, Reporter.) The Hayfield boys' and girls' club was called to order Thursday afternoon, October 13, at 3:30 o'clock, by the president, John Wine. The roll was called by the secretary, and it was found that seven members were present. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

As school was in session at the time, we had a very quiet meeting. We talked over plans for the community fair, and all members were urged to stand by those in charge and help in every way possible. We invite club members of other clubs to exhibit at the fair.

Miss Gilbert was present and we talked about making Christmas presents at the next meeting, which will be held the second Thursday in November. Sewing lessons will be given directly after dinner and the regular meeting will be held later. We hope to have Miss Gilbert with us at the next meeting, also some visitors.

His death is thought to have been due to heart failure. The deceased, who was in his fifty-third year, was born in Fairfax county, near Centerville. In early manhood he married Miss Margaret Alice Lee. For many years he has been a successful trainer of race horses, and has made his home with his family here.

Surviving Mr. Underback are his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Ramsey, of Warrenton, and Miss Thea, of Manassas, and three sons, Leonard and Richard, of Laurel, Md., and Harry, of Manassas.

THE CALF CLUB

Father says that times are hard and we must sell the farm, and only one thing will save the farm, and that is a Guernsey calf.

He seems so glum and sad, you'd think he's surely dazed, but just smile—I ain't a bit of a Guernsey calf.

And mother looks so brave and sad, I know how poor we are, but for everything is shabby and all is down at heel.

But though one-half my heart is sad, it's glad the other half, because I know it's coming night, I've got a Guernsey calf.

And brother's like to go to school, but has to plow and hoe;

And sister longs for pretty clothes, but has to wash and sew.

But I'll just give them all my want and then they'll joke and chaff.

'Cause we'll be very prosperous, I've got a Guernsey calf.

For soon my calf will be a cow and have a calf and grow into a famous herd and win big prizes in the show

And I'll be selling lots of cream and we'll just joke and laugh.

For everyone will have their wish, I've got a Guernsey calf.

P. S: It all came true.

INVITE BUSINESS EXHIBITS

The managers of the independent fair, to be held Saturday, extend an invitation to all business men to exhibit their wares or line of business at the fair.

Messrs. C. S. Jackson, W. D. Foulke and R. D. Scudder, of Aurora, Ill., who recently bought the farm and timber property of Mrs. Henrietta Lipcomb, near Brentsville, will place a sawmill on the place and will operate a lumber business, which will be known as the Broad Run Lumber Co.—Mr. B. E. Cox, who will be the manager of the business, has moved with his family from Aurora, Ill., and they are now occupying the residence on the place.

The Prayer Circle, for the publication of the work of the nation-wide campaign to fill on Saturday of this year, will hold its first meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. J. B. Thornton, on Grant avenue, tomorrow (Friday) evening, at 7:30 o'clock. It is hoped that the regular weekly meetings can be held in the old Trinity Episcopal church building on Wednesday next, at 7:30 o'clock, beginning next Wednesday evening. All ladies of Trinity Episcopal church are urged to attend these meetings.

At the recent state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution, held in Roanoke, the movement for the Manassas Confederate memorial park was endorsed and the Daughters pledged their assistance in every way possible. On this same subject it will be of interest to know that both the Confederate Veterans and the Sons of Veterans, at their convention at Woodstockville this week announced that plans were under way to assist in this park movement. Major Christian, of New York, a veteran of the world war and grandson of "Stonewall" Jackson, spoke most fervently for the movement, at the Charlottesville session.

OFFER PRIZE FOR BEST EXHIBIT

Woman's Auxiliary Anxious to See A Joint Community Fair Exhibit Here.

(Miss Estlin V. Gilbert, Secretary.) A very important meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held at the high school building Friday afternoon, Oct. 14th. The president, Mrs. Emily C. Round, was unavoidably detained at home. Mrs. Mae Dogan was unanimously elected to fill the vacancy, and she presided in her usual gracious and business-like manner.

At the request of the members present, the secretary called the roll, when the following members answered to their names—Mesdames J. F. Dogan, Charles Lewis, Ashby Lewis, Hodge, Oak, Blough, and Misses Osbourn and Gilbert. One new member, Mrs. Beavers, was added to the roll.

The minutes of the July meeting were read and approved, after which the secretary reported on the success of the joint county rally and picnic held on the second Friday in August.

In order of business it was decided that the next meeting of the Auxiliary, to be held on the second Friday in November, be a get-together meeting, and that the members of the county farmers' union be invited to meet with the Auxiliary. This meeting will be in the nature of an afternoon tea, and will be held in the assembly room of the high school building at 2 P. M. Cake and coffee will be served. The following committee was appointed to have this in charge—Mesdames C. F. M. Lewis, Hodge, Blough and Miss Gilbert.

The chairman of the rest room committee reported on the success of the fair, that the county supervisors had appropriated $50 for the benefit of the room that the one-half barrel of flour won by the Bethlehem club had been placed in the rest room in 12-business days to be sold for the benefit of the room.

In order of business it was decided that the Auxiliary offer a prize to the community making the best showing at a joint exhibition of the blue ribbon exhibits from the communities in this fall. This prize is to be a burner oil cook stove, same to be used for putting a hot lunch in the school in the community winning the prize. It is hoped that the communities in which the fair is being held will readily respond to the appeal made in the NEWS last week to hold a joint exhibit at Manassas a few weeks from now.

It will be remembered that Div. Supt. Charles R. McDonald last spring offered a silver loving cup to the community making the best showing at a joint exhibit in November or the first part of December. Let's all get busy and show what a fine community we are, and let's all do our best for the community.

NEGRO PERCENTAGE SMALLER

Census Figures Show Proportion of Negroes to Whites Decreasing in State.

The negro population, which was 671,096 in 1910, increased to 690,072 in 1920, an increase of 2.8 per cent. The white population in the same period increased from 1,369,809 to 1,617,909, or 16.4 per cent.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XII.—WASHINGTON

THE story of Washington, the first president of the United States, is tied up with two of our greatest presidents. The first is obvious, for it was in honor of our first president, George Washington, that the state was named, as a lasting memorial to this great soldier-statesman. But the actual fate of the region was due to President Polk and the main issue in his campaign for election in 1844.

Previous to that time, the country north of California and extending to Alaska, which was then owned by Russia, was called the Oregon territory. Claim was laid to this region by both Great Britain and the United States as has been seen in the story of Oregon. In 1818, when the boundary between Canada and the United States was settled, this line was definitely placed from the Atlantic coast to the Rocky mountains. But no agreement could be reached west of that, and it was left under an arrangement whereby this territory was to be jointly occupied by the British and Americans.

Settlers from the United States began to come into the Northwest in such numbers that the United States felt that they should own this section, which included the present states of Oregon and Washington, and British Columbia, through the right of possession. Agitation in favor of actively pushing our claims became so strong that when Polk was nominated by the Democrats in 1844, one of the main planks in the party platform was the famous one popularly called, "Fifty-four forty or fight."

In 1846 a powerful settlement was made with England on a compromise basis.

In 1858 Washington territory was separated from Oregon. It did not, however, become a state until 1889, and then only after thirteen years petitioning for admission.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XIII.—IDAHO

THE year 1800 saw our first star in the crown from the Northwest to the United States. It was in that year that the territory of Idaho was admitted to the Union. It was not until 1848, however, that the territory was organized as a territory. It was then that the famous discovery of gold was made in the adjacent state. It was in 1822 that gold was first discovered in the northern part of the state, and immediately led to the state in great numbers.

There was serious labor trouble in the Coast of Idaho between 1890 and 1891, when martial law was established and the state was placed under the control of the federal government.

The rapid settlement of Idaho was due to the discovery of gold, the same cause which rapidly built up the adjacent state. It was in 1822 that gold was first discovered in the northern part of the state, and immediately led to the state in great numbers.

If you, Mr. Farmer, want to deal where your interests are paramount, where your money is safe, and where you can get the best of the EXCHANGE of Cash, Stock, and Bonds.

The outside of our store building does not look very pretentious, there are no well-dressed show windows, but the inside is a different story. It is a place where you can get the best of the EXCHANGE of Cash, Stock, and Bonds.

It will pay you to remember that money spent here helps this business serve the farmer better and better all the time. Of course, we have our running expenses, like every other business on earth, but we have got these pared down to a minimum, and you, who deal here are the ones to benefit.

Are you profiting by the EXCHANGE's presence? If not try us out and see for yourself that we are serving the farmer in a way very much to his all-around advantage.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad but loving remembrance of those Bell McCuen, who departed this life three years ago today, October 22: A beautiful life is ended. The flowery face and golden hair, And eyes of heaven's blue. But little did we know, dear form fading, That on that sad day your dear voice from earth must go. 'Tis so hard to say that thy peaceful face is resting in death's cold coil. And we have for the last kissed thy marble brow. 'Tis so hard to speak the words, "We must forever part." Where love has bound the heart. But God's will must be done. And her hands are clasped to the breast. For she is now a shining star in the home of fadeless beauty. Where no tears are shed. I know you are waiting for me. On the golden shore where there is no parting. By her mother.

WHAT CAN WE DO ABOUT IT?

Isn't there some practical way in which the town of Manassas, as a corporation, can stimulate the building of new homes, one of the most pressing needs of the town at this time?

While the prices of lumber have receded somewhat and while labor can be had in more abundance, it is not at all the pre-war prices, the transportation costs on materials continue as high as ever, and with little prospect of dropping for some time to come. There must be something, which you might call "extra," offered as an inducement, if local building operations can be expected to start, as they should without delay.

No investigation has been made by us as to what other towns may or may not be doing to stimulate the erection of new homes within their corporate limits. If towns the size of Manassas and larger are not taking this matter in hand and doing all they can to promote local building, it's no reason that they should not.

In every town of any size in the country there are several families just waiting to "gobble up" each house offered at a fair rental and that is in even fair condition. The need exists, without dispute, and it seems to us that the municipalities that do not try to cope with this need are doing themselves injury. Every normal town wants to grow, but can a town expect to grow, except under unusual conditions, when families can not move in because of inability to find dwellings to rent?

Would it not be wise for our city fathers to take up this matter for serious consideration? To encourage the building of homes, would it not be well to stipulate the offering of some such special inducements as free taxes on dwellings erected, for a year or two, and do charge to be made for water or sewerage connections?

Many, many towns, for years, have been making much stronger inducements than these for the bringing of factories into their midst. Why should not Manassas make it especially worth while for owners of vacant lots to start building houses, thus helping themselves and in a very decided way helping Manassas?

A REAL CREDIT TO OLD PRINCE WILLIAM.

Saturday, at Bethel high school, near Agnewville, the second annual exhibition of the Bethel community fair was held. The writer of this did not have the privilege of seeing the first Bethel fair, but he will say that it was anything like as good as the one just over, no further explanation is needed why the folks in the lower part of the county showed such interest in this year's fair.

It was indeed pleasing to the eye to review all the fine farm products, canned goods, fancy work and boys' and girls' club work collected within the four walls of the Bethel high school building. Outside, one enjoyed the diversity of animal life afforded by the exhibits of a few cattle and swine, a good showing of poultry and a number of pets.

Of course, no fair—community, county or state—can be said to be successful without good attendance. The folks of lower Prince William were at Bethel in large number Saturday, and there were more visitors from central and upper Prince William than one would have hardly counted upon. The beautiful, mild October weather and the splendid condition of the roads in every direction were factors that worked hand in hand with the splendid exhibits in making the second Bethel fair one long to be remembered.

May the two community fairs of old Prince William yet to come—Independent Hill on Saturday, and Gold Ridge on Saturday a week—enjoy the same measure of success as characterized this year's exhibit at Bethel!

WHAT THE EXAMINATION REVEALED.

In last week's issue of the NEWS, an article by Miss Eugenia H. Osbourn, principal of the Manassas schools, told of the recent physical examination given in both the high and graded schools. While this examination, it is true, was conducted by the teachers, as Miss Osbourn pointed out, the results can be considered trustworthy enough for preliminary purposes, as the teachers have received a certain amount of training and instruction as to how to make this examination.

Pupils of the high school showed up worse in the matter of defective teeth and diseased tonsils than anything else. Evidently eye defects in the older children receive chief attention and defects of hearing are not found to any considerable extent. With the widespread publicity given the great need of having one's teeth looked after regularly, doesn't it seem rather negligent on the part of the parents of the 42 children, of the 120 examined in the high school, who were found to be in need of a dentist's attention?

In the graded school, out of 333 pupils examined, the surprisingly large number of 126 were found to have defects of sight, and 164 of teeth. With such a falling off of attendance upon school as it is the child grows older, as evidenced by nearly three times as many pupils being in the grades as in the high school, is it too far fetched to conjecture that all the bad eyesight, teeth, tonsils and underweight found in the grades constitute one of the big reasons why there are not more pupils in our high school each year?

A SPEEDY WAY TO MAKE YOUR EXIT.

The season of the year is again close at hand when among the obituary notices in the papers will be seen "asphyxiated by poisonous fumes from an automobile while the engine was running in a closed garage," as the cause of a number of deaths throughout the country. Watch out, if you drive a car, that you are not taken off by this means.

Despite the wide-spread publicity that has been given to the great danger attendant upon the running of any kind of gasoline engine in a closed room, year after year lives are snuffed out in the quick and treacherous manner so characteristic of the swift poisoning that comes from inhaling fumes of the deadly carbon monoxide, gaseous by-product thrown off when an engine is consuming gasoline.

Never take chances. See that the garage doors are wide open when running the engine, and be sure that they do not blow shut without your noticing it. There are not many more certain or speedy methods of making your wife a widow than disregarding this warning.

How to Be Healthy

The Crucial of the Double Barred Cross Practical Talks on Disease Prevention

Prepared by the VIRGINIA TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION (Practically every adult person is infected with tuberculosis. This infection need not be a source of distress. To keep the latent infection from becoming disease, however, it is essential that you know how to keep healthy.)

BUILDING RESISTANCE
DR. ALLEN K. KRAUSE, M. D., Johns Hopkins University Medical School, Baltimore.

MAN is the only animal that habitually and unnecessarily uses his bodily functions to excess—overwork, overeating, overdrinking, in prolonged mental and emotional stress, in unnatural hours of activity without rest. And being organized into communities, men herd together and thus establish continual contact with one another and become unduly exposed to one another's infections.

In most man's bodies are little growths of tissue called tubercles to which he is concealed the germs of tuberculosis. These tubercles form spherical walls around the germs, called tubercle bacilli, and thus imprison the germs. As long as the walls are strong and unbroken the germs cannot spread; they cause no illness and are so many as to be feared that a common wart or a mole is the skin.

If the tissues around the tubercles function normally, these walls tend to remain strong and so tight that few or no bacilli can make their way out of them and spread throughout the body. But too prolonged activity of the body as a whole, or of the part in which they are located, will in general bring about conditions that favor the weakening of the tubercle wall and the emergence of bacilli.

We heal tuberculosis by rest—a of a knee, of the lungs, of the whole body. We become ill with tuberculosis by reason of overstrain. Other diseases, especially those that cause inflammations and congestions in the lungs, whip up the physiological activities of the body and thus weaken the walls of tubercles. So do certain bodily activities, like repeated and long-continued work without sleep, pregnancy, childbirth, despair, etc.

Food, clean and so tight that few or no bacilli can make their way out of them and spread throughout the body. But too prolonged activity of the body as a whole, or of the part in which they are located, will in general bring about conditions that favor the weakening of the tubercle wall and the emergence of bacilli.

To reduce exposure to all infections to a minimum and to balance one's activities so there will always be a healthy surplus on the credit side of the account, a good measure to draw upon in time of need—the building up resistance. At thirty we build it a little differently than at twenty; at forty again differently than at thirty; there is a different proportion of details, yet principles and details remain the same.

Food, clean and so tight that few or no bacilli can make their way out of them and spread throughout the body. But too prolonged activity of the body as a whole, or of the part in which they are located, will in general bring about conditions that favor the weakening of the tubercle wall and the emergence of bacilli.

More Easily Spent Than It Is Earned

It sounds rather unnecessary, doesn't it, to say that a dollar is more easily spent than earned? But isn't it true?

As far back as history goes, men have found it easy to get rid of their earnings and possessions. The ever-present urge to spend hung over the heads of the ancients, just as it does over the heads of us today.

What are you doing now—TODAY—in this matter? Are you practicing the habit of putting aside a certain portion of your earnings? Are you a regular patron of a good bank? Are you experiencing the joy of seeing your savings gradually grow, and knowing that all of this has been possible through the exercise of a certain amount of will power on your part?

The National Bank of Manassas is personally interested in seeing every man, woman and child in Prince William and Northern Virginia become more and more prosperous. We will do everything we can to help you get started right, if you are not already a regular depositor.
